

NEVADA LEGISLATURE

Eighty-Second Session, 2023

ASSEMBLY DAILY JOURNAL

THE ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTEENTH DAY

CARSON CITY (Monday), May 29, 2023

Assembly called to order at 12:16 p.m.

Mr. Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present except Assemblywoman Cohen, who was excused.

Prayer by the Chaplain Craig Swope.

Father, on this day we cannot help but think of sacrifice. The sacrifice of those who had dreams and had plans but instead, saw their dreams and plans cut short. Because of their service and sacrifice, we can dream and we can make plans.

As we approach the final days of this session, most of us will see some sacrifice, things we would like to see not happen, things we don't want to happen become reality. May we keep our perspective. May we remember, not only on this day but on all days, that there are hundreds of Nevadans who sacrificed all, and each one of us is the beneficiary of those sacrifices. We thank You for their service.

AMEN.

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Assemblywoman Jauregui moved that further reading of the Journal be dispensed with and the Speaker and Chief Clerk be authorized to make the necessary corrections and additions.

Motion carried.

Remarks by Assemblymen Hansen, Watts, and Bilbray-Axelrod.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN HANSEN:

I rise in opposition to AB 243. When this bill was first heard on March 16 in the Committee on Legislative Operations and Elections, which I do not serve on, it was a nine-page bill. On May 26, we had an amendment on our desk here in the Chamber which increased the size of the bill to 48 pages. I am particularly concerned about the dissolution of the interim Subcommittee on Public Lands.

To give a little bit of context, I have served on the Committee on Natural Resources and the Subcommittee on Public Lands since the 2019 interim. We all know that the state is 110,000-plus square miles. My district represents almost a third of that—six counties. Considering that 87 percent of the state is federal land, having the Subcommittee on Public Lands is vital. We would meet in various parts of the state, from Ely, to Pyramid Lake, to Boulder City, to Caliente. In the interim, tribes and members of rural communities who cannot make it to Carson and who cannot make committee meetings in person at the Grant Sawyer would come out. It also gave us legislators an opportunity to go on field trips to see the mastication programs of junipers in White Pine County. It gave us opportunities to visit mine sites and historic designations that were being considered.

I stand in strong opposition to the dissolution recommendation in the amendment. I understand it was a clean-up bill, but it has become way more than that. I would urge this body to vote no on AB 243.

ASSEMBLYMAN WATTS:

I rise in support of Assembly Bill 243. I very much appreciate the comments and concerns raised by my colleague from District 32; however, as the Chair of the Joint Interim Standing Committee on Natural Resources who was also involved in coordinating some of the activities of the Subcommittee on Public Lands, I can say there were a lot of logistical issues that arose from having both the eight-member Joint Interim Standing Committee on Natural Resources as well as the smaller subcommittee that had only two Assembly members, two Senators, and a representative from local and tribal governments. In conversations, we decided the best way to move forward is just to have the Joint Interim Standing Committee on Natural Resources.

I do want to note a couple things—one, the entire statutory charge originally given to the Subcommittee on Public Lands remains in place in statute, and that charge has been transferred fully to the Joint Interim Standing Committee on Natural Resources. The issues and scope are not being lost in any way.

I do appreciate this opportunity to put on record before the entire body that in conversations, we are going to maintain the tradition that existed with the Subcommittee on Public Lands, which really was our Joint Interim Standing Committee on Natural Resources before we reorganized the interim. There is a commitment that we will continue to have meetings with this expanded committee and alternates, which are some of the things that have been modified and improved through this bill to ensure we are actually getting more legislators out into our rural communities to learn about issues of importance.

So while I completely understand and respect the concerns that have been raised by colleagues, at the end of the day, I think this is going to strengthen our interim process and continue to get members exposure to all the different communities in our state and the issues related to public lands and natural resources. I urge my colleagues to vote in support.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BILBRAY-AXELROD:

I have to be honest—I was a hard no on this bill when I first looked at the amendment, but I do appreciate the conversations we have had and the clarification given by my colleague from the south. I will be bird-dogging this committee over the next interim to make sure the intent is exactly what was just stated, because I do think this is vitally important for the state of Nevada, not just for the state of Nevada but also federally. The Subcommittee on Public Lands has made many recommendations to the United States Congress over the last few decades.

I will be in support, and I will be watching to make sure it turns out the way we hope it does.

Roll call on Assembly Bill No. 243:
