

Good afternoon. My name is Colby Dyson. Please place my comments on record in its entirety. I'm 19 years old, I am a student at the University of Nevada, Reno, and a resident of Sparks, Nevada. I am part of the large and growing population of youth that are prolife. And there are far more of us than you would think. I am just one of thousands of Nevadans who oppose Senate Joint Resolution 7, and what those behind it wish to accomplish.

What this legislation is attempting to achieve is pure evil. The ideology that this legislation is built on is hell-bent on slaughtering the next generation, and tries to disguise this evil as "reproductive healthcare".

If I'm not mistaken, the current limit on when an abortion can be performed is 5 months, which is still heartbreaking. But what we're here to talk about today is how this piece of legislation wishes to allow abortions past "fetal viability", which by your own definition means that the child is very likely to survive outside the womb without "extraordinary medical measures". I'd like to ask you to think about this. You're about to vote on whether a mother can murder their child or not, when the child is able to function as a human being, just because it could possibly impact the "life or physical or mental health of the [mother]."

I implore the members of this committee and the 40 sponsors and cosponsors of this legislation, to reject SJR7, to reject the genocide of the next generation. The tide in this nation is greatly turning to the side of life, I am not alone in this. The silent majority has had enough. We are awakening, and we are beginning to speak out.

Ask yourself how you want to be remembered. Do you want your legacy to be one of death? One that attempted to lead the charge in slaughtering the innocent next generation? Or do you want a legacy that fought to save it?
