OF THE

ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA

SEVENTY-SECOND SESSION

THE FIRST DAY

CARSON CITY (Monday), February 3, 2003

Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution and Statutes, the Assembly was called to order by Secretary of State Dean Heller at 12 noon.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Father Caesar Caviglia, Ely, Nevada.

Lord God, we know that we are but pilgrims and pioneers in this brief measure of time allotted to us. Guide us by Your wisdom, correct us by Your justice, comfort us by Your mercy, protect us by Your power, make us prudent in deliberations, courageous in taking risks, patient in adversity, and unassuming in prosperity. We have been called by Your fellow citizens to discern the affairs of state. Rising expectations and shrinking resources seem insurmountable. Cause us to enlarge our vision and reach beyond our particular concerns and interests that we might honorably wear the noble mantle of statesmen and women. This blessing we ask of You.

AMEN

MR. SPEAKER:

Majority Floor Leader Buckley, Minority Leader Hettrick, members of the Assembly, legislative staff, friends, and guests:

Today is a day of ceremony and celebration at the Nevada Legislature, but while we focus our energies on what lies ahead in the 72nd Session, our nation reflects and grieves; mindful of those seven heroes who lost their lives in the skies over Texas. We should think of them often as we speak about courage, crisis, and consequences during the next 120 days.

There are larger forces at work in the world, and in the face of these events, some of the small things that consume us here are shown to matter very little. It is difficult, against the backdrop of these events, to find words that fit our time. While the nation once again deals with tragedy, we face challenges of a different kind; language fails us. We stand on a great threshold in our history. Now is the time for actions that speak louder than words. The Nevada of our future rests solely in the hands of those few assembled here. We have reached a critical point in our evolution as a state. The new century has brought with it new challenges, unlike any seen in at least a generation. The people's business cannot be business as usual. We have reached a crossroads in our state's history. You and I hold the key.

There is little new material in political speechmaking. For years politicians have relied on phrases like those I just read to you—sometimes warranted, and at other times, just simply to make a point. Those who have stood in this place of honor before me often sought to speak of such things on the opening day at the Nevada State Legislature. You know the clichés. You know the overused words. They are a common affliction in public life. Sadly, the difference today is that this kind of speechmaking is finally warranted. If every dog has its day, so must every cliché. They have finally all come true.

Two weeks ago, our Governor stood in this very Chamber. I have never seen Governor Guinn speak so passionately. He spoke of two roads down which we might take Nevada and he challenged us to be courageous in choosing our path. I commend the Governor for his remarks, his vision, and for many of his ideas. He used the force of his office well, just as I hope to in guiding the work of this House as we craft the policies important to our state. The Governor spoke of the state of our State as "fragile." I disagree. The state of our budget is fragile. Perhaps the state of several departments and agencies and the vital services they deliver are fragile; but out there, beyond this Chamber, beyond the Capitol Complex, Nevadans are strong. Their courage is rock solid.

Let's not confuse our own human fears about balancing our budget and finally establishing a stable revenue stream for the future of our state with the courage and conviction of the over 2 million Nevadans we serve. Today's challenges are no greater than any we have faced in our long history. They only seem bigger because they are so close. But Nevadans have proven, beginning with the struggles of becoming a state during the Civil War and most recently in the aftermath of 9/11, that they have a personal strength of character that is sometimes lacking in politics. Our budget might be fragile, but our people are strong. If anything else is fragile, it is our collaboration as legislators.

If we have need for courage, as the Governor has told us, it is because we have allowed Washington-style politics to creep into our Nevada system. Gridlock looms. Partisanship is on the rise. Personal attacks have already begun. Some in this Chamber want to legislate through press release, headline, and sound bite rather than through frank speech, conviction, and thoughtful consideration of the ramifications of all that we do, all that we say, and the tone we say it in. Courage does not mean acrimony. It takes courage to be thoughtful and quiet and to offer solutions instead of barriers. Frankly, it's too easy to speak without thinking and too easy to rely on partisanship instead of statesmanship. We may not agree, and that's okay, but we need to be respectful when we disagree.

One of the most courageous, honorable, and civil legislators ever to grace these halls also wielded this gavel until very recently. His name is Joe Dini, and he will be absent from the Floor of the Assembly during this session for the first time in more than three decades. We will miss Joe, but at the same time, I am pleased to greet the many new members of this House. One-third of our members are new. One-third. The pundits have been focused on that number for weeks, not with respect to the number of our new members, but reminding us, instead, that one-third of the members of this House can block any increase in revenue. The pundits would be better served to focus on the enthusiasm and fresh ideas of the one-third of our new members. Rarely do we see a freshman class with this much talent.

To the ladies and gentlemen who are new to this House, welcome. I am proud of your energy, your commitment, and your diversity. The future is yours. In ten years, I have no doubt that one of you will be standing in this place on opening day and holding this gavel. Welcome here, all of you.

Ten years is a political lifetime. Ten years ago, I first took the Oath of Office in this Chamber. I was convinced it was the most important day of my life. Yet five times since then, I have been privileged to repeat that Oath. True, much of the cast of characters has changed. Colleagues have come and gone. Yet the Oath is exactly the same, and the day ends with the same sense of pride and expectation. While outside this Chamber, on each of those days, and for every other day of the last ten years, life has gone quietly on for the people of Nevada without a gavel to aid them or an Oath of Office to remind them of their responsibility to state and country; Nevadans have done their duty. Out there is where things have changed. Ten years ago, our state numbered 1.3 million people; today we number well over 2 million. Ten years from now, we will have added many new Nevadans. Ten years ago, the war on terror did not exist; there had been no 9/11, no talk of homeland security; we never heard of tobacco settlements; welfare reform was a distant dream; technology was quite different. Ten years truly is a lifetime in politics. Today is only that—one day. The questions of this one day, however, loom large: What will the next ten years hold? What role will we play in getting there? What impact will the decisions we make today have in the long run?

Make no mistake. Hide behind no cliché. Our decisions matter. Not in the sense that they matter to the press corps, or even to the voters we will face at subsequent elections. Our decisions matter because each one shapes the future and charts the course for the next ten years and beyond. We will decide if Nevada has a full complement of teachers, excited and energetic in their own right because they are well prepared, well paid, and have the resources to do their jobs. We will decide if our children are demoralized, schooled in crowded trailers that do little more than take up playground space, without textbooks to call their own. We will decide if our seniors have access to prescription drugs and affordable health care. Or instead will we forget their service in the offices, factories, farms, and wars of the twentieth century? We will decide if Nevada has full employment or full prisons. We will decide if the residents of Washoe and Clark Counties drive on proper roads or languish in gridlock like drivers in Southern California. We will decide if our children have access to vaccines, nutrition, and basic services. We will decide.

Ten years from now, I want our children to experience a Nevada recognized for its world-class educational system. I want our children to live their lives through hard work, integrity, and a sense of community, knowing that these simple virtues matter. I want our children to have opportunities we never had. Ineffective government should not be an impediment to opportunity.

We may struggle for the next 120 days. We may disagree over which revenues to increase, and which programs to fund and which to cut. Nobody, nobody, has ever claimed the legislative process to be easy or pretty to watch, but we cannot allow ineffectiveness to stand in the way of doing what is right for Nevada. For Nevada, not just my district, and certainly not just my party. For my state, for our state.

In March of 1968, President Lyndon Johnson announced to a startled nation that he would not seek his party's nomination for reelection to the presidency. In what was probably his darkest hour, President Johnson admonished the nation against divisive partisanship. He recalled a personal philosophy that had guided his public career: "I am a free man, an American, a public servant, and a member of my party, in that order always and only." Say what you will about President Johnson's failings, he articulated these priorities correctly. His words were an echo of those spoken by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt at his inauguration in 1933, the same speech where he evoked courage to assure the nation that the only thing to fear is fear itself—"In every dark hour of our national life, a leadership of frankness and vigor has met with the understanding and support of the people, which is important to victory."

As one who has participated in this Chamber for ten years now, my advice to those who are new is to remember these words of unity. With due respect to those who have served as long or longer, my message is the same. Tomorrow when you show up, show up to work, show up for Nevada. Do not show up for your political party or a divisive interest. In 120 days, all of this will be over. We would do well to remember to whom we answer when we adjourn sine sie. In the end, we have only ourselves, our families, our communities, and our God. In the end, that is all we need. Thank you, and may God bless you, your families, and your decisions.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

CARSON CITY, NEVADA , January 30, 2003

THE HONORABLE SENATOR WILLIAM J. RAGGIO, THE HONORABLE ASSEMBLYMAN RICHARD D. PERKINS, Nevada Legislature, 401 S. Carson Street, Carson City, Nevada 89701

DEAR MAJORITY LEADER RAGGIO AND SPEAKER PERKINS:

Attached herewith is my message to the 72nd Session of the Nevada Legislature, as required by Article 5, Section 10, of the Nevada Constitution. As you know, I delivered the message earlier to a gathering of your colleagues and other guests on January 20, 2003, in the Assembly Chambers in Carson City.

Allow me to extend my sincere wishes for a productive legislative session. My staff and I look forward to working with all of you.

Respectfully,
KENNY C. GUINN
Governor

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the Governor's State of the State Address as presented to the Legislative Commission's Special Committee to Receive the Governor's State of the State Address of January 20, 2003, be entered in the Journal.

Good evening.

Mr. Speaker, Madam Lieutenant Governor, members of the Senate and Assembly, Honorable Justices of the Supreme Court, elected officers, distinguished guests, and my fellow Nevadans:

We come together on a special day for our country; a day set aside each year to honor a great American, a pioneer and a champion for civil rights, Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Dr. King's commitment to peaceful progress remains an inspiration to all who believe in equality and the "American Dream." He would be pleased, as you and I are proud, that the Nevada State Legislature has the highest percentage of African-American members of any legislature in the nation. Dr. King led his struggle during difficult times for America. In different ways, the times are no less difficult today for America, and for the Silver State.

My fellow Nevadans, it is my duty as Governor to report this evening that the state of our State is fragile and as challenging as any period in our 139-year history. For the last two years, we have been dealing with a $300 million budget shortfall. For the next two years, the shortfall is projected to be even worse; over $700 million.

Since I last stood before you, much has happened to weaken the finances and the economies of our country and this state. The terrorist attacks of September 11 did far more than destroy the World Trade Center, damage the Pentagon, and leave a scar in the heartland of Pennsylvania. The terrorists struck at the heart of business and industry, and no industry was hit harder than the tourism industry, the lifeblood of Nevada. The consequences of these attacks turned the already threatening fiscal clouds on Nevada's horizon into a full-blown storm. That is why, this evening, Nevada stands at a crossroads. Directly ahead of us are two roads to the future. Tonight is the time for choosing our path.

One choice may be easy to make, but hard to endure. It is a road that is shortsighted and paved with irresponsibility. The legacy of, once again, running from our duty as leaders will produce a devastating effect on every single Nevadan. It means leaving thousands of senior citizens without nursing home care, affordable medicine, and the dignity of their independence; forcing 27,000 new students into overcrowded classrooms without employing 900 new teachers and without buying new textbooks; denying access to higher education for our high school graduates; eliminating health insurance for 25,000 needy children; and cutting prescription medicine for Medicaid recipients and the mentally ill. These are not threats; they are realities. To me, this is not a choice worthy of our citizens. It is not a choice for leaders, but a choice of political cowardice.

Thankfully, there is another road, a road that will meet the needs of a rapidly growing state, and one that will put Nevada on course to a brighter future. I am talking about a future where we provide for higher student achievement; where more students go to college, led by a new generation of Millennium Scholars; where our children, senior citizens, and those less fortunate live safer, healthier lives. This road will allow us to develop new businesses, grow our economy, create new jobs, and build a more competitive Nevada. This is my vision of the future, and Nevadans deserve no less.

I stand before you, in the house of the people, under a portrait of Abraham Lincoln, a man who united our country, and I ask you, Republicans and Democrats, members of the Senate and Assembly, to join me, so that together we can ensure a more prosperous Nevada. The challenges we face reflect the unique conditions of today's Nevada and our history. For years, our economy has depended almost exclusively on tourism and gaming, rather than by exporting goods and services. Three out of every four of our tax dollars are collected from sales and gaming taxes, taxes vulnerable to swings in the economy. Implicit in this tax strategy was a belief that the revenues from gaming and tourism could keep pace with our growing and diverse population. Unfortunately, this strategy has failed.

Nevada, once a small state, has been the fastest-growing state in the nation for 10 straight years. Between 1990 and 2000, we saw our population grow by 900,000 people. These new citizens have brought with them demands for more services, more highways, more medical care, and more schools.

As our population growth was soaring, our revenue growth was sagging. For example, in 1997 the Legislature had $543 million in new revenue to fund expenses for new school enrollments, mandated health care, and state services. By 1999, new revenues dropped to $378 million, and in 2001 they were down to $150 million. This trend has worsened. This biennium, we have just $24 million to pay for the needs of our growing state. Part of this decline resulted from the nationwide economic slowdown. Another big blow came from the terrorist attacks on September 11, which effectively caused Nevada to lose an entire year of revenue growth. However, while the effects of September 11 were devastating, they only hastened our day of reckoning and magnified the weaknesses of a system so dependent on volatile revenues. Another contributing factor to our decline was a result of increased competition from tribal gaming in other states. In the last year, tribal gaming in California alone grossed over $5 billion, compared to Nevada's $10 billion. It is predicted that tribal gaming will double in just the next few years.

My fellow Nevadans, the lesson from the last 20 years is clear: Our revenue system is broken because it has relied on regressive and unstable taxes. However grim our financial situation is today, it would be far worse if it were not for the steps we have already taken. We started with a fundamental review, a top-to-bottom review of every agency, program, position, and dollar. That process gave us the flexibility to reallocate millions of dollars to areas of high priority such as education, health care, and public safety.

We demanded flat budgeting and only allowed for growth in mandated areas such as Medicaid and school enrollment. We took bold steps to privatize government services, privatizing the state workers' compensation system. This resulted in nearly 800 positions being eliminated from state government and relieved Nevada of a $2 billion liability.

Some of you have ideas about additional services that can be privatized, such as the state motor pool and printing operations. I look forward to that dialogue so together we might find other innovative solutions for our state. Rising to the challenge to seek innovative solutions, Treasurer Brian Krolicki and his staff unlocked cash from an unexpected source: the state's debt. Brian's office produced over $30 million in extra revenue that helped us reduce last year's budget shortfall. You see, one person can make a difference.

Despite all these savings, our fiscal crisis required us to do even more. Together we made more than $120 million in very difficult cuts at the end of the last regular session. In addition, I cut another $47 million in one-shot expenditures for much-needed equipment and maintenance, and from great community organizations that serve our citizens. Further, I directed all state agencies to make $38 million in additional across-the-board cuts. This meant layoffs, cuts to mental health programs, programs for seniors and children, and closing the state's juvenile detention facility. I then directed my Cabinet to make additional cuts of more than $15 million for such things as increased employee health insurance and utility costs. Tonight I want to thank my Cabinet, and all state employees, for implementing these difficult cuts.

Finally, when I first took office, I recognized we could not control spending without addressing the cost of state employment. That is why, in 1999, I implemented a statewide hiring freeze; freezing 1,500 positions has saved us over $30 million. Leaving these positions unfilled has not been easy. Our employees have made great sacrifices, providing state services while working harder than ever with fewer resources. However, we still find ourselves in a fiscal crisis. Therefore, tonight I am asking state employees to make yet another sacrifice, as my budget permanently eliminates 500 of those 1,500 vacant positions.

Fellow Nevadans, we have been innovative in our savings and responsible in our cuts. As Governor, I believe I have been a careful steward of the taxpayers' dollars. However, if I had to build this budget on only our existing revenue, I could not live with myself, and I don't know anyone who could. The time has come to say "enough." Nevada ranks near the bottom in per-pupil spending on education and spends less per capita on Medicaid than any other state. If those two areas don't concern you, take a look at where Nevada ranks in high school dropout rates, teenage pregnancy, and children living in poverty.

Ladies and gentlemen of the Legislature, I refuse to balance this budget on the backs of our children, senior citizens, and the poor. Moreover, I will not cut programs such as Nevada CheckUp. Cutting a program whose sole purpose is to give health care to 25,000 needy children is wrong. No, it is not wrong; it is heartless. If it is your choice to do so, you will do it over my veto.

Now is a time for courage. It is up to us to face our challenges, and face them we will. Therefore, the budget I am presenting tonight is balanced, fair, and has been built to meet the needs of Nevada, not only for the next two years, but also for many years to come.

Last session, you created the Task Force on Tax Policy. The members of this panel are experts in their field who came from every corner of our state and are among the most respected citizens in Nevada. You directed them to examine specific taxes that could broaden and stabilize our tax structure, because you believe as I do that our tax system is broken, and that in order to build a more prosperous Nevada we need to change that system. After 12 months of hard work and deliberations, the Task Force delivered a set of recommendations that all Nevadans can have confidence in. Those recommendations serve as the foundation of the plan I will unveil to you this evening. I now ask Chairman Guy Hobbs and the members of the Task Force to stand, so we can thank them for their hard work.

Tonight I have spoken much about the future of Nevada and my vision of a state where a well-educated workforce fuels the businesses that drive our economy. However, a more prosperous Nevada and a better educational system require an investment by all Nevadans and all Nevada businesses. Therefore, I bring to you tonight a budget request for $980 million in new revenue. This budget is built on a series of broad-based business taxes that move Nevada toward a more stable revenue base.

To begin with, in order for the state to close this fiscal year with a balanced budget, I am requesting an immediate increase in cigarette and alcohol taxes, corporate filing fees, and slot machine license fees. I am also requesting an immediate increase in the Business Activity Tax to $300. This increase will be applied to all businesses, and, unlike in the past, there will be no exceptions. Finally, I ask you to implement these changes by April 1 so that revenue can be realized this fiscal year. Second, to meet further revenue needs, I am proposing a 15-cent increase in property taxes and the creation of an admissions and amusement tax.

Tax increases are never popular. However, let me assure you, the vast majority of these taxes will only provide enough revenue to meet the basic needs of our state's growth. Growth means the 27,000 new kids in kindergarten through 12th grade, the 6,000 new students in the University and Community College System, the enormous increase in mandated caseloads for Medicaid and welfare, and the rising cost of health care benefits for public employees.

To further address the long-term structural budget problem facing Nevada, I am requesting that the Legislature increase gaming taxes and enact a new gross receipts tax on all companies doing business in our state. The gross receipts tax will impose a one-quarter percent levy on all Nevada businesses with gross revenues in excess of $450,000. This threshold exempts more than 60 percent of Nevada businesses and preserves our reputation as a great place to start a small business. Since the implementation of the gross receipts tax will take two years, the tax will need to be enacted this session in order to realize revenues in the following biennium. When the revenues from the gross receipts tax are realized, businesses will then see a reduction in the Business Activity Tax.

I want to take a moment to commend the business community in our great state for their hard work and commitment to our prosperity. I know that our business leaders love Nevada as I do. In our hour of need, I know they will honor their commitment to me and this Legislature to invest in the health and safety of our citizens, and the education of our children.

As you know, education isn't just on my agenda, it is my agenda. Education is crucial to the survival and success of every Nevada business. When I see Nevada's future, I don't see a state trailing the pack. I see a state that's become a vibrant center of learning and commerce. I see a state that competes and excels in areas of health care, banking, science, technology, and tourism. However, to realize that vision, we need to create a generation of young Nevadans with stronger, sharper, and more sophisticated skills. Therefore, I propose that we start at the beginning by providing full-day kindergarten for our children. Full-day kindergarten will deliver immediate, as well as long-term academic and social benefits, especially if we begin slowly, and we start in at-risk schools. Research and common sense tells us that full-day kindergarteners perform better on standardized tests and attain higher levels of achievement in reading and mathematics. Full-day kindergarten truly is the smart start, and I ask for your support.

We all know the quality of education we offer our students will only be as good as the quality of our teachers. Last session I recommended, and you passed, signing bonuses to attract the best and brightest new teachers to Nevada; look what happened. Those bonuses were decisive in addressing the shortage of teachers, particularly in Clark County, where two-thirds of all new teachers must be recruited from out of state. To remain competitive, my budget again contains a $2,000 signing bonus for every new teacher. With the arrival of 27,000 new students, Nevada cannot afford another teacher shortage. We must also address the immediate shortage of teachers in at-risk schools, and those who have training in math and special education. Therefore, I am asking you to support our superintendents' and school boards' requests for enhanced pay for these teachers.

We must also make right an area of chronic underfunding by investing in new textbooks, technology, and instructional supplies. We should not allow our students to go without books or to stand in line to use a computer. Nor should our teachers have to purchase needed supplies. Therefore, I am recommending, and asking you to support, $40 million to fund these needs.

Nevada suffers from some of the largest class sizes in the nation in grades four and up. Therefore, local school districts need more flexibility in implementing class-size reduction. The pilot project in Elko County proves that we can expand the benefits of class-size reduction with existing resources. Let us give local school districts maximum flexibility in determining the class sizes that best meet the needs of their students in all grades. I ask you to make this pilot project a statewide standard.

There is no single program I am more proud of than the Millennium Scholarships. Since the scholarships began in 2000, the percentage of Nevada high school students going on to college has jumped from 37 to 48 percent. A total of 15,000 Millennium Scholars are now enrolled in Nevada higher education, and we expect more than 7,000 new students next fall. These are 22,000 wonderful reasons to be optimistic about our future. These young men and women will be on the front line of a smarter, more highly skilled work force.

Let me take a moment to recognize two outstanding scholars, the first two Millennium Scholarship recipients to graduate from college. First, Melissa Tishk. She earned her bachelor's degree in communications from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, in just 2½ years. Second, Dan Coming, who, at the age of 19, graduated summa cum laude in computer science at the University of Nevada, Reno. Melissa and Dan have a few important things in common. They are bright, focused, and will stay in Nevada to help us build a better future. Melissa and Dan, please stand so we may acknowledge your hard work and success; Nevada is so proud of you. Thank you. Dan and Melissa are prime examples of why all young Nevadans should continue to have the opportunities that higher education provides.

It is critical that we build on our progress of higher enrollment in universities and community colleges, which are up 32 percent in the last six years. Enrollment in some math, science, and technology classes is up as much as 200 to 300 percent. We cannot afford to lose those hard-won gains. Therefore, my budget provides an additional $80 million for the University and Community College System to fund this growth and to offset the drop in the federal estate tax. To not provide this additional funding would be devastating to our College System.

I want to see higher education in Nevada become a center for research and new partnerships between business and academia. A key step to enhance higher education and economic development will be the new Science, Engineering, and Technology Center at UNLV. This project will be funded with $47 million in public dollars and $25 million in private funds; this is truly a wonderful partnership. This project includes the short-term benefit of new construction jobs, and the long-term benefit of an expanded academic facility in science, engineering, and technology—the wave of the future.

However, there are other steps we can immediately take to better the economy and create new jobs. Therefore, I support your action to combine the two Regional Transportation Commission's voter-approved ballot questions and pass them early.

Next week I will ask the Nevada Transportation Board to approve the sale of $200 million in new transportation bonds to jump-start highway construction projects throughout the state. In addition, I have included in my budget $325 million in transportation bonding authority over the next two years. This $524 million will allow us to complete the widening of U.S. 95 in Las Vegas, complete the Henderson Spaghetti Bowl project, complete the freeway from Reno to Carson City, and finish construction on the Carson City Bypass. These massive projects will provide a shot in the arm for our economy and create thousands of new jobs, as well as easing the horrific traffic problems in our more populated areas.

Another major priority of mine is the creation of a new mental health hospital in southern Nevada. This facility is crucial in order to meet the needs of citizens in the Las Vegas area and will provide a long-overdue solution to a chronic problem.

Last session you had the foresight to create the state's first special court to deal with mentally ill offenders. Now underway in Washoe County, this program offers real hope that these courts can save money and help some of our more fragile citizens. As a result of this program, the mentally ill are receiving needed treatment and medication instead of being incarcerated for minor offenses. I ask that we now provide a modest level of funding for this program. This is the right thing to do, and it is the right investment to make. Tonight I would like to recognize the legislators who led the charge and the judge who has helped implement this success. Please join me in thanking Senator Randolph Townsend, Assemblywoman Sheila Leslie, and Judge Peter Breen.

Judge Breen, along with Judge Lehman from Clark County, have been instrumental in another success: our drug courts. These programs provide nonviolent drug offenders with treatment so they can stay sober and stay out of our prison system. This not only saves us money, but it is the right thing to do. I have included funding for these two successful programs in my budget so their good work can continue.

During the last two legislative sessions, you voted to create and improve the Senior Rx program. We can be proud that we are now helping 7,500 senior citizens. However, we can and must do more. I am recommending in my budget that we immediately address the waiting list of some 1,500 senior citizens and make room for more. Further, we must raise the income threshold for couples, so that married seniors are not denied the benefits of Senior Rx. Therefore, I am asking you for $5 million to expand and enhance this wonderful, lifesaving program.

These are my recommendations to put us on the road to a better Nevada; however, they will not solve our problems indefinitely. Therefore, to further ensure the long-term prosperity of Nevada, I ask Chairman McGinness and Chairman Parks to carefully consider other revenue measures, such as changing the method of collecting property tax; allowing the state to benefit from the growth and value of real property; and changing the constitution to allow homes, commercial business, and land development to be taxed at different rates. I further request that the Taxation Committees deliberate and give full consideration to professional, business, and discretionary service taxes to provide adequate revenue well into the future.

My fellow Nevadans, together we have a great and difficult distance to travel.

We must now travel a new road, a better road, and a more prosperous road. For now is the time for courage and a time for leadership. The popularity of my proposal is less important to me than the rightness of our course.

The state of our state is fragile, but I know our spirit and love for Nevada is not. The people of Nevada are independent, compassionate, and resilient. I have great confidence in their willingness to embrace change and to see this new road not as just a great challenge, but as a great opportunity, one that fulfills our responsibility to hand to our children a better Nevada. So tonight, let us all come together as Nevadans in a great spirit of unity and purpose and build a kind of Nevada where future generations will look back on this night and remember, "We seized the moment, we made the tough decisions, we did the right thing."

I am proud to be your Governor. God bless Nevada, and God bless America. Thank you, and good evening.

1. The Legislature hereby declares its intention to maintain a working environment which is free from sexual harassment. This policy applies to all Legislators and lobbyists. Each member and lobbyist is responsible to conduct himself or herself in a manner which will ensure that others are able to work in such an environment.

2. In accordance with Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, for the purposes of this Rule, "sexual harassment" means unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when:

(a) Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of a person's employment;

(b) Submission to or rejection of such conduct by a person is used as the basis for employment decisions affecting the person; or

4. A person may have a claim of sexual harassment even if he has not lost a job or some other economic benefit. Conduct that impairs a person's ability to work or his emotional well-being at work constitutes sexual harassment.

5. If a Legislator believes he is being sexually harassed on the job, he may file a written complaint with:

between the complainant and the accused to allow a discussion of the matter, if both agree. If the parties do not agree to such a meeting, the committee shall request statements regarding the complaint from each of the parties. Either party may request a hearing before the committee. The committee shall make its determination and inform the complainant and the accused of its determination as soon as practicable after it has completed its investigation.

9. If the investigation reveals that sexual harassment has occurred, the Legislature will take appropriate disciplinary or remedial action, or both. The committee shall inform the complainant of any action taken. The Legislature will also take any action necessary to deter any future harassment.

10. The Legislature will not retaliate against a person who files a complaint and will not knowingly permit any retaliation by the person's supervisors or coworkers.

12. Action taken by a complainant pursuant to this Rule does not prohibit the complainant from also filing a complaint of sexual harassment with the Nevada Equal Rights Commission or the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

13. All Legislators and lobbyists are responsible for adhering to the provisions of this policy. The prohibitions against engaging in sexual harassment and the protections against becoming a victim of sexual harassment set forth in this policy apply to employees, Legislators, lobbyists, vendors, contractors, customers and visitors to the Legislature.

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 2—Memorializing the victims of the events of September 11, 2001.

WHEREAS, On September 11, 2001, terror struck the heart of America, but that terror found no resting place in the hearts of Americans who, in the moments and days following the first realization that our country had been attacked, countered with courage and an outpouring of love and compassion that evidence the best of our great Nation; and

WHEREAS, We will not forget the shocking events of that Tuesday morning in September 2001, and we will not forget the stories of heroism and determination that unfolded in New York City, at the Pentagon and in the skies over Pennsylvania as ordinary people faced the most frightening circumstances one could possibly imagine and met the challenge by risking their own lives in heroic attempts to help others; and

WHEREAS, By their examples, we have learned from these heroes how to respond to evil with good, and to respond to terror with love, and in remembering their selflessness, we are given the strength to continue to reach out to the people we meet each day with kindness and respect; and

WHEREAS, We, as Americans, have been blessed with democracy and freedom, and endowed with the gift to do good, and the responsibility to do no less; and

WHEREAS, From the Civil War to the Great Depression to World War II, American life has always been about facing challenges and rising up together to set a shining example of a society based on equality, freedom and tolerance; and

WHEREAS, As we struggle with the loss of so many lives, 2,801 at the destruction of the World Trade Center Towers, 184 at the attack on the Pentagon, and the 40 passengers and crew members of United Airlines Flight 93, each with a face and a name, and families and friends who loved them, we also recognize our own mortality and take the opportunities presented each day to express our love and appreciation for those around us, and make the most of the days remaining for each of us; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, THE SENATE CONCURRING, That united in our national mourning, we will remember every family that lives in grief and we pray that their sorrow is fading even as the thoughts of their loved ones remain as cherished and comforting memories; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the thousands of innocent victims whose lives were brought to a tragic and horrifying end by evil too terrible for most to comprehend, will be honored by our common and unending pursuit of freedom and peace in the world, and by our continued dedication to public service and respect for all humanity.

Assemblyman Atkinson moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblymen Atkinson, Anderson, Chowning, Ohrenschall, Perkins, and Angle.

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN ATKINSON:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. Since the attacks on our great nation on September 11, we have seen people come together and exhibit great patriotism and compassion. For these reasons I move that our body adopt ACR 2.

ASSEMBLYMAN ANDERSON:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of the resolution. The tragedy of that day is important for us to recognize because of the people: the fire departments that rushed into the twin towers, the people aboard those planes, and the heroic efforts of all the people in Pennsylvania.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN CHOWNING:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I proudly rise in support of ACR 2. That day will be one of those days we will never, never forget, nor will we forget where we were when this devastating attack on our nation occurred. Those who thought that they were going to devastate our country and divide us and make us fall were sadly, and gladly, defeated. No, in fact, they did just the opposite. Our nation has never been so unified, nor have we seen so many of our flags being prominently displayed other than on Election Day or on the 4th of July. It makes me very proud and very sad that something like this occurred and it took that to unify our citizens. I proudly rise in support of this and I am very glad that our Legislature is taking this opportunity to say that we are so proud of the 3,000 and some victims who gave their lives on that day, and I proudly honor those heroes.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN OHRENSCHALL:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I, too, rise in support of this resolution. I think it is very important that we never forget the destruction that was wrought. But, at the same time that we realize we are a strong nation bonded in love, brotherhood, and understanding, and we who have survived in this nation have rededicated ourselves to the principles for which this nation was created, which our founding fathers fought for, which every other group of our American servicemen fought for through the years, and we really want to have hatred defeated around the world and just go on from there. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN PERKINS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I, too, rise in support of the resolution. I remember that day very, very well, in that it was a morning just like any other. Getting up, preparing for the workday, when my wife, who is an earlier riser than I am, came in to explain what she saw on the television. An aircraft had struck one of the World Trade Center towers. I joined her in watching the events unfold and literally, while we were trying to follow the news, was watching when the second aircraft struck the second tower. Knowing at that point that things were going to change that day, significantly, we accelerated our rate of preparedness. I found myself having an emergency staff meeting at the police department regarding things that we'd do in law enforcement and, ultimately, spending a great deal of time at the Las Vegas Field Office of the FBI trying to figure out what was going on and how we were going to ensure the safety of the citizens that we were responsible for. All this, and everything since, certainly changed the world as we know it. It's a different place than it ever was, but there are some good things that have come from it. Certainly the patriotism that we see today, I think, always existed in our country but it has found a stronger foundation and more expression. As the resolution says, it is very important that we remember that day like none other. The term "9/11" will always have a different meaning now, and whatever we can do to prevent a future event, and whatever we can do to help through remembrance and prayers of the families and friends of those that were struck by this tragedy, I think, will be of benefit for us as a country and as a world. With that I urge the support of this resolution. Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN ANGLE:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of ACR 2, as well. We were at the World Trade Center, many of us, just a month before this happened. So it was with disbelief and horror that we watched. I think, as we memorialize those who were victims, we need to remember those who went to their aid as well, some from our own state. My brother-in-law works with the Red Cross and the Salvation Army, and this past year he has spent many long hours in New York City working at the Salvation Army providing meals for those who were going through the rubble. It's a horrible thing to think of, that we have to pick up the pieces after something like this, but I want to recognize that Nevadans played their part as well. As my colleague from the South noted, it has pulled us together as a nation, but also has sent representatives from each one of the states to New York. We go to the aid of our brothers and sisters in other states and I think that it is through these challenges, these times of hardship, that our nation does pull together.

I think that as we look toward possibly another occurrence and a war, that we will see a nation pulling together once more. I thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, for allowing me to say these things.

MESSAGES FROM THE SENATE

SENATE CHAMBER, Carson City, February 6, 2003

To the Honorable the Assembly:

I have the honor to inform your honorable body that the Senate on this day adopted Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 2.

MARY JO MONGELLI
Assistant Secretary of the Senate

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 2.

Assemblyman Knecht moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblymen Knecht, Gibbons, Griffin, and Carpenter.

Assemblyman Knecht requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal:

ASSEMBLYMAN KNECHT:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. President Ronald Wilson Reagan, starting from modest beginnings that represent a wide cross section of American culture, worked throughout his life serving freedom and advancing the public good. As this resolution notes, in 1981, when President Reagan was inaugurated, he inherited a disillusioned nation shackled by rampant inflation and high employment. By 1984, his reelection theme was, "It's Morning in America!" It truly was morning in America. The unity, the sense of purpose, the amiability, the sense of humor and goodwill he brought to the task of being President led us to something we will need here in this Chamber in the coming days. I am privileged to note that the Speaker and other members have been trying diligently to forge that same sense in this House in recent days as we begin our work.

Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, Mr. Reagan's commitment to an active social policy agenda for the nation's children helped lower crime and drug use in our neighborhoods. It is especially appropriate this week to honor Ronald Reagan. After the Challenger disaster in 1987, he spoke comfortingly to the nation, setting the model for President George W. Bush this week as he spoke to the nation and led us in mourning in the wake of the Shuttle Columbia disaster.

Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, President Ronald Wilson Reagan's legacy is celebrated as defeating the evil empire of communism, restoring our national pride, and ending economic malaise by cutting taxes.

Lastly, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, as a small-town boy from downstate Illinois named Ronald, who came west as a young man to prosper eventually in politics, I feel a special affinity for Ronald Wilson Reagan and I urge all of you to join me in this proclamation and in sending President Reagan and Nancy Reagan our good wishes. Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN GIBBONS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of this resolution, honoring our former President on his 92nd birthday. However, nine years ago when he was just 84, he brought forth the cause of Alzheimer's by coming out publicly. We can only assume 2 million people had Alzheimer's at that time. I think, as a result of his courage to come out and be frank with the American public, and to let them know how devastating this disease can be, 25,000 Nevadans have benefited from increased education. As such, we also want to remember that the fight is never over and we must continue to look for ways to help people with this deadly disease, which is the longest way of saying goodbye.

ASSEMBLYMAN GRIFFIN:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I do rise in support of this resolution. Before this legislative session began, the only other time I had been able to sit in this Body was as a member of Boys' State. I think most of us are familiar with the Boys' State program. It's where senior high school students all across Nevada can gather and learn about their state government. One of the blessings I got from going to Boys' State was being selected to go to Boys' Nation, a similar program where two boys from every state gather in Washington, D.C., and learn about the federal government. One of the memories I took from that, probably the greatest memory—and for me it was a week full of memories— was a chance to go to the White House, take the tour, and then go to the Rose Garden and actually have a 20-minute "sit-down" with Ronald Reagan. A hundred boys from all across the country and President Reagan. It was a great experience, and it was probably one of the inspirations that led me back to this Body where I sit today. I support this resolution. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN CARPENTER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of SCR 2. Ronald Reagan, when he ran for President the first time, came to Elko. At that time, I was on the County Commission. We all went to greet him and shake his hand and listen to him speak. Little did we know that we were looking at the making of history. I think the greatest thing, in my estimation, that Ronald Reagan did, was to bring down the Iron Curtain. There is no question that our former Senator, Paul Laxalt, was probably closer to Ronald Reagan than anyone. When Paul Laxalt came to Elko this fall to celebrate the 35th Anniversary of our Community College, he reiterated a few Ronald Reagan stories. I do want to support this resolution, and I'm proud to do so.

Resolution adopted unanimously.

Assemblywoman Buckley moved that COX COMMUNICATIONS: Steve Schorr; NEVADA RANCHER: Don Bowman, be accepted as accredited press representatives, that they be assigned space at the press table in the Assembly Chambers and that they be allowed use of appropriate broadcasting facilities.

Heavenly Father, we are sometimes reminded that certain Proverbs do not always hold up in the legislative process: Sometimes a penny saved should have been spent. Sometimes others reap what we sow. In order to survive, some old dogs have to learn new tricks. Sometimes the dead horse we are told we shouldn't beat is resurrected the next session. Birds of a feather may flock together, but they don't always vote together. Which only proves, Dear Lord, that the only predictable thing is Your love for us and all Your creation.

Some great men have led our nation, Father. Thank you for George Washington, our first president, and for Abraham Lincoln, a man of tremendous moral courage who helped lead us through our darkest days. Thank you for the succession of presidents who have helped us recover from the many varied crises that have arisen along our way. These men who have gone before us have lit our way, now may we give to those who come behind us our faith. Today the members and officers of this Body unite their petition for Your blessing. We ask for Your guidance and Your help, that this Body may do what is best for the people and do what is right in Your sight. Give to these, Your servants, the will to work together as a team for the welfare of all our people.

Assembly called to order at 11:34 a.m.

Mr. Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Albert Tilstra.

Lord Jesus, when we get sick of ourselves, ashamed of our littleness, our selfishness, and the petty things that irritate us, then let it be the beginning of spiritual health by making us willing to have You create in us clean hearts and renew right spirits within us. Hold us steady lest we lose our poise. Blunt our speech lest by cutting words and careless deeds we hurt our colleagues and the cause for which we speak. Where we differ in approaches to a problem, may we ever be open to consider another and a better way, guided not by whether it be popular, or expedient, or practical, but always whether it be right. Hear our prayer, O Lord, and help us, through Jesus Christ.

AMEN.

United States Senator Harry Reid delivered his message as follows:

MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE OF NEVADA
SEVENTY-SECOND SESSION, 2003

Lieutenant Governor Hunt, Speaker Perkins, Majority Leader Raggio, my fellow legislators, friends, and guests:

Being here provides a valuable opportunity to share ideas and insights, and to discuss our common goal: how to meet the needs and protect the interests of Nevadans. Over the past 18 months our state and, of course, our nation have experienced tragedy and loss. Our great nation will never be the same. Most recently, we were all stunned by the space shuttle Columbia disaster. The six Americans and one Israeli stood for courage, science, and a vision of the future. Into the heavens they soared. In Heaven they now reside. As we remember these astronauts, we think of Commander McCool, and we express our condolences to Willie's parents, Audrey and Barry, who live and work in Nevada. They are with us today. Please stand. Despite our nation's sorrow, struggles, and losses, we have hope, hope for the future.

Today, as the threat of terrorism remains high and war in Iraq looms, Americans, including Nevadans, are understandably concerned about homeland security. But I believe our anxiety, our hope, is about something closer, something even more personal: that is our families, our neighborhoods, our schools, our future, our hometown security.

Nevadans are on the frontlines of hometown security. The service members being trained at our state's military installations protect not only Nevada but all of America. We are grateful for the selfless service of Lieutenant Colonel Burt Bartley and First Lieutenant Thomas Cahill, both of Nellis Air Force Base, who were recently awarded the Silver Star for their heroism in combat in Afghanistan. While their actions were extraordinary, these two pilots are illustrative of the bravery and patriotism that exists in Nevada. Fallon Naval Air Station remains the nation's premier tactical air warfare training facility, and the brave men and women there stand ready to serve and sacrifice for our country. Let us also remember that David Brown, a Navy captain, aviator, and flight surgeon, who was part of the lost Columbia Shuttle crew, was an instructor at Fallon.

Without question, our National Guard and Reserve forces are also important to our nation's defense. I know the call-ups and deployments are difficult for their families, their communities, and their employers, but these courageous citizen soldiers have answered the call. They play unique roles, as shown by the recently called-up National Guard Medical Evacuation Unit from Northern Nevada. We are proud of all and will support them and others who serve in our nation's military.

The civilians and contractors supporting our armed services must also be recognized. For example, think of the work being done at Hawthorne Army Depot, by teams of civilians who help this military machine run so smoothly. Whether in Afghanistan or Iraq, no matter the place, the pilots and other personnel based in Nevada and the ammunition stored here are integral to America's readiness, defense, and security. For the security of our hometowns, and to eliminate the threat of weapons of mass destruction in the hands of a brutal dictator, it might soon be necessary to send American forces into Iraq. I was the first Democrat to support, publicly, the first President Bush in the invasion of Iraq more than a decade ago, and I voted for the resolution giving this President authority to remove the evil Saddam Hussein. Let's all pray for no war, and if war, a very speedy resolution of the hostilities.

In addition to having a strong military, hometown security requires us to become less dependent on oil from across the oceans. That is why we must develop renewable energy sources and produce energy from the wind, the sun, and from the geothermal depths of the earth. Nevada and our nation have had some support from Congress in expanding renewable energy, but more is needed, and a bipartisan coalition is so engaged.

Hometown security also requires a progressive, dynamic, state-of-the-art program to modernize our infrastructure. Nevada and the rest of the nation need new schools, renovated schools, updated waterworks, new sewer systems, and updated highways and roads. Prior to September 11, the National Council of Mayors had unanimously endorsed my American Marshall Plan. This is legislation to have the federal government begin a massive public works program to address the needs I've outlined. It is now being revived. Such a program has many benefits, not the least of which is the creation of 42,000 high-paying jobs for every billion dollars of investment.

"Whiskey is for drinking. Water is for fighting over." This statement by onetime Nevadan Mark Twain is truer than ever. Worldwide and in Nevada, that is what we address—water. Water is a problem. That is why I have spent so much time on the historic federal legislation now called the Negotiated Settlement. It is now 98 percent implemented, settling the one 100-year water war between the states of California and Nevada. It involved two Indian tribes, two endangered species, the cities of Reno and Sparks, the Truckee-Carson Irrigation District and Nevada's largest wetlands. That's why this Legislature must be aware of the Walker River System's problems. They exist. We must address them. This situation, for which the federal government has appropriated $200 million, must be resolved.

I commend Pat Mulroy, the General Manager of the Southern Nevada Water Authority, for her persistent and erudite advocacy on the part of the state of Nevada to obtain a fair share of the Colorado River; and I publicly thank each of you for your work protecting Nevada's jewel of unmatched brilliance, Lake Tahoe. We have much, much more to do to save this place that Mark Twain referred to as "the fairest place in all the Earth."

Our economy, like our environment, is fragile and in trouble. Deficits have returned and are now the largest in the history of the world. Our surplus has disappeared. We need an immediate tax cut directed at the middle class. This would stimulate the economy yet have no long-term impact on the deficit. Washington has imposed new burdens on our state and on you as legislators: unfunded mandates in the guise of federal legislation to protect and assist the states. "Leave No Child Behind" is good in theory, but without federal financial support, it's leaving many children behind. The consolidation of agencies to create the Department of Homeland Security and other homeland security legislation unfortunately has created insecurity at home because of the lack of federal resources that were known to be necessary when these pieces of legislation passed. These are two of the reasons you are facing a financial crisis here at home, as are 46 other states.

The Joshua trees that I see from my window in Searchlight, the alpine meadows that I view as I travel to Lake Tahoe, and the rest of our rich Nevada environment are fundamental to our concept of what makes our state so special. I join with you in working together to protect all of Nevada's 75 million acres. Two hallmark pieces of legislation that passed during the last Congress boost hometown security for Nevada citizens and defend Nevada's interests. The Southern Nevada Public Lands Act moved land from the federal government to the cities of North Las Vegas, Las Vegas, Henderson and, of course, Clark County. It provided for economic development, including the national imperative of the airport at Ivanpah, along with protecting hundreds of thousands of acres of pristine wilderness; this will enhance Nevada for generations to come. In addition, we have provided a safe, secure place for gun enthusiasts and other sportsmen, as well as law enforcement officers, to practice their weaponry. The rapid growth of the metropolitan Las Vegas area has encroached on their facilities. But now Nevada will have the premier shooting range in the entire country—3,000 acres for target shooting and other recreational purposes. This law passed, literally, in the last few minutes of the 107th Congress.

This great building and its predecessor, the State Capitol, have been part of my home for 37 years. The state of Nevada's past has been directed by men and women who have served in the Nevada Assembly and the Senate: B. Mahlon Brown, Floyd Lamb, Jim Gibson, Austin Bowler, Carl Dodge, Mack Fry, Art Espinoza, Richard Bryan, Eileen Brookman, Flora Dungan, Snowy Monroe, Joe Vianni, Tim Hafen, Margie Foote, Lawrence Jacobsen, Woodrow Wilson, Mary Frazinni and, of course, the great Joe Dini. These are just a few names that came across my mind as I prepared these remarks. There are many others, Democrats and Republicans, who contributed to the public good by being good public servants. Each of you are so engaged and I congratulate you.

I believe that term limits for the State Legislature are bad. Gordon Smith, a United States Senator now from the state of Oregon, was president of the Oregon State Senate. He worked very hard to get term limits passed in the state of Oregon. I asked Gordon if I could use what he told me. He said, "Absolutely. I believe in it strongly." He said it was one of the biggest mistakes he ever made. He said, "Term limits dumb down the legislature." You folks should join together and change the Constitution and get rid of these term limits. You are the only ones that can do it and you should do it. You, as a Body, should join together, as I've said, to change this. The only term limit that is good is a vote of the people. This is totally different than term limits for the Executive Branch. They are two totally different concepts.

A few years ago I addressed this Body and used a child's backpack as a visual aid. It contained the classroom tools and technology of the future: it had a computer, a compact disk player, a cell phone, and other things. Understand, though, that the future is now. You, as legislators, have no more urgent duty than to provide the resources for each child in Nevada to grow into the adult he or she dreams to be. These are hopes every parent shares.

Congresswoman Shelley Berkley and I have been political allies for all of her adult life and most of mine. She is doing a fine job in my old Congressional seat. I also express admiration for Governor Guinn, a man who has set an example for public service. An accomplished educator and businessman, he entered public service somewhat later in life. He has done well. I especially congratulate him on his unyielding battle against the corporate and bureaucratic giants trying to bury nuclear waste in Nevada. I also appreciate his recognition of Nevada's financial woes and his courageous efforts to lessen Nevada's huge deficit.

Dean Heller is a model for a successful Secretary of State. He has gained national recognition for his insight and his dedication. When Congress passed election reform last year, he was one of a handful of Secretaries of State to confer often with Chairman Chris Dodd, the author of the legislation. You should also closely review his new legislative initiative to increase the ease and accessibility of voting for Nevadans. Turnout in our state is low, very low. Registration is difficult. For no good reason, a Nevada citizen is prevented for registering for an extended period prior to a primary or general election. Modern technology, as shown in many other states, prevents fraud and allows people to register when their attention to campaigns and interest in an election's outcome are the highest. Only you can change this and I hope you do.

The Gibbons family has made politics a family affair. Congressman Gibbons is a national leader, having been the lead sponsor in the House of the Homeland Security legislation. He is also on the forefront of our nation's intelligence gathering efforts, which are so important to what is going on today, situated as he is on the exclusive House Intelligence Committee. Dawn Gibbons is not only a good legislator but also a friend and adviser to both Landra and to me.

John Ensign and I had one of the closest elections in the history of the state of Nevada. In spite of that difficult campaign and the tension that ensued, we have developed the closest working relationship in the history of Nevada's United States Senate delegations. Senator Ensign has been a pleasure to work with.

Each of you is a role model, a model for public service and a model for good government. As I look out on this audience and review the roster of state legislators, I see how diverse we are as a state. This Legislature is composed of men and women, Jews, Catholics, Protestants, and Mormons, people from the north and south of our state. Rural Nevada is represented. Many different ethnic backgrounds are present, but no person in Nevada has better represented our diversity, our growth, and the value of educational excellence than Miss Nevada, Teresa Benitez.

Teresa, please stand. Teresa, you have done such a wonderful job representing the state of Nevada that your legacy will be here for a long time. Keep up the good work.

It is an honor to serve the people of the state of Nevada. I am truly a fortunate man, even blessed, to have had the opportunity to serve as a City Attorney, a County Board Chairman, an Assemblyman, Lieutenant Governor, Chairman of the Gaming Commission, a member of the House of Representatives, and now a United States Senator. Every day I go to work so excited about what I'm about to do, so honored to be able to serve the people of the state of Nevada in the United States Senate. I come home at night tired, but I'm so glad to have the option to do what I did earlier that day. I want each of you to know that this is a great experience, to return to the Legislature. I have so many fond memories about the things that I did here with some of you. I close by saying that we all as legislators can make the state a better place. Working together can be even better than what we can do alone. I look forward to working with you. Thank you very much for allowing me to speak to you today.

THE SEVENTEENTH DAY

CARSON CITY (Wednesday), February 19, 2003

Assembly called to order at 11:07 a.m.

Mr. Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Albert Tilstra.

Dear God, In the hush of this moment we pray that Your tender spirit may steal into our hearts and reveal to us how near and how dear You are. There are times when You are not real to us, and we know why. It is not because You have withdrawn from us, but because we have wandered away from You; not because you are not speaking, but because we are not listening; not because Your love for us has cooled, but because we have fallen in love with things instead of persons. O Lord, melt the coldness of our hearts that we may again fall in love with You who has loved us so much.

AMEN.

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Assemblyman Oceguera moved that further reading of the Journal be dispensed with, and the Speaker and Chief Clerk be authorized to make the necessary corrections and additions.

Motion carried.

United States Senator John Ensign delivered his message as follows:

MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE OF NEVADA
SEVENTY-SECOND SESSION, 2003

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Lieutenant Governor Hunt, Governor Guinn, Majority Leader Raggio, Secretary of State Heller, Attorney General Brian Sandoval, State Treasurer Brian Krolicki, Controller Kathy Augustine, Justices of the Supreme Court, fellow legislators, and fellow Nevadans. Thank you for allowing me to be with you tonight. I want to extend a warm welcome, especially to the freshman class of lawmakers. I know this is an exciting time and also an overwhelming time for you. Nevada has an esteemed history and has been blessed by the dedication of leaders such as Joe Dini and Jake Jacobsen, and, of course, the legendary Bill Raggio. There is a great deal to be learned from their decades of service, and I encourage each and every one of you to solicit their advice. In my first days in the U.S. Senate, I approached several senior senators for any insight they could give me. I was humbled by their experiences and eager to take their advice and then make my own mark on the United States Senate.

It's amazing to think that it was almost two years to this very day that I was last here in this Capital. Only two years ago, but on some levels it has been more like a lifetime in the history of our country.

Less than seven months after I spoke here in 2001, the United States was attacked. It is still unbelievable to think back to those horrific hours, days, and weeks that followed. It is clear today that the aftermath of those brutal strikes on America continues to resonate with us. The leadership in Washington is working to ensure the continued safety of our citizens from the wrath of lawless terrorists, something we will accomplish through the sacrifice, dedication, and courage of our armed forces, local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies. Less than one month after September 11, under the leadership of President Bush, the United States responded forcefully with remarkable precision and success. Our military proved its strength and power when, at a range of 7,000 miles, with only 426 men on the ground, we destroyed a regime of terror burrowed in a climate and a geography that had pummeled many forces before us. We didn't pick that fight on September 11, nor could we ignore it. To have ignored the reign of terror in Afghanistan would have given notice to Al Qaida and other terrorist organizations that our airplanes, financial centers, and military bases are fair play. They are not.

Now, another battle is likely brewing in Iraq. We didn't pick this fight either, but for the very same reasons, we cannot ignore it. More than ever, American resolve and leadership will be called upon. For more than ten years, Saddam Hussein has failed to comply with the United Nations' resolutions. Now, much of the world community has decided that Saddam Hussein just needs a little more time. I'm sure he agrees. After all, he just needs a little more time to finish building a nuclear weapon. When and if that happens, we've all run out of time.

It is never an easy decision to send our sons and daughters into war, but if we don't stop Saddam Hussein now, all of our children are at an unacceptable risk. From my seat on the Armed Services Committee and as Chairman of the Readiness Subcommittee, I will do everything I can to ensure that our military has what they need to get the job done. None of us wants war. War has tragic consequences, but in this case, with a madman determined to produce and use the most horrible weapons on the face of the earth against innocent Americans, inaction will have far more dire consequences.

As the issue of going to war or not going to war is raised across our country, I ask you to think about this. Several months ago, questions arose concerning what the government knew about potential terrorist activity and how soon before September 11 that intelligence was gathered. Hypothetically, if on August of 2001, the government, on some level, had a remote idea about what could occur, but no clear roadmap, do you think a preventive strike would have been an option? After all, we knew there were terrorist camps in Afghanistan. We knew they were funded by Osama Bin Laden, who is committed to the destruction of our nation. We knew there was an increase in terrorist communications. If we could have spared thousands of people from the infernos on those planes, the World Trade Center, and the Pentagon on that dreadful day, if we could have stopped the sorrow and mourning of hundreds of thousands of family members and friends, if we could have prevented widowed wives from giving birth to fatherless children, we would have acted with, or without, the United Nations' permission. We are in the same type of a situation now. Condoleezza Rice said, "We can't afford to wait for a smoking gun because that smoking gun could be a mushroom cloud."

We were a very different nation before September 11. We were more innocent and more naïve about what terrorists were truly capable of doing. Today we have another September 11 approaching. If we do not preemptively stop the regime in Iraq from building its arsenal of chemical, biological, and nuclear weapons there will be another September 11, make no mistake about it, with the potential to be far more devastating to far more people. Only this time there will be no excuses for our inaction.

Obviously, the conflict in Iraq is at the forefront of what is going on in Washington and across the world. But there are many other issues we are working hard on that have a direct impact on Nevada and I would like to share those with you. Last year, President Bush signed into law landmark education reform. Nevada students benefited to the tune of at least $75 million over the next five years. The No Child Left Behind Act increases flexibility in how states utilize education dollars, increases accountability by requiring annual testing in math and reading, and empowers parents to ensure that their children don't get stuck in failing schools. After hearing from educators in Nevada about the challenges and frustrations of a budget that can't possibly keep up with our rapid growth, I went back to Washington and fought to include a high-growth grant provision to ensure that a fast-growing state like Nevada would receive the funding that we deserve. The law now requires the federal government to annually count the number of students in Nevada as opposed to past practices, which cost our state millions of dollars. Over the course of the authorization of the No Child Left Behind Act, this means an additional $55 million for the state of Nevada in Title I funds alone, funds which go to assist the most disadvantaged students. None of us should be willing to accept the fact that half of our nation's students are not performing at proficient levels, a situation that shortchanges them in their quest for a quality future. All children have the right to a quality education, regardless of their race or socioeconomic level, and the No Child Left Behind Act is designed to help those children who are most at risk of failing. Is this difficult to implement? Absolutely. Are there challenges ahead for you? Yes. But there is adequate funding to implement the testing, let me assure you. But even if there isn't, it specifically says in the bill, this will not be an unfunded mandate. You don't have to do the testing if we don't provide the funds. We will provide the funds from Washington, D.C., to implement the No Child Left Behind Act.

I have been sending out staff from my office, across the state, to answer questions about this Act and I want to encourage you, if you see problems, I want to hear about them. I am on the Education Committee now, and, as you know, we never craft perfect legislation, and we want to fix the deficiencies in the Act. A perfect example happened the other day, though not regarding this Act. Some people were visiting from Nye County and were talking about after-school programs and the mandates the federal government has requiring a certain number of instructors per students. It makes sense in a classroom setting but in an after-school setting they are at the point where they can't take their high school age kids on field trips because they can't afford to have that many adults with the children. This is a simple fix that we can do in Washington, D. C., to take that mandate off. Those are the kinds of ideas that I want to hear about from you.

Another issue with which you all are very familiar is the challenge to protect patient access to quality health care. I commend you for the important first step you took last year to help stop the exodus of doctors. Unfortunately, Nevada is not the only state that is affected. Several other states are seeing physicians, hospitals, and other health care providers limit their services or leave the profession altogether. This year I will reintroduce the Health Act to strengthen patient access to care through common-sense reform across the United States. The Health Act has several key reforms, including a $250,000 cap on noneconomic damages. Such a cap is crucial to reduce health care costs for all of us. We know these are reasonable reforms because they work in California and Colorado.

An OB/GYN in Clark County paid as much as $141,760 for medical liability premiums in 2002. In Los Angeles, those same premiums were around $54,500; in Denver, those same premiums were just above $30,000. Both are in states that have had medical liability reform on their books for several years.

Stopping abusive lawsuits is critical to protecting those patients who deserve adequate compensation from injury, allowing doctors to provide care without fear of abusive lawsuits, and helping to reduce health care costs for every citizen. But medical liability reform is not enough. It is also essential that doctors enforce accountability within their own profession. State insurance commissions must vigorously protect consumers from price gouging from insurance companies. This is no longer a Republican versus Democrat issue, or even a doctor versus a lawyer issue; this is a patient's issue. We need to continue to provide patients everywhere the opportunity to receive affordable, accessible, and quality health care for years to come. A crisis in which couples feel forced to move away from Nevada to start a family is unacceptable. We must work together to solve this problem.

When it comes to providing quality health care, another important step is to make sure our senior citizens can afford the prescriptions that they need. We've all heard firsthand of the terrible hardships where seniors have to choose between paying rent and getting prescription drugs, or between taking a full dose of their medicine or maybe just half a dose on a daily basis. There is nothing healthy about these realities, nor is it healthy for society to stand by as our seniors struggle with these daily dilemmas. I'm working to make prescription drug coverage for Medicare seniors a reality. Once again, Nevada led the way. I compliment you, Governor, and the rest of you, for Senior Rx in Nevada.

It's time for the federal government to catch up to what you've done. This year I will be reintroducing legislation that would provide an overdue and much-needed prescription drug benefit to the Medicare program. It will offer a responsible solution to make medicine more affordable for those seniors who need it most. It will also provide immediate help to our nation's seniors in the form of a benefit that is voluntary, reliable, and gives seniors options. It will do so in a manner that complements, rather than replaces, the private prescription drug coverage that two-thirds of our retirees currently have today. Many seniors like their current prescription coverage and should not be forced to abandon them. I am working to ensure that any prescription drug benefit that Congress enacts fits well with what has been done on the state level. In addition, passage of a prescription drug benefit needs to be responsible not only to our senior citizens but also to the taxpayers. There are ways to implement such a program without bankrupting Medicare or the taxpayer.

Seniors are not the only ones struggling to stretch tight incomes in order to meet growing needs. Families in Nevada and across the United States face the challenge of paying their tax burden; providing food, clothing, and shelter for their children; and working even harder to have money left over so they can pay medical bills, enjoy a family vacation, save for education costs, or put money away for retirement. In an effort to allow families to keep more of their hard-earned money, President Bush has proposed an aggressive economic stimulus package that makes tax relief a priority.

I fully agree with the importance of tax relief to economic stimulation, and last week I introduced legislation in the Senate to end one of the most unfair taxes levied on American workers. Working Americans are forced to pay income tax on their Social Security taxes. This Social Security tax is textbook double taxation that robs working Americans. This means that when a family pays income tax, the portion that is withheld for Social Security—money that they don't see until retirement—is calculated into their personal income. When they retire, they get taxed on it. This is clear double taxation. With my legislation, 100 million would feel the savings to the tune of around $2,000 per family. Savings like that translates into real growth and opportunity. Scholars predict that our legislation would produce about a million jobs in the United States. This is a stimulus package that deserves to be enacted into law.

Here in Nevada, we know the importance of opportunity. Most people came to our great state for a better quality of life and opportunity. They deserve the best schools for their children, access to top-notch health care at all stages of life, and a chance to succeed. These are issues that we can work on together, for the benefit of all Nevadans. My door is always open to you, and I encourage you to keep me informed of what we can do in Washington, D.C., to be more effective here at home. Nevadans now have the benefit of five members of Congress in Washington, D.C., with the addition of Congressman Porter.

Interestingly, the Congressional Quarterly recently noted that no two Senators from the same delegation have more different voting records than Senator Reid and I have. Yet, the relationship that we share is really a model for a closely-divided Senate. But make no mistake about it, he's still a proud Democrat and I'm still a proud Republican. But when it comes to issues that most affect the state of Nevada, these issues are usually not partisan. That's where our relationship comes into play. Two great examples of our relationship were the killing of the ban on NCAA sports betting. And on the Clark County Lands Bill that was signed into law last year, we brought opposing groups together to create this legislation that will greatly improve the quality of life in southern Nevada for generations to come. The Clark County Lands Bill was based on model legislation that former Senator Dick Bryan and I put together called the Southern Nevada Public Lands Management Act. The success of that legislation continues to unfold as hundreds of millions of dollars have been raised to acquire environmentally sensitive land, build parks and trails, and make improvements in our recreation and conservation areas. This legislation has already improved the quality of life in this state and will continue to do so.

Quality-of-life issues including education, health care, and taxes will be the focus of debate in this state capital and in our nation's capital over the next several months. We must remember what a privilege it is to have the right to debate these issues; for our constituents to have the ability to share their opinions with us; and for the media to freely report that debate, though some of us don't like that sometimes. This legislative Body and the freedoms which we have must be cherished. They are the very reasons that despots around the world hate us. As these debates and others develop, we must remember the responsibility we must uphold as leaders of a democratic nation.

I thank you, tonight, for your service and commitment to the state of Nevada. I ask you to join me in praying for our men and women in uniform. I ask you to join me in praying for our President. I ask you to join me in praying for peace. We don't want to go to war, so I ask you to join me in that. Now I bid you adieu. Thank you for allowing me to share a few words with you tonight. God bless you and God bless the United States of America. Thank you.

MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE OF NEVADA
SEVENTY-SECOND SESSION, 2003

Thank you, Mr. Speaker, Governor and Mrs. Guinn, Lieutenant Governor Hunt, Leaders Raggio and Titus, Leaders Buckley and Hettrick, members of the Legislature, distinguished guests, and fellow Nevadans. Thank you for your kind reception. It is such an honor to be standing here in the well of this House talking to you this evening. Thank you for inviting me back to the Legislature as you conduct a very important work on behalf of the citizens of Nevada.

To begin with this evening, I would like to share with you a simple story of Edgar Watson Howe. You probably have never heard of Edgar Watson Howe, the sage of Potato Hill, but around the turn of the last century he was a well-known homespun newspaper editor in Atchison, Kansas, and a champion of the common people. Howe put his faith in the governed, rather than in the system. He once wrote, "The government is mainly an expensive organization to regulate evildoers and tax those who behave; government does little for fairly respectable people, except annoy them." My friends, the more things change the more they stay the same. We all know how important the challenges are, and how difficult the decisions will necessarily be in the months ahead. Tonight it is a pleasure for me to provide my insights on matters affecting us here at home, throughout the country, and the world abroad. But, I certainly did not come here to annoy you.

Since my last visit here two years ago, the world has changed dramatically. Thousands of people have lost their lives; whole communities have been shattered due to terrorism in this country. And now, ladies and gentlemen, we are a nation at war, fighting enemies spread all across the globe, enemies who hide out in small groups of five or six people, in countries of millions, including our own backyard. This was not our desire for the future, but the choice was not ours, the choice was theirs. Our enemies seek to undermine freedom and basic human rights. They continue to disregard the rule of international law and they continue to threaten America and our allies. Here at home, we strive to protect our borders, our infrastructure, and our citizens, while at the same time, we continue to face the economic aftershocks of September 11, 2001, and the terrorists' attacks on our country.

We all know that Nevada's economy was hit particularly hard. Our tourism-based economy, which is largely measured by occupied hotel rooms, sold-out shows, filled convention halls, and crowded casino floors, has yet to see a full recovery, but, these are indeed historic times; times when we are struggling to keep the American dream alive. I know when I was younger the American dream meant owning your own home and having little babies running around the halls, but when they became teenagers, I changed my American dream. Oh, it is still owning my own home, but it's getting those little babies out of that home and on to their own.

As the saying goes, home is where the heart is, and I would like to begin with where my heart is: right here in Nevada, with my family sitting here, especially my first grandchild, Grant Gibbons. Grant's first birthday was just a few days ago. I am also proud to be here with so many friends, and, yes, while we may sometimes differ politically, we all love Nevada. The state of Nevada faces many challenges, but we are not alone. States all across this nation are confronting revenue shortfalls, forcing you, the stewards of the precious tax dollars, into making very difficult decisions. Yet, that is why many of you chose to run for office, to make the tough decisions. I know I did. And now you, my friends, have been entrusted by your respective constituencies to do just that.

Signs of economic recovery in Nevada, and throughout the nation, are steady but precarious and frustratingly slow. The slightest push in the wrong direction will destabilize our economic recovery. Nevada is fortunate to have one of its own on the front lines, developing strategies to help our state's economy. This year, Lynn Hettrick will become the National Chairman of the Council of State Governments. Congratulations, Lynn. In this capacity, Lynn will not only develop ideas to improve Nevada's economy, but he will seek goals in developing a better relationship between state and federal governments.

We all understand that the first step to economic recovery is restoring consumer confidence. In our economy, every able-bodied American must be confident that they will have a job today, a paycheck on Friday, with enough money to pay the bills at the end of the month, and in the end, they must be confident that they will have a secure retirement. This is by no means an easy task, but it must be one of our principal goals. I believe accomplishing this goal will restore and renew that peace of mind so that many Americans will once again take to the highways and skies, and come to visit Nevada and enjoy our great attractions, even if just to visit their investment in this state.

Indeed, lessons are being learned from our recent budget shortfall. We all realize that Nevada can no longer rely solely on its two largest economic industries, gaming and mining, just to pay the bills. While one industry, gaming, spreads like wildfire across the country, now legal in almost every state, the other is under constant attack by well-funded, special interest groups who seek either to obstruct, regulate, or sue them out of business. The thoughtful minds of Lorraine Hunt, Bill Raggio, Richard Perkins, Bernice Martin Mathews, David Goldwater, and many others, all continue to lead our State in the effort of diversification, and they clearly deserve our praise for helping diversify our economy.

My friends, there is a legitimate concern from our fellow Nevadans that tax policy, whether it originates in Washington, D.C., or here in Carson City, is often being formulated under the wrong set of priorities. In Washington, we are presently considering tax relief measures that will help speed up our economic recovery. As Sir Winston Churchill once said at a time when England was also suffering from some of the same conditions that we are in the United States, "A nation trying to lift itself into prosperity by raising taxes is like a man standing in a bucket trying to lift himself up by the handle." We could actually use some of that Nevada-born common sense in fighting for tax and spending discipline in our nation's capital. I want to tell you that Monday my plane leaves for Washington, D.C., and, Senator O'Connell, I'll save you a seat.

We are presently developing tax relief proposals in Washington, under the leadership of President Bush, that will speed up our economic recovery, and most importantly, put Americans back to work. Though some would like you to believe otherwise, our plan helps all federal taxpayers in every income bracket, including the low- and middle-income taxpayers. For example, a typical middle-income family of four, with a combined income of $40,000, will have their federal income tax lowered from approximately $1,200 per year to $45 per year, under this plan. Ladies and gentlemen, for those of you that survived math in elementary school, that is a 96 percent decrease in their federal income tax obligation. That is real tax savings for low- and middle-income families in this country. And to be fair, those in the highest earning income will eventually be paying a larger share of the tax revenues. Most importantly, our plan will relieve a record 39 million taxpaying working Americans from ever having to pay taxes again. The lowest income bracket categories will be eliminated from having to pay federal income tax. We accomplish this by speeding up the marginal rate cuts so that they take place this fiscal year, rather than waiting for them to be phased in between 2004 and 2010. Our plan accelerates the per-child tax credit immediately; it completely eliminates the marriage tax penalty; and finally condemns to the grave, once and for all, the onerous and unfair death tax. But most importantly, in my opinion, we must make these tax cuts permanent. No matter the timing, it is already public law that these tax cuts are in place and these tax cuts will take place over the next eight years even if we do nothing. When the Congress passed these cuts under the President's leadership just two years ago it received overwhelming bipartisan support. Many of us remain hopeful that legislation making these cuts permanent will receive the same level of support. What happens if we fail? If we fail to make these cuts permanent, we end up right back where we were two years ago with American working families paying historically high taxes. Think of it this way, if Congress fails to make these tax cuts permanent, mark your calendars, Americans will automatically, and without choice, experience the largest tax increase in our nation's history on January 1, 2011.

I often hear people ask, "How does this help restore consumer confidence?" Some have and will continue to argue that cutting taxes and choking off the revenue stream to government is causing some serious discomfort within the halls of government and, indeed, in the halls of Congress. But if our economy is causing discomfort, isn't our duty to look first, and foremost, at the discomfort of the taxpayer and not the discomfort of government? No citizen of this state, or in any state for that matter, should fall for what has been presented as a false choice. The debate is not about having to pass massive tax increases so that we can preserve the helping hand of the federal government. As a matter of fact, many would argue that you strengthen our national government by making it more efficient, and therefore, more focused and effective in its mission. Quite simply, you cannot demand the taxpayers to discipline themselves during tough times if the same has not already been completely and thoroughly demanded of government. We are fortunate that in our government we have thousands of men and women who are working hard to carry out important, and oftentimes necessary, government programs. But now more than ever, we must carefully determine where we draw the line between balancing a government program's checkbook against the taxpayer's checkbook. As families all across Nevada realize, you base your spending on how much you earn; you don't base your earnings on how much you want to spend. The hurdle presented by the Tax Restraint Initiative was motivated by these very principles and it will, once again, play a role in this historic session of your Legislature. These are tough decisions, but you are the right people, at the right time, serving this state, and ultimately, you will do what is best for Nevada's citizens.

Another lesson Nevadans have learned is that economic security cannot be achieved without first ensuring personal security. On October 4, 2001, less than one month after the horrific terrorist attacks on our country, I introduced legislation in the House of Representatives to establish a Department on Homeland Security. This legislation set out to merge the functions of 100 different federal agencies having overlapping jurisdiction and responsibility for some portion of homeland security. I felt this was necessary to ensure that our government is better able to protect its citizens and to protect you in Nevada as well. Not long after that legislation was introduced, I had the honor and privilege to meet with the President at the White House as he unveiled his support for this legislation, creating this new department. Through a series of tough negotiations and the usual turf battles between legislatures and administrations, between committee chairmen and heads of federal agencies, we did what was needed and right for the American people. On November 25 of last year, the President signed into law the creation of the Department of Homeland Security. This set into motion the largest reorganization of our federal government since World War II, over years ago. Now, our task and challenge is to make it work.

It was an honor for me to have Nevada's Homeland Security Chief, Jerry Bussell, with me at the White House signing ceremony and I'm glad he has joined us here this evening. As Jerry knows, in any true challenge in life, the work isn't easy, but the rewards are always beyond measure. Thank you, Jerry, for the important work you do in protecting Nevada citizens, as well as protecting those who like to pay us a visit from time to time. The work that Jerry and thousands of other Americans tend to each day, on the front lines of homeland defense, is critical to our personal well-being, and it is critical to our economic well-being. The attacks of September 11 introduced global terrorism right onto America's front doorstep. For the first time in decades, Americans now truly understand the importance of foreign policy. The light-heartedness of the '90s has been replaced by a new seriousness about our future in the twenty-first century. That is why we continue day after day, week after week, to hunt down terrorists, both here at home and abroad. I was glad to see that just yesterday we indicted eight more terrorists, including a college professor in southern Florida. Our war on terrorism is an effort that will likely outlive most of us in this room.

One year ago, I became the proud grandparent of a beautiful baby boy. Now, I'll tell you, if that doesn't make you want to strengthen Social Security, nothing will. But it makes me want to support even more those who serve and protect our country and our future. In doing so, my grandson, Grant, and your children and grandchildren, can look back on our effort—yours and mine—and take pride that we rose to the occasion just as our parents and grandparents did in World War II.

On September 11, 2001, terrorists attacked our country. It was one of the darkest days in our history. We must be prepared to say, "never again"; never again to the darkness of terrorism, and do it with a focus and determination. We will continue to disrupt these terrorists; we will continue to frustrate them; we will continue to apprehend them, one by one. We will bring swift and certain justice to each and every one of them.

While we continue the effort to better protect our homeland, we face brutal dictators and regimes abroad. But we do not have to go back far in the history of this country to see the history of our efforts in this area. Those of us old enough to remember 1964 and the Cuban Missile Crisis know President Kennedy saw a threat, an imminent threat, with the missiles in Cuba. He began to mobilize a war effort. In 1998, President Clinton used military forces and set out to dislodge the brutal dictator, Slobodan Milosevic. He did that to ensure regional peace and national security. Make no mistake about it, ladies and gentleman, there are other rogue regimes such as those of Saddam Hussein and North Korea's Kim Jung Il, who pose an immediate threat to our national security. Many ask whether the threats posed by these rogue regimes are real. Oftentimes I hear the question, "Are they imminent?" I'm not sure if imminent isn't a French word. Ladies and gentleman, it is a valid concern, and it is a debate that we should welcome whenever we put our troops in harm's way. But to address this concern, ask yourself the following question: If you were in a room and through the door walked a known criminal with a known, violent record of murder and mayhem, who was armed with a gun, would you consider it an imminent threat when the bullet was halfway between the gun and you? Of course not. We know how to handle violent thugs here at home. Sadly, this process is carried out, each and every day, on the streets of America. When our law enforcement learns of a violent criminal who has just acquired illegal weapons, they don't sit around and wait to see if the criminal will use the weapon. They go get him. Thank goodness for their bravery. Thank goodness for their service to our communities as well.

Ladies and gentlemen, complacency is deadly when it comes to national security. If we do not face the world's dangers head-on, if we do not proactively use American power to promote our values and make the world a more just place, the enemies of freedom will prevail. And that is something I cannot and I'm not willing to ever accept. Folks, if we wait until the bullet has been fired, if we wait for Saddam to attack our friends and our allies with chemical, biological, or nuclear weapons, if we wait for him to sell his weapons to terrorists so that they, as agents of Saddam, can deliver them right here to the United States—it is too late. By that time, what is imminent is no longer up for debate. It is no longer up for interpretation. By that time, it is no longer a threat, it is an attack and many more Americans will lose their lives. I cannot accept that, and I hope that neither can you. We've been deliberate. We've been patient in addressing this threat, and we have exhausted all reasonable diplomatic options.

The citizens of this country and the United Nations have understood for some time that it has been, and it will be, up to Saddam to voluntarily disclose his weapons and actively disarm them. It is not up to the United States to play hide-and-seek with Saddam Hussein. It has also been understood and agreed to by the United Nations in Resolution No. 1441 that if he continued to defy and deceive the world, we would lead a coalition to disarm him. I ask you: What, therefore, is the purpose that we achieve by asking, time and time again, for continued passage of resolutions asking for the same thing? It is similar to the judgments made right here in this very Chamber, in this building or in the Halls of Congress. As legislators, we would not be writing new laws each time we passed one, only to find that no one is enforcing it. We would want to make sure that agencies are doing what we have asked them to do the first time. In order for the UN to remain relevant in this world, it must enforce already passed resolutions rather than calling for new ones each time their resolutions are not adhered to.

As a veteran, as a father, and as a grandfather, I strongly believe that going to war should always, always be the last resort. But just as we found out in 1964, just as we found out in 1998, when freedom, safety, and stability are at risk, sometimes we just have to fight. Yes, this war, if it does occur, will be costly. You can expect the price of gasoline to go up again. Yes, it will be costly in terms of human lives. That is the sad tragedy of any war. We've already lost thousands of American lives. We found out long ago that freedom isn't free, but we must never sink back into the illusion that if we do nothing, we will be safe and free.

In the months ahead, we must not only rally around our troops to ensure that they have the proper support from our government and citizens, but we must also keep in mind those they have left behind. Americans rarely wane in their support for their military men and women as they sacrifice for our country, but too often, we forget about the sacrifices of their families. Nevadans have played a vital role in almost every significant military operation our nation has undertaken. There are soldiers, sailors, and airmen from all over the state: from Naval Air Station Fallon, Nellis Air Force Base, our National Guard and Reserve men and women. Their families, right now, are making this sacrifice, not for themselves, but for you and for me and for Grant Gibbons, whom they do not even know—for all America.

Ladies and gentlemen, it is my honor here tonight to introduce to you and to the state, three great Nevadans who are serving our nation and helping lead us out of the darkness of terrorism. First is Captain Andra Kneip. Andra, would you please stand. As anyone can see, she's not a guy and she flies fighters. Andra, who is an A-10 pilot, on the night of March 5 spent an exhausting eight hours flying in enemy territory fighting entrenched Afghan gun emplacements which were shooting at her, as well as defending U.S. ground forces that were pinned down by Al Qaida enemy fire. Throughout this long and dangerous mission, Captain Kneip was credited with saving the lives of numerous U.S. forces. She was recently awarded two Distinguished Flying Crosses for her selfless acts of courage. Andra's husband, Major Scott Kneip, is also an A-10 pilot and was active in the war in Afghanistan. By the way, he is a native of Winnemucca, Nevada. Both are exemplary Nevadans serving at Nellis Air Force Base. They both deserve our thanks, and we do thank you for everything you've done for our country.

Also with us tonight, I have the honor to introduce another brave young man who has just been awarded one of our nation's highest awards, the Silver Star, for gallantry in action in Afghanistan. This young man was a helicopter pilot on a medical evacuation mission when Operation Anaconda began. While en route to his destination, he learned that three soldiers were pinned down and suffering a withering barrage of heavy fire from the enemy. He diverted his helicopter to the battle area, he located the three soldiers, and only by jeopardizing his own life was he able to rescue these three soldiers while under heavy fire. Not only did he save these three soldiers so they could come home to their families after the operation was finished, but he made a difference in the battle for freedom. Ladies and gentlemen, please help me welcome First Lieutenant Thomas J. Cahill, United States Air Force, and his two sons who are with him. He is another American hero from Las Vegas and Nellis Air Force Base. Lieutenant Cahill, please stand. Ladies and gentleman, these are just three of America's finest. I want to thank them for taking the time to come here this evening to be with us; most importantly, for showing all of us how to stand up to terrorists.

There are many other issues, besides national security, demanding our attention. Nevada is faced with one of the worst nursing shortages in the entire nation. While the average age of registered nurses in Nevada continues to rise, we attract fewer and fewer bright men and women into this important field. I want to congratulate Assemblywoman Koivisto, who has made this issue a priority for her committee. Madam Chairman, thank you for leading the charge in this effort. You're truly making a difference in the fight for quality health care for all Nevadans.

Nevada is continuing its fight for fair and open public land policies, especially those affecting our natural resources and energy development needs. Last year, we established a model for cooperation in the Clark County Public Lands Bill. With the outstanding help of Senator Harry Reid and Senator John Ensign, this legislation provided for the sound and equitable disposal of developable lands to accommodate Nevada's tremendous growth, while setting aside more than 450,000 acres of land for wilderness protection. We worked with land users, we worked with recreational users, and we worked with environmental groups to accomplish two basic goals: provide land for responsible growth and protect the environment for future generations. In the end, we compromised where we could, we dug in our heels where we couldn't, and eventually we reached a delicate balance in accomplishing our goals. It was the right approach, at the right time, and it was the right thing to do.

You know, in Washington, D.C., I am always telling people how much I love Nevada. Most importantly, I always love when Nevadans come out to Washington and stop by my office for a visit. But there is one group that I especially like to see. They come in wearing their boots and their cowboy hats, and occasionally even attempt at a tie. This group really makes heads turn as they walk through the halls of Congress. They head down the corridor of the Cannon House Office Building, with people stopping and staring as if believing the gunfight at the OK Corral is about to break out. I can hear my neighbors down the hall, from Florida, New Hampshire, and from Massachusetts saying, "Oh no, Gibbons has his posse in town." I just tell them, "Yes, I do. And I'm darned proud of each and every one of them." I am talking about those Nevadans who spend each and every day of their lives fighting to protect our Western Heritage, our traditions and our industries such as farming, ranching, mining, hunting, and recreational opportunities. I'm talking about those people, of course, in this very room, like Dean Rhoads, Mike McGinness, Pete Goicoechea, John Carpenter, John Marvel, Tom Collins, and Jerry Claborn, just to name a few. I'll tell you, when they get together, they're a sight to be seen. To each of you, thanks for all of your hard work in preserving the Nevada we all know and love.

And finally, it wouldn't be appropriate for me to talk about our state's priorities without talking about our commitment to Nevada's veterans population. There are many veterans right here in this room tonight who do not get the recognition for their service to our nation. People like Assemblyman Walter Andonov, who has made the great sacrifices for our country. However, too many times, we fail to thank them for their sacrifices and their service. So tonight, ladies and gentleman, before I end my remarks, I want to read into the record a letter from the Chief of Naval Operations thanking one special veteran. And that person is someone we have all worked with and learned to love and appreciate over his 40 years of legislative service to our country and to our state. I would like to read into the record, Mr. Speaker, a letter from the Chief of Naval Operations:

> Dear Senator Jacobsen,
> Please allow me to add my congratulations on this historic day for the Jacobsen family and the state of Nevada. On behalf of all the men and women of the United States Navy, I'm very proud and honored to be able to convey our gratitude for your selfless service to our nation in so many different capacities.
> Your voluntary enlistment in the Navy began more than two years before the onslaught of World War II. Serving in the Pacific Fleet, you witnessed not only the attack on Pearl Harbor, but the battles of Midway, Coral Sea, Guadalcanal, and a dozen other historic engagements now commonly recognized as some of the fiercest naval battles in world history. You made a commitment to our country that has been unwavering throughout the decades, collecting more Navy memories and adventures in your nearly seven years of active duty than most sailors accumulate in a full thirty-year career. You shifted your sights to the private sector and ultimately heeded the call to public office.
> As distinguished as your time in the Navy may have been, your commitment to Nevada and its citizens support of you has been reinforced throughout forty years of legendary service. Our sailors work hard to honor the legacy of those who have served and sacrificed before them. As they pledge to support and defend our Constitution, they do so knowing you have sailed and fought before them. And thank you for it.
> Sincerely,
> Admiral Vernon Clark, U.S.N.
> Chief of Naval Operations

Jake, I want you to know I have the original of this copy framed and I will get it to you as soon as I can. Jake, you have been a bright, shining beacon for a lot of us here tonight, and I, for one, want to publicly thank you for all you have done for Nevada.

And as I leave here tonight, ladies and gentleman, to return to the eye of the storm in Washington, D.C., to represent you and fight for Nevada, I want to thank you for inviting me to speak with you this evening. As I turn and close the pages of this speech, I want you to know my thoughts are with you because I know your challenges are great and that there are no easy answers and there is no easy path. I know you will do what is right for Nevada. You are all good friends and Nevada is truly blessed to have your leadership and your service. Nevada is in good hands. Good luck to each and every one of you. God bless this great country. Good evening.

MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE OF NEVADA
SEVENTY-SECOND SESSION, 2003

Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Speaker, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, Attorney General Sandoval, Controller Augustine, Treasurer Krolicki, Chief Secretary of State Parker, my colleagues at the Supreme Court of Nevada, colleagues, the judges present here tonight from all levels of the courts of Nevada, invited guests and friends, good afternoon. My name is Deborah Agosti. I am here today on behalf of the Supreme Court of Nevada. Just a few short weeks ago I assumed the duties of Chief Justice and so it is my privilege and my responsibility to speak to you today about the state of Nevada's judiciary. I particularly want to thank you for permitting me this opportunity to inform you of some of the major substantive developments within the Judicial Branch of government in Nevada.

I would like to introduce my colleagues who are here with me today: Justice Robert Rose, Justice Bill Maupin, Justice Myron E. Leavitt, Justice Nancy Becker, and our most recently invested colleague, Justice Mark Gibbons. Also present is the President of the Nevada Judges Association (NJA), Judge Dan Ward, Justice of the Peace in New River Township, Fallon. The NJA's membership includes Nevada's justices of the peace and municipal court judges, and he is here tonight representing that organization. Judge Jim Hardesty, vice president of the Nevada District Judges Association, is standing in for President Dan Papez, who lives in Ely and was unable to be here. There are many judges here today from all levels of the courts in Nevada. They are eager to meet with you, the legislators, at the reception following my remarks, to tell you about challenges for them today and the solutions they are attempting. Would the judges please stand.

I've invited a number of guests to be here because of their close association with the courts of Nevada and their contributions to the strength of the judiciary. I would like to introduce the President of the State Bar of Nevada, Gloria Sturman, and Allen Kimbrough, the Executive Director of the State Bar. The bench and the bar have enjoyed an excellent working relationship as we've addressed matters of mutual concern. I would like to introduce the Dean of the Boyd School of Law at UNLV, Richard Morgan. Please join me in congratulating Dean Morgan for accomplishing so much at Boyd Law School in such record-breaking time. We learned just several days ago that the school has been awarded full accreditation by the American Bar Association. That is a credit not only to Dean Morgan, his students, and his faculty, but also to you, the Legislature, and the many interested and involved individuals across the state, which made the school possible. I also want to introduce to you the President of the National Judicial College, William Dressel. The college, which is situated in Reno, as you know, plays a fundamental role in providing education to all levels of the state court trial judges in the country. The Nevada judiciary has been particularly blessed by its close association with the College and has benefited from the many educational opportunities it presents. This is a special year for the National Judicial College, which is celebrating 40 years of service to judges and to justice. Next, I would like to introduce to you two people who haven't directly contributed anything, not one tin nickel, to the judicial system in Nevada, but they make my day every day. These are two of the finest young men I've ever met, my sons, Anthony and Austen Walsh.

I also wish to acknowledge the presence of our State Court Administrator, Ron Titus, and our Clerk of the Supreme Court, Janette Bloom. Mr. Titus and Ms. Bloom are joined tonight by several members of their very capable staffs. Rather than introduce all the Court's personnel to you now, I would instead remind you of the Supreme Court's invitation for all of you to join us after the conclusion of my remarks for a reception at the Supreme Court Building next door. It's a short walk, neighbors! I hope you will have the opportunity there to visit informally with me, the justices, the many judges from across the state that are here this evening, the staff of the Court, and the staff of the Administrative Office of the Courts. Finally, I want to acknowledge and thank my judicial assistant, Jeannette Miller, for all her hard work in connection with this address.

I want to just very briefly tell you a little bit about myself because I realize that for many of you, I am a new face. I have just begun my twenty-first year as a judge, and people have long since stopped calling me "that young lady on the Bench." I served for 2 years as a justice of the peace in Reno Township and for 14 years as a judge in the 2nd Judicial Court in Washoe County. I am in my fifth year of service as a member of the Supreme Court.

We expect much when we speak of justice and the judicial system. We want fairness, equal treatment under the law for all, accessibility regardless of wealth, opportunity to be heard, swift determinations, harmony, and happy endings. Yet when we speak of justice and the judicial system in America, we hear the words overcrowded, unresponsive, expensive, slow, cumbersome, and inaccessible. Albert Einstein described a fundamental law of physics that applies to modern institutions as well. He said, "Nothing happens until something moves." I am proud to tell you that the Nevada courts are on the move.

In preparation for my report to you today concerning the state of the judiciary, I corresponded with judges at every level: the district court, the justices court, the municipal court; and I asked the representatives of these courts to describe for me, so I could describe for you, some of the more substantial developments that have taken place in the two years that have passed since the last time this address was delivered. The responses I received were so overwhelming that it is literally not possible for me to tell you about all or even a good portion of the programs, experiments, services, projects, and innovations taking place in the courts across Nevada. I have assembled a binder, which contains the many letters I received from the courts. The binder will be at the reception and I invite you to peruse it there. This binder documents a phenomenon that has taken place in the judiciary in Nevada. That is the very real change that has taken place in the way judges think about justice and in the way they view their mission to the communities they serve. That change in thinking is now reflected in the way the courts of this state do business.

From my vantage point, observing the courts on a daily basis from within for over 20 years, I believe the changes in approach and performance by the courts represent a very real and substantive shift in the way we dispense justice in this state. We are witnessing the coming of age within the courts of a new approach which is an active management style with respect to cases; a proactive address of societal problems like poverty, drug and alcohol abuse, domestic violence; a problem-solving philosophy, and community-oriented in nature. No longer is the judicial role limited to dispute resolution through the traditional adversarial mechanism of trial. Our judges no longer perceive their function as solely and slowly to decide the cases that come to them. The courts are now addressing broader societal problems in a systematic way and attempting to improve the delivery of justice and to do their part in partnership with other entities to improve their communities and the delivery of justice. I am so proud to be here today representing a vital, proactive, socially responsive, problem-solving judiciary, and conscientious men and women who have dedicated themselves and given of themselves for the cause of the improvement of the quality of justice in Nevada. We observe this phenomenon of physics and institutions as described by Einstein, this movement that creates and foments change in specific, identifiable areas of law. And again, I will describe some of the highlights, but there is no way I can talk about all the work of all the courts in the time I have.

First, in the area of families and children: This year we celebrate the tenth anniversary of creation of the family court as a specialty area within the district court. It isn't just about hearing divorce cases anymore. Both the 2nd Judicial District, Washoe County, and the 8th Judicial District, Clark County, offer self-help centers where self-represented individuals, primarily indigent persons, can obtain information and reliable forms to assist them in preparing themselves for court in such matters as divorce, custody, visitation, support, and domestic violence cases. If you can, I encourage you to visit the Clark County's Self-Help Center. It is a beehive of constant activity, and it hums. Washoe County has acquired some grant funds and used the funds to hire for its Self-Help Center a part-time Spanish-speaking paralegal to assist Spanish-speaking victims of domestic violence. Also, under the domain of the family court jurisdiction are guardianship proceedings. These can be very difficult cases, where the court wants to protect the ward's person and property, but may have no way to independently assess whether a guardian's actions are truly in the ward's best interests. Washoe County, this past year, began the Special Advocates for Elders (SAFE) Program, which is the first of its kind in the nation. The SAFE Program functions much like the Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) Program does in the area of children. SAFE trains and assigns volunteers to assist elderly wards in guardianship cases and to provide the court with valuable information to help guide the court to humane and appropriate decisions affecting the lives of our elderly, who, as the result of infirmity, can no longer make these decisions for themselves.

Both of our state's large urban courts have instituted specialty drug courts within the juvenile and family court systems. In Clark County, the ribbon was cut in 2002, opening Donna's House, a supervised visitation center and a supervised safe exchange point for parents in conflict. Once again, grant money was sought out to bring about this badly needed pilot program. Donna's House, by the way, was named for a woman who had worked in the Clerk's Office in Clark County. Her daughter witnessed Donna's violent death, which was the result of domestic violence. We hope Donna's House will prevent repetition elsewhere in Clark County of that tragedy. Mediation is encouraged and supported in the family courts, and, indeed, in every district court that hears family matters in Nevada. Clark County's Family Mediation Center provided mediation services to well over 3,000 families in the last two years. In 2002, 88 percent of the families there successfully mediated their child custody issues. The savings are not just in the time the courts might have spent hearing otherwise contested matters, but in the lives of the children whose parents are learning to resolve their differences in positive, meaningful, and nonadversarial ways.

In the 6th Judicial District, which encompasses Humboldt, Lander, and Pershing Counties, and in the 7th Judicial District, which encompasses White Pine, Eureka, and Lincoln Counties, the courts have focused attention on the prevention of juvenile delinquency. In the 7th, the Juvenile Diversion Program was launched in 2002 in partnership with Ely State Prison. The program teaches children about choices through a tightly controlled visitation experience at the state prison. And unlike the controversial and ultimately unsuccessful Scared Straight programs of the past, this program is positive in nature, emphasizing responsible decision-making.

In the 6th Judicial District, the court has partnered in Lovelock and Winnemucca with the boards of county commissioners there and the school districts there to actually purchase or build and staff alternative education schools for at-risk youths. And negotiations are underway to do the same in Battle Mountain. Once again, the 6th Judicial District has searched out grant money to bring these changes to these rural communities. In the 4th Judicial District, which encompasses Elko County, teen court has been operating very successfully for several years under that court's direction. Elko County's court has also instituted the Divided Family Workshop, at a modest cost to the participants, which again stresses to parents who are in dispute over custody and visitation issues, the importance of working together, despite their personal differences. A mental health professional facilitates the workshop and helps the participants to learn communication skills and cooperation strategies.

In the area of criminal law, the courts have forged ahead with highly successful specialty therapeutic court programs. I would like to introduce Judges Archie Blake from the 3rd Judicial District, which includes Lyon and Churchill Counties, and Peter I. Breen of the 2nd Judicial District, which is Washoe County. Judge Breen is the longest sitting district judge in the state of Nevada, having taken the bench in January of 1974. I was privileged to work with him for 14 years in Washoe, and I can personally attest that he is the moving force behind Washoe County's highly successful Drug Court and Mental Health Court. Judge Blake, a 15-year veteran of the district court bench, presides over one of the most important innovative programs in our judicial system, a Regional Drug Court. This very unique Drug Court was created by the rural judges to address drug-driven criminal activities in their jurisdictions while also solving the chronic rural problem of scarce resources by sharing resources among the 1st, 3rd, and 9th Judicial Districts, the 1st being Carson City and Storey County and the 9th being Douglas County. Again, the 3rd is Lyon and Churchill Counties. With grant money and with funds authorized by the Legislature and the cooperative efforts of the district attorneys, law enforcement, public defenders, and local governmental bodies, offenders are treated in the Western Regional Drug Court at an extraordinarily successful rate. Since September of 2001, 140 offenders have entered the program and only 12 percent have washed out.

In civil law, the courts have searched, studied, experimented, and found better ways to actively and successfully manage the growing caseloads and the increasingly complex cases. Time doesn't permit me to provide the kind of detail their efforts truly deserve, but I do wish to highlight two significant innovations in Clark County. The first is a new tool to permit parties with cases that are not of substantial monetary value to access the court in a speedy and less expensive way than through the traditional trial process. Called the Short Trial Program, it uses four-person juries and accelerates the actual trial presentation process with the goal of concluding the case in one day. Uncomplicated cases of modest monetary value are heard by attorneys who preside as pro-tem judges, thereby freeing up valuable time for the district court. The potential for the Short Trial Program is enormous: in 2002, 47 cases were resolved through trial or settlement in this very new program.

The second innovation, one you can actually touch, walk into and observe, is the Complex Litigation Center, space leased in Clark County and converted for use in extremely complicated multiple party cases, primarily the construction defect cases. This courtroom accommodates up to 50 counsels, along with their clients, and has a public seating gallery of 100. It is done inexpensively. The chairs for the lawyers and the public and counsel tables are all collapsible and movable for maximum flexibility and functionality. If the size of the case is larger, bring in more chairs and more tables. If smaller, move them out. It is wired for visual aids, computer access, PowerPoint, slides, and the like. When I visited the Center with Justice Gibbons, I had the opportunity to watch Judge Alan Earl, an incredibly hardworking and competent judge in Clark County, conduct a construction defect case. We didn't mean to interrupt the proceedings, but to my embarrassment, Judge Earl halted the proceedings and introduced Justice Gibbons and me to the jury and the litigants and the attorneys. The jurors actually expressed to us their satisfaction with the facility.

A combination of programs and policies in Washoe County, including its no-bump—no continuance for little reason—policy of civil cases set for trial, pretrial conferencing of every case within 60 days of its being filed, comprehensive case settlement mediated by a sitting judge, and the institution of Business Court has resulted in significant delay reduction and enhanced case disposition there despite a 23 plus percentage increase last year in case filings.

All the district courts and significant numbers of the justices and municipal courts are using technology to increase their efficiency. The 8th, Clark County, has very recently implemented an impressive e-filing system for complex litigation cases. Several courts at all levels and the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC), on behalf of the rural courts, have adopted software known as Court View, which will permit them to communicate electronically with less possibility of error and increase standardization, which is always desirable.

The Sparks Justice Court, in a pilot program, is the first court in the state to actually receive traffic citations from the Washoe County Sheriff's Department, electronically. The deputies use hand-held computers to issue the citations; the citations are downloaded to the sheriff's main computer. From there, clerks at Sparks Justice Court retrieve and print all the citations meant for their court. By passing citations electronically, data entry by court clerks is virtually eliminated, in turn eliminating delay and waste, reducing staff time and the possibility of error when the same data is entered again and again. Once the case is concluded, the Sparks court can forward the dispositions immediately to the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) once they are in a position to retrieve them. And that is expected in the near future.

The 8th Judicial District's Web site in Clark County makes self-help legal forms available over the Internet. Even the 4th, in Elko, makes court forms in domestic relation cases available on the Internet.

The MC-IJIS project—the Multi-County Integrated Justice Information System—which is also known as the Griffin Project because it is the brainchild of District Judge Mike Griffin here in Carson City—began as an electronic information sharing system for all the criminal justice entities in Carson City, Storey, Churchill, and Lyon Counties. It has grown. It is nearing completion. When it becomes operational, it will permit the sharing of data in criminal cases among the courts, law enforcement entities, as well as the State Criminal History Repository. What began as a rural project soon demonstrated its potential for statewide application. It should be online this year.

And not to be outdone, the Henderson Municipal Court expects this year to provide realtime video/audio streaming access via the Internet to all its court proceedings. You can watch your spouse take his/her speeding ticket to Henderson Municipal Court and you don't have to leave home.

At the Supreme Court level, we have been busy both administratively and in addressing the caseload. We commenced and completed the Jury Improvement Commission, the results of which we hope will benefit the courts and the public we serve in terms of cost savings and improvement in the procedures of trial, which we hope will advance the cause of justice. We look forward to working with the Legislature as you consider statutory changes in exemptions and the method of juror compensation that we will request as a result of the Commission's recommendations. We have worked closely with the State Bar Association on the multi-jurisdictional practice of law, making Nevada the first state in the union to adopt comprehensive rules regulating multistate practice. We have revised our own Bar admission rules and will begin offering the Bar Examination two times a year in 2004.

We revised our rules governing the limited admission to practice in Nevada under circumstances that will benefit the work of legal services corporations and public service with the district attorney and the public defender, primarily in rural areas. In capital cases we have adopted rules governing the appointment of panels. Many other projects were undertaken to address such areas as the management of construction defect cases, expansion of drug courts, and the expansion of alternative dispute resolution programs, including the Short Jury Trial Program and mandatory arbitration. We have worked closely with the district, justices, and municipal courts to revitalize the state and regional judicial councils. At the Supreme Court, we have extensively revised our internal operating procedures as we continue our efforts to expedite justice in our case dispositions. On that point, 1,711 cases were filed in 2002. We have not experienced an increase in our annual filings over the last five or six years. We have continued to attack the backlog, with further case reductions in the past two years of 341 cases. Our total case inventory is currently at 1,363 cases. We can't properly call this a backlog anymore, as many of these cases are not yet at issue; they are still in the pipeline awaiting full briefing, or records from the trial court, or argument, or disposition discussion.

The panel system has been very helpful in addressing the backlog, but as we gain experience with the panel process, so do the attorneys. As a result we are seeing the same case several additional times in the form of motions for rehearing by the panel and reconsideration by the en banc court and rehearing by the en banc court. When a motion for rehearing or reconsideration is made, by its nature it activates a complete review of the case and the record by the court. These motions require then a great deal of time and resources to be handled responsibly.

We have given a great deal of thought to our aspirations for the institution of an Intermediate Appellate Court (IAC) in Nevada. We consider the eventual creation of such a court an indispensable feature of the court system in Nevada, in its future. However, we are cognizant of several realities. First, filings in the Supreme Court have not increased. In graphing out the development of our caseload you can actually see that the court's filings seem to increase and then level off, increase and level off, each time at a higher level. But while we are in a period of level filings, and while we have done so much to decrease the backlog and expedite cases, we recognize that during this time of financial uncertainty and fragility, the citizens of Nevada may be hard-pressed to agree to spend tax dollars to fund a new appellate court. They would have the final say because they would vote. As Justice Bob Rose has said so many times in the past, in reference to the expected increase in the Supreme Court's caseload, "We know the train is on the track; we just don't know when it will get here." So, after much reflection and discussion as a court, and with somber hearts, we will ask you to enact legislation authorizing the creation of an IAC as a first-time process. We will also seek to change the language of the proposed constitutional amendment from the mandatory language used in the past, "the Legislature must create an IAC," to permissive language, "the Legislature may create an IAC." We would then leave it to you to decide when the time is right and the money is available for the implementation of this court.

The Settlement Program at the Supreme Court continues to support our efforts with the caseload as well. We could not deal effectively and expeditiously with the current incoming cases without that program. The money appropriated for the Settlement Program is money well spent. Of the cases referred to the Settlement Program, we continue to experience a successful settlement rate of around 54 percent.

What is the Supreme Court's direction, and the future direction of the courts of this state? In a word—technology. The heart of our proposed budget is technology. As I speak today, the Supreme Court is in poor shape technologically. With the institution of an in-house Information Technology Committee, comprised of representatives of the AOC, the staff of the Court, and justices of the Court, we have identified our areas of deficiencies and extended our existing resources as best we can to address the deficiencies. We are possibly the last state Supreme Court in the United States to go online with a Web site. That happened just a couple of months ago. It is a small Web site and it is not an interactive Web site. It is static. The site does not allow for E-filing, access to the Court's calendar, docket, schedule, documents, or records of cases, or for any case status. We were the last state in the union to put our published opinions online, and they are only online now due to the largesse of the Legislative Counsel Bureau, which maintains them for us on their Web site.

We have no imaged documents in the Supreme Court. I have no ability to electronically access briefs or pleadings filed by the parties. Because of inadequate storage space, we do not require the parties to file seven copies of every document. So, if I want to see a brief in a case, because of a question that I have, I need to order the briefs from the Clerk's Office. Aside from the stress this puts on the Clerk's Office to locate, pull, and deliver the material requested, by the time it gets to me, some time has passed, I may be on to the next case, and I've forgotten my question. In the daily use of our computers, we have no one readily available on staff to assist any of the Supreme Court's 84 staff members and justices in answering questions concerning the software we utilize, much less to provide needed training in the software we all use daily like Word, or could use if we knew how to use it. We have it; we just don't know how to use it, which is why I am not up here with PowerPoint. It is things like PowerPoint and Excel that we have not yet learned. I admit it.

We have no one but the Clerk and her hardware-technical staff with sufficient knowledge of our Case Management System to provide training to the judges on that system. And the Clerk and the hardware technicians are stretched far too thin in their duties to do other than answer questions when posed. We rely upon the AOC staff, which we share with the rest of the courts in the state, to assist when we experience glitches.

With respect to the Internet and E-filing, the public and the legal community have come to expect and demand electronic services and electronic access to the courts. And yet no member of the public can access our records here at the Court, nor as mentioned, our schedules, dockets, calendar, or cases.

With respect to the future of the courts in Nevada, I will convene two commissions this year. Neither one is going to be front-page news but will help the Court to operate with integrity in the future and will allow us to plan for the future needs of the courts.

First, I plan a commission to achieve consensus in the application of administrative assessments and in their collections. It is important to the integrity of the judicial system that people who are charged with infractions, no matter how minor, be treated fairly and uniformly by the various courts. Right now there are differences in when administrative fees will be assessed and collected. I believe that if the lower courts can agree upon and then buy into a uniform process, the entire system will benefit and we will learn much about the volatility of this source of revenue and perhaps enhance its stability to some degree.

The second commission is to study the funding of every court in this state. The legislative audit of the courts of Nevada pointed up the need for courts at all levels to have uniform collection practices. And yet, we know that all the courts of this state are not funded at the same level. Each municipal and justice and district court must seek its own funding from its city council or county commission. As a result, some courts are treated more generously than others and some are better equipped than others to respond to requests to change and enhance local practices. But until we know more about the financial health of each court in this state, we are not in a position to evaluate whether any possible changes are realistic to suggest to them. Also, because we anticipate that at some point there will be a discussion concerning whether Nevada should explore a unified court system, we must have this baseline data and some preliminary recommendations from the commission in order to intelligently evaluate the health of these courts and what position the courts might take.

It is one thing to talk about the Supreme Court of Nevada as the administrative head of all the courts; it is quite another for the Supreme Court to attempt to exercise close supervision of the lower courts when we have no say over and little knowledge of their financial health. For the courts to continue the great collegiality that has come to exist from working together, I believe we must respect the positions we might put the lower courts in if we tried to require them to do things they cannot afford to do. So, I hope this commission on court funding will benefit the courts and the Legislature in evaluating future proposals for changes in the court structure.

As I close, I want to tell you about the Justice of the Peace in Austin, Nevada. Judge Jim Anderson runs a small court in a small rural community. When a member of his community comes in to file a small claims action, Judge Anderson calls to action his courtesy letter program. Before accepting the case for filing, the judge offers to send a letter to the proposed defendants, from the court, letting that person know that the plaintiff might take action. Knowing that people who can settle their differences are often happier than those who go to court, and knowing that in a small town, resort to the court can lead to years of hard feelings and tension, this judge has taken it upon himself to give the parties a chance to work things out. Last year, out of 24 cases that might have been filed, only 11 actually needed to be filed. Now, true, this might not work in Las Vegas, but Judge Anderson's resourcefulness and concern for the well-being of his community exemplifies to me, and I hope to you, the spirit that is moving within the judiciary of this state, a desire to be the "something" that moves to make things happen.

The principle upon which all the attributes of a well-functioning judicial system rests is allegiance to the rule of law. Ours is a government and society of laws. Whether it be the Magna Carta, the Ten Commandments, or the Justinian Code, faithfulness to the rule of law creates order, predictability, and result; harmony provides for fairness and equal application justice so that we do not descend into lawlessness. In knowing the boundaries, we respect them and one another. We protect the rule of law. We honor it. The many judicial programs, projects, and innovations I've outlined for you today exist because judges want to ensure that the judicial system continues to operate as it should, so that the rule of law might exist in a healthy fashion.

What does it take for the system to work? It takes you. It takes me. It takes everyone, all of us, supporting the system, behaving reasonably, agreeing to the broad principles upon which the system is based, even if there is disagreement as to the details.

Socrates, 470-399 B.C., said: "Four things belong to a judge: to hear courteously, to answer wisely, to consider soberly, and to decide impartially."

It is with pride that I represent to you, the lawmakers of Nevada, that the state of the judiciary here is good, sound, principled, and heading for the future. We look forward to a positive interaction with you through the days remaining in this legislative session.

I thank you.

Remarks by Assemblymen Hettrick, Marvel, Anderson, Goldwater, Chowning, Carpenter, Oceguera, Collins, Buckley, Gibbons, Grady, Gustavson, and Perkins.

Assemblyman Oceguera requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal:

ASSEMBLYMAN HETTRICK:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. It's an honor for me to speak to this Resolution. This is a rather unique Resolution, honoring two men at one time. I think that when you heard the Chief Clerk read the records of these two men, they are very much paralleled. It was appropriate to do this in this legislative setting. As the Resolution details, both of these men have had remarkable careers and many years of service in this building together, another reason to have them sitting here together. Both have been instrumental in moving this Legislature into the twenty-first century. We heard about the move to this building, we know that we also remodeled this building while these two gentlemen served and guided us. We've moved into the twenty-first century in regard to our computer systems—live Internet audio/video, computers on our own desks; a myriad of things that these gentleman, with their guidance, have steered us through to make this a better place and a more effective Legislature.

They have actually, if you think back upon it, moved us from a paper-based organization, in two rooms in the Capitol Building, to what you see here today—a modern, incredibly efficient, vibrant organization that serves the people of the state of Nevada. I think most importantly, however, is their leadership. The leadership of these two gentlemen is unparalleled in the history of the state of Nevada. I would tell you, I believe, probably in any state in this union as well.

The civility and the courtesy with which we operate in this legislative process is a reflection of these two men, as is the very tone and demeanor of our Legislature, which I'm very proud of. I think it is one of the most civil and courteous there is in the United States. I believe it is because of these two men. I think it is a reflection of their very actions and how they conduct themselves. Their fairness, their integrity, their humility, all will leave a permanent mark on Nevada and this Legislature. Senator Jacobsen and Speaker Emeritus Dini, I thank you for the Legislature and I thank you for Nevada. I'm proud to have served with you both.

ASSEMBLYMAN MARVEL:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I feel very honored today to be able to honor two of the finest gentlemen I think I have ever known in my legislative career, not only as legislators but also as friends. Joe and Jake, your presence already is being missed. The state of Nevada owes both of you a huge debt for what you've done for the betterment of the state of Nevada and making this a better state for all of us to live in. Just being a little facetious, now I know who is to blame for all the e-mail I don't like. It is so appropriate and so fitting to have you both here, joining me, because you have sacrificed a better part of both of your lives for your service to the state of Nevada. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for everything you have done for each and every one of us.

ASSEMBLYMAN ANDERSON:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I agree with my colleague from Assembly District No. 39. Clearly the gentleman from District No. 32 has the longer experience dealing with these two gentlemen. The reality of the subtle humor, however, of Speaker Dini, is legendary. We've all looked forward to his telling stories of missteps by freshmen, or even senior legislators, in the legislative process; examples of what not to do. His and Senator Jacobsen's example in these Chambers are the type that all of us would hope to emulate. When you stand on the shoulders of giants, it's always nice to meet the giants. These are the giants that we stand with and on whose shoulders we've always relied. This Resolution can hardly illustrate the heartfelt feelings that I have for these two gentlemen, having served with both of them. Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore.

ASSEMBLYMAN GOLDWATER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of ACR 4. I'm mindful of something. These resolutions aren't necessarily for the honorees. My guess, in all those years in public service, the great things that they have done will probably not be recognized by any resolution, but by a quiet feeling of satisfaction, like many of us feel when we do great things in this Legislature. These resolutions are for us. They are for us to note accomplishments of great men. They are for us and the people in the top of these galleries, to notice leadership and what qualities real leadership brings. I think these men exemplify two essential points of leadership. They both are leaving and have left this institution better than when they found it. They have left all of us, and all the people whose lives they touched, better than when they found us.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN CHOWNING:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of ACR 4. I would like to thank these gentlemen for being teachers, for teaching us that we need to serve with honor, with character, and that our word needs to be our bond. I thank them for looking out, not only for their own districts, but teaching us to represent the entire state of this great state of Nevada.

ASSEMBLYMAN CARPENTER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I, too, rise in support of ACR 4. It is a real honor to be able to honor these two great gentlemen. I don't think there is any question that Joe Dini was the heart and soul of this Assembly. He was the steady hand that kept us on an even keel and enabled us to get things done. I always remember how good he was to me and especially how good he treated the rurals. He's a real "rural" guy who always helped us. What I remember most about Senator Jacobsen was that we had a hearing—I don't know where it was, I think it was in Fallon—and someone was testifying. They were against the military. Senator Jacobsen came out of his seat and said, "You better knock that off or I'll probably knock you off." He was such a great man and helped our rural areas. I really want to thank them both for helping my political career and me. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN OCEGUERA:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I, too, rise in support of ACR 4. Growing up in northern Nevada and the small town of Fallon, my family was involved in some small-town politics. Jake and the Speaker, meeting them was like meeting the President, when you would see them. If you came to Minden or Yerington, if you saw these two folks, it was like meeting the President. Of course, when I said growing up, I mean they were in the Legislature before I was born. Having the honor and privilege to be able to serve a session with them was something I can't really describe to you. I know that when I have children, I will be able to tell them when they look at their history books and read about the history of Nevada that I was honored and privileged to serve with these two gentlemen.

ASSEMBLYMAN COLLINS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I feel very important and very privileged to stand up today to recognize these two men and thank them for the example they have set for us to follow. Whether it's Jake's farm tour or having Joe come over and say, "How is it going, Tom? Is your bill all right? Is your family doing good?" The love from these two gentlemen, expressed to everyone over the years in these Chambers, regardless of what part of the state or what party they're from, is a testament to their love and caring for this state. I'm glad we're able to recognize that today. Thank you both very, very much.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BUCKLEY:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I, too, rise in support of ACR 4. I thank both of our leaders for their presence, for their leadership, and for their accomplishments. I think that one of the things that is most remarkable about both of these legislators is their presence. They were both quiet and hardworking, but noticed everything. There really was not a line in the statute that they didn't know. I recall so many times Speaker Dini pulling me aside and saying, "I heard your question. Let me tell you that line came from the 1969 fight between . . . ." He would regale me with a story that brought our statutes to life.

I think it's an amazing feat to mark this length of service as we find both the joy it brings us to serve, but the challenges it brings us to serve. Their lengths of service is nothing short of remarkable. When you think of the number of leaders who have trained under these two men, whether they now occupy seats in the United States Congress or are here on these floors or are in local government, their legacy of hard work, of skill, is unparalleled and now, fortunately, can be replicated by others who followed after them. I also want to personally thank the Speaker for his role in my development. I think that if it weren't for the chances he gave me during my first session, I would not be the first female majority leader in the history of the state of Nevada. At every opportunity, he pulled me aside and he would say, "You know, I think about the south in every decision I make." That led me, early on, to recognize that I needed to consider every part of the state in every decision that I made, not just the district that I represented. These gentlemen have trained so many. I feel bad for our freshmen because you could have learned under no better master. I hope that we, the ones who served under them, will remember those lessons, demonstrate their traits, their leadership ability, and be able to preserve their legacy in the halls of this Chamber.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN GIBBONS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I'm very pleased to rise in support of Speaker Dini and Senator Jacobsen. I am pleased that I had the opportunity to serve with you. I learned so many important lessons from both of you. I remember, on my first term and my second, the Speaker Emeritus sat right behind me and sometimes he was pretty hard on me, but I learned a lot from that. One thing that was so important to me, one day I was sitting talking to him and asked, "Why are you here? Do you really enjoy the process? You could be doing anything you wanted. You're successful. You've accomplished so much." He told me the reason he was here was to help other people, like me, who were serving. I think that is what was so great about Speaker Dini's leadership. He really cared about us. I don't think he ever considered our party labels when he was down here doing the public's work. I'm thankful for that.

I hope that part of what Senator Jacobsen and Speaker Dini did for us is to help us realize that it doesn't matter what side of the aisle you come from, it matters that you served the people of this state proudly and honestly. Others who can follow behind you–guide them and help them along the way. I think that is the legacy they left for us, to sponsor other people who are coming in. We have a lot of new freshmen. Take others under your wing like they did with us and support them in their efforts and work together. I think it is great that we are honoring a Republican and Democrat at the same time. I'm just thrilled.

ASSEMBLYMAN GRADY:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. In addressing a comment that my colleague from District 8 mentioned, that it was too bad that the freshmen could not have worked under the leadership of these two great gentlemen, I would say I have had the privilege, though I am a freshman, of having the guidance of both Mr. Dini and Mr. Jacobsen. Joe helped me so much when I was mayor in Yerington. He has helped me along in my career.

I don't know, Joe, if you realize it, but in the gallery today there are 100 students from Yerington High School. It is very fitting that they are here today with their two chaperones, Michelle Davis and Frances Degiacomo. They are here to witness the honor for both you and Jake today. My congratulations to you. Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore.

ASSEMBLYMAN GUSTAVSON:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I also rise in support of ACR 4. It has been an honor to serve in the past three terms with these two great gentlemen. They will be very difficult to replace with their honesty, integrity, and character. These men have been around for a long time and have served for many years, maintaining these characteristics. It is an honor to have served with them, and it will be difficult to replace them as leaders, in this Body and in the Senate. I want to thank you, Senator Jacobsen and Speaker Dini, for the great service that you did for the state of Nevada. You have not been biased and you looked and talked to us, not with party lines in mind, but as individuals and people representing different parts of the state. You served the entire state, not just your own districts. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN PERKINS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. First I would like to thank the Minority Leader for introducing the Resolution. It refocuses us on something that is very important to this institution and provides us with the opportunity to honor these two men. I want to apologize to Senator Jacobsen as my remarks may be somewhat weighted toward Speaker Dini because I have had a closer working relationship with him. We have eight living former Speakers in our state, and three of them are sitting here, including the Minority Leader. It is an extraordinary thing, to think there is that kind of a concentration, in one spot, at one time, sitting here, so that we can speak to them. They share 76 years in combined service. If you look at this in months, for our 16 freshmen that is a year and two months worth of service. They have a long way to go to catch up to those 76 years.

One of the things that I remember the most about Senator Jacobsen was, in the interim or otherwise, if he was on the committee, whether he was busy or not, he was there to speak to that committee, to offer suggestions, constantly providing guidance through his 40 years of experience in service.

One thing I am going to miss greatly is the best opening for a speech I could ever have, speaking of these two men. I would talk about how Joe Dini was first elected in 1966 and I was in the first grade. Lawrence Jacobsen was first elected in 1962. You do the math. It was an easy opening and it brought the audience to understand the kind of experience and the kind of real talent we have in this legislative process. As I look around this house, I think that about a third of the people were born after Senator Jacobsen started his legislative service. That should provide some sense of the magnitude of how long he has provided service to our state.

When I was thinking about the Resolution and particularly about Joe, a number of words came to mind: integrity, straight shooter, statesman, the master, a class act, humble, and Papa Joe. These are words that I didn't create, rather words of others that I have borrowed a number of times over the past few years. He epitomizes those qualities in a legislator. I will take one issue with the Resolution. When the Resolution talks about Joe being a native of Yerington, I think it was Pizen Switch.

As long as I have spent time with Joe and his tutelage, I truly believe he has forgotten more than I know. He keeps coming up with that piece of advice that makes perfect sense. He has all that catalogued in his mind. I harken back to 1995 when we had a historically, evenly split 21/21 house, 21 Democrats, and 21 Republicans. As the state's leading political pundit he plucked this obscure cop from Henderson to be his Floor leader. Joe, I will be forever grateful. It has proven to be an opportunity of a lifetime. He has been a teacher, a mentor, and a friend to so many in this House, whether a legislator, a staff member, or a lobbyist. One of the things that he instilled in me, and others, was a respect for this institution. This institution is bigger than any one of us, or any of us collectively. It will live on long after we leave. The respect for this institution, the peoples' House, is very important.

As I traveled and visited the associations that we are all affiliated with, I was surprised, constantly, to find that very few people knew Joe Dini's political affiliation. They couldn't tell you whether or not he was a Democrat or a Republican. They knew he was a Nevadan, but they couldn't tell you what his political affiliation was. There is not a single area of public policy in this state that doesn't have his fingerprint. You heard the Majority Leader say, "back in 1969," and I can't tell you how many stories we have heard that way. He has some influence, whether in education, prisons, public safety, our health departments, wildlife conservation, his legendary efforts for the rural communities, and his expertise in western water, which was nationally known throughout this country.

On a personal note, Joe has been a second father to me, in more ways than I can tell you. He steered me right, taught me, protected me, and been a role model for me. A year ago, in October, I lost my father, and one of the first calls I got was from Joe. He was there for me then and continues to help fill that void in my life. Any of my failures in public life will be mine, but any of my successes in public life can be shared with Joe, because he is the guy who prepared me and got me in a position that I might even have a public success. Joe, we already miss you in this House. Nevada is a better place because of your efforts and because of your love of the greatest state in the greatest country in the world. Nevada thanks you, this House thanks you, and I thank you. To me, you will always be known as Mr. Speaker. Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore.

Assembly called to order at 11:07 a.m.

Mr. Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present except Assemblywoman Ohrenschall, who was excused.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Peggy Locke.

O God, Most High, we welcome Your presence in this Assembly today. May the words of our mouth and the meditations of our heart be acceptable in Your sight—our strength and our Redeemer. Blessed is the man who walks not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stands in the path of sinners, nor sits in the seat of the scornful; but his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in His law he meditates day and night. He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that brings forth its fruit in its season, whose leaf also shall not wither; and whatever he does shall prosper.

May those gathered together here today, who represent the people of this wonderful state of Nevada, have Your hand of grace upon them, that You might prosper and give wisdom to each one here as discussions and decision making is done. We pray for all those in authority over us, and we continue to pray blessing for our military troops serving our country. God bless America.

AMEN.

Grace and peace to you. We pray, Lord God of heaven, O great and awesome God, You who keep Your covenant and mercy with those who love You and observe Your commandments, You who shows no partiality nor takes a bribe, You are a God of justice. Please let Your ear be attentive and Your eyes open, that You may hear the prayer of Your servants which we pray before You now. He has shown you, O man, what is good; and what does the Lord require of you, but to do justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with your God.

Bless those who are assembled here today, give clarity of thought, divine wisdom and understanding hearts. Bless and protect their families and loved ones. Let nothing be done through selfish ambition or conceit, but in lowliness of mind let each of us esteem others better than himself. Let each of us look out not only for our own interests, but also for the interests of others. We continue to pray for those in authority over us, for our military troops, and for peace. May all that we do bring glory to You. God bless America.

Assemblyman Anderson moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblymen Anderson, Carpenter, Grady, and Marvel.

Assemblyman Oceguera requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN ANDERSON:

As a freshman legislator in the 1991 session, my good friend, Doug Byington, introduced me to Hank Etchemendy. He was a representative of the State School Board Association.

We found common ground on educational issues. I soon discovered that he was a rich source of information on a wide variety of public policy issues.

Hank was a Marine and served in the Pacific in World War II as a mortar crewman. Hank was recalled to train Marines on the mortar when the Korean War came along. Some of the skills Hank learned as a Marine were transferable to his civilian jobs. As a Marine, Hank was responsible for "laying the mortar" by using an aiming circle, a transit. He would lay the mortar on the right azimuth. This skill was later used during his early public service jobs.

Hank Etchemendy's experience as a public administrator in Elko, Carson City, and Reno was a tremendous value to him when he dealt with all of us. He had the fantastic ability to recall legislation that had been debated years earlier. He would hustle off to the Research Department and find the necessary information to keep all of us informed.

Hank was a very straightforward and honest person. If he told you something, you could take it to the bank. It is that Basque heritage, that Nevada spirit, that is exemplified by people like Hank Etchemendy. Every session we say, "It is different this session." Well, for me, and for anyone who knew Hank Etchemendy, this is truly a different session and we will all miss him greatly.

ASSEMBLYMAN CARPENTER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of ACR 6. There is no question that Hank Etchemendy was one of my best friends. We lived right across the street from the Etchemendy family in Elko. Hank used to coach Little League and was always a great person to help the youth. When Hank decided to move to Carson City to become City Manager, Peggy left with him, which was a real void in my wife's life. She and Peggy got along great and I think they used to drink coffee together every day. I really miss Hank because when I came to the Assembly we had a great time. We had a lot of things in common. He was a Basque and I was a sheepherder. He knew all about those things. We used to go to lunch a lot and we got along great. I really miss him here, because you couldn't find anyone who had more knowledge than Hank on education, cities, and counties. I want to extend my condolences to Peggy and the boys, and let you know that I miss Hank as much as you do. Hopefully, someday up there, we will be able to play Little League ball with him again.

ASSEMBLYMAN GRADY:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, also, rise in support of ACR 6. Not only did Hank and I share the same birth date of October 6, but I was able to share much of his knowledge in my former capacity as director for the League of Cities. Although he was there many years before I started, many of the things that Hank brought to the League are still carried on today. It is the same way with the counties and the school districts. Like the previous speakers, he was a man that I looked up to and a person that I could call my friend. I appreciate that. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN MARVEL:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, also, rise in support of ACR 6. Like my colleague, I knew Hank from his days in Elko. I watched his career from the City Manager of Elko to Carson City, and around here as a lobbyist for school administrators. Hank was one person you could rely on and his word was his bond. We are all shocked at his very rapid demise. I personally want to extend my sympathies and condolences to Peggy and the family. He is going to be sorely and sadly missed.

MESSAGES FROM THE SENATE

SENATE CHAMBER, Carson City, March 6, 2003

To the Honorable the Assembly:

I have the honor to inform your honorable body that the Senate on this day adopted Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 14.

MARY JO MONGELLI
Assistant Secretary of the Senate

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 14.

Assemblyman Goldwater moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblymen Goldwater and Pierce.

Assemblyman Oceguera requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN GOLDWATER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. So often when we do resolutions we refer to the resolution itself and say that it says everything. When we are talking about Dr. Ghanem this happens not to be a case. It barely touches the tip of the iceberg on what Dr. Ghanem has meant to this state and particularly to the City of Las Vegas.

Dr. Ghanem is most well known for treating all the famous people, including Elvis Presley. He is less known, but had more impact, for the thousands upon thousands of people whom he treated with kindness and compassion, and in a lot of cases, for free. His friends didn't like him; they loved him. A lot of people have great friends, but everyone who met Dr. Ghanem loved him, and he loved them back.

Boxing was a passion of his. He worked for Nevada Athletic Commission through his final days. He worked hard. The sport of boxing in Nevada is a respected sport, not a joke. That is mainly due to his hard work over the years. He exemplified what being an American is. He loved his country a lot, which is why he was so involved in political life. He was so passionate about politics, Democratic and Republican. He was a confidant and friend to presidents as much as he was to a busboy at a local hotel. He is survived by a wonderful family and supported for many years by his lovely wife, Jody, and his brother, Nasser. He had a strong sense of family, even through his younger days. It is appropriate that this Body recognize Dr. Elias Ghanem. It is appropriate that we recognize him in this fashion, knowing that his legacy and what he did for this state will continue. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN PIERCE:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of SCR 14. If working people of Nevada had a patron saint of doctors, that patron saint would have undoubtedly been Dr. Elias Ghanem. While many are aware of Dr. Ghanem's endless charitable contributions to our community and our state, few are aware of Dr. Ghanem's unwavering support of working people. It is one thing to stand with workers when times are good, and it is another thing to stand with workers who are engaged in a bitter struggle with their employer. Lines get drawn, sides become polarized. Those without moral courage often run for the sidelines, but not Dr. Ghanem. He knew what side he was on. When workers at the Frontier Hotel were forced to strike for 6½ years, Dr. Ghanem was there for them. He took it upon himself to make sure that no striking worker went without medical care. In fact, during the long conflict more than 80 babies were born to those workers. Every mother, every delivery, every baby, received free medical care thanks to Dr. Ghanem. During the midst of that strike, ten strikers marched from Las Vegas to Los Angeles, 250 miles across the desert, to draw national attention to their struggle.

Dr. Ghanem would drive out and meet the marchers to tend to their badly blistered feet. For those striking workers who often thought no one cared about them, Dr. Ghanem was and remains a saint.

Resolution adopted unanimously.

Great is your faithfulness, O God. Your mercies are new every morning. We give thanks to You, O Lord God, for the incredible privilege and freedom to be able to come to You and pray. And may the Lord do what is good in His sight. He who dwells in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, "He is my refuge and my fortress; My God, in Him I will trust." Therefore, be anxious for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known to God; and the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.

RESOLVED, That Section 2 of Article 19 of the Nevada Constitution be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 2. 1. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 1 of article 4 of this constitution, but subject to the limitations of section 6 of this article, the people reserve to themselves the power to propose, by initiative petition, statutes and amendments to statutes and amendments to this constitution, and to enact or reject them at the polls.

2. An initiative petition shall be in the form required by section 3 of this article and shall be proposed by a number of registered voters equal to 10 percent or more of the number of voters who voted at the last preceding general election in not less than 75 percent of the counties in the state, but the total number of registered voters signing the initiative petition shall be equal to 10 percent or more of the voters who voted in the entire state at the last preceding general election.

3. If the initiative petition proposes a statute or an amendment to a statute, the person who intends to circulate it shall file a copy with the secretary of state before beginning circulation and not earlier than ~~[January 1 of the year preceding the year in which a regular session of the legislature is held.]~~ 1 year before the date on which the Legislature to which the petition will be transmitted commences its regular session. After its circulation, it shall be filed with the secretary of state not less than 30 days prior to any regular session of the legislature. The circulation of the petition shall cease on the day the petition is filed with the secretary of state or such other date as may be prescribed for the verification of the number of signatures affixed to the petition, whichever is earliest. The secretary of state shall transmit such petition to the legislature as soon as the legislature convenes and organizes. The petition shall take precedence over all other measures except appropriation bills, and the statute or amendment to a statute proposed thereby shall be enacted or rejected by the legislature without change or amendment within 40 days. If the proposed statute or amendment to a statute is enacted by the legislature and approved by the governor in the same manner as other statutes are enacted, such statute or amendment to a statute shall become law, but shall be subject to referendum petition as provided in section 1 of this article. If the statute or amendment to a statute is rejected by the legislature, or if no action is taken thereon within 40 days, the secretary of state shall submit the question of approval or disapproval of such statute or amendment to a statute to a vote of the voters at the next succeeding general election. If a majority of the voters voting on such question at such election votes approval of such statute or amendment to a statute, it shall become law and take effect upon completion of the canvass of votes by the supreme court. An initiative measure so approved by the voters shall not be amended, annulled, repealed, set aside or suspended by the legislature within 3 years from the date it takes effect. If a majority of such voters votes disapproval of such statute or amendment to a statute, no further action shall be taken on such petition. If the legislature rejects such proposed statute or amendment, the governor may recommend to the legislature and the legislature may propose a different measure on the same subject, in which event, after such different measure has been approved by the governor, the question of approval or disapproval of each measure shall be submitted by the secretary of state to a vote of the voters at the next succeeding general election. If the conflicting provisions submitted to the voters are both approved by a majority of the voters voting on such measures, the measure which receives the largest number of affirmative votes shall thereupon become law. If at the session of the legislature to which an initiative petition proposing an amendment to a statute is presented which the legislature rejects or upon which it takes no action, the legislature amends the statute which the petition proposes to amend in a respect which does not conflict in substance with the proposed amendment, the secretary of state in submitting the statute to the voters for approval or disapproval of the proposed amendment shall include the amendment made by the legislature.

4. If the initiative petition proposes an amendment to the constitution, the person who intends to circulate it shall file a copy with the secretary of state before beginning circulation and not earlier than September 1 of the year before the year in which the election is to be held. After its circulation it shall be filed with the secretary of state not less than 90 days before any regular general election at which the question of approval or disapproval of such amendment may be voted upon by the voters of the entire state. The circulation of the petition shall cease on the day the petition is filed with the secretary of state or such other date as may be prescribed for the verification of the number of signatures affixed to the petition, whichever is earliest. The secretary of state shall cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation, on three separate occasions, in each county in the state, together with any explanatory matter which shall be placed upon the ballot, the entire text of the proposed amendment. If a majority of the voters voting on such question at such election votes disapproval of such amendment, no further action shall be taken on the petition. If a majority of such voters votes approval of such amendment, the secretary of state shall publish and resubmit the question of approval or disapproval to a vote of the voters at the next succeeding general election in the same manner as such question was originally submitted. If a majority of such voters votes disapproval of such amendment, no further action shall be taken on such petition. If a majority of such voters votes approval of such amendment, it shall, unless precluded by subsection 5 or 6, become a part of this constitution upon completion of the canvass of votes by the supreme court.

5. If two or more measures which affect the same section of a statute or of the constitution are finally approved pursuant to this section, or an amendment to the constitution is finally so approved and an amendment proposed by the legislature is ratified which affect the same section, by the voters at the same election:

(a) If all can be given effect without contradiction in substance, each shall be given effect.

(b) If one or more contradict in substance the other or others, the measure which received the largest favorable vote, and any other approved measure compatible with it, shall be given effect. If the one or more measures that contradict in substance the other or others receive the same number of favorable votes, none of the measures that contradict another shall be given effect.

6. If, at the same election as the first approval of a constitutional amendment pursuant to this section, another amendment is finally approved pursuant to this section, or an amendment proposed by the legislature is ratified, which affects the same section of the constitution but is compatible with the amendment given first approval, the secretary of state shall publish and resubmit at the next general election the amendment given first approval as a further amendment to the section as amended by the amendment given final approval or ratified. If the amendment finally approved or ratified contradicts in substance the amendment given first approval, the secretary of state shall not submit the amendment given first approval to the voters again.

And be it further

RESOLVED, That the explanation prepared pursuant to NRS 218.443 for this constitutional amendment must include a statement that, if the qualified electors of this state approve the constitutional amendment proposed by this resolution:

1. Regular sessions of the Legislature which occur in even-numbered years would be held in Las Vegas if the Legislature determines that appropriate facilities are available for such purpose;

2. Members of the Legislature would be entitled to receive, during each regular annual session and each special session, compensation for each calendar day of service; and

3. The amount of the appropriation that may be made for the payment of certain expenses of members of the Legislature would be increased.

And be it further

RESOLVED, That Section 12 of Article 17 of the Nevada Constitution is hereby repealed.

THE HONORABLE RICHARD D. PERKINS, Speaker, Nevada State Assembly, 401 South Carson Street, Carson City, Nevada 89701

DEAR SPEAKER PERKINS:

I'm following the legislative session with great interest. It's apparent that you are facing greater challenges than at any time in my memory. You certainly have your hands full in managing the affairs of the Assembly and the difficult issues you face in addressing the state budget needs. I do not envy your task, but share your enthusiasm in serving the public in my capacity as a Congresswoman.

I am writing to you today to express my desire to address both Houses of the Legislature this year. It appears that April 15, 2003, is available and I would enjoy the opportunity to share my views on national issues and the challenges that confront us in the Congress. Many of these issues will affect Nevada citizens directly and the perspectives of the members of the Nevada Legislature are paramount to my decision-making.

If you could let my staff know the details regarding my visit and address, I would appreciate it. I look forward to your response and visiting with you in Carson City in April. Please direct any communication to my District Director, Tod Story. He can be reached at 702-220-9823.

Assembly called to order at 11:17 a.m.

Mr. Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Patrick Propster.

Proverb 14: The naïve inherit folly: but the prudent are crowned with knowledge. The evil will bow down before the good; and the wicked at the gates of the righteous. Lord God Almighty, things are not as simple as found in Your word; we have made them more complex. What used to be as simple as saying, "You shall not murder," nowadays becomes a debate. We therefore humbly ask that You would give divine help through Your infinite wisdom to this Assembly as decisions are made today. We also pray for President Bush and all those guiding him in the monumental choices regarding safety throughout the world and the preservation of the freedoms we so cherish. In the mighty Name of the Lord.

AMEN.

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN LESLIE:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This bill prohibits an insurer from using information included in the consumer credit report of an applicant or policyholder as a basis for making certain determinations regarding policies of insurance. Specifically, an insurer may not use information from a consumer credit report as a basis for issuing, canceling, or renewing a policy of insurance; determining the amount of premium a policyholder must pay; or for determining a policyholder's eligibility for a payment plan.

The number of insurance companies using credit reports to evaluate personal insurance coverage has grown at an alarming rate. Yet, the justification for the growing dependency on credit ratings is vague, at best. It may well be the catalyst for completely changing the basis for calculating insurance risks. Insurers can deny, cancel, or not renew a policy based on a person's credit history regardless of whether he or she is a good driver. The practice goes even deeper. The amount of money charged for the same amount of coverage varies based on credit issues. Insurers seem to be married to the concept, because they can predict who is least likely to make an insurance claim. By targeting financially sound individuals, they can increase their profitability. But should insurance coverage only benefit those who will not use it? Are we allowing insurers to condition policyholders to avoid making claims for services they have already paid for? The standards for setting rates in Nevada center around three basic themes: rates may not be excessive; they may not be inadequate; and they may not be unfairly discriminatory.

I've read volumes—trust me—of information on this subject. I do feel this practice steps over the line and is unfairly discriminatory. AB 194 tips the scales back to factors that directly relate to insurance coverage. Insurance companies have the ability through other sources to identify risks and set adequate and equitable rates. Our citizens will be relieved of the worry that their private financial matters are not used inappropriately. Ask yourself, if this is such a good idea, why it is that so many independent insurance agents are against credit scoring? If they wanted to underwrite more business, wouldn't they endorse this practice? These agents often have access to inside trade secrets information that we do not. They are still against the practice. Why? I did review one of the secret formulas recently used by a major insurance company by its representative. On the list of 25 or so factors, each of which are weighed equally, were the items "self-initiated inquiry." If I call up to check on the accuracy of my credit report, that counts equally against me just as the number of accidents I've had, the distance I drive to work, or other driving-related risk factors. This representative could not tell me how many inquiries I would have to make before this occurred. One? Two? Twelve? Twenty? We don't know. Until the insurance companies agree to share their secret formulas or tell consumers how many credit cards are too many or how many times you can check your credit report, your own credit report, without it negatively affecting your premium, I would believe we should ban this practice of credit scoring to protect all the citizens of Nevada. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN KNECHT:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In view of the press of time today, I will offer a short version of my prepared remarks.

When AB 194 came before the Commerce and Labor Committee, four colleagues and I voted "no," asking for more time to study this measure. Mr. Speaker, we have now received and reviewed the additional information on which we were waiting and it fully validates our reservations at the time of the committee vote and compels us to maintain our "no" votes. A couple of years ago, the state of Maryland passed a bill that outlawed the use of credit scores for setting insurance rates and terms, as AB 194 would do in Nevada. As a result of this kind of legislation in Maryland, rates there rose 15.7 percent in 2002, while national rates, which were not affected by such a bill, increased only 9 percent. In sum, the evidence shows that AB 194 will burden Nevada consumers with increased rates, poorer service and less consumer choice. It well may concentrate these bad effects on the low-income people least able to bear those burdens.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, there are good reasons to allow insurers to use consumer credit scores in setting insurance rates and terms. Credit scores reflect people's history of paying their bills on time and otherwise managing their affairs prudently—habits that are correlated with low insurance risk, as vast amounts of research conclusively demonstrate. Barring the use of credit scores is thus unfair to the vast majority of Nevadans who show they are low-risk customers through their responsible daily behavior. Mr. Speaker, I will vote no because this measure is detrimental to the vast majority of our constituents and to the public interest. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN OHRENSCHALL:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I vote in support of this bill. I studied it at great length. I listened to everything that my colleague from the north, who helped get the bill through committee, said before. We've talked about it. I have talked with people from southern Nevada. The reason I am going to vote in favor of the bill is that I feel that looking at consumer credit rating as a way to determine what insurance they can buy, how much they will pay for it, or if they can buy any at all is, in fact, a blatant form of socioeconomic profiling and stereotyping. That particular practice has been attacked throughout the country as a violation of 14th Amendment equal protection. We need to have people be able to get insurance because, in many cases, particularly automobile insurance, it is required. If you do not have automobile insurance, you can't drive a car. If you can't drive a car, you can't go to work. If you can't go to work, you can't support the family. You would end up at the door of welfare if you can do none of these things. Nevada, I think, is too open-minded and clear-sighted a state to settle for indirect profiling and stereotyping. I encourage this whole Body to vote for this bill.

ASSEMBLYMAN HARDY:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I would like to disclose that my son-in-law is a State Farm agent, though not in this state. I will not receive any benefit for or against this bill. I did have the opportunity in making that disclosure some months ago, talking peripherally, about insurance issues, and we talked about this concept of credit score being a risk factor for determining insurance rates and premiums. Insurers have people called actuaries who predict risk and they base their premiums on the risk such as a 16-year-old driver who is perhaps more risky than someone else, such as a smoker. When we look at the concept of credit score, we are concerned about the person who is using, in a "riskier way," the opportunity of using credit. That risk-taking behavior is shared in other areas of a person's life. I, too, have read volumes and looked at those in perhaps a different view than my colleague from northern Nevada. I would suggest that the credit score use protects those who have not been at a higher risk, and therefore their premiums can be lowered. What would happen if their risk or their premiums are not lowered is that their premiums will float upwards to cover the risk of the society as a whole. I would not be in favor of this particular bill. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of this bill. I would like to point out a couple of issues that have not been addressed yet. There was a lady at the hearing on the bill, an insurance agent, that spoke of one of her clients who has an income of $250,000 a year. He paid cash for a $600,000 home. He owns three cars, all of which are quite expensive—a Range Rover, a Mercedes, and some other car I can't remember. His insurance went up in the last term from $500 to $900. The only reason his insurance went up was 66 inquiries on his credit. His insurance rates doubled. Where is the equity involved in that? Is this man more likely to get into an accident because he manages his money and he pays cash for things? He had $2,100 on credit and makes $250,000 annually. The problem is we have people like my colleague from District No. 10, who is "dead," and has an increased insurance rate. The fact of the matter is that our credit reports are not correct. There are four or five different agencies out there, all with different scores. Your insurance rates are changing because of a report that is most likely inaccurate. That is problem number one. Problem number two, and I must respectfully disagree with my colleague from the north, is that there are many factors involved in rates. If our rates are going to go up across the board as a result of not allowing credit scoring, then we must ask what kind of integrity does the insurance industry have. Crashes do not increase as a result of credit scoring. We will have the same number of crashes next year as we did this year, unrelated to credit scoring altogether. I think these things are important to consider when you make a vote on this case. Thank you very much.

ASSEMBLYMAN GOLDWATER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise is support of AB 194. I appreciate the eloquent objection of the opponents of this bill. However, I would remind this Body of the function of insurance and the function of our regulatory oversight. Does it affect the cost of premium? Maybe; we aren't sure. Is it the sole contributing factor to an increase in premium in Maryland? We are not sure. Insurance companies need as many tools at their disposal to make ratings because it is important to get an accurate actuarial assessment of the situation and the risk they are about to underwrite. This state has made a promise to its people, in its regulatory oversight of insurance premium writing and underwriting, that we will watch how insurance companies underwrite your premium.

There are some factors that are worth looking at and are very telling of the accurate way of predicting insurance risk. The color of your skin is a very good way of pointing out a particular risk factor. But is it okay to use the color of your skin when you underwrite a policy? This state has said, no, it is not okay. It may be a tool, but it is not okay. Is where you live an indicator of how to underwrite premium? Yes. Does the state do that? We have said, as a policy decision, no, it is not okay, not if you want to write insurance in this state. What AB 194 says is can something that is arbitrary, not perfect, certainly prone to error, and is used for a number of other factors, be used. Can a credit report, which people accrued information on and which affects every action in their day, be used as an underwriting tool to help predict premium? That is what you are saying. I feel the answer, the right public policy for this state is to say no, you can't. It is not the right thing to do. In the end, do you want to say to the insurance companies, here is a tool to help you with underwriting a person's risk? Or do you want to say to the people, we are going to protect you, as originally promised, and insurance policies will be underwritten in the proper manner. This state is going to look out for you. It is a question of whether or not you want to look out for insurance companies or you want to look out for the people whom you represent.

ASSEMBLYMAN BEERS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My colleague from District 10 did a fine job outlining one of the potential philosophies this Body could adopt in deliberating this bill. To me it is pragmatic. Only one state, Maryland, has done this, and there everyone's insurance rates, as an aggregate, went up about 75 percent more than the national rate of increase. In my mind, prohibiting insurance companies from giving discounts for a good credit rating is going to cost all Nevadans money. Therefore, I am voting no.

Mr. Speaker requested the privilege of the Chair for the purpose of making the following remarks:

With the permission of the Body, the Chair would like to ask the last speaker if there were any other insurance scoring tools that were used by the state of Maryland that were not used in the state of Nevada?

ASSEMBLYMAN BEERS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. As far as the other items that my colleague from District 10 listed that we prohibit, I am not sure I understand the question.

Mr. Speaker requested the privilege of the Chair for the purpose of making the following remarks:

I am looking for other potential causes for Maryland's increase in premiums.

ASSEMBLYMAN BEERS:

I saw an article in the Baltimore Sun, Mr. Speaker, that had their insurance commissioner speculating that was the cause.

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That Section 1 of Article 10 of the Nevada Constitution be amended to read as follows:

Section 1. 1. ~~[The]~~ Except as otherwise provided in subsection 11, the legislature shall provide by law for a uniform and equal rate of assessment and taxation, and shall prescribe such regulations as shall secure a just valuation for taxation of all property, real, personal and possessory, except mines and mining claims, which shall be assessed and taxed only as provided in section 5 of this article.

2. Shares of stock, bonds, mortgages, notes, bank deposits, book accounts and credits, and securities and choses in action of like character are deemed to represent interest in property already assessed and taxed, either in Nevada or elsewhere, and shall be exempt.

3. The legislature may constitute agricultural and open-space real property having a greater value for another use than that for which it is being used, as a separate class for taxation purposes and may provide a separate uniform plan for appraisal and valuation of such property for assessment purposes. If such plan is provided, the legislature shall also provide for retroactive assessment for a period of not less than 7 years when agricultural and open-space real property is converted to a higher use conforming to the use for which other nearby property is used.

4. Personal property which is moving in interstate commerce through or over the territory of the State of Nevada, or which was consigned to a warehouse, public or private, within the State of Nevada from outside the State of Nevada for storage in transit to a final destination outside the State of Nevada, whether specified when transportation begins or afterward, shall be deemed to have acquired no situs in Nevada for purposes of taxation and shall be exempt from taxation. Such property shall not be deprived of such exemption because while in the warehouse the property is assembled, bound, joined, processed, disassembled, divided, cut, broken in bulk, relabeled or repackaged.

5. The legislature may exempt motor vehicles from the provisions of the tax required by this section, and in lieu thereof, if such exemption is granted, shall provide for a uniform and equal rate of assessment and taxation of motor vehicles, which rate shall not exceed five cents on one dollar of assessed valuation.

6. The legislature shall provide by law for a progressive reduction in the tax upon business inventories by 20 percent in each year following the adoption of this provision, and after the expiration of the 4th year such inventories are exempt from taxation. The legislature may exempt any other personal property, including livestock.

7. No inheritance tax shall ever be levied.

8. The legislature may exempt by law property used for municipal, educational, literary, scientific or other charitable purposes, or to encourage the conservation of energy or the substitution of other sources for fossil sources of energy.

9. No income tax shall be levied upon the wages or personal income of natural persons. Notwithstanding the foregoing provision, and except as otherwise provided in subsection 1 of this section, taxes may be levied upon the income or revenue of any business in whatever form it may be conducted for profit in the state.

10. The legislature may provide by law for an abatement of the tax upon or an exemption of part of the assessed value of a single-family residence occupied by the owner to the extent necessary to avoid severe economic hardship to the owner of the residence.

11. The legislature may, by law, require:

(a) The assessed value of real property to be redetermined for taxation purposes upon the sale or other transfer of ownership of that property. If such a provision is enacted, the legislature may require any depreciation and obsolescence accumulated during the previous ownership to be excluded from the reassessed value of the property.

(b) The assessed value of residential real property that is converted to another use to be redetermined for taxation purposes after the conversion in accordance with the new use of the property.

To the Honorable the Assembly:

MARY JO MONGELLI
Assistant Secretary of the Senate

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 22.

Assemblyman Anderson moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblyman Anderson.

Assemblyman Anderson requested that his remarks be entered in the Journal.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. It is hard to imagine a life that is more full and should be more celebrated than that of Dr. Edmund Cain. When I came to the campus of the University of Nevada as a freshman in 1961-62, the College of Education was stuck in a building called Thompson Education. It was an old building that had been there for some time. When I returned from the Army in 1964 it had not changed. When I left the campus we were in a beautiful new building, having moved forward under Dean Cain's direction. The nature of my profession has changed dramatically because of his influence. Would-be teachers starting out on the road had not been exposed to the classroom until they were expected to do their student teaching. Now students are encouraged and are brought to classrooms in their second year of education so they can have a hands-on approach and they don't get stuck believing that teaching is somewhat akin to the learning experience of college. That is a dramatic step. Dean Cain was always up to the challenge of being prepared. My uncle went to college with Dean Cain in Chico. They both were in music together. Arch Hooper and he played in the same band, sharing a continued love for jazz and music. Dean Cain had a love and celebration of life that all of us could only hope for. His legacy is a life of celebration. While the monuments of a building are pleasant to look at and leave a lasting legacy, it is in the hearts of the teachers that he has touched where his legacy will forever live. For that, Mr. Speaker, I encourage my colleagues to vote in support of this resolution.

Lord God Almighty, You have never left us, nor forsaken us. We pray and thank Thee for granting us Your might, balanced with the knowledge of what is right, to serve and protect. Your Word declares, "Thou shalt not murder, steal, lie or covet." These have been done on a global scale, by a global enemy. We also pray Your protection be with our loved ones who stand ready to preserve liberty through justice.

REMARKS FROM THE FLOOR

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN CARPENTER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A couple of days ago, everyone was supposed to get their bills introduced. It looked to me like the first day of kindergarten. I appreciate everyone wanting to get their bills in, showing great concern for their constituents. I just think, though, that we really should either do a resolution for the bill drafters or send them roses, something like that, because without them being here to do all that work, we would not have been able to get our bills in.

I get here quite early in the morning and I leave late at night. I see all the lights on in the building and all the automobiles over there in the parking lot. I think that some of the staff are watching us today, so we at least should give them a real round of applause for their yeoman-like work. We should show them how much we appreciate all their work. Thank you.

Roll called.

All present except Assemblymen Christensen and Pierce, who were excused.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Patrick Propster.

Lord of Heaven and Earth, our hearts are moved to prayer and concern as we find ourselves as a nation in the midst of battle this day with Iraq. We ask of Thee for a quick and victorious outcome. There are many kinds of peace and certain kinds are only found on the other side of war. The universal sign of surrender is the raising of hands above the head, which we have witnessed by some of Iraq's border troops. We pray that this will continue and that there will be a minimal loss of life. Lord, we yield our hearts in surrender to You and within our minds, we raise our hands to Your will and to Your way, not only in regard to "Enduring Freedom" but within all that we think, do, and say. To You be all the honor and the glory, now and forever.

AMEN.

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

By Assemblymen Giunchigliani, Perkins, Buckley, Hettrick, Anderson, Andonov, Angle, Arberry, Atkinson, Beers, Brown, Carpenter, Chowning, Christensen, Claborn, Collins, Conklin, Geddes, Gibbons, Goicoechea, Goldwater, Grady, Griffin, Gustavson, Hardy, Horne, Knecht, Koivisto, Leslie, Mabey, Manendo, Marvel, McClain, McCleary, Mortenson, Oceguera, Ohrenschall, Parks, Pierce, Sherer, Weber, and Williams; Senators Titus, Amodei, Care, Carlton, Cegavske, Coffin, Hardy, Mathews, McGinness, Neal, Nolan, O'Connell, Raggio, Rawson, Rhoads, Schneider, Shaffer, Tiffany, Townsend, Washington, and Wiener:

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 8—Expressing support for American military troops again in harm's way.

WHEREAS, Almost one-quarter of a million American men and women are engaged in war with Iraq; and

WHEREAS, These members of our Armed Forces are exposed to great danger and to the hazards and discomforts of the harshest of climates; and

WHEREAS, They have forsaken home, family and friends in obedience to the call of their country and fidelity to their oath of service; and

WHEREAS, They undertake this duty and prepare to make the ultimate sacrifice out of love for their country and the freedoms for which it stands; and

WHEREAS, The men and women leave behind spouses, children and parents who suffer great anxiety and make great sacrifices to enable our servicemen and women to fulfill their patriotic obligation; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, THE SENATE CONCURRING, That the Nevada Legislature commends the noble, selfless and heroic efforts of our American servicemen and women; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the members of the Nevada Legislature join with all Nevadans in laying aside debates about the prudence of the cause in which our country is engaged and pray that this conflict may speedily end and that these brave men and women may return safely home to their families and friends; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to the Adjutant General of the Nevada National Guard and the Commanding Officer of Nellis Air Force Base.

Assemblywoman Giunchigliani moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblymen Giunchigliani, Anderson, Carpenter, Horne, Andonov, and Mortenson.

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN GIUNCHIGLIANI:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I felt it was appropriate for this Body, regardless of whether you support the war, or have reservations, to have the opportunity to let our troops and our families know that they are in our thoughts. That is the intent of this resolution, to make sure that we go on record saying we pray for peace and for everyone to come home safely, and we honor our men and women who are fighting on our behalf. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN ANDERSON:

I rise in support of the resolution. It is always difficult in times of war and national security to face the reality of having to place our loved ones in such a position. The importance of the country standing together in support of our troops, and whom they represent, is essential. When those people stand out there, representing democracy and what it is supposed to achieve, they carry with them the support of every American. The gentleman from Assembly District 21 has pledged himself to that kind of honor, as have others in this group. We do not have anyone serving from our Body this session; however, family members are serving. I think it is absolutely essential that this resolution carries, to the troops from Nevada and to the National Guard, who are now making up close to a third of the military forces in the Gulf, not just in a quiet whisper kind of way, but in reality. As a small token I hope that we can do this with this resolution.

ASSEMBLYMAN CARPENTER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of ACR 8. A number of times before I have asked this Body to pray for my son, who flies tankers out of the Air National Guard in Phoenix, Arizona. If you don't know, the Air Guard has most of the tankers in our nation. If it weren't for the Air Guard, the tankers would not be flying. My son has flown in all the skirmishes that we have had before, in Iraq during Desert Storm and in Kosovo. He just returned from duty in Iraq. I am sure if this skirmish lasts much longer he will be returning. I ask you to pray for him and for all of our service people. It is a great sacrifice that they do and a great sacrifice for their families. My son has three girls, including a set of twins. It is hard to see him leave and to see those little girls cling to him. I ask you to pray for him and for all our servicemen, that they come back safely and that we will get another phase in our history behind us. Thank you all very much for your prayers in the past, and I thank you for the ones in the future and the ones today. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN HORNE:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of ACR 8. I am from a military family. I myself had a short stint in the military. My father did two tours in Vietnam. My maternal grandfather was crippled in service during the Korean War. I particularly like this bill because it reminds us that while we may not always agree with the policy of our nation, I never disagree with my duty to support our troops, especially when they are put in harm's way. It is important for us to remember they don't make the policy. They only serve when we ask them to. They go and do their job, making their sacrifices. Since serving here, people keep telling me of the sacrifices that I have been making, but it pales in comparison to the sacrifices that are made by the men and women in the armed services and those civilian government employees who are indispensable and are also in harm's way. While I will be able, God willing, to see the birth of my son next month, many of them will not be there for the birth of their children. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN ANDONOV:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I also rise in support of ACR 8. As a U.S. Army veteran myself, who served overseas during the time of our last crisis in the Middle East, I know firsthand how important it is to keep our soldiers, servicemen, and servicewomen in our thoughts and prayers. As a Body, it is entirely important that we support our troops. In times of crisis Americans have always come together and Nevadans are no exception. We have always come together, regardless of what we feel about the conflict. This conflict in Iraq will be no exception. Our troops are well trained and prepared. I think it is appropriate that we, as a legislature, commend the noble and selfless service of our American servicemen and servicewomen. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN MORTENSON:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of this resolution. I would like to echo the words of my colleague from District 33. I have a son-in-law in harm's way. My daughter lives in Tennessee, but my son-in-law, unfortunately, is in Afghanistan. He is not on the border of Iraq, but could be there rapidly. For that reason I rise in support.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Patrick Propster.

Benevolent Father, over these last two weeks the Senate and Assembly have visited, through prayer, ten principles that our Founding Forefathers used to build this great nation. I pray that all those gathered here in this place acknowledge, as Benjamin Franklin did and concluded that "if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without the Creator's notice, a nation cannot rise without His aid." They allowed the Ten Commandments to construct and govern this nation, thus impacting the world. May we be as faithful while continuing in that endeavor. May You be pleased with all the decisions and proclamations that have and will be made throughout this 72nd Legislative Session of the great state of Nevada. Lord, please be with our Armed Forces and grant us quick victory.

AMEN.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 10—Proposing to amend the Nevada Constitution to provide requirements for the use of the proceeds from certain settlement agreements and civil litigation between the State of Nevada and manufacturers of tobacco products and to provide for the sale of the right to receive those proceeds.

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That a new section, designated Section 6, be added to Article 9 of the Nevada Constitution to read as follows:

Sec. 6. 1. At least 40 percent of all the tobacco proceeds and any interest or income earned on that portion of those proceeds must be used to provide for scholarships and loans to benefit residents of the State of Nevada who attend:

(a) Colleges and universities that are operated by the State of Nevada; or

(b) Other accredited, nonprofit, nonsectarian colleges and universities that are located within the State of Nevada.

2. The balance of the tobacco proceeds not expended in accordance with subsection 1 and any interest or income earned on that portion of those proceeds must be used to assist residents of the State of Nevada in obtaining and maintaining good health.

3. The Legislature shall provide by law:

(a) The criteria and requirements for determining the eligibility of a person to receive a scholarship or loan described in subsection 1;

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 9—Designating March 24, 2003, as Suicide Prevention Day in Nevada.

WHEREAS, The State of Nevada has ranked at the top of the list of states having the highest rates of suicide for at least 2 decades, with a rate that is twice the national average; and

WHEREAS, Suicide is the fifth leading cause of death in Nevada, exceeded only by heart disease, cancer, pulmonary disease and stroke, and Nevada is the only state in which suicides outnumber deaths related to motor vehicles; and

WHEREAS, Research indicates that the vast majority of suicide victims in Nevada are actually residents of this state, and not tourists as is the typical assumption; and

WHEREAS, The most common methods of committing suicide in this state involve the use of firearms, the ingestion of poison, or suffocation or asphyxiation; and

WHEREAS, In the report entitled National Strategy for Suicide Prevention: Goals and Objectives for Action, issued by the Surgeon General of the United States in 2001, the plan to reduce the high rate of suicide in our Nation emphasized the importance of public awareness of suicide as a serious, but preventable, public health problem; and

WHEREAS, Research conducted by public health and mental health agencies in Nevada reveals a lack of public awareness of the seriousness of the problem of suicide in our State and the lack of a comprehensive suicide prevention program in Nevada for the mentally ill and homeless; and

WHEREAS, There has been an admitted need to improve suicide prevention programs in Nevada's schools because studies show that 30 percent of middle school and high school students in Nevada have experienced depression, a leading indicator of suicide, and that nearly 20 percent of students have seriously considered attempting suicide; and

WHEREAS, The rural counties in Nevada have a higher rate of suicide than the larger counties of Clark and Washoe, and the need for the State to develop a suicide strategy that recognizes the unique culture of these smaller communities would be beneficial to the entire State; and

WHEREAS, Because of the larger populations in Washoe and Clark Counties, the residents of those counties must also be made aware of the gravity of the problem of suicide; and

WHEREAS, The continuing effectiveness of public campaigns waged against public health problems such as tuberculosis, heart disease, unintentional injury, and alcohol, tobacco and drug abuse cannot be overstated; and

WHEREAS, The recognition of suicide as a public health problem and the institution of a public campaign in which all Nevadans form a coalition to address suicide prevention, with the goal of reducing suicides in each community, constitutes a productive first step in overcoming this devastating problem; and

WHEREAS, Cooperative efforts such as the Crisis Call Center in Reno, Nevada, with support from the Division of Mental Health and Developmental Services of the Department of Human Resources, and the Yellow Ribbon Program in Douglas County, a community-based suicide prevention program, have a great impact in reducing suicide and serve as models for coping with the problems related to suicide; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, THE SENATE CONCURRING, That March 24, 2003, is hereby designated as Suicide Prevention Day in Nevada; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the members of the 72nd Session of the Nevada Legislature are committed to creating a greater public awareness of the seriousness of the problem of suicide in Nevada; and be it further

RESOLVED, That all Nevadans are hereby urged to address the problem of suicide in this state by providing education regarding suicide prevention and by furnishing support for the surviving family and friends of suicide victims; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to the Crisis Call Center in Reno, Nevada.

Assemblyman Parks moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblymen Parks, Hettrick, Ohrenschall, Chowning, and Leslie.

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN PARKS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to speak on ACR 9, recognizing the importance of suicide prevention awareness here in the Legislature and the state as a whole. As you may well know, Nevada's high suicide rate is one of the most pressing public health issues for Nevada and one which I'm dedicated to addressing through my own personal legislative efforts.

During the 2001-2002 interim, I had the privilege of serving as a member of the Legislative Commission Subcommittee to Study Suicide Prevention. The interim Subcommittee was composed of a number of other Assembly members, including the Assemblywoman from District No. 27, as well as two former Assembly members and members from the Senate. For many years, Nevada has consistently ranked first among the 50 states in the rate of suicide. From 1995 to 2000, the Federal Center for Disease Control reported that Nevada had a suicide rate of 22.9 per 100,000 population, as compared to the national average of 11.3 per 100,000. That is over twice the national average. For the first time in decades, Nevada's suicide rate was exceeded by only one other state, Alaska. That is the most recent ranking. Nevada's rate is high among all age groups and socioeconomic populations in the state, including youth, elderly men, Native Americans, and residents of rural communities. The same research consistently has found that the vast majority of suicide victims are residents of Nevada and not its tourists. Suicide is the fifth leading cause of death in Nevada. There are twice as many suicides as homicides in the state. During our interim study, we learned that Nevada is the only state where there are consistently more deaths caused by suicide than deaths in motor vehicle accidents.

Suicide has touched the lives of countless Nevadans, including the family and close friends of many of the persons we interact with each day in the Legislative Building, including lobbyists, fellow legislators, and legislative staff. I know that some of us are aware of legislators and legislative staff who have taken their own lives in the not very distant past. In memory of these suicide victims, and for the sake of hundreds of others, I rise in support of ACR 9.

ASSEMBLYMAN HETTRICK:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of ACR 9. I was particularly pleased to see the mention of rural Nevada and the problems in rural Nevada and also specific mention of the program that is ongoing in Douglas County. I think this is a very effective program and one that needs funding. I can't resist this opportunity, Mr. Speaker, to tell the members that I have a bill in to help fund that group in Douglas County because they are a step ahead of much of the state right now in recognizing the problem and in gaining volunteers, grants, and matching funds.

They are working really hard to fund the program. Suicide is a serious problem in the state of Nevada that needs to be addressed. Wherever we can make a difference we need to do that. I urge the members' support of ACR 9.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN OHRENSCHALL:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of ACR 9. For too long, suicide has been a problem we've swept under the carpet because we didn't want to look at it or because we didn't know how to look at it. It's particularly important to remember that among the high rate of suicides are also a lot of our young people who are, perhaps, too immature to know what's happening. We really need to get an early intervention program in there. We must constantly try to remind them that suicide is a permanent solution to what, basically, is usually a temporary problem. It is something we need to focus on and I urge every member of this Assembly to vote for the resolution. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN CHOWNING:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of ACR 9. Ten years ago, I had an intern who begged me to do something about prevention of suicide. Thanks to my colleague from Assembly District. No. 6, we were able to get a prevention of suicide program with all the lesson plans, that we borrowed, everything that our neighboring state of California had put in place. We were able to bring that to Nevada. It has been and continues to be in our schools. This is one place when someone says they are thinking about committing suicide, we all have to listen. It is not something someone makes in jest as a passing statement. It is something that they are truly thinking about. We need to constantly be vigilant and tell people that it is okay to ask for help. In that way, we can prevent the permanent, as my colleague stated, solution to a temporary problem. I urge everyone's support and I thank the people for bringing this to our consciousness today.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN LESLIE:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I also rise in support of ACR 9. Having served with the Chairman of Taxation on the interim study of suicide prevention, I know that this is a public health crisis in our state. I recall several years ago, along with the Assemblywoman from District 25 and the Chairman of Government Affairs, when we heard a resolution in our health committee, it was decided that a resolution was not enough. We worked with the Governor, at the time, and many lobbyists, to find funding in an already tight budget for a statewide suicide prevention hotline. I believe the hotline is the reason we have finally gone from number one in the nation to number two in the number of suicides. I would like to urge the Body to support the resolution, but more than that, to support mental health funding in our state. It is no surprise when we are forty-seventh or forty-eighth every year in the amount of money we put into mental health funding in our state, that we are number one or number two in suicides. There is a connection. I hope we support this resolution today. I hope we support the recommendations that came out of the interim study and two years from now we find that Nevada has dropped even further down the list. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Resolution adopted unanimously.

Assemblywoman Buckley moved that all rules be suspended and that Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 9 be immediately transmitted to the Senate.

Motion carried unanimously.

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

By Assemblyman Mortenson:

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 13—Proposing to amend the Nevada Constitution to provide that a special session of the Legislature may be convened by a petition signed by two-thirds of the Legislators of each house.

WHEREAS, There are currently 34 State Legislatures that have the ability to call a special legislative session when deemed necessary; and

WHEREAS, The Nevada Legislature is 1 of only 16 state legislative bodies in the Nation that may not call a special session, and 1 of only 9 Legislatures that may not determine any of the subject matter to be considered at a special session; and

WHEREAS, The Nevada Constitution is grounded on the principle of three equal branches of State Government, with the ultimate authority and responsibility to enact necessary legislation being vesting in the Legislative Branch, subject to final approval by the Governor; and

WHEREAS, Nevada's current constitutional language, which allows only the Governor to call the Legislature into special session, impedes and is contrary to the constitutional provision that vests the legislative authority of the State of Nevada in its elected Legislature; and

WHEREAS, The Nevada Legislature should be authorized to operate with a reasonable degree of independence from the Executive and Judicial Branches as consistent with the separation of powers principle, and should be empowered to identify those topics that may require the Legislature to call a limited special session deemed in the best interest of the people of the State of Nevada; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That a new section, designated Section 2A, be added to Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution to read as follows:

2. The Legislature shall transact no legislative business at a special session convened pursuant to this section except that which is specified in the petition and such other legislative business as may be approved for consideration by the Legislature by Joint Resolution approved while in session by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members of each House.

3. A special session convened pursuant to this section takes precedence over a special session called by the Governor pursuant to Section 9 of Article 5 of this Constitution, unless otherwise provided in the petition calling for the special session.

4. The Legislature may provide by law for the procedure for convening a special session pursuant to this section.

And be it further

RESOLVED, That Section 2 of Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 2. 1. Manifest and make evident the signs of Thy oneness which have been deposited in all the realities of life. Reveal and unfold the virtues which Thou hast made latent and concealed in these human realities. O God! We are as plants, and Thy bounty is as the rain; refresh and cause these plants to grow through Thy bestowal. We are Thy servants; free us from the fetters of material existence. We are ignorant; make us wise. We are dead; make us alive. We are material; endow us with spirit. We are deprived; make us the intimates of Thy mysteries. We are needy; enrich and bless us from Thy boundless treasury. O God! Resuscitate us; give us sight; give us hearing; familiarize us with the mysteries of life, so that the secrets of Thy kingdom may become revealed to us in the world of existence and we may confess Thy oneness. Every bestowal emanates from Thee; every benediction is Thine. Thou art mighty, Thou art powerful. Thou art the Giver, and Thou art the Ever-Bounteous.

Remarks by Assemblyman Anderson.

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN ANDERSON:

Every community has its heroes, those people who play a central role in its theme and development. So also the City of Sparks. It's a relatively young community, not quite 100 years old. Its early character and development was centered around the railroad and the shops that supported the city's main industry. In any community, the development of a good newspaper is an essential element, both of its pride and its identity. When I was a child, the publisher of the Sparks Tribune, the local newspaper and weekly shopper for the city, was Carl Shelly.

I ran around with Carl Shelly's nephew, Casey. Casey, "Thumper" Hills, and I were the "Three Musketeers." We lived on the same block and went to kindergarten and first grade together. We determined that if we could deliver the newspaper, we would be able to make some money. So, we followed the delivery of the Tribune, at the time a free weekly shopper, and collected them at Casey's house. That evening, when my mother went looking for her newspaper to figure out her shopping list for the week, there was no newspaper. She called Mrs. Shelly. Mrs. Shelly explained that they were accumulated on the back porch. We, of course, were delegated to return the newspapers and explain to each of our neighbors why we had borrowed them. The next day, we were directed to speak to Mr. Shelly. We covered a nine block area, so you can imagine that we had done a pretty good job. Carl remained, as usual, his normal, calm self and explained to us that he wished we wouldn't do it anymore and thanked us for returning them.

The following year, Carl offered me a job as a newspaper delivery boy. "After all," he said, "I think you know the route." In high school, I was part of the school newspaper and on the newspaper staff; one of my jobs was to make sure the final copy got to the Tribune, which was our publisher. Again, I had to deal with Carl Shelly.

Wherever I look in my community, I see the work of Carl Shelly. He started a hardware store in the first shopping center developed in my community after World War II. It was one of those hardware stores where you could walk in and people actually helped you find the right tool, the right washer, and explained how it really worked, so that you could fix your problem yourself. He even did that for men, not just for women. I know that was very, very helpful. Carl Shelly was that kind of man. His work with the museum showed this. He was caring, always saying that every job needed to be accomplished. He was there to make sure things happened. While this resolution lists many of his accomplishments as a legislator and county commissioner, it was that quiet determination, that force which made things happen. "Keep it calm, keep it moving, we'll take care of it, it will happen." That kind of legacy to a community can never ever be fully repaid, but it stands upon those shoulders, the shoulders of giants. Carl Shelly was one of those individuals.

Resolution adopted unanimously.

Assemblyman Anderson moved that all rules be suspended and that Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 12 be immediately transmitted to the Senate.

Motion carried unanimously.

ASSEMBLYMAN PARKS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. There is a homeless problem in Nevada, as well as the United States, and it will not go away. In fact, it is getting much worse every year. One of the reasons this is not a popular topic to talk about is that we live in the greatest country in the world, and we have tens of thousands of men, women, and especially children, wandering our streets with no place to call home. This is truly a national tragedy. This is not a Republican or Democratic problem. This is not someone else's problem; it's our problem and we must find a way to solve it.

Many of us have numerous options in our lives. It's hard to imagine becoming homeless because we know we have many alternatives to being on the street. This is not true for most people who are, in fact, homeless. They have run out of good options. That's why they are on the street. They constantly have to choose very limited, mostly unattractive, alternatives that usually don't do much to improve their lives. These limited options are what keep people trapped on the street. They are frustrated, in crisis, trying to beat the odds. Sometimes, after all options seem exhausted, people stop trying. They have a "Hobson's choice." This is defined in the dictionary as the choice of taking the things offered or nothing at all. People are not homeless on their own terms. They work with the options they have.

I'd like to close by citing a portion of a song I know all of us have heard by Phil Collins. It is from the song, "Another Day in Paradise":

She calls out to the man on the street,
"Sir, can you help me?
It's cold and I've nowhere to sleep,
Is there somewhere you can tell me?"

He walks on, doesn't look back.
He pretends he can't hear her.
Starts to whistle as he crosses the street.
Seems embarrassed to be there.

Oh think twice, it's another day for
You and me in paradise.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BUCKLEY:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support of ACR 13. I can't imagine what it would be like to live on the street. I can't imagine not getting up every day and coming to my job or public career like I have here, thankful to be at my job and doing public service. I can't imagine not having a warm family, a beautiful home to go to every night—to feel abandoned. Especially for those who don't choose to be homeless, but are homeless because they came to Nevada seeking a good job but did not find one, then received a five-day eviction notice. Or for those who choose to live on the street because "Things are so bad, I don't want to go back to my home." I can't imagine anything worse.

The homeless problem is viewed as being difficult and intractable. I don't think it is at all. I think what we do is we try to save people, one person at a time. We have shelters so that people don't die on the streets. For those who want help, who want jobs, we help them get them.

When I was the president of the Southern Nevada Homeless Coalition in 1991, I think it was the most difficult job that I had. The solutions were pretty clear, but political will was nowhere to be found. I don't think the situation is much different today and that is sad. The one strength, though, that we do have all over the state, are the tremendous people who work every day to make it different, whether they are faith-based organizations that do so much of this work; or whether they are nonprofit groups like the Nevada Health Centers, Shade Tree, and others; whether it's county and city staff, who do such a good job on this issue, but perhaps don't get the support they need from up top; whether it's advocates. We have one such advocate who is not affiliated with any group, but just goes out every day to try to save people. They are our resources and the only progress we are making, I think, is because of them. I think as we turn our attention to this Homeless Awareness Day, let's do all that we can to try to bring attention to this problem and to support those who are out on the streets every day, trying to make a difference.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN OHRENSCHALL:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, too, rise in support of this resolution. I think it is important, as we vote for it, that we realize that it's not a situation of "us" trying to help "them." They really are not different from any of us in this room. There, but for the grace of God, could go any of us. One small investment gone wrong, one necessary layoff because of an economy gone bad, and someone could suddenly end up homeless. That is why we have to acknowledge our brothers and sisters and their problems and try to be there to help them. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN GIBBONS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, too, rise in support of ACR 13. Having had a business in downtown Reno for many years, the homeless problem is more than what we really would want to recognize. It is all around us. I saw it every day. Of course, in those early years, in the early 1970s, when I first opened my business, I wanted to help them. There weren't all these regulations. Many times, I would have a few of them sleep in the basement of my office. I'm sure now there would be no way I could do that. However, I did get acquainted with some of them very well. A lot of times they would be hungry and would dollar me to death or five-dollar me to death. I learned a lot, however, from them. Some people ended up becoming hard on their luck. They had been successful, a lot of times, previously, in areas of their life. Circumstances just happened to get the best of them.

People remember when you reach out to help. I want to share this story that is personal. I hope you don't find it offensive because it is very precious and sweet. This gentleman had been homeless and I had seen him many times, and he came to visit me often. He shared with me some of the stories of the street, but, as you know, it gets very cold in Reno and sometimes he wasn't able to find shelter. If I wasn't there late at night, I was unable to let him into my business. One night, he died. I did not know about it for a few weeks. I was then contacted by the police and was told he had left me something. It was his ashes. I think that is very precious because it showed that he didn't have anything to give but what he did have he wanted for me to remember and share with other people. I think it is a unique opportunity. I have never told this story publicly to anyone but I wanted to share with you today to let you know that when we reach out and help people, they remember. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Amendment No. 212.

(1) Fraudulent;

(2) Issued contrary to law; or

2. If a pharmacist refuses to dispense a prescription pursuant to subparagraph (3) of paragraph (a) of subsection 1, the pharmacist shall consult with".

Assemblyman Hardy moved the adoption of the amendment.

Remarks by Assemblymen Hardy, Goldwater, and Giunchigliani.

Assemblyman Hardy requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal:

ASSEMBLYMAN HARDY:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This would amend AB 144 to allow a pharmacist to practice his moral, ethical, or religious standards and beliefs that would otherwise be precluded from this bill, thereby protecting his First Amendment right.

ASSEMBLYMAN GOLDWATER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. With all due respect to my colleagues who are trying to do what they think is right, I have to rise in opposition to Amendment No. 212 to AB 144. What the amendment does, if adopted, is to make the bill unnecessary. We won't need the bill because a pharmacist would not have to fill a prescription for virtually any reason. Additionally, AB 144 currently provides that if pharmacists do not stock a particular drug, they don't have to fill a prescription. The point of the entire bill is to say, if there is a prescription and the pharmacists have the drug, they need to fill the prescription. If the amendment is adopted, there is no reason for the bill.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN GIUNCHIGLIANI:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, too, rise in opposition to Amendment No. 212 to AB 144. There are several reasons. In the original language of the bill draft, I attempted to get to where this amendment was trying to go. However, after doing further research and through several committee hearings, I found, unknown to me, a learned intermediary doctrine in a case called Yong S. Gennock v. Warner Lambert Co. In the context of a learned intermediary, the learned intermediary is a medical expert such as a prescribing physician, whose task is to weigh the benefits of any medication against possible dangers and to make an individualized medical judgment based on the knowledge of both the patient and the palliative. At a minimum, under Nevada law, a pharmacist must be held to a duty to fill prescriptions as prescribed and properly label them, including warnings, and be alert for error. That is what this bill has already been amended to do. Pharmacist are not a medical doctors. They are not entitled to the same type of oath of office that a medical doctor takes, and they are not included under the learned doctrine. They are separate from that and this reaffirms Nevada's interpretation that was done in this case, which is that a pharmacist has a duty to fill. I would urge you to oppose this amendment. Thank you.

Amendment lost.

THE SIXTY-FOURTH DAY

CARSON CITY (Monday), April 7, 2003

Assembly called to order at 11:25 a.m.

Mr. Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present except Assemblyman Arberry, who was excused.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Reverend Albert Tilstra.

Dear God, today I am thinking of paths. How easy it is to take the path already smoothed by other feet, where all the rocks have been removed, all the holes filled in, and signs already mark the way; but maybe that is not the path that You would have us take today. Help us to make a path where we ought to be rather than the one already paved. Our country's pioneers did this. Thank You for their vision and their courage, their commitment that, in the end, populated our country from sea to sea. Although our path may be but a dim reflection of those pioneers' trails, I ask for the vision and courage to risk exploring a wilderness instead of following the ways of others.

AMEN.

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Assemblyman Oceguera moved that further reading of the Journal be dispensed with, and the Speaker and Chief Clerk be authorized to make the necessary corrections and additions.

THE SIXTY-EIGHTH DAY

CARSON CITY (Friday), April 11, 2003

Assembly called to order at 11:07 a.m.

Mr. Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Reverend Albert Tilstra.

We pray for those who live in cities, O God, who live surrounded by tall buildings and bustling crowds. We pray for people who live in rural areas as well, for those who appreciate verdant fields, rolling desert hills, and earthy fragrances. We pray for those who live in luxury and those who struggle in poverty, for the people who are gainfully employed, and those who beg for change. We pray for the ones without friends and for those who confidently assume everyone loves them. We are all Americans. We are all connected. Help us feel that bond. If we have plenty, inspire us to share. If we are happy and content, remind us to reach out to others. If we are literate, may we work that all might read. We do not live for ourselves alone; help us to work for liberty and justice for all.

AMEN.

Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Assemblyman Oceguera moved that further reading of the Journal be dispensed with, and the Speaker and Chief Clerk be authorized to make the necessary corrections and additions.

Motion carried.

MESSAGES FROM THE SENATE

SENATE CHAMBER, Carson City, April 14, 2003

To the Honorable the Assembly:

I have the honor to inform your honorable body that the Senate on this day adopted Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 28.

MARY JO MONGELLI
Assistant Secretary of the Senate

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 28.

Assemblywoman Gibbons moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblywoman Gibbons.

Assemblyman Collins requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN GIBBONS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm very pleased today to have Rollan Melton's family here. First, I want to speak about Rollan Melton. He was well regarded worldwide as a newspaper columnist. To us, he was the Herb Caen of Reno. His column was the most loved and best read of any of the columnists of northern Nevada, being voted most popular in northern Nevada. He had a way with words. I come from a newspaper family as well, and we used to say that "ink was in your blood." He used to tell me "Always remember that when you write, you say it with flowers, you say it with mink, but only a dumb fool says it in ink." Well, Rollan Melton was no dumb fool. He wrote 4,000 columns that were all published. They are now all very proudly presented in books. His family, grandchildren, and his great-grandchildren can forever be proud of the work he did.

His resumé of accomplishments could go on and on. I most remember him from his early years when he used to sing. He actually sang at a very good friend's wedding, probably 40 years ago. Rollan was from Fallon and all the Fallon people loved him. If I were trying to describe

Rollan Melton best, and to say what he meant to the people in Reno, I would share with you another little line of his, "Words are like eggs and should be handled with care because eggs, once broken, are like words unspoken and can never ever again be repaired."

Before he died, Rollan Melton's daughter told a story of how his wife, Marilyn, had awakened and stubbed her toe in the middle of the night. It woke Rollan. He got up and said, "I love you." He then rolled over and took his last breath. That is the man we will never forget. He wrote about times and days gone by and wrote about friends who are not forgotten. Rollan Melton is one person who will live an eternity for all of us because he made a difference, writing good and kind words about people, telling about days gone by, and friends who are gone but not forgotten.

Resolution adopted unanimously.

Mr. Speaker announced if there were no objections, the Assembly would recess subject to the call of the Chair.

Sec. 3. Except as otherwise provided in section 4 of this act, each county shall:

1. Commence payment of the increased annual salaries of the elected officers of the county set forth in the table of annual salaries contained in NRS 245.043, as amended by section 1 of this act, on July 1, 2003.

2. Commence payment of the increased annual salaries of the elected officers of the county set forth in the table of annual salaries contained in NRS 245.043, as amended by section 2 of this act, on July 1, 2004.

Sec. 4. 1. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 3, a board of county commissioners may apply to the Committee on Local Government Finance for a waiver from:

(a) The requirement to increase the annual salaries of elected officers of the county to the annual salaries set forth in the table contained in NRS 245.043, as amended by section 1 of this act, if the board determines that the financial resources of the county are insufficient to pay those increased annual salaries in Fiscal Year 2003-2004.

(b) The requirement to increase the annual salaries of elected officers of the county to the annual salaries set forth in the table contained in NRS 245.043, as amended by section 2 of this act, if the board determines that the financial resources of the county are insufficient to pay those increased annual salaries in Fiscal Year 2004-2005.

The Committee on Local Government Finance shall grant such a waiver if it finds that the financial resources of the county are insufficient to pay those increased annual salaries in the applicable fiscal year.

2. A board of county commissioners that has been granted a waiver for a fiscal year may apply to the Committee on Local Government Finance for an additional waiver for the next consecutive fiscal year if it finds that the financial resources of the county continue to be insufficient to pay the increased annual salaries of the elected officers of the county set forth in the table contained in NRS 245.043, as amended by section 1 or 2 of this act. There is no limitation on the number of waivers for consecutive fiscal years that the board of county commissioners may be granted if the board of county commissioners finds that the financial resources of the county continue to be insufficient to pay the increased annual salaries of the elected officers of the county set forth in the table contained in NRS 245.043, as amended by section 1 or 2 of this act, in that fiscal year.

3. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, after commencing payment of the increased annual salaries of the elected officers of the county set forth in the table contained in NRS 245.043, as amended by section 1 or 2 of this act, a board of county commissioners may not apply for a waiver in any subsequent fiscal year. The fact that a board of county commissioners has, in Fiscal Year 2003-2004, paid the annual salaries set forth in the table contained in NRS 245.043 as amended by section 1 of this act, does not preclude the board of county commissioners from applying for and being granted a waiver from paying the annual salaries set forth in the table contained in NRS 245.043 as amended by section 2 of this act in Fiscal Year 2004-2005 or in any consecutive year if the Committee on Local Government Finance determines that the financial resources of the county are insufficient to pay the increased annual salaries of the elected officers of the county.

4. The increased annual salaries of the elected officers of the county set forth in the table contained in NRS 245.043, as amended by section 1 or 2 of this act, must not be paid retroactively for a period to which a waiver is applicable.

Sec. 5. The provisions of NRS 354.599 do not apply to any additional expenses of a local government that are related to the provisions of this act.

Sec. 6. 1. This section and sections 1, 3, 4 and 5 of this act become effective on July 1, 2003.

2. Section 1 of this act expires by limitation on June 30, 2004.

3. Section 2 of this act becomes effective on July 1, 2004.”.

Amend the title of the bill to read as follows:

“AN ACT relating to public officers; increasing the compensation of district attorneys and sheriffs; authorizing a county to request and receive a waiver from the increases in compensation in the event of insufficient financial resources; providing that a waiver may not be applied for in certain circumstances; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.”.

Shelley Berkley, United States Representative, delivered her message as follows:

MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE OF NEVADA
SEVENTY-SECOND SESSION, 2003

Thank you, Speaker pro Tempore Williams. It is a pleasure for me to be here. I know how busy you are at this time during the legislative session and I appreciate you giving me the opportunity to speak with you for a few minutes. I was reminiscing with some of the people that I saw as I came into the Chamber, and while I walked around the halls today it occurred to me that I served in the Nevada State Assembly 20 years ago. It is amazing how quickly time flies. My son was an infant at the time I was elected. Those of you who were here remember I was bringing him back and forth and now he will be 21 in June, and that makes me much older now than I was then.

I am going to attempt to wing this speech. I received many calls from the legislative staff asking if I could please give them a written speech so they could enter it into the record. I have become very bored with listening to elected officials read their speeches. Since I find them boring I can't imagine any one of you would find my words inspirational if I read them, so I am going to try to do this with just the benefit of some head notes.

As busy as I have been in Washington, D.C., over the last several months, during such an extraordinarily difficult time, I have tried to keep in touch with everything that is happening here and the challenges you have in the Nevada State Legislature. I know they are daunting and I wanted to congratulate all of you and pay homage to you for the incredible work that you do with limited staff and resources. I think you do a great job on behalf of the people that you represent. I particularly want to acknowledge the Assembly Leadership for having a very robust agenda for the first 45 days. In spite of all the challenges you have, you have kept this Legislature on track and passed legislation that is important to the people you represent. I think this is of paramount importance and I applaud you. I want to congratulate Senator Titus on her Red Rock victory yesterday in committee. I also want to thank Governor Guinn for staying the course and being extremely courageous in what you are doing. I am honored that you are here.

I wanted to address a number of issues today. I sit on three committees, the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, the Veterans Affairs Committee, and the International Relations Committee. I thought I would share what we are doing on those three committees to give you a better feel of what I do. I also want to talk about the energy legislation that was just passed, as well as the federal budget and its impact on the state of Nevada, those you represent, and all of you.

I would like to talk about the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee. This is my major committee in Congress. I sit on the Aviation Subcommittee and the Ground Transportation Subcommittee. Of importance this year, we are doing the reauthorization of T21, which gives us the authority to fund our projects for the next five years. If it isn't in this year's budget, it will not be funded for the next five years. Being in a growth state like Nevada, it is very important that we get these projects through, and we should get them through this year. Each of us, in our own congressional district, has a number of projects for which we are requesting funding. I am concentrating on CD1. Congressman Porter, who is also on the Transportation Committee, has a number of projects, many of which interlock with mine. They have been divided up in the best way we can to serve the people that we represent. Of course, Congressman Gibbons has his own set of requests that he is working on as well. The number one priority for the Nevada Department of Transportation (NDOT) is the Clark County Beltway system-to-system interchanges, which is I-215. We have four projects within the I-215 Corridor. The first project is the expansion of the airport connector. If any of you have tried to get to McCarran Airport from I-215 you know how difficult it is with increasing congestion on almost a daily basis. This is going to be corrected. The next project is to create a Summerland interchange. If any of you live in Summerland and are using I-215, you know the amount of traffic I-215 and Summerland is getting. We are also widening I-15 north of US 95 to the speedway and widening US 95 north of Craig Road to the Beltway. All of these projects are very important to the future growth and development of the Las Vegas Valley.

The second project for which we are requesting funds is the Las Vegas Multimodal Transit System, consisting of three components. I am committed, as is the Regional Transportation Commission, to southern Nevada. We have a continuing commitment to a fully integrated transit system throughout the Las Vegas Valley. The first component is the Las Vegas Resort Corridor Fixed Guideway Airport Extension. In plain English, that means the new monorail system will extend from where it is currently beginning to the airport. This is a very big project, and it is important that we get the funding this year. As part of this intermodal system, we are working on a Citizens Area Transit Rail (CAT). The CAT-Rail is a state-of-the-art bus system that will bring people from the outlying areas and the Henderson area to the airport so that they can utilize the intermodal system.

The third component is the Central City Intermodal Transportation Terminal. This will be the major transit center for the metropolitan area in southern Nevada. It includes several facilities for various transportation modes, the CAT System, the Metropolitan Area Express (MAX) Bus Rapid Transit System, and the monorail, all converging in the same place. You can start in Henderson and end up in downtown Las Vegas with very few transit stops. It is big, it is important, it is the wave of the future, and we are going for all the dollars we can in order to receive funding.

The third project I am requesting is money for the Nevada-California Magnetic Levitation Train. This is a very important project for the future of the state of Nevada. If there is another terrorist attack on United States soil and the state of Nevada experiences the same economic downturn because people are not coming to Nevada, we are going to be in a world of hurt, economically. Right now, 46 percent of the people that come to southern Nevada to enjoy our wholesome family entertainment come through McCarran Airport. If people stop flying then our 127,000 hotel rooms will not be filled. The 2 ½ employees who are hired for each hotel room will have trouble getting work. We cannot afford again what happened on 9/11, losing 20,000 jobs almost overnight. We are hoping the Magnetic Levitation Train System will transport people from the southern California area, our major market in southern Nevada, and bring them to the Las Vegas Valley without having to fly through McCarran Airport. I had a meeting in Las Vegas yesterday with the Chairman of the Transportation Committee, Don Young, and he has assured us this project is front and center and will probably be funded this year. There are several other projects throughout the state of Nevada, which I will allow my colleagues to discuss.

The second committee that I sit on is the Veterans Affairs Committee. I have the fastest growing veterans population in the United States in southern Nevada. I have 200,000 veterans. Many of them went through the Vietnam War, the Korean War, or World War II. These veterans are not getting any younger and since we have the fastest growing senior population in southern Nevada, it converges. Many of the veterans depend upon the VA System in order to receive their health care needs met. In 1997, before I was elected to the United States Congress, I just happened to be at the ribbon cutting for the Addeliar D. Guy III VA Clinic on Martin Luther King Boulevard. Five years after that ribbon cutting, in a building that should have lasted many decades, the building has now been condemned as uninhabitable for humans. Consequently, the VA is in the process of closing that building. Until we get a new building to service our veterans, they will receive their health care needs at eight different locations in southern Nevada. It is going to be extremely difficult for our older veterans to be standing in the heat or the cold and wait for a bus to pick them up and take them from one location to another to have their health care needs met. It is very important that we get a replacement VA health care clinic as soon as possible. I have an assurance from the VA Secretary, who has visited Las Vegas on numerous occasions, that within three years we will have a state-of-the-art, 250,000-square-foot VA clinic to service our veterans in southern Nevada. We had better have it because the leases we have on the eight locations are three-year leases. We don't want to extend them for another three years. It is very important that we get this accomplished. We are looking for land in southern Nevada. The Request For Proposal has been issued and we are anxious that this is awarded soon and we get the VA clinic. There are 200,000 veterans in southern Nevada depending on us to do this and I have promised that we will, in fact, get it done.

In addition, the veterans in southern Nevada need to have a full-service hospital of their own. Certainly with 200,000 veterans in the Las Vegas Valley, I think we have reached a critical mass so that they don't have to share the facilities at Nellis Air Force Base. Approximately 1,500 of our veterans have to go out of state every year in order to get their acute health care needs met. We are taking older Americans, who do not have much money and have very little family, away from their loved ones at a time when they need their support, and sending them several hundred miles away in order to get health care. That is unacceptable to me and I am sure it is unacceptable to everyone in this room. We will work on getting the full service VA hospital as soon as we get the health care clinic completed. When we are done with that we are going to go after a long-term care facility because our veterans don't have a long-term health care facility in the Las Vegas area funded by the federal government, which we need. These are the issues we are working on in the Veterans Affairs Committee.

My third committee is the International Relations Committee. I sit on the Middle East/South Asian Subcommittee. My area of jurisdiction is Afghanistan, Pakistan, India, Iran, Iraq, and the entire Middle East. When I was appointed to this committee I did not anticipate that this would be where all the action is in the United State House of Representatives. It has been an extraordinary experience to have a bird's-eye view on what is going on globally and its impact on the United States of America.

I want to touch very lightly on Iraq and the Middle East. I supported the President's plan to go into Iraq by first going to the United Nations and getting the support, which we initially did in a 15-0 vote by the Security Council. I also voted for legislation that we authorize the President to go in unilaterally if necessary. He, in fact, did and I am grateful that after a month of hostilities things are winding down successfully. I think the easy part is over. The challenge now is in winning the peace. We are going to have our hands full and it is going to be very important. I believe bringing democracy, liberty, and freedom to the Iraqi people will change the paradigm in the Middle East. It is very important that this is done. I do not think there can be peace in the world and an end to terrorism, which is a relatively new phenomenon for those of us who live in the United States, if we do not solve the Middle East crisis, a situation which is not getting any better. I am supporting the President in his road map for Middle East peace and I urge you to watch what happens now that things are winding down in Iraq. I can assure you that the next area the President is going to concentrate on is bringing peace to the Middle East. I believe that the Israelis are entitled to a peaceful existence within secure borders. They are entitled to be recognized for their right to exist by their Arab neighbors and free from random terrorist attacks. I believe the Palestinian people are entitled to a homeland of their own.

For those in our country who are concerned that we went over the United Nations by going into Iraq, let me suggest this to you. There will be a role for the United Nations to play, but the United States could not abdicate our national security interest to anyone, any country, any entity. In the end, it is the United States, the United States government, and all of us who are public servants that owe our constituents protection and the right to be free, have liberty and freedom, and I believe that we did the right thing. When you think of the United Nations, please keep in mind that before we relinquish any responsibility to the United Nations, Syria, a rogue country, is a member of the Security Council, although a nonvoting member. Libya is chairman of the Human Rights Committee and Iraq is chairman of the Disarmament Committee, something they know something about now.

I want to talk to you briefly about this nation's energy policy. I recently voted against the Administration's energy bill. In my opinion it does nothing to promote a long-term sustainable, affordable policy in this nation. I agree with the President that we have to get away from our dependence and reliance on foreign oil sources, for so many reasons, including security reasons and foreign interest reasons. It is a mistake to be relying our energy needs on dictators and potentates that we ordinarily would not be spending any time with and would be enemies of ours. We make a lot of compromises in order to get that oil, and we should not. Where I part company with the Administration is on the new reliance on nuclear power in order to sustain this nation's energy needs. In the legislation that I voted against, there is a $1 billion subsidy to the nuclear industry. The problem with that, of course, for all of us in Nevada, is this nation has never figured out what it is going to do with its nuclear waste. If we subsidize the nuclear industry to the tune of $1 billion in order to build new power plants, the end result of nuclear energy is nuclear waste. We don't know what to do with it and this nation's solution is to put it in a hole in the Nevada desert. I will reiterate to you, we don't want it, we don't need it, and this is twentieth century technology in a twenty-first century world. Certainly there is a better way of providing for our energy needs and not spending it in a hole in the Nevada desert.

Another problem with this legislation is the so-called "Price-Anderson Amendment." This amendment caps the industry's liability for any nuclear accident. The federal government is indemnifying the nuclear industry with taxpayers' money. If there is a catastrophic accident in any of the nuclear power plants, it is the American taxpayers who will be footing the bill, and not the nuclear industry, for whatever negligence caused the problem. That is wrong. Excuse the cost of nuclear power and excuse it to the low side. If we had to account for insurance needs and the indemnification of the nuclear industry, I can guarantee that nuclear power would be a lot more expensive than they say it is. I think this really skews the numbers dramatically. It is easy to criticize, but what do I think is important? I think we should be investing in renewable energy sources. If the federal government wants Nevada to be the epicenter of energy needs in this country, then let us. Let us harness the sun, wind, geothermal energy, and hydrogen cells. We can do it if we invest the dollars in renewable energy sources. Rather than put $308 billion into Yucca Mountain, the latest estimate of what it is going to cost, let us take a portion of that and subsidize the fledgling solar energy companies, wind power companies, and hydrogen cell companies. Let's do something productive with that money and make this nation energy self-sufficient and leave a legacy to our children, our children's children, and Americans yet unborn, so that we can take care of their energy needs for generations to come. I must give you all credit. I know Nevada has one of the most ambitious renewable portfolios in the entire nation, and I am proud to say I stole your idea and introduced it in the House of Representatives. The United States of America would be very wise to follow Nevada's lead when it comes to renewable energy.

Let me talk briefly about the federal budget. This is the final issue that I wish to discuss. The budget that was passed last week in Congress and its potential fiscal impact on Nevada are things you have to hear about and you need to know, because it is going to impact you, the State, and whatever services we can provide for our constituents. It is important for you to know I voted for the $1.3 trillion tax in 2001. I was one of 27 Democrats who crossed party lines in order to vote for this legislation. I voted for the elimination of the marriage penalty tax. I voted for the elimination of the so-called death tax. I am not adverse to cutting taxes. I thought they were appropriate taxes to cut. I also did it in an atmosphere where we had a $5.6 trillion surplus in this country; there was no war against terrorism, no war in Iraq, no such thing as homeland security needs. This time Congress passed a budget containing tax cuts of over $1.2 trillion, none of which is designed to stimulate the economy. The cut came at a time when we are running a $400 billion deficit, just this year alone, with no hope of turning that around until at least another decade; at a time 42 states, including the state of Nevada, are in fiscal crisis; at a time when we have no idea how long we will be in Iraq, or how much it will cost. We don't know how long the war on terrorism will be, where it will take us, or what the ultimate cost of the war will be. This is a time when the baby boomers are thinking about retiring and expecting their Social Security checks. This is also a time when we have been under great pressure to finally deliver on a prescription medication benefit that we have been promising the United States of America for the last eight years. To fund the tax cut, the Administration proposes the following cuts in the federal budget, which will impact Nevada. A 7.8 percent cut in the Federal Highway Fund; 7.8 percent does not sound like a lot, but Nevada's share totals to $16 million, which equates to 760 construction jobs that will be lost if we cut the federal highway dollars by 7.8 percent. At a time when our economy is soft we cannot afford to lose one job, let alone 760 jobs. If you want to talk about stimulating the economy, laying people off is not the way. A $250 billion cut to Medicaid and Medicare over the next ten years translates to a $1.2 billion cut to the state of Nevada. That would have devastating consequences on our state budget and I think you in this room know, far better than I, the cost of your Medicaid programs. Talk to the doctors about cutting Medicare, when many doctors are calling my office and telling me they are not going to treat senior citizens because they are not able to afford to anymore. There is a limit to waste, fraud, and abuse, and if you talk to our doctors, they will tell you they are there now.

The proposed education budget is flat. That has devastating consequences for growth states like Nevada. The 2004 Education Budget eliminates 47 education programs. The program that leapt to my eyes when I reviewed it was the Dropout Prevention Program. It has been zeroed out. Nevada has one of the highest dropout rates in the United States. We cannot afford to lose a penny of dropout prevention money. Quite the contrary, we need far more. The No Child Left Behind Program was $9 billion below the amount authorized for 2004. What this should be called is "Leave Every Child Behind." It doesn't matter if the programs are passed if there is no money to fund them. After-school programs had a 41 percent cut. Ask Sheriff Young what this will do to the crime rate in southern Nevada. He will tell you, as he told me, that if we eliminate the after school programs, juvenile crime between 3:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. is going to skyrocket. That is obvious for societal reasons in southern Nevada and I suspect throughout the state of Nevada. We cannot afford to do without these programs. They make our nation better, make our nation stronger, make our state better, and make the people we represent better citizens and a part of the American dream. That is our responsibility to the people we represent.

I love my job. It is an honor to serve in the United States House of Representatives and represent your hometown. When we first moved to Las Vegas when I was 11 years old, the first thing we did when we drove into town was to drive down the Las Vegas Strip. I remember thinking to myself, this is the most incredible street that I have ever seen. I drive down that street 40 years later and I have the same reaction. I know how blessed I am that my family decided to make Nevada its home 40 years ago. I am very grateful to all of you and to the people of southern Nevada for giving me an opportunity to represent them in our nation's capital. I also want to take this opportunity to tell all of you how much I admire the work that you do during extraordinarily difficult times. We, in public service, have a responsibility to the people we represent. It is very easy to fulfill that responsibility when things are good, the economy is strong, our nation is at peace, and everybody feels good. It is a little more challenging when things aren't going as well. I have great faith in this nation, the people I represent, and all of the people of the great state of Nevada. When I stand up on the Floor of the House and start speaking about the great state of Nevada, I don't say it as a throw-away line. It is a great state, a wonderful state, and you do a remarkable job. I want to thank you on behalf of the people I represent to the people you represent. Thank you, and God bless.

Sec. 3. NRS 278.3195 is hereby amended to read as follows:

278.3195 1. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 278.310, each governing body shall adopt an ordinance providing that any person who is aggrieved by a decision of:

2. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 278.310, an ordinance adopted pursuant to subsection 1 must set forth, without limitation:

(a) The period within which an appeal must be filed with the governing body.

(b) The procedures pursuant to which the governing body will hear the appeal.

(c) That the governing body may affirm, modify or reverse a decision.

(g) That the governing body may charge the appellant a fee for the filing of an appeal.

3. In addition to the requirements set forth in subsection 2, in a county whose population is 400,000 or more, an ordinance adopted pursuant to subsection 1 must:

Sec. 4. NRS 281.501 is hereby amended to read as follows:

281.501 1. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 2 ~~[or 3,]~~ , 3 or 4, a public officer may vote upon a matter if the benefit or detriment accruing

2. ~~[In]~~ Except as otherwise provided in subsection 3, in addition to the requirements of the code of ethical standards, a public officer shall not vote upon or advocate the passage or failure of, but may otherwise participate in the consideration of a matter with respect to which the independence of judgment of a reasonable person in his situation would be materially affected by:

(a) His acceptance of a gift or loan;

(b) His pecuniary interest; or

(c) His commitment in a private capacity to the interests of others.

It must be presumed that the independence of judgment of a reasonable person would not be materially affected by his pecuniary interest or his commitment in a private capacity to the interests of others where the resulting benefit or detriment accruing to him or to the other persons whose interests to which the member is committed in a private capacity is not greater than that accruing to any other member of the general business, profession, occupation or group. The presumption set forth in this subsection does not affect the applicability of the requirements set forth in subsection ~~[3]~~ 4 relating to the disclosure of the pecuniary interest or commitment in a private capacity to the interests of others.

3. In a county whose population is 400,000 or more, a member of a county or city planning commission shall not vote upon or advocate the passage or failure of, but may otherwise participate in the consideration of a matter with respect to which the independence of judgment of a reasonable person in his situation would be materially affected by:

(b) His direct pecuniary interest; or

(c) His commitment to a member of his household or a person who is related to him by blood, adoption or marriage within the third degree of consanguinity or affinity. It must be presumed that the independence of judgment of a reasonable person would not be materially affected by his direct pecuniary interest or his commitment described in paragraph (c) where the resulting benefit or detriment accruing to him or to the other persons whose interests to which the member is committed is not greater than that accruing to any other member of the general business, profession, occupation or group. The presumption set forth in this subsection does not affect the applicability of the requirements set forth in subsection 4 relating to the disclosure of the direct pecuniary interest or commitment.

4. A public officer or employee shall not approve, disapprove, vote, abstain from voting or otherwise act upon any matter:

(a) Regarding which he has accepted a gift or loan;

(b) Which would reasonably be affected by his commitment in a private capacity to the interest of others; or

(c) In which he has a pecuniary interest, without disclosing sufficient information concerning the gift, loan, commitment or interest to inform the public of the potential effect of the action or abstention upon the person who provided the gift or loan, upon the person to whom he has a commitment, or upon his interest. Except as otherwise provided in subsection ~~[6,]~~ 7, such a disclosure must be made at the time the matter is considered. If the officer or employee is a member of a body which makes decisions, he shall make the disclosure in public to the Chairman and other members of the body. If the officer or employee is not a member of such a body and holds an appointive office, he shall make the disclosure to the supervisory head of his organization or, if he holds an elective office, to the general public in the area from which he is elected. This subsection does not require a public officer to disclose any campaign contributions that the public officer reported pursuant to NRS 294A.120 or 294A.125 in a timely manner.

~~[4.]~~ 5. If a public officer declares to the body or committee in which the vote is to be taken that he will abstain from voting because of the requirements of this section, the necessary quorum to act upon and the number of votes necessary to act upon the matter, as fixed by any statute, ordinance or rule, is reduced as though the member abstaining were not a member of the body or committee.

~~[5.]~~ 6. If a public officer is voting on a matter which affects public employees, he shall make a full public disclosure of any personal pecuniary interest which he may have in the matter.

~~[6.]~~ 7. After a member of the Legislature makes a disclosure pursuant to subsection ~~[3,]~~ 4, he may file with the Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau a written statement of his disclosure. The written statement must designate the matter to which the disclosure applies. After a Legislator files a written statement pursuant to this subsection, he is not required to disclose orally his interest when the matter is further considered by the Legislature or any committee thereof. A written statement of disclosure is a public record and must be made available for inspection by the public during the regular office hours of the Legislative Counsel Bureau.

~~[7.]~~ 8. The provisions of this section do not, under any circumstances:

(a) Prohibit a member of the legislative branch from requesting or introducing a legislative measure; or

(b) Require a member of the legislative branch to take any particular action before or while requesting or introducing a legislative measure.

~~[8.]~~ 9. As used in this section, "commitment in a private capacity to the interests of others" means a commitment to a person:

(a) Who is a member of his household;

(b) Who is related to him by blood, adoption or marriage within the third degree of consanguinity or affinity;

(c) Who employs him or a member of his household;

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN PERKINS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. Assembly Bill 250 sets forth legislative findings and declarations concerning terrorist events and the intent of the Legislature to strengthen the State's laws to provide protection from acts of terrorism while protecting the Constitutional rights of its residents. The bill provides that any person who commits a felony with the intent to cause, aid, further, or conceal an act of terrorism must be punished by a prison term equal to, and in addition to, the term for the underlying crime. If such a felony results in death or substantial bodily harm, in lieu of additional term of imprisonment, the felony is deemed to be a category A felony punishable by life in prison, with or without the possibility of parole, for a definite term of 50 years. The bill also provides that a first-degree murder includes murder committed in perpetration, or attempted perpetration, of an act of terrorism. It further specifies that knowingly, or intentionally committing, or concealing an act of terrorism, assisting another person to commit an act of terrorism, or providing material support to commit an act of terrorism, or to aid a terrorist, is a category A felony. It expands existing prohibitions concerning the development and possession of biological agents and other toxins to include other lethal chemical or radioactive agents. Finally, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, the bill requires resort hotels adopt and maintain emergency response plans that must be filed with local fire departments, law enforcement agencies, and the Division of Emergency Management of the Department of Public Safety.

There has been a lot of discussion about this bill and similar bills in the Legislature. A few concerns have been raised. I want to let the Body know what this bill does not do. The bill does not take away your civil rights. In fact, this Legislature could not do that any more than it could with any other bill. It reminded me a little of when we first passed the stalking statute in our state. Stalking, as defined, is when a person, who without lawful authority, willfully or maliciously engages in a course of conduct that would cause a reasonable person to feel terrorized, frightened, intimidated, or harassed, and that actually causes a person to feel terrorized, frightened, intimidated, or harassed. We debated that at great length, because the crime of stalking was in the thought of the person being stalked. The concern was this was going to be overused by the criminal justice system and how we would really define the crime of stalking. I would submit to you that it has been used very well and it has, in my estimation, kept a number of violent crimes from occurring.

This bill also does not affect civil disobedience. If you recall, yesterday we amended Section 7 to reinforce that concept. While I don't condone breaking the law in any fashion, I believe it is not only all right, but our duty, to question our government. Those who do this through civil disobedience are not terrorists. It doesn't make terrorists out of street gangs. We had law enforcement confirmation of that during the testimony in the Committee on Judiciary. Why do we need this bill? Our post-9/11 world is different. It is not our fault, rather the fault of those who did the unthinkable.

I have had the privilege of serving on the NCSL Task Force for the Protection of Democracy for the last year and a half. I have visited with many of our colleagues from across the country. Nevada Legislature's meeting every other year has had the benefit of watching other states have this same debate and craft their antiterror laws. We have actually borrowed some of the best and most careful language that they have used in those states. In fact, if you look at Section 1 of the bill, a lot of the Constitutional rights and civil rights protection we borrowed from the state of Washington. Having participated in the Las Vegas Valley's response on 9/11, I can tell you that we are as safe a place as there is in the world, but we cannot afford any slippage. You should all have a copy on your desk of the Wall Street Journal, from a few weeks ago, that talks about how those who are planning their summer vacations are fashioning them to be in a place they feel is safe. If they don't think Nevada is going to be a safe place, then they won't choose to come to Nevada. You all know what kind of effect that would have on our economy. We also know that Las Vegas is a particularly high-profile target, as safe as it is. There is another article that talks about a terrorist cell whose members were arrested in Detroit who had initially planned on striking the Las Vegas area.

Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, some have said we are taking away the civil rights of our citizens. As I have mentioned before, nothing we can do in the Legislature can take away the civil rights of the citizens of our state that are guaranteed to us by the Constitution of the United States and guaranteed to us by the Constitution of the State of Nevada. The United States Constitutional Bill of Rights was extended to the states when the Fourteenth Amendment was ratified in 1868, and rightfully so.

Over 19 years ago I took my first oath to support, protect, and uphold the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Nevada, when I first started my law enforcement career. I have repeated that oath six times in these Chambers. I believe that I am faithful to that oath in supporting this bill. The Constitution is not an obstacle in our pathway in this Legislature. The Constitution is our pathway. As I finish, I offer my thanks to our colleague from southern Nevada and his staff, who worked diligently to address concerns in the bill and putting together amendments, to craft what I feel is a good bill. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN BROWN:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of Assembly Bill 250. This concept was something that I started looking at, probably as everyone else in this room did, prior to the session. I started looking at some of the language that was out there and, in committee, I felt the center of this universe was the definition of an act of terrorism. It was critical. My position was the state of Nevada cannot get this wrong. It has to get the language right. We were looking at some other patterns of other states, which, frankly, I felt had not gotten it right. I think, looking at the definition that now exists in A.B. 250, we got it right. I am greatly encouraged and I was pleased with the work that Chairman Anderson and the Committee on Judiciary put into this, as well as the Speaker. I fully support the bill as it is. The civil rights that are so important to us, I believe, are maintained in this bill and so it has my support. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN HORNE:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of A.B. 250. A number of you have come to me and asked me if I were comfortable with these amendments and with this bill in its present form. I tell you that I am. As many of you know, I was given the privilege, by the Chairman of Judiciary and the Speaker, to work on this bill. Their explicit instructions were to make sure that the protections that everyone was concerned about were addressed in this bill, and that we didn't trample on civil rights. I believe that we accomplished that in the Committee on Judiciary and I urge your support.

ASSEMBLYMAN CARPENTER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of A.B. 250. I think that we are all concerned about our civil rights and our right to demonstrate. With the amendments that have been put into this bill, my right, and the right of anyone else who wants to go with me, to go to Jarbidge again, will be able to do that. Thank you.

Assemblyman Hettrick moved the adoption of the amendment.

Remarks by Assemblymen Hettrick and Oceguera.

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN HETTRICK:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. Assembly Bill 451 intends to expand or confirm cancer coverage for firefighters in the state of Nevada. I do not have a problem with the attempt to do that. The purpose of this amendment is to add volunteer firefighters to that coverage. It appears to me that if we expand this coverage to people who are willing to risk their lives to fight fires, it should apply to those who do that exact same thing and do it for free. In my county this is of particular concern because the bulk of our entire fighting force are volunteers. They risk their lives, their incomes, and their futures, daily, fighting fires for us. I believe this is a fairness issue and I believe it is appropriate that we should expand this coverage.

ASSEMBLYMAN OCEGUERA:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in opposition to Amendment 449, not because I don't support our volunteer firefighters; I certainly do. My colleague from Douglas County is absolutely correct regarding the job they do. There are a couple of differences though. One is that they don't have the physical examinations that we are required to have annually, which allows the early discovery of the problems that we are discussing in this bill, enabling an earlier start of treatment. The existing statute already covers volunteer firefighters in NRS 617.453. I would also like to point out to the membership most paid departments have a policy that you cannot use tobacco products, on or off the job. Wellness and fitness programs are also offered. Lastly, there is a decreased risk of exposure. I run about 14,000 calls a year, and some volunteers run about 200. The risk is lower.

Amendment lost on a division of the House.

Remarks by Assemblymen Oceguera, Hettrick, Buckley, Knecht, Goldwater, and Perkins.

Assemblywoman Buckley requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN OCEGUERA:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. Assembly Bill 451 is attempting to clarify the provisions regarding cancers and occupational disease for firemen by outlining specific types of cancer for which a full-time salaried fireman, having demonstrated that he was exposed to certain carcinogens while in the course of employment, may receive industrial insurance benefits. This bill does not create a presumptive conclusion. I urge your support.

ASSEMBLYMAN HETTRICK:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise to inform the Body, that while I don't disagree with the intent of this bill, it doesn't cover the volunteers. I voted no in committee and I will vote no again here.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BUCKLEY:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in support of Assembly Bill 451. The testimony on this Bill was very persuasive. We have firefighters who put their lives on the line to protect all of us, and are exposed to dangerous chemicals, which cause these very specific cancers. It was very distressing to learn in committee that in some very egregious cases firefighters are dying of cancer due to their exposure to these chemicals and that some of the insurance companies and self-insured companies go shopping for opinions so that they can deny the claim. We heard testimony from a physician saying he had reviewed a file where it was very clear that the cancer was caused by chemicals and had recommended payment, but the claim was denied. It is hard to fathom that such a system is allowed to proceed. While I certainly would like to see this expanded to volunteers, and perhaps our Minority Leader can bring such a bill forward next session, it was determined that the fiscal note would have killed the protections for our paid firefighters this session. I listened to the firefighter who testified in favor of this bill, and who had lost his hair due to his treatment and probably will not be around to see next session, and when I saw what he has gone through because he put his life on the line for us, it made it clear to me that this was a great bill to support.

ASSEMBLYMAN KNECHT:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise to announce, as I did in committee, I will vote no on this bill for its failure to cover the volunteers. I agree that otherwise it is a great bill. Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore.

ASSEMBLYMAN GOLDWATER:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I rise in strong support of A.B. 451 and would like to associate myself with the remarks of the Majority Leader. Testimony on this bill was shocking. It was shocking because we are dealing with a Workers' Compensation System that is intended to be a no-fault system, which covers people and indemnifies them because of their losses on the job. It has turned into a system of "cat and mouse," where claims are denied and claimants have to fight a war of attrition, and maybe, if they make it in the end, they get covered, but not without the expense of their own time and money and a lot of frustration. It is worthwhile also, as Chair of the Committee, to commend the sponsor of this provision, the Assemblyman from Clark County, in his passionate, thorough, and worthwhile presentation of this bill. I urge this Body to consider it.

ASSEMBLYMAN PERKINS:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore. I too rise in support of A.B. 451. There are a handful of our citizens that we ask to place themselves in harm's way in order to provide us security and public safety. They place themselves in a position where they are exposed to carcinogens and other types of harmful situations, for us to feel as safe in our societies as we do. The worst part about this bill is that it already is the law. Our colleague from Clark County had to bring this bill to further identify and define the law because there were entities not following the law. By not following the law, the entities are breaking that covenant that they had with those public safety employees, that they would have taken care of if exposed. That is why this bill had to be brought forward. Can you imagine what would have happened if, in New York City, after the collapse of the World Trade Center towers, that city had broken its covenant with all of its public safety officers? What if they had said instead, "We are not covering you. We are not taking care of you." It is abhorrent. I cannot believe we would even have to deal with a law like this. I understand the Minority Leader's position. At some point we would perhaps like to cover all volunteers as well. We don't want to create a situation where we don't have proper coverage, but as the member from Clark County said, they are covered in other ways. I am perplexed, however, that we generally don't vote against a bill because of something it doesn't do. Oftentimes we have to take baby steps in how we approach the laws and how we get changes done. We can only get a little bit done each session at a time. There is nothing bad in this bill. There is nothing bad in this bill to vote against. For that, Mr. Speaker pro Tempore, I urge support.

Bill read third time.

The following amendment was proposed by Assemblymen Giunchigliani and Mortenson:

Amendment No. 503.

Amend the bill as a whole by renumbering sections 1 and 2 as sections 5 and 6 and adding new sections designated sections 1 through 4, following the enacting clause, to read as follows:

"Section 1. Chapter 293 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

1. For each constitutional amendment or statewide measure proposed by initiative or referendum to be placed on the ballot by the Secretary of State, the Secretary of State shall, pursuant to subsection 4, appoint two committees. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 2, one committee must be composed of three persons who favor approval by the voters of the initiative or referendum and the other committee must be composed of three persons who oppose approval by the voters of the initiative or referendum.

2. If the Secretary of State is unable to appoint three persons who are willing to serve on a committee, he may appoint fewer than three persons to that committee, but he must appoint at least one person to each committee appointed pursuant to this section.

3. With respect to a committee appointed pursuant to this section:

(a) A person may not serve simultaneously on the committee that favors approval by the voters of an initiative or referendum and the committee that opposes approval by the voters of that initiative or referendum.

(b) Members of the committee serve without compensation.

(c) The term of office for each member commences upon appointment and expires upon the publication of the sample ballot containing the initiative or referendum.

4. The Secretary of State shall consider appointing to a committee pursuant to this section:

(e) Shall prepare a rebuttal to the argument prepared by the other committee appointed pursuant to this section; and

(f) Shall submit the argument and rebuttal prepared pursuant to paragraphs (d) and (e) to the Secretary of State not later than the date prescribed by the Secretary of State pursuant to subsection 6.

6. The Secretary of State shall provide, by rule or regulation:

(a) The maximum permissible length of an argument and rebuttal prepared pursuant to this section; and

7. Upon receipt of an argument or rebuttal prepared pursuant to this section, the Secretary of State:

(a) May consult with persons who are generally recognized by a national or statewide organization as having expertise in the field or area to which the initiative or referendum pertains; and

(b) Shall reject each statement in the argument or rebuttal that he believes is libelous or factually inaccurate.

Not later than 5 days after the Secretary of State rejects a statement pursuant to this subsection, the committee that prepared the statement may appeal that rejection to the Attorney General. The Attorney General shall review the statement and the reasons for its rejection and may receive evidence, documentary or testimonial, to aid him in his decision. Not later than 3 business days after the appeal by the committee, the Attorney General shall issue his decision rejecting or accepting the statement. The decision of the Attorney General is a final decision for the purposes of judicial review.

8. The Secretary of State may revise the language submitted by a committee pursuant to this section so that it is clear, concise and suitable for incorporation in the sample ballot, but shall not alter the meaning or effect of the language without the consent of the committee.

MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE OF NEVADA
SEVENTY-SECOND SESSION, 2003

Thank You, Mr. Speaker, Governor Guinn and Mrs. Guinn, Lt. Governor Hunt, Majority Leaders Raggio, and Buckley. Leaders Titus and Hettrick, Secretary of State Heller, Attorney General Sandoval, Treasurer Brian Krolicki, Controller Augustine, Members of the Court, fellow legislators, distinguished guests, my fellow Nevadans, and friends. That was the formal version. Now I would like to introduce you the way I would like, and that is, Governor, it is good to see you; Dean, Brian, Richard, Dina, thank you all very much. It is truly good to be back home. I miss you all. I can remember the last time I was here, sitting out there with you. I was bored to death wishing the speech would be over fast. Now I ask that you bear with me. I promise I won't take more than a couple of hours.

It's been 3 months and 13 days since I was sworn in as the first Congressman representing the newly created Third District of Nevada. Even though my office address has shifted a few zip codes, my code of ethics and my work ethics are still the same. The Third District Office belongs to the people of Nevada. It's your office and my door is always open to you. I encourage you to stop by and meet your staff at my office in Washington. I want to express my appreciation to my colleagues, the other members of Nevada's delegation: Senator Harry Reid, Senator John Ensign, Congressman Jim Gibbons, and Congresswoman Shelley Berkley. We may have our differences from time to time but we have one voice when it comes to Nevada. It is a great team and I am proud to be a part of it.

I would like to share just one humbling experience of my first few days in office. Finding your way through the maze of halls, hideaways, and basement corridors of Capitol Hill can be mind-boggling at times. I am sure you new members of the Legislature understand what I mean. One particular morning I was supposed to be in a briefing for Republicans. So I walked into the room and the meeting had already started. I thought, "Boy, these people are on the ball; they actually are in the room in their seats." I was so impressed. So I got a cup of coffee, sat down and started to listen to the message. A couple of moments later, I realized that something didn't sound quite right. The next thing I know this young woman walked over to me and said, "Congressman, you are in the wrong meeting. This meeting is for the Democrats. What are you doing here?" I told her that I was building bridges!

Now that I've been in office I have my committee assignments. I have the honor of serving on two committees I believe are key to Nevada's needs: The Education and Workforce Committee and the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee. My service on these committees means that I come into contact with countless Nevadans working on various projects. I must give special thanks to Mike Pieper from the Governor's Washington Office for all the work he does to help facilitate these meetings and his efforts representing Nevada's many needs.

My service in Congress brings with it an awesome responsibility that is being tested right now as we speak. For the last few months we have all been following Operation Iraqi Freedom. For months we've all suffered from the pangs of anxiety as our soldiers headed off to war. We've all been touched by the images of wives kissing their husbands goodbye and children giving daddy or mommy one more great big hug for luck. When the war started, we all gathered around our TVs and were truly breathless with the power and force of the "Shock and Awe Campaign." Just last week we witnessed the triumph of freed Iraqis as they tore down the statues of their oppressor, Saddam Hussein. And sadly, together, we've bowed our heads to pay honor to our brave heroes who gave their lives in the name of freedom.

Yesterday I hosted a town hall meeting in Henderson with Army Deputy Chief of Staff, General Richard Cody. He came out from the Pentagon to brief residents of southern Nevada on the latest on Operation Iraqi Freedom. He talked about the dedication of the troops in the field, many of those troops offering to reenlist while they are on duty today. We must continue to support our troops. I applaud President Bush, who requested $75 billion to pay for the war. This past Saturday, Congress increased his request to $80 billion. I was there and I voted for it.

Even though I was not a member of Congress when the war resolution passed, there isn't a day that goes by that I don't personally carry the weight of responsibility for every man and woman in uniform in our military. Recently we lost two of Nevada's bravest soldiers. On Monday, I attended a memorial service at Arlington National Cemetery for First Lt. Frederick Pokorney from Nye County. A few days before I was on the phone with his adopted father Wade Lieske. Wade told me that his son was a great man and a brave soldier.

Sadly, the other day we learned about the tragic death of another brave soldier from right up the road in Sparks. Lance Cpl. Donald J. Cline, Jr., was only 21 years old. He left behind a wife and two children. Also we recently learned that three Marines from Nevada were injured in battle and our prayers go out to them. No words can express our heartfelt sorrow for all that they sacrificed in the name of freedom. No award can touch the depths of their heroism. No words can express our appreciation for their courage.

Earlier this year, Nevada's family faced another tragedy when the McCool family from my district in Las Vegas lost their son, Astronaut Commander Willie McCool, in the Columbia Shuttle disaster. Our soldiers and our astronauts are all heroes and we honor their sacrifices. It is during these sobering times that the indomitable resilience of Nevadans shines through. We rally together to support each other and our community during a crisis. That is what makes me so proud to be a Nevadan. It is the spirit of support and sacrifice that is the measure of who we are. It is the spirit of all Nevadans. On the Nevada State Seal on the door of my office in Washington, D.C., are the words, "All For Our Country." It speaks to who we are as Nevadans and as citizens. It is the best we have to offer.

This is not the first time we have faced uncertain times. I was Mayor of Boulder City when an explosion at a plant in Henderson nearly crippled our whole southern Nevada community. And more recently our entire nation's resilience was tested in the days following September 11, 2001. While the terrorists did not physically attack Nevada, the residual effects of their evil deeds nearly shut down our economy. Business owners were forced to put "closed for business" signs in their storefronts. Tens of thousands of Nevadans were out of work. But in less than two months, through planning, hard work, and working together, we turned things around. Business owners were once again putting "open for business" signs back in their windows. That is resilience.

Our unique Nevada spirit and resilience can be found again today while our nation is at war. Several businesses have answered the call to share and support families who have loved ones in the battlefield. I want to take just a moment to recognize a few of those businesses like United Parcel Service (UPS), Bank of America, Mail Boxes, Etc., MGM, and numerous other businesses, for helping donating supplies, discounts, and other items to the families who need help.

As we fight the war, we are reminded of the future needs of these brave soldiers, sailors, marines, airmen, and the needs of those who have sacrificed in the past. I cosponsored legislation to end the indefensible ban against concurrent receipt of veterans and military retirement benefits. The House has just passed legislation to lower taxes for our soldiers on active duty. I will continue to work for a new veterans' hospital for Clark County, expand and maintain our veterans' cemetery, and continue to work to ensure the success of the new veterans' home in Boulder City. Congress has funded veterans' programs at $64 billion. That is an 11 percent increase over last year, plus an additional $30 billion, a 13 percent increase for other programs. I want to see that all of America's veterans receive the recognition, the support, and the respect they deserve.

Even though Nevada is thousands of miles away from the war zone, our homeland security is a critical issue. Now more than ever we look to those men and women who will protect us day to day, our first responders. I am talking about the police officers, firefighters, and those whose daily job is security here on the home front. I invited the new chairman of the House Homeland Security Committee, Hal Rogers, to come to Nevada next month to meet with our first responders, including our state's Homeland Security Director, Jerry Bussell. I'd like to take a moment and applaud Jerry Bussell for his work. Jerry has been extremely responsive to Congress and I can't tell you how important that is. He is doing a tremendous job keeping us informed about security issues. I thank him for his service to Nevada. As Jerry will tell you, his work has just begun. Just yesterday he brought in other Western State Homeland Security Directors to the test site and held a workshop of sorts to help with the national security efforts. To assist Jerry and other first responders with homeland security, last weekend Congress set aside nearly $7 million for Nevada's Homeland Security, which just about doubles last year's appropriations.

I would also like to extend my appreciation to members of the National Guard. Some 800 members of the Guard have been dispatched to Operation Iraqi Freedom. They have been a major part of the war. I also want to recognize the Guard's Adjutant General Giles Vanderhoof, who is here this evening. I recently visited the facilities in North Las Vegas, and I am very impressed your leadership, General. You have maintained, through the years, a professionalism that is unsurpassed. I'll add that last week we recognized General Vanderhoof and his service in the Congressional Record of the House of Representatives.

The war is on the forefront, but the economy is on everyone's mind. What will the war do to our economy? What has the war done to our economy? It's no secret we are all suffering from the current economic situation. I know that you are in the midst of a budget crunch that may seem insurmountable, but take a deep breath. You will find a solution. The debate and dialogue you are engaged in is part of the process. I am confident you all will do what is best for the state. You know Washington could learn a lot from Nevada. While it may seem as though you are a contentious group, you really do get along and you will get the job done. At the end of the day you are going to come together and do the right thing.

When it comes to our nation's economy President Bush has proposed a variety of economic initiatives that strengthen the economy and create jobs. The goal from the White House is 1.4 million jobs in America, including 7,000 jobs here in Nevada, while at the same time we target waste, fraud, and abuse within the government. Recently, I was honored to author and pass out of committee a key piece of President Bush's stimulus package. It meant a lot to me that Leadership asked our office to carry such an important piece of legislation in our first days in office. We introduced H.R. 444, the Back to Work Incentive Act of 2003, or the Back to Work Bill, at the end of January. Simply put, the bill creates personal reemployment accounts of up to $3,000 to help the unemployed get back to work. Back to Work Accounts offer a new, innovative approach designed to provide the unemployed with additional flexibility, greater choice, and more control over their employment search. It also offers a reemployment bonus for those who find a job quickly.

More than a month ago, I asked the Education and Workforce Committee to hold a hearing in Las Vegas at one of our One-Stop Centers. Chairman John Boehner and subcommittee member Buck McKeon attended the hearings and toured the One-Stop Center near downtown Las Vegas. During the hearing, state employment officials testified that helping Nevadans get back to work just one week earlier would save Nevada's Trust Fund $8 million a year.

Many of you who know me understand my passion for education. My wife, Laurie, who is here tonight, is a former librarian and schoolteacher. Education continues to be a top priority for me in Congress. First, our state's explosive growth is not recognized by federal education formulas or by members of the House. I commend Senator John Ensign and his aggressive efforts to amend the funding formulas to ensure that Nevada's students get their fair share of education dollars. On the House side, I have personally brought this issue to the attention of the Speaker of the House Dennis Hastert, Majority Leader Tom DeLay, Secretary of Education Paige, and Chairman of Education John Boehner. Now they are aware that Nevada's school children may not be able to play sports or music or explore the arts because these programs are in danger of being cut. They've heard about the struggles and we are working together to find a solution.

Last week, I offered an amendment to increase the spending levels for special education funding, or properly titled, the Individuals with Disabilities Act (IDEA). The increase would result in the federal government paying for an unprecedented 21 percent of the per-pupil cost of special education funding in this country. In overall education spending, Congress just passed a $56.1 billion Education Budget. That marks a $3 billion increase over 2003 alone.

There are two other issues involving children's safety. Last week Speaker of the House Hastert and Education Committee Chairman Boehner asked me to serve as a conferee for the Keeping Children and Families Safe Act of 2003. This legislation will provide a safety net and prevent child abuse and family violence before it occurs. It protects and treats abused and neglected children and victims of family violence. As a new member of Congress, it is an honor to sit on the committee with senior senators and senior members of the House, to iron out our differences and ultimately pass a bill that will protect our children.
