My name is Richard G. Barrows. I have practiced law in northeastern Nevada for 44 years. My legal practice includes the formation of business entities. I have encountered four areas of uncertainty under the existing LLC statutes as they pertain – or have been argued to pertain – to series LLCs.

In 2005, the Nevada Legislature amended Chapter 86 of NRS to authorize the creation of a new type of business entity in Nevada: the series limited-liability company. The creation of a series LLC was authorized to enable the owner of multiple assets to enjoy separate limited-liability protection for each asset without having to pay the Secretary of State organizational and annual fees for multiple LLCs. For example, the promise of the 2005 amendment was that if mom and pop owned a chain of restaurants or multiple rental properties, they could organize one LLC by filing the articles of organization with the Secretary of State and pay one organizational filing fee. Thereafter, mom and pop could create separate series LLCs for each restaurant or rental property by executing a separate series operating agreement for each property with each series owning one of the properties. Since an LLC operating agreement is an internal document not filed with the Secretary of State, no organizational or annual fees would be due to the Secretary of State for any of the series LLCs mom and pop created.

The four uncertainties with the existing Nevada series LLC statutes are:

1. Who is the registered agent for each series LLC?
2. In order to create a series LLC, must articles of organization be filed with the Secretary of State?
3. May a series LLC sue, be sued, contract and own property in its own name? and
4. How does a creditor, a person contracting with, or a person injured by, a series LLC discover who its registered agent is if nothing is filed with the Secretary of State?

AB 123 is needed to address these four questions under existing Nevada series LLC statutes.

One of the keys to understanding this Bill are the verbs that is uses:

- Chapter 86 uses the term “company” to refer to the non-series LLC that is “organized” by filing articles of organization with the Secretary of State;
- The non-series LLC “authorizes” the “creation” of one or more series LLCs;
- A non-series LLC is “organized” and not “created”; and a “series” LLC is “created” and not organized.

Sec. 1. (Page 2, Lines 3-10)

Intended to remove all doubt under existing law that the registered agent for a “master” LLC (i.e., the one which was organized by filing articles of organization with the secretary of state) is, as a matter of law, the registered agent for each series LLC that the master LLC has authorized to be created.

Sec. 1.3 (Page 2, Lines 13&14)

Intended to eliminate confusion between Chapter 86's use of “limited-liability company”/“company” to refer to the “master” LLC (i.e., the one organized by filing articles of organization with the secretary of state and that authorizes the creation of one or more series LLCs) as opposed to a series LLC; and to remove all doubt under existing law that articles of organization must be filed to organize only the “master” LLC and not to create a series LLC when the articles or operating agreement of a “master” has authorized series LLCs to be created. This clarification is needed in view of a recent order by the district court in Clark County that a series LLC cannot be created by the operating agreement of the series LLC itself, even if authorized by the master LLC. In so ruling, the court held – in the face of NRS 86.296 – that a Clark County series LLC did not legally exist – and its members were personally liable – because NRS 86.151 and 86.201 require that all LLCs – including series LLCs – may be created only by filing articles of organization with the secretary of state. Grand Canal Shops v. AB Venetian, LLC, Case No. A-16-737610-C, Clark County District Court, Dept XXXII, (2-14-2017).

Sec. 1.5 (Page 2, Lines 18-28)

Intended to eliminate confusion between Chapter 86's use of “limited-liability company”/“company” to refer to the “master” LLC (i.e., the one organized by filing articles of organization with the secretary of state and that authorizes the creation of one or more series LLCs) as opposed to a series LLC; and to remove all doubt under existing law that articles of organization must be filed to organize only the “master” LLC and not to create a series LLC when the articles or operating agreement of a “master” has authorized series LLCs to be created. This clarification is needed in view of a recent order by the district court in Clark County that a series LLC cannot be created by the operating agreement of the series LLC itself, even if authorized by the master LLC. In so ruling, the court held – in the face of NRS 86.296 – that a Clark County series LLC did not legally exist – and its members were personally liable – because NRS 86.151 and 86.201 require that all LLCs – including series LLCs – may be created only by filing articles of organization with the secretary of state. Grand Canal Shops v. AB Venetian, LLC, Case No. A-16-737610-C, Clark County District Court, Dept XXXII, (2-14-2017).

Section 1.7(2) (Page 3, Lines 8-17)

Intended to eliminate confusion between Chapter 86's use of “limited-liability company”/“company” to refer to the “master” LLC (i.e., the one organized by filing articles of organization with the secretary of state and that authorizes the creation of one or more series LLCs) as opposed to a series LLC; and to remove all doubt under existing law that articles of organization must be filed to organize only the “master” LLC and not to create a series LLC when the articles or operating agreement of a “master” has authorized series LLCs to be created. This clarification is needed in view of a recent order by the district court in Clark County that a series LLC cannot be created by the operating agreement of the series LLC itself, even if authorized by the master LLC. In so ruling, the court held – in the face of NRS 86.296 – that a Clark County series LLC did not legally exist – and its members were personally liable – because NRS 86.151 and 86.201 require that all LLCs – including series LLCs – may be created only by filing articles of organization with the secretary of state. Grand Canal Shops v. AB Venetian, LLC, Case No. A-16-737610-C, Clark County District Court, Dept XXXII, (2-14-2017).

Section 1.7(2) (Page 3, Lines 20-32)
Intended to remove all doubt under existing law that a series LLC has the same rights as a non-series LLC with respect to suits, contracts and property ownership.

Section 2. (Page 5, Lines 1-19)
Intended to remove all doubt under existing law that a series LLC has the same rights as a non-series LLC with respect to owning real and personal property in its own name.

Section 3. (Page 5, Lines 31-38)
Intended to protect creditors, persons contracting with, or persons injured by, a series LLC by enabling them to ascertain who to serve with legal process in a suit against a series LLC. The series LLC would be required to file a certificate of fictitious with the county clerk advising the name of the master LLC whose registered agent is filed with the secretary of state.

Section 4. (Page 6, Lines 24-31)

Intended to address the information that must be included in a certificate of fictitious name filed for a series LLC.

Section 4. (Page 7, Lines 1-12)

Intended to allow the same representatives of a series LLC to sign a certificate of fictitious name as those that can sign a mortgage or deed of series LLC real property under Section 2. of the Bill.
