Assembly called to order at 11:07 a.m.
Mr. Speaker presiding.
Roll called.
All present.
Prayer by the Chaplain, Rabbi Myra Soifer.

As this busy day in the Nevada Assembly is about to begin, let us pause, take a deep breath, and prepare. Jewish tradition teaches that in the far-off, longed-for time when our world will finally and ultimately be perfected, there will still be one kind of prayer required of us, and that is prayers of thanksgiving. Even in an ideal world, it will be incumbent upon us to give thanks.

As you begin your work for the people and the state of Nevada, may gratitude be the foundation of your efforts—gratitude for our country and state, gratitude for your privilege to serve, and gratitude to the people who have trusted you with that task.

When a Jew arises each morning, there is a prayer of thanksgiving that he or she traditionally speaks. Though you here have been awake and hard at work for many hours already, perhaps this moment can be a reawakening to the challenges and good work before you. May you begin today’s session with the kind of grateful wonder that ought to arise within each one of us as a new day dawns. And so I share with you a prayer from our morning liturgy, adapted for this chamber:

Modim Anachnu Lach . . .

You enter these chambers to voice and enact the commitments of your heads, hearts, and souls. In this august company, with these, your colleagues, may you offer your best to one another and all the citizens of this state. While the pressures of life and schedule may stifle your nobler impulses, may your sense of all that is holy in your work here lift you beyond those stresses and nurture your ideals and best intentions. May you devote yourselves this morning to details grand and mundane. May your hearts be lifted, your thoughts deepened, and your souls like the eagle soar. In gratitude, may you begin your work and end your day. As you promote blessing, may you, too, be blessed.

AMEN.

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.
