State Board for Career and Technical Education

1917
Senate Bill 176 (Chapter 171, Statutes of Nevada) authorized the State Board of Education, acting as a State vocational education board, to appropriate money to local communities for the teaching of agriculture, trades and industries, and household economics subject.

Assembly Bill 248 (Chapter 209, Statutes of Nevada) provided that the State of Nevada accept federal funds for vocational education and designate the State Board of Education as the board for purposes of compliance with the federal act.

The Smith-Hughes National Vocational Education Act of 1917 (Public Law 64-347) required each state to designate or create a board of vocational education.

Sec. 5. That in order to secure the benefits of the appropriations provided for in sections two, three, and four of this Act, any State shall, through the legislative authority thereof, accept the provisions of this Act and designate or create a State board, consisting of not less than three members, and having all necessary power to cooperate, as herein provided, with the Federal Board for Vocational Education in the administration of the provisions of this Act. The State board of education, or other board having charge of the administration of public education in the State, or any State board having charge of the administration of any kind of vocational education in the State may, if the State so elect, be designated as the State board, for the purposes of this Act.

Senate Bill 97 (Chapter 86, Statutes of Nevada) designated the State Board of Education as the State Board for Vocational Education.

1923
Assembly Bill 119 (Chapter 83, Statutes of Nevada) provided that the membership of the State Board for Vocational Education would consist of the State Board of Education and two additional members, appointed by the State Board of Education, one of whom was to represent agriculture and one to represent labor.

1947
Assembly Bill 8 (Chapter 63, Statutes of Nevada) reaffirmed Nevada’s acceptance of the terms and provisions of the 1917 federal legislation. The act also provided that the State Board for Vocational Education had all necessary authority to cooperate with federal agencies and to administer the funds, including authority to formulate plans for the promotion of vocational education. The bill also provided for a biennial report to the Legislature.

1954

The Governor’s School Survey Committee contracted with the George Peabody College for Teachers, University of Nashville, to conduct a study of the Nevada public school system and to propose developments and improvements. According to the report, in 1947–1948, only 2 of the 39 states with state boards of education had separate boards for vocational education; those were Massachusetts and Nevada. Among its recommendations, the Peabody Report suggested the repeal of statutes providing for the State Board for Vocational Education and the transfer of the functions of that Board to the State Board of Education.

1956

Assembly Bill 1 (Chapter 32, Statutes of Nevada, 8th Special Session) revised the membership of the State Board for Vocational Education to provide that it would consist of the State Board of Education. Although the measure maintained the two positions reserved for representatives of agriculture and labor on the State Board of Education, the bill did not merge the two boards, as recommended by the Governor’s School Survey Committee, based on the Peabody Report. Among other provisions, A.B. 1 repealed the biennial report to the Legislature enacted in 1947.

1963

The United States Congress enacted the Vocational Education Act of 1963 (P.L. 88-210). The Act provided that a state wishing to receive federal funds must submit through its state board a state plan which designates the state board as the sole agency for administration of the plan or for supervision of the administration by local educational agencies. Further, if the state board does not include members familiar with vocational education needs of management and labor in the state, and representatives of postsecondary and higher education, then the state board must designate or create a state advisory council, which shall include such persons to consult with the state board.

1971

Assembly Bill 225 (Chapter 597, Statutes of Nevada) provided that the State Board for Vocational Education would hold at least four meetings per year, coincident with the meetings of the State Board of Education.

1984

Congress passed the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education Act (P.L. 98-524) to amend the Vocational Education Act of 1963, which provides in Section 111 the following:

Sec 111. Any State desiring to participate in the vocational education program authorized by this Act, shall, consistent with State law, designate or establish a State board of vocational education which shall be the sole State agency responsible for the administration or the supervision of the State vocational education program.

1985
Assembly Bill 131 (Chapter 272, Statutes of Nevada) changed the name from the State Board for Vocational Education to the State Board for Occupational Education.

1998
Congress rewrote and reauthorized the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Technical Education Act of 1998 (P.L. 105-332), which provided the definition in Section 3:

(9) ELIGIBLE AGENCY.—The term ‘eligible agency’ means a State board designated or created consistent with State law as the sole State agency responsible for the administration of vocational and technical education or for the supervision of the administration of vocational and technical education in the State.

2005
Assembly Bill 388 (Chapter 309, Statutes of Nevada) changed the name of the State Board for Occupational Education to its current form, the State Board for Career and Technical Education. The measure also required the appointment of advisory technical skills committees in a school district that had an established program of career and technical education (CTE), authorized the Department of Education to provide CTE grants, and required the Department to conduct a public awareness campaign.

2006
Congress passed the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Technical Education Act of 2006 (P.L. 109-270), which revised the definition as follows:

(12) ELIGIBLE AGENCY.—The term ‘eligible agency’ means a State board designated or created consistent with State law as the sole State agency responsible for the administration of career and technical education in the State or for the supervision of the administration of career and technical education in the State.
