Today the Wildlife Commission regulation R014-25A is an effort to address the ban on Wildlife Killing Contests passed by Clark County and the Reno City Council-- almost 80% of the state of Nevada's population. What does the Wildlife Commission do? It proposes to allow coyote killing contests if the participant purchases a hunting license and hunts during a season which is most of the year. The Commission's regulations are minimal and don't address the dumping of animal carcasses, the influx of out of state residents to these events or any of the problems associated with these events. And continues to allow them, even though 80 percent say "no."
