AUTHORITY: §§1-5, NRS 62B.212; §§6 and 7, NRS 62B.250.

A REGULATION relating to child welfare; establishing factors for a juvenile court to consider before committing a child to certain public or private institutions or agencies; establishing protocols that such an institution or agency is required to follow under certain circumstances; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel’s Digest:

Existing law requires the Division of Child and Family Services of the Department of Health and Human Services to adopt regulations that establish: (1) factors for a juvenile court to consider before committing a child to a public or private institution or agency, including, without limitation, a facility for the detention of children; and (2) protocols that such an institution or agency is required to follow when placing a child to ensure that each child who is so committed is placed in a manner that is appropriate for the gender identity or expression of the child. (NRS 62B.212)

Section 3 of this regulation defines the term “gender identity or expression” to mean a gender-related identity, appearance, expression or behavior of a person, regardless of the person’s assigned sex at birth. (NRS 0.034) Existing regulations define the term “institution” to mean, with certain limited exceptions, a facility where a child is held before or after adjudication to be in need of supervision or a delinquent child pursuant to title 5 of NRS. (NAC 62B.050) Existing regulations also define the term “agency” to mean any public or private agency, organization or institution detaining or otherwise having custody or control of a child pursuant to title 5 of NRS. (NAC 62B.020)

Section 4 of this regulation prescribes the factors that a juvenile court is required by statute to consider before committing a child to such an institution or agency. Section 5 of this regulation sets forth standards and requires each such institution or agency to establish a procedure that, at a minimum, ensures those standards are met.

Section 2 of this regulation defines the term “abuse or neglect” in the same manner as that term is defined in existing law governing the protection of children from abuse and neglect. (NRS 432B.020) The term is defined in section 2 for the purposes of specific minimum standards set forth in section 5.

Section 7 of this regulation amends existing regulations so that the term “abuse or neglect” as defined in section 2 also applies to the requirement that such an agency ensure its employees who come into direct contact with children receive training in certain subjects, including instruction concerning the proper reporting of abuse or neglect. (NAC 62B.100)
