Thanks so much for reaching out! In response to your inquiry:

1. Confirmation attached
2. We have some funding left in reserves, but our capacity will be greatly diminished this year
3. SCF has $343,000 left in reserves. We had $290,000 in donations already lined up, but the state's program maxed out. Our plan was to allocate 2/3 of our total for the current (2023-2024) school year, and save 1/3 for the following years. Last year, SCF distributed scholarships to 76 students. This year, our plan was to open up funding to existing students and some of their siblings as well, maxing out at 100 students. In that plan, we would have funded $4,182 (not even half of the $9424 the state allows per student) to 100 students for next year, and had a reserve of $215,453 to build on for the following years. Alternatively, we only fund the 76 existing students using the 2/3 - 1/3 breakdown, funding $5503 per student.
4. SCF currently has $343,000 in reserves. SCF's model has always been to balance immediate scholarship needs with scholarship continuity: we want to distribute as many scholarship dollars for the immediate school year, while at the same time make sure that those students' scholarships don't dry up the following year and the next. The law requires that funds donated to an SGO must be distributed within 5 years. Our current plan is to distribute 2/3 of our funds for this year and hold 1/3 for next.
5. According to the state's current—arbitrary—guidelines, existing students take priority. Essentially, students who been grandfathered in from the first year of the program go first. The second on line for funding are siblings of grandfathered-in students. Only then can we accept applications from new students. Again, our plan was to fund existing students and then their siblings, up to 100 students. If we get the additional proposed funding, we will allocate the funds in accordance with that original plan, and/or in accordance to any laws, regulations, or guidelines.
