

Dear Mr. Haas -

It is ridiculous to impose a vaccine mandate on our students – for several reasons.

We are learning that the Omicron variant breaks through on vaccinated students.

So what does it accomplish to monitor whether someone has had a vaccine?

People with comorbidities is where we should be focusing our efforts.

Secondly, there are better solutions on the horizon that won't involve getting a shot.

Are you going to keep track of the Pfizer pills, already produced and awaiting final approval?

Are you considering that this latest variant of Covid is similar to a mild cold?

You would change everyone's life and expend useless resources because you are anticipating what outcome?

Please get serious about getting us all back to normal life. This is going in the wrong direction entirely.

Yours,

Kathryn Vineyard
