

OVERVIEW OF TERM LIMITS IN NEVADA

Term limits for Nevada state and local officers, including legislators, were approved by voters at the 1994 and 1996 General Elections, following a successful initiative petition effort to amend the Nevada Constitution. The Constitution states that no person may be elected or appointed as a senator or a member of the Assembly “who has served in that Office, or at the expiration of his current term if he is so serving will have served, 12 years or more, from any district of this State.” Term limits were first applied to legislators who were elected in 1998.

TERM LIMITS FOR CURRENT STATE SENATORS

In the Senate, the term of two current members will expire on November 3, 2020, meaning the 2019 Session was their final regular legislative session. Assuming the remaining senators continually run for office in the Senate and are reelected, senators will be termed out as follows:

- Four on November 8, 2022;
- Three on November 5, 2024;
- Two on November 7, 2028;
- Seven on November 5, 2030; and
- Three on November 2, 2032.

¹ Assumes that Senate members will run and be elected in all elections previous to last eligible election.

² Senators Brooks and Harris were appointed in December 2018 to fill vacancies in Senate Districts 3 and 11, respectively. Senator Washington was appointed in March 2019 to fill a vacancy in Senate District 4. They are eligible to run for election in 2020 and reelection in 2024 and 2028.

³ Senator Cancela was appointed in December 2016 to fill a vacancy in Senate District 10 and was subsequently elected in 2018. She is eligible to run for reelection in 2022 and 2026.

⁴ Senator Ratti was appointed in September 2016 to fill a vacancy in Senate District 13. She was then elected in November 2016 to fill a two-year unexpired term and reelected to a full term in November 2018. She is eligible to run for reelection in 2022 and 2026.

⁵ Senator Woodhouse was first elected to the Senate in 2006, served one term, had a break in service, and was reelected in 2012 and 2016.

TERM LIMITS FOR CURRENT STATE ASSEMBLY MEMBERS

In the Assembly, the term of one current member will expire on November 3, 2020, meaning the 2019 Session was his final regular legislative session. Assuming the remaining Assembly members continually run for office in the Assembly and are reelected, members will be termed out as follows:

- Six on November 8, 2022;
- Four on November 5, 2024;
- Three on November 3, 2026;
- Eleven on November 7, 2028;
- Twelve on November 5, 2030; and
- Four on November 2, 2032.
