Title: AMERICA'S DIVIDED RECOVERY : College haves and have-nots (Electronic Document) --2016.

Source: Georgetown University Center on Education and the Workforce

Pages: 44

Subject: 1. Employment. 2. Universities and Colleges--Students.

Notes: "The jobs recovery deepens the economic and political divide between workers with and without a college education. America's Divided America: College Haves and Have-Nots finds that over 95% of the jobs created in the recovery have gone to those with education beyond a high school education. The report also finds:

- For the first time, college graduates make up a larger share of the workforce than workers with a high school diploma or less.
- Out of the jobs created in the recovery, 8.4 million have gone to those with a bachelor's degree or higher, while high school jobs only grew by 80,000.
- Occupational and industry shifts have been major drivers of change in the labor market.
- The recovery added primarily managerial and professional jobs."

Title: BENEFITS ACCESS FOR COLLEGE COMPLETION : Lessons learned from a community college initiative to help low-income students (Electronic Document) --2016.

Source: CLASP

Pages: 35

Subject: 1. Community Colleges. 2. Social Services. 3. Universities and Colleges--Students.

Notes: Report "analyzes how students were served by Benefits Access for College Completion (BACC), a 2.5-year initiative designed to increase access to public benefits (such as SNAP or Medicaid) for eligible low-income students. These crucial supports reduce students' unmet financial needs and help them finish school.

Launched in 2011, BACC funded seven community colleges to develop and implement sustainable policies and practices for embedding benefits access strategies into their operations. CLASP's report, Lessons Learned from a Community College Initiative to Help Low-Income Students, outlines challenges and successes experienced by college sites as well as statewide systems."
