A REGULATION relating to the Board of Psychological Examiners; revising provisions relating to certain requirements for licensure as a psychologist; revising provisions relating to the supervision of a licensed assistant behavior analyst or a certified autism behavior interventionist; revising provisions relating to the national examination required for licensure as a psychologist; revising provisions relating to the renewal of a certificate as a certified autism behavior interventionist; revising provisions relating to fees charged by the Board for certain services; revising the scope of practice for a psychologist; requiring certain licensed behavior analysts to maintain a caseload that does not exceed a certain number of clients; repealing certain provisions relating to areas of acceptable practice of psychology and specialization; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law authorizes the Board of Psychological Examiners to license as a psychologist a person who is certified or licensed in another state if the Board determines that the requirements in that state are at least equivalent to the requirements of chapter 641 of NRS. (NRS 641.190) Existing regulations provide various other requirements before such a person is granted licensure in this State, including practicing in the other jurisdiction for at least 5 years, passing an examination, providing letters of professional reference and submitting fingerprints for a background check. (NAC 641.028) Section 1 of this regulation newly provides that such a person seeking licensure as a psychologist must have been issued a Certificate of Professional Qualification in Psychology by the Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards or hold a National Register of Health Service Psychologist credential from the National Register of Health Service Psychologists.

Under existing regulations, the supervisor of a licensed assistant behavior analyst or a certified autism behavior interventionist may not spend more than 30 percent of his or her work time or more than 12 hours in a week, whichever is greater, providing supervision. (NAC 641.083) Section 2 of this regulation removes that requirement.

Existing law requires certain applicants for licensure as a psychologist to pass the Examination for Professional Practice in Psychology, administered by the Association of State and Provincial Psychology Boards. (NRS 641.180) Section 3 of this regulation newly provides that an applicant for licensure as a psychologist who fails the examination: (1) may, after a first or second failure, retake the examination; (2) may, after a third failure, retake the examination upon submission by the applicant to the Board of a request for permission to retake the examination and a plan explaining the steps the applicant will take to pass the examination; and (3) may not immediately retake the examination after a fourth or subsequent failure, and his or her application is deemed denied. Such a person must wait at least 18 months before he or she may request permission from the Board to reapply for licensure as a psychologist and retake the national examination. The Board will, for good cause, approve the request.

Existing regulations require a certified autism behavior interventionist seeking renewal of his or her certificate to certify to the Board that he or she has provided an average of at least 4 hours per week of direct service to clients as a certified autism behavior interventionist. (NAC 641.1327) Section 4 of this regulation newly provides that the requirement may be waived if the certified autism behavior interventionist provides proof to the Board of at least 40 hours of training in applied behavior analysis techniques that meet certain continuing education requirements.

The Board is authorized to charge fees for various services that are provided by the Board. (NRS 641.370) Section 5 of this regulation removes the fees for providing a set of mailing labels, for the review of a failed examination, for providing a list of practicing psychologists, licensed behavior analysts, licensed assistant behavior analysts or certified autism behavior interventionists and for providing a list of persons granted a license or certificate in any year.

Existing law requires the Board to ensure that licensed psychologists limit their practice of psychology to their areas of competence. (NRS 641.112) Existing regulations provide certain limits to the scope of practice for a psychologist along with certain duties of a psychologist. (NAC 641.208) Section 6 of this regulation newly provides that a psychologist may, within the scope of his or her license and competence: (1) provide a patient with consultation and intervention regarding behavioral health and associated factors; (2) provide a patient with referrals to appropriate health care providers; and (3) discuss medications with a patient or consult with a physician regarding medication for a patient.

Existing regulations require a licensed behavior analyst or licensed assistant behavior analyst who is a supervisor to exercise appropriate supervision over any person who is authorized to practice applied behavior analysis under his or her supervision. (NAC 641.213) Section 7 of this regulation provides that a licensed behavior analyst may not maintain a caseload that exceeds 15 clients, except that a licensed behavior analyst who is a supervisor for a licensed assistant behavior analyst may maintain a caseload that does not exceed 24 clients. Such a licensed behavior analyst is responsible for all aspects of case management and clinical direction for every client to whom the licensed behavior analyst provides services.

Existing law requires a licensed psychologist to limit his or her practice of psychology to his or her areas of competence, as documented by education, training and experience. (NRS 641.112) Existing regulations require the Board, at the time of granting a license to a psychologist, to specify in writing the areas of acceptable practice for that psychologist, and provide a list of areas of specialization recognized by the Board. (NAC 641.140) Section 8 of this regulation repeals these provisions.
