2. The State Engineer may, upon the request of the holder of any right described in subsection 1, extend the time necessary to work a forfeiture under that subsection if the request is made before the expiration of the time necessary to work a forfeiture. The State Engineer may grant, upon request and for good cause shown, any number of extensions, but a single extension must not exceed 1 year. In determining whether to grant or deny a request, the State Engineer shall, among other reasons, consider:

(a) Whether the holder has shown good cause for the holder's failure to use all or any part of the water beneficially for the purpose for which the holder's right is acquired or claimed;

(b) The unavailability of water to put to a beneficial use which is beyond the control of the holder;

(c) Any economic conditions or natural disasters which made the holder unable to put the water to that use;

(d) Any prolonged period in which precipitation in the basin where the water right is located is below the average for that basin or in which indexes that measure soil moisture show that a deficit in soil moisture has occurred in that basin; and

(e) Whether the holder has demonstrated efficient ways of using the water for agricultural purposes, such as center-pivot irrigation.

➥ The State Engineer shall notify, by registered or certified mail, the owner of the water right, as determined in the records of the Office of the State Engineer, of whether the State Engineer has granted or denied the holder's request for an extension pursuant to this subsection. If the State Engineer grants an extension pursuant to this subsection and, before the expiration of that extension, proof of resumption of beneficial use or another request for an extension is not filed in the Office of the State Engineer, the State Engineer shall declare the water right forfeited within 30 days after the expiration of the extension granted pursuant to this subsection.

3. If the failure to use the water pursuant to subsection 1 is because of the use of center-pivot irrigation before July 1, 1983, and such use could result in a forfeiture of a portion of a right, the State Engineer shall, by registered or certified mail, send to the owner of record a notice of intent to declare a forfeiture. The notice must provide that the owner has at least 1 year after the date of the notice to use the water beneficially or apply for additional relief pursuant to subsection 2 before forfeiture of the owner's right is declared by the State Engineer.

4. A right to use underground water whether it is vested or otherwise may be lost by abandonment. If the State Engineer, in investigating a groundwater source, upon which there has been a prior right, for the purpose of acting upon an application to appropriate water from the same source, is of the belief from his or her examination that an abandonment has taken place, the State Engineer shall so state in the ruling approving the application. If, upon notice by registered or certified mail to the owner of record who had the prior right, the owner of record of the prior right fails to appeal the ruling in the manner provided for in NRS 533.450, and within the time provided for therein, the alleged abandonment declaration as set forth by the State Engineer becomes final.

Sec. 4. NRS 534.350 is hereby amended to read as follows:

534.350 1. ~~[The State Engineer shall adopt regulations establishing a program that allows a]~~ A public water system ~~[to]~~ may receive credits, as provided in this section, for the addition of new customers to the system. The ~~[program]~~ granting of a credit pursuant to this section must be limited to public water systems in areas:

~~3.]~~ ~~[~~Upon adoption of the regulations required by this section regarding a particular groundwater basin, a~~]~~ A public water system which provides service in ~~[that]~~ a groundwater basin is entitled to receive a credit for each customer who is added to the system ~~[after the adoption of those regulations]~~ and:

(a) Voluntarily ceases to draw water from a domestic well located within that basin; or

(b) Is the owner of a lot or other parcel of land, other than land used or intended solely for use as a location for a domestic well, which:

(1) Is located within that basin;

(2) Was established as a separate lot or parcel before July 1, 1993;

(3) Was approved by a local governing body or planning commission for service by an individual domestic well before July 1, 1993; and

(4) Is subject to a written agreement which was voluntarily entered into by the owner with the public water system pursuant to which the owner agrees not to drill a domestic well on the land and the public water system agrees that it will provide water service to the land. Any such agreement must be acknowledged and recorded in the same manner as conveyances affecting real property are required to be acknowledged and recorded pursuant to chapter 111 of NRS.

~~[4.]~~ 3. If a county requires, by ordinance, the dedication to the county of a right to appropriate water from a domestic well which is located on a lot or other parcel of land that was established as a separate lot or parcel on or after July 1, 1993, the county may, by relinquishment to the State Engineer, allow the right to appropriate water to revert to the source of the water. The State Engineer shall not accept a relinquishment of a right to appropriate water pursuant to this subsection unless the right is in good standing as determined by the State Engineer. A right to appropriate water that is dedicated and relinquished pursuant to this subsection:

(a) Remains appurtenant only to the parcel of land in which it is located as specified on the parcel map; and

(b) Maintains its date of priority established pursuant to NRS 534.080.

~~[5.]~~ 4. If an owner of a parcel of land specified in subsection ~~[4]~~ 3 becomes a new customer of a public water system for that parcel of land, the public water system is entitled to receive a credit in the same manner as the addition of any other customer to the public water system pursuant to this section.

~~[6.]~~ 5. The State Engineer may require a new customer, who voluntarily ceases to draw water from a domestic well as provided in paragraph (a) of subsection ~~[3]~~ 2 or whose right to appropriate water is dedicated pursuant to subsection ~~[4,]~~ 3, to plug that well.

~~[7.]~~ 6. A credit granted pursuant to this section:

(a) Must be sufficient to enable the public water system to add one service connection for a single-family dwelling to the system, except that the credit may not exceed the increase in water consumption attributable to the additional service connection or 2 acre-feet per year, whichever is less.

(b) May not be converted to an appropriative water right.

~~[8.]~~ 7. This section does not:

(a) Require a public water system to extend its service area.

(b) Authorize any increase in the total amount of groundwater pumped in a groundwater basin.

(c) Affect any rights of an owner of a domestic well who does not voluntarily comply with the provisions of this section.

~~[9.]~~ 8. As used in this section:

(a) "Domestic well" means a well used for culinary and household purposes in:

(1) A single-family dwelling; and

(2) An accessory dwelling unit for a single-family dwelling if provided for in an applicable local ordinance, ➥ including the watering of a garden, lawn and domestic animals and where the draught does not exceed 2 acre-feet per year.

(b) "Public water system" has the meaning ascribed to it in NRS 445A.840.

Sec. 5. Chapter 535 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

In addition to any inspection conducted pursuant to NRS 535.010 or 535.030, the State Engineer or any assistant or authorized agent of the State Engineer may enter the land of any owner or proprietor where any dam or other obstruction is situated at any reasonable hour of the day to investigate and carry out the duties of the State Engineer pursuant to this chapter.

Sec. 6. The Legislature hereby declares that:

1. It has examined the past and present practice of the State Engineer with respect to the forfeiture of water rights on and after March 15, 1947, and finds that the State Engineer has applied the provisions of Nevada law relating to the forfeiture of water rights in a manner consistent with the provisions of subsection 1 of NRS 534.090, as amended by section 3 of this act.

2. The amendatory provisions of subsection 1 of section 3 of this act are intended to clarify rather than change the existing application of NRS 534.090 relating to the forfeiture of water rights and to promote thereby stability and consistency in the administration of chapters 533 and 534 of NRS.

Assembly Bill No. 171.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Education:

Amendment No. 420.

AN ACT relating to education; revising provisions governing the membership of a committee to form a charter school and the governing body of a charter school; revising provisions for the process of review of an application to form a charter school; authorizing the governing body of a charter school to set a salary for the attendance of its members at meetings of the governing body; revising the requirements for a charter school to be eligible for an exemption from annual performance audits and to receive certain money for facilities; revising provisions governing the employment of licensed employees by a charter school; revising various other provisions governing charter schools; repealing the Subcommittee on Charter Schools; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Section 1 of this bill revises the membership of a committee to form a charter school and revises the process for review of an application to form a charter school by the Department of Education.

Section 2 of this bill revises the procedure for the review of an application to form a charter school if the proposed sponsor is the State Board of Education.

Section 3 of this bill provides that if the sponsor of a charter school denies a request for an amendment of a written charter of the charter school, the sponsor must provide written notice to the governing body which sets forth the reasons for the denial.

Section 3.5 of this bill provides that the sponsor of a charter school may revoke the written charter before the expiration of the charter if the sponsor determines that the charter school failed to comply with the material terms and conditions of the written charter.

Section 5 of this bill authorizes the Department to request certain information from a charter school, regardless of whether that information is required by specific statute, and provides that if the Department requests such information, the Department shall include in the request a mechanism by which the Department will pay or reimburse the charter school for the requested information, if the provision of the information will incur any costs for the charter school.

Section 6 of this bill revises the membership of the governing body of a charter school and authorizes the governing body, upon a majority vote of members, to set a salary for the attendance of its members at meetings of the governing body, not to exceed $80 per meeting per month.

Existing law prescribes the requirement for a charter school to be exempt from an annual performance audit and undergo a performance audit every 3 years and to be eligible for available money from legislative appropriations or otherwise for facilities. A charter school is eligible if at least 75 percent of the pupils enrolled in the charter school who are required to take the high school proficiency examination have passed that examination. (NRS 386.5515) Section 7 of this bill revises this eligibility requirement to require that at least 75 percent of the pupils enrolled in the charter school in grade 12 in the immediately preceding school year who have satisfied the course work requirements for graduation have passed the high school proficiency examination.

Existing law provides that the pupils enrolled in charter schools must be included in the count of pupils for purposes of the apportionments and allowances from the State Distributive School Account and provides for the reimbursement of administrative costs to the sponsor of a charter school. (NRS 386.570) Section 9 of this bill requires the State Board to prescribe a process which ensures that all charter schools, regardless of the sponsor, have information of all sources of funding for the public schools provided through the Department. Section 9 also changes the percentage of administrative costs that the State Board or a college or university may receive for sponsorship after the first year of operation of a charter school from 1.5 percent to 1 percent.

Existing law requires a school district to grant a leave of absence to an employee of the school district, not to exceed 3 years, to accept employment with a charter school sponsored by the school district. The school district is required to grant such an employee's request to return to his or her former teaching position or a comparable teaching position within the school district after the approved leave of absence is complete. (NRS 386.595) Section 9.7 of this bill removes the provision which specifies that the school district which is the sponsor of the charter school shall grant a leave of absence, so that a school district, regardless of sponsor, shall grant such a leave of absence for its licensed employees. Section 9.7 also removes the provision which provides that the employee may return to his or her former teaching position and instead authorizes the employee to return to a comparable teaching position. Section 9.7 further requires that upon the request of a governing body of a charter school, the board of trustees of a school district, with the permission of the licensed employee who is seeking employment with the charter school, transmit to the governing body a copy of the employment record of the employee that is maintained by the school district. Section 9.7 also requires that upon request of the board of trustees of a school district, the governing body of a charter school, with the permission of the licensed employee who is granted a leave of absence from the school district, transmit to the school district a copy of the employment record of the employee maintained by the charter school. Finally, section 9.7 authorizes the school district to conduct an investigation of any misconduct of the licensed employee who was granted a leave of absence for employment with a charter school and who requests to return to employment with the school district.

Under existing law, a parent may homeschool a child if the parent submits to the superintendent of schools of the school district in which the child resides a notice of intent to homeschool the child. (NRS 392.700) Section 10 of this bill requires ~~[the parent of a homeschooled child who seeks admittance to public school to submit a request to the superintendent of schools of the school district in which the child resides to withdraw the notice of intent to homeschool. Section 10 also requires]~~ a charter school , to the extent practicable, to notify the school district in which the child resides if the child who is or was homeschooled enrolls in the charter school [.] and provides that the child may be counted for the purposes of the calculation of basic support whether or not the charter school provides the notice.

Section 11 of this bill repeals the Subcommittee on Charter Schools.

5. If the Department prescribes a process for charter schools to report certain information, the Department may request the identified information regardless if that information is required to be submitted by charter schools pursuant to a specific statute. Upon such a request, a charter school shall provide the information if the Department includes a detailed description of the requested information and the mechanism by which the Department will pay or reimburse the charter school for the requested information, if the provision of the information will incur any costs for the charter school.

If the charter school no longer satisfies the requirements of subsection 1 or if reasonable evidence of noncompliance in achieving the educational goals and objectives of the charter school exists based upon the annual report, the charter school shall, upon written notice from the sponsor, submit to an annual performance audit. Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (b) of subsection 1, such a charter school:

(a) May, after undergoing the annual performance audit, reapply to the sponsor to determine whether the charter school satisfies the requirements of paragraphs (a), (c), (d) and (e) of subsection 1.

3. A charter school that does not satisfy the requirements of subsection 1 shall submit a quarterly report of the financial status of the charter school if requested by the sponsor of the charter school.

Sec. 8. NRS 386.560 is hereby amended to read as follows:

386.560 1. The governing body of a charter school may contract with the board of trustees of the school district in which the charter school is located or in which a pupil enrolled in the charter school resides or the Nevada System of Higher Education for the provision of facilities to operate the charter school or to perform any service relating to the operation of the charter school, including, without limitation, transportation, the provision of health services for the pupils who are enrolled in the charter school and the provision of school police officers.

2. A charter school may use any public facility located within the school district in which the charter school is located. A charter school may use school buildings owned by the school district only upon approval of the board of trustees of the school district and during times that are not regular school hours.

3. The board of trustees of a school district may donate surplus personal property of the school district to a charter school that is located within the school district.

4. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, upon the request of a parent or legal guardian of a pupil who is enrolled in a charter school, the board of trustees of the school district in which the pupil resides shall authorize the pupil to participate in a class that is not available to the pupil at the charter school or participate in an extracurricular activity, ~~[excluding]~~ including sports, at a public school within the school district if:

(a) Space for the pupil in the class or extracurricular activity is available; and

(b) The parent or legal guardian demonstrates to the satisfaction of the board of trustees that the pupil is qualified to participate in the class or extracurricular activity.

➥ If the board of trustees of a school district authorizes a pupil to participate in a class or extracurricular activity, ~~[excluding]~~ including sports, pursuant to this subsection, the board of trustees is not required to provide transportation for the pupil to attend the class or activity. The provisions of this subsection do not apply to a pupil who is enrolled in a charter school and who desires to participate on a part-time basis in a program of distance education provided by the board of trustees of a school district pursuant to NRS 388.820 to 388.874, inclusive. Such a pupil must comply with NRS 388.858.

Sec. 9. NRS 386.570 is hereby amended to read as follows:

386.570 1. Each pupil who is enrolled in a charter school, including, without limitation, a pupil who is enrolled in a program of special education in a charter school, must be included in the count of pupils in the school district for the purposes of apportionments and allowances from the State Distributive School Account pursuant to NRS 387.121 to 387.126, inclusive, unless the pupil is exempt from compulsory attendance pursuant to NRS 392.070. A charter school is entitled to receive its proportionate share of any other money available from federal, state or local sources that the school or the pupils who are enrolled in the school are eligible to receive. If a charter school receives special education program units directly from this State, the amount of money for special education that the school district pays to the charter school may be reduced proportionately by the amount of money the charter school received from this State for that purpose. The State Board shall prescribe a process which ensures that all charter schools, regardless of the sponsor, have information about all sources of funding for the public schools provided through the Department, including local funds pursuant to NRS 387.1235.

2. All money received by the charter school from this State or from the board of trustees of a school district must be deposited in an account with a bank, credit union or other financial institution in this State. The governing body of a charter school may negotiate with the board of trustees of the school district and the State Board for additional money to pay for services which the governing body wishes to offer.

3. Upon completion of each school quarter, the sponsor of a charter school may request reimbursement from the governing body of the charter school for the administrative costs associated with sponsorship for that school quarter if the sponsor provided administrative services during that school quarter. The request must include an itemized list of those costs. Unless a delay is granted pursuant to subsection 9, upon receipt of such a request, the governing body shall pay the reimbursement to the board of trustees of the school district if the board of trustees sponsors the charter school, to the Department if the State Board sponsors the charter school or to the college or university within the Nevada System of Higher Education if that institution sponsors the charter school. If a governing body fails to pay the reimbursement pursuant to this subsection or pursuant to a plan approved by the Superintendent of Public Instruction in accordance with subsection 9, the charter school shall be deemed to have violated its written charter and the sponsor may take such action to revoke the written charter pursuant to NRS 386.535 as it deems necessary. If the board of trustees of a school district is the sponsor of a charter school, the amount of money that may be paid to the sponsor pursuant to this subsection for administrative expenses in 1 school year must not exceed:

(a) For the first year of operation of the charter school, 2 percent of the total amount of money apportioned to the charter school during the year pursuant to NRS 387.124, as adjusted by the final computation of apportionment pursuant to subsection 4 of NRS 387.1243.

(b) For any year after the first year of operation of the charter school, 1 percent of the total amount of money apportioned to the charter school during the year pursuant to NRS 387.124, as adjusted by the final computation of apportionment pursuant to subsection 4 of NRS 387.1243.

4. If the State Board or a college or university within the Nevada System of Higher Education is the sponsor of a charter school, the amount of money that may be paid to the Department or to the institution, as applicable, pursuant to subsection 3 for administrative expenses in 1 school year must not exceed:

(a) For the first year of operation of the charter school, 2 percent of the total amount of money apportioned to the charter school during the year pursuant to NRS 387.124, as adjusted by the final computation of apportionment pursuant to subsection 4 of NRS 387.1243.

(b) For any year after the first year of operation of the charter school, ~~[1.5]~~ 1 percent of the total amount of money apportioned to the charter school during the year pursuant to NRS 387.124, as adjusted by the final computation of apportionment pursuant to subsection 4 of NRS 387.1243.

5. To determine the amount of money for distribution to a charter school in its first year of operation, the count of pupils who are enrolled in the charter school must initially be determined 30 days before the beginning of the school year of the school district, based on the number of pupils whose applications for enrollment have been approved by the charter school. The count of pupils who are enrolled in the charter school must be revised on the last day of the first school month of the school district in which the charter school is located for the school year, based on the actual number of pupils who are enrolled in the charter school. Pursuant to subsection 5 of NRS 387.124, the governing body of a charter school may request that the apportionments made to the charter school in its first year of operation be paid to the charter school 30 days before the apportionments are otherwise required to be made.

6. If a charter school ceases to operate as a charter school during a school year, the remaining apportionments that would have been made to the charter school pursuant to NRS 387.124 for that year must be paid on a proportionate basis to the school districts where the pupils who were enrolled in the charter school reside.

7. The governing body of a charter school may solicit and accept donations, money, grants, property, loans, personal services or other assistance for purposes relating to education from members of the general public, corporations or agencies. The governing body may comply with applicable federal laws and regulations governing the provision of federal grants for charter schools. The State Board may assist a charter school that operates exclusively for the enrollment of pupils who receive special education in identifying sources of money that may be available from the Federal Government or this State for the provision of educational programs and services to such pupils.

8. If a charter school uses money received from this State to purchase real property, buildings, equipment or facilities, the governing body of the charter school shall assign a security interest in the property, buildings, equipment and facilities to the State of Nevada.

9. The governing body of a charter school may submit to the Superintendent of Public Instruction a written request to delay a quarterly payment of a reimbursement for the administrative costs that a charter school owes pursuant to this section. The written request must be in the form prescribed by the Superintendent and must include, without limitation, documentation that a financial hardship exists for the charter school and a plan for the payment of the reimbursement. The Superintendent may approve or deny the request and shall notify the governing body and the sponsor of the charter school of the approval or denial of the request.

Sec. 9.5. NRS 386.590 is hereby amended to read as follows:

386.590 1. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, at least 70 percent of the teachers who provide instruction at a charter school must be licensed teachers. If a charter school is a vocational school, the charter school shall, to the extent practicable, ensure that at least 70 percent of the teachers who provide instruction at the school are licensed teachers, but in no event may more than 50 percent of the teachers who provide instruction at the school be unlicensed teachers.

2. A governing body of a charter school shall employ:

(a) If the charter school offers instruction in kindergarten or grade 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7 or 8, a licensed teacher to teach pupils who are enrolled in those grades. If required by subsection 3 or 4, such a teacher must possess the qualifications required by 20 U.S.C. 6319(a).

(b) If the charter school offers instruction in grade 9, 10, 11 or 12, a licensed teacher to teach pupils who are enrolled in those grades for the subjects set forth in subsection 4. If required by subsection 3 or 4, such a teacher must possess the qualifications required by 20 U.S.C. 6319(a).

(c) In addition to the requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b):

(1) If a charter school specializes in arts and humanities, physical education or health education, a licensed teacher to teach those courses of study.

(2) If a charter school specializes in the construction industry or other building industry, licensed teachers to teach courses of study relating to the industry if those teachers are employed full-time.

(3) If a charter school specializes in the construction industry or other building industry and the school offers courses of study in computer education, technology or business, licensed teachers to teach those courses of study if those teachers are employed full-time.

3. A person who is initially hired by the governing body of a charter school on or after January 8, 2002, to teach in a program supported with money from Title I must possess the qualifications required by 20 U.S.C. 6319(a). For the purposes of this subsection, a person is not "initially hired" if the person has been employed as a teacher by another school district or charter school in this State without an interruption in employment before the date of hire by his or her current employer.

4. A teacher who is employed by a charter school, regardless of the date of hire, must, on or before July 1, 2006, possess the qualifications required by 20 U.S.C. 6319(a) if the teacher teaches one or more of the following subjects:

(a) English, reading or language arts;

(e) Civics or government;
(f) Economics;
(g) Geography;
(h) History; or
(i) The arts.

5. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 386.588, a charter school may employ a person who is not licensed pursuant to the provisions of chapter 391 of NRS to teach a course of study for which a licensed teacher is not required pursuant to subsections 2, 3 and 4 if the person has:

(a) A degree, a license or a certificate in the field for which the person is employed to teach at the charter school; and

(b) At least 2 years of experience in that field.

6. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 386.588, a charter school shall employ such administrators for the school as it deems necessary. A person employed as an administrator must possess:

(a) A valid teacher's license issued pursuant to chapter 391 of NRS with an administrative endorsement;

(b) A master's degree in school administration, public administration or business administration; or

(c) At least 5 years of experience in school administration, public administration or business administration and a baccalaureate degree.

7. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 8, the portion of the salary or other compensation of an administrator employed by a charter school that is derived from public funds must not exceed the salary or other compensation, as applicable, of the highest paid administrator in a comparable position in the school district in which the charter school is located. For purposes of determining the salary or other compensation of the highest paid administrator in a comparable position in the school district, the salary or other compensation of the superintendent of schools of that school district must not be included in the determination.

8. If the salary or other compensation paid to an administrator employed by a charter school from public funds exceeds the maximum amount prescribed in subsection 7, the sponsor of the charter school shall conduct an audit of the salary or compensation. The audit must include, without limitation, a review of the reasons set forth by the governing body of the charter school for the salary or other compensation and the interests of the public in using public funds to pay that salary or compensation. If the sponsor determines that the payment of the salary or other compensation from public funds is justified, the sponsor shall provide written documentation of its determination to the governing body of the charter school and to the Department. If the sponsor determines that the payment of the salary or other compensation from public funds is not justified, the governing body of the charter school shall reduce the salary or compensation paid to the administrator from public funds to an amount not to exceed the maximum amount prescribed in subsection 7.

9. A charter school shall not employ a person pursuant to this section if the person's license to teach or provide other educational services has been revoked or suspended in this State or another state.

Sec. 9.7. NRS 386.595 is hereby amended to read as follows:

386.595 1. All employees of a charter school shall be deemed public employees.

2. The governing body of a charter school may make all decisions concerning the terms and conditions of employment with the charter school and any other matter relating to employment with the charter school. In addition, the governing body may make all employment decisions with regard to its employees pursuant to NRS 391.311 to 391.3197, inclusive, unless a collective bargaining agreement entered into by the governing body pursuant to chapter 288 of NRS contains separate provisions relating to the discipline of licensed employees of a school.

3. Upon the request of the governing body of a charter school, the board of trustees of a school district shall, with the permission of the licensed employee who is seeking employment with the charter school, transmit to the governing body a copy of the employment record of the employee that is maintained by the school district. The employment record must include, without limitation, each evaluation of the licensed employee conducted by the school district and any disciplinary action taken by the school district against the licensed employee.

4. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, if the written charter of a charter school is revoked or if a charter school ceases to operate as a charter school, the licensed employees of the charter school must be reassigned to employment within the school district in accordance with the applicable collective bargaining agreement. A school district is not required to reassign ~~[an]~~ a licensed employee of a charter school pursuant to this subsection if the employee:

5. The board of trustees of a school district ~~[that is a sponsor of a charter school]~~ shall grant a leave of absence, not to exceed 3 years, to any licensed employee who is employed by the board of trustees who requests such a leave of absence to accept employment with ~~[the]~~ a charter school. After the first school year in which ~~[an]~~ a licensed employee is on a leave of absence, the employee may return to ~~[his or her former]~~ a comparable teaching position with the board of trustees. After the third school year, ~~[an]~~ a licensed employee shall either submit a written request to return to a comparable teaching position or resign from the position for which the employee's leave was granted. The board of trustees shall grant a written request to return to a comparable position pursuant to this subsection even if the return of the licensed employee requires the board of trustees to reduce the existing workforce of the school district. The board of trustees is not required to accept the return of the licensed employee if the employee does not comply with or is otherwise not eligible to return to employment pursuant to subsection 6, including, without limitation, the refusal of the licensed employee to allow the school district to obtain the employment record of the employee that is maintained by the charter school. The board of trustees may require that a request to return to a comparable teaching position submitted pursuant to this subsection be submitted at least 90 days before the employee would otherwise be required to report to duty.

~~[5. An]~~

6. Upon the request of the board of trustees of a school district, the governing body of a charter school shall, with the permission of the licensed employee who is granted a leave of absence from the school district pursuant to this section, transmit to the school district a copy of the employment record of the employee that is maintained by the charter school before the return of the employee to employment with the school district pursuant to subsection 4 or 5. The employment record must include, without limitation, each evaluation of the licensed employee conducted by the charter school and any disciplinary action taken by the charter school against the licensed employee. Before the return of the licensed employee, the board of trustees of the school district may conduct an investigation into any misconduct of the licensed employee during the leave of absence from the school district and take any appropriate disciplinary action as to the status of the person as an employee of the school district, including, without limitation:

(a) The dismissal of the employee from employment with the school district; or

(b) Upon the employee's return to employment with the school district, documentation of the disciplinary action taken against the employee into the employment record of the employee that is maintained by the school district.

(b) The investigation must be conducted within a reasonable time.

8. A licensed employee who is on a leave of absence from a school district pursuant to this section:

(b) The compensation that is paid to a teacher or other school employee that exceeds the compensation that the employee would have received if he or she were employed by the school district must not be included for the purposes of calculating future retirement benefits of the employee.

If the employees of the charter school participate in the plan of group insurance managed by the board of trustees, the governing body of the charter school shall:

(a) Ensure that the premiums for that insurance are paid to the board of trustees; and

(e) If applicable, the name of the public school in this State which the child most recently attended; and

6. Each superintendent of schools of a school district shall accept notice of intent to homeschool that is filed with the superintendent pursuant to this section and meets the requirements of subsection 5, and shall not require or request any additional information or assurances from the parent who filed the notice.

7. The school district shall provide to a parent who files a notice a written acknowledgment which clearly indicates that the parent has provided notification required by law and that the child is being homeschooled. The written acknowledgment shall be deemed proof of compliance with Nevada's compulsory school attendance law. The school district shall retain a copy of the written acknowledgment for not less than 15 years. The written acknowledgment may be retained in electronic format.

8. The superintendent of schools of a school district shall process a written request for a copy of the records of the school district, or any information contained therein, relating to a child who is being or has been homeschooled not later than 5 days after receiving the request. The superintendent of schools may only release such records or information:

(a) To a person or entity specified by the parent of the child, or by the child if the child is at least 18 years of age, upon suitable proof of identity of the parent or child; or

(b) If required by specific statute.

Each school district shall ensure that the homeschooled children who reside in the school district have adequate notice of the availability of information concerning such examinations on the Internet website of the school district maintained pursuant to NRS 389.004.

12. The parent of a child who is being homeschooled shall prepare an educational plan of instruction for the child in the subject areas of English, including reading, composition and writing, mathematics, science and social studies, including history, geography, economics and government, as appropriate for the age and level of skill of the child as determined by the parent. The educational plan must be included in the notice of intent to homeschool filed pursuant to this section. If the educational plan contains the requirements of this section, the educational plan must not be used in any manner as a basis for denial of a notice of intent to homeschool that is otherwise complete. The parent must be prepared to present the educational plan of instruction and proof of the identity of the child to a court of law if required by the court. This subsection does not require a parent to ensure that each subject area is taught each year that the child is homeschooled.

13. No regulation or policy of the State Board, any school district or any other governmental entity may infringe upon the right of a parent to educate his or her child based on religious preference unless it is:

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Government Affairs:

Amendment No. 379.

AN ACT relating to the Nevada Rural Housing Authority; revising the definition of "local government" to include the Authority for the purpose of loans from a local government to the Authority; revising the [~~manner in which~~] requirements for eligibility to serve as a commissioner of the Authority ; [~~is appointed;~~] authorizing the Authority to receive a loan from a local government; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, before a local government may make an interfund loan or loan of money to another local government, the governing body of the local government that wishes to make the loan must determine at a public hearing that a sufficient amount of unrestricted money is available for the loan and that the loan will not compromise the economic viability of the fund from which the money is loaned. The local government must also establish at the public hearing: (1) the amount of time the money will be on loan from the fund; (2) the terms and conditions for repaying the loan; and (3) the rate of interest, if any, to be charged for the loan. (NRS 354.6118) For the purpose of making such a loan, the term "local government" does not include the Nevada Rural Housing Authority. (NRS 354.474) Existing law confers upon the Nevada Rural Housing Authority the authority to engage in various activities relating to the purposes for which the Authority was created, including, without limitation, the authority to enter into agreements or other transactions with any governmental agency or other source to further those purposes. (NRS 315.983)

Section 1 of this bill revises the definition of "local government" to include the Nevada Rural Housing Authority for the sole purpose of loans from a local government to the Authority in accordance with existing law. Section 3 of this bill expands the authorized actions of the Nevada Rural Housing Authority to include receipt by the Authority of such a loan of money from a local government.

Existing law provides for the appointment of five commissioners to serve as members of the Nevada Rural Housing Authority. Of those five commissioners, one commissioner must be appointed jointly by the Nevada League of Cities and the Nevada Association of Counties and must be a recipient of assistance from the Authority. ~~[That commissioner must be selected from a list of at least five nominees submitted to the Authority by an organization that represents tenants of housing projects or, if such an organization does not exist, by persons who receive assistance from the Authority.]~~ If ~~[the]~~ that commissioner ceases to receive assistance from the Authority, he or she must be replaced by a person who receives such assistance. (NRS 315.977) Section 2 of this bill revises the requirements for appointing that commissioner by providing ~~[that he or she must be selected from a list of three eligible nominees submitted to the Authority by the Executive Director of the Authority and by providing]~~ that, if the commissioner no longer receives assistance from the Authority, he or she may continue to serve as a commissioner for the remainder of the unexpired term for which he or she was appointed if he or she resides within the area of operation of the Authority. ~~[Section 5 of this bill ensures that the commissioner who was appointed by the Nevada League of Cities and the Nevada Association of Counties before July 1, 2011, may continue to serve as a commissioner for the remainder of his or her term.]~~

Existing law authorizes the Authority to operate in any area of this State which is not included within the corporate limits of a city or town having a population of 100,000 or more. (NRS 315.9835) Section 4 of this bill authorizes the Authority to provide services in any area of the State if the Authority has contracted with the State or a local government to provide those services in that area. Section 4 specifies that the provision of those services does not include the making of a mortgage loan.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Judiciary:

Amendment No. 352.

AN ACT relating to property; revising various provisions governing landlords and tenants; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law generally authorizes a landlord to have a tenant removed from rental property if the tenant defaults on rental payments and continues to occupy the property. (NRS 40.253) Section 1 of this bill ~~[revises the period in which a tenant is removed from rental property after the sheriff or constable receives an order of eviction from the court. Existing law also provides that a holdover tenant who occupies rental property that is then sold as a residential foreclosure may be removed from the property after receiving adequate notice of the change in ownership of the property, as prescribed by law. (NRS 40.255) Section 2 of this bill authorizes such a removal of a holdover tenant when the tenant occupies rental property that is then sold as a residential short sale.]~~ requires a landlord to advise a tenant of certain information in a notice before applying for a court order to evict the tenant.

Additionally, existing law provides tenants with certain remedies if a landlord is required to provide certain essential services and fails to do so, or if the landlord commits certain other acts that interfere with the tenant's use of the rental property. (NRS 118A.380, 118A.390) Section 6 of this bill ~~[extends certain remedies to tenants when a landlord is required to provide]~~ includes a functioning door lock among essential items or services ~~[but fails to do so.]~~ that a landlord must provide a tenant. Section 7 of this bill authorizes a tenant to recover immediate possession of rental property if a landlord takes possession of the property in violation of NRS 118A.480, which prohibits a landlord from taking possession of the property unless the landlord pursues an available legal remedy or the tenant surrenders possession of or abandons the property.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 40.253 is hereby amended to read as follows:

40.253 1. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 10, in addition to the remedy provided in NRS 40.2512 and 40.290 to 40.420, inclusive, when the tenant of any dwelling, apartment, mobile home, recreational vehicle or commercial premises with periodic rent reserved by the month or any shorter period is in default in payment of the rent, the landlord or the landlord's agent, unless otherwise agreed in writing, may serve or have served a notice in writing, requiring in the alternative the payment of the rent or the surrender of the premises:

(a) At or before noon of the fifth full day following the day of service; or

(b) If the landlord chooses not to proceed in the manner set forth in paragraph (a) and the rent is reserved by a period of 1 week or less and the tenancy has not continued for more than 45 days, at or before noon of the fourth full day following the day of service.

➥ As used in this subsection, "day of service" means the day the landlord or the landlord's agent personally delivers the notice to the tenant. If personal service was not so delivered, the "day of service" means the day the notice is delivered, after posting and mailing pursuant to subsection 2, to the sheriff or constable for service if the request for service is made before noon. If the request for service by the sheriff or constable is made after noon, the "day of service" shall be deemed to be the day next following the day that the request is made for service by the sheriff or constable.

2. A landlord or the landlord's agent who serves a notice to a tenant pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection 1 shall attempt to deliver the notice in person in the manner set forth in paragraph (a) of subsection 1 of NRS 40.280. If the notice cannot be delivered in person, the landlord or the landlord's agent:

(a) Shall post a copy of the notice in a conspicuous place on the premises and mail the notice by overnight mail; and

(b) After the notice has been posted and mailed, may deliver the notice to the sheriff or constable for service in the manner set forth in subsection 1 of NRS 40.280. The sheriff or constable shall not accept the notice for service unless it is accompanied by written evidence, signed by the tenant when the tenant took possession of the premises, that the landlord or the landlord's agent informed the tenant of the provisions of this section which set forth the lawful procedures for eviction from a short-term tenancy. Upon acceptance, the sheriff or constable shall serve the notice within 48 hours after the request for service was made by the landlord or the landlord's agent.

3. A notice served pursuant to subsection 1 or 2 must:

(a) Identify the court that has jurisdiction over the matter; and

(b) Advise the tenant ~~[of]~~ ***:

(1) Of the tenant's right to contest the matter by filing, within the time specified in subsection 1 for the payment of the rent or surrender of the premises, an affidavit with the court that has jurisdiction over the matter stating that the tenant has tendered payment or is not in default in the payment of the rent ~~[.]~~ ***;

(2) That if the court determines that the tenant is guilty of an unlawful detainer, the court may issue a summary order for removal of the tenant or an order providing for the nonadmittance of the tenant, directing the sheriff or constable of the county to remove the tenant within 24 hours after receipt of the order; and

(3) That, pursuant to NRS 118A.390, a tenant may seek relief if a landlord unlawfully removes the tenant from the premises or excludes the tenant by blocking or attempting to block the tenant's entry upon the premises or willfully interrupts or causes or permits the interruption of an essential service required by the rental agreement or chapter 118A of NRS.

4. If the tenant files such an affidavit at or before the time stated in the notice, the landlord or the landlord's agent, after receipt of a file-stamped copy of the affidavit which was filed, shall not provide for the nonadmittance of the tenant to the premises by locking or otherwise.

5. Upon noncompliance with the notice:

(a) The landlord or the landlord's agent may apply by affidavit of complaint for eviction to the justice court of the township in which the dwelling, apartment, mobile home or commercial premises are located or to the district court of the county in which the dwelling, apartment, mobile home or commercial premises are located, whichever has jurisdiction over the matter. The court may thereupon issue an order directing the sheriff or constable of the county to remove the tenant within ~~[not less than]~~ 24 ~~[hours and not more than 48]~~ hours after receipt of the order. The affidavit must state or contain:

(1) The date the tenancy commenced.

(2) The amount of periodic rent reserved.

(3) The amounts of any cleaning, security or rent deposits paid in advance, in excess of the first month's rent, by the tenant.

(4) The date the rental payments became delinquent.

(5) The length of time the tenant has remained in possession without paying rent.

(6) The amount of rent claimed due and delinquent.

(7) A statement that the written notice was served on the tenant in accordance with NRS 40.280.

(8) A copy of the written notice served on the tenant.

(9) A copy of the signed written rental agreement, if any.

(b) Except when the tenant has timely filed the affidavit described in subsection 3 and a file-stamped copy of it has been received by the landlord or the landlord's agent, and except when the landlord is prohibited pursuant to NRS 118A.480, the landlord or the landlord's agent may, in a peaceable manner, provide for the nonadmittance of the tenant to the premises by locking or otherwise.

6. Upon the filing by the tenant of the affidavit permitted in subsection 3, regardless of the information contained in the affidavit, and the filing by the landlord of the affidavit permitted by subsection 5, the justice court or the district court shall hold a hearing, after service of notice of the hearing upon the parties, to determine the truthfulness and sufficiency of any affidavit or notice provided for in this section. If the court determines that there is no legal defense as to the alleged unlawful detainer and the tenant is guilty of an unlawful detainer, the court may issue a summary order for removal of the tenant or an order providing for the nonadmittance of the tenant. If the court determines that there is a legal defense as to the alleged unlawful detainer, the court shall refuse to grant either party any relief, and, except as otherwise provided in this subsection, shall require that any further proceedings be conducted pursuant to NRS 40.290 to 40.420, inclusive. The issuance of a summary order for removal of the tenant does not preclude an action by the tenant for any damages or other relief to which the tenant may be entitled. If the alleged unlawful detainer was based upon subsection 5 of NRS 40.2514, the refusal by the court to grant relief does not preclude the landlord thereafter from pursuing an action for unlawful detainer in accordance with NRS 40.251.

7. The tenant may, upon payment of the appropriate fees relating to the filing and service of a motion, file a motion with the court, on a form provided by the clerk of the court, to dispute the amount of the costs, if any, claimed by the landlord pursuant to NRS 118.207 or 118A.460 for the inventory, moving and storage of personal property left on the premises. The motion must be filed within 20 days after the summary order for removal of the tenant or the abandonment of the premises by the tenant, or within 20 days after:

(a) The tenant has vacated or been removed from the premises; and

(b) A copy of those charges has been requested by or provided to the tenant, ➥ whichever is later.

8. Upon the filing of a motion pursuant to subsection 7, the court shall schedule a hearing on the motion. The hearing must be held within 10 days after the filing of the motion. The court shall affix the date of the hearing to the motion and order a copy served upon the landlord by the sheriff, constable or other process server. At the hearing, the court may:

(a) Determine the costs, if any, claimed by the landlord pursuant to NRS 118.207 or 118A.460 and any accumulating daily costs; and

(b) Order the release of the tenant's property upon the payment of the charges determined to be due or if no charges are determined to be due.

9. A landlord shall not refuse to accept rent from a tenant that is submitted after the landlord or the landlord's agent has served or had served a notice pursuant to subsection 1 if the refusal is based on the fact that the tenant has not paid collection fees, attorney's fees or other costs other than rent, a reasonable charge for late payments of rent or dishonored checks, or a security. As used in this subsection, "security" has the meaning ascribed to it in NRS 118A.240.

10. This section does not apply to the tenant of a mobile home lot in a mobile home park or to the tenant of a recreational vehicle lot in an area of a mobile home park in this State other than an area designated as a recreational vehicle lot pursuant to the provisions of subsection 6 of NRS 40.215.

Sec. 6. NRS 118A.380 is hereby amended to read as follows:

118A.380 1. If the landlord is required by the rental agreement or this chapter to supply heat, air-conditioning, running water, hot water, electricity, gas, a functioning door lock or another ~~[any]~~ essential item or service and the landlord willfully or negligently fails to do so, causing the premises to become unfit for habitation, the tenant shall give written notice to the landlord specifying the breach. If the landlord does not adequately remedy the breach, or use his or her best efforts to remedy the breach within 48 hours, except a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday, after it is received by the landlord, the tenant may, in addition to any other remedy:

(a) Procure reasonable amounts of such essential items or services during the landlord's noncompliance and deduct their actual and reasonable cost from the rent;

(b) Recover actual damages, including damages based upon the lack of use of the premises or the diminution of the fair rental value of the dwelling unit;

(c) Withhold any rent that becomes due during the landlord's noncompliance without incurring late fees, charges for notice or any other charge or fee authorized by this chapter or the rental agreement, until the landlord has attempted in good faith to restore the essential items or services; or

(d) Procure other housing which is comparable during the landlord's noncompliance, and the rent for the original premises fully abates during this period. The tenant may recover the actual and reasonable cost of that other housing which is in excess of the amount of rent which is abated.

2. If the tenant proceeds under this section, the tenant may not proceed under NRS 118A.350 and 118A.360 as to that breach.

3. The rights of the tenant under this section do not arise until the tenant has given written notice as required by subsection 1, except that the tenant may, without having given that notice:

(a) Recover damages as authorized under paragraph (b) of subsection 1 if the landlord:

(1) Admits to the court that the landlord had knowledge of the lack of such essential items or services; or

(2) Has received written notice of the uninhabitable condition caused by such a lack from a governmental agency authorized to inspect for violations of building, housing or health codes.

(b) Withhold rent under paragraph (c) of subsection 1 if the landlord:

(1) Has received written notice of the condition constituting the breach from a governmental agency authorized to inspect for violations of building, housing or health codes; and

(2) Fails to remedy or attempt in good faith to remedy the breach within the time prescribed in the written notice of that condition from the governmental agency.

4. The rights of the tenant under paragraph (c) of subsection 1 do not arise unless the tenant is current in the payment of rent at the time of giving written notice pursuant to subsection 1.

5. If such a condition was caused by the deliberate or negligent act or omission of the tenant, a member of his or her household or other person on the premises with his or her consent, the tenant has no rights under this section.

Sec. 7. NRS 118A.390 is hereby amended to read as follows:

118A.390 1. If the landlord unlawfully removes the tenant from the premises or excludes the tenant by blocking or attempting to block the tenant's entry upon the premises , ~~[or]~~ willfully interrupts or causes or permits the interruption of any essential item or service required by the rental agreement or this chapter ~~[,]~~ or otherwise recovers possession of the dwelling unit in violation of NRS 118A.480, the tenant may recover immediate possession pursuant to subsection 4, proceed under NRS 118A.380 or terminate the rental agreement and, in addition to any other remedy, recover the tenant's actual damages, receive an amount not greater than ~~[$1,000]~~ $2,500 to be fixed by the court, or both.

2. In determining the amount, if any, to be awarded under subsection 1, the court shall consider:

(a) Whether the landlord acted in good faith;

(b) The course of conduct between the landlord and the tenant; and

(c) The degree of harm to the tenant caused by the landlord's conduct.

3. If the rental agreement is terminated pursuant to subsection 1, the landlord shall return all prepaid rent and security recoverable under this chapter.

4. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 5, the tenant may recover immediate possession of the premises from the landlord by filing a verified complaint for expedited relief for the unlawful removal or exclusion of the tenant from the premises , ~~[or]~~ the willful interruption of any essential ~~[services.]~~ item or service or the recovery of possession of the dwelling unit in violation of NRS 118A.480.

5. A verified complaint for expedited relief:

(a) Must be filed with the court within 5 judicial days after the date of the unlawful act by the landlord, and the verified complaint must be dismissed if it is not timely filed. If the verified complaint for expedited relief is dismissed pursuant to this paragraph, the tenant retains the right to pursue all other available remedies against the landlord.

(b) May not be filed with the court if an action for summary eviction or unlawful detainer is already pending between the landlord and tenant, but the tenant may seek similar relief before the judge presiding over the pending action.

6. The court shall conduct a hearing on the verified complaint for expedited relief ~~[within]~~ not later than 3 judicial days after the filing of the verified complaint for expedited relief. Before or at the scheduled hearing, the tenant must provide proof that the landlord has been properly served with a copy of the verified complaint for expedited relief. Upon the hearing, if it is determined that the landlord has violated any of the provisions of subsection 1, the court may:

(a) Order the landlord to restore to the tenant the premises or essential items or services, or both;

(b) Award damages pursuant to subsection 1; and

(c) Enjoin the landlord from violating the provisions of subsection 1 and, if the circumstances so warrant, hold the landlord in contempt of court.

7. The payment of all costs and official fees must be deferred for any tenant who files a verified complaint for expedited relief. After any hearing and not later than final disposition of the filing or order, the court shall assess the costs and fees against the party that does not prevail, except that the court may reduce them or waive them, as justice may require.

Sec. 8. NRS 118A.480 is hereby amended to read as follows:

118A.480 The landlord shall not recover or take possession of the dwelling unit by action or otherwise, including willful diminution or interruption or causing or permitting the diminution or interruption of any essential item or service required by the rental agreement or this chapter, except:

1. By an action for possession or other civil action or summary proceeding in which the issue of right of possession is determined;

2. When the tenant has surrendered possession of the dwelling unit to the landlord; or

3. When the tenant has abandoned the dwelling unit as provided in NRS 118A.450.

Sec. 9. NRS 118A.510 is hereby amended to read as follows:

118A.510 1. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 3, the landlord may not, in retaliation, terminate a tenancy, refuse to renew a tenancy, increase rent or decrease essential items or services required by the rental agreement or this chapter, or bring or threaten to bring an action for possession if:

(a) The tenant has complained in good faith of a violation of a building, housing or health code applicable to the premises and affecting health or safety to a governmental agency charged with the responsibility for the enforcement of that code;

(b) The tenant has complained in good faith to the landlord or a law enforcement agency of a violation of this chapter or of a specific statute that imposes a criminal penalty;

(c) The tenant has organized or become a member of a tenant's union or similar organization;

(d) A citation has been issued resulting from a complaint described in paragraph (a);

(e) The tenant has instituted or defended against a judicial or administrative proceeding or arbitration in which the tenant raised an issue of compliance with the requirements of this chapter respecting the habitability of dwelling units;

(f) The tenant has failed or refused to give written consent to a regulation adopted by the landlord, after the tenant enters into the rental agreement, which requires the landlord to wait until the appropriate time has elapsed before it is enforceable against the tenant; or

(g) The tenant has complained in good faith to the landlord, a government agency, an attorney, a fair housing agency or any other appropriate body of a violation of NRS 118.010 to 118.120, inclusive, or the Fair Housing Act of 1968, 42 U.S.C. 3601 et seq., or has otherwise exercised rights which are guaranteed or protected under those laws.

2. If the landlord violates any provision of subsection 1, the tenant is entitled to the remedies provided in NRS 118A.390 and has a defense in any retaliatory action by the landlord for possession.

3. A landlord who acts under the circumstances described in subsection 1 does not violate that subsection if:

(a) The violation of the applicable building, housing or health code of which the tenant complained was caused primarily by the lack of reasonable care by the tenant, a member of his or her household or other person on the premises with his or her consent;

(b) The tenancy is terminated with cause;

(c) A citation has been issued and compliance with the applicable building, housing or health code requires alteration, remodeling or demolition and cannot be accomplished unless the tenant's dwelling unit is vacant; or

(d) The increase in rent applies in a uniform manner to all tenants.

➥ The maintenance of an action under this subsection does not prevent the tenant from seeking damages or injunctive relief for the landlord's failure to comply with the rental agreement or maintain the dwelling unit in a habitable condition as required by this chapter.

Amendment No. 247.

AN ACT relating to local government finance; revising provisions concerning the refunding of municipal securities related to infrastructure projects [,] in certain counties; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Since October 1, 1999, a county has been authorized, as part of a lending project under the County Bond Law, to acquire securities issued by a municipality located wholly or partially within the county: (1) to undertake one or more infrastructure projects; or (2) to refund those securities. In the latter case, a county's authority is limited to acquiring only those securities issued to refund municipal securities for infrastructure projects that were previously acquired by the county. (NRS 244A.0343, 244A.064) This bill eliminates this limitation on a county's authority in a county whose population is 100,000 or more but less than 700,000 (currently Washoe County) and thereby allows such a county to acquire securities that were issued by a municipality to refund municipal securities issued previously for infrastructure projects regardless of whether those securities are held by the county or another entity. However, ~~[the]~~ such a county may only acquire those municipal securities issued for purposes of refunding if the initial securities for the infrastructure projects were issued by the municipality on or after October 1, 1999.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 244A.0343 is hereby amended to read as follows:

244A.0343 "Lending project" means **:

1. In a county whose population is 100,000 or more but less than 700,000, the acquisition of municipal securities issued by a municipality located wholly or partially within the county acquiring the municipal securities for one or more infrastructure projects or for the refunding of municipal securities issued on or before October 1, 1999, for one or more infrastructure projects or any combination thereof.

2. In all other counties, the acquisition of municipal securities issued by a municipality located wholly or partially within the county acquiring the municipal securities for one or more infrastructure projects or for the refunding of municipal securities previously acquired as part of a lending project by a county ~~[issued on or after October 1, 1999,]~~ for one or more infrastructure projects or any combination thereof.

Sec. 2. NRS 244A.064 is hereby amended to read as follows:

244A.064 In connection with any lending project, a county may:

1. Require additional security or credit enhancement for payment of municipal securities acquired as it deems prudent.

2. Make contracts and execute all necessary or desirable instruments or documents not in conflict with the requirements of the County Bond Law.

3. Provide by ordinance for its standards, policies and procedures for financing lending projects.

4. Acquire and hold municipal securities and execute the rights of the holder of those municipal securities.

5. Sell or otherwise dispose of municipal securities unless the county is limited by any agreement that is related to those securities.

6. ~~[Refund] [any] [:~~

~~(a) Any county general obligations issued for a lending project;~~

~~(b) Any municipal securities issued on or after October 1, 1999, for one or more infrastructure projects; or~~

~~(c) Any combination of paragraphs (a) and (b),~~

~~.~~ ~~if~~] If the county and the municipality agree to the disposition of any savings resulting from the refunding ~~[.]~~ ***:

(a) In a county whose population is 100,000 or more but less than 700,000, refund:

(1) Any county general obligations issued for a lending project;

(2) Any municipal securities issued on or after October 1, 1999, for one or more infrastructure projects; or

(3) Any combination of subparagraphs (1) and (2).

(b) In all other counties, refund any county general obligations issued for a lending project.

7. Require payment by a municipality that participates in a lending project of the fees and expenses of the county in connection with the lending project.

8. Secure the payment of county general obligations issued for a lending project with a pledge of revenues of the lending project. If the revenues of a lending project are formally pledged to the county bonds issued to finance a lending project, the board may treat the revenues of the lending project financed by an issue of county general obligation bonds as pledged revenues pursuant to subsection 3 of NRS 350.020.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law ~~[provides that, under certain circumstances, the association of a common-interest community must make available to a unit's owner the books, records and papers of the association. Under this bill, if the members of the association are owners of time shares within a time share plan, the list provided to the candidate must be a list of the mailing addresses of the delegates or representatives who exercise the voting rights of those owners or, if there are no such delegates or representatives, the mailing address of the association. If the candidate is provided the mailing address of the association, the association must send the campaign material of the candidate upon the candidate's compliance with certain requirements.

This bill further provides that if a candidate requests a list of the addresses to send his or her campaign material directly to units' owners: (1) the list must not include the names of the units' owners or the name of any tenant of a unit's owner; and (2) the candidate must provide a written statement that the candidate is requesting the list ~~[to obtain information to allow the candidate to distribute]~~ for the purpose of distributing his or her campaign material directly to the units' owners and that the candidate will not make any other use of the information.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 116.31034 is hereby amended to read as follows:

116.31034 1. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 5 of NRS 116.212, not later than the termination of any period of declarant's control, the units' owners shall elect an executive board of at least three members, all of whom must be units' owners. The executive board shall elect the officers of the association. Unless the governing documents provide otherwise, the officers of the association are not required to be units' owners. The members of the executive board and the officers of the association shall take office upon election.

2. The term of office of a member of the executive board may not exceed 3 years, except for members who are appointed by the declarant. Unless the governing documents provide otherwise, there is no limitation on the number of terms that a person may serve as a member of the executive board.

3. The governing documents of the association must provide for terms of office that are staggered in such a manner that, to the extent possible, an equal number of members of the executive board are elected at each election. The provisions of this subsection do not apply to:

(a) Members of the executive board who are appointed by the declarant; and

(b) Members of the executive board who serve a term of 1 year or less.

4. Not less than 30 days before the preparation of a ballot for the election of members of the executive board, the secretary or other officer specified in the bylaws of the association shall cause notice to be given to each unit's owner of the unit's owner's eligibility to serve as a member of the executive board. Each unit's owner who is qualified to serve as a member of the executive board may have his or her name placed on the ballot along with the names of the nominees selected by the members of the executive board or a nominating committee established by the association.

5. Before the secretary or other officer specified in the bylaws of the association causes notice to be given to each unit's owner of his or her eligibility to serve as a member of the executive board pursuant to subsection 4, the executive board may determine that if, at the closing of the prescribed period for nominations for membership on the executive board, the number of candidates nominated for membership on the executive board is equal to or less than the number of members to be elected to the executive board at the election, then the secretary or other officer specified in the bylaws of the association will cause notice to be given to each unit's owner informing each unit's owner that:

(a) The association will not prepare or mail any ballots to units' owners pursuant to this section and the nominated candidates shall be deemed to be duly elected to the executive board unless:

(1) A unit's owner who is qualified to serve on the executive board nominates himself or herself for membership on the executive board by submitting a nomination to the executive board within 30 days after the notice provided by this subsection; and

(2) The number of units' owners who submit such a nomination causes the number of candidates nominated for membership on the executive board to be greater than the number of members to be elected to the executive board.

(b) Each unit's owner who is qualified to serve as a member of the executive board may nominate himself or herself for membership on the executive board by submitting a nomination to the executive board within 30 days after the notice provided by this subsection.

6. If the notice described in subsection 5 is given and if, at the closing of the prescribed period for nominations for membership on the executive board described in subsection 5, the number of candidates nominated for membership on the executive board is equal to or less than the number of members to be elected to the executive board, then:

(a) The association will not prepare or mail any ballots to units' owners pursuant to this section;

(b) The nominated candidates shall be deemed to be duly elected to the executive board not later than 30 days after the date of the closing of the period for nominations described in subsection 5; and

(c) The association shall send to each unit's owner notification that the candidates nominated have been elected to the executive board.

7. If the notice described in subsection 5 is given and if, at the closing of the prescribed period for nominations for membership on the executive board described in subsection 5, the number of candidates nominated for membership on the executive board is greater than the number of members to be elected to the executive board, then the association shall:

(a) Prepare and mail ballots to the units' owners pursuant to this section; and

(b) Conduct an election for membership on the executive board pursuant to this section.

8. Each person who is nominated as a candidate for ~~[a member of]~~ membership on the executive board pursuant to subsection 4 or 5 must:

(a) Make a good faith effort to disclose any financial, business, professional or personal relationship or interest that would result or would appear to a reasonable person to result in a potential conflict of interest for the candidate if the candidate were to be elected to serve as a member of the executive board; and

(b) Disclose whether the candidate is a member in good standing. For the purposes of this paragraph, a candidate shall not be deemed to be in "good standing" if the candidate has any unpaid and past due assessments or construction penalties that are required to be paid to the association.

➥ The candidate must make all disclosures required pursuant to this subsection in writing to the association with his or her candidacy information. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, the association shall distribute the disclosures, on behalf of the candidate, to each member of the association with the ballot or, in the event ballots are not prepared and mailed pursuant to subsection 6, in the next regular mailing of the association. The association is not obligated to distribute any disclosure pursuant to this subsection if the disclosure contains information that is believed to be defamatory, libelous or profane.

9. ~~[Notwithstanding the provisions of NRS 116.31175 and except as otherwise provided in this subsection, upon the written request of a person~~

~~who is a candidate for membership on the executive board and at no charge to the candidate, the association or its agent must make available to the candidate, for the purpose of obtaining information to allow the candidate to communicate campaign material directly to units' owners, the list of units' owners maintained by the association or its agent for review at the business office of the association or a designated business location not to exceed 60 miles from the physical location of the common interest community and during the regular working hours of the association. A written request pursuant to this subsection must be accompanied by a written statement signed by the candidate which states that the candidate is making the request to obtain information to allow the candidate to communicate campaign material directly to units' owners and that the candidate will not make any other use of the information. The association or its agent may refuse a written request submitted pursuant to this subsection only if the candidate does not provide the statement required by this subsection.~~

~~10.]~~ Unless a person is appointed by the declarant:

(a) A person may not be a member of the executive board or an officer of the association if the person, the person's spouse or the person's parent or child, by blood, marriage or adoption, performs the duties of a community manager for that association.

(b) A person may not be a member of the executive board of a master association or an officer of that master association if the person, the person's spouse or the person's parent or child, by blood, marriage or adoption, performs the duties of a community manager for:

(1) That master association; or

(2) Any association that is subject to the governing documents of that master association.

10. ~~[11.]~~ An officer, employee, agent or director of a corporate owner of a unit, a trustee or designated beneficiary of a trust that owns a unit, a partner of a partnership that owns a unit, a member or manager of a limited-liability company that owns a unit, and a fiduciary of an estate that owns a unit may be an officer of the association or a member of the executive board. In all events where the person serving or offering to serve as an officer of the association or a member of the executive board is not the record owner, the person shall file proof in the records of the association that:

(a) The person is associated with the corporate owner, trust, partnership, limited-liability company or estate as required by this subsection; and

(b) Identifies the unit or units owned by the corporate owner, trust, partnership, limited-liability company or estate.

11. ~~[12.]~~ Except as otherwise provided in subsection 6 or NRS 116.31105, the election of any member of the executive board must be conducted by secret written ballot in the following manner:

(a) The secretary or other officer specified in the bylaws of the association shall cause a secret ballot and a return envelope to be sent, prepaid by United States mail, to the mailing address of each unit within the common-interest community or to any other mailing address designated in writing by the unit's owner.

(b) Each unit's owner must be provided with at least 15 days after the date the secret written ballot is mailed to the unit's owner to return the secret written ballot to the association.

(c) A quorum is not required for the election of any member of the executive board.

(d) Only the secret written ballots that are returned to the association may be counted to determine the outcome of the election.

(e) The secret written ballots must be opened and counted at a meeting of the association. A quorum is not required to be present when the secret written ballots are opened and counted at the meeting.

(f) The incumbent members of the executive board and each person whose name is placed on the ballot as a candidate for ~~[a member of]~~ membership on the executive board may not possess, be given access to or participate in the opening or counting of the secret written ballots that are returned to the association before those secret written ballots have been opened and counted at a meeting of the association.

12. ~~[13.]~~ An association shall not adopt any rule or regulation that has the effect of prohibiting or unreasonably interfering with a candidate in the candidate's campaign for election as a member of the executive board, except that the candidate's campaign may be limited to 90 days before the date that ballots are required to be returned to the association. ~~[A]~~

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Judiciary:

Amendment No. 359.

Assembly Bill No. 282—Assemblymen Oceguera, Bobzien, Smith, Conklin, Dirkpatric; Anderson, Benitez-Thompson, Brooks, DALY, Dondero Loop, Ellison, Flores, Frierson, GOEDHART, GOICOECHEA, HAMBRICK, Hansen, HARDY, HICKEY, Horne, KIRNER, KITE, Livermore, MCARTHUR, Munford, Neal, Stewart and Woodbury.

AN ACT relating to firearms; ~~[~~~~authorizing certain members or veterans of the Armed Forces of the United States, a reserve component thereof or the National Guard, who are at least 18 but less than 21 years of age, to obtain a permit to carry a concealed firearm;~~~~]~~ revising provisions concerning permits to carry concealed semiautomatic firearms; revising provisions governing the renewal of a permit to carry a concealed firearm; revising provisions concerning the confidentiality of information relating to permits to carry concealed firearms; revising provisions governing the possession ~~[and discharge]~~ of firearms in state parks; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, a person who wishes to carry a concealed firearm must obtain a permit to carry the firearm . ~~[, and a person who applies for such a permit must be at least 21 years of age.]~~ (NRS 202.3657) As part of the application process to obtain a permit, an applicant must undergo an investigation by a sheriff to determine if the applicant is eligible for a permit. Such an investigation must include a report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation. (NRS 202.366) Section 2 of this bill additionally requires an applicant for the renewal of a permit to undergo an investigation by the sheriff. ~~[Section 1 of this bill provides an exception to the standard age requirement for permits and authorizes certain members or veterans of the Armed Forces of the United States, a reserve component thereof or the National Guard, who are at least 18 but less than 21 years of age, to obtain a permit.]~~ Section 2 also specifies that an investigation conducted by the sheriff for an initial application or a renewal application must include a report from the National Instant Criminal Background Check System. Section 4 of this bill revises the fee for the renewal of a permit from $25 to the amount necessary to obtain the reports required as part of the investigation by the sheriff.

Existing law also provides that a qualified applicant for a permit to carry a concealed firearm may obtain a permit for revolvers, for one or more specific semiautomatic firearms, or for revolvers and one or more specific semiautomatic firearms. (NRS 202.3657) If the application for a permit involves semiautomatic firearms, the applicant must state the make, model and caliber of each semiautomatic firearm for which the applicant is seeking to obtain a permit. (NRS 202.366) Additionally, to receive and renew a permit involving semiautomatic firearms, an applicant or permittee must demonstrate competence with each semiautomatic firearm to which the application pertains. (NRS 202.3657, 202.3677) Section 1 of this bill provides that: (1) a qualified applicant for a permit to carry a concealed firearm may obtain one permit for all semiautomatic firearms that the applicant seeks to carry instead of being required to obtain a permit for each specific semiautomatic firearm; and (2) an applicant or permittee may demonstrate competence with semiautomatic firearms in general rather than with each specific semiautomatic firearm.

Existing law further provides that information in an application for a permit to carry a concealed firearm and all information relating to the investigation of an applicant for such a permit is confidential. (NRS 202.3662) However, the Nevada Supreme Court recently held in Reno Newspapers, Inc. v. Haley, 126 Nev. Adv. Op. 23, 234 P.3d 922 (2010), that the identity of a holder of a permit to carry a concealed firearm and any postpermit records of investigation, suspension or revocation are not confidential and are therefore public records. Section 3 of this bill provides that the identity and any information acquired during the investigation of a holder of a permit to carry a concealed firearm are confidential, as are any records regarding the suspension, restoration or revocation of such a permit.

Existing law also allows the Administrator of the Division of State Parks of the State Department of Conservation and Natural Resources to adopt regulations, including, without limitation, prohibitions and restrictions on activities within parks or recreational facilities within the jurisdiction of the Division. (NRS 407.0475) Existing administrative regulations allow a person to carry a concealed firearm in a state park if the person complies with existing laws concerning the carrying of concealed weapons but prohibit a person from discharging a firearm in a state park. (NAC 407.105) Any person who violates a regulation adopted by the Administrator is guilty of a misdemeanor. (NRS 407.0475) While existing law prohibits the discharge of a firearm under various circumstances, it also provides certain defenses for violating such provisions by allowing a person to make sufficient resistance to prevent the occurrence of certain offenses. (NRS 202.280-202.290, 193.230-193.250)

Section 5 of this bill prohibits the Administrator from adopting any regulation concerning the possession ~~[or discharge]~~ of firearms in state parks or recreational facilities which is more restrictive than the laws of this State relating to: (1) the possession ~~[or discharge]~~ of firearms; and (2) engaging in lawful resistance to prevent an offense against a person or property. Section 5 also voids any regulation which conflicts with such laws.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 202.3657 is hereby amended to read as follows:

A sheriff may not approve a course in firearm safety pursuant to subparagraph (1) unless the sheriff determines that the course meets any standards that are established by the Nevada Sheriffs' and Chiefs' Association or, if the Nevada Sheriffs' and Chiefs' Association ceases to exist, its legal successor.

3. ~~[Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of subsection 2, a person who is at least 18 years of age but less than 21 years of age is eligible for a permit pursuant to this section if the person meets the other requirements for eligibility pursuant to subsection 2 and:~~

Amendment No. 399.

SHORT FORM AMENDMENT

Sections 42, 43, 46 and 47 of this act are the only sections affected by this amendment.

Section 42 of A.B. No. 545 is hereby amended as follows:

Sec. 42. NRS 248.100 is hereby amended to read as follows:

248.100 1. The sheriff shall:

(a) Except in a county whose population is ~~[~~400,000~~]~~ ~~[700,000]~~ 100,000 or more, attend in person, or by deputy, all sessions of the district court in his or her county.

(b) Obey all the lawful orders and directions of the district court in his or her county.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in subsection 2, execute the process, writs or warrants of courts of justice, judicial officers and coroners, when delivered to the sheriff for that purpose.

2. The sheriff may authorize the constable of the appropriate township to receive and execute the process, writs or warrants of courts of justice, judicial officers and coroners.

Section 43 of A.B. No. 545 is hereby amended as follows:

Sec. 43. NRS 252.070 is hereby amended to read as follows:

252.070 1. All district attorneys may appoint deputies, who are authorized to transact all official business relating to those duties of the office set forth in NRS 252.080 and 252.090 to the same extent as their principals and perform such other duties as the district attorney may from time to time direct. The appointment of a deputy district attorney must not be construed to confer upon that deputy policymaking authority for the office of the district attorney or the county by which the deputy district attorney is employed.

2. District attorneys are responsible on their official bonds for all official malfeasance or nonfeasance of the deputies. Bonds for the faithful performance of their official duties may be required of deputies by district attorneys.

3. All appointments of deputies under the provisions of this section must be in writing and must, together with the oath of office of the deputies, be recorded in the office of the recorder of the county within which the district attorney legally holds and exercises his or her office. Revocations of those appointments must also be recorded as provided in this section. From the time of the recording of the appointments or revocations therein, persons shall be deemed to have notice of the appointments or revocations.

4. Deputy district attorneys of counties whose population is less than 100,000 may engage in the private practice of law. In any other county, except as otherwise provided in NRS 7.065 and this subsection, deputy district attorneys shall not engage in the private practice of law. An attorney appointed to prosecute a person for a limited duration with limited jurisdiction may engage in private practice which does not present a conflict with his or her appointment.

5. Any district attorney may, subject to the approval of the board of county commissioners, appoint such clerical, investigational and operational staff as the execution of duties and the operation of his or her office may require. The compensation of any person so appointed must be fixed by the board of county commissioners.

6. In a county whose population is ~~[~~400,000~~]~~ ~~[700,000]~~ 100,000 or more, deputies are governed by the merit personnel system of the county.

Section 46 of A.B. No. 545 is hereby amended as follows:

Sec. 46. NRS 260.040 is hereby amended to read as follows:

260.040 1. The compensation of the public defender must be fixed by the board of county commissioners. The public defender of any two or more counties must be compensated and be permitted private civil practice of the law as determined by the boards of county commissioners of those counties, subject to the provisions of subsection 4 of this section and NRS 7.065.

2. The public defender may appoint as many deputies or assistant attorneys, clerks, investigators, stenographers and other employees as the public defender considers necessary to enable him or her to carry out his or her responsibilities, with the approval of the board of county commissioners. An assistant attorney must be a qualified attorney licensed to practice in this State and may be placed on a part-time or full-time basis. The appointment of a deputy, assistant attorney or other employee pursuant to this subsection must not be construed to confer upon that deputy, assistant attorney or other employee policymaking authority for the office of the public defender or the county or counties by which the deputy, assistant attorney or other employee is employed.

3. The compensation of persons appointed under subsection 2 must be fixed by the board of county commissioners of the county or counties so served.

4. The public defender and his or her deputies and assistant attorneys in a county whose population is less than 100,000 may engage in the private practice of law. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, in any other county, the public defender and his or her deputies and assistant attorneys shall not engage in the private practice of law except as otherwise provided in NRS 7.065. An attorney appointed to defend a person for a limited duration with limited jurisdiction may engage in private practice which does not present a conflict with his or her appointment.

5. The board of county commissioners shall provide office space, furniture, equipment and supplies for the use of the public defender suitable for the conduct of the business of his or her office. However, the board of county commissioners may provide for an allowance in place of facilities. Each of those items is a charge against the county in which public defender services are rendered. If the public defender serves more than one county, expenses that are properly allocable to the business of more than one of those counties must be prorated among the counties concerned.

6. In a county whose population is ~~[400,000]~~ ~~[700,000]~~ 100,000 or more, deputies are governed by the merit personnel system of the county.

Section 47 of A.B. No. 545 is hereby amended as follows:

Sec. 47. NRS 3.310 is hereby amended to read as follows:

3.310 1. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, the judge of each district court may appoint a bailiff for the court in counties polling 4,500 or more votes. In counties polling less than 4,500 votes, the judge may appoint a bailiff with the concurrence of the sheriff. Subject to the provisions of subsections 2, 4 and 10, in a county whose population is ~~[400,000]~~ ~~[700,000]~~ 100,000 or more, the judge of each district court may appoint a deputy marshal for the court instead of a bailiff. In each case, the bailiff or deputy marshal serves at the pleasure of the judge he or she serves.

2. In all judicial districts where there is more than one judge, there may be a number of bailiffs or deputy marshals at least equal to the number of judges, and in any judicial district where a circuit judge has presided for more than 50 percent of the regular judicial days of the prior calendar year, there may be one additional bailiff or deputy marshal, each bailiff or deputy marshal to be appointed by the joint action of the judges. If the judges cannot agree upon the appointment of any bailiff or deputy marshal within 30 days after a vacancy occurs in the office of bailiff or deputy marshal, then the appointment must be made by a majority of the board of county commissioners.

3. Each bailiff or deputy marshal shall:

(a) Preserve order in the court.

(b) Attend upon the jury.

(c) Open and close court.

(d) Perform such other duties as may be required of him or her by the judge of the court.

4. The bailiff or deputy marshal must be a qualified elector of the county and shall give a bond, to be approved by the district judge, in the sum of $2,000, conditioned for the faithful performance of his or her duty.

5. The compensation of each bailiff or deputy marshal for his or her services must be fixed by the board of county commissioners of the county and his or her salary paid by the county wherein he or she is appointed, the same as the salaries of other county officers are paid.

6. The board of county commissioners of the respective counties shall allow the salary stated in subsection 5 as other salaries are allowed to county officers, and the county auditor shall draw his or her warrant for it, and the county treasurer shall pay it.

7. The provisions of this section do not:

(a) Authorize the bailiff or deputy marshal to serve any civil or criminal process, except such orders of the court which are specially directed by the court or the presiding judge thereof to him or her for service.

(b) Except in a county whose population is ~~[~~400,000~~]~~ ~~[700,000]~~ 100,000 or more, relieve the sheriff of any duty required of him or her by law to maintain order in the courtroom.

8. If a deputy marshal is appointed for a court pursuant to subsection 1, each session of the court must be attended by the deputy marshal.

9. For good cause shown, a deputy marshal appointed for a court pursuant to subsection 1 may be assigned temporarily to assist other judicial departments or assist with court administration as needed.

10. A person appointed to be a deputy marshal for a court pursuant to subsection 1 must be certified by the Peace Officers' Standards and Training Commission as a category I peace officer not later than 18 months after appointment.

SECOND READING AND AMENDMENT

Assembly Bill No. 317.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Judiciary:

Amendment No. 354.

SUMMARY—Revises provisions governing ~~[mediation and]~~ arbitration of certain claims relating to residential property. (BDR 3-540)

AN ACT relating to civil actions; revising provisions relating to the ~~[submission]~~ commencement of civil actions concerning certain claims relating to residential property ~~[for mediation or arbitration; revising procedures relating to mediation or]~~ after the completion of nonbinding ~~[arbitration of such claims; revising the qualifications required for inclusion by the Real Estate Division of the Department of Business and Industry on a list of mediators and arbitrators available for mediation and]~~ arbitration of such claims; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law requires certain claims relating to residential property to be submitted for mediation or arbitration with the Real Estate Division of the Department of Business and Industry by filing a written claim with the Division as a prerequisite to filing a civil action based on those claims. (NRS 38.310, 38.320) Existing law further ~~[requires a person who is served with such a claim to file a written answer with the Division within 30 days after the person was served. (NRS 38.310, 38.320) Section 1 of this bill requires the Division to: (1) find a person to be in default if the person is served with~~

~~such a claim and fails to file a written answer with the Division within 30 days; and (2) appoint an arbitrator for the claim. Section 1 further requires the arbitrator appointed by the Division to set and give notice of a hearing to allow an opportunity for the person who failed to file a written answer to prove that the failure to file was a result of excusable neglect. Section 1 also sets forth the procedures governing the arbitration if: (1) the arbitrator determines the failure to file was not a result of excusable neglect; (2) the person who failed to file the answer does not appear at the hearing; or (3) the arbitrator determines the failure to file was a result of excusable neglect.~~

~~Section 4 of this bill requires: (1) the Division to send to the parties the written claim filed with the Division a list of mediators and arbitrators; and (2) the parties to notify the Division of, among other things, their selection of a mediator or arbitrator within a specific period. Existing law~~] authorizes, under certain circumstances, any party to nonbinding arbitration to commence a civil action concerning the claim which was submitted for arbitration within 30 days after a decision and award have been served upon the parties. (NRS 38.330) Section 4 of this bill requires such a decision and award to be both final and dispositive of any and all issues of the claim which were submitted to nonbinding arbitration before such a party may commence a civil action.

[~~Existing law requires the Division to establish and maintain a list of mediators and arbitrators who the Division determines have received training and experience in the resolution of disputes concerning residential property within a common-interest community and who are available for mediation and arbitration of claims arising from such disputes. (NRS 38.340) Section 5 of this bill mandates rather than authorizes the Division to require a mediator or arbitrator to present proof of that training and experience before the Division includes the mediator or arbitrator on the list and also requires the training to: (1) include at least 8 hours of continuing education approved by the Division; and (2) be completed during the 1-year period before the initial inclusion of the mediator or arbitrator on the list and each year thereafter.~~]

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

~~Section 1 of this bill provides for an additional penalty to be imposed on a person convicted of a violation of certain traffic laws if the person was the proximate cause of substantial bodily injury to or the death of a vulnerable highway user. The additional penalty includes completion of a course of traffic safety, performance of community service, a fine and the revocation of a person's driver's license for 1 year. ~~4. Except where otherwise provided, a driver may drive across a pavement striping marking such a zone to make a left-hand turn if the driver has first given the appropriate turn signal in compliance with NRS 484B.413, if it is safe and if it would not be an impediment to oncoming or following traffic.~~

~~2. Upon a highway which has been divided into three clearly marked lanes, a vehicle must not be driven in the extreme left lane at any time. A vehicle on such a highway must not be driven in the center lane except:~~

~~(a) When overtaking and passing another vehicle where the highway is clearly visible and the center lane is clear of traffic for a safe distance;~~

~~(c) When the center lane is allocated exclusively to traffic moving in the direction in which the vehicle is proceeding and a sign is posted to give notice of such allocation.~~

~~(c) A vehicle must not travel more than 50 feet in a center turn lane after making a left-hand turn onto the highway before merging with traffic.~~

~~4. If a highway has been designed to provide a single right lane to be used only for turning, a vehicle must:~~

(a) To and from work or in the course of his or her work, or both; or

(b) To acquire supplies of medicine or food or receive regularly scheduled medical care for himself, herself or a member of his or her immediate family.

➥ Before a restricted license may be issued, the applicant must submit sufficient documentary evidence to satisfy the Department that a severe hardship exists because the applicant has no alternative means of transportation and that the severe hardship outweighs the risk to the public if the applicant is issued a restricted license.

3. If the Department has received a copy of an order requiring a person to install a device in a motor vehicle pursuant to NRS 484C.460, the Department shall not issue a restricted driver's license to such a person pursuant to this section unless the applicant has submitted proof of compliance with the order and subsection 2.

4. After a driver's license has been revoked or suspended pursuant to title 5 of NRS, the Department may issue a restricted driver's license to an applicant permitting the applicant to drive a motor vehicle:

(a) If applicable, to and from work or in the course of his or her work, or both; or Assemblywoman Dondero Loop moved the adoption of the amendment.

Amendment adopted.

Bill ordered reprinted, engrossed, and to third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 330.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Government Affairs:

Amendment No. 246.

AN ACT relating to government contracts; declaring privatization contracts to be public records; requiring governmental entities to submit certain information to the Chief of the Budget Division of the Department of Administration relating to the use of privatization contracts; requiring state agencies and local governments to include certain information relating to privatization contracts in the tentative budget of the state agency or local government; providing a penalty; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, all public books and records of a governmental entity, the contents of which are not otherwise declared by law to be confidential or which the governmental entity determines pursuant to a balancing test must not be disclosed, must be open at all times during office hours for inspection and copying. (NRS 239.010) Section 1 of this bill declares to be a public record any privatization contract, defined in section 3 of this bill as a contract executed by or on behalf of a governmental entity which authorizes a private entity to provide public services that are : (1) substantially similar to the services performed by the public employees of the governmental entity; and (2) in lieu of the services otherwise required to be provided by the governmental entity.

On or before September 1 of each even-numbered year, existing law requires all departments, institutions and other agencies of the Executive Department of the State Government to submit to the Chief of the Budget Division of the Department of Administration information regarding any existing contracts the department, institution or agency has with consultants or temporary employment services, the proposed expenditures for such contracts in the next 2 fiscal years and the reasons for the use of such consultants or services. (NRS 353.210) Section 7 of this bill requires that if such contracts are privatization contracts, the department, institution or agency must also submit a copy of each of the privatization contracts together with information regarding the duration and number of such contracts, as well as an analysis of the privatization contracts which includes a comparison of the use of the persons employed under the privatization contracts with the costs if the services were provided by regular full-time employees of the department, institution or agency. Section 7 further requires the information regarding contracts entered into by the department, institution or agency to be made open to public inspection. Section 8 of this bill requires a local government to provide the same disclosures regarding any contracts it has entered into while preparing a tentative budget, and to make such information open to public inspection. Because the budgetary process of local governments is required to be used by many other units of government, the provisions of section 8 also require the disclosures required regarding contracts a government agency has entered into to be provided while preparing a tentative budget by the following entities: (1) transportation districts; (2) districts for the support of public parks; (3) consolidated, district or town libraries; (4) county hospital districts; and (5) county fire protection districts.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Chapter 239 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

Any privatization contract executed by or on behalf of a governmental entity is a public record and must be open to public inspection during the regular business hours of the governmental entity.

Sec. 2. NRS 239.001 is hereby amended to read as follows:

239.001 The Legislature hereby finds and declares that:

1. The purpose of this chapter is to foster democratic principles by providing members of the public with access to inspect and copy public books and records to the extent permitted by law;

2. The provisions of this chapter must be construed liberally to carry out this important purpose; ~~[and]~~

3. Any exemption, exception or balancing of interests which limits or restricts access to public books and records by members of the public must be construed narrowly ~~[.]~~ ; and

4. The use of private entities in the provision of public services must not deprive members of the public access to inspect and copy books and records relating to the provision of those services.

Sec. 3. NRS 239.005 is hereby amended to read as follows:

239.005 As used in this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires:

4. The duties of the town advisory board are to:

(a) Assist the board of county commissioners in governing the unincorporated town by acting as liaison between the residents of the town and the board of county commissioners; and

(b) Advise the board of county commissioners on matters of importance to the unincorporated town and its residents.

(a) The board of county commissioners shall by ordinance provide for the election by the registered voters of the unincorporated town of three or five qualified electors who are residents of the unincorporated town to serve as the town advisory board. If there are fewer qualified electors who are residents of the unincorporated town who file for election to the town advisory board than there are seats on the town advisory board, the board of county commissioners shall appoint as many new members as are necessary to fill the seats left vacant after the election.

(b) The members of the town advisory board of the unincorporated town do not serve at the pleasure of and may not be removed by the board of county commissioners.

~~[3.]~~ 4. The State Engineer shall consider the protest, and may, in his or her discretion, hold hearings and require the filing of such evidence as the State Engineer may deem necessary to a full understanding of the rights involved. The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Government Affairs:

Amendment No. 175.

AN ACT relating to public works; making various changes relating to the withholding of retainage on progress payments for public works contracts; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law requires a public body to withhold as retainage at least 10 percent of the progress payments owed to a contractor on a public works project during the first half of the project. (NRS 338.515) Similarly, contractors and subcontractors may withhold as retainage not more than 10 percent of progress payments to their subcontractors and suppliers during the first half of the public works project. (NRS 338.555, 338.595) Sections 1, 3 and 5 of this bill revise the maximum amount of retainage that may be withheld during the first half of the project to 5 percent of the progress payment. Sections 1, 3 and 5 also provide that, except under limited circumstances, the amount of retainage may not exceed 2.5 percent of progress payments during the second half of a public works project.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 338.515 is hereby amended to read as follows:

338.515 1. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 338.525, a public body and its officers or agents awarding a contract for a public work shall pay or cause to be paid to a contractor the progress payments due under the contract within 30 days after the date the public body receives the progress bill or within a shorter period if the provisions of the contract so provide. Not more than ~~[~~90~~]~~ 95 percent of the amount of any progress payment may be paid until 50 percent of the work required by the contract has been performed. ~~[~~Thereafter,~~]~~

2. After 50 percent of the work required by the contract has been performed, the public body may pay any of the remaining progress payments without withholding additional retainage if, in the opinion of the public body, satisfactory progress is being made in the work.

(a) If the public body does not withhold any amount pursuant to NRS 338.525:

(1) The public body may not withhold more than 2.5 percent of the amount of any progress payment; and

~~[(b) Except as otherwise provided in NRS 338.525, before]~~

(2) Before withholding any amount pursuant to ~~[paragraph (a),]~~ subparagraph (1), the public body must pay to the contractor 50 percent of the amount of any retainage that was withheld from progress payments pursuant to subsection 1 ~~[.]~~ ; or

(c) The amount withheld under the contract is due pursuant to NRS 338.520, ➥ whichever occurs first.

~~[4.]~~ 5. If the Labor Commissioner has reason to believe that a worker is owed wages by a contractor or subcontractor, the Labor Commissioner may require the public body to withhold from any payment due the contractor under this section and pay the Labor Commissioner instead, an amount equal to the amount the Labor Commissioner believes the contractor owes to the worker. This amount must be paid by the Labor Commissioner to the worker

2. If the public body objects pursuant to subparagraph (2) of paragraph (b) of subsection 1, it shall pay to the contractor an amount equal to the value of the corrections to which the public body does not object.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Government Affairs:

Amendment No. 263.

SUMMARY—~~[Removes prospective expiration of]~~ Revises certain provisions relating to land use planning. (BDR 22-1119)

AN ACT relating to land use planning; extending the period within which certain parcel maps must be recorded in certain counties; removing the prospective expiration of certain provisions concerning tentative maps and final maps of certain subdivisions of land; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law prescribes certain requirements for the proposed dividing of land into five or more units for the purpose of transfer or development, unless otherwise exempted. (NRS 278.320-278.460) The initial action in the process of dividing such land is the submission of a tentative map of the proposed subdivision, and the concluding action is the recordation of an approved final map. (NRS 278.330, 278.460) A subdivider whose tentative map of a proposed subdivision has been approved by the appropriate planning authority must present a final map covering the entire subdivision, or the first of a series of successive final maps covering portions of the subdivision, within 4 years after the approval of the tentative map, with certain exceptions, or proceedings concerning the subdivision are terminated. (NRS 278.360) Additionally, if a subdivider is presenting a series of final maps, each successive map must be presented within 2 years after the previous final map in the series was recorded, unless the planning authority grants an extension of not more than 2 additional years. (NRS 278.360)

These deadlines of 4 years and 2 years were extended from 2 years and 1 year, respectively, during the 2009 Legislative Session, and those changes are scheduled to expire on June 30, 2013, after which the deadlines will revert to 2 years and 1 year, respectively. (Section 3, chapter 59, Statutes of Nevada 2009, p. 165) ~~[This]~~ Section 2 of this bill removes that prospective expiration so that: (1) the deadline for presenting a final map or the first in a series of successive maps will remain at 4 years after the approval of the tentative map; (2) the deadline for presenting one of a series of successive final maps will remain at 2 years after the presentation of the previous map; and (3) the possible duration of an extension to the deadlines for presenting one of a series of successive maps will remain at 2 years.

Existing law requires a person who proposes to divide any land for transfer or development into four lots or less to submit a parcel map showing the proposed division to the appropriate planning commission or local governing body for approval. (NRS 278.461, 278.464) If the parcel map is approved, the person must cause the map to be recorded in the office of the county recorder within 1 year after the approval, unless the governing body establishes by ordinance a longer period, which may not exceed 2 years. (NRS 278.468) Section 1 of this bill extends that period to 3 years, and authorizes the governing body to grant a 1-year extension, for a parcel map prepared in a county whose population is less than 100,000 (currently counties other than Clark and Washoe Counties) if the parcel map shows land totaling 50 acres or more that is subject to a conservation easement preserving or protecting open space, a floodplain or agricultural lands.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 278.468 is hereby amended to read as follows:

278.468 1. If a parcel map is approved or deemed approved pursuant to NRS 278.464, the preparer of the map shall:

(a) ~~[Cause]~~ Except as otherwise provided in subsection 2, cause the approved map to be recorded in the office of the county recorder within 1 year after the date the map was approved or deemed approved, unless the governing body establishes by ordinance a longer period, not to exceed 2 years, for recording the map. The map must be accompanied by a written statement signed by the treasurer of the county in which the land to be divided is located indicating that all property taxes on the land for the fiscal year have been paid.

(b) Pay a fee of $17 for the first sheet of the map plus $10 for each additional sheet to the county recorder for filing and indexing.

2. In a county whose population is less than 100,000, if the parcel map shows an area totaling 50 acres or more that is subject to a conservation easement, the preparer of the map shall cause the approved map to be recorded in the office of the county recorder within 3 years after the date the map was approved or deemed approved, unless the governing body grants an extension of time for recording the map, which may not exceed 1 year. As used in this subsection, "conservation easement" means an easement that permanently preserves or protects open space, a floodplain or agricultural land from being parceled, subdivided or otherwise developed in a manner incompatible with the preservation or protection of the open space, floodplain or agricultural land.

3. Upon receipt of a parcel map, the county recorder shall file the map in a suitable place. The county recorder shall keep proper indexes of parcel maps by the name of grant, tract, subdivision or United States subdivision.

~~[3.]~~ 4. A county recorder who records a parcel map pursuant to this section shall, within 7 working days after he or she records the parcel map, provide to the county assessor at no charge:

(a) A duplicate copy of the parcel map and any supporting documents; or

(b) Access to the digital parcel map and any digital supporting documents.

The map and supporting documents must be in a form that is acceptable to the county recorder and the county assessor.

~~[Section 1.]~~ Sec. 2. Section 3 of chapter 59, Statutes of Nevada 2009, at page 165, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 3. ~~[1.]~~ This act becomes effective upon passage and approval.

~~[2. Section 2 of this act expires by limitation on June 30, 2013.]~~

SUMMARY—Provides for uniformity in the [~~definitions~~] naming of group homes and similar facilities. (BDR 20-675)

AN ACT relating to group homes; requiring, under certain circumstances, that local governments adopt [~~definitions~~] names for group homes and similar facilities which are the same as [~~or substantially similar to~~] the [~~definitions~~] names used in state law; [~~requiring, under certain circumstances, the use of the terms so defined;~~] clarifying that the names so adopted are solely for purposes of reference and are not definitions for regulatory purposes; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing state law defines the terms "child care institution," "facility for transitional living for released offenders," "group foster home," "halfway house for recovering alcohol and drug abusers," "home for individual residential care" and "residential facility for groups." (NRS 424.015, 432A.0245, 449.0055, 449.008, 449.0105, 449.017) Existing county and city ordinances do not necessarily use the same terms or define them in the same way.

This bill requires that each county and city ~~[: (1)]~~ adopt ~~[definitions for]~~ an ordinance using the preceding terms ~~[which are the same as, or substantially similar to, the definitions of those terms as set forth in state law; and (2) use the terms so defined.]~~ to describe the applicable facilities, homes, houses and institutions. However, a county or city is not required to ~~[adopt or use a definition for]~~ include a specified term in the ordinance if no facility of the type corresponding to the term exists in the county or city, or if the county's or city's ordinances do not otherwise, by whatever name, refer to a facility of the type corresponding to the term.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Chapter 244 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

~~[(6)]~~ (f) Residential facility for groups, as that term is ~~[defined]~~ used in NRS 449.017.

~~[~~ ~~(b) If it defines a term pursuant to paragraph (a), ensure that the county government and the ordinances of the county use the term when referring to the type of facility, home, house or institution so defined.]~~

2. Subsection 1 requires the board of county commissioners to use the specified terms solely for the purpose of referring to the named facilities, homes, houses and institutions and does not require the board to adopt the State's definition for the purpose of regulating or imposing any requirement with respect to such a facility, home, house or institution.

3. A board of county commissioners is not required to [define or use] include a term set forth in subsection 1 in the ordinance if:

(a) A facility, home, house or institution of the type corresponding to the term does not exist in the county; or

(b) The county's ordinances do not otherwise, by whatever name, refer to a facility, home, house or institution of the type corresponding to the term.

Sec. 2. Chapter 268 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

1. Except as otherwise provided in [subsection 2,] subsections 2 and 3, the governing body of each city shall [, for consistency with state law:

2. Subsection 1 requires the governing body of the city to use the specified terms solely for the purpose of referring to the named facilities, homes, houses and institutions and does not require the governing body to use the State's definition for the purpose of regulating or imposing any requirement with respect to such a facility, home, house or institution.

3. The governing body of a city is not required to [define or use] include a term set forth in subsection 1 in the ordinance if:

AN ACT relating to genetic marker analysis; imposing an administrative assessment upon a defendant convicted of any crime; requiring that a biological specimen be obtained from a person arrested for a felony ~~[,]~~ or a sexual offense; providing a penalty; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Section 2 of this bill imposes an additional administrative assessment of $1 for every $10 in fines or fees imposed on a person convicted of a misdemeanor, gross misdemeanor or felony. Section 2 also provides that the money collected from the assessments must be used to defray the costs associated with obtaining biological specimens and genetic marker analysis.

Under existing law, if a defendant is convicted of a felony or certain other specified offenses, the court, as part of the defendant's sentence, must order that a biological specimen be obtained from the defendant and that the specimen be used for analysis to determine the genetic markers of the specimen. (NRS 176.0911-176.0917) Section 3 of this bill requires that a biological specimen be obtained if a person is arrested for a felony or a sexual offense ~~[,]~~ punishable as a misdemeanor. Section 3 also provides that if the person is convicted of the felony ~~[on]~~ or the sexual offense, the specimen must be kept, but if the person is not convicted, the specimen and all records relating thereto must be destroyed and expunged.

Existing law prohibits a person from sharing or disclosing certain information relating to another person's biological specimen or genetic marker analysis and makes such conduct a misdemeanor. (NRS 176.0913) Sections 3 and 8 of this bill increase the penalty for such conduct from a misdemeanor to a ~~[gross misdemeanor with a maximum fine of $2,500.]~~ category C felony.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Chapter 176 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto the provisions set forth as sections 2, 3 and 4 of this act.

If a defendant is sentenced to perform community service in lieu of a fine, the sentence must include the administrative assessment required pursuant to this subsection.

2. The money collected for such an administrative assessment must be stated separately on the court's docket and must be included in the amount posted for bail. If bail is forfeited, the administrative assessment included in the bail pursuant to this subsection must be disbursed pursuant to subsection 3. 4. After an agency adopts a resolution pursuant to subsection 1 or 2, the resolution so adopted and the findings set forth in the resolution are final and conclusive and are not subject to judicial review unless credible evidence is adduced to suggest that the resolution or the findings set forth therein were procured through bribery or fraud.

GENERAL FILE AND THIRD READING

Assembly Bill No. 154.

Bill read third time.

The following amendment was proposed by Assemblyman Frierson:

Amendment No. 491.

AN ACT relating to the protection of children; establishing provisions which set forth certain rights of children who are placed in foster homes; requiring notice of those rights to children placed in foster homes; establishing a procedure for children who are placed in foster homes to report alleged violations of those rights; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Sections 3-5 of this bill establish certain rights of children who are placed in foster homes. Section 6 of this bill requires a provider of family foster care which places a child in a foster home to inform the child of his or her rights and provide the child with a written copy of those rights. Section 6 also requires each group foster home which provides care to more than six children to post a written copy of those rights in the group foster home. Section 7 of this bill authorizes a provider of family foster care to place reasonable restrictions on the rights of a child based upon the time, place and manner of a child's exercise of those rights if such restrictions are necessary to preserve the order or safety of the foster home. Section 8 of this bill authorizes a child placed in foster care who believes that his or her rights as set forth in this bill have been violated to raise and redress a grievance with any of a number of persons or institutions responsible for the child.

Section 9 of this bill prohibits an employee of a school district from disclosing to any person who is not employed by the school district any information relating to a pupil who is placed in foster care.

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

Motion carried.

IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

Chairman Oceguera presiding.

Quorum present.

Governor's proposed higher education budget considered.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Like earlier in the week, we will do a couple of things. I think we are going to have the Fiscal staff come up first, and then the university system, some students, some public comment. Mrs. Smith, did you have a comment before we got started here?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN SMITH:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I do not see our staff here yet, so I thought while we are waiting for them to come in, I might just remind the body that this is the usual process that we follow for resolving the budget, that we are on the same track that we are normally in at this time considering the same information. We would just normally be doing this in a small committee, and this, again, will give the entire body the opportunity to see and hear at least some of the information that only the money committees usually have to consider. The document that you have been provided is the same information that the money committees have been reviewing in our hearings, and this, again, is just a bigger venue for this information.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

I would like to give a few comments myself. As you know, we are in the Committee of the Whole. We did this on Tuesday, and I wanted to let the public watching and listening to the Committee of the Whole for the first time to know how it works. The Committee of the Whole operates under a very similar set of rules as the regular committees, the only real difference being that the entire Assembly functions as one big committee. Just like we do in committee, we will be having witnesses. Legislators and witnesses would address me, again, as the Chair instead of the Speaker. In our budget committee work sessions, we often ask what the sense of the membership is on a particular issue, and these votes are not binding. They are only for the benefit of the Committee and the public to understand where we stand. With the Committee of the Whole, we are bringing the major budget discussions out of the subcommittees and committees and onto the Assembly and Senate floors for an open and transparent debate.

Today, we are listening to the Governor's higher education budget. We have got big decisions, again, to make, and Nevadans, I believe, have the right to know what their elected representatives are doing, and who is doing what. The Committee of the Whole is also to help individual legislators who do not serve on the money committees to understand what the cuts to higher education proposed by the Governor are and to have more input on the decisions that are made. As I said in Tuesday's Committee of the Whole, this session we are deciding what kind of state we want to be. The Governor's budget recommends a cut of 27 percent to higher education when you include the funds we've received under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA) in the last biennium. That's about $300 million.

Like many of you, I was born in Nevada, and I was raised here. I have a degree from Truckee Meadows Community College and, from Western Nevada Community College. I received my master's degree in public administration from UNLV (University of Nevada, Las Vegas) and my law degree from the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, Boyd School of Law. Nevada's higher education system made me who I am. It is real simple. I do not think I would be sitting here today if not for the great education I received in our colleges and universities. I know how important it is, and I want all Nevadans to have that kind of access that I had.

I am a little troubled by these cuts and the impact they would have on our state and our students. Again, as I stated in the K-12 hearing, we have heard from the economic development experts, university representatives, and businesses that we simply cannot afford the cuts of this size to our university system. It would not pull ourselves out of this economic crisis and then attract 21st century businesses. To create jobs and economic growth, first you need a qualified workforce, and we rely on our universities for that. A $300+ million cut to higher education will only, among other things, get us higher tuition and shut out students who could not afford to go to school. These cuts would also mean the elimination and reduction of critical programs or departments like Engineering and Computer Science that provide technologically skilled workers to our high-tech businesses in Nevada and those that are considering moving here. There is also a very real threat of campus closings and retraining opportunities, particularly in our community colleges. I want Nevada to continue to have a great higher education system and I believe these cuts would do irreparable harm.

But before we begin, I think we should thank the witnesses who have had to endure—they are going back-to-back. They just did the Senate; now they are doing the Assembly. They are having a pretty long day of testimony. We appreciate them being here. We appreciate their testimony. We appreciate those students that will be here as well. We thank them for being involved and thank them for being engaged. Let us begin with our Fiscal staff.

RICK COMBS, ASSEMBLY FISCAL ANALYST, FISCAL ANALYSIS DIVISION, LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BUREAU:

We are here today to present our document on the Governor's budget proposal for higher education. Just to point out, the first document under the exhibits in Nevada Electronic Legislative Information System (NELIS) was prepared by our staff (Exhibit C). It is entitled, "Nevada System of Higher Education." The second document (Exhibit D) is a cover letter from the System to the last round of questions that they received from our office as a result of the K-12 Higher Education Subcommittee hearing of Ways and Means and Senate Finance. The third document (Exhibit E) is their detailed response to those questions. In its hard form, it is thick, but it is on NELIS in electronic form for you. We have referenced this document in the document that we prepared a number of times, so I wanted you to know where that was in case you were following along and wanted to look in there.

The document that we will be going through (Exhibit C) is very table or chart-intensive. Alex [Alex Haartz, Program Analyst, Fiscal Analysis Division] is going to do his best to go through and make sure that you understand the numbers that we have placed in those tables and charts. We have done our best to reflect the difference between the recommended budget for the upcoming biennium and the current budget that we are in. There is a number of different ways that you can look at this information, and we have tried to present it in a number of those ways so that you can see from different perspectives what the level of recommended decrease is.

With that, I am going to introduce, to my far right, Brian Burke, who is a senior program analyst in our office. To my immediate right is Alex Haartz. He is a program analyst in our office who is responsible for the System of Higher Education budgets. With that, I will turn it over to Alex to go through the document with you.

ALEX HAARTZ, PROGRAM ANALYST, FISCAL ANALYSIS DIVISION, LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BUREAU:

Thank you. The document before you (Exhibit C), which is about 10 pages, can be broken into two parts overall. The first part is a brief overview of the Nevada System of Higher Education funding, both as approved by the 2009 Legislature as well as the Governor's recommended budget for the upcoming biennium. The second part of the document reflects information as to how the Nevada System of Higher Education has identified from a strategy standpoint how they would address meeting reductions required by the Governor's recommended budget.

Going back to the first part, the first page and the first table provides a biennium-to-biennium funding comparison as approved—as you will see in the first column—by the 2009 Legislature. The numbers of importance there, really in terms of thinking about the Governor's recommended budget, is the General Fund and the student fees and tuition, and then the federal ARRA funds. The Governor recommends funding that is less for the General Fund amount by approximately $259 million. Student fees are relatively comparable, especially when the surcharges approved by the Board of Regents for the current biennium are included. And then there are the federal ARRA funds and property tax revenues. I point that out to you because to be able to provide you with an apples-to-apples comparison, we have come up with a term that we refer to as "governmental support." That starts down at the bottom of the first page.

If you turn the page to page number 2, there is a biennium-to-biennium comparison of recommended governmental support. In the 2009 Legislature, the Legislature approved a General Fund appropriation of approximately $1 billion for the biennium, which was evenly divided as $500 million per year. The 2009 Legislature also approved almost $185 million in ARRA State Fiscal Education Stabilization funding. As you will see, there was no property tax revenues included or built into the budget for 2009, but in order to be able to provide you that comparison, that then allows us to talk about governmental support for the upcoming biennium as contained in The Executive Budget. In the second column, you will see that the General Fund appropriation recommended for the 2011-2013 biennium is approximately $741 million. There are no ARRA funds; those funds have expired. There is $121 million in property tax revenues derived from Washoe and Clark counties budgeted for UNR (University of Nevada, Reno) and UNLV. One of the distinctions in this comparison is that as budgeted and approved by the 2009 Legislature, the ARRA funds were additive to the budget. They were in addition to the General Fund approved by yourselves. For the 2011-2013 biennium, the property tax revenues that are included in The Executive Budget are not additive in nature in so much as that for every $1 of property tax revenues included, the budget reduces General Fund by one dollar$1.

The next aspect that I need to explain to you is a set of actions taken by the 26th Special Session (2010). In order to implement budget reductions, some of you will recall the Nevada System of Higher Education's budgets were reduced by 6.9 percent in fiscal year (FY) 2009-10 and FY 2010-11. The General Fund, which had started at $500 million for each year of the biennium, in FY 2009-10 was reduced by $11.5 million and in FY 2010-11 was reduced by $34.5 million.

The second action approved by the 26th Special Session (2010) was to actually swap how the federal ARRA funds were budgeted. Like the General Fund, which had been evenly budgeted at $500 million, the $184.8 million was also evenly split between the two fiscal years, $92.4 million in each year. In reducing the General Fund appropriation, the 26th Special Session (2010) also moved all of the federal funds from FY 2010-11 into FY 2009-10, so $92.4 million was moved over, and an equal amount of General Fund was moved to FY 2010-11, which effectively made FY 2010-11 an entirely General Fund-funded budget for the Nevada System of Higher Education's 26 state-supported operating budgets. The reason I point that out to you is the end result was when you take those two actions into account, the total funding for the Nevada System of Higher Education (NSHE) is $557.9 million.

If you turn the page to the first of relatively busy tables [page 3], you will see the first column, which is entitled, "FY 2011 General Fund (Leg. Approved Adjusted for 26th Spec. Sess.)." That column reflects the budget as approved by both the 2009 Legislature and the 26th Special Session (2010) as the funding for reach of the NSHE accounts. At the top of the table are the main instructional accounts: UNR, UNLV, Nevada State College, Great Basin College, etc. Those are commonly referred to as the instructional accounts. The next series are the professional schools and the Desert Research Institute (DRI), and then the other institution accounts. Down at the bottom of that at the total funding, you will see the $557.9 million. I point that out to you because that number has been used at the subcommittee level for the K-12/Higher Education Subcommittee as well as by the System of Higher Education as their starting point. It is what they are referencing as, "This is where we have to cut from." If you look at the next column in, "FY 2012 Governmental Support (Gen. Fund + Prop. Taxes) (Gov. Rec.)," the total amount recommended in The Executive Budget is $466.4 million. That is a $91.5 million reduction from FY 2010-11. For FY 2012-13, the total amount of funding recommended by the Governor is $395 million, of which $335 million is General Fund appropriation, and almost $61 million is property tax revenues. That is the $162.5 million reduction you have previously heard and will likely hear the Chancellor talk about today as well.

Now I would like to talk about, briefly, the budget reduction strategies. In the K-12/Higher Education Subcommittee, the Subcommittee requested that the System provide information on what the impact of the budget reductions would be for both the first year as well as the second year. They asked the System to provide the information in the form of templates that standardize the information and reflect the full amount of the budget reductions. In the larger document that Mr. Combs referenced (Exhibit E), beginning on page 37, there are budget reduction templates that you can look at for each of the institutions that lays out the various cuts that are proposed. The NSHE was asked to provide two scenarios, and as you go through this document, two scenarios are referenced. The first scenario is provides information on what would be cut, and how would you implement it if primarily operating reductions were used as a strategy. The second scenario dealt with primarily using closures and consolidations of campuses and institutions as the primary strategy to implement the budget reductions contained in The Executive Budget. I will be speaking to both of those as I move through the document.

The first scenario, which, again, is based upon a $91.5 million reduction in the first year and a $162.5 million reduction in the second year, primarily looks at reducing operating expenditures. By operating expenditures, those are cutting costs in the instructional, academic support, student support, operations and maintenance, student services areas, as the institutions have already been doing. If you turn to the next page, which is page 4 of the document, there is an even busier table which, again, the left-hand column anchors to the $557.9 million, which, again, represents the funding in the current fiscal year. The second column shows the Governor's recommended funding, the $466 million. The third column represents the budget reductions that would be required for each of the state-supported operating budgets. The fourth column, which is entitled, "FY 2012 SCENARIO #1," that represents the budget reduction amounts that would be required for each of the accounts.

I will use UNR as an example; $18.4 million is shown in the first year. If you move across the table, it reflects for 2013, $39.8 million. There are several actions taking place in the table, which I wish to bring to your attention. The first one is that UNR, as a series of budgets, is proposing several different approaches to addressing the budget reductions. The first is that they are reducing some budgets more than what the Governor's recommended budget would otherwise require. As an example, if you look at the Cooperative Extension budget, which is about the sixth row down, you will see that the Governor's budget would recommend a reduction of $1.457 million. The preliminary plan submitted is $5.7 million, which means that that budget account is being cut by $4.3 million more than what otherwise be suggested. The reason being is that UNR is proposing that certain budgets be cut disproportionately more than others and that those funds be, in effect, shifted to offset the reductions that would otherwise be required. An example of where a budget is not being reduced as much is that first UNR account; that is the main instructional account. The second action UNR is proposing for their budgets is to not cut the full amount in the first year. If you look at the "FY 2012 NET Difference" column, you will see $1.262 million that they are otherwise short; however, if you look at 2013, you will see that they are cutting by an additional $1.26 million. Their strategy, as proposed in the budget-reduction strategies, is to use a net approach for the biennium and to spread the cuts out over two years. Other budgets, to some extent or another, are doing that, but the bottom line is that over the biennium, the Nevada System of Higher Education is proposing to reduce their budgets by the $162.5 million.

This table incorporates, in these reductions, the 5 percent salary reduction you have heard about, the merit freeze, the elimination of longevity. Those amounts are already included in the total reductions. Also included in the total reductions is approximately $71 million of general operating reductions in the first year and $149 million of general operating reductions in the second year.

If you turn the page to page 5, I would like to talk a little bit about Scenario 2. Scenario 2 was a request by the [SubCommittee] Committee to also explore what is the impact of closing and consolidating institutions. The three consolidations that were considered, for which information has been provided, is the consolidation of Great Basin College and Western Nevada College into Truckee Meadows Community College, Nevada State College into the College of Southern Nevada (CSN) and UNLV, and then DRI into UNR and UNLV. The information presented reflects nominal savings in the sense that they do not reach the $162.5 million. In fact, the initial savings that are presented in the budget materials reflect about $12.41 million, and those are mainly in administrative savings. The consolidations do not project reductions to the academic infrastructure in so much as that [of] the instructional infrastructure. Students would still be taking courses. There would still be the services there, but it is mainly an administrative savings. I would also note that within the first scenario, which is the general operating reductions, both the College of Southern Nevada and Western Nevada College identified closure of satellite and rural campus locations for savings of approximately $2.6 million as part of their overall budget reduction strategies. Combined, that's about $15 million.

The next section of the document covers summary tables which we have put together to assist you in understanding what the budget-reduction materials presented indicate in terms of reductions to the academic infrastructure to student access and capacity as well as staffing and employment by the Nevada System of Higher Education. In the middle of page 5 is the first summary table, which attempts to organize and summarize for you the academic infrastructure impacts that have been identified for Scenario 1 in the budget reduction materials. It is fairly straightforward, as you will see. The main effect is, in each year, the reduction of course sections, which reflects a reduction in the number of courses and classes that would be offered. In the first year, it is approximately 2,313. In the second year, it is 2,373, at least based on the information contained in the preliminary plans—and I will stress that these are preliminary. These have not yet been approved by the Board of Regents. Until the total funding level is known, it is uncertain as to what the actual impacts will be. And not to minimize—there are academic degrees that are proposed to be eliminated; there are academic programs that are also proposed to be eliminated and reorganizations and restructurings. With regard to this table, if you turn to the last page, page 10 of your document, there is an attachment, Attachment A. There is information there in a bullet form that provides a quick summary of some of the impacts identified by each of the institutions. This is not meant to be inclusive or exclusive. These are just some of the impacts that have been identified to put some context to the academic infrastructure reductions that were identified in Table 1.

With regard to impacts to students and student access and capacity, if you turn to page 6, Table 2 provides information on the projected impacts to access. One of the points I would like to make here is that the table reflects student full-time equivalents. Student full-time equivalent is a student who, generally thought to go to school full-time, takes 15 academic credits in a semester or 30 credits in a year. It is a measure of counting credits. It is not necessarily a measure of counting individual students. Counting individual students, we talk about headcount, and I'll point out the distinction to you in a moment. For FY 2010-11, the Nevada System of Higher Education, the seven teaching institutions, have projected that they will serve 69,023 full-time equivalent students in the current fiscal/academic year. Based on the budget reductions contained in The Executive Budget, the institutions project that they would be able to serve approximately 4,700 full-time students less in FY 2011-12. Down at the bottom of the table, you will see a section that says, "Student Head Count Impact." Based on the information provided, it is projected that approximately 11,600 unique students would not be able to access either classes or enroll or somehow be impacted, [so] that they would no longer be able to be served. In FY 2012--13, the projected impact is approximately 7,900 student full-time equivalents, or approximately 19,000 unduplicated students.

Table 3, in terms of staffing impacts, if you turn to page 7, the Nevada System of Higher Education has also indicated that they will be cutting positions, eliminating full-time employees as well as part-time employees. Again, the same analogy applies when we were talking about headcount and student full-time equivalents (STFE) as full-time employee impact and position impact. Currently, based upon the funding of approximately $558 million in the current fiscal year, and then the total funding that has been authorized by the Legislature, there are 7,163 full-time equivalents in the state-supported operating budgets. That will decrease by approximately 714 employees as projected, and in the second year, the employment projection is projected to decrease by almost 1,100 full-time employees. The equivalent information for headcount position impact is shown below. The bottom half of the table for Scenario 1 provides information in terms of what do these employees do. Where are they mainly organized? The higher education budgets are divided into instructional areas, research, public service, academic support, student services, and so on. You can see that based upon their current employee count, as well as where they project the reductions will need to occur, approximately 50 percent of the reductions will occur in the instructional area, but also, that's where 50 percent of their employees generally are, so it appears to be proportional for both FY 2011-12 and FY 2012-13. On the right-hand side of the table is information for Scenario 2. Otherwise, Scenario 2 information really has not been presented because there was not an impact projected to the student FTEs and to the academic infrastructure other than along the lines of administrative services and not the instructional component. Under the Scenario 2, there is approximately 103 full-time equivalents positions that would be expected to be eliminated at the closure and consolidation level that is provided in the informational packet.

The Subcommittee has heard the Nevada System of Higher Education talk about some of the challenges that they are confronted with implementing budget reductions of this magnitude. Two issues that they have brought forward that are talked about at the bottom of page 7 in terms of funding and time constraints deal with how employees are hired and the accreditation requirements that are imposed upon the institutions. The first is that generally, professional employees are required to be given 12 months of notice, so the Nevada System of Higher Education is not generally able, as they have reported, to terminate a professional employee or a faculty member on the first day of the fiscal year. As you will see later on in the document, there were reductions that occur in FY 2012-13 that are not able to occur in FY 2011-12. Accreditation requirements also typically require that students who are in academic programs be given a reasonable amount of time to complete their academic studies and graduate or to transition to a new academic program. While that is not necessarily identified in terms of what that time frame is, it is generally thought to be at least a year and possibly up to two to three years depending on unique circumstances.

If you turn to page 8, one of the strategies that the Nevada System of Higher Education has brought forward is the concept of bridge or transition funding. The table at the top of page 8 provides you with some information that shows you the amount of bridge or transition funding that the institutions have identified in their budget reduction plans that would be necessary to allow them to meet both the employee reduction as well as the transitioning of students into either new academic programs or helping them get to graduation. The funding that is noted in the reduction plans, the bridge funding, is not thought to be General Fund, but it is other funds that the institutions have. It could be student registration fees that are being reallocated away from general improvement or capital improvement. It could be other non-state funds.

One of the other strategies that has been identified or talked about at the Subcommittee level in terms of offsetting the recommended budget reductions is an increase in student registration fees, which would typically occur in the form of surcharges. The Subcommittee has requested that the Nevada System of Higher Education provide information on what a 13 percent surcharge would look like in the first year—and how much would that generate—and then an additional 13 percent in the second year. I would note that the Board of Regents have not approved at this time or provided direction overall with regard to the imposition of a surcharge for FY 2011-12 or FY 2012-13. They have requested information on what a 10 percent, a 13 percent, and a 15 percent would look like, but it has not been approved.

In Table 4, we wanted to provide you some information that showed you where students are today in terms of the per credit hour registration fee that they pay, and that is the column entitled, "2011-2013 Biennium Approved . . . Per Credit Hour . . . Fee." The university undergraduate is currently paying $156.75. A student at Nevada State College is paying $113.25, and a lower division community college student is paying $69.25. These are the fee revenue amounts, or the per-credit-hour fees, for which student registration fee revenues are contained in The Executive Budget. The second column represents the FY 2011-12—what the fee increase would be at a 13 percent per credit hour surcharge. Essentially, $20.38 would be added on for the university undergraduate, and in FY 2011-12, if a surcharge of 13 percent was approved by the Board of Regents, a student would pay $177.13. Moving to your right two columns, you can see the impact of the additional 13 percent, and the total per-credit hour would be slightly over $200 per-credit hour at the university undergraduate level.

One of the points I would inform you of is that the budget reduction strategies that are provided by the Nevada System of Higher Education—although not approved by the Board of Regents—take these enhanced revenues into account and have the effect of offsetting the reductions that are contained in the budgets. Going back to Table 2 and Table 3 in terms of access for students as well as employee reductions, those two impacts have already been mitigated by the inclusion of the surcharge revenues. If the Board of Regents does not approve surcharges, you could expect that those student access numbers would increase and the number of employees would likely increase as well. One of the issues that the K-12/Higher Education Subcommittee also discussed several times was how do the fees charged to Nevada students compare with the fees charged with the western region comprised of the WICHE Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education (WICHE) region. And are they at the median? How much would they have to increase so that students in Nevada essentially pay the median for the western region? If the 13+ percent surcharges were approved by the Board of Regents, then that revenue was incorporated into the budgets to offset budget reductions. At the university level, students at UNR and UNLV would be, at FY 2012-13, essentially at the median for what is being charged in the current academic year. Subject to other states charging, changing their fees and their tuition amounts, we may hold a relative position. We may improve. We may [see] a little bit decrease, but this amount of surcharge clearly makes the fees paid by Nevada students more comparable to the western region. At the community college level, it would actually increase a little bit above the western region median.

On Table 5 on page 9, this provides you with information on how much would a 13 percent surcharge generate and count towards offsetting the General Fund reductions contained in The Executive Budget. The top half of the table shows FY 2011-12, so again, I'll use the first column; 13 percent would generate approximately $27.2 million as projected. Part of this strategy put forward and espoused by the system is that with any surcharge, there should be a set-aside or a carve-out for student financial aid of approximately 15 percent. Off the $27 million, approximately $4 million would be set aside to provide student financial aid. Enrollment losses are also projected to occur as a result of the increased fees; that is almost $4.9 million in a year. Then there are some other identified revenue increases as a result of truing up the budget to FY 2010-11 revenues versus FY 2009-10. The net impact of a 13 percent increase in the first fiscal year would be approximately $19.3 million of additional fee revenue. The table for FY 2012-13 works the same way and, as you will see, generates about $39.7 million.

As you go through the budget reduction templates, there is also information that looks at the impact on nonresident tuition revenues and students, and there is actually projected to be a decrease of approximately $1 million to $2.5 million in each year of lost nonresident tuition, which, again, would be worked to offset the student registration fee revenues that is projected.

On the last page, again, a point back to Attachment A, which provides those specific examples of impacts identified by each of the institutions.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

All right, that is the document? Or there is more? That is it? Okay. Questions from the Committee? Mr. Ohrenschall?

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. I just recently graduated from one of our professional schools in December of 2009, and before I graduated, many of my classmates expressed their worries to me about the cuts and whether they would be able to afford to finish. One question I have with these proposed 13 percent increases, which I guess total to 26 percent, are there any figures as to how many students will not be able to afford to go to school anymore based on these increases?

ALEX HAARTZ:

That information is not specifically identified in the budget reduction templates. There has been a lot of discussion about price elasticity and how many students would be projected to be lost. That is probably a question best answered by the Chancellor's Office when they present.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Ms. Neal?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN NEAL:

Thanks, Mr. Chair. I have a question on the two charts. You discussed the mitigation of the loss, and you referred to the table that is on page 4, and then you referred to the table that is on page 9. What I see in the columns specifically for UNR, if you go under the reduction proposed under Scenario 1 for their loss proposed, that $18 million.? Even if they do the surcharge, they are only going to get, in 2012, $7 million back. Then when you go down to 2013, you see a $16 million recovery. Although you claim it is a mitigation, I do not see how this loss is actually being recovered, because what it looks like to me is that higher education faculty and student access basically is being gutted. And that the students will have very limited access because now the fees are increased, so your participation of certain groups is not even going to be in existence because you cannot afford to go. I recall students specifically not being able to pay for books, and they were at CSN, which took a $50 million cut, and I do not see that being recovered here. I am just wondering—and I know I said a whole lot—when you vetted this, did you recommend to the Governor and help him to understand that his economic development agenda may fail because this is actually taking the nuts and bolts out of how you are going to move forward with that agenda?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Thank you, Ms. Neal. I think that question is better suited for the university system. Our nonpartisan staff did not vet anything. It is a great question, and I think we ought to hold that question for the university guys. Our guys do not necessarily have the answers to that. I will hold that question for the university folks. And, Ms. Neal, we will have the Governor's staff here in a moment that you can ask that question as well.

Other questions? Mr. Conklin?

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:

Thank you, Mr. Chair. Just a question and a comment, if I may since this is kind of informal and we are in Committee. The question is on page 6. I am looking through Table 2, and I just want to make sure that I understand: The preliminary total enrollments, the STFEs for 2011, 69,023, those are the number of full-time equivalents? In other words, there are actually more students than that, correct? But those are the number of—and I do not know how they define it, whether it is 16 units or 18 units or who knows, but I am sure there is some calculation—total FTEs that are serviced, not the number of students that are actually enrolled. That number is much higher, correct?

ALEX HAARTZ:
That is correct.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
Okay. A follow-up, Mr. Chair?
The projected impact to capacity is not necessarily, again, how many people will be enrolled. It is the number of FTEs that they could serve. That is not a demand question. That is a capacity question. Is that correct, based on this budget?

ALEX HAARTZ:
That is correct. The information provided addresses capacity. It does not address demand.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
I guess the reason I bring that up is because some times it gets confusing, and my colleague, Mr. Ohrenschall, brought up a question of price elasticity—and I know that it is not a part of this document—but to my colleague, one of the UNLV economists did a small white paper for the Committee [Assembly Committee on Ways and Means] on this subject. There is intermittent evidence of price elasticity's for schools, but what they did uncover in a lot of the research is that more often than not, the decision to go or change based on price is not really a matter of price but a matter of perceived value. That perceived value is being impacted by this budget, not only in what you see here—available classes—but why the number of FTEs is dropping, which I think the universities might suggest to you is a matter of the most talented people we have will leave as a result of [what] amounts to a perceived lack of support for our institutions. That is probably something that you should ask them because I think that is far more damaging than an actual small change in price—although these prices have a significant change; I am not saying I am in support of them. But from an elasticity standpoint, I think we should be far more concerned about the perceived quality of that education. Thank you, Mr. Chair.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you, Mr. Conklin.
I was just getting my calculator out here and working on your numbers. On Table 4 on page 8, we are talking an undergraduate per-credit fee from $156 to $200 over the biennium. I assume you have to take that $43.40 times 15, 16, 17 credits to figure out how much the increase will be. Similarly, in the community college level, I'm seeing that just over $1,000 to over $2,000, depending on what category you are in of increase for one year of school. Does that sound right?

ALEX HAARTZ:
That would be the correct way to approach it.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
And then a different question on the two ways that the NSHE had given us to look at these cuts. On the table on page 7, it says that the FTE impact of Scenario 1 would be 1,088 positions impacted, and the FTE impacts for the Scenario 2 would only be 103 positions impacted?

ALEX HAARTZ:
That is correct, Mr. Chairman. Part of the reason being is that as you are aware, the scenarios are different in approach. The first looks at operating expenditures, which are day-to-day expenditures. Then the second scenario, Scenario 2, they were asked to provide information that primarily used closures and consolidations as the main approach, which, based on the information provided, generally avoids impact to the instructional area and looks to—as you will see on the bottom of the table for Scenario 2, you can see where the approximately 103 positions are being eliminated. They are not being eliminated in instruction. There are a few positions being eliminated in research, but they are mainly in the academic support, student support services, and institutional support where they have been identified. The information, being preliminary, is not as extensive for the closure and consolidation information.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Further questions from our Fiscal staff? I am not seeing any. Gentlemen, thank you for your hard work.

Let us go with the Governor's staff, now. Welcome, Mrs. Gansert and Mr. Clinger. You can proceed.

HEIDI GANSERT, CHIEF OF STAFF, OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. With me I have Andrew Clinger from the Budget Office.

I think we are all in agreement that education is very important. When we put this budget together, it was very, very difficult, and we talked about this partly on Tuesday night. To start with, we had lost the ARRA dollars of one-shot money. There was an increase in caseload growth for Medicaid, and also local revenues were down significantly, about $440 million. When we put this together, we had to balance K-12 and corrections and health [and] human services and higher education. As many of you, also, I am a graduate of the University of Nevada [UNR]. The Governor is a graduate of the University of Nevada. We have had many people who have graduated from UNLV and the law school and so forth, and so we are very supportive of the entire university system. But at this time, we are facing a very strong fiscal decline, and so we had to make some significant cuts.

One thing that we did do is when we put this budget together, we tied some property tax dollars to the System of Higher Education because we believe that there is a strong nexus between economic development and the Higher System. It was something that was a little bit different than before. Instead of using the 9 cents that was reallocated from the 2009 Legislative Session to go to General Fund, we put it straight towards the university system to UNR and UNLV. Another thing we did was we proposed an economic development bill with the Speaker here and the Majority Leader and the Minority Leaders in an effort to create a knowledge fund so that we can also tie some of the activities within economic development directly to the university system.

These cuts are difficult. We did have some good news on Monday, which we talked about on Tuesday night also, in that unemployment is declining and also that employment is increasing. We found that employment went up for the first time after 37 months this last month.

When we were first talking to the university system about the budget and about what we could do for them given that they were expecting some cuts—we did not know the level at the time—they asked for greater autonomy in their budget. They asked for some things very specifically. They wanted flexibility among budget accounts, control over the tuition so they could differentiate it. They wanted to make sure they could also set aside a portion of increased tuition to help people with financial aid to help the students, and we were in total agreement with that. They also wanted a stabilization account, and they wanted to be removed from the Public Works Board oversight. In addition, we talked at length about accountability with them, and I know when the Chancellor comes down, he is going to talk about some of the many things that they are doing with which we also agree. All of those pieces, all those things that the System of Higher Education wanted, we put into Senate Bill 434. We agree with them. We believe there should be more autonomy, and we believe that when the budget is tight and when dollars are short that they do need that flexibility.

In looking at the cost of tuition and fees versus what the taxpayers are covering, if you look nationwide, you will see that there is actually a decline in the taxpayers' subsidies for higher education. Right now, tuition and fees, according to the figures that we have, cover about 27 percent of the cost of an education, whereas the rest, the 73 percent, is covered by the taxpayers. It is also important to note, when you look at our budget, our budget is only a piece of the total funding for higher education. I do not have the numbers, but I know there is a lot of federal support and a lot of grants and so forth that go towards the System of Higher Education. Also, I think the Fiscal Division pointed out that our tuition is fairly low for the western states. If you look at the comparison with WICHE, we are about 20 percent less than the average.

As far as the decisions on the budget, those decisions will be made by the Regents. I know that each of the presidents have submitted plans, and I can tell you that this administration supports keeping all the institutions open. We believe they are all important. We believe out in the rural counties, in particular, there have been discussions about closures. The original budget that was proposed by the different presidents, all of them included keeping them open and just having cuts within their budgets but not any closures. We think they are critical both for economic development in the urban areas but also in the rural areas. We thank you for being able to talk to you about this budget today, and I have Andrew with me if you have any specific questions about the budget. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you, Mrs. Gansert. Mr. Conklin?

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
Thank you, Mr. Chair. Mrs. Gansert, you said in the beginning of your remarks that—and I'm assuming that you are speaking on behalf of the Governor—the exact words you said was that you believe there was a strong tie between economic development and higher education—I'm assuming attainment—and I think that makes practical sense. I think that is sound. I wonder why you believe it, though, and you do not know it. What I am wondering is why do you choose the term "believe" instead of "know"? I think there is ample evidence out there that it is true. Would you agree with that?

HEIDI GANSERT:
Yes. We do believe; we do know that there is a strong tie with economic development. That is why we looked towards the knowledge fund.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
And I totally agree with this, but what is bothering me is here. We recognize that educational attainment is tied to future economic growth for our state, and yet, we are cutting. In fact, the only thing we are considering is cutting. If you accept that spending that money equates to growth, then cutting that money equates to decline. You said "believe." I am telling you I can prove it. There are 80 years worth of economic data and studies that demonstrate that is the case. If that is the case, what commitment do we have to growth if we are cutting this budget?

HEIDI GANSERT:
We know that there is a tie with economic growth and the university system. I think we all agree, whether you choose "believe" or "know." That is one of the reasons we tied the knowledge fund, when we were doing the economic development department and division and the mission of that department, we made sure that we included the System of Higher Education.

In this budget, we had to balance a lot of different priorities; K-12, we talked about that on Tuesday night. Health and human services: I mentioned that the Medicaid caseload is up significantly. It is up $269 million. We also lost one-shot ARRA money, and then in looking at the local property tax and the local funds that go into the Distributive School Account (DSA), we were down about $440 million. I think there was a strong effort made to mitigate cuts, but at the same time, there was only so much money within the budget.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
Mr. Chairman, if I may? Just a follow-up or an observation or a question if you choose to answer it. The reality is this is that these cuts are going to cost us way more than finding some alternatives, because these cuts cost future growth. There is no doubt about it, and in fact, there is a lot of economic research out there that suggests that it is not about the revenue that we have so much as it is about we spend that money in future growth. I guess I want you to think about that. I wish the Governor was here because I really want him to think about that. It is not what how much money we have; it is what you do with it that counts. I got to tell you, cutting this budget is going to be painful, and it is going to be painful next year. It is going to be more painful the following year. It is going to continue along the line because for every person that does not get that education, we have stunted their growth. We have stunted their economic future, and when we stunt their economic future, we are stunting our own. It is almost unacceptable to me. That is my two cents. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you, Mr. Conklin. Any response from the Governor's Office? Or leave it at that?

HEIDI GANSERT:
Mr. Clinger can go over the add-backs that we had created and if you would like. Again, we believe it is a priority. We know it is a priority, and we are working hard to do the best with what we have. Thank you.

ANDREW CLINGER, DIRECTOR, DEPARTMENT OF ADMINISTRATION, OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR::
Mr. Chairman, through you to Assemblyman Conklin. I just want to point out that while we made cuts in the Governor's The Executive Budget, budget, we did also add over $1 billion in revenue. It is not just about cuts. As you know, we got $5.3 billion from the Economic Forum, and then we added another $1 billion to that.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
Mr. Chairman?
In all due respect, I do not think you added revenue. I think we are taking revenue from other places. There is nothing just new, just taken. Unless I missed something? Is there actual new revenue that we have added in The Executive Budget?

ANDREW CLINGER:
Mr. Chairman, through you to Assemblyman Conklin. Some of these are continuations. The property tax, for example, was set to sunset, so whether you say that is new or not, that is additional revenue that if we let the law sunset, we would not have had. It is in addition to the Economic Forum revenues. We got $5.33 billion from the Economic Forum, and to that we added $1 billion in new revenue. Not new taxes, necessarily, but new revenue.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
Let us clarify one point. It may be new to us. It is not new in the sense of "we -have-added-it" new. It had to come from somewhere else. We can dissect this any way we want, but the fact of the matter is, if it is a policy decision, just as Mrs. Gansert has already indicated, we have made a policy decision—if you want to call it new revenue, I will grant you that even though we all know it is not—to take it from somewhere else and put it in this budget. That is fine. But it is not new revenue in the sense of adding revenue to our budget.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Okay, we are done with that debate. Let us go to Ms. Neal, who will go to back to her initial question.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN NEAL:
I actually ended up having two more.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
You got some new ones?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN NEAL:
Yes.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Okay, go ahead.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN NEAL:
Thanks, Mr. Chair. Two points I wanted to address. You started off speaking about the unemployment and the drop in unemployment. You did not say what that number was. That it came down from 14 percent to what? Because I know for a fact that even if it came down to 14 percent, I know for Hispanics, it was somewhere around 16 percent unemployment. For African-Americans, it was 20 percent for that specific group. I was really trying to figure out where you were going out for that, number one.
And the second point that you brought up was that you were giving the higher education institutions autonomy. To me, it seems like you are passing the buck and you are letting them fluster on their own, and you are leaving them without the ability to leverage their own position.

The way that that money looks that is being taken away: they do not really have much capacity to do anything. How are you helping them with the decision of autonomy when the budget cuts leave them without staff, leave them without student access?

HEIDI GANSERT:

Thank you. As far as the unemployment figure, it is down to about 13.2 percent, which is still very high, probably still the highest in the nation. It came down from 13.6 percent the prior month, and it was over 14 percent before that. As far as job growth, we have not had any job growth since I believe it was January of 2005, right around there. Although the numbers are not great, they are moving in a positive direction.

Concerning the Regents, the Regents are almost a separate branch, to tell you the truth, of government. They oversee the System of Higher Education, and what they have asked for years—and members who have been on Ways and Means for a number of years can confirm—is for more autonomy with tuition. Typically, tuition has gone through the General Fund and then back, in part, to the institution, so they want to be able to keep any increases in tuition. We said, "Sure, that is fine." They wanted to be able to differentiate tuition. As a matter of fact, several of their colleges did that. The College of Engineering at UNR increased their tuition for higher-level classes by about 50 percent. The School of Nursing, Architecture, and Physical Therapy at UNLV all increased their tuition 200 percent. They actually doubled their tuition because they had such incredible demand for those programs. They did that during the interim. I think some of them were approved around September of 2010. The Regents get to actually approve their budgets and decide how they are going to spend their money.

Some of the other things we talked about were accountability. The Chancellor, when he comes down—there are some incredible things with accountability because our graduation rates have not been as high as we would all like them to be. They are really working on those, and we appreciate what they are doing. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

More, Ms. Neal?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN NEAL:

Thank you, Mr. Chair. I hear what you just said, and although the Regents have the prowess to deal with that issue, you specifically stated, "Okay, the students are not graduating that they need to be. We are doing remediation within colleges and universities." But you still did not address the issue of the fact that when you give them that autonomy to increase these surcharges, it has a negative impact upon the students who can actually stay in school or apply to get into school. That is a real issue, and that goes back to the first point that I made to the wrong people, fiscal staff, which was you are putting forth a plan like trying to build a car and you do not have any nuts or bolts. You are putting forth a plan that completely strips the capacity and the ability to function within an economic development environment because where is your staff. Where are the employees coming from that are going to drive this bus? If they are not working, you have completely taken the full-time employees and made them part-time employees within this budget. They cannot even function. I am just trying to figure out how this overall plan is going to work for the state when you do not have the pieces.

HEIDI GANSERT:

Thank you. The cuts before you—if you look at the ARRA funds, it was about a 7 percent cut from the Special Session numbers for NSHE, and it is about 17 percent. There have been some discussions about what are the true cuts. The cuts are very difficult. We wish we did not have to make the cuts, but we do not have more funding at this time to be able to reinstate some of those. We recognize that they are difficult. We recognize there is going to be some tuition increases or some that have been proposed but not yet approved by the Regents. When the Regents asked us for the autonomy, they also were asking because they did want to be able to raise tuition and take more responsibility as far as the funding model for the System of Higher Education. These are very difficult times, and at this point, we do not have resources to add back to this budget. We are in agreement that it is a priority, but we also recognize that we do not have any funds to add back. It is going to be difficult, and we trust the Regents will make good decisions for the System. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you. Mrs. Smith?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN SMITH:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I have a couple of things. I wanted to go back to the added revenue and just clarify. Mr. Clinger and I debated when a cut is a cut the other evening, so I guess now we can talk about when revenue is not revenue. I do not perceive revenue as using school debt reserves, using the Initiative Petition 1 (I.P. 1) room tax money that was designated for something else, and securitizing our insurance premium tax and creating debt in the future as revenue. I wanted to make sure that this body—because the discussion is fairly new to a lot of the members—know that is what we are talking about here when we are talking about added revenue is that we are talking about this form of the budget solution between the $5.3 billion and the $5.8 billion.

ANDREW CLINGER:
Mr. Chairman, through you to Assemblywoman Smith. Maybe a better term is "a combination of revenue and resources," because we tried to use the existing resources that we had to live within our means to put a budget together. There is a mix of revenue items. For example, net proceeds and minerals. Extending the sunset on that, I would argue, that is a tax revenue that we added to the budget beyond what the Economic Forum gave us. Letting the school districts use the debt reserves for operating purposes, I agree, that is not revenue. I guess a term for that would be "resources."

ASSEMBLYWOMAN SMITH:
I will give you that. I will give you "resources" instead of "revenue." A different "r" word.

The other question I had—and I suppose more appropriately for Mrs. Gansert—is one of my big concerns in this process we are in of cutting the budgets to the degree we are and eliminating programs is the long-term effects and whether you analyzed how long it takes to recover from elimination of the number of programs we are talking about eliminating from these campuses and then how it impacts the investments that others have made. I look at those institutions on UNR's campus, for example, the new molecular science building, that has had so much private investment—mostly private investment in that building—and how those investors feel when they see they have made an investment in this campus, and we are pulling out our investment. I am worried about the long-term effects and how that was considered in developing the budget.

HEIDI GANSERT:
In looking at the cuts, again, they were very difficult. But we also recognize that if we allow our economy to recover—the property tax, the 9- cent redirect will go up—and they will receive the benefit of that. We also recognize that these are not the only dollars that the university system has—and we have not talked about that at length—but we know there is other dollars they get that will help them support themselves.

We think there probably is some room to tighten their belts. We understand that they have had cuts over the last few years. When you look at the personnel adjustments, I think that accounts for about 35 percent of the total cut: matching them up to the state employees, which they were unable to do last time. And the Regents and the Chancellor worked to make sure that the new contracts moving forward had some room so that they did not have to actually give people notice, but they could adjust how much people were paid. Some of it can be taken care of internally. We believe that we are continuing to invest, but we also recognize that the Regents may choose to allow the students to invest more, and they have had some proposals as far as tuition increases. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Mr. Bobzien?

ASSEMBLYMAN BOBZIEN:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. To Mrs. Gansert, again, on the 9-cent diversion and certainly the notion of the economic impact that the institutions have. I can certainly tell you that in my district, the economic impact is going to be if folks are laid off and not buying goods and not paying taxes because they cannot—then there is this whole conversation on the side about the multiplier from that—but I guess specific to the notion of confining that to the continuation of the 9-cent diversion from Washoe and Clark but not looking at the other counties themselves. If I understand the Governor's position, it is the idea that, "Well, we are already continuing what was already done. Of course, that was supposed to be temporary, so here we are. We are going to roll it over." But particularly in the UNR case, this is a statewide institution. It is the land-grant institution, and just as there is an impact to Washoe County that may, in your view, justifies the 9 cents being diverted to support that campus, there is an impact across all of the other counties that are not brought into that discussion. Whether it is the College of Agriculture, whether it is continuing education, whether it is the research teams that go out from different programs across the campus to all corners of the state—I have been with them. I have seen what they do. This institution operates statewide, not to mention the fact that the students who benefit from this education that the state is supporting come from all these different counties. They do not just come from Washoe. They do not just come from Clark. Why are not we taking a look at a similar approach to those other counties?

HEIDI GANSERT:

When we put this budget together, again, we had to weigh a variety of things. Part of the budget was health and human services. In the Health and Human Services Department, we looked at who should provide certain services and maybe some services that the state was providing before that maybe the counties could. We continue the redirection from Clark and Washoe because that was what was approved by the Legislative Session in 2009, but at the same time and in another area of the budget, we were also pushing down services or asking them to provide service or reimburse the state for services to some of these rural counties. We did not know really how much they could afford. We recognize that economic development is not only important to the urban areas but also the rural areas and that those institutions are extremely important and vital. In no way would we ever support the closure of any of those—and I am not sure if I had mentioned that before because that was off the table, and then it sounds like it may have been put on the table again. We want to make sure that those institutions stay open. When the different presidents provided their information for Scenario 1 that was presented, none of them were "close." We think they are vital. We did look at them because we were weighing the cost to them in Health and Human Services that were new expenditures that they had not had in the past.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Mr. Bobzien?

ASSEMBLYMAN BOBZIEN:

With a follow-up, Mr. Chairman. Thank you. Again, not going to the health and human services because we are closing or we are work sessioning the higher education budget this evening, but as I understand it, already a lot of those were services that the two counties were already providing. Again, the way I see this and what is behind this proposal is that the constituents that I represent get to shoulder the burden for a statewide institution that impacts across the state. I think it is unfortunate that we are not looking at all of the options.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Okay, let us go to Mr. Ohrenschall.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. There is a figure in the work session document that was a particular concern to me. There is a projection that under these cuts, by 2013 over 19,000 students who would have pursued their degrees would no longer be able to. My question to whichever witness would like to answer it is, does the Governor have any plan for what these Nevadans would do since they would not be able to pursue their degrees here at home?

HEIDI GANSERT:
Thank you. Mr. Chair to Mr. Ohrenschall. As far as the students go, what I have seen in the past—and this is just a personal observation—is as tuition has increased, the demand for enrollment has still gone up. As a matter of fact, I think it may be at record levels because in the recession, people go back to school. In some of the discussions that we had with the Chancellor and some of the staff, we talked about their partnering with other institutions as far as online education, and if there are other alternatives to make sure that if there are students out there that want to attend an institution of higher education or if there are individuals who are looking to finish degrees, that they have alternatives beyond what we are currently able to provide. We want to make sure that the supply is there. It is kind of a supply and demand question. I think the demand is out there, and I believe that the Regents will be facing that dilemma as far as tuition and whether they can partner with other institutions or expand online learning or how best to provide that. But we have seen, even with the budget cuts, that enrollment typically has gone up. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:
May I have a follow-up, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Follow up.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:
Thank you very much. I am looking at Table 3, and it looks like under these proposed cuts, our institutions of higher learning will lose hundreds of professors. To me, that represents a great brain drain here in our state. The Majority Leader earlier mentioned a study that has been performed that when you lose quality teachers, sometimes that hurts demand among students more than a price increase. That is another fear I have, that by losing the quality of our teacher—by having this brain drain—that will also hurt demand here in our state. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Okay, thank you, Mr. Ohrenschall. Let us go to Mr. Hammond.

ASSEMBLYMAN HAMMOND:
Yes, I just wanted to ask—and this could be for either one of you. I remember hearing the State of the State Address by the Governor. He did mention several times that your staff looked at and compared some of the numbers, the tuition figures, with other universities here in the west. I know that you have covered that. If could you kind of explain your thought process to the tuition that you saw at the other universities and perhaps address what I would call a concerted effort by many of the western states to try and reign in their budget deficits in regards to higher education? I see that in almost every state that is close to us—from Utah, Arizona, California, Washington, Idaho, and possibly Oregon—many of those states are also trying to balance their budgets, and they are having significant reductions in higher education. I wanted to kind of get your thought on that. I know my colleagues have expressed this passion for the brain drain that may occur here if these budgets go through, and I understand their concern. I would hate to see us lose those professors. I do not know where they would go, because right now, it does not look like they are going to find a job almost anywhere. It would be very difficult. It is a very competitive job as it is. Very many PhDs (Doctors of Philosophy) are out there wandering around without finding a job in universities. Anyway, if you can address that for me, I would appreciate it.

HEIDI GANSERT:
hank you. Through the Chair to Mr. Hammond. If you were to look at the WICHE Benchmarks 2010, which are online, you would find that Nevada is about 20 percent below the WICHE average. I think that was actually mentioned by Fiscal staff, too. Our tuition is relatively low to comparable institutions in the West. Nationally, if you were to look, there is a lot of pressure on university budgets except for natural-resource states. I think there are some states out there that still have some money, such as Texas and Wyoming, because they are natural-resource states.

he other thing that you can find—and I mentioned it earlier—is the trend is down as far as the public subsidy of higher education. Fees and tuition are covering more and more of the cost of an education. Even our neighboring state, California, has made some significant adjustments. The trend nationally is for less public dollars and more tuition and fees. If you were look, again, at our tuition, according to the WICHE Benchmarks 2010, we are about 20 percent below the average. That is before the tuition increases that have been proposed, and there have been some that not been approved but have been proposed to the Board of Regents. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Mr. Grady?

ASSEMBLYMAN GRADY:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Just a little food for thought from my colleague from Sparks on the rural Washoe County issue: Maybe we ought to be looking at all the in-state tuition that folks that are living on the eastern side of the Sierras in California coming in here, getting in-state tuition, and paying no taxes, which, in the rurals, we do pay some taxes. I would guess if we looked at the figures of our reciprocal agreement with California, we are bringing in a lot more California students than we are sending out of Nevada to California schools.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you, Mr. Grady. Mr. Hickey?

ASSEMBLYMAN HICKEY:
Thank you, Mr. Speaker. To that point: I sit on the Education Subcommittee, and we reviewed the WICHE figures. In fact, California was mentioned. It is a fact that California has recently dealt with their budget deficit by turning to more out-of-state and more foreign students because of the full or the higher tuitions that those students are required to pay. I would also remind us—because I think we constantly have to remember—that what is going on in Nevada is not in a vacuum. The president of the university system in California was recently quoted as saying, "As the core budget shrinks, so must the university." I am sure that is an equally painful realization that that story the higher education system is facing, but nonetheless, it is reality. That is my comment. Maybe it is a question. I am not exactly sure that it is.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
It sounded like a comment to me. Mr. Anderson?

ASSEMBLYMAN ANDERSON:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Good afternoon, Mrs. Gansert. I think there is a general consensus among economists that the decline of Nevada's economy and our budget, for that matter, results because of our lack of economic diversity, specifically our downturn in our gaming industry brought on by a larger national recession, etc., etc. No other state needs economic diversification like we do. I think we all understand that. If this is our problem, and higher education, by your own admission, is linked to economic diversification and is inseparable, that means no other state needs economic diversification like we do. Of course, realizing that higher education is not something that you can just put money into one biennium and expect that it is going to be going full steam ahead the next biennium, you have got reputations that need to be developed over years. It is sort of like a redwood tree, right? You cannot put a seed in and expect that is going to be 100 feet tall two years from then. Getting to my question, how does this budget lead us to economic prosperity and a diversified economy in the future to make sure that this does not happen again?

HEIDI GANSERT:
Thank you. Through the Chair to Mr. Anderson. The one place in the budget where we added dollars was for economic development, and we have been very pleased to work with leadership in both houses on A.B. 449, which is a new model for economic development. Within that plan, we actually included a knowledge fund and we are looking towards that funding for now. We wanted to make sure that the System of Higher Education had input and that there was an alignment. We talk about a state plan within that bill. There is alignment as far as workforce development and the System of Higher Education so that we can create greater diversity in this state. We do agree that we do need to diversify and that economic development is key to that. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN ANDERSON:
A follow-up, Mr. Chair?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Mr. Anderson.

ASSEMBLYMAN ANDERSON:
I understand that we are working on that and working together on that, and I think that is great, but what company is going to come in here and take a risk if they see us doing this to ourselves biennium after biennium and destroying our state's reputation for higher education and losing faculty? There is going to be no faculty that cultivates those funds in the knowledge fund by the time we get done because none of these professors are going to take a risk on Nevada.

HEIDI GANSERT:
Thank you. We have a great level of interest from other companies, outside companies and companies within Nevada, in expanding here. We are confident that we are looking to turn the corner here. Again, that is why we created or diverted the property tax towards the System of Higher Education because we want them to benefit as the state recovers. It has been very difficult. There is no disagreement on that. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you, Mrs. Gansert. Mrs. Benitez-Thompson?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BENITEZ-THOMPSON:
Thank you, Mr. Chair. Mine is both a question and a comment, and I thank you for your feedback. As a parent, I know that my number one job is to worry all the time about my kids: worry about what they are doing; worry about their future—and that actually comprises about 90 percent of my time; and I worry about their education enormously. I am wondering how we explain this budget to Nevada families and to parents out there who might not have a job, whose houses are underwater—and maybe they are staying in the community because they have family ties, but if their kids are not going to get a decent education in K-12—and if they have no hope of getting a good education in the university system, I am just wondering about how we make the case that Nevada is the right place to raise your children?

HEIDI GANSERT:
Thank you. We believe that we need to allow our economy to recover. When you talk about the K-12 system, the Governor has introduced many reforms to try to help improve our education, from ending social promotion to more accountabilities in the schools. The Chancellor will come down and talk about accountability in the university system. Things will be changing and the money will be tighter, but I believe in Nevada. We believe in Nevada. We can improve our educational system and that our higher education system will be able to provide its core mission, some of the core duties that it needs to provide ongoing even with these budget cuts.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BENITEZ-THOMPSON:
A follow-up, Chair? I guess I am still left with little confidence, and I think the parents in Nevada should have little confidence in this budget. By the time the economy turns around—and Nevada is going to be the last state to do that—my daughter and my son have been through a couple of years of school in first, second, third grade, and they are never going to get to make up all that education and all that time in the classroom that was lost with too many students. By the time the students who are in university right now, by the time the university turns around and we can hopefully reinvest in them one day, that educational time is lost. I think we are talking about opportunity cost of education here, and we are talking about those specific individuals never getting that time back. I think so far in Nevada, we have been digging a hole in our education budget, but we have been digging with a shovel. With this budget, we are digging with a backhoe.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Ms. Diaz?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN DIAZ:
Thank you, Mr. Chair. I just wanted to follow up on my colleague, Mr. Ohrenschall's, question. I do not think it was adequately answered. His concern—and I share this same concern as well. I'm on this side over here. In FY 2011-12, it is forecasted that 11,638 students will not be able to be served due to the impact and the severity of these budget cuts, and in FY 2012-13, it escalates to 19,025 students. His question and my question is, what are those students going to be doing if these universities and college systems and campuses cannot cater and cannot offer these courses because these sections have to be cancelled, because professors have to be let go, because there will be no room to service these kids to offer them an education? Both of us represent districts that are socioeconomically not able to afford increases in their tuition. His worry and my concern is that not only are we closing the doors in their faces in terms of access to education, but we are also kind of taunting, "If we do maybe have the space, you might not be able to afford." I know that it was very hard for myself to put myself through school. What are we going to do with these children that are not going to be able to access higher education?

HEIDI GANSERT:
Thank you. Through the Chair to Ms. Diaz. Again, as the budget has been cut in the past, the enrollments actually increased. These are projections. I know that there will be some cutbacks as far as what they can offer. In our discussions with the Chancellor and with his staff, we have talked about or we are hopeful that they will create some partnerships. As I mentioned earlier, too, 35 percent of the cut has to do with personnel adjustments and salary adjustments. Those are projections. We hope that the university system will be able to provide an education to anyone who wants access and that they can partner if they cannot directly provide it. These are difficult cuts, but we do believe that there should be access.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN DIAZ:
A follow-up if I may, Chair?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Certainly.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN DIAZ:
So if they go through with the closure of campuses, if they cannot have staff to offer the classes, how can you partner up? How can we offer courses? How can we put these people that have a need and a desire to go to school? How can we meet those needs? I am not really seeing that in tough times, enrollment is going to increase when we do not have the ability to offer that to them. I am not making the connection between enrollment increasing when we are facing tough decisions on our campus and probably will not be able to offer those courses for them.

HEIDI GANSERT:
Thank you. The Regents are going to have to make the decisions, but we believe that all the institutions should stay open. We believe there should be access. I know in the model that they are looking at as far as tuition increases is they are also looking at taking 15 percent off the top, and I believe they already passed a resolution or changed their bylaws to be able to do that, to create more financial aid. It is going to be difficult, but we have also observed during this decline, when budgets have been cut, that there has been increased enrollment. There are students who do want to go to college, and they find a way to do it. These are difficult choices, but we are very supportive of the institution and believe the Regents will be able to find a way to keep the institutions open. I think that was proposed in Scenario 1 originally. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Okay. Mrs. Kirkpatrick?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN KIRKPATRICK:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Mrs. Gansert and Mr. Clinger, I get and I totally understand that other states are making all those changes. When we looked at the WICHE exchange, did we compare all the different things? I will give you an example. In Utah, at SUU (Southern Utah University), yes, their rates are more expensive—not by much, honestly; it is a little over $600—but the students have the opportunity to have 28 kids in the classroom because of the way that they specialize and they are set up. In Arizona, the tuition is a little bit higher, but they have the ability to get all of their classes, and online is not as big. At both of those schools, they have been renting books for a very long time, which is something new that Nevada has barely started doing. But at the community college, say, in southern Nevada, you are paying the same amount for the amount of credits, but you are being forced to take an online class, which, I get technology and all, but I do not know that that is beneficial for the long run. When we compared everything, did we compare all the way across the board? I think that when you just compare tuitions, it is like going to Ross or going to Nordstroms: Can you get the same outfit there, or is it last year's season? I am just wondering if we compared it all the way across when we made those assumptions.

HEIDI GANSERT:

Thank you, Mr. Chair. Through you to Ms. Kirkpatrick. We did not look at the cost of attendance. A lot of people refer to the term "cost of attendance." We looked at the tuition and fees, and relooking at this chart for the WICHE benchmarks, it looks like we are twelfth out of fifteenth, so towards the bottom. We are one of the least expensive institutions and about 20 percent below average, but we looked at the tuition and fees—which are represented in this; I can provide this to you—versus the cost of attendance.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN KIRKPATRICK:

If I could just follow up? I do not disagree that we are cheaper, but at the same time, I am concerned that at CSN, you have 60 kids in a class, and the quality of your education is a little bit different than when you are at SUU, where you are paying a little bit more for 28 kids in a class. I get raising tuition, and I know that some of our out-of-state kids pay about $16,000 a year, which is a lot, and quite frankly, that helps subsidize Nevada kids. But at the same, what kind of an education are they getting for that and will they look to these schools that have the smaller classrooms?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Mrs. Pierce?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN PIERCE:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Mrs. Gansert, a moment ago you referenced a couple of states which apparently do not have budget deficits, and you referred to them as "natural-resource states." I think you mentioned Texas and Wyoming. Mrs. Gansert, just between you and me, I have heard a rumor that there are gold mines somewhere in Nevada.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Okay. Mrs. Mastroluca?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN MASTROLUCA:

Thanks for letting me follow that, Mr. Chair. Mrs. Gansert, one of the comments made earlier--and you referenced it after the Fiscal staff—talked about that our tuition rates are low compared to the other WICHE states. The Governor's budget, I believe, is a proposal of a 13 percent increase in tuition. I am just wondering, how many other states have had a jump to a 13 percent increase in one year and then a 13 percent increase the year after that? I understand that maybe we need to look at rates if we are not competing or if we are not at the same level as everyone else, but to go to 13 percent in one year? Let us look at the calendar: We are talking about 13 percent in the next eight weeks. That is a pretty significant jump.

HEIDI GANSERT:
Thank you. To the Chair to Mrs. Mastroluca. The Governor's budget does not contemplate tuition increases. That is actually up to the Regents. Basically, we provide the basic funding, and then they decide whether there is going to be tuition increases or not. If you were to look at the data throughout the country, there is a lot of tuition increases right now, especially in our neighbor, in California. You can actually attend Nevada as an out-of-state student for less than you can attend a UC (University of California) school. Our tuition is low, but the trend nationally is, again, as I mentioned earlier, that there would be more tuition and fees versus state subsidies for education.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN MASTROLUCA:
May I follow up?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Certainly.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN MASTROLUCA:
And I apologize, I did recognize that that was the Regents' choice. But I would still challenge you: Can you name another state that has had a 13 percent tuition increase?

HEIDI GANSERT:
I can get that data to you. I have actually read about it, and there are states that have contemplated tuition increases even greater, but I do not have it on me.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN MASTROLUCA:
Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Mr. Hansen?

ASSEMBLYMAN HANSEN:
Thanks, Mr. Chairman. We had testimony in the Education Committee by Chancellor Klaich that approximately 40 percent of the kids coming out of Nevada schools who go on to higher education have to take remedial classes. Do you have any idea what the cost is to that, and do you have any justification for the taxpayers why they would have to pay twice for the same education?

HEIDI GANSERT:
Mr. Chair, if I can, I would like to defer that to the university system. I do not have those numbers. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
All right. Any other questions? Mr. Ellison?

ASSEMBLYMAN ELLISON:
Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I did not know if I misunderstood, but you said there was new revenue. What I consider revenue is if you are taking from one area and you move to another. I do not care if you call them new or old or whatever. There is still revenue that went into the university system. Can you tell me what those revenues were that you were talking about?

ANDREW CLINGER:
Mr. Chairman, through you to Mr. Ellison. The revenue that the Governor included in The Executive Budget to go directly to the Nevada System of Higher Education was the 9- cent property tax in Clark County and Washoe County. In the current biennium, those funds went directly into the state. What we are proposing in the Governor's budget is that those funds be dedicated just for higher education and that continue in future biennia. In addition to those redirections into the Nevada System of Higher Education, in total, the Governor's The Executive Budget includes over $1 billion—and I will not use the word "revenue" but "resources"—to help balance the budget. If you look at The Executive Budget and you compare what the Governor has proposed to the current budget, it is a $1.4 billion decrease, and that is after adding $1 billion in new resources.

ASSEMBLYMAN ELLISON:
A follow-up, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Yes.

ASSEMBLYMAN ELLISON:
During one of the Governor's speeches, he also said that they were going to look at some other newer ideas like tuitions that would be kept inside the university system. Is that kind of stuff still being considered?

HEIDI GANSERT:
Thank you. When we talked to the university system, there were a number of things that could be considered autonomy that they requested. One was that when they raise tuition, they keep it at the institution. They asked for flexibility amongst budget accounts. They asked to be able to increase their tuition and in different ways, so if you have a higher-cost program like a nursing program, they could differentiate it and make it greater than, say, a liberal arts program. Senate Bill 434, which we proposed, actually grants them all that authority that they asked us.

ASSEMBLYMAN ELLISON:
Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
All right. I am going to take two final questions, and then we are going to move on. Let us go to Mrs. Carlton.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN CARLTON:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. To Mr. Hansen's comment about having to pay twice, being a mother who paid tuition for two daughters who went to CSN and to UNLV--one who did have to work a little bit on some of the classes she was not as good at as she thought she was—it is not free to the taxpayers. We pay tuition on those classes, so it is not like the taxpayers are being double-dinged on that.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you, Mrs. Carlton. Mrs. Dondero Loop?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN DONDERO LOOP:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I just have, actually, sort of a comment. I just know that the relationship between economic stability and education has been proven over and over and over again. I have put three children through college, and I know that your kids, I think, are just getting ready to start that process. Some of us choose to have our kids stay in state, and some of us need to have our kids stay in state because we cannot afford dorms and things like that, so they stay at home. But I can tell you that schools in general, in my opinion, when the economy is down, become a place that people go;. K-12 kids find stability there. College students—many people go back to school. I think when the economy is down and you are down in that hole, you do not hand people a shovel. You hand them a ladder. The ladder in this case would be to allow people who need to further their education to provide themselves jobs. Thank you.

HEIDI GANSERT:
We are in agreement, because we have seen that enrollment goes up when times get more difficult. People do go back to school. We have tried to mitigate the cuts and do the best that we can in this budget.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
All right. Thank you, Mrs. Gansert and Mr. Clinger. We are going to cut it off there. We appreciate you being over here today. Let us move, then, to Mr. Satre.

Mr. Satre, welcome. I know you have been sitting here all day, so I will try to get you in and out.

PHIL SATRE, CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD, NV ENERGY, INC.:

I want to thank the Chairman. I want to thank Majority Leader Conklin, Minority Leader Goicoechea, and all of the members of this Assembly. My name is Phil Satre, and I am here today to ask for your support of the Nevada System of Higher Education and to consider alternatives to The Executive Budget proposed by the Governor.

I have lived and worked in northern and southern Nevada for the better part of the last 36 years. During that period, it has been clear to me that both UNR and UNLV have been on a consistent upward trajectory. The current budget reductions now proposed will have a long-term and, in my view, possibly permanent negative impact on higher education in this state and set back many years of progress that the System of Higher Education has made.

So why do I care? One of the reasons that I care is that I am chairing the Chancellor's Business Roundtable, a group formed by the Chancellor last fall of business people from both ends of the state. I guess you can say it is my job. But I have other jobs. I currently serve as the chairman of the board of two Nevada-based New York Stock Exchanged public companies. One is NV Energy, and the other is International Game Technology (IGT). I also serve as a director of Nordstrom, Inc., and of course, Nordstrom has substantial operations in Las Vegas where we compete with Ross with our Nordstrom Rack store. Prior to my role at these companies that I just referenced, I spent 25 years at Harrah's, now Caesars Entertainment, and for most of those years, I was the chairman, the president, or the chief executive officer (CEO)—or all of those, depending upon the time frame—until I retired in January of 2005. The companies that I am involved with and have been involved with have a substantial stake in Nevada's future. We have, in the aggregate, over 7,000 employees in this state, and our employees send their children to Nevada schools both K-12 and postsecondary. These businesses hire many of our employees from Nevada's high schools, from Nevada's community colleges, and from Nevada's universities. Without question, these businesses all have a significant stake in the state's future and, in particular, the Nevada System for Higher Education. Let me give you a few examples of how those stakes are represented.

I was CEO of Harrah's when we made, along with Bill Harrah's widow, Verna, the naming gift of $5 million for the William F. Harrah College of Hotel Administration at UNLV in 1989. It was a breakthrough gift for UNLV. I am very proud that Bill Harrah's name is on that hotel school, now one of the nation's best hotel schools. I am also proud that so many of the graduates that populate our state's largest industry graduated from that school.

Turning to IGT, IGT and former chairman Chuck Mathewson provided $10 million for the naming gift that enabled the construction of the building that I think is magnificent and state-of-the-art, the Mathewson-IGT Knowledge Center on the campus of the University of Nevada, Reno. More recently, NV Energy has made gifts of over $1 million to UNR and to UNLV for renewable energy programs, including gifts to the UNR College of Engineering, to support faculty positions, to research renewable energy, and provided funds for workforce development efforts. We have also made gifts to Truckee Meadows Community College, the Desert Research Institute, and Great Basin Community College. All of the initiatives funded by NV Energy gifts are critical to the future economic development in the State of Nevada.

Finally, like so many of the businesses that prospered here, or the individuals that have prospered here, my wife and I have also felt an obligation to support these universities personally and have contributed over $1 million for scholarships and grants to NSHE schools, because we have been inspired, inspired by the leadership of these institutions, inspired by their missions, and inspired by the students who want to go to these institutions. When gifts of this magnitude are made either by individuals or by corporations or by foundations or others, I believe there is an implicit expectation of continued state support of those institutions. Without that implicit promise of sustainable support, I think it would be difficult, if not impossible, to continue private support.

The companies I have mentioned have been in Nevada for decades; in the case of NV Energy, for over 100 years. We are all here for the long term, and we are all committed to Nevada. We are proud that we have been part of building this university system in partnership with this state.

We are proud that we have its graduates in our executive suites, among our managers and supervisors, and on our front lines, and that our children attend these colleges and universities. We want to help build, as we have for over 20 years, a university system that will serve Nevada's future.

We are realists. We have been through this financial crisis with the state, with the individuals in this room, and with other businesses. When the financial crisis took root in 2008 and 2009, our revenues and our profits dropped, in some cases precipitously. We had to make painful decisions, decisions to curtail programs, to curtail employee compensation and benefits, to cut back on capital spending, and to eliminate jobs—unfortunately, lots of jobs. Our businesses had to change to meet the challenges of the recession. But we knew that we could not make cuts that were so deep that we disabled our competitiveness and thwarted our ability to rebuild our businesses and renew our businesses when the economy recovers. Had we and other businesses in the private sector in this state gone too far in cutting jobs, in cutting back on capital improvements, and in cutting back on programs, I think Nevada's economic recovery would be in even greater jeopardy today.

But I believe that is just what the full impact of the reductions in this The Executive Budget will do to the Nevada System of Higher Education, placing the quality of higher education at too great a risk for our future. It will not make our state stronger. It will not make us ready to recover. It will make us weaker, and it will extend the period required to recover from the economic downturn in this state.

To use a metaphor from my days at Harrah's, all of you in this room have been dealt a hand when it comes to the fiscal year (FY) 2011-12 and FY 2012-13 budgets. I am sure for all of you, for Governor Sandoval, and for your colleagues in the Senate, it feels like your hands are tied, particularly with the obligation to present a balanced budget. However, rather than let that be a foregone conclusion—that we cannot afford a vibrant economy, a vibrant educational system, and a better Nevada—I ask that you recognize that all of you have been elected by your constituents to use your intellects and your resourcefulness to decide what Nevada's future will be.

In business, we no doubt had more latitude to invest on the promise of future revenues, but that does not mean you cannot recognize judgment and creativity. Although I was not a part of the process or the decision-making, as a businessman, I would endorse the position taken by the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce, a group of people representing businesses large and small, who said, "Additional tax revenue may be necessary, particularly when linked to significant and meaningful reform that will fix systemic problems in our state." I think the Nevada System of Higher Education is prepared to meet that challenge of significant and meaningful reform. I think it will happen in other parts of our state.

I know that point-of-view is shared by some other members of the Chancellor's Business Roundtable that were able to present this morning at the Senate, and we are going to provide you with their testimony. They could not be there this afternoon, but I want to mention them because they were present this morning: Kirk Clausen from Wells Fargo Bank, a company that has made significant contributions to the educational system; Glenn Christenson, who is the head of the Nevada Development Authority in southern Nevada, the economic development authority for that particular part of our state, and also the chairman of the College of Southern Nevada Foundation; and Michael Saltman, who, along with his company, The Vista Group, has been very involved with UNLV. Mr. Chairman, that concludes my remarks.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Thank you, Mr. Satre. Let us see if there are some questions. Mr. Hickey?

ASSEMBLYMAN HICKEY:

Thank you, Mr. Chairman, and thank you, Mr. Satre, for all that you have done for this state, including our university system. You mentioned the reforms that were outlined and tied to the suggestion that revenues may need to be found. Would you care, as a business person, to comment in a little more detail about the extent of those reforms and where they are needed and what they would look like to you?

PHIL SATRE:

In term of the—are you—excuse me, Mr. Chairman, I know I am supposed to say, "Mr. Satre, responding to Mr. Hickey's responses," and I apologize for not doing that for the record.

Could I ask you to clarify, Mr. Hickey, whether you are referencing reforms in general? Or reforms for the Nevada System of Higher Education?

ASSEMBLYMAN HICKEY:

I believe the reforms—through you, Mr. Chairman. I believe the reforms the Chamber was referencing had to do with the local governments and their collective bargaining positions, some reforms to the pension system and the state, and including reforms to education that the Blue Ribbon panel [Blue Ribbon Education Reform Task Force] and others have outlined.

PHIL SATRE:

Mr. Hickey, Mr. Satre responding to you for the record. My understanding is that it was a reference to just what you characterized, fixing what the Chamber referred to as the Public Employees' Retirement System to reduce what they felt was about $10 billion of unfunded liability, discontinuing state retiree health insurance subsidies through the Public Employees' Benefits Plan, reforming collective bargaining, transforming K-12 education, and then their reference to higher education was "retooling" higher education. I am happy to address that to some extent, but I know that the dialogue that we have had with the Chancellor about "retooling" are things that he is going to cover in his remarks later. Many of them have to do with taking steps to be more efficient on the campuses, taking steps to revise the funding formula for the campuses, taking steps to, I think, look at seriously—as you have discussed today—our fee structure and how competitive that is with other WICHE states.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Thank you. Let us go to Mrs. Benitez-Thompson.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BENITEZ-THOMPSON:

Thank you, Mr. Chair. Mr. Satre, thank you for your comments. I am a social worker by profession. I am not a business person, so I appreciate your insight. I came across an article I thought that you might comment on, because my thought is that our education system, especially our universities, for the state are the equivalent to research and development functions within companies. Booz & Company. did a study—and this was from 2008, just as the recession was starting to take hold—and I wanted you to react to their findings. They said that: "More than two-thirds of the companies included in this year's Global Initiative 1000 maintained or increased research and development (R&D) spending in 2008, and even though a third of the companies reported a financial loss for the year, we found no correlation between financial losses and reductions in R&D spending. Furthermore, our analysis revealed that innovation investment is increasingly viewed as essential to corporate strategy: more than 90 percent of executives we surveyed said innovation is critical as they prepare for the upturn . . . " If that held true for Nevada, would it not make sense that the last thing we would want to do is severely cut our funding to our state's R&D arm, which are universities and education?

PHIL SATRE:

Mr. Chairman, Mr. Satre responding to Mrs. Benitez-Thompson. I would respond this way. From really the experience that we had at one of the companies that I am involved with, and that is International Game Technology, we have a very big research and development function. It is around $200 million a year. That is a lot of money to spend on R&D. If we had cut that two years ago or three years ago at the beginning of this recession and pulled that all the way back, we would be dead in the water right now. If we are going to compete with other companies around the world—which is how we compete with companies from the U.S. (United States), companies from Japan, companies from Australia and elsewhere—we have to continue to invest in research and development. We have to continue to hire the best and the brightest minds that we can to work in our studios and to work in our research and development effort. Part of the reason why I think the company supports the Mathewson-IGT Knowledge Center is that IGT depends upon our university system here in Nevada for a good portion of our talent that we need to do that. If the university systems pull back on that talent, we will go elsewhere, and we cannot see how they can afford to do that.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you. Mrs. Dondero Loop?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN DONDERO LOOP:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Mr. Satre, I would just like a clarification because I think what we are hearing from you is that universities attract economic development and that you are saying that the businesses want to have a funded education system, specifically higher education. Is that correct?

PHIL SATRE:
I guess I was not very clear. That is correct.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN DONDERO LOOP:
Thank you. You were very clear. I just wanted to hear it again. It was good news to my ears.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
All right. I am not seeing any further questions. Thank you.

PHIL SATRE:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I appreciate the opportunity to address the Committee as a Whole.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you, Mr. Satre. We appreciate you being here. All right, let us move on now to the Chancellor, Mr. Klaich.

DAN KLAICH, CHANCELLOR, NEVADA SYSTEM OF HIGHER EDUCATION:
Mr. Chairman, I guess, for the afternoon. Majority Leader Conklin and Minority Leader Goicoechea. Ladies and gentlemen of the Assembly. Thank you very much for entertaining us this afternoon and giving us the opportunity to discuss the budget of the Nevada System of Higher Education and to respond to your questions. I would like to, before I start that discussion, thank the Speaker in this chamber for cancelling your session yesterday afternoon and allowing so many of you to attend the memorial service for Dr. Milton Glick. I can assure you it meant a great deal to Mrs. Glick and Dr. Glick's family to have so many of you from this body there. Thank you for that courtesy and for the fitting tribute you paid to Dr. Glick's service to the state.

I would like to start my comments by acknowledging what you all know, that Nevada is in the midst of possibly the worst economic crisis that we have ever faced. We all know we must balance our budget, and we all know that there will be significant budget reductions and spending cuts required and painful sacrifice that is appropriate to be shared by all Nevadans. Having said that, our challenge is to navigate these difficult waters in a way that will preserve core services, including education, and serve our state well in recovery. I am here today to talk to you about how those of us in higher education propose to do that with your help.

Like most Nevadans in both public and private sectors, public higher education arrives here today after more than three years of budget reductions. Over that time, while enrollments and fees have increased and salaries have been frozen and reduced by furloughs, the System's General Fund support has been cut by almost 20 percent. Throughout that time, our presidents, working closely with their faculty and students and under the supervision of the Board of Regents, have implemented budget reduction plans aimed at protecting faculty and classes for students. Cuts have been made in capital, equipment, maintenance, support services, administration, to protect these critical classroom functions. And in the process of protecting faculty to the best of our ability, we have worked hard to protect research. Ironically, one of the results of these plans aimed at preserving access and quality to the student educational experience is that it has left many Nevadans thinking that there has been no impact at all on our colleges and universities. But in fact, with State General Fund appropriations now down almost 20 percent and statewide enrollments up, we have eliminated almost 9 percent of our state-funded positions. Like many Nevadans, we have been forced to do more with less. With the loss of star faculty and matching funds required for research grants, our research and development has fallen by 11 percent in the last two years.

Let me just make a comment apropos of some of the questions I heard and comment with respect to the Desert Research Institute (DRI) figures that Dr. Wells [Stephen Wells, President, DRI] indicated to me about star faculty leaving; DRI has lost 23 of its best faculty over this budget reduction simply because they are great and they have the ability to move around. There was a comment about there not being any jobs. It is a tough time in this market, I understand, but the superstars are mobile. In the case of DRI, those folks have left now with $15 million of their own research grants and probably two to one multipliers on the students and graduates that they support—just one example. I mention these not to stand in front of you and complain but to emphasize that we are not reviewing the cuts we are here to talk about today on a clean slate but rather from the vantage point of 3.5 years of painful reductions that all Nevadans have seen.

Against this backdrop of continuing budget reductions, the Board of Regents and I have prepared a strategic plan for aligning the goals of the system with the goals of the state. We have given you all copies of those plans probably more times than you want to see, and they are contained in the materials that I am sure are on your system. I am not going to bore you today nor take the time at this late hour to go through that plan in its entirety, but I would like to tell you about some of the hallmarks of it and why we think it is important to your deliberations today. We are committed to more graduates and less time, to more sponsored research, to market-based fees as you have seen before, to creating differential fees for select programs with the authority to direct the spending of those fees where they are generated. We would like to see the creation of a stabilization fund for the inevitable day when this cycle returns. We have in place a continuous process for review of efficiency and effectiveness to assure that every dollar of taxpayer money that you entrust to us will be spent once and wisely. We would like to establish structures that align the goals of state higher education and private business to assist the economic development and diversification effort, and we have assisted in A.B. 449, the economic development bill, that is a bipartisan effort moving through your house right now. We will insist on more intense partnerships with our partners in public education K-12. Every element of this plan must and will be built on recognized and well-communicated metrics for reporting to the Governor, to this Legislature, to the Board of Regents, and the citizens of Nevada. We are committed to holding ourselves accountable to well-defined and rigorous metrics.

Our plan is not business-as-usual. Our plan is a significant commitment to reform in higher education in academics, in finance, and in administration. Students in the state will see a very different system of higher education than how we operated.

First, I would like to repeat what you have already heard: we ask you, during the upcoming interim, to commit to a study of our funding formula. Bring the Governor, the Legislature, higher education together. We must recognize that we have different missions for different institutions in this system, and we must fund them appropriately and differently. We must let the data indicate if there are inequities or disparities without reason in our funding and correct them. Funding based solely on enrollment without regard to performance in critical areas, such as student completion, should be a thing of the past in Nevada. Reform and funding must go hand-in-hand. Every policy on funding and budgeting should be analyzed to support a more entrepreneurial structure that recognizes the fact that higher education must, over time in Nevada like elsewhere in the United States, become more self-sustaining and not suffer the loss of State General Funds when it does by attracting more out-of-state students.

In this context of reform and change to which we have committed our future, we come here to discuss with you whether or not the budget before you advances that reform in the interest of higher education and, by extension, the interest of the state.

I believe that it does not. In the materials that you have before you, we have provided budget templates, as Mr. Haartz indicated before, for every institution in the system. I apologize; my remarks here I will be repeating some of the comments and questions that have already been directed to either Mr. Haartz or Mrs. Gansert, but I would like to repeat for emphasis. Those plans, in response to The Executive Budget, reduce support from its current General Fund levels of $162 million by the end of this biennium. Let me tell you briefly what this budget reduction means to our institutions and to your constituents who want to go to college. The proposed budget reductions will dramatically impact higher education and, in particular, as many of your questions have highlighted, access. We believe that it is important that you understand that the cuts to the levels proposed in The Executive Budget will result in an entirely new model for higher education in Nevada, one that we believe is not in the best interest of this state either in the short-term or the long-term. In the short-term, it will lead to greater unemployment—we will lay people off—and will withdraw critical dollars from the state economy, dollars which are multiplied when they move into the state economy, worsening and prolonging Nevada's economic depression, not assisting in its recovery. In the long run, this model will reduce access and opportunity to thousands of Nevadans either by limiting enrollment or pricing higher education out of their reach and thereby limiting the educated workforce that we need to move our economy forward to recruit and retain businesses here in Nevada.

One of the cornerstones of our reform plan that I talked to you about a minute before is our commitment to Complete College America consortium. That consortium is dedicated to producing more graduates with degrees and certificates of value here in Nevada and across the country. It is a consortium that is committed to what I refer to as the "case method," copy and steal everything, where we look around the country at the best practices that we can find in higher education and bring them here to Nevada rather than reinventing the wheel. With this budget, our continued participation in the consortium and our goal to produce more graduates will be in jeopardy along with the potential for a number of grants to assist us in this effort.

From your constituents, you all know that in enrollment in the system has effectively been capped for years as a result of reduced available classes that have filled up and fee increases. The cuts that we are facing today will multiply our enrollment challenges. Our colleges and universities report that faculty and staff cuts will cap enrollments across the state at an unprecedented level. Students—and these are students including those clearly qualified to enter our institutions, so we are not talking about students who are not qualified and do not want to go to college—will be turned away in far greater numbers than ever before. This will be not only true at our universities but at our state college and our community college, critically impacting the access mission of those institutions that has traditionally been what I call part of their DNA. We will develop strategies to deal with this change at our colleges that may include admissions testing, the requirements of diplomas while trying to be sensitive to the needs of our diverse student population, but the underlying reality is we will be turning Nevadans away. We simply cannot serve everyone at the level of cuts with any promise of quality.

We must be particularly mindful in this effort—and your questions have already indicated that you are mindful—of low income and first-generation students who are disproportionally students of color. With this budget, however, we can no longer pretend that any student who is qualified will be accepted into one of our institutions and will have access to classes, support services, financial aid, and, ultimately, a degree. Priority registration in our institutions, together with the aid and the opportunity to complete a degree or a certificate within a reasonable period of time, will be given to full-time students.

We will also have to seriously evaluate the transfer mission of our community colleges in light of this new reality. We can no longer guarantee that every student who qualifies for a transfer from our community colleges will have a seat in our universities or our state college. If we promise students a reasonably smooth path to a degree, we must avoid upper-division bottlenecks that could result from unlimited transfers. In addition to these limits on student access, we will offer classes at fewer locations; in particular, our rural locations will suffer as our colleges will focus their limited resources on serving the greatest number of students in the areas where they are. We will do our best with technology to continue to provide offerings, but live classes will diminish significantly.

Mr. Haartz talked about the numbers, but let me reinforce. We anticipate a drop in enrollment in excess of 15 percent system-wide this biennium based on program elimination, faculty layoffs, site closures, fewer number of courses offered, increased fees, and inadequate tutoring and support services. Until resources improve, that reduction will be a cap on enrollment. We anticipate that more than 20,000—and your figures were about 19,000, give or take—more than 8,000 full-time equivalent students who wish to take advantage of higher education in this state will be turned away. In response to the question on this side, those are students who will either leave the state to attend and may never return or will simply never go to college.

Research and workforce grants in the state will, in all likelihood, continue to decline as resources for matching funds dry up and as our best and most entrepreneurial faculty—as I indicated with respect to the DRI example, the same example could be told that UNR and UNLV are cherry-picked by other institutions across the nation. We have consistently advised that this selective destruction of our best faculty has already begun and should be expected to accelerate. The impact will not only limit economic expansion that innovative research can foster but will negatively impact our leveraging capacity by reducing the revenues that our research institutions will generate to help themselves produce their own budgetary support. We pledge our best efforts, nonetheless, to work with private businesses in the state to work with the state's economic development infrastructure, but we want to be clear that fully supporting new business initiatives while retrenching across the board to the levels recommended is simply not possible.

VICE CHAIR SMITH:

Mr. Klaich? Do you prefer to get through your report before taking questions, or would you like questions along the way?

DAN KLAICH:

I would prefer to finish. I have got maybe three minutes.

VICE CHAIR SMITH:

Very good, thank you.

DAN KLAICH:

You know that many of the difficult decisions that we are being forced to make will bring out constituent voices. You have heard them already, I am sure. We have heard them already. They will object to center program institutional closures, consolidations. I am sure you are hearing those voices. Every action we are taking is taken with the strong awareness that we are losing or reducing a program valuable to Nevada. We have no more good or easy choices to make.

Throughout this process, I have promised to be honest with you. I have told you that I will not say anything that we are not prepared to do, and I will not put anything on the table that we are not prepared to follow through on. I have outlined what the presidents are planning to do and what they will do with the cuts that we see before us. Diminishing and cutting higher education is bad for Nevada, and I hope that we can work together to avoid or significantly mitigate these impacts. However, with the funds that appear to be available today, we simply believe that these steps outlined above are essential.

Two final points I would like to make, Madam Chair. I understand that this is a hearing to talk about the Nevada System of Higher Education budget and not taxes, but I would like to make a brief comment regarding the potential for new funding since you already brought that point up today yourselves. The Board of Regents at its last meeting passed a unanimous resolution calling for additional revenue into this budget, and somehow, it seems to me that the discussion of whether or not there should be additional taxes in Nevada has gotten wound up with sunsets on existing taxes. While I have outlined dramatic, long-term, negative impacts of these budget cuts on higher education—and I am sure you have heard the same and very persuasive arguments from my partners in K-12 and from health and human services—we are talking about a budget that is built on giving a tax cut in the next biennium to the largest businesses in this state by allowing existing tax rates to sunset. To make matters even worse, the businesses now paying those taxes to Nevada will be denied federal deductions for those taxes paid, so we will be shipping a portion of them off to Washington, D.C., never to see them again. In short, while we have huge budget cuts to critical Nevada services, we will be giving large tax breaks to Nevada's biggest companies and sending a portion of those dollars to the feds. I just do not see how this is good policy or it helps ordinary Nevadans secure the critical services, including education, that they want and need. I do believe that there are revenue solutions out there, and I hope that you consider all possibilities while you seek to balance this budget.

In closing, to let you know what I think we should do, I would like to present a four-point plan for funding higher education this biennium, which I think fairly embodies the shared sacrifice that we have all talked so much about. Implementation of this four-point plan can assist in mitigating the worst of the impacts that I outlined above with respect to these budget reductions, and it will require your action and support.

Firstly, we ask that the dollars allocated to the System for this biennium be appropriated equally in each year of the biennium. Averaging or smoothing those appropriations in this fashion will reduce the target reduction for FY 2012-13 from $395 million, as you have heard from staff, to $430 million, a net positive change of over 7 percent in our budget without costing one dime to the taxpayers of the State of Nevada.

Secondly, we will ask students and their families to pay a greater share of the cost of higher education. We have heard a lot about the level of fees and tuition in Nevada, and most of that discussion has focused on the fact that fees are low in comparison to neighboring institutions. Keep in mind that that is the culmination of a long-standing policy not only of the Board of Regents but this Legislature, which is embodied in statute, and also keep in mind that while we are a low-fee state, we are a very low-financial-aid state. Decoupling fees and letting them float while keeping financial aid low is going to, again, hurt the neediest of Nevadans. Nonetheless, we ask students and their families to pay a greater share. Most of the institutional plans submitted to the Board of Regents for meeting the recommended budgets show increases in student fees of 13 percent in each year of the biennium with a carve-out of 15 percent of those amounts for need-based financial aid.

Thirdly, we commit in our entire public education system, including all teaching institutions, to implement permanent operating reductions in an amount at least equal to the contributions that we are asking students to make.

Finally, we ask that the State of Nevada infuse additional General Fund support in our budget in an amount proportionate to the two amounts discussed above. Included in this plan, as you have heard from staff, is also a reduction across the board of salaries that is recommended by the budget.

Taken together, I believe that this plan represents a reasonable sharing of the burden of the current economic crisis among students and their families, faculty, our colleges and universities, and the State of Nevada. If this plan is implemented, we will protect higher education to the greatest extent that can be expected in these times. We will promise continued academic and financial reform that will produce a greater efficiency in all our operations, resetting the financial and social compact among the state, the Legislature, and the students of Nevada.

I close by saying that we came today with an earnest request that you hear us, that you believe us, and that you partner with us to save our children and our grandchildren's opportunity for college, for a brighter future, for those very same opportunities that all of us sitting here have enjoyed and profit from. Thank you very much, Madam Chair.

VICE CHAIRWOMAN SMITH:
Thank you, Mr. Klaich. I have a question from Mr. Conklin.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
Thank you, Madam Chair. Mr. Klaich, I appreciate your staying with us to the late hour. I know it has been a long day for you since your first meeting started at 8 a.m. (But I assure you, so did ours.)

DAN KLAICH:
I understand.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
We appreciate having you here. One of my colleagues left on my desk an interesting chart of the NSHE budget and state-supported portion of that budget over the last decade (Exhibit F). A couple of things jumped out at me on this. And just for full disclosure, I am also a product of the NSHE system, getting my master's degree in economics at UNLV, so certainly I am a big supporter of our education system. One of the things that jumped out at me on this chart is, you can look year over year, there are bumps in the road, clearly, but over the last decade, the amount of support that the state portion of the university system support has declined. It has gone from 70.3 percent down to 61.6 percent. While that in and of itself might be a good thing or a bad thing—and I am not sure I want to get into that—what is interesting is that that is coupled with two things. The actual amount of dollars is going up; I think we know that. But the price of an education is going up, too. Everyone is spending more. There is more technology. Everything is more expensive. When I got my first master's degree, the average cost of my books was probably $70; the last time I got it, it seemed like it was $150. Everything is going up exponentially relative to education, but the amount of money that you get from outside the state support is growing even faster.

The question is this. At the end of the road this year, we are going to make a 25 percent cut in that state support, and what I noticed about this is every time we made a jump in how much we gave the university system, there was a subsequent jump and more so in how much other funding you get. It begs the question, is there money that you get from the mere fact that we make investments, and how much of that do you expect to lose? You spoke of it earlier; we heard about it from other folks. Your brightest faculty members, you may pay them $250,000 a year or $150,000 or it does not matter what you pay them, but they bring with them, so to speak, an endowment, which is much greater than what it costs you to have them here. I almost wonder if we are expecting a much bigger decline in the amount of money that you have relative to that loss of money that is not accounted on any spreadsheet we have that is associated with the loss of revenue that you are going to sustain as a result of losing critical people and other matching funds, whether it is public or private or anything else.

DAN KLAICH:

Mr. Chair to Mr. Conklin. I think your question goes to a whole bunch of very critical points, and I will try and be succinct as possible given the hour. To the direct dollar point, which I do not think was your main point, I think that studies indicate that for every dollar $1 that you, the taxpayers of Nevada, invest in the Nevada System of Higher Education, the multiplier return to the state is in excess of $5. For every job that is created, 1.6 jobs are created. By definition, those would go away. I think the reputational value and the reputational risk that we are involved in right here—particularly at the research institutions, where a bit more than the colleges—we compete in a national market. I do not think that Nevada wants the national reputation of a state that does not value higher education. That will make it more difficult for us to recruit star faculty, retain star faculty, and, just as importantly, to recruit and retain the best students here in Nevada that we want to keep here in Nevada.

You mention longitudinal data, and I believe it is data that Mr. Hansen prepared and that he was very kind to share with us in advance. I appreciate that courtesy, Mr. Hansen. I have a difficulty, though, with longitudinal data. It can tell a story, but I would suggest that it could probably tell just about any story you want to tell. I am not sure the extent to which it is very relevant for a couple of reasons. We will provide you with inflation-adjusted, per-capita spending on students in higher education in Nevada over the last couple of decades, and I think you will find that it has not changed; it might possibly have declined slightly. But longitudinal data does not really help us a lot when we are where we are. We are here today facing a $162 million cut to our budget, and to say what has happened over the last 10 years or 20 years sets aside the fact that there is a long-term compact that is implicit in whatever has occurred to that time, and we cannot just pull one piece out and say that the compact is intact. I hope I have touched on the major points that you asked, Mr. Conklin. If not, I am sure you will follow up.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:

I am going to ask again. I agree with you on the longitudinal data. The issue is this, though: clearly, there is a growth in the amount of money you are getting from other sources.

DAN KLAICH:

Correct.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:

I want to know, is that growth tied to the investment that we make in NSHE? Will there be some corresponding losses as a result of our lack of investment?

DAN KLAICH:
Let me do the best I can. With respect to research grants, I think the answer to your question is going to be, "Yes." For example, you provided us certain matching funds, most of which has had to have been reverted in prior rounds of budget cuts. More and more under current administration guidelines, any grants that we are given require matching funds, and as those matching funds disappear or dry up, we simply lose the ability to compete for federal research grants and contracts. I would say the answer is "yes" on that point. Self-supporting budgets, we actually have grown those budgets over time, and I cannot tell you that those are directly related or not to levels of state funding. Certainly, if we had to pull money out of those to backfill for state funds, we would lose our ability to further enhance those support services on campus that the state simply cannot provide. Those would be two examples where I think the answer to your question would be, "Yes."

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Mr. Hambrick?

ASSEMBLYMAN HAMBRICK:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Chancellor, I know being in the well can be daunting sometimes, but we seem to be going down the well with questions dealing with finance. I am going to make more of a request rather than a question. In order for this body to get a complete picture—and you just mentioned some other sources—I am wondering if we could get, in the next several days, a listing of all the endowments and other funding that you have available so we can compare it not only to the dollar amount that the Governor is trying to either give or not give to you, but in order to see what the university system has unto itself so we can balance these things off. I am not sure if many of us have ever seen that entire spreadsheet.

DAN KLAICH:
I appreciate that question, Mr. Hambrick. We have provided that summary information to your staff, and we will work with them to be sure that it gets out to all the members. If it is not in sufficient detail, we will provide additional detail.

ASSEMBLYMAN HAMBRICK:
Thank you, Chancellor. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Let us go to Mr. Hickey.

ASSEMBLYMAN HICKEY:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Thank you, Mr. Klaich. In the interest of disclosure, because I am going to be talking about a community college, I do teach at Western Nevada College. I have been happy to hear you throughout this process, as difficult as it is, to welcome the flexibility and autonomy that are included in a new way of budgeting for you. Flexibility obviously gives you the ability to do what you think is best for your institutions, and the autonomy comes from being able to have more money and manage it much as private institutions might, at least to some degree. Being able to keep some of the tuition or fee increases and manage it yourselves is an example of having more autonomy and less strings. But to my point of strings, one of the things that we have done is bounce you around a little bit with regards to your own planning with respect to these budget cuts. Am I not correct that the university presidents came forward with a plan that did not necessarily include closures or mergers or breakups and consolidation, but this body has asked you to consider that? My question is, what is your personal preference? Even given the severity of the cuts, do the Regents really favor the suggestion from some in this larger body that we ought to be closing places given the cuts?

DAN KLAICH:
Mr. Hickey, although you may not have intended, I think that is a very easy question. I do not favor closing any institution. Clearly, all the data would demonstrate that we need more graduates in Nevada. We need more graduates with certificates of value moving into our workforce, more associate degrees, more baccalaureate degrees, and more master's degrees. The question is really, what can we afford? That, of course, is the very difficult question that you are facing. I think with the plan I have put in front of you, if we can find a way to all make our relative and respective contributions, we can avoid those worst-case decisions.

ASSEMBLYMAN HICKEY:
Just a brief follow-up if I may, Mr. Chairman? Is it not the case that the presidents came forward with a plan, given the severity of the original budgets, that would reduce costs, and they were not the ones calling for closures? They have a plan that would deal with these cuts and all the accompanying difficulties.

DAN KLAICH:
I am sorry. I did not understand your question. Like you, Mr. Hickey, we are planning on multiple fronts. I understand that you are trying to plan while things continually move, and the presidents brought forth plans based on cuts to the full level of the Governor recommended reductions. At the same time, the Board directed the Chancellor's staff to bring forward additional recommendations on what possible savings could be generated by closures or mergers or consolidations so that all of those could be looked at at the same time.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Mr. Brooks?

ASSEMBLYMAN BROOKS:
Thank you, Mr. Chair. I thank you for your presentation. I just wanted to kind of talk a little bit about some of the things that were mentioned here. In this particular plan that I know that is being looked over based off the Governor's recommendations, is it not a possibility or a reality that something is going to have to be shut down? To try and cut across the board may not be the answer. I just want to clarify that if the Governor's recommendations—what we are following—the reality of it is we may have to shut down some institutions.

DAN KLAICH:
Thank you very much, Mr. Chair. Dan Klaich to Mr. Brooks. I think the answer to your answer has to be, "Yes." It is not, "Is something going to close?" It is, "What is going to close?" You can look at a rural site in Nevada where folks are not able to otherwise get higher education. That is a closure. You could look at combining programs or fully eliminating programs at our universities, and that is a closure. You could look at turning away students at our community colleges, and that is certainly closing the door. I understand the testimony that you heard from representatives of the administration. I will partner with anybody who comes down the road and I will do everything to work, but with these cuts, we cannot maintain enrollments at the levels that demand indicates. Yes, there will be closures. No question.

ASSEMBLYMAN DALY:
Thank you, Mr. Speaker. My question is fairly straightforward and simple, and I suspect I may know the answer already, but I, like many of my colleagues, ran a platform to try to improve education. I spoke the other night and I said, "I think we have a duty to first do no harm." To coin a phrase from another one of my colleagues, if the budget, the Governor-recommended budget as proposed goes forward, will it do anything to improve education and the Nevada System of Higher Education in this state? I think a simple yes or no answer would suffice and speak volumes as to the discussion here tonight. Thank you.

DAN KLAICH:
Not in the short run, Mr. Daly.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Thank you. Mr. Kirner?

ASSEMBLYMAN KIRNER:
Thank you, Mr. Chair. Chancellor, I am going through some things in my head here. You had mentioned, and I would not disagree with you, that we will need more graduates going forward, particularly if we want to attract quality businesses to the state. I have heard, and so I would ask you to correct me, that we graduate from the university system—I am not worried about graduation rates at the community colleges but at the university level—about 50 percent, give or take, I think it is after six years. Then I heard on top of that that only half of those—so that would be 25 percent of our students who start—six years later have a job. Am I clear enough in my question? I guess what I want to know is, are those kind of numbers accurate? I guess where I am headed with this thing is, is access the real issue? Or is the issue how do we get these young people—and I say "young people," but I do know that the average age is probably a little bit older—are we getting these people through school?

DAN KLAICH:

Mr. Chair to Mr. Kirner. I am not going to sit here to you and say to you that our graduation rates are acceptable. I will tell you that over the past five years, our graduation numbers have increased significantly not simply as a result of enrollment growth. Our year-to-year persistent levels are going up. We are doing better and we are committed to better graduation rates, but I am not going to tell you that they are acceptable. I have clearly indicated to the presidents of each of our institutions that their graduation rates are unacceptable and that their performance is going to be graded in part on improving those. That is exactly one of the reasons for our participation in the Complete College America consortium, and we have set specific goals with respect to additional degree attainment in each of our institutions.

With respect to the portion of your question regarding employment after graduation, I do not have that data from Division Department of Employment, Training and Rehabilitation (DETR), but if we can get it, we will provide it to your staff. I am sorry, I just do not have that data.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Mr. Ohrenschall?

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

Thank you very much, Mr. Chairman. Like you and the Majority Leader, I am also a product of our Nevada System of Higher Education. I think two of the proudest days of my life were when I graduated from UNLV and when I graduated with my law degree. I am troubled by the projection that 19,000 students might not have that opportunity. I have two questions for the Chancellor. First of all, of those 19,000 students, do you have any guess as to how many might have the resources to go out of state to pursue their education? My second question is sort of a follow-up from the Majority Leader's question. I know that private fundraising is important to all of our institutions in NSHE. Is it your experience that when a state dramatically slashes its support for its public institutions, does private support fall as well when they see that the government is turning its back on the institutions? Thank you.

DAN KLAICH:

Thank you very much. Mr. Chairman to Mr. Ohrenschall. I will not try to improve on what I think was the excellent testimony of Mr. Satre with respect to the second half of your question. I think that he indicated very clearly that in private giving, including corporate giving, that there is an implied promise of sustain, and putting that at risk by reducing state funding is extremely serious. I think in addition to Mr. Satre's testimony, we simply cannot expect private donors to backfill as state dollars leave. That is not what private donors do. I am convinced that there are not a lot of just real altruists out there that just have money that they want to give us. They want to do things with their money. They want to find programs and add a measure of excellence. I think the answer to the second half of your question is, "Yes."

With respect to the first half of your question, I guess you put your finger on what I think is the most difficult part of the testimony that I have given here today, and that is closing the doors. I did not work through college, and I am not going to sit here and tell any of you that I had to do one, two, or three jobs to get through college. The reason for that is that my dad, who grew up in Mr. Goicoechea's district and worked in the copper mines in McGill, got away, got a college education at a public institution, and broke the cycle of poverty in our family. I am fearful that for those 19,000 students that we turn away, we will not be able to break that cycle of poverty. It kills me to say that, but my choice is to come to you today, saying that we will continue to take everyone that comes to our door and continually water down the quality of education that they get or extend the time to their degree, which we know decreases the likelihood that they will ever get that degree. That's the Sophie's Choice we are here talking to you about today, Mr. Ohrenschall. I choose quality.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:
Thank you, Chancellor. Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I, too, I look at these proposed cuts, and I believe that they do a tremendous disservice to our constituents.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Mr. Hansen?

ASSEMBLYMAN HANSEN:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Chancellor Klaich, excellent presentation as always. On the budget graph that I gave you and passed out to my colleagues, just for the record, that is from the Legislative Counsel Bureau, not me. It does dispute the point that as our subsidy levels from the government go down, the private sector also goes down. For example, for the [fiscal] year 2010-2011, ours dropped down to $493 million, yet the total budget for higher education spending in Nevada went up to $802 million, a difference of over $300 million. If you jump back to, say, 2005-2006, we supplied $603 million, and your total budget was only $795 million. In fact, you guys have that huge ability to raise money outside of what we are providing. If you look at your UNR budget, too, for 2009-2010, 2010-2011, your budget last year actually went up even though we have been getting the impression that it has been going substantially down. It, in fact, went up quite a bit, even though our portion went down. Your ability to raise money outside of what we provide is apparently substantial, and certainly, these numbers conflict with what you have suggested. In fact, as we have gone down, yours have gone up from outside sources.

DAN KLAICH:
Mr. Chairman to Mr. Hansen. In a good part, I do not disagree with a number of the things you have said. We do have the ability—and I think it is clear that it differentiates the Nevada System of Higher Education from some other agencies—to get additional funding sources, and we have relied on those additional funding sources, particularly as state funds have declined. We have significantly increased fees over the past four years. Fee increases have averaged in the nature of 50 percent lower or higher depending on the institution on and the level. Yes, we have raised fees. Our self-supporting income in some areas—for example, dorms—has increased. We have that ability. I agree. Again, what we are talking about is we do not have that unlimited ability, particularly with cuts of this magnitude in this short period of time.

ASSEMBLYMAN HANSEN:
A follow-up, Mr. Chair?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Certainly.

ASSEMBLYMAN HANSEN:
An earlier question I asked to Heidi and Andrew was, right now, you testified, as I recall, in education that about 40 percent of kids from Nevada high schools that go on to college end up needing remedial courses. Obviously, the taxpayers already paid once for that. How much is the costs to have taxpayers pick up the tab on that for that remediation?

DAN KLAICH:
I am told by staff—as they had a little bit of time to scramble, Mr. Hansen, before I got down here—that the cost of providing that remediation at our community colleges is about $2 million per year for recent high school graduates. There is a significant additional cost as you have identified.

ASSEMBLYMAN HANSEN:
That, you said, is just for community colleges? Or is that for all of the Nevada System of Higher Education?

DAN KLAICH:
I think we discontinued about four years ago funding remedial education at the universities. The state does not fund any developmental courses at the universities anymore.

ASSEMBLYMAN HANSEN:
Very good. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
Mr. Chairman?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Mr. Conklin?

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
I request a point of order. We should not be referring to people's first names, Committee or otherwise. Mister or misses Mrs. is fine, but we know sometimes things get personal. We need to keep our etiquette.

ASSEMBLYMAN HANSEN:
Mr. Chairman, I apologize for that.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Point of order. All right. We are going to do three more, and then we are going to let Mr. Klaich up. Let us go to Mr. Ellison.

ASSEMBLYMAN ELLISON:
Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Thank you. I have enjoyed your presentation. There was a lot of good information that came out of there. In the rural areas right now, it has got the highest graduation rates out there right now. You could not ask for better. When they are getting out of there, they have got high paying jobs guaranteed. You cannot say that with most places, is that correct? So why would others take something to look at something that is working, putting money back into the system with a high graduation rate and guaranteed positions at high-paying jobs? That was one of my questions.

The other thing that I wanted to ask you is, we just got a couple of emails, and we are looking all over the country right now. They are raising tuition all across the nation right now. It is not just Nevada, and it is not a Nevada problem. It is the country's problem. Maybe you can address that, too? Thank you, again. I enjoyed your presentation.

DAN KLAICH:
Mr. Chairman, through you to Mr. Ellison. First of all, thanks for shining the light on Great Basin College. We appreciate it. It is a wonderful institution, and it does a great job of moving students through. As you indicated, for our community colleges, it has a tight community and the best graduation rate of the community colleges in our state and better than the national average, I might also add.

You are blessed with a pretty decent economy out in northeast Nevada, some of the students coming out of those classes do have jobs right away. That is not the case throughout Nevada, and of course, we are serving diverse communities where many students have to come back to retool. We are trying to balance those. As Mrs. Gansert said, the Governor is also involved in a balancing act.

With respect to raising tuition, I believe I tried to be straight with you. We think that if you look at the long-term horizon, the likelihood is that public higher education is going to have to move to a more self-sustaining model, and that includes higher tuition and fees. That is a national phenomenon, and you are correct in pointing that out to me.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Mr. Livermore?

ASSEMBLYMAN LIVERMORE:

Mr. Chancellor, thank you for being here today. I want to pose this question to you. About six weeks ago, the Board of Regents voted to take off the table the closure of any campus. From this building came a request several weeks later to revisit that position. If the presidents, who know their facilities and know their operations, are able to continue with the funding levels recommended in the Governor's budget here, then why continue with closure, mergers, or other reductions discussions? Why not give them the flexibility to not only take care of their campus within our community but look at the community itself and reach out and find a community portion?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Chancellor, I will take that one. That question has been asked and answered, actually, I think. You will all get the opportunity tonight to say how you feel about that one way or the other in the decision points that we have. You will have the opportunity to say which one you think we should suggest to the higher education system.

Mrs. Benitez-Thompson?

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BENITEZ-THOMPSON:

Thank you, Mr. Chair. I just want to make sure that we really are crystallizing, for the record, for hopefully the thousands of people who are listening and watching on the legislative website for people who might have missed the debate, without argument and without doubt, with this budget, qualified students who want to attend and enroll into our higher education system will not be able to get in. Without doubt, our best and brightest professors will be leaving the state because they are going to be recruited by other university systems who are going to get them better resources, better institutions to study at, and with those professors go their research projects and their grants and monies for those research projects out the door. I just want to make sure that the public is understanding this because when I think about it, I think Nevada can do better. I think we can do better. I do not think that this is our answer. I do not want there to be any confusion out there when this is said and done about what this budget will do to education in the State of Nevada.

DAN KLAICH:

I got to tell you, I really appreciate that question for a number of reasons. The answer to your first question, will qualified students be turned away? Yes. The answer to your second question, some of our best and brightest faculty, their grants, and their grad students—will we lose them? I will tell you, for sure, they are at risk, and historically, I can tell you we have already lost many at all of our institutions. I would like to say, "Yes, we are going to lose them," but I cannot foresee the future. I can tell you we have already lost some, and the best are at risk. I guess the last point you made that I really feel so very strongly about and why I have tried to be so obnoxiously graphic today is that I do not want to wake up on July 1 or August 1 or some other date and have a parent call me or a student call me and say, "Why did you not tell me?" I want to ring that bell here and in the Board of Regents and everywhere else that yes, they will be turned away. They will not get classes. I think Nevadans deserve to know that, and that is part of the reason I framed my testimony in the way I did today, Mrs. Benitez-Thompson.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Okay. I said we were going to have three more, and now I have two more members with their lights on. The question before the body is should those people be let to talk. Let us let the Chancellor up.

We do have the university presidents that are in the audience. Are there any members that may have a question of the university presidents? If you turn your light on if there is a specific question that you think you need a university president to answer, they have sat here all day. You do not have to, but if there is a specific question? Okay, perfect.

I have a number of people on my sign-in sheet for the Committee of the Whole but not a whole lot saying they want to speak—a whole lot of question marks. Is there anyone from the general public that would like to make public comment?

Good evening, ladies. Either one can go first.

LAEL PIKEL, STUDENT, UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA, RENO:

Good evening. My name is Lael Pikel, and I am a student of UNR's School of Social Work. I am also a native Nevadan born and raised here right over there in Washoe Valley. I am here today to say that as a student, I am willing to accept an increase in the cost of tuition if the revenue generated from that increase will stay within the university system and if businesses are willing to share in the sacrifice through an increase in taxes. Further, I recognize that higher education is a powerful, incredibly valuable, and commonly understated means of combating poverty and achieving social and economic developmental goals. Education and economic growth are inextricably linked, and I believe that it is imperative to invest in education in order to invest in the future of our state. As a student who is willing to accept tuition increases and a native Nevadan, I am asking you to consider diversifying revenue through tax increases. Thank you.

MARY CABALES, STUDENT, UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA, RENO:

Good afternoon. My name is Mary Cabales. I am a social work student at the University of Nevada, Reno. I am also the vice president of the Undergraduate Students Social Work Association. I intern for the Washoe County Department of Social Services' Child Protective Services, and I am also a local resident of Sparks, Nevada. My parents have valued education very highly. They stressed the importance of attending school to obtain a fulfilling career. Education will definitely prepare people for successful jobs. That is just common sense. Governor Sandoval's proposed budget will clearly affect the future of our state. Yes, we are facing a budget crisis that leads to dramatic cuts to our education system, but if it is at all possible to not cut at the maximum level, then the value of our education and the success of our state will take over.

As a social work student and future advocate for the vulnerable population of our community, I would like to express my deepest feelings on how important and beneficial social work is for the entire state, both here in the north and the south. Social services are in dire need now because of the economic situation, the lack of funding, and the continuing increase in our unemployment rates. Both programs here at UNR and UNLV have the highest potential to create social workers for our state and its people. I would like for you guys to consider our plea to save education and give Nevada a brighter future that it deserves. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:

Thank you, ladies. We appreciate you staying here. Are there questions? All right, I do not see any questions. Thank you very much.

Public testimony? Any other public testimony? There are a couple more people coming down from the gallery.

For the record, too, I see Regent Knecht is sitting in the back. He is going to submit his testimony for the record. I know he testified on the other side. I appreciate you sitting here and listening, but his testimony will be on the record as soon as we get it.

All right, go ahead.

LISA GIANOLI, BUDGET MANAGER, FINANCE DEPARTMENT, REPRESENTING WASHOE COUNTY:

Mr. Chairman and members of the Assembly. We just wanted to get on the record and explain the whole history of this tax diversion that is included in the funding of the higher education budget. I kind of was going to just take you back to 2007. The capital facilities money was diverted from Washoe and Clark counties at the level of 3 cents in 2007 because there was a need for infrastructure in the highway system throughout the state. That diversion started, actually, with just Clark being focused on, and then Washoe was brought into it near the end of the session. That tax was to be brought across to the State Highway Fund over a five-year period in 20 percent increments. We went along with that. Then, of course, in the 2009 Session, we went through the entire 5 cents being diverted and along with 4 cents in operating to get through the biennium with the understanding that would be sunset. Here we are today with the potential of that money being diverted permanently from the county. I think the understanding of how much of an impact that is to Washoe County is significant. It is a tremendous amount of money. It is cutting into essential services that we are mandated by law to provide, and I just feel that needs to be put on the record as a part of this discussion. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Go ahead.

CONSTANCE BROOKS, SENIOR MANAGEMENT ANALYST, CLARK COUNTY:
Thank you, Mr. Chair, members of the Assembly Committee of the Whole. Given the late hour, my remarks will be very brief. We felt it important to get on the record what the monetary impact would be for Clark County and, in particular, for the 900,000 residents that we have in unincorporated Clark County. Over the biennium, the 9-cent diversion of property tax revenue would be approximately $117 million. Of that 9 cents, 4 cents is dedicated toward services for the indigent in the Social Services Department as well as within Child Welfare. In particular, with social services, as you can imagine, there is a significant increase in the demand for services as a result of the economic crisis that we are all facing. While we understand and value shared sacrifice, we would like for you to fully understand what we have faced as a result of the previous 9-cent diversion and what we will face in the coming months and years. With that, I am available for any questions. Thank you.

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
Questions from the body? All right, you are getting off easy. I do not see any questions.
Any further public comment? All right, I am not seeing any further public comment.
I guess there are several questions before the body from the decision points in the presentation that you received on the work session. The first question, I believe, before the body is, does the Committee wish to decrease the state's support for higher education by 27.3 percent, or $320 million, as proposed in the Governor's recommended BBudget? A green button would be, "Yes, you do." A red button would be, "No, you do not."

[There were 16 yays and 26 nays]

All right, perfect. Thank you. The second question before the body, then, would be: The Governor's budget is recommending to redirect $121.3 million in property tax revenue from only Clark and Washoe counties for the 2011-2013 biennium to support UNLV and UNR. These redirected property taxes would replace or supplant higher education funding from the General Fund. Do you support the Governor's recommendation to redirect these funds? A green would be, "Yes." A red would be, "No."

[There were 16 yays, 25 nays, and one not voting]

All right. The third question before the body: If there has to be cuts—and the NSHE has had two proposals. They have said they are considering two ways to deal with the proposed higher education budget cuts. The first, as we heard, would be to reduce the expenditures and operating expenditures across all institutions in instructional, student services, and academic support. The second scenario would be to consider closure and/or consolidation of some of the institutions in order to preserve core academic programs where they are most needed. Obviously, the Board of Regents makes these decisions, but does the Committee wish to express their support for the Board of Regents for Scenario 1 or Scenario 2? Scenario 1 being cuts across the board; that would be the green light. Scenario 2 being consolidation and/or closures being the red light.

[There were 17 votes for Scenario 1 and 25 votes for Scenario 2.]

The fourth question would be: To address these cuts, the Board of Regents is considering an increase in students' fees and tuitions. The range is a low of 10 percent and a high of 15 percent. As just stated before, the Board of Regents makes these decisions, but does the Committee wish to express support for an increase in fees and tuitions? A green light would be an increase in fees, and a red light would be not increasing fees.

ASSEMBLYMAN CONKLIN:
Mr. Chairman, just for clarification: a green light is an increase in fees but not a specific amount?

CHAIR OCEGUERA:
The range that was presented before us today was between 10 percent and 15 percent.

[There were 18 votes for increasing fees and 24 votes for not increasing fees.] green (increase in fees), 24 red (not increasing fees)

Okay. The last question before us tonight: Does the Committee support the Governor's recommendation to reduce personnel costs by cutting salaries and/or laying off part-time employees to address part of the overall budget reduction at NSHE? A green light would be Governor Recommended. A red light would be something other.

[There were 16 votes for following the Governor's recommendation and 26 votes for something other than the Governor's recommendation]

Okay, that gives us an idea. Mr. Conklin?

Exhibit A is the Agenda. Exhibit B is the Attendance Roster.

Exhibit C

ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE
WORK SESSION ON GOVERNOR'S BUDGET PROPOSAL FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

Agency: Nevada System of Higher Education Date: April 22, 2011
Budget Pages: NSHE 1–113, Volume

Biennium Funding Comparison
The table below compares the total funding approved by the 2009 Legislature to the total funding recommended in The Executive Budget for the 2011-13 biennium for the Nevada System of Higher education's (NSHE) 26 state-supported operating budgets. The primary funding sources are State General Fund appropriations and student registration fees and non-resident tuition. Additionally, the 2009 Legislature budgeted $184.8 million in one-time federal American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) Education Stabilization funding to offset reduced General Fund appropriations. The ARRA funding was distributed among the seven teaching institutions. For the 2011-13 biennium, The Executive Budget eliminates the ARRA funding.

Funding Source	2009-11 Leg. Approved (Millions)	2011-13 Governor Rec. (Millions)	2011-13 Dollar Change (Millions)	Percent Change
State General Fund[a.]	$1,000.1	$740.7	($259.5)	-25.9%
Student Fees/Tuition Revenue[b.]	$391.8	$444.7	$52.9	13.5%

a. 2009-11 legislatively approved General Fund total does not include 26th Special Session (2010) reduction of 6.9% totaling $46.02 million ($11.51 million in FY 2010 and $34.51 million in FY 2011, excluding WICHE). If included, 2009-11 General Fund appropriation level would be $954.1 million and the 2011-13 biennium General Fund difference would be -$213.5 million or -22.4%.

b. 2009-11 Student Fees/Tuition total excludes $26.42 million in student Registration Fee Surcharges ($7.15 million in FY 2010 and $19.27 million in FY 2011) approved by the Board of Regents after the 2009 Legislature adjourned. If included, Fees and Tuition revenue level would be $418.2 million and the 2011-13 biennium difference would be $26.4 million or 6.3%.

c. American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) State Fiscal Stabilization Education Funds.

d. Existing property tax revenues from Clark and Washoe Counties pursuant to A.B. 595 of the 2007 Session and A.B. 543 of the 2009 Session reallocated from the State General Fund and Highway Fund.

e. $30.4 million in UNR and UNLV recharge revenues shown as interagency transfers in the 2009 Appropriations Report. For the 2011-13 biennium, the Governor's recommended budget incorporates NSHE's proposal to no longer use recharge process for operations and maintenance and to not reflect recharge transfers as revenues.

27.3 Percent Decrease in Governmental Support Recommended

As shown in the table on the following page, The Executive Budget recommends a decrease of 27.3 percent or $323.0 million in Governmental Support to $862.0 million for the 2011-13 biennium. Governmental Support represents General Fund appropriations, federal ARRA and property tax receipts. As noted, federal ARRA funds are not available in the upcoming biennium.

The Executive Budget recommends $121.3 million in property tax revenues for the 2011-13 biennium in the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) and the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) main instructional budgets. However, as shown below, unlike the ARRA funds which were additive to the budget, the addition of property tax revenues eliminates General Fund appropriation on a dollar-for-dollar basis. As a result, the addition of property tax revenues provides no net gain to the NSHE budgets in the 2011-13 biennium.

26th Special Session Adjusted Funding Comparison

The 26th Special Session (2010) of the Legislature approved two actions pertaining to the Governmental Support funding received by the NSHE for the 2009-11 biennium. First, the $92.4 million in federal ARRA funds budgeted for FY 2011 were transferred to FY 2010 and a corresponding amount of General Fund appropriations were transferred back to FY 2011. Secondly, a 6.9 percent reduction was applied to each year, which for FY 2011, reduced Governmental Support funding by $34.5 million to $557.9 million. The following table shows the 2011-13 funding levels contained in The Executive Budget compared to the NSHE's 26th Special Session adjusted FY 2011 budget.

When compared to the 26th Special Session adjusted FY 2011 funding level, The Executive Budget recommends Governmental Support reductions of $91.5 million or 16.4 percent in FY 2012 and $162.5 million or 29.1 percent in FY 2013.

Preliminary Budget Reduction Strategies

As requested by the K-12/Higher Education Joint Subcommittee, the NSHE provided updated preliminary budget reduction plans based upon two scenarios. Scenario #1 utilized operating expenditure reductions, while Scenario #2 utilized institution closures and consolidations as the primary strategies to achieve the budget reductions recommended in The Executive Budget.

Scenario #1 – Reductions in Operating Expenditures: Beginning on page 37 of the NSHE's response binder, which is available in the NELIS system for this meeting, budget reduction templates and narrative information is provided on the preliminary plans to reduce expenditures in the instructional, student services, academic support, institutional support and operations and maintenance (O&M) areas. As discussed later in this document, the budget reduction scenarios incorporate potential revenues that would be generated through a student registration fee surcharge of 13.0 percent in FY 2012 and an additional 13.0 percent in FY 2013. Surcharges have not been approved by the Board of Regents.

As shown in the table below, with the exception of UNR's budgets, two UNLV budgets, System Administration and University Press, the reduction amounts in Scenario #1 equal the reductions contained in The Executive Budget. The University of Nevada, Reno is proposing two different approaches to implement the budget reductions. First, UNR is proposing to disproportionately reduce General Fund appropriations for some budgets while limiting the reduction in other budgets. Secondly, in aggregate, UNR is proposing to take two years to fully implement the budget reductions. As shown in the "UNR Total" row, in FY 2012 UNR's cumulative budget reductions are $1.26 million less than recommended in The Executive Budget. However, UNR proposes additional reductions of $1.26 million in FY 2013 to meet the full biennium reduction. The proposed reductions are:

Note: The Budget Reduction template for System Computing Center (SCC) is understated by $5.00 in each year.

Scenario #2 – Closure and/or Consolidation of Institutions: Beginning on page 113 of the NSHE's response binder, information on the projected cost savings generated through staffing (FTE) reductions as a result of three consolidations (GBC and WNC into TMCC; NSC into CSN and UNLV; and, DRI into UNR and UNLV) is provided. The initial information provided indicates that the consolidations, in aggregate, generate projected biennium savings of $12.41 million. Not included in the Scenario #2 reduction total, but included in the Scenario #1 budget reduction templates as operating expenditure reductions for CSN and WNC, is the closure of 15 satellite campus locations. Those projected savings total an additional $2.57 million over the biennium.

Budget Reduction Impact Summary Tables

The following tables summarize the projected impacts identified by the NSHE on academic infrastructure (Table 1), student access and capacity (Table 2) and NSHE staffing (Table 3) based upon the Governmental Support funding levels contained in The Executive Budget.

TABLE 1 – Academic Infrastructure Impacts: As shown in Table 1, under Scenario #1, the Governmental Support funding reductions contained in The Executive Budget are projected to require, by FY 2013, the elimination of 38 academic colleges, schools, departments, or centers; 23 programs; 46 academic degrees; and, at least 2,373 course sections. No academic impact is identified as a result of the consolidations identified under Scenario #2. Attachment A provides examples of the preliminary academic infrastructure reductions identified by the NSHE institutions.

TABLE 2 – Student Access and Capacity Impacts: As shown in Table 2, under Scenario #1, the NSHE's overall capacity to serve student full-time equivalents (SFTE) is projected to decrease by 4,737 SFTE, or 6.9 percent, in FY 2012, and 7,891 SFTE, or 11.4 percent, in FY 2013. When SFTEs are converted to unduplicated, unique students (head count), the projected total number of students able to be served decreases by 11,638 in FY 2012 and 19,025 in FY 2013.

While capacity is projected to decrease at all seven teaching institutions, capacity is projected to decrease the greatest, in percentage terms, at WNC (40.4 percent) and NSC (13.5 percent) when the reductions are fully implemented in FY 2013. In terms of the total number of SFTE, the deceases are projected to be greatest at CSN (2,478) and UNLV (2,104). As shown, UNR's reduction plan does not impact student capacity in FY 2012 as a result of using non-state revenues to fund the FY 2012 instructional reductions and "bridge" (postpone) to FY 2013 the reductions which would otherwise occur in FY 2012.

According to the NSHE, since only consolidations are considered under Scenario #2, no additional impact to the institutions' ability to directly serve students is anticipated.

Related to the issue of the projected decrease in student access, the Joint Subcommittee requested that in addition to the above academic capacity information, the NSHE provide for each institution the number of unduplicated new and continuing students who were known to have been unable to register for a course for FY 2009, FY 2010, FY 2011 and the projections for FY 2012 and FY 2013. This information is under Tab Q5 and begins on page 158 of the NSHE's response binder.

TABLE 3 – Staffing Impacts: In Table 3, (following page) the projected impacts to NSHE staffing levels, by institution and by functional areas (instruction, academic support, student services, etc.) are shown for each scenario. Under Scenario #1, the number of FTEs in the state-supported operating budgets projected to be reduced is approximately 714 FTE in FY 2012 and 1,089 FTE in FY 2013. The largest eliminations of staff are projected to occur at UNLV, UNR and CSN, respectively. Full-time equivalent eliminations in the instruction functional area would account for 54 percent and 50 percent of the total reductions in FY 2012 and FY 2013, respectively.

Due to the large number of part-time positions utilized by the NSHE, the projected number of positions to be eliminated in FY 2012 is 1,050 and in FY 2013 is 1,497.

Under Scenario #2, the consolidations are projected to result in a net reduction of 103.5 FTEs being eliminated in FY 2013 in functional areas other than instruction.

Funding and Time Constraints to Implementing Budget Reductions

To implement the operating reductions required by the recommended General Fund appropriation funding levels contained in The Executive Budget, the NSHE has identified several operational challenges. Absent a declaration of financial exigency, the NSHE has a contractual obligation to provide professional employees with a 12-month notification of employment termination. Additionally, institution accreditation requirements generally require students be provided a reasonable amount of time to graduate or change academic programs before the program is eliminated or suspended. Several NSHE institutions have identified the need for "bridge" or "transition" funding in FY 2012 and/or FY 2013 in order to implement the General Fund appropriation reductions given the requirements noted above. As identified, bridge funding does not represent General Fund and appears to be non-state, one-time funds or reallocated student fees collected for capital and general improvement purposes. The following amounts are identified:

One-Time Bridge and Transition Funding Identified under Scenario #1 Reductions as Needed to Implement 2011-13 Biennium Budget Reductions

TOTAL	$ 19,425,947	$ 10,726,679

Fee Surcharges to Offset Operating Reductions

Included in the institutions' Scenario #1 budget reduction templates are projected revenues representing a 13.0 percent registration fee increase (surcharge) in FY 2012, and an additional 13.0 percent in FY 2013 beyond the amounts previously approved by the Board of Regents and contained in The Executive Budget. However, the Board of Regents has taken no specific action or given specific direction regarding a surcharge. If approved by the Board of Regents, the additional registration fee revenues are projected to raise approximately $19.32 million in FY 2012 and $39.75 million in FY 2013 net of both a 15.0 percent set-aside for financial aid and projected enrollment losses. Table 4 below shows the current per credit hour registration fees and the impact of the surcharges proposed by the institutions.

RE: NSHE Budget Reduction Plans

At the regularly scheduled meeting of the Board of Regents on March 11, and at the budget hearing of the Joint Subcommittee on March 22, both the Board and the Subcommittee, among other questions, requested budget reduction plans showing the full extent of cuts recommended by the Governor on a common template. The standardized budget reduction plans from each institution are attached along with the responses to your other questions. I have also attached to this memorandum a blank template together with a brief overview of the basis on which the template was constructed. I hope that this blank template will guide and assist you in your review of the campus budgets. In addition to filling out the template and because of the unique nature of each of the institutions, we did ask the campuses to attach additional information in narrative form which they believe was necessary or helpful to explain their respective budget reduction plan. We hope that this information will respond to two of your concerns regarding the draft plans, namely specificity and completeness.

Both the presidents and I have indicated on a consistent basis that the proposed budget reductions will dramatically impact higher education and, in particular, access. We believe that it is important that you understand that budget cuts to the level proposed in the executive budget will result in an entirely new business model for higher education in Nevada. We want to be clear in this transmittal that we do not believe that the recommendations, driven by the magnitude of the cuts, are in the short-term or long-term best interest of the State of Nevada. In the short term it will lead to greater unemployment and withdraw critical dollars from the State economy. The Presidents and I believe these factors and other intangibles associated with downsizing higher education will worsen and prolong Nevada's economic depression - not assist in its recovery. In the long run, as you will see, the plan will reduce access and opportunity to thousands of Nevadans either by limiting enrollment or pricing higher education out of reach. Again, both of these results will have negative long-term effects on our economy and the quality of life we all seek to secure.

One of the cornerstones of the NSHE's plan for higher education has been its commitment, along with that of the Governor, to the Complete College America consortium. That group is dedicated to producing a greater number of graduates and certificate completers in Nevada and across the country. While it is difficult to predict the future of this critical effort before our budget is finalized, should the level of cuts recommended in the executive budget come to be, it is clear that our continued participation in the consortium and its laudable and important goals will have to be re-evaluated. Our consideration for millions of dollars directed at areas of critical reforms will be impacted should we be unable to commit resources to this consortium.

We must be honest that enrollment in the System has been capped for years as classes have filled and fees have increased. It is time to be even more forthright about our ability to serve the Nevadans who want to avail themselves of higher education and the promise of a better life that comes with it. With budget reductions at the level displayed in these plans NSHE institutions will cap enrollment across the System. Enrollment caps are very difficult to implement particularly for the first time. I will work with our Presidents, faculty and students to bring recommendations to the Board that are fundamentally fair. We must be particularly mindful of low income and first generation students who are disproportionately students of color.

With this budget, we can no longer pretend that any student who is qualified to be accepted by our institutions will have access to classes, support services, financial aid, or a degree. In order to protect the integrity of our educational enterprise, we will guarantee only the following: Students who are admitted or enrolled at our institutions who attend full-time, maintain at least a 2.0 GPA, follow a course of study that will lead to a degree or certificate within the prescribed required credits will be guaranteed early registration, priority for need-based financial aid, and the opportunity to complete a degree or certificate within a reasonable time.

We can no longer guarantee admission to our universities or to the state college to any Nevada student who meets the minimum qualifications. In this biennium, with this budget, students will be turned away due to limited resources. We will use the resources given to NSHE by the state to educate the students we can with excellence, but we will no longer pretend that we either can or should try to accommodate every qualified student.

We can no longer guarantee enrollment at our community colleges for all who come to our door. The access mission of our community colleges will no longer be a priority for the state. Degree or certificate seeking students will be given first preference, followed by vocational technical program enrollees in areas critical to the workforce needs of the state. We will develop strategies to deal with this change that will include admissions testing and the requirement of a high school diploma, while still being sensitive to the diverse needs of our student population.

We must seriously evaluate the transfer mission of our community colleges in light of the above two statements. We can no longer guarantee that every student who qualifies to transfer from our community colleges to the universities or to the state college will be able to do so. If we promise our students a reasonably smooth path to degree, we must avoid upper division bottlenecks that could result from unlimited transfers. This is another significant change in our policy and may have a very negative impact on students, particularly those who cannot afford to begin their studies full time at one of our universities. Again, we are forced to prioritize our limited resources to focus on those full-time, degree seeking students. Implementation of this change will require discussion among faculty and students before making final recommendations to the Board.

We will offer classes at fewer locations. In particular our rural locations will suffer as the NSHE focuses limited resources on serving the greatest number of students. We will do our best with technology to continue to provide some offerings, but "live" classes will diminish significantly.

This business model will require that we fully evaluate policies as they impact the many part-time students in our System who, because of their personal and family circumstances, cannot attend full-time. Naturally, we will do our best to accommodate these worthy students, many working and supporting families as they improve their skills, but they will be impacted as restricted resources require tighter enrollment management and planning.

We anticipate a drop in enrollment in excess 15% over the biennium, based on program elimination, site closures, fewer numbers of classes offered, increased fees, and inadequate tutoring and support services. Until resources improve this drop will be a cap on future enrollment. We anticipate that more than 20,000 qualified students (more than 8300 FTE's) who wish to take advantage of higher education will be turned away, students who will likely leave to attend postsecondary institutions in other states and who will be unlikely to return to Nevada.

We cannot guarantee adequate financial aid for students based on need, but will work hard to provide such aid for as many students as possible. Again, priority will be given to full-time, degree-seeking and certificate-seeking students.

Research and workforce grants in the state will in all likelihood decline as resources for matching funds dry up and as our best and most entrepreneurial faculty are "cherry picked" by other institutions across the nation. As we have consistently advised policymakers, this selective destruction of our best faculty – being picked off by institutions and states where the future seems more stable and supportive - has already begun and should be expected to accelerate. The impact will not only limit the expansion that innovative research can foster, but will negatively impact our leveraging capability by reducing the revenues that our research institutions can generate to help themselves produce budget support. The loss of tenured faculty from UNLV and UNR will also decrease access to upper division course work and graduate programs. We pledge our best efforts to work with private businesses and the State economic development infrastructure, but we want to be clear that supporting new business initiatives while retrenching across the board is an oxymoron. We will work closely with all interested parties to align our programs wherever possible to provide such support.

We know that many of the difficult decisions we are forced to make will bring out constituent voices who object to center, program and institutional closures and consolidations. Every such action is taken with a strong awareness that we are losing a program valuable to Nevada that may never return. There are no good choices here. While we will continue to do our best to protect our core missions, let me be clear that our institutions are at risk and now under siege, slowly being dismantled.

Throughout this process, I have promised to be honest with you. I have told you that we will not say something or put something before you that we are not prepared to do. This memorandum tells you clearly what we are required to do given the funding levels being discussed. The Presidents and I know that the picture and plan for higher education laid out in this memorandum is bad for Nevada and hope that we can work together to avoid or at a minimum mitigate these impacts. However, with the funds that appear to be available, we believe that these steps are essential if we are to maintain quality in the education we offer Nevadans.

MEMORANDUM

DATE: March 27, 2011

TO: Daniel Klaich, Chancellor
Nevada System of Higher Education

FROM: Alex Haartz, Program Analyst
Fiscal Analysis Division

SUBJECT: March 22, 2011, Budget Hearing Follow-up

Chancellor Klaich, thank you for your testimony at the March 22, 2011, budget hearing. As you will recall, during the hearing, the Subcommittee identified specific issues, including 2011-13 biennium budget reduction plans, for which additional information was requested. I would appreciate your assistance in obtaining responses to the following questions.

1. NSHE System Efficiency Improvements: During the hearing, the Board of Regents' Efficiency and Effectiveness Initiative was cited along with the System's request that any General Fund appropriation-supported cost savings generated through efficiencies be retained by the institutions for purposes of funding instructional costs. This office would appreciate receiving a copy of the analysis to be presented to the Board of Regents in order to better understand the magnitude of potential General Fund appropriation savings and how those savings might offset reductions to the instructional and student services functional areas.

2. Budget Reduction Scenarios: Utilizing a standardized template, the Subcommittee requested that the NSHE provide two budget reduction scenarios for each institution (and budget account). Narrative information explaining the information contained in the templates as well as the benefits and drawbacks of each scenario was also requested. The first scenario should expand upon the preliminary budget reduction plans already developed. To minimize the impacts to academic/instructional areas, the second scenario should utilize the closure and/or consolidation of NSHE institutions as the primary strategy to achieve the recommended General Fund appropriation reductions.

   In order to understand the full impact of the Governor's recommended budget reductions, the Subcommittee requested the scenarios meet the following criteria:

   - The General Fund appropriation reductions identified by each institution should total to the General Fund reductions recommended by the Governor;

- If new registration fee surcharge revenues are proposed to offset General Fund reductions, the template should clearly account for the new revenues. The associated percentage increase should also be clearly stated. Likewise, if additional student fee revenues are projected as a result of enrollment projection changes when compared to the enrollment revenues included in The Executive Budget, these additional revenues should also be clearly identified;
- If existing academic departments, programs and degrees are proposed to be eliminated to meet the budgeted reductions, each should be clearly identified. For each proposed academic or instructional reduction, clearly identify the projected number of student FTEs impacted as well as the projected number of professional and classified FTE impacted. The number of part-time instructional staff and graduate assistants impacted also should be identified;
- If existing administrative and support infrastructure and functions are proposed to be eliminated to meet the budgeted reductions, each should be clearly identified. Identify the number of professional and classified FTE impacted;
- If satellite locations are proposed for closure, identify the associated number of staff FTEs and student FTEs projected to be impacted.

In addition to the two scenarios, the Subcommittee indicated that if NSHE identified a third scenario, information on that scenario should also be provided.

3. Reform Plan for Administrative, Operational and Academic/Curricular Areas: The Subcommittee requested that the NSHE provide a plan to reform the administrative, operational and academic/curricular areas of the NSHE institutions. To the extent appropriate, reform strategies should be incorporated into the scenarios.

4. Alignment of NSHE Workforce Development Efforts with State Economic Development Goals: The Subcommittee requested that information be provided on the workforce development activities NSHE institutions are currently undertaking and how those efforts align with the economic development goals being discussed by the Governor and the 2011 Legislature.

5. Projected Impacts to Student Access: The testimony provided by the NSHE institution Presidents indicated that the General Fund appropriation funding levels contained in The Executive Budget would result in reduced access overall and reduced availability of classes in particular. To better understand the projected impact of the Governor's recommended budget on prospective and current students in the 2011-13 biennium, the Subcommittee requested that the NSHE provide information which quantifies current access limits encountered by students and the access limits or impacts projected to occur at the funding levels recommended by the Governor.

   To the extent that data is available for FY 2009, FY 2010 and FY 2011, for each teaching institution, please provide the total number of unduplicated students for two broad categories of students: new students who were unable to register for a particular course; and enrolled, continuing students who were unable to register as a result of the particular course or course sections already reaching the maximum number of registrants. Additionally, if available, please provide the total number of instances in which unsuccessful course registrations occurred for FY 2009, FY 2010 and FY 2011. For each institution, please portray the information in the table format shown below with accompanying narrative or notes which explain the information. Finally, if possible, please quantify the projected impacts that the Governor's recommended budget reductions will have on graduation rates and the average length of time to graduation.

6. Per Student FTE Funding: The Subcommittee requested the General Fund appropriation funding level per student FTE for each NSHE institution. For each NSHE instructional budget account (excluding the professional schools), please provide this information for FY 2010 (actual), FY 2011 (projected) and as recommended in The Executive Budget for FY 2012 and FY 2013. Additionally, please provide this same information based upon the total funding contained in the budget. Finally, for the same time period and for each institution, please provide the total instruction functional area expenditures by student FTE. For UNR and UNLV, the Subcommittee requested that the information be separated for undergraduate and graduate student FTE.

7. Reorganization and Funding of Intercollegiate Athletics, Statewide Programs and Business Centers: The Subcommittee requested that the NSHE prepare scenarios for UNR and UNLV through which the existing budget accounts for intercollegiate athletics, statewide programs and the business centers would be eliminated and the recommended funding incorporated into each university's main instructional budget. The requested scenarios should identify any proposed change to the expenditure levels recommended in The Executive Budget for each of the aforementioned areas.

8. UNR Preliminary Budget Reduction Plan: The Subcommittee heard testimony that UNR's preliminary budget reduction plan included reducing General Fund appropriations to the Cooperative Extension by amounts greater than recommended by the Governor's budget to mitigate the General Fund appropriation reductions budgeted for the School of Medicine. The Subcommittee requested additional information to understand the implications of UNR's preliminary plan. For both the Cooperative Extension and the Medical School, please provide information that explains the projected impacts of the budget reductions at the levels recommended by the Governor as compared to the reduction levels contained in UNR's preliminary plan.

9. Interim Funding Formula Study: As requested by the Subcommittee, please provide information on the estimated cost of an interim study of the funding formula and a copy of the suggested draft bill language to implement such a study.

10. Private Sector Funding Received by Great Basin College (GBC): During the discussion of Great Basin College's preliminary budget reduction plan, the mining industry's support of GBC's career and technical education programs was mentioned. The Subcommittee requested information on the types of funding and amounts being provided to GBC in support of those programs.

11. NSHE Health Sciences System Funding: The Subcommittee requested information on the organizational structure and an accounting of the funding and expenditures of the Health Sciences System (HSS). Please also provide an overview of the HSS's accomplishments to date as well as any future objectives.

Thank you in advance for your assistance. I would appreciate receipt of the requested information no later than Tuesday, April 5, 2011. Please also provide a copy of your responses to Cathy Gregg at the Budget Division.

RE: Efficiency and Effectiveness Preliminary Recommendations

The purpose of this Report is to provide the Board with the status of the Efficiency and Effectiveness Review, to ask the Board to take action on certain recommendations identified in the conclusion of the Report and to obtain the Board's input on issues and priorities as we go forward. Along with the recommendations, I have added a list of concerns that the Board should consider before taking action.

Review

Data requests were submitted to all institutions in the fall of 2010, followed by on-site visits with key institution and business center officials and employees in the areas under review. In addition, outside discussions were held with the Nevada Department of Personnel and the Nevada Purchasing Division. Research was conducted into similar reviews and initiatives in other states. Outside consultants have been retained on a limited basis to vet information and recommendations, including Guy Hobbs of Hobbs Ong, Brian Gordon and Jeremy Aguero of Applied Analysis[1], and Tom Akers of Akers & Associates[2]. In addition, Gary Ghiggeri, former Nevada Senate fiscal analyst, was hired on a part-time basis to provide critical assistance with this initiative.

This review comes at a time of great uncertainty for higher education, with the Governor recommending significant reductions in state appropriations to higher education.[3] In

[1] The Hobbs Ong/Applied Analysis initial report is referenced as Attachment 9.
[2] The Akers & Associates initial report is referenced as Attachment 5.
[3] The Business Center North operating budget for FY 2010-11 is $2,139,664. The Governor's Budget proposes a 28.5% reduction over the biennium in the Business Center North budget compared with FY 2010-11, which amounts to a funding reduction of $944,815. The Business Center South operating budget addition, all of these business operation areas have already experienced significant budget reductions since 2007. It is difficult to fathom how NSHE and its institutions, including the business centers and operations, can continue to do business in the same manner given the level of previous reductions and the proposed additional reductions.

Based on the comments and recommendations of the Regents, the Chancellor's Office will more fully evaluate the top recommendations and seek to establish projected savings from the initiatives.

At the outset, it is important to note that the departments under review are working hard with less staff. This review assumes that further reductions in staffing cannot be absorbed without operational changes.

Ongoing Efforts

The institutions and business centers have undertaken various efficiency and effectiveness measures in the last few years. Many of those initiatives were recently reported to the Legislature and are included as Attachment 1 and are also found on the NSHE website, pages 13-54 at http://www.nevada.edu/er/NSHE030311.pdf.

Overall Structure of Business Operations

Originally UNR, UNLV and the then Community College Division maintained their own business operations. In 1977, the legislature, as part of the appropriations act, directed the Board of Regents to establish one or two business centers and authorized transfers of positions and funds from all institutions and operations in order to accomplish the new structure. In response, the Board eliminated the Community College Division and established a two business center model based at UNLV and UNR.

The structure has challenges. The business centers were created to provide multi-institution services, but the employees report within the administrative structure of the two universities. This creates difficulty if there are disputes involving other institution customers, and creates at least the perception that favoritism/priority may be given to university customers. Other institutions are not involved in decisions about staffing and support of the Business Centers. For example, UNR reduced Business Center North staffing by about 23% FTE between FY 08 and FY 11 without any apparent input from impacted institutions. In addition, the multi business center model makes it challenging to implement multi-institution/system-wide initiatives, such as strategic purchasing, or to maintain consistency in application of classified employment rules, such as classification functions.

for FY 2010-11 is $1,839,443. The Governor's Budget proposes an overall 27.6% reduction over the biennium in the Business Center South budget compared with FY 2010-11, which amounts to a funding reduction of $780,691. CSN is not separately budgeted as a business center, but the Governor's proposed budget represents a 29.3% reduction from FY 2010-11.

While the business center model has largely continued in the north with BCN serving UNR, TMCC, WNC, GBC, DRI and the System Office, the business center concept has disintegrated in the south. CSN began establishing its own classified employee and purchasing functions in approximately 1996, so the only formal responsibilities that BCS maintains in these areas is for NSC, which is a relatively small part of the overall number of transactions performed by BCS. BCS continues to handle payroll functions for all southern Nevada institutions, and also maintains the primary administration of benefit programs for the southern Nevada higher education institutions.[4]

There is no easy resolution of these issues. The Chancellor's Office is not currently structured to undertake large scale business operations, and the creation of such a structure could potentially increase administrative costs. The System could likely undertake additional administrative oversight responsibility without much, if any, additional staffing in Payroll and limited functional areas of Human Resources and Purchasing. Alternatives could include some form of dual reporting of business centers to the Chancellor's Office, or phasing changes in operation of certain business operations. As another alternative to structural changes, NSHE could create more formalized policies pertaining to staffing of business centers, including addressing issues and disputes involving non-university customers, and system-wide initiatives, such as strategic purchasing.

In addition to the issue of structure, NSHE will also have to address related issues. For example, the business center functions are largely state supported, but provide services to non-state funded programs and employees as well. While both BCN and BCS report assessing a certain portion of costs to non state funded programs, strong consideration should be given to more directly costing and assessing a portion of business operation costs to non state funded operations to recover costs incurred for services provided to those non-state funded operations. Consideration will also need to be given to the use of such funds.

An additional complication related to efficiency and effectiveness relates to allocation of "savings." Although no specific cost savings assessments have been performed pertaining to any potential recommendations, any final plan should address the issue of an appropriate allocation of savings, with potential retention of some portion of "savings" to build the effectiveness of the business operations.

Payroll

The NSHE payroll function is administered through two payroll offices: one at Business Center North and one at Business Center South. The Business Center North payroll office has seven employees including one professional employee and six classified employees; of the seven employees, six are funded with General Fund dollars at BCN and one is funded with non-general fund dollars at UNR. There have been no reductions or increases to the personnel assigned to the payroll function since 2007. Business Center

[4] BCS and BCN also perform other functions for NSHE/other institutions such as risk management and workers compensation. Those areas are not included in this Report.

North issued 154,560 payroll checks in fiscal year 2010 which is a decrease of 1,954 payroll checks from the number issued in 2007 (156,514). The current total annual budget for BCN payroll office as of 7/1/10 is $482,862 in state funds and $60,514 in non-state funds.

The Business Center South payroll office has six employees (the department is budgeted for seven employees but has never been fully staffed) including one professional employee and five classified employees; of the seven budgeted positions, three are funded through the BCS general fund budget, 2.5 FTE are funded with UNLV general fund dollars, and 1.5 FTE are funded with non general fund dollars. Similar to BCN, there have been no reductions or increase in personnel assigned to the payroll function since 2007. Business Center South issued 163,742 payroll checks (includes direct deposit) in fiscal year 2010 which is a decrease of 1,503 for the number issued in fiscal year 2007 (165,245). The current total budget for BCS payroll office for FY 2011 is $445,860 with $171,890 from UNLV General Fund, $195,884 from BCS General Fund and $78,086 from UNLV Institutional (Other Funds).

The personnel identified as part of the payroll function do not include the oversight provided to these operations by the Controller's Office at each institution.

[a] CSN estimates related to staff that perform payroll related functions is included in the Human Resources schedule so that there is consistency in reporting as other institutions included these types of compensation functions in the human resources area. The chart also does not include institution personnel that may have some payroll related responsibilities at other institutions. The chart reflects seven budgeted positions for BCS, but the department has never been fully staffed and functions with six employees.

In addition to the business center staff, institution personnel are involved in the payroll function in terms of preparing and transmitting data that comprises the payroll. The payroll units review and audit the data for accuracy. Most of this data is created and updated through use of the HRMS software system. The HRMS software is limited in functionality. Significant payroll functions are paper based. For example, original signatures are required on many payroll documents, such as any "exception pay," and payroll may require such documents to be physically delivered. There is inconsistency between the offices on whether scanned documents are acceptable. Some institutions reported differences in the way payroll is administered between the offices, including the difficulty of administering one check where an employee is jointly employed by a southern and northern institution.

Although employees are encouraged to implement automatic deposit, and there is a self serve feature for employees to obtain monthly remittance advices and W-2's on-line, a significant number of employees still insist upon delivery or mailing of these documents. Legal restrictions may present challenges in mandating electronic receipt of these documents.

Payroll Recommendations

1. Centralize Payroll Operations

   NSHE is continuing to investigate consolidation of payroll operations. No clear advantages were presented of the benefit of maintaining two separate payroll offices. Checks may be printed locally if an institution has the necessary equipment or batched for overnight shipping to the institution. The advantages of a single payroll operation likely include consistency of processing and reporting, and possible reduction or repurposing of personnel. Further study is required as to what, if any, additional costs for equipment and facilities may be required to achieve a consolidated office.

   As an alternative, the System may consider whether it could process payroll through a third party provider, recognizing that an external provider may not provide the same audit function and level of service currently performed by the payroll offices. In addition, there would be challenges in processing "on demand" checks.

2. Emphasize shift to electronic transactions

   a. Eliminate delivery of remittance advices and replace with mandatory self-serve option.
   b. Take further steps to encourage or require direct deposit.[5]
   c. Encourage use of self-serve for W-2's.
   d. Where feasible, develop electronic means to process transactions.

   Mandatory direct deposit will require a change in state law, see NRS 608.120, and a change in federal law, unless agreements are obtained to pay by direct deposit at the time of hire. However, encouraging direct deposit by, among other things, only making checks available on-site at a central campus location may reduce the number of paper payroll checks issued.[6] Failure to provide a paper copy of W-2's upon request may be contrary to federal law, but again, employees can be encouraged to obtain their W-2's through the self serve portal. Enhancements to [5] As part of the Iowa Efficiency Report in 2009, the report estimated that the cost of issuing paper checks for those employees that did not sign up for direct deposit was $139 per employee, not including the cost of courier service to overnight the checks to the employees' location.

[6] UNLV/BCS indicates that its change to a central site location to pick up checks (instead of hand delivery) resulted in an increase in the use of direct deposit with over 75% of payroll processed by direct deposit in FY 2010 compared to about 55% in FY 2007.

the self serve portal design and content may be one way of encouraging these changes. Alternatives for payment such as debit cards for student and casual labor may be more attractive options for these categories of workers, although such programs may likewise face the same statutory/legal barriers as discussed in connection with direct deposit of checks.

3. Reduce the audit function performed by payroll

   NSHE could require the institutions to be responsible for the accuracy of inputting HRMS and other payroll data, thereby minimizing the payroll review. This could create additional risks of improper payment or withholdings.

Other more specific ideas for consideration in the Payroll area are found in Attachment 2.

Human Resources

Each of the institutions, UNSOM and the System Office have Human Resources Departments. In addition, in the area of classified employee matters, NSHE has three written delegation agreements with the Nevada Department of Personnel to perform classified employment functions, including Business Center North, Business Center South and CSN.

Human resource departments perform a variety of functions, including, among other duties, recruitment, hiring, training, compensation, benefits, grievances, discipline and other aspects of employee relations. The specific classified employee matters that have been delegated include recruitment, testing, training, classification, compensation, and record keeping.

In the case of professional personnel, most of the applicable employment policies are those established by the Board of Regents in the NSHE Code, Board Handbook and the NSHE Procedure & Guidelines Manual. Other policies may also be found in the each institution's bylaws and business procedures. There is some degree of discretion involved in interpreting the various laws and policies.

For classified employment, the employment rules and regulations are governed by state law and regulation, and are largely administered and interpreted by the Nevada Department of Personnel. There is little room for interpretation of these rules and regulations without consulting the Department of Personnel.

Human resource functions are often viewed as core institutional departments. In addition, certain human resource functions have significant "in person" requirements, particularly in the areas of recruitment, counseling and handling grievances/discipline. Consequently, it would be difficult to effectively centralize many of these human resource functions.

At the same time, much of the processing of human resource transactions is paper driven, with an extensive system of signature approvals for many transactions. NSHE uses the HRMS software system for most employment related transactions. The HRMS system lacks a number of transaction and reporting tools, such as electronic workflow and signature capability, that could lead to greater efficiencies and less reliance on paper based transactions. NSHE will be limited in more efficiently processing transactions without changing to a more robust software system. In addition, many benefits transactions require interaction with the Public Employee Benefits Program and the Public Employee Retirement System. For example, PEBP continues to require submission of original forms for enrollment and any change in enrollment. Increases in efficiencies and reduction in paper driven processes in these areas will require cooperation of these state agencies.

Some initiatives have already been implemented by many institutions on a piecemeal basis to address the software system limitations. All institutions have some form of software to utilize for on-line recruiting. Some institutions have implemented or are reviewing implementation of electronic new hire "on-boarding" of employees. In addition, the System Office is pursuing a contract that will be available to all institutions for an electronic leave system as a temporary solution.

NSHE currently has three delegation agreements (BCN, BCS and CSN) with State Personnel by which various classified employee responsibilities are undertaken on behalf of the State, and NSC has requested a delegation agreement. Of these delegations, BCN provides a variety of classified employment and benefit functions for UNR, GBC, WNC, TMCC and the System Office. In the south, BCS provides some classified employment functions for NSC, in addition to UNLV. BCS also provides some benefit functions for NSC and CSN, in addition to UNLV.

The Business Center North/UNR Human Resources Office has 29.10 employees of which 7.70 FTE are professional employees and 21.40 FTE are classified employees. This is a reduction in staff from 2007 of 10.75 employees of which 6.75 FTE were professional employees (4.55 General Fund and 2.20 non-general fund) and 4.0 FTE were classified employees (2.0 General Fund and 2.0 non-general fund). This does not include nine human resources employees(2 professional and seven classified) for the School of Medicine. The current total annual budget as of 7/1/2010 for BCN/UNR human resources office (excluding the School of Medicine) is $1,152,000 in UNR General Fund; $829,000 in BCN General Fund; $261,000 in non state funds to support BCN human resources; and $233,000 in non state funds to support UNR human resources.

The Business Center South/UNLV Human Resources Office has 20 employees of which 11.0 FTE are professional employees and 9.0 are classified employees. This is a reduction in staff from 2007 of 5.0 employees of which 2.0 FTE were professional employees (General Fund) and 3.0 FTE were classified employees. The current total budget for BCS/UNLV human resources office for FY 2011 is $1,012,767 in UNLV General Fund, and $801,395 in the BCS General Fund.

The CSN Human Resources Office has 17.0 employees of which 7.0 FTE are professional employees and 10.00 FTE are classified employees. This is a reduction in staff from 2007 of 3.0 employees of which 2.0 were professional employees and 1.0 was a classified employee. The current total budget for CSN human resources office for FY 2011 is $1,475,000.

See summary table below for business center operations.[7] As there are so many interrelated functions, a comparison chart of the human resources personnel at all NSHE institutions is referenced as Attachment 3. The Comparison Chart is based on Fall 2010 employee headcount data collected by the System Office and the Human Resource personnel identified are intended to reflect budgeted positions.

Human Resources Recommendations

1. Create a Unified Single Delegation Agreement

To increase consistency and create a more unified approach to interacting with State Personnel, NSHE is developing a single delegation agreement with the State for classified employment matters. The delegation agreement will be under the overall auspices of the Chancellor's Office, with sub-delegation of duties to institutions and business centers.

[7] The BCN/UNR personnel numbers do not include nine human resources staff for the School of Medicine. In addition, these charts are merely the number of positions identified in a central human resources office and caution should be exercised in comparing only the number of human resources personnel. Any assessment of staffing needs would require a detailed comparison of functions performed within each human resources unit. For example, at some institutions, academic departments may perform certain human resources functions, while at other institutions these functions may be more centralized, thereby requiring more staff.

2. Consider Consolidation of Limited Human Resource Functions

Further consideration should be given to whether certain employment functions can be approached more efficiently and effectively through centralized administration. The functions for further review include the following areas:

a. Testing. Administer classified tests and scoring on at least a geographic basis with locations in the south and north.
b. Training. Develop and administer certain required classified and professional electronic training modules, and centrally create other training modules for use by the institutions.
c. Classification. Centralization of the classification function for classified employees should be further considered, which could improve consistency and create a stronger case for NSHE specific classifications.
d. Benefits. Benefit administration could be considered for centralization, in order to improve consistency and interact in a more unified way with PEBP, PERS and supplemental benefit vendors at a leadership level. NSHE should consider developing a position to provide leadership in this area, or assign responsibilities to existing employees. At the very least, certain types of benefit information should be centrally posted by NSHE for all employees with links to available on-line resources (PERS, PEBP, etc.). At the same time, consideration should be given as to whether business centers should continue to be involved in all benefit forms/transactions submitted to PEBP and supplemental benefit vendors.
e. Recruitment. While most recruitment functions appear best served at the institution level, certain aspects of classified recruitment could be more effectively performed at the NSHE/business center/institution level if NSHE received authority from the State to have more flexibility over the recruitment process.
f. Employee relations. Discipline functions are typically more effectively administered at the institution level. If NSHE received authority to develop its own classified employment discipline system, NSHE would have to examine carefully the most effective organizational structure for addressing these functions.. Some thought should be given to creating trained pools of investigators and hearing officers in each geographic area to assist in the handling of disciplinary matters for all institutions.
g. Compensation. Further consideration should be given as to whether institution staff, after approval to hire by the appropriate business center, should be authorized to complete creation of an employment record for a classified employee without mandatory review by business centers.

3. Reduce Redundancy Between Business Center Human Resource Functions and Institution HR Personnel

There remains some level of confusion (at least at the institution level) between the responsibilities of the business center and those of the institution human resource personnel. In many situations, institution human resource personnel may work up the entirety of a classified employment transaction, such as a recruitment, new hire, classification or adjustment to pay, and then the entirety of the transaction may be reviewed again by the business center. Serious consideration should be given to whether many classified employment transactions should simply be administered at the institution level, with audit of a limited number of transactions. At the very least, there should be a clear understanding as to what matters are handled by institution personnel and which matters are handled by business center personnel.

4. Improve Efficiency in Transactions

A number of ideas should be pursued to reduce the number of personnel dedicated to processing transactions.

a. Eliminate Annual Contracts. Classified employees do not have contracts as employment is governed by state law and regulation. Student employees likewise do not have contracts. Classified employee and student employment compensation is established through a Payroll Action Form (PAF), which is merely an accounting/budget document with position and compensation. Employment of full-time and adjunct professional employees is largely governed by the NSHE Code and/or Board policy. Moreover, there is little significance to fiscal year contracts. Strong consideration should be given to eliminating professional contracts, or having professional employees sign one contract upon hire, with all renewals or changes (e.g. title, duties, and compensation) handled by letter (electronic) renewal. Further consideration should be given as to whether adjunct faculty employment can be processed without any contract at all. If the requirement of annual and adjunct contracts was eliminated, there would be a significant reduction in employee time devoted to processing employment contracts.

b. Review signature/approval requirements. Human resource documents should be reviewed as to whether signature is required, and the levels of approval that are required. Consideration should be given to eliminating signature requirements and reducing the levels of approval where appropriate.

c. Leave and Time/Attendance Software. The leave approval and accounting process is time consuming. DRI, TMCC and UNLV have developed electronic leave programs that extend to some employee/departments. The System Office and UNLV are planning to pilot an inexpensive leave and time and attendance module that may serve as a bridge until an integrated software program is implemented that will interface with payroll.

Other more specific ideas for consideration in the Human Resources area are identified in Attachment 4.

Purchasing

NSHE purchasing is a function of the exercise of contract authority, which has been delegated to the Chancellor by the Board of Regents. The Chancellor has, in turn, delegated a level of contracting authority to the presidents. The Board has adopted certain broad purchasing policies, but the most detailed requirements are found in the NSHE Procedures and Guidelines under the authority of the Chancellor. In addition, institutions and business centers may have adopted more specific purchasing policies and procedures.

NSHE purchasing is largely decentralized. Many individuals/departments have authority to make purchases with use of a purchasing card (typically up to $2000 per transaction) and subject to any monthly account expenditure limits. In addition, departments/units largely make their own purchasing decisions under $50,000, which is the threshold at which a formal bid process is required unless a competitive exception is granted. For amounts over $25,000, two informal quotations are required. For amounts above $10,000 and below $25,000, one informal quotation is required.[8]

The use of purchasing cards is critical to efficient purchasing, but such use also creates challenges for effective implementation of other objectives, such as strategic purchasing, supply chain inclusion and local purchasing programs.[9] In addition, there is a challenge in integrating p-card purchasing into strategic purchasing objectives because purchasing card programs are administered by the controller's office, not the purchasing department, at every institution except UNLV. CSN is still in the process of implementing a purchasing card program.

There are three purchasing centers within NSHE: BCN, BCS and CSN. The purchasing centers interact with departments/institutions in several primary ways. For all transactions in which a purchasing card is not used, each department/institution generates a purchase requisition which the business center processes and then issues a purchase order.[10] The purchasing center does not handle the payables/billing function, which function typically remains in the controller's office. For purchases over $50,000 (or construction projects over $100,000), the purchasing center is responsible for administering the formal bid procurement process, or reviewing any requests for competitive exception. In some areas, the purchasing center may have adopted a large scale contract that requires (or at least encourages) departments to make purchases under that contract. For example, UNLV has a contract with OfficeMax for office supplies, and the departments may save money if they routinely make office purchases under that contract.[11] Likewise, BCN/UNR has contracts with companies for office supplies, lab supplies, computer equipment, phone services and the like that provide for savings. In addition, each of the business centers frequently joinder onto other state and local government contracts, as well as national or regional consortium agreements. The Business Center North purchasing department has ten employees including one professional position and nine classified positions; of the ten positions, 7.56 are funded with general fund dollars at BCN and 2.44 positions are funded with "soft" dollars (1.44 at UNR and 1.0 at BCN). Compared to FY 2007, this is a reduction of two general fund supported FTE. Business Center North processed 5,294 purchase orders with a dollar volume of $123,894,713[12] (average of $23,403 per purchase order) and awarded 70 bids with a dollar volume of $14,932,157 (average of $213,317 per bid awarded) in FY 2010. The current annual budget for the BCN/UNR Purchasing Department as of 7/1/2010 is $728,212 in state funds, $145,000 in UNR/DRI funds ($29,409 from DRI) and $71,000 in non state funds.

[8] There are some differences in the bid thresholds at the institutions depending on the type of contract. Construction projects of $100,000 or more require a formal bid, projects between $25,000 and $100,000 require three informal quotations.

[9] An audit by the State of Nevada's internal auditors of the State Purchasing Division estimated "freed-up" administrative time of $380,000 if all state agencies fully utilized a purchasing card. This estimate was based on the State of Michigan's estimate of a cost of $7 more per transaction for non p-card transactions.

[10] For smaller purchases that are not purchased through p-card, the transaction may be processed as a payment request without the need for a formal purchase order.

The Business Center South purchasing department has sixteen employees including seven professional positions and nine classified positions; of the sixteen positions, 12.53 are funded with general fund dollars and 3.47 are funded with "soft" dollars (UNLV). Compared to FY 2007, this is a reduction of four general fund supported FTE (2.0 FTE each at BCS and UNLV). Business Center South processed 3,943 purchase orders with a dollar value of $54,381,714 (average of $13,792 per purchase order), and awarded 36bids/rfps with a dollar volume of $40,539,546 (average of $1,126,098per bid/rfp). The current FY 2011 budget for the BCS/UNLV Purchasing Department is $918,271 in UNLV General Fund, $185,885 in the BCS General Fund and $190,247 in non-state funds. In addition, UNLV also is responsible for administration of the P-Card at UNLV (at other institutions the Controller's Office has this responsibility). The dollar volume of P-Card transactions processed through the Purchasing Department was $14,661,000 in FY 2010. UNLV's purchasing department is also responsible for the administration of a fully automated requisitioning application, MUNIS.

The CSN purchasing department has five employees including one professional position and four classified positions (all positions are supported with general fund dollars). Compared to FY 2007, this is a reduction of two general fund supported FTE. CSN processed 4,097purchase orders in FY 2010 (average of $9,843per purchase order) and also awarded nine bids in FY 2010 (average of $156,420 per bid). CSN is still in the process of implementing a purchasing card program. The current FY 2011 budget for the CSN Purchasing Department is $423,000.[13]

[11] State Purchasing also develops statewide contracts for various commodities, such as office supplies. While NSHE may buy from such contracts, this is an example of the type of contract that may benefit from a multi-jurisdictional type of state contract during the bid phase.

[12] The annual dollar volume of purchase orders has limited utility as this number may vary significantly from year to year depending on the number of large construction contracts or multi-year contracts.

[13] CSN's average dollar amount per purchase order is lower as Limited Purchase Orders are still used for some purchases as the purchasing card program is still being implemented.

In addition to the purchasing centers, each institution typically has business office staff that assist with and review purchase requisitions prior to submission to the purchasing center for issuance of a purchasing order.

The interaction between business centers and the institutions they serve is generally good, but it appears that limited focus has been given to working with each institution to identify contracts that may reduce costs. There is no formal interaction among the NSHE purchasing centers (although interaction has greatly increased based in part on the supply chain inclusion program and this efficiency and effectiveness initiative), nor is there formal interaction with the State Purchasing Division on strategic purchasing/planning. The business centers do informally consult each other on existing contracts, and can also consider existing state and local governmental contracts to "buy off" those contracts if favorable pricing has been obtained. However, there are currently no system-wide purchasing contracts in place except in the area of software and supplemental benefits. Recently a system-wide software task force has developed, and library personnel are talking regularly about ways to more effectively purchase library resources that may be used system-wide. These are positive developments. In addition, purchasing units and institutions can consistently look to purchase from other applicable national, state and local contracts to reduce staff time devoted to new RFP's and preparation and negotiation of contracts.

Significant components of the procurement process are paper based, although BCS has been implementing pieces of an electronic procurement system through a Munis software system. For other business centers, they must rely on the Advantage software that is currently in use for NSHE financial accounts. The Advantage software is very limited in capability and reporting tools, and is not truly designed to function as purchasing software. BCS has implemented some portions of a software system that helps manage contracts called Munis, but there is no complete electronic procurement system in place anywhere in NSHE. This means that the registration of vendors, administration of bids and contracts, reviewing p-card statements, and processing purchase requisitions and purchase orders are all largely paper based processes. There is no centralized electronic database of vendors, although UNLV is working on a solution. There is no electronic payables system in place, although UNLV is close to developing a solution that seeks to use the Munis software in combination with the Advantage software to initiate electronic payments.

Purchasing Recommendations

1. Consider consolidating bid procurement

Administration of bids is a specialized activity and in many cases requires a significant level of expertise for certain types of bids (e.g. construction bids, technology contracts). Further consideration should be given as to whether the system and its institutions may become more efficient and effective by centralizing bid procurements and development of other large scale contracts that would also benefit from system-wide strategic purchasing initiatives.

As an alternative, NSHE could develop policies designed to require collaboration between business centers and other state and local entities, initiate more system-wide planning and interaction for large scale purchasing, and adopt strategic purchasing initiatives applicable to each business center/institution to more closely manage departmental/unit spending.

2. Consider decentralizing issuance of purchase orders

It appears that most purchase requisitions have already gone through business office/controller review at the institution level, and the business center functions as essentially an audit to issue the purchase order. Consideration should be given as to whether purchase orders should continue to be the form of purchasing authorization, and if so, whether non business center institutions should be given the authority to issue their own purchase orders for transactions under the bid requirement level (currently $50,000). Any such authority could come with an overlay that addresses strategic purchasing initiatives. In addition, consideration would have to be given about other responsibilities that would flow from such a policy change, such as terms of the contract, obtaining business license and insurance information, and the like.

3. Improve efficiency and effectiveness of transactions

NSHE critically needs a more robust financial system. UNLV is developing an interface to accomplish electronic payables through ACH transactions and UNR is working on an e-payables project to interface with the banking contract, but this is only a part of a complete financial system that would allow for e-procurement, consistency in data, ease in issuing financial reports, e-payables, and a host of other business related functions.

4. Look to external sources to improve efficiencies

A number of possible alternatives exist that could save money, including:

a. Converting fixed price maintenance contracts to time and materials contracts, typically with the same vendor or an equivalent vendor, with responsibility for management of the program shifting to an outside vendor. The State has a contract with The Remi Group to offer 26% reduction in equipment maintenance costs based on such a program. NSHE is currently exploring where that contract may be effectively implemented.[14]

b. Hire outside consultants to examine spending stream and identify savings.[15]

c. Hire cost auditors on a contingency basis to identify overcharging on contracts.[16]

d. Review and implement where feasible recommendations of outside consultants. The initial report of Akers & Associates pertaining to measures that may be considered is included as Attachment 5.

5. Emphasize strategic sourcing[17]

[14] The State of Indiana and the University of New Mexico are examples of other entities that have entered into a similar contract with The Remi Group. Initial reviews of such programs are positive. In addition, The Remi Group has a contract with the federal government. BCN has already initiated the program and has identified initial savings, largely in lab equipment maintenance. UNLV is still investigating where the program may be effective.

[15] The purpose of a spend analysis system is to extract, cleanse, classify, enrich and integrate different data from existing systems in order to pursue strategic procurement opportunities and targeted savings in key commodity and service areas. One of six "Drive to Excellence" initiatives launched by Minnesota's Governor Tim Pawlenty in April, 2005, included the Sourcing Initiative which called for a new organizational approach to gain leverage for all the state's purchases. Since then, the project has reduced costs of goods and services by over $250 million. The State of Minnesota contracted with TruSource (TrueSource has since been acquired by Procuri.) Again, absent a robust financial system, effective implementation of these types of measures within NSHE may be difficult. There would also likely be upfront costs for consultant services unless contingent fee options are available.

[16] State Division of Purchasing contracted with Chartwell Advisory Group to audit office supply contracts as entered into by the State of Nevada (effective March 1, 2010 through February 28, 2012). The purpose was to audit payments made by the State to determine discrepancies in paid amounts versus the contracted amounts. This is a revenue contract which did not require the Board of Examiners approval and was exempt from competitive bidding since it was for professional services (NAC 333.150). The net recovered amount (after the 35% recovery fee assessed by Chartwell as of January 21, 2011) for 2 of the 3 vendors is $227,140. The third vendor is currently still in review. The benefit realized from this type of contract is maximized to the extent NSHE has system-wide contracts for commodities such as office supplies.

[17] It will be difficult to quantify projected savings from such initiatives. In several high profile (and expensive) efficiency and effectiveness reviews that have been conducted elsewhere (e.g. University of

a. Increase strategic planning among business centers and with state/local purchasing agents to develop system-wide contracts on common purchases (e.g. office supplies, computers, furniture, telecommunications, lab supplies and equipment).
b. Draft and negotiate contracts that permit other institutions to later buy off the contracts at reduced price points for volume.
c. Pre-approve services consultants at negotiated rates.
d. Although BCN and BCS already post contracts and opportunities on web sites, NSHE should consider developing a web portal to advertise business contracts system-wide to increase end purchaser knowledge of suppliers under contract, and enhance local and MWDBE spending.
e. Link to applicable State of Nevada contracts and contracts of other governmental purchasing entities.
f. Create incentives to purchasing off of system-wide contracts (or disincentives for purchasing off contract).
g. Consider ways in which P-Card use can be increased, but tailored to require or limit purchases to take advantage of negotiated contracts (e.g. office supplies). One way would be to increase individual transaction limits to $5,000.
h. Consider policies that require more standardization in purchasing (e.g. computers, telecommunications, certain software, etc.).
i. Develop contract negotiators and procurement specialists in key areas as a system-wide resource.
j. Develop policies to address strategic purchasing policies to address aggregate spend issues (small purchases that do not individually meet bid thresholds but cumulatively constitute significant expenditures).

6. Invest portion of contract savings in strategic sourcing initiatives, recognizing that any such investment would have to look carefully at the return on investment given that it is likely that any expenditure reductions will primarily be utilized to support academic programs.

When funds are available, NSHE would be well served to dedicate more resources to contract management, negotiation and strategic sourcing, resources that may provide a significant return on investment.

Other more specific ideas for consideration in the Purchasing area are identified in Attachment 6.

California, University of North Carolina) estimates have projected, upon full implementation of such initiatives, ongoing savings of approximately 10% from total commodity and services spending (but excluding utilities, leases, travel and employee reimbursements). NSHE would likely need to hire outside expertise to evaluate our spending in order to develop confidence in savings projections. In addition, NSHE may be wise to be more conservative in its estimates, particularly given the lack of a robust e-procurement and financial system. In addition, institutions have already taken, in some form, many of these steps to reduce commodity and services contracts. For example, UNLV has identified several hundred thousand dollars in savings through various changes in purchasing contracts over the last biennium, which would mean that further savings in those particular areas is unlikely.

Administrative Structure

NSHE typically has very low administrative costs in terms of comparing the percentage of resources devoted to non-instructional areas. See Attachment 7. Further analysis of the levels of administration and supervisor/employee/student ratios could be examined in later phases of review.

Other Areas Identified to Improve Efficiencies

A number of areas were identified that could improve efficiencies in a variety of areas, including:

1. Electronic signatures. Develop and emphasize use of electronic signatures. Full adoption of these strategies may require legislative action.
2. Many documents are still hand-delivered. Prior to implementation of electronic processes, scanned documents should be acceptable to conduct most business operations.
3. Review administrative approval levels. All institutions should examine what approvals are required, whether signature is required, and clarification of the acceptability of faxed/scanned documents in lieu of original.
4. Internal Audit. The Board should consider working with internal audit to include materiality as factor in audit findings and should also consider cost/risk as a significant factor in making recommendations. The Board should consider whether audits should be more operational and less compliance driven.
5. Reporting. Evaluation of what reports are truly necessary, although creation of a centralized data warehouse may obviate the need for each institution to run its own reports.

Other more specific ideas for consideration are identified in Attachment 8. In addition, the outside consultants, Hobbs Ong and Applied Analysis, have also identified a number of additional areas for review and consideration in their initial review of the recommendations. See Attachment 9.

Specific Initiatives Requiring Legislative Action

1. In general, restructuring of business operations will require flexibility in the budget authorization bill to move funds and retain/allocate savings between institutions.
2. Mandatory direct deposit will require a change in state law. See NRS 608.120.
3. Statutory change to permit bid of architectural services.
4. Elimination of certain reports will require consultation with the legislature.
5. Exemptions of projects from Public Works Board management.
6. Clarification or elimination of any state approval of use of electronic signatures.
7. Changing performance bond requirements may require revising/amending NRS 339.025 for Public Works projects. It appears to be permissive at the discretion of the State Purchasing Administrator under NRS 333.360.

Request for Board Approval of the Following Immediate Recommendations

The Chancellor requests Board approval of the following initial steps:

1. Approval to further investigate consolidation of payroll operations, and if feasible, bring forward a specific proposal to the Board of Regents in June.
2. Approval to seek legislative authorization to reallocate budgeted funds between functions and institutions pertaining to the business operations under review.
3. Direction to develop policies to be presented to the Board to eliminate annual contracts effective FY 2012 for professional faculty, including adjunct faculty.
    a. Option A – No contracts
    b. Option B – One time contract upon initial hire
4. Direction to the Chancellor to develop strategic purchasing policies to optimize leverage of system's purchasing dollars.
5. Direction to the Chancellor to develop a single classified delegation agreement with the State.
6. Direction to the Chancellor to further study and bring forward to the Board a specific proposal to centralize bid procurement, decentralize purchase orders, and further enhance effective use of p-cards.
7. Direction to develop policies to encourage electronic transactions including electronic signature.
8. Direction to the Chancellor as to what, if any, legislative measures to pursue.
9. Direction to the Chancellor to further investigate and provide recommendations on changes to the structure of NSHE human resources operations.
10. Direction to continue investigation of efficiency measures based on the priorities indicated by the Board.

Concerns with Recommendations

While all institutions are supportive of some of the recommendations and many support all of the primary recommendations, significant concerns were expressed by some institutional personnel about any structural/reorganization changes. The primary concerns include the following:

1. Concern that the relatively small budgets at issue are not significant given the magnitude of proposed budget cuts and that System/Institutional personnel time could be better invested focusing on other areas;
2. Disagreement with certain criticisms of the current structure of business operations;
3. Lack of data to demonstrate cost savings and lack of specific proposals from which to develop cost data;
4. Lack of comparative data measuring NSHE business operations against other higher education or public agency business operations and recognizing that NSHE administrative staffing cost may already be below average;
5. Concern that System may have to add staffing to accomplish recommendations;

6. Concern whether any kind of dual reporting to System and an institution is workable;
7. Concern that most recommendations cannot be achieved without implementation of new finance and human resource ERP systems, concern about the timing of any such implementation in the immediate future, and concern over implementation costs (including campus costs); and
8. Skepticism about whether any savings can be realized from structural changes or strategic sourcing, and objection to directing any savings toward strategic sourcing/technology initiatives given the significant budget reductions proposed by the Governor.

Other Payroll Ideas

1. Have SCS develop the time summary reports in excel format on Xnet (the reports are currently available in PDF format).
2. Allow NSHE institutions to transmit electronic files to Payroll via email to reduce delays and "transactions lost in transit" this would not only include hourly time transactions but also copies of documents for exception based transactions.
3. Allow NSHE institutions to upload payroll batch files for review by Payroll.
4. Institute an electronic Time and Attendance System with the capability to interface with HRMS either real time or via batch upload. Departments are already able to do this at some institutions.
5. Pay casual labor and students through debit cards.

Other Human Resources Ideas

1. Online benefits enrollment.
2. Data Warehousing for all institutions – NSC and other smaller entities with NSHE do not have the resources to create and support this function.
3. NSHE licensing for CUPAHR (College and University Professional Association for Human Resources) Data on Demand – this may be more cost effective than individual institutions purchasing.
4. NSHE Purchasing contract for recruitment advertising – leverage system-wide needs for local and national advertising; e.g., Las Vegas Review Journal, The Chronicle of Higher Ed, and improve outreach under affirmative action/equal opportunity programs.
5. Scanning and imaging employee records. Reduce the need for paper retention of and transmittal of records.
6. System-wide training initiatives – Consolidate purchasing power to offer training on campus; e.g., Investigations training, managerial training, etc.
7. Provide smaller institutions and System Office with the option to centralize the EEO function to ensure investigations are completed in a consistent manner and to ensure the development of consistent affirmative action plans.
8. Centralize NRAT (Non-Resident Alien Tax) to provide one source of expert advice and common purchase of associated Winstar software. If this idea is pursued, we will have to address issues associated with the importance of on-site review of legal documentation and in-person counseling.
9. Equity/compensation of staff should be centralized to ensure consistency between institutions (cited examples of institutions recruiting away staff of other institutions for similar jobs at a higher compensation).
10. New employee orientation via the web.
11. Establish a position in the System office to work on PERS/PEBP issues; Benefit Director/Coordinator.
12. Develop better website links between employees and benefit vendors (RPA, Short term disability, Life).
13. Develop on-line training programs, such sexual harassment training.
14. Evaluations. Consider significant changes in employee evaluations to stream-line the way evaluations are conducted and to eliminate the requirement of annual professional evaluations, and/or change the format of evaluations to provide more effective and timely feedback.
15. Consider the value of continuing to establish salary schedules.
16. Standardize more business practices based on "best practices."
17. Develop category for non classified employees that work in soft funded positions.

Per review of existing NSHE procurement policies, procedures, and automated systems, the following "preliminary" recommendations are proposed:

Item No.	Recommendation	Benefit/Savings
1.	Re-register non-MUNIS vendors/suppliers	Eliminate duplicate maintenance of vendor tables through out the system.
2.	Allow other business units to use on-line registration system.	Capture consistent data.
3.	Review products/services for possible outsourcing opportunities.	Printing, travel, contract labor, and project management internal staff resources can be reduced or re-assigned.
4.	Set-up web-based contract listing by government entity.	Use joiner clause to save on bidding costs. May lead to volume discounts.
5.	Create preferred vendor catalog list on-line	Can reduce supplier sourcing costs and support negotiated prices in-advance.
6.	Implement supply chain inclusion sourcing on-line tools.	Can reduce overall diversity initiative expenses by using pre-developed state-wide tools.
7.	Develop centralized commodity coding system by using "key descriptor" field. Business units would not be able to modify.	Can assist with management reporting and sourcing/bidding.
8.	Review and evaluate the optimum number of suppliers to have under system-wide contracts.	Will reduce overall costs to maintained supplier relations by consolidating large spend items with fewer vendors.

9.	Require larger suppliers to implement "supply chain inclusion" programs. This 2nd Tier contracting can support our local small businesses.	Ensure that local small businesses are not locked out of the strategic purchasing initiatives implemented.
10.	Further review and analyze how streamlining the "formal" procurement function into one Purchasing Profit Center can reduce costs or improve operations. Each business would be charged for the services provided.	Can reduce the number of purchasing centers by one or two.
11.	Appoint an Advisory Group from the private sector. The business leaders would oversee the implementation process of the initiatives approved.	Ensure the strategy is implemented effectively.

Other Purchasing Ideas

1. Establish a central committee/group to determine which software should be utilized by NSHE. Also, establish a process where software that is developed at one institution is utilized to address similar work at other institutions. Have software used by institutions licensed and maintained centrally.
2. Use open source when feasible.
3. Streamline "sole-source" policies.
4. Increase the purchasing limits in the two main purchasing areas in order to help limit staff requirements.
    a. Commodities/Non-Construction
        i. Currently NSHE requires:
            1. $25,000 to $50,000 (2 informal written quotes)
            2. Over $50,000 (formal sealed bids)
        ii. Suggested changes to:
            1. $25,000 to $100,000 (3 informal written quotes)
            2. Over $100,000 (formal sealed bids)
    b. Construction Work
        i. Currently NSHE requires:
            1. $25,000 to $100,000 (3 informal written quotes)
            2. Over $100,000 (formal sealed bids)
        ii. Suggested changes to:
            1. $75,000 to $150,000 (3 informal written quotes)
            2. Over $150,000 (formal sealed bids). Note: This may require a change in NRS 338 regarding bid of public works.
5. Increase purchase amount requiring issuance of a purchase order from $2,000 to $5,000 (and correspondingly increase p-card transaction limit to $5,000) , particularly if purchasing card programs can be expanded to process these smaller dollar transactions. This could create additional risk exposure for improper financial transactions.
6. Develop system-wide purchase of anti-virus software and centralized team to apply patches.
7. Develop a consulting pool available statewide.
8. Statutory change to permit bid of architectural services.
9. Review competitive exception policies.
10. Consider adding responsibilities to business center operations. If the business center operations continue in the current form, consideration should be given as to whether those operations should have added responsibilities. For example, the current system makes the purchasing center responsible to issue purchase orders, but the institution is responsible for handling payables. Consideration should be given to whether the business center should centrally handle more business office functions.
11. Standardize more business practices based on "best practices."
12. Seek "Most Favored Nations" clauses in contracts.

13. Legal departments of institutions should work together to standardize certain contract language such as athletic coach contracts, and develop more specific expertise such as in tax and research compliance.

There has been a lot of discussion lately regarding higher education staffing and administration across the country. Sometimes the discussion has been productive but most often it has been the victim of incomplete analysis or misleading statistical manipulation. Such is the case with the recent "report" prepared by the Goldwater Institute and referenced by the Nevada Policy Research Institute (NPRI) that I am sure you all recently received and which was used to accuse our two State Universities of administrative bloat. While the report NPRI cited did in fact deal with that exact subject, the actual hard data in the report did not condemn Nevada higher education as was intimated. It is noteworthy when an independent third party uses empirical data that shines a favorable light on the Nevada System of Higher Education, and it is particularly significant when that same third party does so while attempting to make a very critical case against staffing and administration levels in U.S. higher education.

You have undoubtedly heard me say, probably many times, that the Nevada System of Higher Education is a lean organization and wondered how we actually rank nationally. The data in the Goldwater report, which are directly from the US Department of Education, speak for themselves.

If you have not yet seen the report, it is at (http://www.goldwaterinstitute.org/article/4941). While there are many innuendos and false conclusions in the narrative, the substance of the report is located in the appendices. I would call your attention to one in particular, and reiterate that it is directly from the Goldwater study:

2007 Full Time Employees Per 100 Students (Table A5 pages 7 of 8 and 8 of 8)

Employees/ 100 Students	Total Employees	Admin. Employees	Instruction/ Research/ Service Employees	Clerical Employees	Other Employees
UNR	17.0	4.2	5.6	2.9	4.4
UNLV	11.7	3.8	3.4	1.7	2.8
National Average	24.3	9.4	7.0	3.4	4.4
UNR as a % of National Avg.	70%	45%	80%	85%	100%
UNLV as a % of National Avg.	48%	40%	49%	50%	64%

In every category Nevada's Universities fall below – often well below – the national average for staffing to student ratios. The data for both universities, and UNLV in particular, undeniably show we are running our institutions with fewer employees. In fact, from that same table, UNR ranks the 28th leanest and UNLV the 19th leanest of the 198 institutions studied. But is this a necessarily good thing? Is it good to have fewer employees involved in instruction and research, for example? Is it good to have fewer employees in place to serve students in all the ways that contribute to higher success rates?

This conversation began with the issue of 'administrative bloat' and the Goldwater Institute's assertion that public subsidies to higher education, both state and federal, have enabled huge increases in administrative services that do not serve the students well. This is an impossible assertion to support in Nevada. Additionally, even though our Nevada numbers fall well below national averages in the administrative ratio above, I want to take exception to the report definitions which are constructed to report "administration" as high as possible. In the Goldwater study, 'Admin' includes such things as academic advisors, student counselors, and reference librarians. While I philosophically disagree that these are 'administration,' regardless of what you call them, they are, in today's world, essential to student success. We are significantly lagging in student support personnel. I am able to report that prior to recent budget cuts Nevada universities had, over the course of many years, slowly been closing this gap on necessary student support personnel crucial to student success although I am not optimistic that any progress will be made in this area in the near future. While the Goldwater and NPRI analysis condemned UNR and UNLV for incremental progress in this area, increasing the availability of these professionals to our students is not 'administrative bloat' – this is giving our students the resources they need to succeed.

Let me bring one final point to your attention. The data set that the Goldwater study uses is for fiscal year 2006-07. This was a special year for us in that it was the last fully funded year before the State of Nevada began budget cuts. Since then the NSHE and all State agencies have undergone a series of debilitating cuts that have changed the picture drastically. I am sure that updated data would undoubtedly show an even bleaker picture for NSHE as we have consistently made every effort to protect the instruction function – at the expense of other areas including student support.

Do not take this letter as saying that our ratios and operations can't be improved. The Board of Regents has mandated a comprehensive Efficiency and Effectiveness initiative, the purpose of which is to find places where we can save costs in our support services and reallocate those resources to the students – both in the classroom and in support areas.

I again reaffirm my commitment to you that not only is the Nevada System of Higher Education a lean organization, but that we are fully committed to spending our scarce resources in ways that achieve the maximum benefit to our students and our state. Every dollar we receive from the State of Nevada is added to the fees paid by students to provide the best educational experience possible. I hope that these facts, as opposed to recent spin, will assist you as you consider the very difficult decisions ahead for you and Nevada. The Nevada System of Higher Education stands ready to assist you and the state in our economic recovery, and I would welcome the opportunity to discuss any of these issues with your further.

Sincerely,

Daniel J. Klaich, Chancellor

Other Specific Ideas

1. Review efficiency of Board meetings regarding number of required institution personnel.
2. Develop culture of savings, including assessment of what communications/materials can be sent via electronic delivery, such as annual reports, promotional materials and holiday greetings.
3. Further consider whether campus police departments should be consolidated.
4. Consider designing a bonus plan or incentives for employees that develop cost cutting/efficiency ideas that are implemented.
5. Clarify and expand authority of NSHE to perform construction and remodeling work outside of Public Works Board, recognizing that some institutions may not have that expertise.
6. Look at whether savings and better benefits could be achieved if NSHE pursued other health insurance options for employees and retirees.
7. SCS should investigate a single data center model with disaster prevention/back up and perhaps various applications externally hosted.
8. Convert to 100% of electronic deposit for payroll and travel reimbursement. Mandate the use of electronic notification for payments.
9. Eliminate State Bonding requirements from State Contracts; the cost of the "bond" is funded by the using agency since the contractor adds this amount into the contract cost. The purchase of the performance and payment bonds should be at the discretion of the agencies and dependent on the size of the project.
10. Eliminate the following reports currently required by the System Office/Legislature:
    a. Transfer of Expenses from Non State to State Budgets after May 1st.
    b. State budget transfers over $100,000.
    c. Quarterly self-supporting budget revisions and additions.
    d. Quarterly fiscal exception reports.
    e. Quarterly All Funds Report.
11. Change current requirements for specific reports; update to require self-supporting budgets at $100,000 instead of the long standing threshold of $25,000 (Board Handbook Title 4, Chapter 9, Section 2).
12. SPWB exemption for projects, at the option of the institution where it has the expertise (SPWB would be the building official but the institution would have the authority and responsibility for the projects).
13. Reduce master plan updates (Board Handbook Title 4, Chapter 14).
14. Eliminate use of credit cards for paying registration fees (or institute a fee). Rely on other electronic options (debit, checking account, installment payment vendor, etc.), with the institution being able to keep accrued savings. Alternatively, charge a fee for use of credit cards.
15. Eliminate the current requirement for everyone to review and sign their monthly (non-cellular) phone bill. One alternative may be to develop taxable cell phone allowance policies.
16. SCS should develop as a "best practices" organization to convey knowledge and methods to institutions.

17. SCS and institutions should look seriously at cloud computing and other efficiency options, such as a centralized help desk, and leveraging hardware purchases, software and computer/network security.
18. Record retention. NSHE should adopt its own record retention policy and implement a system so that documents are routinely destroyed in accordance with the policy.
19. Develop a Centralized fringe benefit pool. DRI currently operates in this manner which allows grant funds to be more fully applied to administrative costs.
20. Common, system-wide chart of accounts should be developed.
21. Revisit Inventory Control and Sensitive Equipment Policies to raise thresholds.
22. Review surplus property disposition rules.

RE: Review of Efficiency and Effectiveness Preliminary Recommendations

Dear Mr. Patterson:

Per your request, Hobbs, Ong & Associates and Applied Analysis have jointly reviewed the Nevada System of Higher Education (NSHE) Efficiency and Effectiveness Preliminary Recommendations memorandum dated February 16, 2011. Overall, we found the document to be carefully prepared, well presented and an excellent example of fiscal responsibility. As we discussed in our recent telephone call, we do have a few recommendations and general comments regarding the memorandum and the underlying effort. This letter summarizes these recommendations and comments.

First, we believe the effort undertaken should be extended to other administrative and shared services within the university system. The memorandum focuses primarily on payroll, human resources and purchasing. To the extent appropriate, we would recommend extending this effort to include finance and internal audit, information technology and systems, fleet services (automobiles), building and grounds maintenance, legal, and other similar shared or organization-wide NSHE functions. In our experience these other areas may contain similar opportunities for efficiency and savings.

Second, we believe the report would be strengthened by including a review and analysis of generally comparable higher education systems. Respecting that NSHE is unique in any number of ways, exploring how administrative and shared services are provided in other states, caseload comparisons, allocation methodologies as well as average costs of services would provide a meaningful benchmark for the relative efficiency of NSHE and where other opportunities might exist.

Third, we would recommend that additional effort be directed toward measuring the fiscal implications of the strategies outlined in the memorandum. Not only would this provide greater meaningfulness to the overall conclusions, but it will also provide an order-of-magnitude ranking allowing recommendations to be compared against one another in terms of potential cost savings.

Importantly, we would expect that this costing exercise may reflect additional expenses during the implementation phase of some strategies. As such, preparing fiscal estimates that reflect near-term costs/savings as well as long-term benefits over a five or ten-year horizon may be necessary to achieve the desired end.

Finally, the memorandum tends not to consider the possibility of outsourcing all or parts of the services being considered. Perhaps these services can be provided at a lower cost internally; however, we believe the overall conclusions would be more robust if supported by comparisons to: (1) what cost NSHE currently incurs in providing the services, (2) what the cost would be if the efficiency measures recommended were undertaken, and (3) what the cost would be to have the private sector provide the service. Beyond just the private sector, consideration should also be given to consolidating selected services with other public sector entities where positive economies could be achieved. Clearly, this would be an extension of the previous recommendation to measure the fiscal implication of the strategies.

In addition to general conclusions above, we had a few specific thoughts regarding the memorandum's findings. They are listed below.

1. Developing a system in which payroll processing is streamlined and/or consolidated. We understand there are two payroll cycles for classified employees per month, while professional employees are remunerated once per month, on a different date. The resulting three pay cycles per month may provide an opportunity to align timing within the month or reduce one or two of the cycles altogether. While there may be operational or legal challenges in achieving this, it should be considered. Outsourcing the payroll function to third parties and/or other agencies should also be considered.

2. Consider centralizing selected functions within human resources that make financial and operational sense, including areas such as benefits and training.

3. With a recommended review of information technology systems included above, automation across all functions should be closely examined and considered. While some do not provide for such opportunities, activities like on-line training courses (e.g., administrative functions or employee awareness videos) could reduce overall travel times and eliminating schedule challenges with coordinating large groups of employees.

4. Technology-related grant opportunities should be sought out as a potential cost mitigation factor if investments are required in this area. The nature of such opportunities should be carefully considered to ensure one-time grants do not result in longer-run fiscal commitments.

We very much appreciate the opportunity to assist you with this important project. Should you have any questions or should you require anything further from us, please do not hesitate to contact Guy Hobbs at (702) 733-7223 or Jeremy Aguero at (702) 967-3333.

QUESTION 2

Budget Reduction Scenarios: Utilizing a standardized template, the Subcommittee requested that the NSHE provide two budget reduction scenarios for each institution (and budget account). Narrative information explaining the information contained in the templates as well as the benefits and drawbacks of each scenario was also requested. The first scenario should expand upon the preliminary budget reduction plans already developed. To minimize the impacts to academic/instructional areas, the second scenario should utilize the closure and/or consolidation of NSHE institutions as the primary strategy to achieve the recommended General Fund appropriation reductions.

In order to understand the full impact of the Governor's recommended budget reductions, the Subcommittee requested the scenarios meet the following criteria.

- The General Fund appropriation reductions identified by each institution should total to the General Fund reductions recommended by the Governor;
- If new registration fee surcharge revenues are proposed to offset General Fund reductions, the template should clearly account for the new revenues. The associated percentage increase should also be clearly stated. Likewise, if additional student fee revenues are projected as a result of enrollment projection changes when compared to the enrollment revenues included in The Executive Budget, these additional revenues should also be clearly justified.
- If existing academic departments, programs and degrees are proposed to be eliminated to meet the budgeted reductions, each should be clearly identified. For each proposed academic or instructional reduction, clearly identify the projected number of student FTEs impacted as well as the projected number of professional and classified FTE impacted. The number of part-time instructional staff and graduate assistants impacted also should be identified;
- If existing administrative and support infrastructure and functions are proposed to be eliminated to meet the budgeted reductions, each should be clearly identified. Identify the number of professional and classified FTE impacted;
- If satellite locations are proposed for closure, identify the associated number of staff FTEs and student FTEs projected to be impacted.

In addition to the two scenarios, the Subcommittee indicated that if NSHE identified a third scenario, information on that scenario should also be provided.

RE: Budget Reduction Templates

At your request we developed a standard template for the campuses to follow in reporting budget reduction plans to the Board of Regents and the Joint Education Subcommittees. There were minor differences reflecting the different missions of institutions within the System, but by and large the majority of the template is identical. There is one template per appropriation area. For your convenience in reviewing these templates, information is displayed in the following manner:

First, the current FY 11 general fund is indicated, followed by the Governor's recommendation for general fund by year, which results in a net reduction of the respective budget. This amount is the reduction that is shown at the top of the template.

The template assumes a 13% increase in registration fees in each year of the biennium, which is netted by a 15% reduction for need-based financial aid. FY 11 projected enrollments are used as the basis for this calculation, with slight adjustments for anticipated enrollment trends. To the extent that there is any additional revenue items included in a campus budget reduction plan, they are included in this section of the template as well. This section also includes a revenue reduction to the extent enrollments are projected to decrease due to these cuts with a corresponding loss of fee income.

The next section of the template displays the reduction in specific detail by function. Per your instructions, we have demonstrated in this section impacts on students and employees broken down between categories that you requested.

The final section of the template identifies sources of 'bridge' funding identified by the campuses to meet these cuts, recognizing that it will be impossible to realize the full amount of the cuts effective July 1, 2011. These sources differ by campus.

In addition to this template, which we have tried to ensure stays in a common format for your review, each campus provided a narrative that projects detail on specific campus impacts. As these impacts are unique to the campuses, we did not provide a specific format for campus responses.

Budget reduction templates from the University of Nevada, Reno

The connection between the University of Nevada, Reno and the citizens of the state of Nevada has always been strong. For more than 130 years, the University has served the state in graduating quality students, providing K-12 teacher preparation, supplying important educational outreach initiatives to Nevada's communities, offering applied research focused on solving practical problems, and serving as a major economic engine. The University has shared in the state's good times and tough times, and during this great recession is again sharing in the state's challenges and pain. Nonetheless, we have managed to make important strides in providing our citizens with results. Consider these recent accomplishments by the University:

- Record enrollment – 17,679 students, the largest ever, in 2010;
- Record number of graduates in the past year – 3,109;
- A 66 percent increase in the number of baccalaureate degrees awarded over the past decade;
- A record number of National Merit Scholars on campus – 38 in fall 2010;
- An 80 percent freshman retention rate, 5 percent above the national average.

This progress is now at great risk.

On March 22, 2011, the Joint Subcommittee on Education of the Senate Committee on Finance and the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means directed the Nevada System of Higher Education to provide specific budget reductions identified in the governor's budget recommendation totaling $162 million, of which the University of Nevada, Reno would provide specific budget reductions of $58.8 million. To reach the $58.8 million reduction, the University is assuming plans will be implemented for a 5 percent salary reduction as called for in the governor's budget, which saves $6 million annually, and $14 million in new revenue from increased tuition and fees, as determined by the Board of Regents.

This leaves $38 million in additional reductions to be identified. On March 7, the University announced $25 million in proposed budget reductions, many in support units where affected individuals have been or will soon be given notice. The remaining reductions are in academic units and these proposals are currently moving through a formal curricular review process. Even with these $25 million in proposed reductions, $13.8 million more remained to be identified and reported to the Joint Subcommittee by April 5, 2011.

Earlier budget reductions from last year were enacted with great pain and consequence, and the additional proposed reductions announced today mean that the University of Nevada, Reno is an institution much further at risk. Throughout these many months of budget reductions, the University has attempted to protect student success and the research capabilities of our campus. We continue to place a premium on both of these areas. However, the proposed budget reductions announced today dramatically reduce the quality of the University's core instructional and research capabilities. This latest $13.8 million proposed reduction greatly alters the University's trajectory in all aspects of its mission. More of the University's core instructional, research and service functions will be eliminated, curtailing overall quality. The institution will no longer be able to support its students with a broad range of quality degree programs in key areas to the state, and the reduction in course offerings will impede the ability of students to graduate in a timely fashion. For example, 1,600 students are directly affected by these proposed reductions. And, many more will be indirectly affected.

Further impacting student success, important support services will be further curtailed. At this critical juncture in our state's history, where families are at risk and improved graduation and retention rates remain a top priority, it is of utmost importance that we provide academic and financial support for our students, many of whom are first-generation college students. The proposed cuts announced today jeopardize the promise to all students that the University has the necessary resources committed for their ultimate success and graduation.

As Nevada's oldest institution of higher learning, this proposed round of budget reductions will ensure long-term harm to the University's aging infrastructure as much-needed maintenance and repair work will go unmet. The cuts mean that the campus' deferred maintenance will soar well beyond the $300 million already identified.

The reduction proposals announced today were identified after consultation with a faculty committee, the membership of which was determined with Faculty Senate input. The faculty committee developed a set of principles by which this latest round of proposed reductions was determined, and those principles are attached along with the specific budget reduction proposals. There is an important distinction between the budget reductions announced today and those announced in March: those announced today will be subject to future curricular review only if reductions of this magnitude are necessary following the determination of the state budget and related budgetary decisions by the Nevada Board of Regents.

The specific plan for the fiscal year's $58.8 million in reductions includes:

- Permanent elimination of 318 positions
- 1,600 students directly affected by proposed reductions in program and degree areas listed below

Consolidation of four colleges into two:

If these proposed budget reductions are fully implemented, the University's budget will have been reduced by more than $100 million over two bienniums or four years. Our campus will have eliminated more than 700 budgeted positions and more than 30 degree programs, and more than 50 services and programs will have been eliminated or sharply reduced.

It has taken more than a century to build the University of Nevada, Reno into an institution of service to the state. The University has always explored new ways to become more efficient, effective and responsive to the needs of its citizenry. Unfortunately, should the current level of proposed budget reductions stand, it will take years, if not decades, to recapture the University's quality and momentum during a time of increased economic and intellectual competition within the country and the world.

Assumptions

Budget Reduction Phased in Assumptions.
For the Provost's Area, on average: 20% of the cuts achieved in FY 12; 65% of the cuts achieved in FY 13; 100% of the cuts achieved by FY 14
For all other areas, on average: 75% of the cuts achieved in FY 12; 100% of the cuts achieved in FY 13.
FTE Reduction Students: Assumes that the loss of a student will result in the associated FTE plus the FTE of non-majors (including service credits) where the elimination of the department would result in lost FTE.
The rough estimate of FTE loss that have been projected in the revenue (optimistically) is 660 for FY 12 and 1,060 for FY 13
The losses in Non-Resident Tuition, in addition to those that have been experienced over the last several years, are assumed to be 10% of the FTE loss.
The enrollment reductions estimated above are optimistic and are likely to be greater than the estimate.
There will likely be restricted enrollment at the upper division undergraduate level as a result of limited upper division seat availability as a result of these reductions and previous reductions.
We will need to support students in impacted programs through all of FY 12, and in most cases through FY 13 as well. This will require an individual discussion with each impacted student and an appropriate agreement. This is important, but also required through our accreditation association.
Headcount Reduction Students: This lists current majors in each impacted program
FTE Reduction Students: This lists FTE for majors and service courses offered by impacted programs

UNLV

Cumulative Budget Reduction Impact Summary

Overall Context

Approximately 77% of our total expenditures are in salary and benefits and an additional 9% are fixed costs for budget items like utilities, facilities operating, leases and property insurance. The remaining 14% of our budget is in operating funds that support critical campus and departmental services. Thus, the major impact of cuts has been on positions. It is also important to understand that while there are budget cuts, there are also fixed cost increases to address above and beyond the budget cuts, including utility costs; some benefit adjustments (e.g. unemployment insurance doubled for FY11); faculty tenure and promotion increases; and other adjustments that cannot be avoided. For UNLV it is also important to note that while enrollment has not declined overall (over the past few years it has basically been stable, but there was a drop in FY11 vs FY10 due to program eliminations), there has been a reduction in non-resident tuition income, which has the impact of an additional budget cut.

Cumulative State General Fund Impacts

The cumulative state general fund reductions off the FY07 base budget and through the current FY11 budget are approximately $50M for UNLV (~27%). These reductions have been addressed in several ways, with the largest proportion coming from reductions in expenditures and therefore impacts on positions. A summary of those cumulative cuts and the way the campus has addressed them is highlighted below.

All dollars in Millions	Cumulative Cuts off FY07	% of Total
Campus-wide Budget Reductions	$26.1	53%
Budget reductions for other appropriations	$3.1	6%
Unpaid leave	$4.0	8%
Net fee increase - main campus	$11.0	22%
Net fee increase - Law and Dental	$2.9	6%
Backfill with non- state funds	$2.5	5%
	$49.6	100%

The current budget cuts defined by the Governor would be an additional $47.5M in base cuts by FY13.

Overall Impact of Cuts on Positions

In total UNLV has eliminated nearly 200 state funded positions during the period of FY08-FY11, and is keeping additional state funded positions vacant, to force additional savings. When you consider all funding sources, UNLV has eliminated ~540 positions (406 of which were occupied at some point during this period). We have eliminated approximately 190 of these positions through measures such as a voluntary separation incentive programs, notices of non-reappointment and layoffs. We project an additional 330+ positions impacted by the FY12/FY13 budget cuts. The position cuts up to this point have impacted about 14% of our staffing, and the proposed FY12/FY13 cuts will add another 7% to that total, bringing cumulative staffing reductions up to over 21%.

Summary of Academic Area Impacts to Date

The impacts of the cumulative budget reductions to date have taken a toll on all aspects of the campus programs and services. A total of eight (8) departments were eliminated, many faculty positions eliminated or forced vacant, our part-time instruction budget was reduced by about one-quarter, and we saw a reduction of approximately 1,000 class sections over what were offered several years ago, in part offset by larger class sizes. We find ourselves in a very difficult position because we do not have the resources needed to gain revenue by growing enrollment, but we cannot afford any significant reduction in enrollment, as this will have additional revenue (and therefore budget) consequences. We anticipate that many faculty may leave UNLV due to program loss, increasing workloads, and lack of merit or cost of living pay increases, and it will be even more difficult to recruit talent to Nevada. We have already experienced aggressive recruitment by other institutions, focused on some of our best faculty. Our current and potential future faculty and staff understand that there are difficult financial times in many other states, but they are waiting to see if higher education is identified as a priority for the future of the state of Nevada.

The Law School has had to limit all positions/faculty to the minimum, including library support, and have to rely on significant fee increases (94% increase in just 2 years) to allow them to maintain core programs. The School of Dental Medicine has taken a similar approach, although they have relied much less on fee increases, given they started at a relatively high level for public institutions. The School of Dental Medicine has had to limit faculty and staff to a minimum, and eliminate some of the outreach programs.

Summary Impacts for Non-Academic Cuts to Date

There are far less business and other service support staff existing for transaction processing, which has lead to longer processing times, and likely some additional future audit comments. We also see significant impact in our ability to maintain a reasonable research infrastructure: something highlighted in our recent accreditation report. Our "institutional support" costs as a percent of total expenditures (a proxy for administrative overhead) have dropped to the 5% range – well below peers and less than ½ of what it was a decade ago. We have, in general, minimum student services programs remaining, and we will not be able to maintain facilities as we have in the past. The Athletic programs have taken reductions, but also shifted some costs to self-supporting, to the point where there are revenue shortfalls arising in those areas as well. The Athletic program must make fundamental changes in what they support, in order to maintain a balanced budget going forward, and this is prior to any FY12/FY13 cuts.

Summary of Cumulative General Fund Reductions by VP Area Reductions – Protection of Academic/Instructional Programs

The budget reductions were not allocated across-the-board, as the President gave consistent priority to the academic/instructional areas of the campus. However, these cuts have severely impacted a support staff level that was already very lean. The cumulative state general fund reductions by Cabinet area up through FY11 ranged from a low of 12.9% for the Provost to a high of 45.3% for the President's office. We do not believe it is feasible to continue to put the greatest cuts on the non-academic programs, and therefore for the FY12/FY13 budget cuts we will have to take a much larger weight against academic programs.

VP/Appropriations Area	Percentage Allocation
President's Office	45.3%
Provost	12.9%
VP Research	17.4%
VP Fin & Bus	34.0%
VP Student Affairs	27.9%
LAW	19.5%
Athletics	19.4%
SW Pgms	19.2%
SDM	20.0%
BCS	19.4%

Impact on Grants and Sponsored Projects of Budget Cuts

General fund reductions have had an impact on the university's ability to be competitive for grants and contracts. Grant awards have gone down from $106,787,336 in FY 2007 to $63,344,515 (projected) in FY 2011 or a reduction of approximately 40.7% in grant awards.

Impact of Budget Cuts on Students and the State.

Much of the impact of the positions cut as a result of the budget reductions to date have been positions that support students and their needs. The lack of these positions at UNLV historically and the reductions to the limited number that were in place make these impacts even more pronounced. The situation will only get worse with the additional cuts necessary from the FY12/FY13 budgets. A summary of these impacts is noted below:

- To date, UNLV has attempted to serve students and maintain access, thus enrollment has only declined slightly – mostly a result of the elimination of graduate and undergraduate degree programs. Freshman enrollment and success/retention has been rising, creating an increased demand for upper division seats. The greatest impact of the cuts is that upper division class size has increased, making it difficult to provide the more individualized instruction students expect from their majors, and making it more difficult for UNLV to support transfer students.
- As noted above, fewer class sections mean that classes are larger (and at facilities maximums) providing less individual attention to students, which can result in lower student performance. Fewer sections can also have the impact of making it more difficult for students to enroll in the classes they need to complete their degree programs, impacting retention and graduation rates.
- Elimination of 36 additional degree programs will greatly limit the options for our students, and have a near term impact on the students in these majors.

- The reductions to date, and those we project in the near future, will further limit our ability to support an educated workforce for Nevada, and contribute to the overall economic prosperity for the state.
- Reductions in academic advisors will result in less advising and lower quality advising taking place either because a student will attempt to self-advise or because advisors simply will not be available. Lack of advising demonstrably results in student errors in course taking resulting in longer time to graduation, failure to retain, and increased expense in taking unnecessary courses.
- Reductions in the number of faculty will result in fewer courses being offered (especially at the upper division and graduate levels, where tenure/tenure track faculty are critical to the delivery of the courses) leading to increased time to graduation as students are unable to get into the courses they need.
- Cuts to the libraries will cause increased wait times for materials and will result in fewer books and serials being purchased and, therefore, available for our students.
- Cuts in Information Technology could lead to computer lab closures that make it difficult for students to complete their work in a timely manner.
- Support services and programs that foster academic success for new students and currently enrolled students at UNLV will be severely limited or eliminated, negatively impacting retention and graduation rates.
- Support services and programs for students preparing to graduate from UNLV will be severely limited or eliminated.
- Nevada already ranks very low in per student funding and these budget reductions and significant fee increases have further impacted these low rankings. Nevada students and their families, that would normally choose to attend a Nevada university/college, will choose to attend other places where these conditions do not exist. The significant fee increases of late, combined with the increasing number of "first generation" students may well have an adverse impact on access. Research has shown the implications of significant fee increases to include the following:
    - low-income students are more price sensitive than higher-income students
    - grants are a much more effective form of financial aid for lower-income students than are loans
    - grants and loans for higher-income students mainly affect choice, not access

Introductory Note on Process

It should be noted that the summary of impacts as listed below is based on one possible scenario developed by the NSC administration (based on preliminary recommendations from the Executive Budget Committee) in response to the Governor's proposed budget reductions. The NSC Executive Budget Committee and the Faculty Senate are currently evaluating all possible scenarios through a zero-based budgeting approach and an abbreviated curricular review process, respectively. It is possible that the actual reductions and positions eliminated will be different than what is presented here; however, the actual dollar amount of the reduction would remain the same.

The NSC executive budget committee drafted guiding principles in 2008 when the first set of budget cuts occurred. As a top priority, these guiding principles protect instruction and student support services. To that end, the first round of budget cuts in 2008 eliminated seven administrative positions (Vice President Multicultural Affairs, Associate Vice President CLASS, Dean Business, Dean Fine Arts, Director Applied Sciences, Director Center for Teaching and Learning, and Director Community Based Learning) and reallocated $887,256 from administrative personnel costs to instruction and student support. All but one of these administrative positions was filled and required layoffs. Additionally, 37 positions were completely eliminated during FY08-FY11 (10 teaching faculty, 15.5 administrative faculty, and 11.5 classified staff).

Due to the governor's proposed cuts for the upcoming biennium, the Nevada State College (NSC) Administration, in conjunction with the Executive Budget Committee, have agreed to address the proposed budget reductions for FY 2011-12 & 2012-13 by freezing all staff and faculty positions that are currently vacant and/or will become vacant after June 30, 2011. The result of implementing this strategy is that NSC will lose 13 teaching faculty positions, 14.5 administrative faculty positions and 4 classified positions as of July 1, 2011. The loss of such a large number of staff and faculty positions will force NSC to significantly reduce, if not eliminate, a vast array of course offerings and student/support services currently afforded to our students and their parents/guardians as they navigate through the college experience.

Impacts on Student Success

The Division of Enrollment Management and Student Services (EMSS) has ten staff positions that will be negatively impacted by the implementation of this "freezing plan." The ten positions include: three full-time Academic Advisors; one Admissions Director; one Admissions Recruiter; one Student Financial Aid Coordinator; one Administrative Coordinator for a middle-school mentoring/tutoring program; one Admissions & Records Specialist; one Coordinator for New Student Orientation/NSSA Business Manager; and one System Analyst. Each of these positions plays a crucial role in addressing the needs and concerns of NSC students.

As a result of the loss of the five positions in advising and recruitment, serious consequences to the effectiveness of our Centralized Academic Advising Center (CAAC) can be expected, including impacts on student retention, persistence, and graduation rates. Since the establishment of the CAAC two years ago, NSC's retention rate has increased by thirteen percent. The current cuts significantly impede the staffing in the CAAC and place NSC's retention rate at risk.

The majority of NSC students depend on student financial aid and scholarships to assist them in meeting the cost of attending college. The number of NSC students submitting FASFAs has increased each of the past two years. This factor has contributed to an increased number of students contacting the Student Financial Aid and Scholarship Services (SFASS) Office for assistance and direction in navigating through the FASFA process. The SFASS has four full-time professional staff positions, of which one is vacant with an ongoing search until the "freezing plan" was proposed. The loss of this position (25% of its professional staff) decreases NSC's ability to provide effective and efficient service to current and future students.

The Coordinator of New Student Orientation/NSSA Business Manager is responsible for developing and organizing freshmen and transfer orientation sessions designed to address the specific needs of NSC's student population. This position is pivotal to easing the transition and increasing the success rate of new students. In addition, this position provides NSSA with sound financial and business guidance. As such, new and currently enrolled students benefit from this key position which will be eliminated.

The Administrative Coordinator of the Crossroads Program directs a very visible and important middle-school mentoring and tutoring program for 200 students in Area Two of the Clark County School District. This program provides a gateway to students who would not ordinarily consider higher education as a viable option. The program offers resources and incentives to address academic and social challenges long before the students reach high school, while increasing their chances of graduating from high school and going to college. Without this critical position, these deserving students will not receive the level of service they require and have come to expect.

Currently, the Institutional Research Coordinator position (under institutional support) is the primary and official staff member designated to produce and distribute all official student data reports for NSC. Because of the crucial need for data mining and data analysis, a System Analyst position was recently funded that provides student services with data to develop, implement, and assess reports and programs directly impacting student recruitment, admissions, retention, persistence, graduation and post-graduation placement of NSC students. Since the System Analyst position is now frozen, much of the functionality of institutional research will be absorbed by the Provost directly with assistance from academic faculty. The loss of these two IR positions negatively impacts NSCs ability to analyze data and make critical decisions relating to the overall direction of the College. The absence of these positions will put NSC's ability to produce accurate and timely data reports for the purpose of making informed decisions at risk.

Efforts to Protect Instruction

In addition to protecting the instructional budget, NSC has also engaged in a variety of activities to expand student access and increase student retention rates. First, as enrollment has increased at NSC (40% increase in FTE in the last two years), the additional fee revenue has been allocated to hiring new part-time instructors (PTIs). While the use of part-time instructors is not ideal, this is the most cost effective way of increasing the number of students that we serve and ensuring that students progress in their degrees in a timely fashion. Concurrently, we have instituted a wide variety of quality control measures to ensure that our part time instructors deliver the highest quality learning experience. For example, we have completely revised our PTI hiring procedures to include teaching demonstrations, systematic review of sample assignments and group interviews. In addition, we have instituted online and in person professional development sessions, peer reviews of part-time faculty, course assignment guidelines, curricular guidelines, and detailed teaching reviews every semester for both online and in person courses.

Second, we have systematically increased our average class sizes. Between Fall 2008 and Fall 2010, class section enrollments have gone up 25%, bringing the average class size to 23.5, directly equivalent to the class sizes at the more established institutions (Office of Academic and Student Affairs, 2011). This increase is actually an underestimate, as enrollment at NSC has continued to rise since Fall 2010.

Third, the faculty workload of the full-time faculty at NSC has increased substantially. Between Fall 2008 and Fall 2010, our full-time faculty have increased their credit hours taught by 13%, from 11.4 to 12.8 (Office of Academic and Student Affairs, 2011). Note that this is higher than the NSHE-required 12 credit hour workload at the state college. If you examine this time period from the perspective of student credit hours being taught, the increase is an even more impressive 33.9% increase, from 214.9 to 287.8 (Office of Academic and Student Affairs, 2011). Again, quality-control is vital to a successful transition in this area, and NSC has made great efforts to ensure faculty have a variety of professional development activities to stay at the top of their fields. These steps to increase PTI instruction, increase class sizes, and increase faculty workload, all with protective steps to maintain rigor and caliber, will allow us to continue to provide access to quality instruction despite the heavy reductions in our budget.

Cuts Taken to Date, Impacts Felt to Date

For discussion of reliance on PTI instruction and faculty workload see "Efforts to Protect Instruction" and for discussion of reduced student support see "Impacts on Student Success."

Numerous steps have been taken to reduce costs in business operations activities. Nine support positions have been eliminated in the areas of Controller, Information Technology, Human Resources, and Facilities while assuming the additional responsibility of student cashiering which was transferred from CSN. Basic support functions such as campus security and janitorial services have been reduced by 30%. NSC has taken great pride in providing state of the art technology and appropriate upgrades to its students, faculty, and staff but is now in a "maintenance" mode. Efficiency efforts have created, over the past five years, cost savings approaching $1 million which were utilized to address funding reductions.

OVERVIEW OF ANTICIPATED AND PRIOR STATE FUNDING REDUCTIONS
Desert Research Institute, March 28, 2011

Anticipated Impacts of FY 2012 and FY 2013 Reductions

The positions and support dollars that DRI is returning to the State for FYs 2012 and 2013 (see attached template) will have the following key impacts:

- $341,626 in Applied Research Initiative (ARI) funding in FY 2012; this will mean that all of the ARI state funding for DRI will have been returned; this is used to provide critical matching funding for federal grants and contracts and leveraging joint projects with industry partners. Loss of these funds will reduce DRI's effective matching process, especially in areas related to renewable energy.
- Funding for research support positions, totaling $54,501 in FY 2012 and an additional $747,201 in FY 2013; research support positions are primarily divisional positions that are essential for the development and submission of the grant and contract proposals.
- $329,174 in library support fund in FY 2012; library operations housed on the DRI campuses have been shown to be an effective means of providing direct support to the research faculty. Reductions will impact research effectiveness.
- $104,650 in FY 2012 for state funding for the Truckee River Study; these funds provide partial support for a position and provide support for leveraging and matching federal grant and contracts. Loss of this support will terminate one of DRI's longest state-supported programs (since the 1960s on monitoring water quality of Truckee River).
- Funding for administrative support totaling $96,201 in FY 2012 and $335,086 in FY 13; this will reduce core operational support for the DRI research mission and negatively impact DRI's effectiveness related to innovation.
- Funding for O&M operations and utilities totaling $82,755 in FY 2012 and $136,557 in FY 2013; this will impact the ability to cover the additional costs of atypical weather in a given year (very hot and/or very cold temperatures).
- In total, 16.83 FTE positions will be returned to the State over fiscal years 2012 and 2013. This is a loss of funds for approximately one third of DRI's approximately 58 state-funded administrative and research support positions.

These areas are critical to the DRI core research mission. So, in order to protect our mission to the best of our capabilities, DRI will need to replace many of these lost state revenues with internally generated funds (indirect cost recovery and other internal funds). To do so will require significant reductions in other internally generated funded administrative positions (10 or more non-state funded research and institutional support positions, totaling over $828,000 in FY 2013); and in operational and research support (totaling over $1.4 million in FY 2013). These internal reductions will not only critically reduce the ability of DRI to provide an effective level of core operational support, but will dramatically reduce the ability of DRI to innovate and provide intellectual capacity for current and future DRI research-based economic development in Nevada.

This table shows that, since FY 2008, DRI has returned $464,000 in capital funding and nearly $2.7 million in research, operating or personnel funding. Our FY 2011 state funded operating budget is over 18.5% less than our legislatively approved FY 2009 budget.

Efforts to Protect the Core DRI Research Mission

When the mandatory state budget reductions began in 2008, DRI made a strategic decision to minimize the impact of the reductions on our research efforts. This is because research is our fundamental mission and the primary generator of revenues. Based on the need to preserve our research mission, the following actions were taken:

- In FY 2008, DRI gave back capital funding monies only ($364,000).
- In FY 2009, of the total $583,005 returned, $358,430 of the reductions was administrative (positions, operating dollars or salaries).
- In FY 2010, of the total $1,564,471 returned, $820,304 of the reductions was administrative (positions, operating dollars, salaries or facilities operations and maintenance). DRI also returned all state funding for the cloud seeding program and returned all state funding for the rental space in the Sierra Nevada College Center for Environmental Sciences (this will reduce our capability for collaborative program development with UC-Davis, SNC and a variety of local, Tahoe regional, state and federal agencies). While DRI has been able to find external funding for the next two fiscal years, funding has not been identified to replace the lost space in the Sierra Nevada College building.
- In FY 2011, of the total $509,863 returned, $183,394 was administrative (operations and maintenance). DRI also returned one half of its state applied research initiative (ARI) funding. However, all of these returned ARI funds were replaced with internally generated funds (indirect cost recovery).

In summary, over fiscal years 2008 through 2011, more than half (51.3%) of the returned state funding was administrative. About 31.5% was programmatic, and the balance (17.2%) was capital or other. With the exception of the Sierra Nevada College leased space all of the programmatic dollars returned have been replaced with either internal or external non-state funds. However, in spite of these efforts, the direct and indirect impacts of these reductions on DRI have been substantial:

- DRI has lost thirty four (34) faculty or staff since FY 2008, including the elimination of six (6) positions that were state funded, and the transfer of four (4) Cloud Seeding Program positions to private and other non-state funding. Positions eliminated include a vice presidential position, a facilities supervisor, and other productive research support positions.
- Twenty three (23) of the individuals who have left or will leave the State of Nevada by the end of FY 2011 are research faculty. This has resulted in considerably less research generated revenue for DRI, and could result in over $20 million in lost grant and contract revenue by the end of FY 2011. The two major reasons they have given for their departures are (1) the lack of perceived financial security due to the state fiscal challenges, and (2) the demands of obtaining funding in a soft money environment.
- Where possible, other support staff members have taken on the responsibilities of the departing individuals. When this is not possible, DRI has reduced its research and operational support services. The fact that all faculty and staff not funded by grants and contracts must take mandatory furlough days has placed an additional strain on their workloads.
- The elimination of state funding for the Sierra Nevada College lease has reduced the collaborative capabilities of DRI with UNR, UC Davis and a variety of governmental and private entities in the Lake Tahoe Region. Not only has this reduction eliminated a central research staging area for the DRI and UNR research faculty at the lake, it has also reduced DRI's effectiveness in conducting research on Lake Tahoe water quality issues.
- The state-provided Applied Research Initiative (ARI) funds make available critical matching funds for a variety of federal grant and contract proposals. For example, the federal Department of Energy now requires up to a fifty percent match for their research grants. The necessity of using other internal funds to replace these lost resources reduces our capacity to provide other types of research support - in addition to reducing general research support funding, the reallocation of internal funding to replace eliminated state funding reduces the capability of DRI to provide funding to a variety of critical research support areas that includes new faculty startup packages and essential research equipment and supplies.

Taken in their totality, these state reductions have dramatically reduced the ability of DRI to innovate and provide intellectual capacity for current and future research-based economic development in Nevada. Also, given the fact that there is a return of more than four dollars in federal or private funding for every state dollar invested into DRI, reducing state funding for DRI has had and will continue to have a direct and negative impact on the Nevada economy.

Budget Reduction Plan, FY 2011-12 and FY 2012-13

Prior Cuts

Since FY 2007-08, CSN has addressed budget cuts through the implementation of student surcharges, reduction in operating budgets, elimination of positions through attrition, reduction of services and support to students through availability of libraries and laboratories, as well as through limited closure of extended operational sites. These cuts were realized at the same time enrollment demand increased and excess registration fees were available to mitigate some of the effects. The College also modified the minimum number of students required for each class, increasing the floor and eliminating sections with low enrollments.

Background

- The plan responds to directive of the Legislature and the Board of Regents and describes the impacts the Governor's recommended budget would have on the College and our students.
- The plan further diminishes the access mission of the College.
- The plan includes a combination of strategies to reduce FTE students, staffing, reduces services, cuts programs, and changes pricing.
- The plan includes an additional reduction associated with the loss of FTE over the biennium.
- As CSN, like many two-year colleges, has a full 50% of sections taught by part-time faculty, and thus are not as hindered by longer-term contractual obligations as many four-year institutions, we are able to cut large numbers of sections instead of resorting to closing entire programs. This strategy not only allows us to quickly trim sections if necessary, but allows us to quickly build back program capacity as soon as funding improves.

Premise

This plan makes required cuts in the access mission of CSN; although limited program reductions may be recommended as part of college operating reductions, as a general premise, CSN's mission of quality instruction and our commitment to keeping high-quality full-time faculty takes precedence over the access mission, which requires a large number of part-time faculty. The Governor's recommended cut in state support for CSN is $27 million – 29.3% budget cut for the biennium: FY 2011-12: ($15,485,182), and FY 2012-13: ($26,762,251).

The reduction plan outlines a number of strategies to address the magnitude of the reduction and includes:

- Increase in registration fees by 13% per year with a 15% carve out for financial aid;
- Increase in non-resident tuition of 13% per year;
- Accounts for additional student registration fees above those reported in the 2009-2011 budget request to accommodate for FY 2010-11 projected actual enrollment levels, a minimal increase;
- Closure/mothball of sites and centers – only distance education would be offered to students residing outside of the Las Vegas Valley;
- Reduction of course offerings and reduction in availability of sections to students, which would result in increased time for graduation;
- Reduction of enrollment – by approximately 2,478 FTE in FY 2013 and an estimated loss of 9,275 headcount, for 12,336 seats on top of the estimated 5,000 students we already turned away in Fall 2010;
- Reduction of sections of approximately 514 or 10% per semester.
- Elimination of positions as summarized below. CSN has targeted vacant or frozen positions to minimize layoffs.

Position Summary Reduction:

Sites/Centers:

CSN would close the following sites and centers at the Governor's Recommended Budget levels for the 2011-2013 biennium:

Boulder City Center: 2012-13
Lincoln County: 2011-12
Mesquite Center: 2012-13
Moapa/Overton Site: 2012-13
Nellis AFB Center: 2012-13
Green Valley High Tech Center: 2012-13
Palo Verde High Tech Center: 2012-13
Western High Tech Center: 2012-13

Impacts of Reductions by Function:

Instruction: The instructional reduction results in the loss of approximately 1,498 FTE and 5,384 headcount in FY 2011-12 for FY 2012-13 the loss of FTE is 2,478 and 9,275. This will lead to increased time to graduation, decreased program viabilities, and an inability to quickly respond to future increases in student demand. Operating funding will be cut and will directly impact resources in the classroom, labs, and teaching environment. Workstation replacement for faculty will be eliminated and equipment will not be replaced - CSN already has a 4 year rotation cycle for computers and this will undoubtedly be increased. Without the ability to train students on the latest technology our ability to offer trained workers to employers is greatly diminished. The Ornamental Horticulture program will eliminate the nursery operation and will purely move to an academic base program only, eliminating the hands-on experiential learning environment for students. Closure of the Massage Therapy program will eliminate 1 FTE faculty position and (4) part time faculty, and 24 FTE student enrollments.

Academic Support: The greatest impact will be the loss of access through administration of our sites and centers, those locations are noted above. Reduction in operating support and travel for staff will be implemented between 15%-20% over the biennium. In addition, a reduction of $150,000 in the library acquisition and database support will make it harder for the college to maintain specialized accreditation for our many programs, as well as make it more difficult to meet the ever-increasing prices of online databases. The public function of the Nicholas J. Horn Theatre will be eliminated, and CSN will use the theatre solely for its educational program, eliminating a venue for public, theatre style events in North Las Vegas. Elimination of additional academic staffing positions will hamper communication and interaction with CCSD programs, particularly dual-credit; and increased workload for academic management.

Student Affairs: Vacant position eliminations will impact support personnel in counseling and student support operations, and the elimination of one interpreter (CSN has been unable to fill this vacancy due to high demand). Operating reductions will be implemented across the board between 15-20% over the biennium, and will most significantly impact our disability student support services. Testing and assessment services will be moved to non-state revenue sources and will result in increased costs to students for these services. Equipment replacement and technology will be eliminated in the 2nd year of the biennium.

Institutional Support: Already sparsely staffed, CSN will further reduce staffing: 3 Police Officers, 2 positions in the Diversity Office, 1 General Counsel, 1 position in campus relations, 4 positions in Human Resources, 3 positions in Financial Services, and reductions in the institutions technology management, contract security services, institutional membership, audit function, and human resource technology support. These reductions are made in favor of the instructional and student support mission.

Operations & Maintenance: Vacant position eliminations will further reduce services. O&M expenditures related to operation of the sites and centers will be eliminated, along with reduction in daily campus operations support including maintenance, custodial, and deferred and preventive maintenance. CSN will seek Board of Regents flexibility for use of the Capital Improvement fee in order to reallocate critical deferred maintenance activities to this non-state source. Use of these funds, however, will result in deferral of maintenance and renovation funding. These reductions are in favor of the instructional and student support mission.

Impacts of Budget Reductions at Great Basin College

Great Basin College has planned for $7.3 million in budget reductions over the next biennium. The consequences of these cuts can be illustrated in a variety of ways. However, the most dramatic illustration is the chilling effect it will have on students' access to higher education in rural Nevada. The cuts will lower GBC's capacity to teach, and more than 1,300 full time students will lose access to the training and academic opportunities they need to advance their position and contributions to Nevada's society.

The loss of students' access to higher education is already evident. "Caps" on enrollments and elimination of programs for FY2011 resulted in 2,379 failed registrations for prospective students, the equivalent of approximately ninety-five sections or 2,379 class seats. A failed registration is when a student tried to register for a class and was unable to get in. Students may or may not elect to be put on a wait list. These numbers will compound as budget reductions continue.

For FY2012 we estimate that the $2.6M cuts will require the elimination of at least one hundred twenty more sections. One hundred twenty sections equates to approximately 3,000 seats. For FY2013 an additional sixty sections or another 1,500 seats will be eliminated. For the three year period the budget reduction would result in a total loss of 6,879 seats.

For FY2012 the sixteen vacant positions are split between nine administrative/support and seven teaching faculty. The sixteen positions are also split between thirteen professional and three classified.

For FY2013 the eighteen positions are composed of fourteen filled and four vacant. The eighteen positions are split between fourteen administrative/support and four teaching faculty. The eighteen positions are also split between thirteen professional and five classified.

In the period FY2008 through FY2011, significant budget cuts have already been implemented. Those reductions have been disproportionately focused on the support functions of Great Basin College. Instruction was unaffected by reductions until FY2011. Even then, reductions to instruction were at a smaller percentage than other areas. This allowed the college to protect the instructional function as much as possible. Even the cuts planned for FY2012 and FY2013 have fewer positions eliminated in the instruction area than all other areas of the college. Operating budgets for all areas will be reviewed and an overall reduction of approximately $1 Million is anticipated. Items such as grant-in-aid and student access will not be reduced.

The former structure of Administrative Services included the following professional positions: Vice President of Administrative Services, Director of Budget and Finance, Controller, and Director of Human Resources. The current structure has a Chief Business Officer and Controller. This has resulted in a savings of approximately $250,000 in salary and fringe.

In addition, the Controller's Office was reorganized. The reorganization included downgrading the Controller's position from a rank 6 to a 5, reclassifying a vacant classified position from a Accountant Technician II (grade 32) to an Accounting Assistant I (grade 23) and a Accountant Technician I (grade 30) to a professional Student Accounts Specialist (rank 3). In addition, another position was reclassified from an Accounting Assistant IV (grade 29) to an Accounting Assistant III (grade 27). This reorganization better serves the business needs of Great Basin College and provides better service to the students and other customers of the Controller's office by providing better customer service with the resources available. This restructuring has provided a salary and fringe savings of $43,300. Due to budget reductions, a part-time Administrative Aid position was eliminated. There are longer wait times for assistance for customers at the Controller's office.

Budget reductions have required the elimination of one position in Computer Services in FY2012. Media Services will have one position eliminated in FY2013. This will result in longer wait times for employees, students, and other partners for service in these areas.

In Operations and Maintenance there were previously three professional positions, Facilities Officer, Director of Buildings and Grounds, and Grounds Supervisor. Currently only the Facilities Officer and Director of Buildings and Grounds positions are filled. The Grounds Supervisor position, which has been vacant since June 2010, will be eliminated in FY2012. One and one-half custodial positions were eliminated in FY2011 and another two positions remain vacant. A vacant maintenance position was reclassified to a custodial position to better serve the needs of the college and resulted in a salary & fringe savings of $18,400. In addition, the operating budgets for maintenance and repairs have reduced over the past three years by $507,000. This impacted the ability to perform maintenance and obtain needed supplies and equipment. In addition, the amount of deferred maintenance increased. The anticipated budget cuts for FY2012 and FY2013 include the elimination of three additional classified positions in Buildings and Grounds along with further reductions in operating funds. All of these reductions have resulted in challenges to the care and maintenance of college facilities.

In Student Services, one position was reclassified from classified to professional. Plus days were eliminated on B contracts. Two professional positions will be converted to B contracts from A contracts in FY2012. The changes result in a savings of $46,600. However, students will be impacted as they will wait longer for advising and other services and advising may no longer be one-on-one. Due to the budget reductions in FY2011, mental health counseling service, which is essential for success for many students, has been eliminated. Two other professional positions will be moved 100% to self-supporting budgets in FY2013. In FY2011 Student Services was heavily involved in the iNtegrate implementation.

In Academic Support, one Dean and one Administrative Assistant position have remained vacant since 2008. In addition, other full-time and part-time administrative positions have been kept vacant. With the budget cuts in FY2012 many of these vacant positions will be eliminated. The vacancies have required that a wide range of tasks be distributed among remaining staff, creating workloads that are difficult to manage properly. Additionally, there are reductions in tutoring services, library and open labs with reduction in hours that students can utilize these services.

In instruction, two teaching faculty positions were eliminated in FY2011. Eight programs were restructured, suspended or eliminated:

- Battle Mountain Dual Credit Diesel – Eliminated
- Broadcast Technology – Eliminated
- Fire Science – Suspended
- Sonography (Ultrasound) – Suspended
- Underground Miner Training – Eliminated
- Agriculture – Restructured
- EMS – Restructured
- PEX - Restructured

The nursing program enrollment cap was reduced. Other programs, such as Diesel, Electrical, Welding, Mill Maintenance, and Instrumentation have added enrollment caps. Budget reductions have resulted in fewer classes and reduced course offerings, and a reduction in student/faculty interaction.

With the proposed budget cuts for FY2012 and FY2013 services to students will be impacted with a reduction in staffing at the library and possible further reductions in hours that open labs, the library and Academic Success Center are available for students to utilize. Students will also see more reductions in one-on-one advising and the student life department, which supports student success by developing and coordinating programs that improve and support academic learning outside the classroom, will be eliminated. With the proposed reduction in staffing in the Career Center/Advising and Enrollment, students will have a longer wait before they can met with an advisor and GBC may need to look at doing group advising. With the proposed reductions in instruction, fewer classes and reduced course offerings will be available for students.

TRUCKEE MEADOWS COMMUNITY COLLEGE
2012-2013 Biennium Budget Reduction of $10.3 Million

Beginning with budget reductions in fiscal year 2007-08, Truckee Meadows Community College has sustained a $7.4 million, 18+% reduction in the state operating budget. For the 2011-2013 biennium the college is faced with an additional $10.3 million, 28.9% cut to the state operating funds.

To date the college has focused on keeping budget cuts away from the classroom to minimize direct impact on students. Positions in support areas have been kept vacant as employees depart. Five Academic Divisions managed by five Deans have been condensed into the School of Sciences and School of Liberal Arts, managed by two Deans, and the School of Business and Entrepreneurship, managed by an Associate Dean. We further reduced senior management by combining two positions—the Vice President of Academic Affairs and the Vice President of Student Services—into one position, the Vice President of Academic Affairs and Student Services.

The cuts have had serious impact on the entire college: students, staff, faculty and the community the college serves. The new cuts are more serious as the majority of the non-academic area cuts are in place, and instruction will be further reduced. The latest reductions come at a time when, over the last few years, the college has experienced the greatest demand in its history for enrollment in transfer programs and workforce training. This reduction will have a negative impact on our workforce programs, which must be reduced because several of these programs are the College's most high-cost programs.

In evaluating efficiencies and changes, including budget cuts, the college has in place both an Administrative Review Process and a Program Review Process. These tools have been in place and were useful in making cuts and changes from 2007 to the present. For the cuts currently proposed, the college is also using a Curricular Review Committee. The committee meetings have been open to the college, and all proceedings are posted on the College's website.

As reflected in the template for budget reductions, there will be approximately 2,000 unduplicated students who cannot enroll at TMCC as a direct result of these cuts. The college is eliminating 32 full-time positions: 13 classified positions, 8 professional administrative positions, an estimated 6 faculty positions, and 5 employee separations remain under review so the final categories are not yet determined. The college will be reducing the number of part-time faculty by 218 in for-credit courses.

The college is reducing a portion of each allied health program, eliminating 72 student fte and 9 (rounded) faculty fte. The reductions are: one-third of the nursing program, 44 student fte and 4 faculty fte; one half of the dental hygiene program, 12 student fte and 3.4 faculty fte; one half of the dental assisting program 5 student fte and 1 faculty fte; and one half of the radiologic technology program, 10 student fte and 1 faculty fte. The college is eliminating mental health services degree program with the following emphases: Mental Health Technical, Substance Abuse Counselor, and Developmental Disabilities Technician. The college is also collaborating with College of Southern Nevada to merge the two Veterinarian Technology programs.

TMCC, as the pilot iNtegrate college for the student information system, has collaborated with Western Nevada College and Great Basic College in numerous areas for implementation of a shared instance. TMCC is working with WNC and GBC to determine specifics for TMCC to provide web services for WNC and GBC.

Western Nevada College
Office of the President

The attached spreadsheet details the means by which Western Nevada College will achieve a total general fund budget cut of 31.7%, over the course of the next biennium.

The total general fund reduction in dollars over the biennium is $5,850,432, on a base general fund budget in 2011 of $18,472,126. Because we do not anticipate that the college will be able to hold its current enrollment with this level of cut, the college assumes a loss of approximately 200 FTE, and therefore an additional loss of revenue of $301,023 in FY12 and a total of $507,625 in biennium.

The college budget reduction plan makes use of a variety of approaches designed to attempt to avoid irreparable harm to the college's mission and its students, but rather to leave a viable core institutional base at all sites, from which the college can recover in future years, when the state may be assumed to be in better circumstances.

1) The first cut is a substantial institution-wide effort to implement zero-based budgeting and reduce general operating costs. This effort, given departmental cooperation across all functions, is projected to generate approximately $400,000 in savings.

2) The college will close, or reduce services, at seven satellites over the biennium, obtaining about $1,000,000 in savings. During the first year, the five rural sites (Fernley, Lovelock, Hawthorne, Smith Valley, Yerington) will be closed and we anticipated that they will be replaced with IAV facilities managed by the high schools. This will allow us to continue to support rural high school students' pursuit of higher education. We are currently negotiating agreements with school districts to do this. In the second year of the biennium, we will close or reduce services at the Fallon and Douglas campuses. We have begun efforts to locate financial and other resources within local communities, to soften the impact of these steps.

3) We have conducted a buyout effort with all full-time faculty and staff, and anticipate about $750,000 in savings from this effort.

4) We expect to achieve a savings of about $300,000 from the 5% salary cut to all employees. This savings is not as large as might be anticipated because many of our employees volunteered for or were mandated to participate in the 4.6% furlough program last year.

5) We project approximately a $700,000 increase in revenue from a 13% increase in student surcharge fees in each of the biennial years. Approximately $100,000 of this will be directed to the governor's requested 15% financial aid set aside.

6) We will reduce class sections by decreasing the LOA and overload budgets by 15% in the first year and an additional 10% in the second year. This will save a little over $500,000 over the two years of the biennium, but will have a significant impact on the number of class sections offered and subsequently on the availability of courses to students.

7) We will eliminate a number of currently funded student activities from our GIP budget and replace these with essential core student services functions. A similar replacement of CIP initiatives with essential Facilities and Environmental Health and Safety staff, will along with the GIP change save about $300,000 in the second year. These transfers will require board of regents approval.

8) Curricular and support review processes, currently underway, are slated to save about $750,000. These funds will be generated by personnel layoffs across faculty, administration and staff, program elimination, and reduction in services to students and our service area.

System Administration
Budget Reduction Narrative

General Fund support recommended in the Executive Budget for the System Administration budget totals $4,389,715 in FY 2012 and $3,729,794 in FY 2013. This represents a reduction of $487,756 in FY 2012 compared to FY 2011 approved amounts, and an additional reduction of $659,921 in FY 2013. From FY 2011 to FY 2013, General Fund support is reduced by a total of $1,147,677 which represents a decrease of 23.5 percent.

The additional revenues and expenditure reductions that are recommended to bring the System Administration budget into balance based on the reduction in General Fund support, as recommended in the 2011-13 Executive Budget is outlined below:

Additional Revenues

The System Administration budget utilizes an overcut to the University Press of $117,633 in FY 2012 and $88,061 in FY 2013 to offset a portion of the recommended reductions during the 2011-13 biennium. In addition, an assessment for managing the Operating Pool totaling $50,000 is recommended to support the Banking and Investments office.

Expense Reductions

The following expenditure reductions are recommended:

- The Nevada Industry Excellence (NVIE) program is reduced by 25% in FY 2012 and 50% in FY 2013. This represents reductions of $135,178, representing 1.5 FTE positions in FY 2012, and $274,506 in FY 2013, impacting a total 3.0 positions.

  In addition, a total 0.65 FTE in FY 2012 and 3.1 FTE in FY 2013 are also recommended to be reduced. Total funding reductions from these actions total $43,890 in FY 2012 and $314,174 in FY 2013. These actions reflect not refilling vacant positions, placing positions on grant or non-state funding and eliminating positions that are currently filled.

- Travel and operating costs are reduced by $174,583 in FY 2012 and $401,640. These savings represent specific as well as across-the-board reductions to travel and operating. In FY 2013, the external audit fee is reduced, consultant costs are decreased and Regents awards are suspended. In addition, most all operating line items are reduced across-the-board by 10 percent.

- Lease payments for the Las Vegas System Office and O&M costs for the Reno Office are reduced by $26,472 in FY 2012 and $19,296 in FY 2013.

System Computing Services
Preliminary Proposal

Staffing

•9.5% reduction in work force in FY 12
•Additional 20% reduction in work force in FY 13

•With reduction in staff, productivity falls and burnout increases--long hours, too much work, and not enough time to accomplish all the work which needs to be completed; increase in stress related illnesses and absences
•Not able to maintain current level of service to institutions. Service will be reduced and response time to requests will be longer
•Additional overtime support will be required to support troubleshooting of hardware and software, to cover equipment and network outages
•Reduction in ability to support current or improvements in service on behalf of institutions and support of special services such as support to Board of Regents meetings
•Only regulatory enhancements will be made to legacy HR, Financial and data warehouse •Difficult to provide new services

Network Connections

•FY 12: Elimination of 24 T-1 leased line network connections
Elimination of one (1) DS 3 leased line network connection Eliminate financial support for nine remaining Coop Extension last mile connectivity. Other 10 Coop Extension facilities are paying the last mile connectivity
•FY 13: Eliminate Cenic Northern Commodity Internet
Eliminate Cenic high speed internet research Internet II

Hardware Maintenance/Support

•Acceleration of decommissioning of equipment
•Legacy services will not be available
•Data warehouse workload production will be transferred to the data warehouse test platform to facilitate a consolidation effort to conserve operating costs
•Maintenance intervals on building UPS, heat exchangers, etc. will be extended from quarterly to semi-annual checks
•Low level equipment will be removed from maintenance contracts with more reliance on spares

Software Support/Maintenance

•Reduction in labor saving tools, which lead to analyst work efficiencies, will be replaced with older labor intensive techniques
•Institutions no longer able to run batch jobs during work day which leads to reduced institutional efficiency

Security Assessment

•Since security remediation takes time, the third party consultant who conducted a security assessment of the IT infrastructure, access control, physical security, remote access, vulnerability management, policy review, and comparison against security capabilities maturity model in FY 10, recommended this type of audit be conducted every other year.

Office/Maintenance Expendables

- Reduction in paper, computer supplies, postage, cell phone service and maintenance, building maintenance
- Elimination of off-site storage

Offsite Tape Vault Storage

- Time necessary to recall tapes from tape vault is significantly extended

Network Infrastructure Parts/Pieces

- Network services will be subject to more frequent and longer lasting outages

Travel

- With limited travel funds
    - Response time to unanticipated outages and equipment failures of the network will increase which lowers the level of preventative maintenance
    - Untrained staff will be troubleshooting increasingly sophisticated systems
    - Lack of face-to-face communication between a supervisor and employee

Impact of Proposed Cuts to the FY2012 & FY2013 Allocations of Special Projects Matching Funds

The annual allocation of Special Project Matching Funds to the Nevada System of Higher Education (NSHE) has proven to be one of the most prudent and lucrative investments made by the State of Nevada.

These allocations have been used with great success to leverage federal grant funding in support of research at NSHE institutions and have made it possible for NSHE to successfully compete for large federal grants requiring the grantee to provide matching funds. Successful grants are awarded to the System, and the funds are subsequently distributed to NSHE's colleges and universities. This combination of State and federal grant funds has been crucial to the expansion of the academic R&D enterprise and improving student education in science and technology.

Past, current, and future reductions to these funds have not been, nor will they ever be, reductions to the operating funds of any NSHE administrative unit. Rather, the reductions have been to the direct investment of matching funds used to leverage federal grant funding in support of research at NSHE institutions. Both State and federal funds are linked, and the loss of one results in the corresponding loss of the other. If committed matching funds on an active project are reduced, then federal funds must be returned to the funding agency. The amount returned will at least equal the amount of matching funds lost but may be two to three times what is lost, depending upon the grant program. This situation is especially problematic because not only is the project damaged or curtailed, the reputation and future competitiveness of NSHE and State of Nevada will suffer.

When the matching fund allocation is reduced, the only way to prevent the return of federal funds or for NSHE to apply for future grants is for NSHE institutions to provide the matching funds. Since the institutions are also facing massive reductions, it will be extremely difficult for them to maintain current projects or to apply for new ones.

Proposed cuts to the NSHE matching fund allocation for the next biennium will result in an overall 30% reduction since Fiscal Year 2010. In terms of dollars lost, these cuts are devastating. The total loss of funding attributable to the current round of proposed cuts can be estimated conservatively as twice the total proposed reduction ($694,102 x 2 = $1,388,204). But dollar amounts alone do not adequately describe the negative effects of this funding loss.

The participation of faculty in multi-disciplinary and inter-disciplinary collaborative research activities, plus the involvement of undergraduate and graduate students in EPSCoR programs have been critical to producing cutting-edge science for the real-world solutions to critical issues relevant to Nevada. In the coming years, Nevada's colleges and universities will focus on areas that require research to address the needs associated with alternative and renewable energy, climate change, education, human health, technology (including informatics), urban and renewable sustainability, and water resources and policy. All these research areas directly impact the economic well-being and societal needs of the State of Nevada. Without the prospect of adequate funding to achieve these research goals, higher education and economic recovery in the State of Nevada will be severely impeded.

Budget Reductions FY 12-13

The University of Nevada Press is the book publishing arm of the Nevada System of Higher Education. It was founded in 1961 to publish scholarly and general interest works about the state and the region and that reflect the academic strengths of the campuses.

The attached budget reduction summary for 2012 and 2013 document significant proposed decreases:

Fiscal Year	Exec Budget	Total Funding	Reduction over Exec Budget
FY 2011	$614,656
FY 2012	$537,892	$430,259	$107,633
FY 2013	$456,855	$368,794	$ 88,061

In this scenario, the press's general fund amount is reduced by 40 percent in FY 2012 and by 50 percent in FY 2013. Since 2009, the press's state funds will have been reduced 61 percent, from $$945,603 to $368,794.

To make these targets the press has undertaken a number of changes. Most important, the press is in the process of outsourcing its warehousing and order fulfillment operations. By contracting with Chicago Distribution Services (CDC), the press will pay CDC a percentage of sales for distribution services, eliminating two FTE Classified positions as of June 2011 and reducing O & M for the Stead warehouse.

In the Editorial departments, the press will not be replacing its retiring managing editor with another FTE. The loss of this administrative faculty position is very problematic because professional editing is a critical component of publication quality. Although the press can outsource certain functions, such as copyediting and proofreading on a project by project basis, the overall quality of the program may be impacted by the lack of managerial oversight of standards and consistency.

By 2013, because of the overall diminishing lack of support, we anticipate a significant reduction in the number of titles published, and have projected commensurately reduced production, marketing, and related costs.

The reduced funding level poses challenges to maintaining both the quality and quantity of the press's books. Book publishing requires specialized skills in book acquisition, editing, design and production, marketing and sales, business and administration, and, increasingly in information technology. Without the funding to hire dedicated personnel in these areas, we remain concerned about our ability to maintain quality and competitiveness.

Merger Overview

A savings of $7.9 million by merging Great Basin College, Truckee Meadows Community College and Western Nevada College cannot be achieved without closing Great Basin College and Western Nevada College.

The projected $7.9 million in savings includes a significant technical error: the treatment of vacancies as "savings." These vacancies have been planned as permanent, to cover the anticipated budget cuts at each college. The colleges had no plans to refill them. Assuming that the accreditation challenges of the proposed merged institution—which could take eight to ten years—could be resolved, reinstating the required human infrastructure to operate all three colleges would provide a total savings approximately $3 million.

The creation of the merged college would decrease costs in one staffing category: the very highest levels of administrative infrastructure. However, significant positions would need to be established at each site to ensure operational and fiduciary accountability, including but not limited to:

- Academic Provost
- Chief Information Officer
- Admission and Records Director
- Facilities Services Director
- Financial Aid Director

The staff cost savings is substantially limited, due to the sheer size and complexity of the area served. The state of Nevada occupies approximately 109,000 square miles. The merged institution would serve over 80,000 square miles, nearly 75% of the entire state. In order to do so, the merged college would require leadership at each site.

Additionally, each college serves the unique workforce development needs of its various social and business communities, as community colleges do across the country. Local employers have worked for four decades to ensure that their community college provides the specific skill sets needed. Local corporations, foundations and corporate donors support each institution with gifts; each of the three colleges is undergoing a Major Gifts Campaign to increase private support. Structure to preserve this community outreach, involvement and responsiveness is required to ensure successful partnerships throughout three quarters of the state. There would be no cost savings in salaries for advancement and related services, because these functions would become even more critical for a newly formed, merged college.

Questions to be addressed in the Merger
1. Accreditation – Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities and special accreditation groups for instructional programs at each of the existing colleges would require a new accreditation process for a merged college—as identified above, this long-term process could take eight to ten years. GBC and WNC provide baccalaureate degrees in a number of areas. Accreditation in those areas would be an immediate concern.

2. Professional Specialized Accreditation – Fourteen existing programs at the three colleges have required professional program accreditation. Significant research will be required to determine the process to merge or change program accreditation.

3. Financial Aid for Students – Students are currently eligible for financial aid through the institution in which they are enrolled. The cost savings of the proposed elimination of staff will not be significant, because federal regulations require full financial aid services at each college site which distributes funds with a staff that provide, as a minimum, management of all financial aid, customer service and financial aid application processing. Further, the financial aid staff at the main campus of the merged institutions would very likely be required to increase staff to process the significant coordination issues related to merging the financial aid application process.

The timeline for a transition would not be immediate, because the financial aid award year begins January, which means that applications and processing is already significantly underway for the 2011-2012 award year. Changing the entire process midstream would be a serious disservice to students. The process of changing the system with the federal government could begin no later than July 2011 for implementation in January 2012 for the fall 2012 and spring 2013 academic year at the earliest.

4. Grants and Contracts – All grants and contracts would likewise need to be negotiated with external entities to reflect the new administrative structure. At the current time, only TMCC has an established federal F&A rate.

6. Faculty – Faculty members at each institution have the same salary schedule and are governed by the same Board of Regents' policy and procedures, which would be helpful in the establishment of a merged institution. However, of the existing institutions, only TMCC engages in a collective bargaining process. The merged College would either need to engage its entire faculty membership in collective bargaining or eliminate collective bargaining. Eliminating collective bargaining would be a considerable and time-consuming challenge.

The role of faculty in defining the merged college and handling the change within parameters will be problematic. Faculty members are currently participating in the Curricular Review Process and will continue to be active participants in the future.

7. Cost Savings from a Critical Mass – Although a merger may create advantages that would yield savings by creating a critical mass of faculty in needed areas, the level of decreased responsiveness based on distance between institutions will erode any benefit or cost savings. These details are being explored at each institution through a Curricular Review and Support Review Process that has an effective deadline of April 8, 2011, the date of the NSHE Special Board of Regents meeting.

8. Distance Education Benefits – The merger of the three institutions would not result in substantial savings in the area of distance education. There could be three possible areas of savings:

1. Licensing: synchronize and standardize software solutions to obtain additional efficiencies. Each college has chosen a different online model, and this merger would incur more cost to make a transition for compatibility, negating any possible savings.
2. Staffing: possible slight reduction of cost
3. Curriculum efficiencies: realize limited cost savings because, for each college, DE enrollments represent a high level of enrollment efficiency. Any changes to the current approach would require a significant level of research and analysis. Distance education classes represent the most rapidly growing type of student enrollment at each of the three colleges. This growth would make "streamlining" curriculum a poor choice, because the three colleges do not currently offer enough sections to meet growing student demand. In addition to online course delivery, there is also a significant amount of course delivery through interactive video (IAV) to rural communities. This important platform of delivery is currently 20% of all GBC's FTE.

Delivery Options—no cost savings
A merger would neither adversely impact the possible modalities of delivery nor improve delivery. As concerns the ability to develop and deliver technology-enhanced instruction, all three colleges have been part of the interactive video (IAV) network since its inception under SB204 and AB606 special legislative funding in the mid-1990s. All three colleges currently offer courses/degrees via the Internet and are part of the NSHE IAV network (NevadaNet) with multiple IAV-equipped classrooms. In addition, all three colleges reside within the KNPB Channel 5 service area, which raises the option of telecourse delivery should the need arise.

Needed Student Support Services—no cost savings
In addition to instruction, student support services are required to accompany each course, including advising, financial aid, tutoring capacity, and many other support services. The three colleges provide these services through face-to-face meetings, online and via IAV for distance education students. There would be no cost savings for student support services in a merger.

9. iNtegrate Student Services Module Interface – In considering this, it is helpful that each of these institutions is in the same instance and would therefore, with some work, be able to transition into a new institutional identification within the software as currently configured.

10. Pahrump Campus – GBC currently has a presence with CSN in Pahrump, Nevada. With a merged Northern Nevada college, the courses and campus in Pahrump would be moved back into CSN completely. However, it is possible that CSN would close the remote center due to budget reductions.

11. College Foundations – Expecting one foundation to cover 80% of the state equates to closing two college foundations and losing the support of valuable donor relationships that have been developed over several decades. The donors would not likely transfer their support to an unknown merged College because, in simplest fundraising terms, people give to people whom they know and trust. Further, each of the institution's foundations is a separate 501c3 entity, which is governed locally by Boards of Trustees who would be required by incorporation bylaws to vote in support of a merged foundation entity. It is entirely possible that the Foundation Boards of Trustees would choose to cease any fundraising efforts if control of GBC, WNC and TMCC operations were merged.

12. Transition Planning - A planning team could be composed of presidents, faculty and staff representatives of GBC, TMCC, and WNC. The team could be charged with preparing a plan and a timeline for the Board of Regents. This effort would require a NSHE team leader to coordinate and direct the team.

13. Merge Two Colleges – The cost savings for merging only two colleges has been explored, and the savings are extremely limited given the total costs to merge, which includes all aspects of both colleges, including:

- Access to instruction
- Services to students
- Facilities infrastructure
- Inability to raise public and private funds.

14. Student Services

As noted above, student support services are required to accompany all courses, including advising, financial aid, tutoring, etc. There would be no cost savings for student support services in a merger. Not contemplated at the level of support required are services for specialized populations, such as veterans, disabled students, re-entry students, and others.

CONSOLIDATE NSC TO CSN AND UNLV
Institutional Response

To more efficiently and effectively manage enrollment growth and to produce desirable educational and economic outcomes for Nevada, NSHE educates Nevada's citizens via three types of institutions (or educational settings): community colleges, a state college, and universities. No single institution can provide all things to all students. Some students are better served in one educational setting than another.

By design, these institutions have different missions, admissions standards, and cost structures (due in large part to variation in salaries, teaching loads, and academic and student support services). Each institution serves a unique student market that varies by academic and career goals, academic preparation and aptitude.

CSN, as a comprehensive community college with an open-door admissions policy, offers remedial and developmental education, general education, workforce development, vocational and technical training, and associates degrees that provide seamless transfer to the state college and universities.

UNLV, as a comprehensive research university with an increasingly selective admissions policy, offers education through the doctoral level. It makes significant contributions to new knowledge, economic development, and the culture of the state.

NSC, as a comprehensive state college with a broad admissions policy (minimum 2.0 GPA), offers education at the baccalaureate level in specific, regional niches with limited professional graduate degrees. As such, the college opened in 2002 with 13 four-year degree programs with a special emphasis in the areas of nursing and teaching. Students majoring in nursing and teaching make up over 50 percent of NSC's total enrollment, and roughly one-third of NSC's students are majoring in degree programs within the School of Liberal Arts & Sciences (LAS). (The largest programs by student enrollment in LAS are biotechnology, business, and psychology.)

There are several possible ways to merge NSC into CSN and UNLV. Each way comes with its own set of unique and complex considerations.

For example, one possible way to merge NSC into CSN and UNLV is to move NSC's bachelor's degrees (B.S. and B.A.) to UNLV, and move NSC's two bachelor's of applied science degrees (B.A.S. in Management and Criminal Justice) to CSN.

When the term or concept of "moving degrees" is used, we are assuming that the students will follow the degrees. The cost to the students who go to UNLV will be higher. The cost to the students who go to CSN will be lower at the lower division level, but the same as the upper division level. The cost per student to the State (in terms of state support) under the current formula would be higher at UNLV and lower at CSN.

Moving academic programs to CSN would only include the identified programs that fit within the CSN mission and align with the policies of the Board of Regents for community colleges.

Thus, BAS degrees would move to CSN, and the CSN academic master plan would need to be revised accordingly. (While the BAS programs are more academically aligned with CSN's vocational mission, NSC enrolls a relatively small number of students in its BAS programs. Therefore, moving these BAS programs to CSN will result, in the short term, in minimal students actually transferring to the community college. It is assumed that the majority of students would transfer to UNLV.)

All other general bachelor's degrees would move to UNLV, such as English, business, psychology, and biology. For those programs that move to UNLV, the matter of whether the faculty from NSC will follow the program would need to be considered.

A second possible way to merge NSC into CSN and UNLV is to move, in addition to the BAS programs, teacher education and nursing degrees to CSN, in keeping with the policy allowing professionally-oriented degrees at community colleges if the need is demonstrated.

CSN is located in Henderson with a mission to serve that community in partnership with the local high school and could expand its programs in that area through existing partnerships. The land and buildings owned by NSC could conceivably (but not necessarily immediately) supplement and support the CSN programs in Henderson. The current NSC rental sites could be closed. If such a merger were to occur, there would be no need for two presidents, two vice presidents in each area of student services, finance, and academic affairs, two HR Directors, two Financial Aid Directors, two physical plant directors, etc. (While there would be no need for two sets of executive administrators under the current proposal, the elimination of these positions at NSC would not result in immediate savings given the tenured status of several executives. Barring the possibility of buyouts or other measures as provided in NSHE code, tenured executives would continue on either UNLV's or CSN's payroll in a teaching capacity.) In addition to the ongoing compensation for NSC's reassigned executives, it is likely that, depending on the model developed, some new mid-level management positions would need to be created for the Henderson campuses.

Key Policy Questions:

- Is this model described the best model if NSC were to cease to be an independent institution?

- Are the cost savings sufficient when considering the complexity of the short- and long-term impacts on students, CSN and UNLV? (This scenario assumes that all current students and faculty continue, an assumption that may not be correct.)

Additional questions that need to be addressed if this merger were to be considered:

1. Accreditation – With such a merger, both CSN and UNLV would be continuing accredited institutions and accreditation changes would occur under their existing accreditation and the filing of substantive change documents. NSC would have to relinquish its accreditation and "go under" the accreditation umbrella of the others. Final decisions could be made only after consultation with NWCCU. However, if this merger were to occur, it would be critical that students at NSC be protected in relation to their degrees from an accredited institution. NSC is scheduled to gain full accreditation status Summer 2011 and if this is granted, their students would have credits and degrees from an accredited institution. If a decision is made that puts that institutional accreditation in jeopardy as early as July 2011, further conversation with Northwest Commission on Colleges and Universities would be essential.

2. Henderson - The "Henderson branch" would remain as unit within CSN with a focus on awarding the applied baccalaureate degrees transferred from NSC, but that unit would not have separate institutional accreditation. This would allow closing the rented space in downtown Henderson that NSC currently utilizes and the use of the CSN Henderson campus and the NSC buildings and land in a more efficient manner. Because Congress was involved in the conveyance of NSC's campus acreage (and because Congress is specific in citing "Nevada State College" within federal legislation conveying the property for educational use), the Department of the Interior would need to sign off on CSN's use of the acreage.

3. Faculty Workload - Questions would need to be addressed to ensure that the current CSN faculty maintain their community college workload and salary status under the Board's community college policies even if they teach some upper division courses, with some recognition of a difference. GBC has managed a faculty workload policy well and may serve as a model. Current NSC faculty are under the state college policies related to salary schedules, merit, and workload. If it is assumed that the state college policies would disappear, how the current NSC faculty would transition to the community college or university schedules would need to be addressed. Elements of workload differences are largely accommodated already at CSN.

4. Tuition and Fees - Student tuition and fees are currently different at NSC and CSN for lower division coursework. Upper-division course work at CSN is that same as upper and lower-division work at NSC. The current model of fees where students pay a lower division rate and an upper division rate would appear to work and is outlined in existing Board policy. The UNLV tuition and fee model would prevail at both levels for students in BA/BS degree programs.

5. Professional Accreditation - Some NSC programs have professional program accreditation. Coordination will be required to determine which program accreditations can or should be continued and to work with the national accrediting associations. The Nevada State Nursing Board would need to be notified that one institution will be awarding both an associate degree in nursing and a bachelor's degree if that was the decision.

6. Financial Aid for Students – Students are eligible for financial aid through the institution in which they are enrolled. Some transition period would be required if NSC were to cease to exist. All financial aid would be given then by the institution selected to continue.

7. Grants and Contracts – All grants and contracts would likewise need to be negotiated with external entities to reflect the new administrative structure. At the current time, only NSC and UNLV have an established federal F&A rate. All three institutions have grants and contracts with state and federal entities.

8. Foundations – It seems logical that the NSC Foundation would dissolved if the College is no longer a separate entity, but with representation from the NSC Foundation included in other Foundation boards. It also seems logical that current and pending pledges to the NSC Foundation could be jeopardy in the event NSC ceases to exist.

9. iNtegrate Student Services Module interface – CSN and NSC are in the same instance and would therefore, with some work, be able to transition smoothly into the new institutional identification within the software as currently configured.

10. Faculty –The role of faculty in defining the merger and handling the change within parameters will be critical and have to be defined with input from faculty. Faculty salary schedules are different and adjunct faculty salaries vary by institution. How would faculty plan and shape this merger?

11. Transition Planning - Should such an effort be led by a planning team composed of the presidents and representatives of CSN, NSC, and UNLV with the responsibility to bring a plan and a timeline to the Board of Regents with the potential implementation date of July 1, 2012? The planning team may have alternative recommendations for the same amount of savings outside of this scenario that the Board will wish to consider. From CSN's perspective, this transition plan is the most essential element of this narrative, for it is in this process that personnel, salary schedule, accreditation, and pricing issues would be addressed. Faculty lines, faculty members per se, and the mix of staff employees would need review, not for qualifications, but for need. The number of students involved in a CSN transition would be small.

12. A review by CSN and NSC of the projected potential administrative cost savings indicates some differences in projected needs as compared with those numbers. UNLV has not been incorporated into these projections at this time. While projected differences do exist, when taking into account the five NSC administrators with academic rank and tenure, the projected overall savings amount of $4.3 million is a reasonable approximation, falling within a range of $3.5 million-$4.9 million.

Consolidation of DRI within UNR and UNLV

In response to the summary on the possible consolidation of DRI with UNR and UNLV provided to the Board at the March 11, 2011 meeting, DRI prepared the following response. This overview focuses on the advantages of DRI as an autonomous institution. No similar overview has been requested from UNR and UNLV on the potential advantages of such a consolidation. The original financial analysis that was provided to the Board is also attached.

1. What are DRI's unique attributes and operational functions compared to universities?

i. Faculty. DRI is an entrepreneurial-academic organization that functions with faculty who are not tenured, receive no state support for their salaries, and live on self-generated (soft) money. They chose to come to DRI to build careers in this competitive and entrepreneurial work environment. At DRI, researchers include those with Ph.D., M.S., and B.S. degrees; universities typically do not recognize "faculty" unless they have a Ph.D. Non-tenured, or soft-money, faculty do not share the same rights, privileges, or stature in universities as do tenured or tenure-track colleagues and are typically treated as "second class citizens."

A profound and unique option at DRI is more flexible requirements for faculty to be employed via an associate track (associate track faculty are required to hold only a Bachelor's degree but may hold higher degrees). This track provides scientific, technical, and operational support to DRI projects. There is no equivalent track at universities. Associate track faculty would face some of the most significant changes in employment status via restructuring, likely resulting in conversion to classified positions or leaving.

II. Administrative support structure. DRI's central and distributed administrative functions differ from universities in our ability to respond quickly, nimbly, and flexibly to sponsors' needs and deadlines. Business staff process proposals, reports, and other materials usually within the same day, as opposed to periods of 1-2 weeks (or more) at universities. DRI's business culture requires strong sponsor contact and completion of work products in a timely and financially responsible fashion. This would be more difficult in a university with teaching as a primary mission, not research product delivery.

DRI's flat organizational structure promotes interdisciplinary research and facilitates building teams of faculty in complex, integrated project activities intersecting all three DRI research divisions (Atmospheric Sciences, Earth and Ecosystem Sciences, and Hydrologic Sciences). This differs from a university setting that focuses on individual scientific and engineering disciplines linked to tenure. The size and focus of DRI result in faculty access to division directors, vice presidents, and the president in a manner that cannot be achieved at larger institutions. DRI's research environment is very flexible – facilitating new initiatives, intellectual risk taking, and creativity.

2. In the end what would be lost if DRI were to be merged into universities?

- Focus and identity. DRI is known on a regional, national, and international level for the quality of its research. Restructuring DRI into the two universities will necessarily result in loss of that "branding" and associated recognition.
- Competitive edge. DRI aggressively develops high quality projects for multiple sponsors – ranging from National Science Foundation to Department of Defense, the California Energy Commission and California Air Resources Board, and industry organizations such as the Electric Power Research Institute. In the case of California, funding DRI as part of another state's university would be extremely difficult. In the case of organizations such as EPRI, loss of rapid responsiveness from a merger would significantly limit DRI's competitive edge.

- Fostering talent and providing graduate student training. Many DRI scientists need graduate students to assist in their projects and enjoy mentoring these students. DRI provides support to these students at no cost to the State of Nevada.
- Economic engine for Nevada. The vast majority of DRI's funding is from federal, state (non-Nevada), private and international grants and contracts with only 1.1% of the NSHE state budget for DRI operating support. The direct return on investment (no multiplier) Nevada receives from its allocation is $5 for every State $1.

Legislative Origin and Unique Culture

DRI was created nearly 52 years ago by the Nevada legislature as a freestanding institution to provide for the welfare of the state by performing excellent research and fostering state-based talent. This action resulted in the following mandate for DRI:

NRS 396.795 Establishment: To contribute more effectively to the security of the nation and to promote the general welfare of the State of Nevada and its citizens through the development of educational and scientific research, the board of regents may establish for educational and scientific research a facility within the system to be known as the desert research institute. (Added to NRS by 1959, 285; A 1981, 900; 1993, 354)

NRS 396.7951 Purposes: The primary purposes of the institute are to:

1. Foster and conduct fundamental scientific, economic, social or educational investigations and applied research for industry, governmental or private agencies or individuals;
2. Encourage and foster a desire in students and faculty to conduct research;
3. Discover and develop talent for conducting research;
4. Acquire and disseminate knowledge related to the projects undertaken; and
5. Promote all research within the system generally.

(Added to NRS by 1959, 286; A 1969, 1439; 1993, 354)

NRS 396.020 Provides: The System of:

1. Universities;
2. State colleges;
3. Community colleges;
4. Administrative services;
5. Research facilities, including, without limitation:
   (a) The Desert Research Institute;
   (b) The Ethics Institute; and
   (c) The Center for the Analysis of Crime Statistics, established within the Department of Criminal Justice at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas; and
6. Departments within the Public Service Division, administered under the direction of the Board of Regents is hereby collectively known as the Nevada System of Higher Education. The System is comprised of such branches and facilities as the Board of Regents deems appropriate."

During the past 10 years, DRI's strategic planning efforts have focused the following perspectives on the institute's unique culture that are fundamental to the culture, success, and longevity of the institution:

- Scientific freedom. DRI supports efforts to obtain funding for the broadest spectrum of scientific fields. The institute is dynamic, and individual faculty regularly reinvent themselves to stay competitive and remain funded.
- Team environment. Open collaboration and supporting mechanisms for teamwork encourage long-term commitment. Mentoring is both formal and informal at all levels.
- Shared accountability. Support staff and administration enable faculty to stay on track and move forward.
- Horizontal structure. DRI's organizational structure is significantly less hierarchical than universities and other organizations of its size. Personnel have a voice that is heard at the highest levels.
- NSHE component. DRI has access to teaching opportunities and graduate students while maintaining academic freedom as part of an academic system.
- Research history. DRI has a long, widely recognized track record conducting research on critical issues of concern to Nevada, the region, the U.S., and world. Topics range from the impacts of nuclear testing to ecological responses to climate change.

Assessment

There are profound differences related to DRI's handling of contracts and grants when compared to the universities that challenge the assumption of the transfer of all grants and contracts at DRI to the universities. These differences described below are based upon personal knowledge/experiences of administrators at DRI who have also served in the university financial administration. These key operational differences include the following:

1. One fundamental understanding is that the contracts and grants are awarded to DRI, and thus, any changes proposed, must be requested and approved by the Agency/Sponsor. It cannot be assumed that all Agencies and Sponsors will approve such requests. In addition, many of our contracts state that the contract/agreement is "non-transferable." Also, federal agencies fund DRI through our registration with the CCR and our DUNS number. DRI's DUNS number is different than UNR's or UNLV's. Even though DRI is all part of NSHE, in terms of contracts and grants the Agency/Sponsors' view each institution as completely separate entities. The only way these grants could be transferred is if the grant is "terminated" and then "re-issued" to the new institution, assuming the Agency/Sponsor agrees to this process, and if the PI for the project is relocating to one of the other campuses. The administrative burden to the other institutions alone to do this for all the contracts and grants that DRI currently administers would be exceptionally challenging.

2. In addition, DRI's DUNS number is associated with a CAGE Code which signifies a certain level of facility security that none of the other NSHE institutions possess. This higher level of security is required for a significant portion of our DOD and DOE contracts. So, in order for those sponsors to even consider reissuing those contracts to UNR or UNLV, UNR and UNLV would have to increase their security and require certain positions to have DOE and DOD security clearances (a nontrivial step), strengthen their IT security, and hire a security officer as well as address additional security issues.

3. In scenario one there is a discussion of renegotiating DRI's ICR rate, however, there is no discussion regarding DRI's fringe benefit rate. UNLV and UNR do not have a negotiated fringe benefit rate and do not include sick and annual leave as fringe benefits charged to G&C's. These institutions also do not have funded sick and annual leave pools like DRI. These items serve as critical benefit to DRI employees and yet they are not addressed in this scenario.

4. The two universities do not charge payroll to contract and grants similar to DRI. Specifically, these institutions do not use time sheets to reflect actual effort performed by the employees; rather, these institutions prepare contracts in advance, estimating the time personnel will work on a given project, similar to the approach used at other state universities. Such an approach would not work for DRI because of the variability in individuals' effort from month to month (i.e., multiple contracts). If DRI were merged into the universities, a more complicated methodology would be required, involving two systems for payroll charges.

5. DRI is accepting an ever-increasing number of contracts with publication restrictions and export control requirements, which are ones a University, would typically not accept. In the area of Export Control compliance, DRI's processes are mature and robust in comparison to the other campuses. This degree of development and rigor related to Export Control compliance cannot be taken lightly as there are severe civil and criminal penalties associated with non-compliance. Neither UNLV nor UNR have procedures that are currently set up to handle this level of Export Control.

6. The assumption that all contracts and grants would be preserved in a consolidation process is invalid due to fact that DRI conducts classified research that requires Key Management Personnel (KMP) Security Clearance. In this requirement the senior management official (DRI President) and his/her deputy (Executive VP of Research) must be cleared to the level of the Facility Security Clearance (FCL); other officials within the organization who can control or influence management decisions must also be cleared or formally excluded from classified access and program oversight. Note: The DRI FCL and its designated KMP are cleared at the Top Secret level for DOD and at the Q level for DOE. Persons holding a DOE Q clearance are subject to unannounced random drug testing to confirm the absence of illegal drugs in their system. All cleared persons are required to attend annual security training. The proposed elimination of DRI administrative positions in the financial model of scenario one removes the KMP structure, which would violate the conditions for the continuation of DRI security programs.

7. In addition to point two above, the following summarizes a few additional critical considerations in merging the DRI security programs into the universities. It is important to note that this information is specific to security functions and does not attempt to address the complexities related to a transfer or modification of the actual contracts with DOD and DOE. A preliminary appraisal presents the following areas of interest. Facility Security Clearance (FCL): Both locations (UNR/UNLV) will be required to obtain a FCL in order to perform classified work for the Government, or a single security office could be placed in the System office to service all of NSHE at an additional cost to the System Office. The FCL application is a qualification process whereby an organization is evaluated for eligibility to conduct work on national defense programs. A summary of the five essential elements of an FCL follows:
    a. Sponsorship – Federal agency sponsorship is based on the Government's need for services involving access to classified information, and an organization's ability to provide the services and to meet and maintain federal eligibility requirements. Both universities will need to qualify for sponsorship.

b. Security Agreement – Each organization must agree to maintain a system of specified government controls consistent with the National Industrial Security Program and establish a security program providing policy management and conformance. The Government shall have the right to perform inspections of each organization's procedures, methods and facilities at prescribed intervals. The cost of establishing the security program is the responsibility of the organization (See Personnel Security Clearance and Security Program Management below).
c. Certificate Pertaining to Foreign Interests – Each organization must execute the certificate as one of several means in the identification and assessment by the Government of the sources of power that affect the organization. The Government is interested in matters pertaining to foreign ownership, control or influence (FOCI) in the management of operations. Importantly; an organization determined to be under FOCI is ineligible for an FCL, or an existing FCL shall be suspended or revoked unless security measures are taken as necessary to remove the possibility of adverse impact on classified contracts.
d. Organization - The Government applies the FOCI assessment standard to other offices or organizations related to the one applying for a FCL; as an example the parent-subordinate relationship existing between the NSHE Chancellor and the NSHE component entities. In this case, the Chancellor's Office would be assessed for FOCI issues under the new FCL.
e. Personnel Security Clearance (PCL): Both locations must implement separate systems of security clearance management for DOD and DOE. Security clearance management is one component of the security program. The DRI security office has oversight of 44 security clearances associated with the DOD and DOE contracts and another 37 security access credentials where a clearance is not required. Initial clearance investigation costs are approximately $3,700 each, and reinvestigations (required every 5 years) are $2,500. Clearances are presently funded by the government departments. However, federal budget reductions could place this burden on contractors in the future.
f. Initial and Random Drug Testing Program: Both locations must establish a drug testing program in accordance with section 10 CFR 707, Workplace Substance Abuse Programs at DOE Sites and the Guidelines for Federal Workplace Drug Testing Programs. Persons holding a security clearance with DOE must be initially tested and thereafter, randomly tested to confirm the absence of illegal drugs in their system. The costs associated with management of the current program are unavailable at this time.
g. Foreign Travel and Foreign National Contact Reports: Both locations must establish a means of tracking and documenting foreign travel by cleared U.S. personnel and foreign national contacts. All reports are submitted to the Government agency counterintelligence (CI) office for disposition. The CI coordination effort is one component of the security program.
h. Security Program Management: Both locations must establish and manage separate security programs for DOD and DOE. The requirements of each are similar in many areas but are governed by departmental directives specific to each agency. Following is a sampling of key components associated with program management and the associated requirements:
    i. Administration – Write plans, policies and procedures; perform program self-assessments; host audits and inspections by the Government; prepare and submit reports and surveys; ensure compliance with contract security specifications; manage an operations security (OPSEC) program and be available for recall after hours to address urgent security matters.

ii. Classified Material Access, Control and Accountability – Initiate security clearance processing; conduct security briefings/debriefings; manage classified material access, document control and certified destruction; investigate and document security incidents; manage secured areas and classified computer operations when activated.

iii. Foreign National Visits and Assignments – Provide security support to the FOCI program; coordinate visits and work assignments for foreign nationals in relation to the federal contracts; write security plans and risk assessments related to foreign national assignments; serve as liaison with federal agency security offices.

iv. Training and Security/Safety Education – Administer a program of training meeting contract and federal specification; maintain training records on all assigned persons; coordinate safety and radiological training as needed; submit training and attendance reports.

8. Another key aspect of DRI's operation that invalidates an assumption of the transfer of all contracts and grants is related to a very unique classification of research faculty. This unique component to DRI that has existed for the majority of its history is the more flexible requirements for faculty to be employed at DRI via an associate track. The associate track provides scientific, technical, and operational support to DRI projects and programs, and the associate track faculty are required to hold only a Bachelor's degree, but may hold higher degrees. There is no equivalent track in universities. Most DRI scientists in the associate track hold Master's or Bachelor's level degrees, and yet they are classified as faculty and they are just as productive in many cases as faculty with PhDs. These faculty are critical to the success of the research programs and hold a unique role. They would face some of the most significant changes in employment status, likely resulting in conversion to classified or leaving NSHE entirely.

9. In addition to the numerous operational differences that invalidate the assumption that all of DRI's contracts and grants can be transferred into the universities, a fiscal analysis of consolidating DRI into the universities illustrates that all of the following (best case) conditions would have to be fulfilled for a net savings of $2,877,915:

a. There is no loss in DRI research faculty due to the transition;
b. No incentive funds (offer of tenure, research support packages, etc.) are required to encourage the research faculty to stay at DRI;
c. There is no loss in ICR (at the FY 2011 budgeted level of $12.5 million) due to faculty attrition, loss of federal initiative funding, etc;
d. The full savings identified by the NSHE ($4.7 million) will be realized;
e. There are no additional operational costs incurred for management of either DRI campus;
f. The consolidation will begin on July 1, 2012; DRI (or its equivalent) will be state funded at the governor's recommended FY 12 level ($7.4 million) rather than the FY 13 level ($6.3 million); and
The consolidated unit will garner the operational savings identified by DRI for FY 2012 ($1,200,000).

As soon as these conditions fail, there is no net savings and, in fact, net losses are incurred. For example if the following conditions occur (which are most likely given the statement that several key research faculty will leave DRI should consolidation be implemented), a net loss of $3,835,085 will occur with the consolidation:

a. There is a 30% loss in DRI research faculty due to the transition, with a 30% loss in grant and contract revenue and ICR when compared to the FY 2011 budgeted level ($3,756,000);
b. There is a reduction in ICR funding due to overall reductions in the funding of federal initiatives, etc., mandatory grant and contract renegotiations, etc. ($750,000);
c. Some incentive funds (offer of tenure, research support packages, etc.) are required to encourage the research faculty to stay at DRI ($1,000,000 cost);
d. The full savings identified by the NSHE ($4.7 million) will be realized;
e. There will be additional operational costs incurred for management of the DRI campuses ($500,000 cost);
f. The consolidation will begin on July 1, 2012; DRI (or its equivalent) will be state funded at the midpoint between the governor's recommended FY 12 level ($7.4 million) and the FY 13 level ($6.3 million), i.e., at $6.8 million for FY 2013; and
g. The consolidated unit will garner the operational savings identified by DRI for FY 2012 ($1,200,000).

If any of the identified revenue reductions or costs increases, then the net loss will also increase. Also, please note that these assumptions do not assume a change in the OMB circular (from the current A122 for non-profit institutions to the A21 for higher education institutions). If that were to occur on any existing or future grants, the potentials for additional losses in indirect cost recovery significantly increase.

10. The consolidation of DRI into the universities provided in scenario one assumes ideal conditions in which private donations would be transferred into the universities with continued support. The conditions for transfer are not ideal, requiring court action and legal expenses. For example:

a. DRI has 14 endowments worth approximately $26.7 million, of which seven (worth $1.3 million) were established by living donors and seven (worth $25.4 million) were established by donors now deceased and without living relatives. Thus, for the bulk of DRI's endowments, court action and the attendant costs and delays are required to change the designated beneficiary from DRI to other NSHE institutions; endowment funds in Nevada are managed under the Uniform Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (UPMIFA), which requires this court action. There is no way of estimating the court costs, however, one can easily envision that it would be expensive given the language of the largest gift was specific in its language: "to the Desert Research Institute."
b. In assuming a division of faculty between UNLV and UNR, there is also an assumption that DRI faculty only function at the location of the campus and therefore there would be no issue in the assignment of faculty to UNR and UNLV, respectively. The assumption is not valid given as many as twenty faculty in Reno will travel regularly to Las Vegas working on research projects and as many as five in Las Vegas will travel to Reno to work on projects originating on this campus.

11. DRI is a statewide entity and operates seamlessly across the state of Nevada. DRI faculty, whether they are located on DRI's Reno or Las Vegas campus work collaboratively on projects that originate at one or the other campus. For example, several faculty from Reno work on projects funded through a principle investigator in Las Vegas. Dividing the faculty into the two universities would create a great divide between northern- and southern-based faculty in which collaboration between these two groups would largely cease to exist. Contracts and grants based upon the talent pool available from both locations would be severely impaired and could easily be lost. For example, large programs funded by DOE and DOD that depend upon the state-wide talent pool of DRI would either cease to exist or be considerably reduced in scope, size, and content, resulting in a loss of significant research revenue.

12. In scenario one it is assumed that research faculty are not eligible for tenure and are on contracts that generally have to be self-supported. This is valid as all faculty at DRI are on soft-money without tenure. However, unlike the universities, DRI's business model supports soft money research positions through ICR (overhead) in way that does not occur in universities. Thus, any faculty not offered tenure at a university (an additional cost to NSHE and the State of Nevada) would lose a critical set of support mechanism for innovation and creativity.

13. At DRI, overhead derived from research project funding is reinvested in the research faculty at DRI in order nurture and retain faculty as well as support their ability to innovate. In soft-money positions and without tenure at the universities, DRI faculty would lose much valued and critical support such as:
    a. The loss of matching funds for federal agency contract and grants that DRI Is providing via overhead [and Applied Research Initiative (ARI) state funding as long as it lasts] would result in fewer opportunities to secure grants and contracts.
    b. Start-up packages for faculty recruitment – These are funds to attract bright scientists, allowing them to build new labs, initiate new programs, purchase new equipment, or hire graduate students. Such start-ups funds are rarely, if ever provided, to soft-money positions in universities.
    c. Sabbaticals – DRI self-funds ~3 per year for faculty to initiate new research directions and/or acquire new skill sets. The sabbaticals are funded at about $300K per year and are highly valued by our faculty. Sabbaticals are not provided to non-tenure or tenure-track positions in universities.
    d. Senior faculty support for innovation – DRI provides additional funds to individual senior faculty for innovation and creativity, given that the vast majority of the work time is billable to contracts and grants. They have no place to bill for creative endeavors that enhance their reputation and research product. State-funded faculty at universities have time covered for such activities. For example, such investments at DRI have led to two Small Business Innovation Research grants as well as funding from DOE and California for an innovative demand response energy technology.
    e. Institutional Research and Development (IR&D) funding through DRI's internal Research Affairs Council, and small amounts of seed funds in the Office of the Executive Vice President for Research (EVPR), are made available for data collection and analysis. This front-end support can lead to winning future large projects. In addition, the divisions have IR&D funding; the Division of Hydrological Sciences spent $162K in this area in FY10.
    f. Proposal development funding – The EVPR and the division executive directors provide funds from DRI's overhead that support proposal development by the faculty. For example, one division invested $332K on proposal development during the last fiscal year.

g. Short-term faculty research bridge funding – Both the EVPR and each research division have funds available for bridging when faculty members are in between finishing one project and receiving funds for a new project. Such funds are not available to soft-money positions in universities.

QUESTION 3

Reform Plan for Administrative, Operational and Academic/Curricular Areas: The Subcommittee requested that the NSHE provide a plan to reform the administrative, operational and academic/curricular areas of the NSHE institutions. To the extent appropriate, reform strategies should be incorporated into the scenarios.

RESPONSE

Administrative and Operational Reforms are described in Question 1 as part of the NSHE Efficiency and Effectiveness Initiative. The following three reforms are included in the NSHE Plan for Colleges and Universities and have been discussed with legislative committees during this legislative session:

1. Student Tuition and Fee Changes
    a. All new fees paid by in-state students and tuition for out-of-state students should remain at each institution and not be allocated in support of the state supported operating budget (SB451) – this will also be a matter for the funding formula study to review.
    b. Differential fees are in place to support high cost or high demand programs to supplement what is currently generated by existing state support (SB449).
    c. Legislature and Board will consider potential reset of the state and student responsibility within the state funding formula.

    In addition to these tuition and fee reforms, the Board of Regents in 2010 revised its policy concerning the establishment of tuition and fees, effectively removing its longstanding philosophy for low fees and is moving toward market rate pricing, while trying to protect access. In the fall, the Chancellor will convene an ad hoc committee made up of institutional representatives, students and parents to consider and make recommendations on tuition policy, access, affordability and other matters related to student success.

2. Rainy Day Fund – The creation of an NSHE Stabilization Fund with a combination of state appropriations and unspent end-of year funds within the NSHE state-supported operating budget (SB434).

3. Funding Formula Study –NSHE has requested the 2011 Legislature to direct an interim funding formula study that would consider the formula in the context of creating new incentives for institutional behavior that reward outcomes rather than inputs and other such matters. For example, funding for course completion, degrees awarded, institutional retention of tuition and fees, and external grants gained are positive outcomes that should be considered.

4. Nevada Research and Business Alliance – The Board of Regents has asked for legislative funding and direction for a Nevada Research and Business Alliance. Representatives from business, government and higher education would collaborate to establish a state-wide vision for long-term research, technology and workforce development priorities in this state and direct new monies into research and technology transfer to support the economic growth of the state. (SB395 and AB449)

In addition, the implementation of the iNtegrate Project within NSHE represents a significant operational reform. Oracle's PeopleSoft Enterprise Campus Solutions 9.0 is helping NSHE institutions more effectively manage the entire student lifecycle – from recruiting and admissions to student services– in a flexible, secure environment. The Student Services Module within the integrated system, which will be fully implemented Systemwide by Fall 2011, provides access to personalized, easily navigated information with enhanced data security. It also improves efficiency through self-service capabilities for students, faculty, and staff. With this implementation, institutions and System Administration will have access to a shared directory of student information (and employee data in the next phase) and to applications that need the data, minimizing data inaccuracies and the need to reenter data. The second phase of the iNtegrate Project will add finance, grants management, business, and human resources functionality, providing the same advantages in these areas for increased productivity and accuracy.

Academic Reforms are a key part of the NSHE Plan for Nevada's Colleges and Universities: Combining Excellence and Austerity to Attain Success (September 2010). These reforms have been outlined previously by NSHE but in response to this question, we will take this opportunity to underscore their importance and, in most cases, their dramatic impact.

1. Accelerated Degree Programs will be established with financial incentives and academic support for cohorts of students to finish certificates and degrees quickly, a reform area that will yield quick results.

2. Credit Limitations on Degrees will be set by the Board of Regents in order to reduce cost and time to degree for students and reduce the cost to the state. Hopefully, it also means more certificate and degree completers. This is set to be approved by the Board in June 2011.

3. Low-Yield Programs will be subject to regular and predictable review if low numbers of graduates and few service courses exist then such programs will be subject to elimination. This reform effort has been a key ingredient in the difficult decisions related to the budget cuts.

4. Redesigned Courses at each institution will include remedial and general education courses. New models for instruction and learning will be employed where research indicates that greater student learning and success at less cost or less time are achieved through alternate methods. A project examining remedial mathematics is already underway in partnership with the Education Commission of the States (ECS).

5. Incentives for Decreased Time to Degree are being considered, including targeted use of fees to build incentives for students to complete college sooner, such as guaranteed fee levels up to a certain number of credits or penalties for students who drop or repeat classes. (The study on these incentives will begin in fall 2011.)

6. Part-time Faculty are critically important to our instructional mission, and our institutions are putting in place appropriate quality assurance mechanisms for these faculty, including prescribed course content, mandated end-of-course tests, in-class observations of part-time faculty instruction, and required student evaluations of all faculty. This reform initiative will raise student and public confidence in all instruction within NSHE institutions.

7. Articulation and Transfer is one of our most important reform areas for improvement with putting in place continual quality assurance programs that monitor student success in transfer and create faculty conversations between institutions where large numbers of students can be expected to transfer. Required advising and orientation for students will decrease student enrollment in courses that are inappropriate for their final degree or certificate goals.

8. Financial Aid has been too little and often too late for students. Our reform will focus on early efforts in high school to get students to apply for financial aid in their senior year, ensuring that all students who qualify for federal financial assistance apply, and continuing to set aside dollars for financial aid for the neediest students as fees and tuition costs rise.

In addition to these academic reforms, Nevada signed on to be a member of the Complete College America initiative where the State has to commit to specific annual goals for graduating more students through 2020. Complete College America set a goal that by 2020 six out of ten young adults in the United States will have a college degree or certificate of value. Nevada is one of 28 states committed to achieving this goal. NSHE and private higher education institutions are asked to graduate collectively an additional 1,064 students every year through 2020 (a compounding increase over time). Complete College America has identified essential steps to enhance student success and significantly boost completions – and challenged states to deploy policies and practices that have proven successful in other states, including uniformly measuring success, performance funding, reducing time to degree, and transforming the delivery of remediation.

All of these efforts will result in a more efficient and effective higher education experience for students, one that supports their success. These plans are in place and in most cases, already underway. However, base support for faculty and staff has to be in place to carry out these initiatives. Sudden and dramatic budget cuts will delay these efforts.

QUESTION 4

Alignment of NSHE Workforce Development Efforts with State Economic Development Goals: The Subcommittee requested that information be provided on the workforce development activities NSHE institutions are currently undertaking and how those efforts align with the economic development goals being discussed by the Governor and the 2011 Legislature.

RESPONSE

The following summaries include the workforce development activities that are currently being undertaken at NSHE's seven teaching institutions. We are not aware of details related to the Governor's economic development goals in any level of specificity that would enable us to align current workforce development activities with those goals in a meaningful analysis. However, in some cases the institutions did attempt to make such an alignment when possible.

University of Nevada, Las Vegas

Graduates specialize in health promotion, health care administration, health sciences, and public health.

Dental Medicine, School of
The School of Dental Medicine serves Clark County and the state of Nevada in oral health care, health services, research, and scholarly activities. Graduates provide comprehensive oral health care by diagnosing disease and treating patients.

Education, College of
The College of Education works with students pursuing post-secondary career and technical licensure - which is an extension of workforce education. The college contributes to the field of workforce education/economics by extending programs to those who are already gainfully employed in Southern Nevada, but also to those who are seeking to become licensed teachers as well.

Engineering, College of
The Howard Hughes College of Engineering offers the following disciplines: Civil Engineering, Computer Engineering, Computer Science, Construction Management, Informatics, Electrical Engineering, Entertainment Engineering and Mechanical Engineering. Graduates are employed by government agencies and local industries such as CDoT, Nevada Department of Transportation, civil and construction consulting companies, NV Energy, Southwest Gas, water districts, local construction companies, JT3, NSTec, BallyTech, International Gaming and Technology, and casinos. Graduates of the college find jobs in gaming technology, construction, water resources, transportation, energy and utility industry, nuclear and defense industries, and local, state, and federal government.

Fine Arts, College of
The College of Fine Arts (CFA) prepares graduates for the many entertainment venues in Las Vegas with students working as film makers, jazz musicians, dancers, artists, theater designers, and landscape architects as well as many other opportunities. UNLV answers the need for the growth of the entertainment industry in Nevada.

Hotel Administration, College of
There are approximately 11,600 alumni who graduated from the William F. Harrah College of Hotel Administration. 72% of UNLV's alumni were employed at graduation with 90% of the positions considered career related. 46.5% or 5,400 of the 11,600 alumni have a home address in the state of Nevada. 72% of UNLV's alumni were employed at graduation with 90% of the positions considered career related. 73% of UNLV's alumni indicated their post graduation employment was in southern Nevada. The positions ranged from line level to middle management.

William S. Boyd School of Law
The Boyd School of Law is the only law school in the state of Nevada and offers three programs: a part-time evening program, a part-time day program, and a full-time day program. Graduates of the programs are taught a combination of skills that stress ethics, professionalism, community service and dispute avoidance/dispute resolution.

Liberal Arts, College of UNLV's College of Liberal Arts, is centrally involved in work force development for our region and State in that UNLV teaches a large proportion of the courses that satisfy general education requirements. These courses enable students to develop the analytical thinking and communication skills required of all members of Nevada's workforce requiring higher education degrees ranging from business people, to scientists and engineers, government workers, journalists, and hotel and gaming administrators. UNLV's research reputation is very important for economic diversity in that the research reputation of a local university is hugely important in attracting businesses thinking of relocation to Nevada. The College of Liberal Arts plays increasingly central roles in work force development in the state of Nevada.

Libraries
The Business Librarian developed and facilitates workshops for ExporTech program participants from the local business community, provides individual research assistance to community members enrolled in Nevada Small Business Development Center, developed and maintains the Small Business Information Gateway for local business needs, and developed a print library resources guide for the business community which is widely distributed locally. The Dean of Libraries makes regular presentations and workshops for local business leaders on how to make use of quality business information available through the Libraries' online databases and to offer workshops and consultations from expert librarians.

Nursing, School of
The School of Nursing prepares nurses for entry level positions (BSN) – these graduates find employment within three months of graduation. We also provide graduate education to nurses for advanced practice roles (MS, DNP, and Ph.D.). Graduates find employment as Family Nurse Practitioners, Nursing Educators, and nursing leaders in clinical settings and industry.

Research, Office of Renewable Energy
UNLV and NV Energy developed a Solar and Renewable Energy minor program with NV Energy providing a $500,000 donation to help establish this program. The goal of the program is to position Nevada and UNLV as leaders in the field of alternative energy through the support of excellent educational programs that advance understanding of the field, build the state's workforce, and stimulate the state and local economy.

A new Graduate Certificate in Solar and Renewable Energy was recently approved for Spring 2011. The goal of this certificate program is to provide a specialized qualification for career professionals in the energy industry, professionals from other fields seeking entry into the clean energy field, or currently enrolled graduate students seeking an added specialization. It will also meet increasing demands for highly skilled decision-makers and leaders with interdisciplinary training in solar and renewable energy technologies and policies.

Sciences, College of UNLV's Colleges of Sciences, along with the College of Engineering, has initiated high-technology workforce goals. Here, the interest is in developing students trained in high-tech areas such as the biosciences (bioengineering, biochemistry, biophysics, biomedical, etc) and in renewable energy (solar, geothermal, wind, storage, etc.). These graduates would tie-in to the economic development goals set forth in legislative bills such as AB449, which would help to jump-start these areas through targeted investments in the research universities and in business. Besides helping to create these new business entities, we would be providing much of their workforces.

Urban Affairs

The College of Urban Affairs programs are integral to aid students in their entrance to the work force. Public Administration offers their undergraduate degree on-line and is directed towards public employees who need a degree for career advancement. The MPA program permits career advancement and aids individuals in moving into management positions. The Greenspun School of Journalism produces graduates who are prepared as broadcast, online, and print journalists as well as specialists in integrated marketing communication (advertising and public relations) and media studies. Criminal Justice graduates are trained for careers in the criminal justice field such as law enforcement and corrections, among others.

Perhaps the clearest examples of work force development are Social Work and Marriage and Family Therapy (MFT). Social Work produces approximately 100 social workers per year. More than 60% of MFT graduates work in community agencies and the largest providers of mental healthcare in the state are MFT graduates. Finally, it should be observed that communication skills are an essential part of any job and the Communication Studies program serves as the basis for oral and written communication skills.

University of Nevada, Reno

Alignment of NSHE Workforce Development Efforts with State Economic Development Goals

Colleges and departments at the University of Nevada, Reno engage in numerous educational , research and outreach activities that impact the lives of Nevada's citizenry. This enrichment may be in the form of training and education for a current or new job or career, may be in the form of a program or experience that is personally enriching, or may be a service that would not otherwise be available to them or their family members. Serving the personal and educational needs of Nevadans is an important part of ensuring that the state has a well-prepared and innovative work force; in addition, businesses hoping to locate here will look carefully at the educational programs and services available to keep its work force up to date and fulfilled. In addition to being actively involved in assisting the many agencies and organizations working on the state's economic development efforts, the University recognizes that the education and development of the state's workforce provided by academic programs must continue to be of high quality, responsive to the needs of the state and any changing needs identified as the state moves forward. The following are examples of how the University's current programs prepare Nevada's workforce:

Biotechnology Industry

Students receiving a B.S. in Biochemistry and Molecular Biology or a B.S. /M.S. in Biotechnology create a workforce pool for the biotechnology industry. Such a pool needs to be in place before these high tech industries can be attracted to the state. Numerous Biochemistry and Molecular Biology M.S. and Ph.D. recipients contribute to the local workforce in biotechnology firms like the Hamilton Company, Nutritional Research Corp. and Charles River Laboratories International, Inc.

State of Nevada Agriculture and Natural Resources Management
B.S. and M.S. graduates of programs in the Natural Resources and Environmental Science programs provide a work force for U.S. and Nevada natural resource and environmental agencies as well as for private companies and non-governmental organizations. These graduates, whether in private or public employment, are involved in restoration and mitigation activities associated with mining, ranching, Bureau of Land Management, Natural Resources Conservation Service, Nevada Department of Wildlife, Nevada Division of Environmental Protection, U.S. Forest Service, Nevada Division of Forestry and NV Energy within the state of Nevada.

The Veterinary Sciences program prepares students for admission to veterinary school. Three students each year can be supported through a resident contract program with various western veterinary schools which provides financial assistance to these students. One condition of this support is that they must return and practice in Nevada for four years. This adds to the workforce and provides important veterinary services to the state.

Health Care, Nutrition and Veterinary Science
Many of the University's programs prepare Nevada students to go on to different health professional schools including medical school, pharmacy school, and dental school, thus contributing to the health professional workforce of the state. Other programs in nutrition, nursing, social work, public health, and aging populate the health and human service networks that serve our communities. In addition to serving Nevada's citizens, these health and human service professionals and the services they provide are part of the fabric of socially responsive, healthy communities needed to attract new businesses, professional services, and industries to the state.

Business, Gaming
Students who graduate with degrees from the University's College of Business provide a wide range of skills essential to all Nevada businesses, from 21st century knowledge based economy to legacy industries. Knowledge of business processes such as contracting, marketing, financing, management and accounting is critical to the future success and growth of all business types. Great ideas, inventions, and discoveries cannot be translated into economic activity unless a workforce educated and trained in basic and advanced business processes is in place.

Engineering, Technology, Renewable Energy
The College of Engineering educates engineers and computer scientists who will play critical roles in the expansion of business and industry in Nevada. Graduates are typically employed by city, state and federal agencies, private industry and in many cases they start their own companies. The college prepares students in all of the majors for the challenges of developing and or expanding a business or product line through a senior design capstone course that stresses innovation and entrepreneurship, which includes development of a business plan.

Particularly related to the state's economic development in renewable energy, the College of Engineering also offers a renewable energy minor within Electrical and Biomedical Engineering department and participates with other colleges in a University-wide minor in renewable energy. Plans are underway for the development of a professional certificate program in renewable energy targeting the enhancement of the background of professionals needing enhanced knowledge in the area of renewable energy.

Education

The University's programs prepare individuals for various positions in the state's educational institutions. These include teachers (preschool through high school), administrators, counselors, and human development and family specialists. In addition, there are advanced programs and educational opportunities for the state's professional educational work force.

Outreach

In addition to educational programs, the University's colleges, departments and offices are heavily engaged in outreach to Nevada entities and individuals. For instance, many academic programs engage students in internships and other supervised experiences in the community. These programs provide supervised students who assist in such activities as providing services to individuals and families through the Early Childhood Autism and Psychological Services Center, offering Spanish translator/interpreter services in local public agencies, and providing student interns or volunteers to Nevada's public schools and nonprofit agencies.

The University's colleges and departments also continue to provide programs of interest to the public. Speakers on topics of interest to community members have been offered through the College of Liberal Arts Great Conversations series, with public sessions in both Reno and Las Vegas, as well as the College of Science Discover Science Lecture series. These are just two of many such events offered which enrich the lives of Nevada's workforce.

The School of the Arts engages in extensive outreach to the community, enhancing quality of life through performances and exhibitions, and preparing majors for careers in the arts and arts education. The arts bring on the order of 75 guest artists to the Reno area each year, and faculty and students participate in community arts organizations such as the Reno Philharmonic Orchestra, Chamber Orchestra, and Artown. The economic impact has recently been calculated at more than $13 Million annually in northern Nevada. The School's public events range in attendance from 235 to more than 7,000 community members.

In addition, research and outreach services are provided to the state through the many outreach centers and programs, such as the Latino Research Center, School of Social Research and Justice Studies, Nevada Center for Excellence in Disabilities, and Nevada Small Business Development Center.

Highlights from local economic impact studies

A 2007 study by FamiliesUSA, In Your Own Backyard, shows that NIH funding for Nevada generated $41,000,000 of business activity and 283 new jobs. The report also highlights why global health matters to Nevada.

The University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) had an economic impact of $611.3 million in 1999-2000. The University directly employed 5,700 people and induced nearly 10,800 jobs in the local economy.

According to a report from BIO and Battelle, Nevada legislation included $5.4 million for a Biotechnology and Genomics Research Facility at UNR and $10.15 million for start-up research expenditures at the Nevada Cancer Institute.

Nevada State College

Through accessible education and training programs and by actively meeting with and soliciting input from the local business community and emerging industry clusters, Nevada State College is an integral component within the Nevada System of Higher Education's broader workforce development and economic diversification strategies. Nevada State College's primary focus is producing qualified human capital for Nevada's business interests as quickly and efficiently as possible. Our mission is to successfully put people into the workforce, which means that, given Nevada's hard-hit economy, considerable attention is now spent retooling unemployed and dislocated workers. Nevada's unemployment rate demands that we increase our efforts and become more strategic in our actions.

Nevada State College has developed and refined academic programs, procured equipment, and established facilities that provide access, education, and training for established as well as up-and-coming industries. For example, our physical and life sciences division teaches students using the state-of-the-art equipment employed by leading biotechnology firms such as Genentech and Amgen, and our nursing program has expanded its reach to sophisticated medical equipment. Our recently constructed Finance Center, complete with a 38-foot stock ticker and 12 high-definition LCD displays, provides live financial information and a compelling real-world learning environment found nowhere else in Nevada. Later this year, the college will implement a cutting-edge lecture capture system to help promote the success of and increase access for students in challenging nursing and science courses and invigorate online courses with dynamic multimedia content. Supporting these and other efforts is a series of academic workforce initiatives designed to address several of the developmental areas targeted in the Nevada Science and Technology Plan approved by the Board of Regents. Listed below is a brief synopsis of each initiative.

Biotechnology/Biomedicine

- As part of the IDeA Network of Biomedical Research Excellence (INBRE) governed by UNR, Nevada State College recently offered the first training session in an extended program that certifies future biomedical professionals in the use of an advanced Beckman Coulter Capillary Electrophoresis (CE) device. The training sessions, scheduled to run twice annually for at least five years, help address unmet demand in the biomedical industry and, according to the CE Program Manager at Beckman Coulter, provide undergraduate students with a level of access that is unmatched at any college or institution in the country.

- NSC also is leveraging INBRE support to provide training in the use of an advanced Flow Cytometer device. Though training will be provided mainly to NSC students, members of the Nevada Cancer Institute also will use the equipment to pursue essential research efforts. The mutually beneficial relationship will give the Cancer Institute access to previously unavailable resources while opening the door to planned internship opportunities for NSC students.

Nursing

- The NSC nursing program has worked diligently to provide exceptional training to a wide range of students and consequently address a statewide shortage of qualified professionals. The success and impact of our program hinges largely on the development of specialized degree tracks that vastly improve student access to a Bachelor of Science in Nursing. In addition to our traditional, four-year BSN track, the college also offers: 1) a 1-year accelerated track for students who already possess a bachelor's degree, 2) a part-time track for students who face outside obligations (e.g., work, family) that can be completed in eight consecutive semesters, and 3) a fully online RN to BSN track that serves licensed nurses who have earned an associate's degree from an accredited nursing program.

Climate Change

- NSC was awarded a grant of $400,000 across five years to facilitate the professional development of in-service middle school teachers in the Las Vegas/Henderson and Reno/Sparks regions. As such, NSC will host a summer institute for in-service teachers on the latest climate change science and will organize additional on-site training sessions at area middle schools.

- As part of our degree program in Environmental & Resource Science, NSC students develop the expertise needed to address a water shortage concerns in Southern Nevada. Guided field experiences (e.g., regular trips to the Las Vegas Wash to assess soil samples and measure vegetation quality) provide students with an opportunity to hone crucial practical skills while they apply disciplinary expertise acquired in the classroom.

Education

- The School of Education offers Alternative Route to Licensure (ARL) coursework for individuals earning an initial teaching license in NV. The individuals are recruited by the CCSD school district due to their expertise in a critical need content area such as science, math, or special education. Most of the individuals recruited through ARL, a collaborative program between CCSD and local colleges and universities, are seeking a second career due to job loss or career changes. The courses they take at NSC meet licensure requirements in secondary education math or science and K-12 special education. The coursework taken by ARL students at NSC have been approved for state licensure in a specified teaching area as well as for recertification or retraining needs for practicing teachers. The same is true for pedagogy and content courses offered in the NSC PB initial licensure program, known as the Teacher Education Program (TEP).

Speech Pathology

- In close collaboration with the Nevada Coalition on Related Special Education Services, NSC has played an important role in addressing shortage and retraining needs of speech and language, school-based, pathologists. Nevada State College prepares speech pathologists at the undergraduate and post-baccalaureate (PB) level as well as offers courses for recertification credits. NSC's undergraduate program in speech and language pathology is one of three in the nation that leads to licensure and school-based practice upon graduation.

Nevada school districts continue to face a shortage of speech and language pathologists and the NSC Speech and Language Pathology program offers courses that meet initial licensure retraining needs for new and practicing SLP's across the state.

Business

- Truckee Meadows Community College and NSC are jointly developing a fast-track online degree programs in business and management to cohorts of community college students who have earned an associate's degree in business or criminal justice. This innovative, cross-state agreement establishes a seamless transition between the two institutions on several levels (curricular format, advising) while providing educational and career advancement to a traditionally underserved student population.

- A planned partnership with the City of Las Vegas is designed to give working professionals an opportunity to purse degrees in Business and Public Administration through online offerings and courses taught on-site in training facilities at City Hall.

College of Southern Nevada

Current workforce development activities in CSN's Division of Workforce and Economic Development target three specific areas:

- Assessment, gap fill and retooling for displaced workers in Southern Nevada.
- Adult basic skills targeting the 20% of the workforce without a high school diploma
- Workforce technical programs for career entry and continuing education for incumbent workers.

CSN's Workforce Division also provides customized training to support local businesses and industry based on demand. This element of workforce education responds with program development based the "just in time" skills training needs of local industry.

Finally, the Workforce Division continues to drill for data utilizing an economic modeling tool to forecast industry labor needs in the short and long term. Based on this data programs are vetted for development based on cost recovery, sustainability, and employment prospects for program completers.

Additional details on CSN's efforts in these areas are as follows:

Assessment, gap fill and retooling for displaced workers in Southern Nevada
CSN's Division of Workforce offers a work skill assessment that is utilized nationally to determine skill levels and occupational matches based on the assessment results. Additionally, gaps in skill levels are addressed through an on-line remediation program that expedites learning delivery and results.

Additional courses have been revamped and implemented to address the needs of displaced workers in job readiness, computer skills and job search skills. Courses have been utilized by DETR and other agencies.

Adult basic skills targeting the approximately 20% of the workforce without a high school diploma

Clark County Workforce Ages 25 and above	2009 Population	Less Than High School	High School Diploma	College Degree
Total	1,238,507	216,338	666,917	355,252

Our GED classes have been redeveloped to target specific knowledge gap fill and broken out by subject area. Students are able to receive targeted instruction. Due to the high volume of students coming in needed basic skills before entering GED preparation courses, additional support classes in basic skills have been developed.

The English as a Second Language population requires courses in language learning and much of the population also needs the GED preparation. Efforts in meeting the needs of the ESL population have been to target employment goals. Pilot of a course blending customer service skills and ESL has been successfully received and an additional pilot is being conducted.

Workforce technical programs for career entry and continuing education for incumbent workers
CSN's Workforce Division offers a number of workforce programs developed with employer input on competencies and certifications required. Examples of programs range from healthcare programs to industrial programs.

- Patient Care Technician (Dialysis)
- Health Unit Coordinator
- Certified Nursing Assistant
- EKG
- Facilities Technicians
- Welding
- Building Energy Auditor
- OSHA Trainer

Incumbent workers receive training and certification required to continue their jobs and enhance skill levels:

- CPR/ PALS
- Lifeguard Certification
- IV Certification for LPN's
- Ultrasound-Guided PICC Placement
- EMT Basic and Intermediate Refresher
- Disaster Site Worker Train-the-Trainer
- Forklift Operator Train-the-Trainer
- OSHA Hazwoper Train-the-Trainer

- Customer Service
- Supervisor / Manager Series

Great Basin College

1. Efforts on Economic Development must focus on favorable investment climate, tax structure, labor force and Nevada's unique resources for solar and geothermal power.
    a. GBC: WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT
        i. GBC is heavily engaged in workforce development in many areas. Most notably is the Maintenance Training Cooperative (MTC). MTC partners with local business and industry in providing scholarships and training in Electrical, Diesel, Welding, Industrial Millwright and Instrumentation technologies. Over 60 students receive scholarships for these Career and Technical Education (CTE) training programs, with enrollments of up to 120 students. The scholarships also provide an opportunity for students to work one or two days each week at their sponsor company in their field of study. Students are often preferred candidates for jobs at their sponsor company once their training is completed. The CTE programs are "accelerated program." Students complete their studies in a forty-eight week period and are awarded either a Certificate of Achievement or an Associate of Applied Science in their discipline. The training opportunities are open to all students, not just MTC scholarship students. The job placement rate for CTE students is 94%, generally in well paid jobs.

        ii. In addition to the MTC program, GBC has developed partnerships with local companies to train their existing workforce. In 2006, Newmont Gold Corporation and GBC partnered to develop a "skills standard assessment" that would establish a baseline skill level for maintenance personnel. The initiative took 6 months to establish and the first employee was assessed in December, 2006. The assessment is called the Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL), and is currently being used to assess Mobile Maintenance Technicians and Industrial Millwright Technicians. Newmont Gold Corporation and Barrick Gold of North America have assessed over 1,200 employees using this model. Once an employee has been assessed, a customized training plan is developed outlining the skills classes each employee needs to improve their proficiency. The assessment data has resulted in the development of many classes. To date, the program has helped enhance the skills of 950 employees. The RPL is also used to assess GBC technical students to determine their level of technical competence at the end of their own course of training

        iii. GBC Education Program is another example of workforce development. In response to critical shortages and challenges in recruiting and retaining elementary education, GBC developed bachelor degree programs in education. The program has graduated more than 200 teachers. Most have been hired in rural Nevada school districts. Because GBC contributed to

"home grown" educators, school districts enjoy talented and dedicated teachers who are committed to careers in rural Nevada communities.

iv. Health Care Programs. Qualified health care professionals are in high demand in rural Nevada. GBC has for many years had a quality RN Nursing program that has supplied a significant proportion of the needs for rural Nevada hospitals and other health care facilities. In recent years GBC developed a Bachelor of Science in Nursing program (BSN) to provide higher levels of training for registered nurses. The training provides RN's with advanced knowledge of health care provision, most of it focused on the unique demands of a rural setting. The most recent additions to health care programs are in Radiology Technology and Human Services. Both of these programs are providing much needed trained professionals for high demand jobs.

b. Renewable energy
The Great Basin College service area enjoys an abundance of renewable energy resources. All of GBC's CTE programs have components with applications in most renewable energy systems. GBC has responded to these opportunities by training students enrolled in existing programs in skills related to renewable energies. GBC is also developing programs specific to the renewable energy opportunities in the service are. Most notable are current opportunities available in solar energy in Nye County. GBC is developing curriculum with solar energy stakeholders in that part of its service area.

2. Nevada Jobs Unlimited
   a. A public private partnership
   GBC's MTC program, described above, is an excellent example of the sort of public/private partnerships of Nevada Jobs Unlimited.

   b. Growing jobs within existing Nevada businesses
   GBC's CTE programs continue to develop a workforce for the existing Nevada mining industry. Students enter into one of the five CTE programs and have an excellent chance of obtaining employment once their training is complete. These programs are in high demand and with good reason. Entry level employment for these graduates range from $45,000 to $60,000 per year. Many students enter these technical programs with little or no technical skills. GBC's CTE programs provide the necessary training for students to become successful and gain the necessary skills to be employed in a high-demand high-skill job. Programs in these fields provide a trained workforce for many types of industries, not just mining, and increase the attractiveness for new industries to locate here.

3. Expanded Broadband Access
   a. GBC: Distance Learning Technologies
   GBC already demands more than 50% of the Nevada System of Higher Education (NSHE) broadband. GBC is heavily engaged in providing instruction using interactive video (IAV) and online instruction technologies. The expansion of broadband access in rural Nevada communities will dramatically increase higher education opportunities for thousands of rural Nevada residents.

b. Health care provision/training
Many rural Nevada residents, especially military veterans, are reliant on broadband technologies for health care in what is referred to as "telemedicine." Clinics in rural Nevada link to hospitals throughout the region to provide diagnosis and treatment to place-bound patients in remote communities. GBC has been a partner in this area of health care provision.

4. Nevada Retrofit Initiative
   a. GBC: Solar hot water systems, Pahrump Great Basin College partnered with Valley Electric Cooperative in Pahrump to train displaced workers in the installation and maintenance of solar hot water heating systems in the Pahrump Valley.

   b. Weatherization programs
   GBC developed weatherization programs to train students in weatherizing homes and businesses across rural Nevada.

5. Rural Manufacturing Workforce Development
   a. GBC: Dream It Do It
   GBC has partnered with the Elko County Economic Diversification Authority (ECEDA) in this program. The program begins with students in secondary education and provides them with a path of study that can lead to good and satisfying work in manufacturing. GBC, through its dual credit and associate level training programs, can assist students in gaining these skills.

   b. GBC: Partnerships with state agencies
   GBC has partnerships with DETR and JOIN, providing training opportunities in Career and Technical Education and Health Sciences.

   c. Existing Programs with Future Potential
   Programs delivered by GBC that assist the development of a trained workforce for the mining industry will train a workforce for many industries. Mechanical and electric training programs benefit the attractiveness of the region for a wide range of industrial and manufacturing jobs. The current mining industry can serve as the basis to launch future manufacturing opportunities

Truckee Meadows Community College

Workforce Training in Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency

Upon passage of SB152 in 2008, TMCC organized the Northern Nevada Green Jobs Training Coalition, in compliance with the new state law. The group is comprised of TMCC employees, labor organization officials, and community service representatives. The Coalition also extended an invitation for Great Basin College to join the group since the labor organizations also represented the entire northern tier of the state. College of Southern Nevada also participated in our first grant application for weatherization funding from the Department of Employment Training and Rehabilitation (DETR).

Since its inception in June 2009, the Coalition has advised the college as we pursued grant funding for training that falls under SB152's jurisdiction, as well as any closely related grant opportunities not directly related to federal stimulus funds. To date, the college has received five grants:

1. DETR Low-income Weatherization grant (ARRA)
2. Community Services Agency (CSA) Energy Efficiency grant (Exxon Mobil)
3. Solar Energy Institute Instructor Training (NSF)
4. NSOE Nevada Retrofit Initiative (DOE)
5. Geothermal Plant Operator (DOE)

At this time, TMCC has trained 79 basic weatherization installers under the DETR weatherization and ExxonMobil grants. Twelve students completed intermediate weatherization training under the DETR grant, consisting of five returning students and seven incumbent workers. Three of the returning students have advanced to the current series of courses leading to national certification as residential energy auditors. At least two other individuals from the original group have returned to TMCC to pursue the Renewable Energy AAS degree emphasis. By December 2010, the college trained over 110 individuals in energy efficiency technologies, from basic weatherization to certified residential auditors.

TMCC partnered with Nevadaworks to train students in energy efficiency and sustainable energy techniques. Conducted by industry professionals the training is designed to help local businesses and organizations perform on-going energy efficiency audits of their physical plants and understand the advantages and savings derived from implementing sustainable energy technologies. Students who completed the 45-hour course received three credits from TMCC. Of the 24 students originally enrolled, 17 completed the course and earned passing grades, two officially withdrew prior to the conclusion, and the remainder failed to meet the course requirements.

Complementary to the programs developed with funding from DETR and ExxonMobil, the College has also been selected to provide workforce development training for the Nevada Retrofit Initiative. Funded by a grant obtained by the Nevada State Office of Energy, NRI has set the ambitious goal of retrofitting 5% of all single-family residences in the state with energy saving technologies that meet the Home Performance with Energy Star (HPwES) standards by 2021. To help achieve this objective, the College may train as many as 200 individuals as energy auditors, contractors, and verifiers between 2011 and 2015.

Besides the training directly funded by these grants, the College has leveraged these resources to develop traditional curriculum as part of its renewable energy, HVAC, and architecture programs. For example, a full-time instructor attended solar photovoltaic and thermal training funded by the National Science Foundation and provided by the Solar Energy Institute. As a result of his upgraded skills, the instructor is updating our existing solar energy curriculum and developing a new course in solar thermal technologies that will enhance our Renewable Energy and HVAC emphases. Energy efficiency workforce development courses have been adapted as credit courses for Renewable Energy, HVAC, Architecture, and Construction Technologies. The College is also developing plans to market certification training and professional workshops to contractors throughout the western United States utilizing the facilities developed under these grants. If successful, TMCC will become a major training center in energy efficiency technologies in the United States.

TMCC has received a U.S. Department of Energy Grant to develop training for Geothermal Plant Operators. The Certificate of Achievement for Geothermal Plant Operator (GPO) will serve a demand for highly-trained professionals needed in the growing geothermal energy industry in Nevada, nationally, and internationally. This program will allow graduates to enter the workforce prepared to begin working immediately and provides a critical cost saving solution to the shortage of qualified Geothermal Plant Operators needed to address the world's increasing demand for clean energy such as geothermal power. This program would be the first of its kind in the United States and only the second worldwide. Courses are being prepared for Fall 2011.

Renewable Energy Emphasis in Construction Technologies AAS

TMCC is now offering twelve new or revised courses that cover the solar, wind, geothermal, and energy efficiency sectors of renewable energy. In January 2009, TMCC launched a Renewable Energy emphasis as part of the Construction Technologies Degree.

The following table includes the number of students enrolled in courses specific to renewable energy and all courses within the emphasis including supporting courses. The headcount is duplicated when students register from more than one renewable or supporting course.

Headcount of Students Enrolled in Renewable Energy Courses

Semester	Number of Majors	Renewable Energy	All Classes
Fall 2009	28	95	138
Fall 2010	42	112	178

Nevada Retrofit Initiative

In his State of the State address, Governor Sandoval specifically identified the Nevada Retrofit Initiative as "a ground-breaking partnership with higher education, nonprofits, and local banks for the construction and financing of residential energy efficiency retrofits." TMCC is the primary higher education partner for training energy auditors in this effort. Under this initiative, TMCC will train 80 auditors over a three-year period. These individuals will be available to perform the necessary analysis work in homes across northern Nevada to increase energy efficiency and subsequently qualify for special low-interest financing.

Number of Auditors to be Trained	2011	2012	2013
	40	30	10

The goal of the Nevada Retrofit Initiative is to implement Home Performance with Energy Start (HPwES) and ultimately retrofit at least 5% of all single-family residences in Nevada by 2021. Overall, the Nevada State Office of Energy projects the creation/preservation of nearly 500 jobs in northern Nevada in the construction, auditing, and finance industries, as well as an economic impact of $44 million.

Manufacturing

TMCC offers a variety of training programs that support of the emerging manufacturing industry in Nevada, including machining, production systems, drafting, fabrication, and industrial systems.

The machining program trains students in both manual and computer numeric controlled (CNC) machining techniques. These are critical skills for a large variety of industries, from slot machine manufacturers to biomedical equipment. Our fabrication emphasis trains students in multiple processes from welding, sheet metal, and machining.

The production systems program focuses on training workers to manage the assembly line environment. It focuses on quality control, just-in-time materials supplies, and computer aided manufacturing process. The Industrial Systems Certificate of Achievement trains technicians who maintain and operate the sophisticated automated equipment in a modern manufacturing facility. More than 260 students per year enroll in these manufacturing-related programs.

Transportation

TMCC trains automotive and diesel mechanics to the Automotive Service Excellence master technician level established by the National Automotive Technicians Education Foundation (NATEF). Beyond automotive dealers and repair shops, a large variety of industries require qualified transportation mechanics, such as construction, distribution, and utilities. TMCC trains 240 students per year in transportation programs.

Diesel technicians are especially valuable in northern Nevada's strong distribution and logistics industries. With its centralized location, the region is well suited for on-going growth in this industry. Technicians trained by TMCC help maintain the equipment used in distribution and manufacturing plants and are critical for maintenance of over-the-road vehicles that carry products and materials from warehouses in the area to points across the western United States.

Computer Technologies

The Computer technology department provides degrees and certificate programs that are responsive to two main driving forces: the latest trends in computer technologies, and the demands of students and regional employers.

Employment data nationally and for the state predict there will be strong demand (41% projected increase) for Computer Specialists (labor code 151000) through 2018. These specialists include computer programmers, software engineers, computer support specialists, network administrators, and others. The CT Department teaches courses leading to degrees in all of these areas.

Logistics Management

Governor Sandoval stated: "Finally, we need to improve ground connections by linking Las Vegas to Phoenix via Interstate 11 and to Southern California via high-speed rail. Both are critical for transportation and logistics, as well as tourism. "…..We are uniquely situated for logistics and transportation."

This statement shows the important role that logistics continues to plan in northern Nevada. Logistics management is a fast-growing business field nationally and internationally. In the Reno area, the expected growth is about 30 percent over the next 10 years. Careers in logistics include positions in purchasing, manufacturing, distribution, and transportation. Logistics management is well suited for students who enjoy solving mysteries, international travel and working on the front lines building relationships with industry partners. The degree options at TMCC allow the student to incrementally increase their knowledge base and are designed for either the working adult or the traditional student. Students may earn a Certificate of Achievement in Logistics Management, an Associates of Arts with an emphasis in Logistics Management, and an Associate of Applied Science in Logistics Management.

Entrepreneurship

Governor Sandoval stated: "For businesses already operating in Nevada, we want you to know that our focus is on your growth. Roughly 80 percent of new jobs will be created by local businesses, and we need every one of them to put Nevadans back to work."

This statement emphasizes the need for locally grown entrepreneurs as well as well-trained business professionals to meet the demands of the new jobs that will be created by existing local companies, companies moving into northern Nevada as well as those new enterprises resulting from nurturing local entrepreneurship.

In the "Rise of the Creative Class" Richard Florida discusses and elaborates on the ways in which creative workers are changing the economy. He goes on to stress how the entrepreneurial spirit and endeavors create economic growth. Among cities that have been successful in this are Austin, TX, Seattle, WA and Sacramento, CA. Sacramento's focus on creativity and creating a community that supports creativity now has them listed as one of the top ten places to live in the US by Kiplinger's magazine. Included in the top 10 are all cities that Florida rates as high on the Creativity index. TMCC's entrepreneurship program makes it easier and more affordable for residents of Reno/Sparks to obtain the skills and knowledge that they need to be successful. Create or Die has become the new credo of businesses. The development of this program provides another path to developing creativity in the workplace and provides another tool to grow employees. Students may earn a Certificate of Achievement in Entrepreneurship or an Associates of Arts with an emphasis in Entrepreneurship.

Business

Truckee Meadows Community College provides business studies courses that reflect leading edge practices in use in the community. The required courses include Business, Accounting, Economics, Marketing, Management, and elective courses from a number business disciplines. The degree offerings enable students to enter the business arena at a number of different levels or to transfer to a four-year institution to achieve a Baccalaureate degree. Students may earn a Certificate of Achievement in Business, an Associates of Arts with an emphasis in Business, or an Associate of Applied Science in Business.

QUESTION 5

Projected Impacts to Student Access: The testimony provided by the NSHE institution Presidents indicated that the General Fund appropriation funding levels contained in The Executive Budget would result in reduced access overall and reduced availability of classes in particular. To better understand the projected impact of the Governor's recommended budget on prospective and current students in the 2011-13 biennium, the Subcommittee requested that the NSHE provide information which quantifies current access limits encountered by students and the access limits or impacts projected to occur at the funding levels recommended by the Governor.

To the extent that data is available for FY 2009, FY 2010 and FY 2011, for each teaching institution, please provide the total number of unduplicated students for two broad categories of students: new students who were unable to register for a particular course; and enrolled, continuing students who were unable to register as a result of the particular course or course sections already reaching the maximum number of registrants. Additionally, if available, please provide the total number of instances in which unsuccessful course registrations occurred for FY 2009, FY 2010 and FY 2011. For each institution, please portray the information in the table format shown below with accompanying narrative or notes which explain the information. Finally, if possible, please quantify the projected impacts that the Governor's recommended budget reductions will have on graduation rates and the average length of time to graduation.

INSERT INSTITUTION NAME HERE

RESPONSE

For the purposes of this response, each institution provided figures, to the extent available, based on academic year, rather than fiscal year. Therefore, you will see that adjustment in each column heading of the tables to follow.

Any assumptions that the institutions made in providing the requested figures have been documented in the narrative. There are a number of factors that may contribute to a student's inability to access a desired section that vary by institution, including but not limited to, the number of sections offered, popularity of the course or program, the day and time the section is offered, etc. Failure to enroll in a particular section does not mean that the student did not enroll in an alternate section. One cannot assume that the number of students who could not access a particular section could enroll in no alternate courses.

Prior to the installation of the iNtegrate (PeopleSoft) student services module, the former Student Information System only recorded one (1) course registration attempt per student per each day. Consequently, the difference between AY09 and AY10 is significant.

The data do not include the Summer Terms.

The waitlist data include only those students who requested to be waitlisted. When students register in the iNtegrate System, typically, they only view the course sections that are open. Thus, unless they are aggressively seeking to enroll in a particular section of a course, they tend not to select the waitlist option. Conversely, if a student has specific time requirements for taking classes (e.g., course schedule constraints, work, personal commitments, etc.), rather than select the waitlist option, s/he may opt to enroll in another class to ensure a final confirmed schedule.

The impact for AY 12 and AY 13 cannot be projected until the extent of the program and faculty elimination is known. What is known is that the change shown in student access to course registration over the last two academic years indicates a significant impact.

Projected impacts of reduced course offerings on student retention and graduation rates
We anticipate that the program eliminations and faculty losses resulting from the Governor's recommended budget reductions will result in a lower number of students being retained and an increase in the time needed to complete a degree. For those who persist to a degree, another year will be likely added to their time.

The reduction in offerings available has and will continue to increase the competition among students to meet course requirements. More students will wait at least one semester and up to a year to enroll in a required course, depending on their academic level. While departments have historically accommodated students nearing graduation by providing needed courses, the flexibility available for these late adjustments is no longer possible with the current and proposed reductions.

Competition among new students to meet their pre-major course requirements will increase as the number of course offerings available declines. Upper division and graduate students have even less flexibility because the courses offered at the higher levels are staggered to ensure that the number of faculty in the discipline can provide full coverage of the subject matter to meet program requirements. There are also few, if any options, for meeting upper division requirements at another local institution, and none for graduate students.

These delays will affect students who already have less flexibility in their schedules: student with limited financial resources, who carry student loans, who work, and who are supporting a family. As the time required to complete a degree is extended, the cost of attendance increases, both in terms of higher tuition rates and the financial opportunity costs of extended college attendance. The likelihood that students will experience changes in marital status, become parents, and lose external financial support increases with time in college. Older students who already have household and financial obligations are more likely to drop out when there are interruptions in their schedules.

The number of unduplicated failed course registrations remained fairly constant from Fiscal 2009 through Fiscal 2011. We do expect the number to increase somewhat as a result of earlier budget reductions associated with the elimination of Animal Biotechnology, Resource Economics, and Supply Chain Management. The uptick in failed course registrations is expected to increase dramatically for Fiscal 2013 as the elimination of courses, and entire academic departments stemming from the funding levels included in the Governor's recommended budget, are fully realized.

It is unclear what the impact of the Governor's recommended budget reductions will have upon graduation rates. It is likely that graduation rates will decline, at least in the short-term, as students who were admitted as part of prior year cohorts opt to leave the university as a result of program elimination. Time to degree should be expected to increase somewhat as a result of the loss of course options in academic units contributing to the Core Curriculum requirements.

The table above, Figure 1, and Figure 2 demonstrate the increasing trend of unsuccessful registration attempts at Nevada State College and the number of unduplicated students who were unable to register for a full course for each academic year. Based on a linear projection of the trend that has existed in the previous three academic years (2009-11) plus the anticipated reduction in FTE due to projected budget cuts, NSC projects a total of 3,683 unduplicated new and continuing students who will be unable to register for classes in AY 2013 because demand for NSC courses will exceed capacity. NSC has already maximized every available resource to accommodate additional students despite significant budget cuts in the last several years, and we have increased the average number of students per section by 22 percent in the last two years. Despite all of those efforts, the College is simply unable to meet the student demand.

In order to meet the Governor's recommended budget reduction, NSC will be forced to freeze an additional 32 positions on campus. This additional reduction in staffing will result in an increase in unsuccessful student enrollment attempts, and we project that we will be unable to accommodate 260 new student FTE over and above what would have occurred without additional budget cuts (see Figure 1).

As the average length of time to graduate depends on the availability of classes, the disruption in the normal sequencing of course offerings due to budget cuts will have a significant impact on graduation rates. Given that the average NSC student enrolls in 9.5 credits per semester (based on 2008 -2010 data), NSC's average enrollment to FTE is a ratio of 1.6. The projected reduction in FTE of 220 and 260 in 2012 and 2013, respectively, will shift this ratio to 1.8 and will decrease the average number of credits per student to 8.2. This reduction translates to an increased length of time to graduation of 12.2 months (2 – 3 semesters). This trend will also impact continuing students as they would discover that many of the required courses remaining for degree completion will not be offered as traditionally sequenced (i.e., during a traditional Fall, Spring & Summer scheduling cycle) therefore forcing an extension of their time to graduation at NSC as well.

All "actual" figures above are based on SIS student data as of the final census date. AY 2010-11 data contains Fall 2010 final data and Spring 2011 mid-term census data.

Methodology

Students counted in rows one and two attempted to enroll at least one time into any class. These figures do not take into consideration whether or not the student was successful in enrolling into a different section of the same class or a different class altogether. Students who were not able to enroll into any class may also be included here.

For example: In AY 2008-09, there were 3,486 (64%) of the 5,476 new "attempt" students who were able to enroll in any class. The remaining 1,990 students did not enroll in any class during that fiscal year. The table below shows the comparison of attempts to successful enrollments.

	AY 2008-09 Actual			AY 2009-10 Actual			AY 2010-11 Actual
	Total Attempts	Enrolled in any class	% of Tot Attempts Enrolled	Total Attempts	Enrolled in any class	% of Tot Attempts Enrolled	Total Attempts	Enrolled in any class	% of Tot Attempts Enrolled
New	5,476	3,486	64%	5,493	3,211	58%	6,090	3,832	63%
Retuning	26,778	22,755	85%	27,438	22,416	82%	26,404	21,265	81%

The values in the third row simply count the number of unique attempts on any unique offering, or "section", of a class. These counts are unduplicated by class sections, so multiple attempts for a specific class section are only counted once. Attempts made for the same course (discipline and level) but different sections are counted once per section.

Future attempts will depend heavily on the number of sections offered and the number and proportion of new and returning students. In addition, new enrollment methods in the PeopleSoft student system will most likely affect attempt patterns beginning in AY2011-12.

For FY 2009, FY 2010, FY 2011 (academic years), only the total number of students who attempted to enroll in a course is available. In the current Student Information System, we cannot determine if the people who attempted to enroll are new or continuing students. Likewise, we cannot determine for the academic year if the number reflects duplicated students. The projected totals for FY 2012 and FY 2013 academic years are based on the potential loss of faculty, classes, sections, etc. in light of the Governor's recommended budget reductions. It is difficult to quantify the projected impact on graduation rates and the average length of time to graduation; however, we have seen this past fall and spring that an increase in student fees correlates to students taking fewer credits (more students are attending college; however, FTE has decreased). This along with decreased course offerings, will increase time to degree and graduation rates.

Methodology Notes
Academic Year (AY) = Fall term + Spring term

Unduplicated Number of Students Unable to Register for a Course represents a count of students who attempted to get into a particular course (for e.g. CH 201), but were unable to register for any section of that particular course. If a student attempted to get into a particular section of the course, was not able to get into that section, but ended up enrolling in another section of the same course, such student was NOT counted as being unable to get into the course, since they ended up enrolling in the course.

NEW students unable to register for a course are only counted once for a fiscal year, even if they had unsuccessful enrollment attempts in fall AND spring terms (i.e. a student is NEW in the fall and unable to register for a course in the fall; the same student is now CONTINUING in the spring and unable to register for a course; such student only counted once as NEW for the fiscal year count)

Total Number of Instances in Which a Failed Course Registration Occurred represents a count of unsuccessful enrollment attempts unduplicated to the course (i.e. a student attempted to register for section 1 of CH 201 and was unable, attempted to register for section 2 of CH 201 and was unable, etc. this was counted as one instance of a failed course registration.

Projected figures for AY12 and AY13 were derived based on the rate of change in the data for AY09, AY10 and AY11.

There is a spike in applicants of almost 100% in Fall 2010. This results in a spike in the number of new applicants with unsuccessful enrollment attempts. The spike in applicants is a result of PS conversion and the requirement for many students to apply who in the past, had not been required to reapply in order to attend TMCC.

Please note that this document details that as the budget is reduced and course sections will have to be eliminated, the number of students who will not be able to get into college courses will grow dramatically. Overall and well into the future, the impact on students who choose to attend TMCC will be that they have a much greater challenge in meeting their education and career goals. This impact on students will directly affect the level of educational and skill attainment which will then negatively affect the development of our local and regional workforce which anchors the economy.

QUESTION 6

Per Student FTE Funding: The Subcommittee requested the General Fund appropriation funding level per student FTE for each NSHE institution. For each NSHE instructional budget account (excluding the professional schools), please provide this information for FY 2010 (actual), FY 2011 (projected), and as recommended in The Executive Budget for FY 2012 and FY 2013. Additionally, please provide this same information based upon the total funding contained in the budget. Finally, for the same time period and for each institution, please provide the total instruction functional area expenditures by student FTE. For UNR and UNLV, the Subcommittee requested that the information be separated for undergraduate and graduate student FTE.

RESPONSE

While NSHE budgets, as recommended in the Executive Budget, are not based on the current funding formula, in past biennia the formula has been utilized to determine the allocation of funds to each of the institutions. Therefore, while not directly utilized, the formula has greatly influenced the funding levels as recommended in the 2011-13 Executive Budget.

It should be noted that the funding formula does not determine funding levels based on a specific dollar amount being generated for each FTE student. Rather, there is a separate formula for each of five different functional areas (instruction, academic support, student services, institutional support and operation & maintenance of plant). For instruction, funding is determined by the number and types of courses being taught at each institution and whether each of the courses represents a clinical, high, medium or low cost (for example, an English course may be low cost, while an Engineering course may be high cost). Two institutions with the same number of FTE students could have different per student FTE funding as generated by the formula based on the programs and resulting courses being taught. If one institution provided only low cost programs and the other only high cost programs, the funding available by FTE student would, and should, be different.

Based on the way funding is determined by the current formula, it is difficult to draw any conclusions as to whether a specific institution is adequately or inadequately funded based solely on funding per student FTE. However, as requested, information is provided in the attached schedule on total funding per FTE student, General Fund support per FTE student and instructional amounts per FTE student for FY 2010 (actual), FY 2011 (projected) and as recommended in the Executive Budget for FY 2012 and FY 2013. Please note that the Executive Budget does not break out total expenditures recommended by functional area. Historically, NSHE has determined the allocation of funds by functional area after the legislatively approved budget is finalized. Therefore, the instruction cost per student FTE is not provided for FY 2012 or FY 2013.

The request also indicated that the information provided for UNLV and UNR should be separated for undergraduate and graduate FTE. Funding is neither provided by the Legislature nor budgeted by the Board of Regents based on these criteria. In addition, expense data within the financial system is not identified based on whether a cost is provided to a graduate or undergraduate student. Therefore, information is not readily available, nor easily determined, to break out instructional costs by graduate and undergraduate student FTE.

This issue was discussed by representatives of UNLV, UNR and the System Office. While a methodology was discussed for allocating these costs, it was not endorsed since factors related to undergraduate and graduate students are not directly utilized in allocating funds nor are expenses tracked in this fashion within the financial system. The conclusion to this discussion was that development of this type of information would require a large set of assumptions which could bring into question the credibility of the information that was developed. It should be noted that information is provided for UNLV and UNR breaking out the number of undergraduate and graduate FTE students at each institution.

QUESTION 7

Reorganization and Funding of Intercollegiate Athletics, Statewide Programs and Business Centers: The Subcommittee requested that the NSHE prepare scenarios for UNR and UNLV through which the existing budget accounts for intercollegiate athletics, statewide programs and the business centers would be eliminated and the recommended funding incorporated into each university's main instructional budget. The requested scenarios should identify any proposed change to the expenditure levels recommended in The Executive Budget for each of the aforementioned areas.

RESPONSE

The University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) and the University of Nevada, Reno (UNR) have submitted budget reduction plans for fiscal years 2012 and 2013. The templates provided for each budget account within NSHE are included in the response to question number 2. Institutions were not restricted to amounts recommended in the Executive Budget when developing General Fund support amounts within the templates that identify the budget reductions that would be necessary based on the Governor's funding recommendations in FY 2012 and FY 2013. Both UNR and UNLV reviewed each budget account under their responsibility and recommended General Fund amounts for each budget account in each year of the biennium.

The attached schedule compares the General Fund appropriations recommended in the Executive Budget in FY 2012 and FY 2013 to the amounts recommended in the budget reduction templates developed by each institution for the main instructional accounts as well as for athletics, statewide programs and the business centers. If the four accounts for each institution were combined the amounts that would need to be appropriated are provided for the two scenarios which are included in the columns titled Exec Budget – Gen Fund and Template – Gen Fund.

QUESTION 8

UNR Preliminary Budget Reduction Plan: The Subcommittee heard testimony that UNR's preliminary budget reduction plan included reducing General Fund appropriations to the Cooperative Extension by amounts greater than recommended by the Governor's budget to mitigate the General Fund appropriation reductions budgeted for the School of Medicine. The Subcommittee requested additional information to understand the implications of UNR's preliminary plan. For both the cooperative Extension and the Medical School, please provide information that explains the projected impacts on the budget reductions at the levels recommended by the Governor as compared to the reduction levels contained in UNR's preliminary plan.

RESPONSE

The following table and narrative explains the impacts on the budget reduction for the Cooperative Extension and the Medical School at the levels recommended by the Governor as compared to the levels contained in UNR's preliminary plan.

	Revised General Fund Reduction
Budget Area	Governor's General Fund Reduction Recommendation	UNR's General Fund Proposed Reduction
University of Nevada School of Medicine	$8,148,509	$1,748,620
Cooperative Extension	$2,414,027	$5,641,278

School of Medicine: Since the budget reductions started in 2008, the University of Nevada, Reno has taken a strategic approach to budget reduction to prioritize programs to protect by disproportionately reducing or closing other programs. The University of Nevada School of Medicine is the only public medical school in the State. Nevada ranks 47th among states in the number of physicians per 100,000 population and the Medical School has a mission to educate physicians who likely will remain in Nevada to add to the medical workforce of the State. Secondly, teaching programs of the university have been given the top priority position for the University, including a broad range of bachelor's degree programs, a limited number of graduate programs, and medical and graduate-medical education. These programs have been affected by budget reductions to a lesser extent than other programs throughout the budget-cutting process because of the priority mission of teaching at the University. The medical school is especially sensitive to budget reductions. The University wishes to preserve medical education, graduate medical education, basic and clinical research, and clinical services for citizens. In order to protect these core functions of the medical school, a budget reduction much less than that contained in the Executive Budget is required.

Cooperative Extension: The University of Nevada Cooperative Extension is an important, traditional part of the Land Grant mission of the University serving communities throughout Nevada, rural and urban. The total budget for Cooperative Extension exceeds $19 million from federal, state, county, and self-supporting resources. Our Land Grant connection requires that state funds match federal funds at least one-for-one; the current allocation of federal funds is $1,153,230 and the allocation of state funds is $7,678,549. The University has chosen to reduce state funds to Cooperative Extension disproportionately because: 1) the federal match requirement can be met with far less overmatch than currently exists and maintain the Land Grant status, 2) the basic core of Extension can be preserved by keeping all county extension educators in place to maintain the cooperative agreements between each county and the University, manage county contributions and volunteers, and keep the core 4-H and educational programs viable for the foreseeable future, and 3) maintain a small specialist staff to support the six statutory program areas of horticulture, youth and families, agriculture, natural resources, economic development, and nutrition. The greatest loss of capacity will be among subject-matter specialists supporting county extension educators.

Rationale: During these unprecedented times of budget reductions, the University is forced into a position of choosing among important, productive programs to maintain core functions of each. The medical school has less flexibility in budget to maintain the central teaching, research and service functions than does Extension. Thus, the University has chosen to reduce the budget to the medical school by less that than recommended in the Executive Budget and to reduce the budget to Extension by more than recommended in the Executive Budget.

QUESTION 9

Interim Funding Formula Study: As requested by the Subcommittee, please provide information on the estimated cost of an interim study of the funding formula and a copy of the suggested draft bill language to implement such a study.

RESPONSE

The last legislative interim study of the higher education funding formula was authorized by the 1999 Legislature through passage of Senate Bill 443. A General Fund appropriation of $150,000 was approved by SB 443 (1999) for costs related to the study, which largely consisted of consultant costs. It seems reasonable that a General Fund appropriation of this amount would provide the funding necessary to hire any consultants who may be necessary to assist the legislative interim study committee in its review of the funding formula.

As Chancellor Klaich indicated it is NSHE's opinion that in order for the study to have the necessary independence and credibility it must be under the control of a legislatively authorized committee with staff support provided by the Legislative Counsel Bureau as was the case when the funding formula was last studied in 1999 and 2000. Therefore, it may be helpful for the subcommittee to also request input from Fiscal Analysis Division staff concerning the level of funding that would be necessary to conduct the interim study.

A copy of the suggested language for the bill draft that would authorize a legislative interim study of the higher education funding formula is attached.

BILL DRAFT INSTRUCTIONS
NSHE Formula Study

The following is language suggested for a measure creating an interim study of the funding formula of the Nevada System of Higher Education:

Section 1.

1. The Committee to Study the Funding of Higher Education, consisting of 12 voting members and 4 nonvoting members, is hereby created.
2. The following persons shall serve as voting members of the Committee:
   (a) Three members of the Senate, appointed by the Majority Leader of the Senate;
   (b) Three members of the Assembly, appointed by the Speaker of the Assembly;
   (c) Three members of the Board of Regents, appointed by the Chairman of that board; and
   (d) Three members appointed by the Governor.
3. The Governor shall appoint the following persons to serve as the nonvoting members of the Committee:
   (a) One person who is employed in the Budget Division of the Department of Administration; and
   (b) Three persons who are employed by the Nevada System of Higher Education.
4. The Chairman of the Legislative Commission shall designate one of the members as Chairman of the Committee.
5. The Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau shall provide the necessary professional staff and a secretary for the Committee.
6. For each day or portion of a day during which they attend a meeting of the Committee or are otherwise engaged in the business of the Committee:
   (a) The voting members of the Committee who are Legislators are entitled to receive the compensation provided for a majority of the members of the Legislature during the first 60 days of the preceding regular session plus the per diem allowance provided for state officers and employees generally and the travel expenses provided pursuant to NRS 218.2207.
   (b) The voting members of the Committee who are members of the Board of Regents are entitled to receive travel expenses and a per diem allowance at the rates established in NRS 396.070.
   (c) The voting members of the Committee appointed by the Governor are entitled to receive the per diem allowance and travel expenses provided for state officers and employees generally.

Sec. 2. The Committee shall:

1. Compare the existing method of funding higher education in Nevada with the methods used in other states;
2. Determine whether the other methods would be appropriate and useful in Nevada where by different missions of the universities, state college, community college and research institute are appropriately considered in the funding of public higher education in Nevada;
4. Review the funding of remediation in the context of instructional delivery methods;
5. Consider the retention of resident registration fees and non-resident tuition outside of the state supported operating budget;
6. Consider funding in the context of completed courses in contrast to the current method of funding enrollments; and

7. Consider rewarding institutions for achieving defined goals for graduating students (performance funding).

Sec. 3. The Committee may hold public hearings at such times and places as it deems necessary to afford the general public and representatives of governmental agencies and of organizations interested in higher education an opportunity to present relevant information and recommendations.

Sec. 4. The Committee may employ such educational and financial consultants as it deems necessary for this study.

Sec. 5. The Committee may accept and use all gifts and grants which it receives to further its work.

Sec. 6.

1. There is hereby appropriated from the state general fund to the Legislative Commission the sum of $150,000 for the purpose of conducting a study of the funding of higher education as provided in this act.
2. Any remaining balance of the appropriation made by subsection 1 must not be committed for expenditure after December 31, 2012, and reverts to the state general fund as soon as all payments of money committed have been made.

Sec. 7. The Committee shall submit to the Legislative Commission a report of its findings and recommendations for legislation before the commencement of the 77th (2013) session of the Legislature.

Sec. 8. This act becomes effective on July 1, 2011, and expires by limitation on January 1, 2013.

QUESTION 10

Private Sector Funding Received by Great Basin College (GBC): During the discussion of Great Basin College's preliminary budget reduction plan, the mining industry's support of GBC's career and technical education programs was mentioned. The Subcommittee requested information on the types of funding and amounts being provided to GBC in support of those programs.

RESPONSE

Northeastern Nevada Regional Hospital in Elko provided funding for 2 years for a nursing instructor position. This position including salary and fringe is $73,000 per year. This funding allowed us to continue expanding our nursing program and provided not only the local hospital but other health care organizations in our service area with well qualified candidates for employment.

The mining industry has supported GBC's Career and Technical Education programs for many years. We provide the necessary skills to students so that the mining industry can hire better qualified employees in various maintenance areas, such as mill maintenance, electrical and instrumentation and diesel maintenance.

GBC provides contract workforce training to various companies. GBC has worked with companies such as Newmont, Barrick, Round Mountain Gold, Cashman Equipment Company and Boart Longyear to provide training to their employees. The contract training supports 4 teaching faculty positions, with $314,600 in salary and benefits.

GBC works with employment related agencies such as JOIN, NevadaWorks and Workforce Connections to provide training and retraining for people looking to enhance their job skills and employability. Our CDL program is one program that has provided opportunities of employment to these students upon completion. Our CDL program has 2 instructors, one based in Elko and one based in Pahrump to provide training to our entire service area. This program is a self-supporting program without state funding and the 2 instructors and a part-time administrative assistant have a salary and fringe cost of $141,000.

The Maintenance Training Cooperative (MTC) program was established in 1993 by local industries to provide scholarships to technical students. Past and present MTC Scholarship providers include Newmont, Barrick, Placer Dome, Pioneer Equipment Company, Eklund Drilling, Al Park Petroleum and D&D Tire to name a few. Over $5.4 million dollars in scholarships and equipment has been awarded with an average of 60-70 scholarships per year. Here is a partial breakdown of scholarships since 1999:

QUESTION 11

NSHE Health Sciences System Funding: The Subcommittee requested information on the organizational structure and an accounting of the funding and expenditures of the Health Sciences System (HSS). Please also provide an overview of the HSS's accomplishments to date as well as any future objectives.

RESPONSE

Overview

Health sciences education within NSHE is governed by the Board of Regents (through its Health Sciences Committee, whose mission is to "... promote quality education, research, patient care and community health across health care disciplines, driven by access, quality, value and the needs of the people of the State of Nevada," Board of Regents, Aug. 2009). The System's efforts are coordinated by the Executive Vice Chancellor of Health Sciences (EVCHS) who reports directly to the Chancellor. The EVCHS' role is to coordinate and facilitate comprehensive system-wide planning in the health sciences, facilitate and support cooperation among NSHE institutions and between NSHE institutions and external partners in education, research and provision by:

- "Promoting a Systems Approach: Work to promote a systems view/approach to enhancing NSHE's ability to meet Nevada's health care needs through education, research and training;
- Promoting Efficiency & Effectiveness: Work to increase effectiveness and efficiency of NSHE health sciences program;
- Promoting Program Development: Work to foster further development of NSHE health sciences programs;
- Promoting Collaborative Opportunities: Work to foster enhanced internal and external collaboration" (Board of Regents, Aug. 2009).

Current Organizational Structure

- The HSS currently funds 3 full-time equivalent (FTE) professional staff, .25 FTE letter of appointment (LOA) and 1 FTE classified staff member who also serves as the assistant to the chancellor and as office manager of the system office (organization chart attached).

Funding Structure-Historical

- Since its inception, the NSHE Health Sciences System (HSS) has received no state appropriations for operations. The following is a historical summary:
  - FY 2006/07: In the first year of HSS operations, staff hired to work on the HSS were paid from the System Administration's Self Supporting account. A transfer of $167,500 from the Board of Regents' Self Supporting account into the HSS Self Supporting account was used to pay startup operating expenses (non-salary).
  - FY 2007/08: HSS was funded with $1,500,000 investment income from the NSHE Banking and Investments operating reserve. The distribution was approved at the August 2007 Board of Regents meeting.
  - FY 2008/09 to Present: HSS has maintained its own Self Supporting account. Since its inception, HSS has received a total of $11.2M in private and federal funding: 1) $9.3M in private funding (includes a $5M gift from the Lincy Foundation in 2008, of which $1.8M was designated for HSS operations; the remaining $3.2M is donor directed to support health sciences related initiatives); and 2) $1.9M in federal earmarks.

Funding Structure-Current Operations (FY 2010/11)

Category	Budgeted
Salaries	760,640
Fringe Benefits	144,644
Travel	20,000
Host	5,000
Operations	106,000
Total	1,036,284

- Cash balance on hand to support HSS operations as of March 2011: $1,373,733
- Remaining encumbrances (4/1-6/30/11): $360,335
- Anticipated cash balance for FY2011/12: $1,013,398

Accomplishments and Activities

1. Of the total non-state funds (private and federal) HSS has generated since 2006, HSS has spent or encumbered $6,967,097 on the following major initiatives.

2. Public Health Ph.D. Program: HSS participated in the development of a collaborative program led by the two research institutions (UNLV and UNR); program was designed in response to public needs; program meets students' and State's needs efficiently and effectively.

3. Doctor of Nursing Practice Program: HSS assisted in the development of a collaborative program led by the two research institutions (UNLV and UNR); program was designed in response to public needs; program meets students' and State's needs efficiently and effectively.

4. Developed a strategic, comprehensive communications plan: Produce and distribute monthly e-newsletters which have received strong participation from institutions to highlight accomplishments in health sciences on each campus. Distribution of the newsletter, electronic push pages, and press releases is significant and covers all aspects of public, private health stakeholders in Nevada.

5. CIP Highlights (Detail attached). HSS has been charged with System-level management of planning and development of three CIP projects, totaling $104.13M in project costs and 161,000 square feet, to promote interdisciplinary health sciences program growth and development in Las Vegas and Reno:

    - ACADEMIC, CLINICAL, TRAINING AND RESEARCH CENTER: The design is 100% complete and considered "shovel ready" pending funding. It is 2011 Regents CIP request priority #3.

    - HSS CLINICAL SIMULATION CENTER OF LAS VEGAS: Opened fall 2009 and is actively utilized by UNLV & NSC Nursing, and UNSOM.

    - PENNINGTON MEDICAL EDUCATION LEARNING LABORATORY: Under construction; 90 % completed; due to open July 1, 2011. This project is a combination of state funding and private philanthropy.

6. Shadow Lane Campus Area Planning Project
Goal: Develop programmatic and facilities plan for the development of an inter-institutional, interdisciplinary health center for the Shadow Lane campus area to promote programmatic synergy across NSHE programs and provide much-needed educational, research, administrative and clinical space. Status: Temporary funding provided for staff and training required to open the Clinical Simulation Center of Las Vegas. In addition, a Master Planning Committee was formed and met several times to discuss programmatic, research and facilities needs. Consultants were hired and presented a comprehensive plan to the committee on various scenarios of space development and utilization. In addition, consultants were hired to establish a practical method to plan and manage the Shadow Lane Campus, accounting for the investment, operational support and overhead and the availability of funds to achieve capital improvement goals. The affected institutional business officers reviewed and approved the analysis.

7. NSHE Nursing Project
   Goals: a) Promote interaction/collaboration among NSHE nursing programs and with external stakeholders state-wide, to improve student success in relation to state-wide nursing education. Status: Facilitated the formation of the NV Nursing Educational Practice Alliance (NNEPA). Convened by HSS to foster improved state-wide collaboration in nursing education and practice with the goal of addressing the nursing workforce capacity of Nevada; NNEPA has developed and approved its Charter, has elected officers. This group meets regularly and is working on choosing and implementing a statewide student clinical placement system and facilitating a uniform state-wide student nurse clinical orientation program.

b) NSHE Nursing Leadership Team. Status: Facilitated the formation of the NSHE Nursing Leadership Team. This team meets regularly to discuss system-wide nursing education issues and identify strategic solutions. Continue the recently initiated effort to engage the NSHE institutions in a joint strategic planning on how the current resources can be leveraged to expand and strengthen the educational and research mission. This group worked together and as a result UNLV and NSC announced a joint RN to BSN program; UNLV and UNR developed a joint DNP program.

8. Health Research Development Project
   Goal: Develop infrastructure to support inter-institutional and interdisciplinary research collaborations, i.e., health research within NSHE institutions and with external partners.

   - Work collaboratively with NSHE institutions to enhance the Institutional Review Board (IRB) process, in order to facilitate inter-institutional (internal and external) and interdisciplinary collaborations. Status: Conducted needs assessment on resources spent at all NSHE institutions on the IRB process. Assembled an IRB Task Force to review streamlining of processes. Facilitated an agreement between UNR and UNLV and a subsequent MOU on a collaborative process.

   - The HSS created a research initiative in which $250,000 was used to fund five Inter-institutional Biomedical Research grants among our institutions and includes our research partners of Nevada Cancer Institute and the Whittemore Peterson Institute for Neuro-Immune Disease. Status: Funds expended. HSS will continue to monitor and analyze progress of the funded grants and identify funding opportunities for program continuation and continue to foster external collaboration.

- Developed and conducted a faculty research interest survey for the purpose of identifying research interests. Status: Registered faculty now receive personalized research announcements according to their research interests. A searchable database is currently being worked on by the EPSCOR Office which will allow NSHE faculty to find potential internal research partners to collaborate on grants.

9. American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) Federal Funding Project Goal: Coordinate system-wide health sciences education-related efforts in response to opportunities created by the Federal ARRA funds to promote development of Health and Technology Education and pursue health workforce development opportunities throughout Nevada. Status:

    - Convened an NSHE-wide Health Information Technology (HIT) Task Force to develop a web-based HIT educational program(s) that can be shared by multiple institutions within the System and across the state.

    - Supported CSN's successful application to the Community Consortia to Education IT Professionals in Health Care.

    - Playing a leading role in the State application (through the Workforce Investment Board) to the Health Resource and Service Administration for a grant to increase the primary care health care workforce in Nevada.

10. NSHE-wide Health Sciences Programmatic Strategic Planning Project

    Status: Consultant was hired to lead the NSHE-wide strategic planning effort with special focus on the School of Medicine and the establishment of an Academic Health Center in Las Vegas. HSS and the consultant worked extensively with UNSOM in strategic planning for the expansion of graduate medical education (GME) in collaboration with Nevada Hospital Association and its members and the VA Hospital. Extensive conversations with external stakeholders have taken place, i.e., met with hospital CEO's. Report presented to the Board of Regents in September 2009.

11. UMC/NSHE Academic Joint Venture

    Status: As a follow-up to a request from former Clark County Commission Chair Reid to former Chancellor Rogers to investigate ways to transform UMC into a "true teaching hospital"; HSS has led the NSHE effort to investigate ways to strengthen the academic relationship between UMC and the University of Nevada School of Medicine (UNSOM) and other NSHE health sciences programs and schools.

In January of 2010, Chairman Leavitt, Chancellor Klaich, Chancellor Emeritus Rogers and Clark County Commissioner Reid participated in a press conference at which they announced an effort to investigate the potential opportunities for enhancing the relationship between the Nevada System of Higher Education and University Medical Center of Southern Nevada (UMC), and related opportunities for transforming UMC into a more robust academic health center. Chancellor Klaich asked Executive Vice Chancellor Trevisan to serve as the lead in coordinating NSHE's involvement in these efforts.

The Clark County Commissioners, sitting as the Board of Hospital Trustees, took action to establish two new groups to help enhance UMC's partnership with NSHE and to make changes to the current UMC governance structure.

UMC Joint Venture Working Group—the first new group is called the UMC Joint Venture Working Group board. Its purpose is to help oversee the efforts to enhance the joint venture between Clark County/UMC and NSHE. The participants from NSHE participating in this Working Group include: Executive Vice Chancellor for HSS, Dean of University of Nevada School of Medicine (UNSOM), CFO of UNSOM, and Dean of UNLV School of Dental Medicine. In addition, the Clark County Manager, Clark County CFO, UMC CEO, the UMC Chief of Medical Staff and the CEO of the Nevada Cancer Institute (NVCI) were also asked to participate. This group is chaired by the CEO of NVCI (Dr. John Ruckdeschel).

UMC Hospital Advisory Board—the second new group is called the UMC Hospital Advisory Board and its purpose is to serve as a new hospital governing board. The members of this group will be appointed by the Clark County Commissioners. Members of the community, not currently serving in an elected office, were invited to apply for one of the eleven positions on this new Advisory Board. Over 100 individuals applied for this Board. The County Commissioners finalized the membership of the Advisory Board on August 18, 2010. The Executive Vice Chancellor of HSS serves on the board as an ex-officio member.

Two-project concurrent study was initiated. Project 1 was a joint venture between NSHE and Clark County/UMC and it involves an analysis of "Transitioning of hospital to Academic Health Center (AHC) and recommendation of potential governance structure options." Project 2 involved an "Update existing analyses of UMC's financial operations and operational efficiencies with a focus on comparison to similarly situated academic medical center." NSHE HSS and UNSOM representatives were involved in the solicitation and selection of the consultant (FTI) hired to conduct both studies and helped to draft the scope of work.

FTI reported on the outcome of the projects on February 2, 2011. One of the three major recommendations was to support the strengthening of the academic relationship between UMC, UNSOM and NSHE. At the moment discussions are taking place regarding the details of the academic relationship and how this effort will intertwine with the other important and critical administrative organizational and financial changes that need to be implemented in order to make the future of UMC viable.

12. Activities: NSHE is being/has been represented by the Executive Vice Chancellor on the following local and state-wide initiatives and committees:

Nevada Academy of Health
Health Care Reform Policy Council, State Senate of Nevada
Convener, Electronic Health Records Nevada Statewide Initiative
Governor's Health Information Technology Blue Ribbon Task Force
Nevada Advisory Committee to Prevent Infections in Health Facilities
Planning Committee and Speaker, Office of the Attorney General Health Care Summit
Nevada Department of Employment, Training & Rehabilitation, Workforce Solutions Unit Governor's Workforce Investment Board: Health Care Sector Council (Chairman)

13. University of Nevada Health Sciences Center Foundation (UNHSCF): UNHSCF trustees and the HSS leadership have decided to change their approach to providing fund raising and support and will work on a project-by-project basis with existing institutional foundations. In the spirit of efficiency and effectiveness and reevaluating the function of the HSS Foundation, its trustees voted to dissolve the Foundation on April 19, 2010. The Nevada Board of Regents approved this action on June 4, 2010. In accordance with the provisions of the University of Nevada Health Sciences Center Foundation (hereinafter "UNHSCF" or the "Foundation") Articles of Incorporation, Article XVI, the UNHSCF Bylaws, Article VII.E and Nevada Revised Statutes 82.451, the Foundation ordered all current obligations and liabilities of the Foundation be immediately paid and all assets distributed exclusively for and in accordance with the charitable and educational purposes of the Foundation.

Future Objectives:

- Support the expansion of the University of Nevada School of Medicine (UNSOM) throughout Nevada emphasizing class size growth, expanded hospital relationships with clinical service and graduate medical education growth, and enhanced basic and clinical research. The current opportunity to enhance the relationship between NSHE, UNSOM, UNLV School of Dental Medicine and the University Medical Center, in Las Vegas, represents one example of possible expansions of education, research and clinical services in medicine, nursing, dentistry, social work, and public health, as well as with other community partnerships. This enhanced relationship and mission integration with UMC is the single most important issue facing health sciences within the System at the current time and should be the focus for the most intense effort of the Committee (see UMC/NSHE Joint Venture above).

- Develop a Shadow Lane Campus programmatic strategic plan in collaboration with UNLV, UNR, NSC, and CSN to identify program needs and collaborative opportunities in the areas of education, training, research and clinical services.

- Develop a Shadow Lane Campus facilities plan in collaboration with UNLV, UNR, NSC, and CSN to support the functions identified in the programmatic strategic plan (including an analysis of actual space requirements, and program placement to best maximize space utilization and facilities development). This plan will also include investigation of potential adjacent property acquisition and/or partnership opportunities.

- Develop a financial funding plan (federal, state and philanthropy resources) to support the programmatic and strategic master plans, and related management and governance support plans.

- Expanding applied, translational and clinical research collaboration between the NSHE research institutions, and with other regional research universities, based on mutually agreed upon specializations or fields (e.g., support for neurodegenerative diseases, geriatrics, molecular medicine, biomedical engineering, novel chemotherapeutic treatments, etc.).

- Developing a mutually agreed upon roadmap for critical faculty and clinical staffing to support the education, research, and clinical service directions of NSHE, and plans for developing resources to implement the roadmap.

- Encouraging faculty in the research institutions to identify a set of core health care policy initiatives for which inter-institutional, inter-disciplinary programs can be developed. Such issues could include: early intervention, elder care, health care in immigrant communities, health care infrastructure, and developing statewide databases. Interactions between academic departments, community health programs, and centers, such as the UNLV Lincy Institute; the Brookings Mountain West Initiative; the UNR Sanford Center for Aging; and the Center for the Application of Substance Abuse Technologies, can support these efforts and should be encouraged and maximized.

- Promoting collaboration through sponsoring meetings, workshops and conferences between the various governmental, non-profit, and private health care entities to promote broader regional and state-wide collaboration, to exchange results from clinical studies and research efforts, and to develop a more vigorous biomedical and health care economy.

ASSEMBLY IN SESSION

At 11:53 a.m.

By the Assembly Committee on Legislative Operations and Elections and the Senate Committee on Legislative Operations and Elections:

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 8—Making a formal request for the Governor to establish an open, fair and public process to fill the vacancy in the Office of United States Senator.

WHEREAS, The upcoming vacancy in one of Nevada's seats in the United States Senate and the appointment of a temporary replacement is a matter of critical importance requiring careful deliberation and full transparency with the public; and

WHEREAS, The circumstances leading to the upcoming vacancy compel the need for public confidence in the process and knowledge that public, not political, interests are the sole factor in any decision regarding the selection of a replacement; and

WHEREAS, The effective date of resignation and vacancy lends time to establish a public process that ensures accountability while still providing the State of Nevada with the representation it needs in a timely manner; and

WHEREAS, When State Senator William J. Raggio resigned, the Board of County Commissioners of Washoe County, empowered to fill the vacancy, presented and conducted an open, fair and public process that ensured public confidence in the selection of his replacement; and

WHEREAS, Several factors in making any appointment need to be weighed in full, and fair public scrutiny, including whether the appointment of an honorable caretaker with no political motivations or electoral ambitions, may be in the best interests of all Nevadans; and

WHEREAS, Any appointment that creates a vacancy in another office which necessitates a subsequent special election will cost Nevadans hundreds of thousands of dollars of taxpayer money at a time when severe cuts to education and essential services are under consideration; and

WHEREAS, The United States Senate seat belongs to the people of Nevada, who are best served by a process in which they have as much knowledge and input as possible into the choice of the person who will represent them in the Senate; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, THE SENATE CONCURRING, That the Governor is hereby formally requested by the Legislature to develop and release an open, fair and public process for the purpose of making an appointment to fill the upcoming vacancy in the United States Senate; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Governor should propose a timeline of not less than 1 week for any qualified Nevadans to apply and formally submit their names for consideration for appointment as a temporary replacement, and that any such appointment should be made only from those making such requests; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the information for those who have formally requested consideration for appointment be made available to the public for a period of not less than 1 week for public comment to be received before any appointment is made; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the official position of the State Legislature is that the people of Nevada deserve an open, fair and public process that is free from political calculations and partisan ambitions, and that the Governor should refrain from making any appointment until such a process is presented and conducted; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to Governor Brian Sandoval as soon as practicable.

Assemblyman Oceguera moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblyman Oceguera, Stewart, Hansen, Bobzien, Brooks, and Conklin.

Assembly Bill No. 29.

Bill read second time

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Health and Human Services:

Amendment No. 502.

SUMMARY—Revises provisions governing county hospitals [.] and requires certain hospitals to report information concerning the transfers of patients between hospitals to the Legislative Committee on Health Care. (BDR 40-343)

AN ACT relating to [~~public hospitals; authorizing the boards of hospital trustees of certain public hospitals to fix~~] health care; increasing the compensation of members of hospital advisory boards; revising provisions governing the staff of physicians at public hospitals; requiring certain hospitals to report information concerning the transfers of patients between hospitals to the Legislative Committee on Health Care; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law authorizes certain boards of hospital trustees of public hospitals to appoint advisory boards and limits the compensation for the service of members of advisory boards to not more than $100 per month. (NRS 450.175) Section 1 of this bill [~~repeals the $100 per month~~] increases the limit on compensation [~~and provides that members of a hospital advisory board may receive as compensation for their services~~] to an amount [~~fixed by the board of hospital trustees.~~] not to exceed $1,000 per month.

Existing law requires the board of hospital trustees of a public hospital to organize a staff of physicians composed of each regularly practicing physician, podiatric physician and dentist in the county who requests staff membership and prohibits the board from discriminating against a physician, podiatric physician or dentist. (NRS 450.440, 450.430) Section 3 of this bill provides that the staff of physicians, podiatric physicians and dentists may be required to be affiliated with the University of Nevada School of Medicine or the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, School of Dental Medicine. If so required, the physician, podiatric physician or dentist who requests staff membership must meet the standards in the regulations of the board of hospital trustees and hold and maintain a faculty or clinical appointment with one of the two Universities. An exception applies, however, if the board of hospital trustees enters into a contract with a physician or group of physicians to be the exclusive provider of certain services. Section 2 of this bill further provides that if a physician loses privileges at a hospital because the physician no longer holds a faculty or clinical appointment with one of the Universities, that action shall not be deemed to be an adverse action against the physician.

Hospitals in this State are required to provide emergency services and care, and it is unlawful for a hospital or a physician working in a hospital emergency room to refuse to accept or treat a patient in need of emergency services and care. (NRS 439B.410) Section 4 of this bill requires certain hospitals located in larger counties to provide a report of certain information to the Legislative Committee on Health Care concerning the transfer of patients from the hospital to another hospital and the availability of specialty medical services in the hospital. Such a report must be made quarterly beginning on October 15, 2011, and cover the period from July 1, 2011, through September 30, 2012.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 450.175 is hereby amended to read as follows:

450.175 1. In counties where the board of county commissioners is the board of hospital trustees, the board of hospital trustees may appoint a hospital advisory board which shall exercise powers and duties delegated to the advisory board by the board of hospital trustees.

2. Members of a hospital advisory board must be appointed by a majority vote of the board of hospital trustees and shall serve at the pleasure of the board.

3. Members of the hospital advisory board may receive compensation for their services ~~[~~of no more than $100 per month.~~]~~ in an amount ~~[fixed by the board of hospital trustees.]~~ not to exceed $1,000 per month.

Sec. 2. NRS 450.430 is hereby amended to read as follows:

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, a peace officer or probation officer may take into custody any child who the officer has probable cause to believe is violating or has violated any state or local law, ordinance, or rule or regulation having the force of law, but if ~~[a]~~ the peace officer or probation officer has probable cause to believe that a child is committing or has committed an unlawful act that involves the possession, use or threatened use of a firearm, the officer is required to take the child into custody. (NRS 62C.010, 62C.060) Section 1 of this bill makes it discretionary rather than mandatory for a peace officer or probation officer to take a child into custody for an unlawful act involving the possession, use or threatened use of a firearm . ~~[while engaged in hunting activities or target practice.]~~

Existing law prohibits a person from killing or aiding and abetting another person to kill bighorn sheep, mountain goats, elk, deer, pronghorn antelopes, mountain lions or black bears except under certain circumstances. Existing law further prohibits a person from possessing such animals if the person knows or should have known that the animal was killed in violation of existing law. (NRS 501.376) Section 2 of this bill provides for the disposition of cases in which a child has been adjudicated delinquent for an unlawful act involving the killing or possession of such animals in violation of NRS 501.376.

Section 4 of this bill makes these new provisions effective on March 1, 2012, which is the start of a new year for licenses for hunting, fishing and trapping.

Bill ordered to third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 59.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Government Affairs:

Amendment No. 137.

AN ACT relating to the Open Meeting Law; requiring a public body to take certain actions if the Attorney General finds that the public body has violated the Open Meeting Law; authorizing the Attorney General to issue subpoenas during investigations of such violations; revising the definition of "public body" for the purposes of the Open Meeting Law; requiring a public body to include certain notifications on an agenda for a public meeting; excluding a meeting held to consider an applicant for employment from certain notice requirements; making members of a public body subject to a civil penalty for violations; providing a penalty; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law establishes the Open Meeting Law which requires, except in certain limited situations, that all meetings of public bodies be open and public. It further requires that all persons be allowed to attend any meeting of these public bodies. (NRS 241.020) Existing law makes any action of a public body in violation of the Open Meeting Law void, and requires the Attorney General to investigate and prosecute any violation of the Open Meeting Law. (NRS 241.036, 241.040) If the Attorney General finds that a public body has taken an action which violates the Open Meeting Law, section 2 of this bill requires the public body to include an item on the next agenda posted for a meeting of the public body acknowledging the finding of the Attorney General regarding such a violation. Section 2 also provides that such acknowledgment is not an admission of wrongdoing on the part of the public body for the purposes of a civil action, criminal prosecution or injunctive relief. Section 3 of this bill authorizes the Attorney General to issue subpoenas for the production of documents, records or materials in the course of his or her investigation of any violation of the Open Meeting Law and makes failure or refusal to comply with such a subpoena a misdemeanor.

Section 4 of this bill revises the definition of "public body" for purposes of the Open Meeting Law to identify the manner in which an entity must be created to be considered a public body and to clarify that a public body consists of at least two members. Section 4 also excludes proceedings of a public body that are judicial or quasi-judicial in nature from the requirements of the Open Meeting Law [.] , unless the public body in question is also a regulatory body.

Section 5 of this bill adds certain notifications that must be included on an agenda for a meeting of a public body.

Under existing law, if a public body holds a meeting to consider the character, alleged misconduct, professional competence, or physical or mental health of a person, it must first provide written notice of that fact and, if such a meeting will be closed, must allow the attendance of certain individuals. Existing law also provides that casual or tangential references to a person or the person's name during a closed meeting do not constitute consideration of the character, alleged misconduct, professional competence, or physical or mental health of the person. (NRS 241.033) Section 6 of this bill provides that a meeting to consider an applicant for employment does not require prior notice to be given to the applicant.

Existing law makes each member of a public body who attends a meeting where action is taken in violation of the Open Meeting Law with knowledge of the fact that the meeting is in violation guilty of a misdemeanor. (NRS 241.040) Section ~~[6]~~ 7 of this bill further makes each such member who attends such a meeting subject to a civil penalty in an amount not to exceed $500. ~~[regardless of knowledge of the violation.]~~

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Chapter 241 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto the provisions set forth as sections 2 and 3 of this act.

Sec. 2. 1. If the Attorney General makes findings of fact and conclusions of law that a public body has taken action in violation of any provision of this chapter, the public body must include an item on the next agenda posted for a meeting of the public body which acknowledges the findings of fact and conclusions of law. 3. A lease of a city-owned building or any portion thereof or any other real property pursuant to this section may be made on such terms and conditions as the governing body of the city deems proper. The duration of such a lease must not exceed 3 years and may include an extension for not more than an additional 2 years.

Sec. 2. NRS 268.059 is hereby amended to read as follows:

4. An appraiser shall not perform an appraisal on any real property offered for sale or lease by the governing body if the appraiser or a person related to the appraiser within the first degree of consanguinity or affinity has an interest in the real property or an adjoining property.

5. If real property is sold or leased in violation of the provisions of this section:

(a) The sale or lease is void; and

(b) Any change to an ordinance or law governing the zoning or use of the real property is void if the change takes place within 5 years after the date of the void sale or lease.

Sec. 3. NRS 268.061 is hereby amended to read as follows:

268.061 1. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection and NRS 268.048 to 268.058, inclusive, 268.063, 278.479 to 278.4965, inclusive, and subsection ~~[3]~~ 4 of NRS 496.080, and section 1 of this act, except as otherwise provided by federal law, except as otherwise required pursuant to a cooperative agreement entered into pursuant to NRS 277.050 or 277.053 or an interlocal agreement in existence on October 1, 2004, except if the governing body is entering into a joint development agreement for real property owned by the city to which the governing body is a party, except for a lease of residential property with a term of 1 year or less, except for the sale or lease of real property to a public utility, as defined in NRS 704.020, to be used for a public purpose and except for the sale or lease of real property larger than 1 acre which is approved by the voters at a primary or general election, primary or general city election or special election:

(a) If a governing body has determined by resolution that the sale or lease of any real property owned by the city will be in the best interest of the city, it may sell or lease the real property in the manner prescribed for the sale or lease of real property in NRS 268.062.

(b) Before the governing body may sell or lease any real property as provided in paragraph (a), it shall:

(1) Post copies of the resolution described in paragraph (a) in three public places in the city; and

(2) Cause to be published at least once a week for 3 successive weeks, in a newspaper qualified under chapter 238 of NRS that is published in the county in which the real property is located, a notice setting forth:

(I) A description of the real property proposed to be sold or leased in such a manner as to identify it;

(II) The minimum price, if applicable, of the real property proposed to be sold or leased; and

(III) The places at which the resolution described in paragraph (a) has been posted pursuant to subparagraph (1), and any other places at which copies of that resolution may be obtained.

➥ If no qualified newspaper is published within the county in which the real property is located, the required notice must be published in some qualified newspaper printed in the State of Nevada and having a general circulation within that county.

(c) If the governing body by its resolution finds additionally that the real property to be sold is worth more than $1,000, the governing body shall , as applicable, conduct an appraisal or appraisals pursuant to NRS 268.059 to determine the value of the real property. Except for real property acquired pursuant to NRS 371.047, the governing body shall not sell or lease it for less than the highest appraised value.

(d) If the real property is appraised at $1,000 or more, the governing body may:

(1) Lease the real property; or

(II) Not less than 25 percent cash down and upon deferred payments over a period of not more than 10 years, secured by a mortgage or deed of trust bearing such interest and upon such further terms as the governing body may specify.

(e) A governing body may sell or lease any real property owned by the city without complying with the provisions of this section and NRS 268.059 and 268.062 to:

(1) A person who owns real property located adjacent to the real property to be sold or leased if the governing body has determined by resolution that the sale or lease will be in the best interest of the city and the real property is a:

(I) Remnant that was separated from its original parcel due to the construction of a street, alley, avenue or other thoroughfare, or portion thereof, flood control facility or other public facility;

(II) Parcel that, as a result of its size, is too small to establish an economically viable use by anyone other than the person who owns real property adjacent to the real property offered for sale or lease; or

(III) Parcel which is subject to a deed restriction prohibiting the use of the real property by anyone other than the person who owns real property adjacent to the real property offered for sale or lease.

(2) The State or another governmental entity if:

(f) A governing body that disposes of real property pursuant to paragraph (e) is not required to offer to reconvey the real property to the person from whom the real property was received or acquired by donation or dedication.

(g) If real property that is offered for sale or lease pursuant to this section is not sold or leased at the initial offering of the contract for the sale or lease of the real property, the governing body may offer the real property for sale or lease a second time pursuant to this section. If there is a material change relating to the title, zoning or an ordinance governing the use of the real property, the governing body must obtain a new appraisal of the real property pursuant to the provisions of NRS 268.059 before offering the real property for sale or lease a second time. If real property that is offered for sale or lease pursuant to this section is not sold or leased at the second offering of the contract for the sale or lease of the real property, the governing body may list the real property for sale or lease at the appraised value with a licensed real estate broker, provided that the broker or a person related to the broker within the first degree of consanguinity or affinity does not have an interest in the real property or an adjoining property.

2. If real property is sold or leased in violation of the provisions of this section:

(a) The sale or lease is void; and

(b) Any change to an ordinance or law governing the zoning or use of the real property is void if the change takes place within 5 years after the date of the void sale or lease.

Sec. 4. NRS 268.062 is hereby amended to read as follows:

268.062 1. Except as otherwise provided in this section and NRS 268.048 to 268.058, inclusive, 268.063, 278.479 to 278.4965, inclusive, and subsection ~~[3]~~ 4 of NRS 496.080, and section 1 of this act, except as otherwise required by federal law, except as otherwise required pursuant to a cooperative agreement entered into pursuant to NRS 277.050 or 277.053 or an interlocal agreement in existence on October 1, 2004, except if the governing body is entering into a joint development agreement for real property owned by the city to which the governing body is a party, except for a lease of residential property with a term of 1 year or less, except for the sale or lease of real property to a public utility, as defined in NRS 704.020, to be used for a public purpose and except for the sale or lease of real property larger than 1 acre which is approved by the voters at a primary or general election, the governing body shall, in open meeting by a majority vote of the members and before ordering the sale or lease at auction of any real property, adopt a resolution declaring its intention to sell or lease the property at auction. The resolution must:

(a) Describe the property proposed to be sold or leased in such a manner as to identify it;

(b) Specify the minimum price and the terms upon which the property will be sold or leased; and

(c) Fix a time, not less than 3 weeks thereafter, for a public meeting of the governing body to be held at its regular place of meeting, at which sealed bids will be received and considered.

➥ If no qualified newspaper is published within the county in which the real property is located, the required notice must be published in some qualified newspaper printed in the State of Nevada and having a general circulation within that county.

3. At the time and place fixed in the resolution for the meeting of the governing body, all sealed bids which have been received must, in public session, be opened, examined and declared by the governing body. Of the proposals submitted which conform to all terms and conditions specified in the resolution of intention to sell or lease and which are made by responsible bidders, the bid which is the highest must be finally accepted, unless a higher oral bid is accepted or the governing body rejects all bids.

4. Before accepting any written bid, the governing body shall call for oral bids. If, upon the call for oral bidding, any responsible person offers to buy or lease the property upon the terms and conditions specified in the resolution, for a price exceeding by at least 5 percent the highest written bid, then the highest oral bid which is made by a responsible person must be finally accepted.

5. The final acceptance by the governing body may be made either at the same session or at any adjourned session of the same meeting held within the 21 days next following.

6. The governing body may, either at the same session or at any adjourned session of the same meeting held within the 21 days next following, if it deems the action to be for the best public interest, reject any and all bids, either written or oral, and withdraw the property from sale or lease.

7. Any resolution of acceptance of any bid made by the governing body must authorize and direct the chair of the governing body to execute a deed or lease and to deliver it upon performance and compliance by the purchaser or lessor with all the terms or conditions of the contract which are to be performed concurrently therewith.

8. The governing body may require any person requesting that real property be sold pursuant to the provisions of this section to deposit a sufficient amount of money to pay the costs to be incurred by the governing body in acting upon the application, including the costs of publication and the expenses of appraisal. This deposit must be refunded whenever the person making the deposit is not the successful bidder. The costs of acting upon the application, including the costs of publication and the expenses of appraisal, must be borne by the successful bidder.

9. If real property is sold or leased in violation of the provisions of this section:

(a) The sale or lease is void; and

(b) Any change to an ordinance or law governing the zoning or use of the real property is void if the change takes place within 5 years after the date of the void sale or lease.

Sec. 6. Chapter 244 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

1. The board of county commissioners may offer any county-owned building or any portion thereof or any other real property for lease without complying with the provisions of NRS 244.2795, 244.281 and 244.283 if:

(a) The area of the building space or other real property is less than 25,000 square feet; and

(b) The board of county commissioners adopts a resolution stating that it is in the best interest of the county to lease the property:

(1) Without offering the property to the public; and

(2) For less than the fair market value of the building space or other real property, if applicable.

2. The board of county commissioners shall:

(a) Cause to be published at least once, in a newspaper qualified under chapter 238 of NRS that is published in the county in which the county-owned building or portion thereof or the other real property is located, a notice setting forth a description of the county-owned building or portion thereof or the other real property proposed to be leased in such a manner as to identify it; and

(b) Hold a public hearing on the matter not less than 10 or more than 20 days after the date of publication of the notice.

3. A lease of a county-owned building or any portion thereof or any other real property pursuant to this section may be made on such terms and conditions as the board of county commissioners deems proper. The duration of such a lease must not exceed 3 years and may include an extension for not more than an additional 2 years.

Sec. 7. NRS 244.2795 is hereby amended to read as follows:

244.2795 1. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 244.189, 244.276, 244.279, 244.2825, 244.2835, 244.284, 244.287, 244.290, 278.479 to 278.4965, inclusive, and subsection 3 of NRS 496.080, and section 6 of this act, except as otherwise required by federal law, except as otherwise required pursuant to a cooperative agreement entered into pursuant to NRS 277.050 or 277.053 or an interlocal agreement in existence on or before October 1, 2004, except if the board of county commissioners is entering into a joint development agreement for real property owned by the county to which the board of county commissioners is a party, except for a lease of residential property with a term of 1 year or less, except for the sale or lease of real property to a public utility, as defined in NRS 704.020, to be used for a public purpose, except for the sale or lease of real property to the State or another governmental entity and except for the sale or lease of real property larger than 1 acre which is approved by the voters at a primary or general election or special election, the board of county commissioners shall, when offering any real property for sale or lease:

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, obtain two independent appraisals of the real property before selling or leasing it. If the board of county commissioners holds a public hearing on the matter of the fair market value of the real property, one independent appraisal of the real property is sufficient before selling or leasing it. The appraisal or appraisals, as applicable, must have been prepared not more than 6 months before the date on which the real property is offered for sale or lease.

(b) Select the one independent appraiser or two independent appraisers, as applicable, from the list of appraisers established pursuant to subsection 2.

(c) Verify the qualifications of each appraiser selected pursuant to paragraph (b). The determination of the board of county commissioners as to the qualifications of the appraiser is conclusive.

2. The board of county commissioners shall adopt by ordinance the procedures for creating or amending a list of appraisers qualified to conduct appraisals of real property offered for sale or lease by the board. The list must:

(a) Contain the names of all persons qualified to act as a general appraiser in the same county as the real property that may be appraised; and

(b) Be organized at random and rotated from time to time.

3. An appraiser chosen pursuant to subsection 1 must provide a disclosure statement which includes, without limitation, all sources of income that may constitute a conflict of interest and any relationship with the real property owner or the owner of an adjoining real property.

4. An appraiser shall not perform an appraisal on any real property for sale or lease by the board of county commissioners if the appraiser or a person related to the appraiser within the first degree of consanguinity or affinity has an interest in the real property or an adjoining property.

5. If real property is sold or leased in violation of the provisions of this section:

(a) The sale or lease is void; and

(b) Any change to an ordinance or law governing the zoning or use of the real property is void if the change takes place within 5 years after the date of the void sale or lease.

Sec. 8. NRS 244.281 is hereby amended to read as follows:

244.281 1. Except as otherwise provided in this subsection and NRS 244.189, 244.276, 244.279, 244.2815, 244.2825, 244.2835, 244.284, 244.287, 244.290, 278.479 to 278.4965, inclusive, and subsection 3 of NRS 496.080, and section 6 of this act, except as otherwise required by federal law, except as otherwise required pursuant to a cooperative agreement entered into pursuant to NRS 277.050 or 277.053 or an interlocal agreement in existence on or before October 1, 2004, except if the board of county commissioners is entering into a joint development agreement for real property owned by the county to which the board of county commissioners is a party, except for a lease of residential property with a term of 1 year or less, except for the sale or lease of real property to a public utility, as defined in NRS 704.020, to be used for a public purpose and except for the sale or lease of real property larger than 1 acre which is approved by the voters at a primary or general election or special election:

(a) When a board of county commissioners has determined by resolution that the sale or lease of any real property owned by the county will be for purposes other than to establish, align, realign, change, vacate or otherwise adjust any street, alley, avenue or other thoroughfare, or portion thereof, or flood control facility within the county and will be in the best interest of the county, it may:

(1) Sell the property in the manner prescribed for the sale of real property in NRS 244.282.

(2) Lease the property in the manner prescribed for the lease of real property in NRS 244.283.

(b) Before the board of county commissioners may sell or lease any real property as provided in paragraph (a), it shall:

(1) Post copies of the resolution described in paragraph (a) in three public places in the county; and

(2) Cause to be published at least once a week for 3 successive weeks, in a newspaper qualified under chapter 238 of NRS that is published in the county in which the real property is located, a notice setting forth:

(I) A description of the real property proposed to be sold or leased in such a manner as to identify it;

(II) The minimum price, if applicable, of the real property proposed to be sold or leased; and

(III) The places at which the resolution described in paragraph (a) has been posted pursuant to subparagraph (1), and any other places at which copies of that resolution may be obtained.

➥ If no qualified newspaper is published within the county in which the real property is located, the required notice must be published in some qualified newspaper printed in the State of Nevada and having a general circulation within that county.

(c) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, if the board of county commissioners by its resolution further finds that the property to be sold or leased is worth more than $1,000, the board shall appoint two or more disinterested, competent real estate appraisers pursuant to NRS 244.2795 to appraise the property. If the board of county commissioners holds a public hearing on the matter of the fair market value of the property, one disinterested, competent appraisal of the property is sufficient before selling or leasing it. Except for property acquired pursuant to NRS 371.047, the board of county commissioners shall not sell or lease it for less than the highest appraised value.

(d) If the property is appraised at $1,000 or more, the board of county commissioners may:

(1) Lease the property; or

(2) Sell the property either for cash or for not less than 25 percent cash down and upon deferred payments over a period of not more than 10 years, secured by a mortgage or deed of trust, bearing such interest and upon such further terms as the board of county commissioners may specify.

(e) A board of county commissioners may sell or lease any real property owned by the county without complying with the provisions of NRS 244.282 or 244.283 to:

(1) A person who owns real property located adjacent to the real property to be sold or leased if the board has determined by resolution that the sale will be in the best interest of the county and the real property is a:

(I) Remnant that was separated from its original parcel due to the construction of a street, alley, avenue or other thoroughfare, or portion thereof, flood control facility or other public facility;

(II) Parcel that, as a result of its size, is too small to establish an economically viable use by anyone other than the person who owns real property adjacent to the real property for sale or lease; or

(III) Parcel which is subject to a deed restriction prohibiting the use of the real property by anyone other than the person who owns real property adjacent to the real property for sale or lease.

(2) The State or another governmental entity if:

(I) The sale or lease restricts the use of the real property to a public use; and

(II) The board adopts a resolution finding that the sale or lease will be in the best interest of the county.

(f) A board of county commissioners that disposes of real property pursuant to paragraph (d) is not required to offer to reconvey the real property to the person from whom the real property was received or acquired by donation or dedication.

(g) If real property that is offered for sale or lease pursuant to this section is not sold or leased at the initial offering of the contract for the sale or lease of the real property, the board of county commissioners may offer the real property for sale or lease a second time pursuant to this section. If there is a material change relating to the title, zoning or an ordinance governing the use of the real property, the board of county commissioners must obtain a new appraisal of the real property pursuant to the provisions of NRS 244.2795 before offering the real property for sale or lease a second time. If real property that is offered for sale or lease pursuant to this section is not sold or leased at the second offering of the contract for the sale or lease of the real property, the board of county commissioners may list the real property for sale or lease at the appraised value with a licensed real estate broker, provided that the broker or a person related to the broker within the first degree of consanguinity or affinity does not have an interest in the real property or an adjoining property.

2. If real property is sold or leased in violation of the provisions of this section:

(a) The sale or lease is void; and

(b) Any change to an ordinance or law governing the zoning or use of the real property is void if the change takes place within 5 years after the date of the void sale or lease.

3. As used in this section, "flood control facility" has the meaning ascribed to it in NRS 244.276.

Sec. 9. NRS 244.283 is hereby amended to read as follows:

244.283 1. When the board of county commissioners determines that the lease of real property belonging to the county for industrial, commercial, residential or recreational purposes is necessary or desirable, the board may lease such real property, whether acquired by purchase, dedication or otherwise. Such a lease must not be in contravention of any condition in a gift or devise of real property to the county.

2. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 244.279 ~~[,]~~ and section 6 of this act, before ordering the lease of any property the board shall, in open meeting by a majority vote of the members, adopt a resolution declaring its intention to lease the property. The resolution must:

(a) Describe the property proposed to be leased in such manner as to identify it.

(b) Specify the minimum rental, and the terms upon which it will be leased.

(c) Fix a time, not less than 3 weeks thereafter, for a public meeting of the board to be held at its regular place of meeting, at which sealed proposals to lease will be received and considered.

3. Notice of the adoption of the resolution and of the time and place of holding the meeting must be given by:

(a) Posting copies of the resolution in three public places in the county not less than 15 days before the date of the meeting; and

(b) Publishing the resolution not less than once a week for 2 successive weeks before the meeting in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county, if any such newspaper is published therein.

4. At the time and place fixed in the resolution for the meeting of the board, all sealed proposals which have been received must, in public session, be opened, examined and declared by the board. Of the proposals submitted which conform to all terms and conditions specified in the resolution of intention to lease and which are made by responsible bidders, the proposal which is the highest must be finally accepted, unless a higher oral bid is accepted or the board rejects all bids.

5. Before accepting any written proposal, the board shall call for oral bids. If, upon the call for oral bidding, any responsible person offers to lease the property upon the terms and conditions specified in the resolution, for a rental exceeding by at least 5 percent the highest written proposal, then the highest oral bid which is made by a responsible person must be finally accepted.

6. A person may not make an oral bid unless, at least 5 days before the meeting held for receiving and considering bids, the person submits to the board written notice of the person's intent to make an oral bid and a statement establishing the person's financial responsibility to the satisfaction of the board.

7. The final acceptance by the board may be made either at the same session or at any adjourned session of the same meeting held within the 21 days next following.

8. The board may, either at the same session or at any adjourned session of the same meeting held within the 21 days next following, if it deems such action to be for the best public interest, reject any and all bids, either written or oral, and withdraw the property from lease.

9. Any resolution of acceptance of any bid made by the board must authorize and direct the chair to execute a lease and to deliver it upon performance and compliance by the lessee with all the terms or conditions of the lessee's contract which are to be performed concurrently therewith.

10. All money received from rentals of real property must be deposited forthwith with the county treasurer to be credited to the county general fund.

11. This section does not apply to leases of real property made pursuant to NRS 244.288, 334.070 or 338.177.

Assemblyman Ohrenschall moved the adoption of the amendment.

Bill ordered to third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 117.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Education:

Amendment No. 484.

AN ACT relating to education; authorizing the board of trustees of a school district and the governing body of a charter school to request a waiver from the required minimum number of school days in a school year during an economic hardship; setting forth certain provisions governing a furlough program of employees of school districts and charter schools as the program relates to the Public Employees' Retirement System; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, each school district is required to schedule and provide annually a minimum of 180 days of school in the schools of the school district and a charter school is required to schedule and provide at least as many days of instruction as are required of other public schools in the school district in which the charter school is located. (NRS 386.550, 388.090) Section 2 of this bill authorizes the board of trustees of a school district and the governing body of a charter school to request a waiver of not more than 10 school days from the required minimum number of school days for a school year during an economic hardship to avoid the layoff of teachers and other educational personnel employed by the school district or charter school. A request for a waiver must be reviewed by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and, if approved, transmitted to the Interim Finance Committee, which makes the final determination of whether to grant a waiver. For purposes of requesting a wavier from the required minimum school days, the circumstances in which an economic hardship exists for a school district or charter school are identical to the circumstances in which an economic hardship exists under existing law for a school district or charter school to request a wavier from the required minimum expenditures for textbooks, instructional supplies, instructional software and instructional hardware. (NRS 387.2065)

The 2009 Session of the Legislature enacted provisions requiring furlough leave of certain state employees and set forth provisions relating to the furlough program and the manner in which the program is carried out as it relates to the Public Employees' Retirement System. (Chapter 391, Statutes of Nevada 2009, p. 2160) Section 7 of this bill sets forth the intent of the Legislature in the establishment of a program certified by the board of trustees of a school district or the governing body of a charter school whereby employees of school districts and charter schools who are members of the Public Employees' Retirement System and who take furlough leave due to extreme fiscal need be held harmless in the accumulation of retirement service credit and reported salary. Section 7 further sets forth provisions concerning the furlough leave as it relates to the Public Employees' Retirement System in a manner similar to the furlough program of state employees.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 386.550 is hereby amended to read as follows:

386.550 1. A charter school shall:

(a) Comply with all laws and regulations relating to discrimination and civil rights.

(b) Remain nonsectarian, including, without limitation, in its educational programs, policies for admission and employment practices.

(c) Refrain from charging tuition or fees, levying taxes or issuing bonds.

(d) Comply with any plan for desegregation ordered by a court that is in effect in the school district in which the charter school is located.

(e) Comply with the provisions of chapter 241 of NRS.

(f) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, schedule and provide annually at least as many days of instruction as are required of other public schools located in the same school district as the charter school is located. The governing body of a charter school may submit a written request to the Superintendent of Public Instruction for a waiver from providing the days of instruction required by this paragraph. A request for a waiver from the required minimum number of school days for a charter school that experiences an economic hardship must be submitted pursuant to section 2 of this act and not this paragraph. The Superintendent of Public Instruction may grant ~~[such]~~ a request submitted pursuant to this paragraph if the governing body demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Superintendent that:

(1) Extenuating circumstances exist to justify the waiver; and

(2) The charter school will provide at least as many hours or minutes of instruction as would be provided under a program ~~[consisting]~~ ***:

(I) Consisting of 180 school days ~~[.]~~ ; or

(II) Consisting of the number of school days for the school year if a reduction in the required minimum number of school days is granted to the charter school pursuant to section 2 of this act.

(g) Cooperate with the board of trustees of the school district in the administration of the achievement and proficiency examinations administered pursuant to NRS 389.015 and the examinations required pursuant to NRS 389.550 to the pupils who are enrolled in the charter school.

(h) Comply with applicable statutes and regulations governing the achievement and proficiency of pupils in this State.

(i) Provide instruction in the core academic subjects set forth in subsection 1 of NRS 389.018, as applicable for the grade levels of pupils who are enrolled in the charter school, and provide at least the courses of study that are required of pupils by statute or regulation for promotion to the next grade or graduation from a public high school and require the pupils who are enrolled in the charter school to take those courses of study. This paragraph does not preclude a charter school from offering, or requiring the pupils who are enrolled in the charter school to take, other courses of study that are required by statute or regulation.

(j) If the parent or legal guardian of a child submits an application to enroll in kindergarten, first grade or second grade at the charter school, comply with NRS 392.040 regarding the ages for enrollment in those grades.

(k) Refrain from using public money to purchase real property or buildings without the approval of the sponsor.

(l) Hold harmless, indemnify and defend the sponsor of the charter school against any claim or liability arising from an act or omission by the governing body of the charter school or an employee or officer of the charter school. An action at law may not be maintained against the sponsor of a charter school for any cause of action for which the charter school has obtained liability insurance.

(m) Provide written notice to the parents or legal guardians of pupils in grades 9 to 12, inclusive, who are enrolled in the charter school of whether the charter school is accredited by the Commission on Schools of the Northwest ~~[Association of Schools and of Colleges and Universities.]~~ Accreditation Commission.

(n) Adopt a final budget in accordance with the regulations adopted by the Department. A charter school is not required to adopt a final budget pursuant to NRS 354.598 or otherwise comply with the provisions of chapter 354 of NRS.

(o) If the charter school provides a program of distance education pursuant to NRS 388.820 to 388.874, inclusive, comply with all statutes and regulations that are applicable to a program of distance education for purposes of the operation of the program.

2. A charter school shall not provide instruction through a program of distance education to children who are exempt from compulsory attendance authorized by the State Board pursuant to subsection 1 of NRS 392.070. As used in this subsection, "distance education" has the meaning ascribed to it in NRS 388.826.

Sec. 2. Chapter 388 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

1. The board of trustees of a school district or the governing body of a charter school that experiences an economic hardship may submit a written request to the Superintendent of Public Instruction on a form prescribed by the Department for a waiver of not more than 10 days of the required minimum number of school days in a school year to avoid, during the economic hardship, the layoff of teachers and other educational personnel employed by the school district or charter school.

2. Upon receipt of a written request pursuant to subsection 1, the Superintendent of Public Instruction shall consider the request and determine whether an economic hardship exists for the school district or charter school and whether a wavier of the required number of school days is necessary to avoid, during the economic hardship, the layoff of teachers and other educational personnel employed by the school district or charter school. The Superintendent of Public Instruction may request additional information from the applicant in making the determination. If the Superintendent of Public Instruction determines that an economic hardship exists for the applicant and that a waiver of the required number of school days is necessary to avoid, during the economic hardship, the layoff of teachers and other educational personnel employed by the applicant, the Superintendent shall forward the written request to the Interim Finance Committee, including the basis for the Superintendent's determination and any recommendations for the number of school days that may be waived, which must not exceed 10 school days.

3. Upon receipt of a written request from the Superintendent of Public Instruction pursuant to subsection 2, the Interim Finance Committee shall consider the request and determine whether an economic hardship exists for the school district or charter school and whether a waiver of the required minimum number of school days is necessary to avoid, during the economic hardship, the layoff of teachers and other educational personnel employed by the school district or charter school. The Interim Finance Committee may request additional information from the applicant in making the determination. If the Interim Finance Committee grants a waiver, the Committee shall by resolution set forth:

(a) The grounds for its determination; and

(b) The number of school days that may be waived for the school year by the school district or charter school, which must not exceed 10 school days.

4. If the Interim Finance Committee grants a waiver pursuant to subsection 3 and subsequently the economic hardship to the school district or charter school is mitigated because the actual revenue attributable to the school district or charter school exceeds projections or the actual expenses incurred by the school district or charter school are less than anticipated, the school district or charter school must add accordingly school days to the school year for which the wavier was granted.

5. For purposes of this section, an economic hardship exists for a school district or charter school if:

(a) Projections of revenue do not meet or exceed the revenue anticipated at the time the basic support guarantees are established for the fiscal year pursuant to NRS 387.122; or

(b) The school district or charter school incurs unforeseen expenses, including, without limitation, expenses related to a natural disaster.

6. A waiver granted pursuant to this section does not affect any right or remedy available pursuant to the provisions of chapter 288 of NRS, any obligation of the board of trustees of a school district or the governing body of a charter school pursuant to chapter 288 of NRS or any contract negotiated by the board of trustees of a school district or the governing body of a charter school pursuant to chapter 288 of NRS.

Sec. 3. NRS 388.090 is hereby amended to read as follows:

388.090 1. Except as otherwise provided in this section ~~[.]~~ and section 2 of this act, boards of trustees of school districts shall schedule and provide a minimum of 180 days of free school in the districts under their charge.

2. Except for an alternative schedule described in subsection 3, the Superintendent of Public Instruction may, upon application by the board of trustees of a school district, authorize the school district to provide a program of instruction based on an alternative schedule if the number of minutes of instruction to be provided is equal to or greater than the number of minutes of instruction that would be provided in a program of instruction consisting of 180 school days ~~[.]~~ or consisting of the number of school days for the school year if a reduction in the required minimum number of school days is granted to the school district pursuant to section 2 of this act. The Superintendent of Public Instruction shall notify the board of trustees of the school district of the approval or denial of the application not later than 30 days after the Superintendent of Public Instruction receives the application. An alternative schedule proposed pursuant to this subsection must be developed in accordance with chapter 288 of NRS. If a school district is located in a county whose population is 100,000 or more, the board of trustees of the school district may not submit an application pursuant to this subsection unless the proposed alternative schedule of the school district:

(a) Will apply only to a rural portion or a remote portion of the county in which the school district is located, as defined by the State Board pursuant to subsection 9; or

(b) Is designed solely for the purpose of providing regular professional development to educational personnel and such professional development is focused on analyzing and discussing measures of the performance of pupils and identifying appropriate instructional strategies to improve the achievement of pupils.

3. The Superintendent of Public Instruction may, upon application by the board of trustees of a school district, authorize a reduction of not more than 15 school days in that particular district to establish or maintain an alternative schedule consisting of a 12-month school program if the board of trustees demonstrates that the proposed alternative schedule for the program provides for a number of minutes of instruction that is equal to or greater than that which would be provided under a program consisting of 180 school days ~~[.]~~ or consisting of the number of school days for the school year if a reduction in the required minimum number of school days is granted to the school district pursuant to section 2 of this act. Before authorizing a reduction in the number of required school days pursuant to this subsection, the Superintendent of Public Instruction must find that the proposed alternative schedule will be used to alleviate problems associated with a growth in enrollment or overcrowding.

4. The Superintendent of Public Instruction may, upon application by a board of trustees, authorize the addition of minutes of instruction to any scheduled day of free school if days of free school are lost because of any interscholastic activity. Not more than 5 days of free school so lost may be rescheduled in this manner. The provisions of this subsection do not apply to an alternative schedule approved pursuant to subsection 2.

5. The number of minutes of instruction required for a particular group of pupils in a program of instruction based on an alternative schedule approved pursuant to this section must be determined by multiplying the appropriate minimum daily period of instruction established by the State Board by regulation for that particular group of pupils by 180 ~~[.]~~ or by the number of school days for the school year if a reduction in the required minimum number of school days is granted to the school district pursuant to section 2 of this act.

6. Each school district shall schedule at least 3 contingent days of school, or its equivalent if the school district operates under an alternative schedule authorized pursuant to this section, in addition to the number of days required by this section, which must be used if a natural disaster, inclement weather or an accident necessitates the closing of a majority of the facilities within the district. The 3 contingent days of school, or its equivalent, may be scheduled as:

(a) Full days of school;

(b) An equivalent number of minutes of instruction added to any scheduled day of instruction, except that the minutes added must not be less than 30 minutes per school day; or

(c) Any combination thereof.

7. If more than 3 days of free school or minutes of instruction equaling 3 days of free school, or the equivalent if the school district operates under an alternative schedule authorized pursuant to this section, are lost because a natural disaster, inclement weather or an accident necessitates the closing of a majority of the facilities within a school district, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, upon application by the school district, may permit the additional days or equivalent minutes of instruction lost to be counted as school days in session. The application must be submitted in the manner prescribed by the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

8. The Superintendent of Public Instruction may, upon application by the board of trustees of a school district, authorize additional days or minutes of instruction for a program of remedial education that is fully paid for through the school district, including, without limitation, the provision of transportation. If the Superintendent of Public Instruction authorizes such additional days or minutes, the board of trustees may adopt a policy prescribing the minimum number of days of attendance or the minimum number of minutes of attendance for a pupil who is determined to need such remedial education. If the board of trustees adopts such a policy, the policy must include, without limitation, the criteria for determining that a pupil be enrolled in the program of remedial education, the procedure pursuant to which parents and guardians will be notified of the pupil's progress throughout the school year and a process for appealing a determination regarding a pupil's need for remedial education.

9. The State Board shall adopt regulations:

(a) Providing procedures for changing schedules of instruction to be used if a natural disaster, inclement weather or an accident necessitates the closing of a particular school within a school district.

(b) Defining a rural portion of a county and a remote portion of a county for the purposes of subsection 2.

Sec. 4. NRS 388.537 is hereby amended to read as follows:

388.537 1. The board of trustees of a school district may, subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, operate an alternative program for the education of pupils at risk of dropping out of school, including pupils who are enrolled in kindergarten or grades 1 to 12, inclusive.

2. The board of trustees of a school district may submit to the Department, in the form prescribed by the Department, a plan to operate an alternative program.

3. The Superintendent of Public Instruction shall review each plan to operate an alternative program submitted to the Department and approve or deny the plan. Approval by the Superintendent constitutes approval of each component of the plan for the alternative program.

4. If a plan for an alternative program is denied by the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the board of trustees of a school district may appeal the decision of the Superintendent to the State Board. The State Board may approve or deny the plan for the alternative program upon appeal.

5. An alternative program may include:

(a) A shorter school day or an opportunity for pupils to attend a longer school day than that regularly provided in the school district. (b) An opportunity for pupils to attend classes of instruction during any part of the calendar year.

(c) A comprehensive curriculum that includes elective classes of instruction and career and technical education.

(d) An opportunity for pupils to obtain academic credit through experience gained at work or while engaged in other activities.

(e) An opportunity for pupils to satisfy either:

(1) The requirements for a regular high school diploma; or

(2) The requirements for an adult standard diploma.

(f) The provision of child care for the children of pupils.

(g) The transportation of pupils to and from classes of instruction.

(h) The placement of pupils for independent study pursuant to NRS 389.155, if the board of trustees of the school district determines that the pupil would benefit from such placement.

6. The board of trustees of a school district may operate an alternative program pursuant to this section through a program of distance education pursuant to NRS 388.820 to 388.874, inclusive.

Sec. 5. NRS 388.842 is hereby amended to read as follows:

388.842 1. A program of distance education may include, without limitation, an opportunity for pupils to participate in the program:

(a) For a shorter school day or a longer school day than that regularly provided for in the school district or charter school, as applicable; and

(b) During any part of the calendar year.

2. If a program of distance education is provided for pupils on a full-time basis, the program must include at least as many hours or minutes of instruction as would be provided under a program ~~[consisting]~~ ***:

(b) Consisting of the number of school days for the school year if a reduction in the required minimum number of school days is granted to the school district or charter school pursuant to section 2 of this act.

Sec. 6. NRS 218E.405 is hereby amended to read as follows:

218E.405 1. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 2, the Interim Finance Committee may exercise the powers conferred upon it by law only when the Legislature is not in regular or special session.

2. During a regular or special session, the Interim Finance Committee may also perform the duties imposed on it by subsection 5 of NRS 284.115, NRS 284.1729, subsection 2 of NRS 321.335, NRS 322.007, subsection 2 of NRS 323.020, NRS 323.050, subsection 1 of NRS 323.100, subsection 3 of NRS 341.090, NRS 341.142, subsection 6 of NRS 341.145, NRS 353.220, 353.224, 353.2705 to 353.2771, inclusive, 353.288, 353.335, 353C.226, 387.2065, section 2 of this act, paragraph (b) of subsection 4 of NRS 407.0762, NRS 428.375, 439.620, 439.630, 445B.830 and 538.650. In performing those duties, the Senate Standing Committee on Finance and the Assembly Standing Committee on Ways and Means may meet separately and transmit the results of their respective votes to the Chair of the Interim Finance Committee to determine the action of the Interim Finance Committee as a whole.

3. The Chair of the Interim Finance Committee may appoint a subcommittee consisting of six members of the Committee to review and make recommendations to the Committee on matters of the State Public Works Board that require prior approval of the Interim Finance Committee pursuant to subsection 3 of NRS 341.090, NRS 341.142 and subsection 6 of NRS 341.145. If the Chair appoints such a subcommittee:

(a) The Chair shall designate one of the members of the subcommittee to serve as the chair of the subcommittee;

(b) The subcommittee shall meet throughout the year at the times and places specified by the call of the chair of the subcommittee; and

(c) The Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau or the Director's designee shall act as the nonvoting recording secretary of the subcommittee.

Sec. 7. 1. It is the intent of the Legislature that if the board of trustees of a school district or the governing body of a charter school certifies a furlough program whereby employees of the school district or charter school who are members of the Public Employees' Retirement System and who take furlough leave pursuant to the program due to extreme fiscal need be held harmless in the accumulation of retirement service credit and reported salary pursuant to chapter 286 of NRS.

2. Except as otherwise required as a result of NRS 286.537 and notwithstanding the provisions of NRS 286.481, if an employee of a school district or charter school who participates in the Public Employees' Retirement System is required to take furlough leave pursuant to a furlough program certified by the board of trustees of the school district or the governing body of the charter school, the employee is entitled to receive full service credit for the time taken as furlough leave in the same manner as service credit is computed pursuant to NRS 286.501 if:

(a) The employee does not take more than 96 hours of furlough leave in a school year; and

(b) The board of trustees of the school district or the governing body of the charter school certifies to the Public Employees' Retirement System that the school district or charter school is participating in a furlough program and that the furlough leave which is reported for the employee is taken in accordance with the requirements of that program.

3. In any month in which a day of furlough leave is taken, an employee is entitled to receive full-time service credit in the same manner as service credit is computed pursuant to NRS 286.501 for the furlough leave in accordance with the normal workday for the employee. An employee who is less than full-time is entitled to service credit in the same manner as service credit is computed pursuant to NRS 286.501 and in the same manner and to the same extent as though the employee had worked the hours taken as furlough leave.

4. When a member is on furlough leave pursuant to this section as certified by the board of trustees of the school district or the governing body of the charter school, the board of trustees or the governing body must:

(b) Pay all required employer and employee contributions to the Public Employees' Retirement System based on the compensation that would have been paid to the member but for the member's participation in the program. The board of trustees of the school district and the governing body of the charter school may recover from the employee the amount of the employee contributions set forth in NRS 286.410.

5. Except as otherwise required by this section, the terms and conditions of any furlough program certified by the board of trustees of the school district or the governing body of a charter school must be negotiated pursuant to chapter 288 of NRS.

6. Service credit under a furlough program certified by the board of trustees of a school district or the governing body of a charter school must be computed according to the school year.

7. As used in this section, "member" has the meaning ascribed to it in NRS 286.050.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Commerce and Labor:

Amendment No. 284.

AN ACT relating to occupational diseases; expanding the frequency with which certain volunteer firefighters must submit to physical examinations to receive workers' compensation coverage for certain occupational diseases; revising provisions relating to the procedure for scheduling such physical examinations under certain circumstances; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, an employee who contracts an occupational disease arising out of and in the course of his or her employment is generally entitled to receive benefits for workers' compensation. (Chapter 617 of NRS) Specifically, if an employee has been employed for 2 years or more as a full-time salaried firefighter, arson investigator or police officer or has acted for 2 years or more as a volunteer firefighter who is entitled to benefits for workers' compensation, any disease of the lungs caused by exposure to heat, smoke, fumes, tear gas or any other noxious gases arising out of and in the course of employment is an occupational disease for which the employee is entitled to receive workers' compensation. To receive coverage for such an occupational disease, the employee must submit to a physical examination upon initial employment, upon commencement of the coverage, once every even-numbered year until the employee is 40 years of age or older and on an annual basis thereafter during his or her employment. (NRS 617.455) Section 1 of this bill requires a volunteer firefighter ~~[who]~~ to submit to a physical examination upon employment, commencement of coverage and once every 3 years after commencement of coverage until the volunteer firefighter is ~~[40]~~ 50 years of age or older ~~[to submit to the physical examination]~~ and once every 2 years thereafter instead of on an annual basis.

Existing law provides similar coverage for a volunteer firefighter who contracts a disease of the heart and who, for 5 years or more, has served continuously as a volunteer firefighter in Nevada. To receive coverage for such an occupational disease, the volunteer firefighter is required to submit to a physical examination upon initial employment, once every 3 years after the initial examination until he or she reaches the age of 50 years and once each year if he or she is 50 years of age or older. (NRS 617.457) Section 2 of this bill requires a volunteer firefighter ~~[who]~~ to submit to a physical examination upon employment, upon commencement of coverage and once every 3 years after commencement of the coverage until the volunteer firefighter is 50 years of age or older ~~[to submit to the physical examination]~~ and once every 2 years thereafter instead of once each year. Section 2 also requires employers to follow certain procedures when scheduling physical examinations for volunteer firefighters.

Section 15 provides that the amount of assistance an applicant may receive from the Fund must not exceed 100 percent of the cost incurred by the applicant's new manufacturing business for electricity during its first year of operation in this State. Amendment No. 351.

SUMMARY—Provides that ~~[certain]~~ unredeemed slot machine wagering ~~[instruments]~~ vouchers escheat to the State. (BDR 10-811)

AN ACT relating to unclaimed property; providing that ~~[certain]~~ unredeemed slot machine wagering ~~[instruments]~~ vouchers escheat to the State; requiring the Nevada Gaming Commission to adopt regulations relating to unredeemed slot machine wagering ~~[instruments;]~~ vouchers; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law prescribes the process of the disposition of unclaimed personal property. (Chapter 120A of NRS) Existing law also provides that such provisions of law do not apply to unredeemed gaming chips or tokens. (NRS 120A.135) Section ~~[3]~~ 1.3 of this bill specifies that with regard to unclaimed property, a gaming chip or token does not include a slot machine wagering ~~[instrument.]~~ voucher. Section 1.3 defines "slot machine wagering voucher" as a printed wagering instrument that has a fixed dollar wagering value that can only be used to acquire an equivalent value of cashable credits or cash. Section ~~[4]~~ 1.7 of this bill provides that ~~[a]~~ unless the Nevada Gaming Commission specifies a shorter period of time in which a slot machine wagering voucher must be redeemed, upon the expiration date printed on a slot machine wagering voucher or 30 days after the slot machine wagering voucher is issued, whichever period is less, any value remaining on an unredeemed slot machine wagering ~~[instrument]~~ voucher is presumed to be abandoned ~~[if it is unclaimed by the apparent owner within 1 year after the wager is placed, unless the Nevada Gaming Commission specifies a different period in which the wagering instrument must be redeemed.]~~ and subject to the provisions of law regarding the disposition of unclaimed personal property. The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Taxation:

Amendment No. 312.

AN ACT relating to taxation; authorizing a veteran to transfer to his or her spouse the exemption from the governmental services tax to which the veteran would otherwise be entitled; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, a veteran is entitled, with respect to the registration of a vehicle and to the extent of $2,000 determined valuation, to an exemption from the governmental services tax that would otherwise be due and payable on the vehicle. (NRS 371.103) If a veteran has incurred a permanent service-connected disability, existing law authorizes such an exemption in the amount of $20,000 for a veteran with a total disability, $15,000 for a veteran with a disability of 80 to 99 percent and $10,000 for a veteran with a disability of 60 to 79 percent. (NRS 371.104) This bill allows such a person, by filing an affidavit with the Department of Motor Vehicles, to transfer ~~[that]~~ the tax exemption to his or her spouse. If such a transfer is made: (1) the spouse is entitled to the exemption in the same manner as the veteran would have been entitled to the exemption; (2) the transferred exemption may not be claimed by the veteran while the transfer is in force; (3) the veteran may, by affidavit, revoke the transfer of the exemption; and (4) the transferred exemption terminates upon the earlier of the termination of the marriage, the veteran's death or the revocation of the transfer.

SUMMARY— ~~[Revises the circumstances under which a person is exempt from obtaining a license to drive a road machine,]~~ Authorizes an agricultural user to apply to the Motor Carrier Division of the Department of Motor Vehicles for the issuance of a license plate and decal to operate a farm tractor or motorized implement of husbandry on a highway ~~[,]~~ in this State under certain circumstances. (BDR 43-300)

AN ACT relating to vehicles; ~~[requiring]~~ authorizing an agricultural user to apply to the Motor Carrier Division of the Department of Motor Vehicles ~~[to issue a decal exempting a person from obtaining a license]~~ for the issuance of a license plate and decal to operate a ~~[road machine,]~~ farm tractor or motorized implement of husbandry on a highway in this State under certain circumstances; requiring the ~~[decal]~~ license plate to be displayed on the ~~[road machine,]~~ farm tractor or motorized implement of husbandry in ~~[the]~~ a certain manner ; ~~[specified by the Department;]~~ authorizing the Department to issue a ~~[new]~~ replacement license plate or decal upon the payment of a fee if a license plate or decal is lost or destroyed; ~~[revising the circumstances under which a person is exempt from obtaining a license to drive a road machine, farm tractor or implement of husbandry on a highway;]~~ and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, ~~[certain persons are exempt from obtaining a driver's license or permit to operate a vehicle on a highway in this State. This exemption includes, without limitation, any person while temporarily driving a road machine, farm tractor or implement of husbandry on a highway. (NRS 483.240) Section 7 of this bill revises the circumstances under which the person may claim such an exemption by requiring the person to ensure that: (1) a policy of liability insurance which includes a certain amount of coverage for bodily injury and property damage is in effect; (2) a decal issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles is attached to the road machine, farm tractor or implement of husbandry; and (3) during the period in which the person drives the road machine, farm tractor or implement of husbandry on the highway, an emblem for slow-moving vehicles is displayed on the road machine, farm tractor or implement of husbandry, the vehicular hazard-warning lamps for the road machine, farm tractor or implement of husbandry are displayed or any other warning device required by the Department is displayed on the road machine, farm tractor or implement of husbandry. Section 1 of this bill authorizes a person who wishes to obtain a decal exempting him or her from obtaining a license to operate a road machine, farm tractor or implement of husbandry on a highway to submit a notice of that fact to the Department. Such a notice must include a fee of $20 and evidence satisfactory to the Department that the person is the holder of a policy of liability insurance which includes a certain amount of coverage for bodily injury and property damage. Section 1 requires the decal to be displayed on the road machine, farm tractor or implement of husbandry in the~~ ~~manner specified by the Department and~~] every owner of a motor vehicle, trailer or semitrailer that is intended to be operated upon any highway in this State is required, before operating the motor vehicle, trailer or semitrailer, to apply to the Department of Motor Vehicles to register the motor vehicle, trailer or semitrailer. (NRS 482.205) Existing law exempts an implement of husbandry from the registration requirement if the implement of husbandry is temporarily drawn, moved or otherwise propelled upon a highway. (NRS 482.210) This bill authorizes a person who is an agricultural user and who wishes to obtain a license plate and decal to operate a farm tractor or motorized implement of husbandry on the highways of this State to submit an application to the Motor Carrier Division of the Department of Motor Vehicles. An "agricultural user" is defined to mean a person who owns or operates a farm tractor or motorized implement of husbandry for a certain type of agricultural use. This bill requires the Department to issue a license plate and decal for the farm tractor or motorized implement of husbandry as soon as practicable after the Department receives the application, applicable fee and appropriate evidence of insurance. This bill also authorizes an agricultural user to submit an application for the renewal of a license plate and decal for a farm tractor or motorized implement of husbandry. An application for renewal must include the applicable fee and appropriate evidence of insurance. Finally, this bill authorizes the Department to issue a new license plate or decal for a farm tractor or motorized implement of husbandry if the license plate or decal is lost or destroyed.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Chapter ~~[483]~~ 482 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to read as follows:

Amendment No. 489.

SUMMARY—Revises provisions governing deficiencies existing after foreclosure sales. [.] and sales in lieu of foreclosure sales. (BDR 3-561)

AN ACT relating to real property; revising provisions governing the amount which a person holding a junior lien on real property may recover in a civil action under certain circumstances; prohibiting certain persons holding a junior lien on certain residential property from bringing a civil action under certain circumstances; revising provisions governing the amount of a deficiency judgment after the foreclosure of a mortgage or a deed of trust; limiting the amount of certain judgments against guarantors, sureties or other obligors of obligations secured by real property under certain circumstances; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, a judgment creditor or a beneficiary of a deed of trust may obtain, after a hearing, a deficiency judgment after a foreclosure sale or trustee's sale if it appears from the sheriff's return or the recital of consideration in the trustee's deed that there is a deficiency of the proceeds of the sale and a balance remaining due the judgment creditor or beneficiary of the deed of trust. Existing law requires a judgment creditor or beneficiary of a deed of trust to bring an action for such a deficiency judgment within 6 months after the foreclosure sale or trustee's sale. For an obligation secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on or after October 1, 2009, a court may not award a deficiency judgment to the judgment creditor or the beneficiary of the deed of trust if: (1) the creditor or beneficiary is a financial institution; (2) the real property is a single-family dwelling and the debtor or grantor was the owner of the property; (3) the debtor or grantor used the loan to purchase the property; (4) the debtor or grantor occupied the property continuously after obtaining the loan; and (5) the debtor or grantor did not refinance the loan. (NRS 40.455) [Section]

Sections 3 , 3.3 and 5.7 of this bill enact similar provisions to govern deficiency judgments sought by junior lienholders after a foreclosure sale, a trustee's sale or any sale or deed in lieu of a foreclosure sale or trustee's sale. Section 3 provides that, if [these] the circumstances prohibiting a deficiency judgment after a foreclosure sale or trustee's sale under current law exist with respect to a junior lienholder, the creditor may not bring a civil action to recover the debt owed to it after a foreclosure sale ~~[, short]~~ , a trustee's sale or a sale or deed in lieu of a foreclosure sale ~~[.]~~ or trustee's sale.

Existing law authorizes a creditor under an obligation secured by a junior mortgage or deed of trust to bring an action to obtain a personal judgment against the debtor only if the action is commenced within 6 years after the date of the debtor's default. (NRS 11.190) Under sections 3.3 and 5.7 of this bill, if the real property securing such an obligation is the subject of a foreclosure sale, a trustee's sale or a sale or deed in lieu of such a sale, the creditor may bring an action to obtain a personal judgment against the debtor only if the action is brought within 6 months after the foreclosure sale, the trustee's sale or the sale in lieu of a foreclosure sale or trustee's sale.

Under existing law, the amount of a deficiency judgment after a foreclosure sale or a trustee's sale may not exceed the lesser of: (1) the amount of the indebtedness minus the fair market value of the foreclosed property at the time of the sale; or (2) the amount of the indebtedness minus the amount for which the foreclosed property actually sold. (NRS 40.459) Section 5 of this bill provides that, for a deficiency judgment sought by a secured creditor after a foreclosure sale , ~~[or]~~ trustee's sale ~~[,]~~ or sale in lieu of a foreclosure sale or trustee's sale, the amount of the deficiency judgment must be reduced by the amount of any insurance proceeds received by, or payable to, the creditor. Section 2 of this bill enacts a corresponding provision for money judgments sought against a debtor by a junior lienholder after a foreclosure sale, ~~[short]~~ a trustee's sale or a sale or deed in lieu of a foreclosure sale ~~[.]~~ or trustee's sale.

Sections 2 and 5 also limit the recovery of a creditor who acquired the right to obtain payment for an obligation secured by the real property from another person who owned that obligation. If the creditor is seeking a deficiency judgment after a foreclosure sale , ~~[or]~~ a trustee's sale ~~[,]~~ or a sale in lieu of a foreclosure sale or trustee's sale, section 5 provides that the creditor may not a receive an amount which exceeds the lesser of: (1) the consideration paid for the obligation minus the fair market value of the property at the time of the foreclosure sale, with interest from the date of sale and reasonable costs; or (2) the consideration paid for the obligation minus the amount for which the property actually sold, with interest from the date of sale and reasonable costs. If the creditor is a junior lienholder who filed a civil action to obtain a money judgment against the debtor, section 2 provides that the creditor may not receive an amount greater than the consideration paid for the obligation, with interest from the date ~~[of the default]~~ on which the person acquired the right to obtain payment and reasonable costs.

Section 5.5 of this bill limits the amount of a judgment against a guarantor, surety or other obligor, other than a mortgagor or grantor of a deed of trust, in an action commenced before a foreclosure sale or trustee's sale to enforce the obligation to pay, satisfy or purchase all or part of an obligation secured by a mortgage or other lien on real property. Under section 5.5, the amount of the judgment may not exceed the lesser of: (1) the amount of the indebtedness minus the fair market value of the real property at the time of the commencement of the action; or (2) if a foreclosure sale or a trustee's sale is completed before the date on which judgment is entered, the amount of the indebtedness minus the amount for which the foreclosed property actually sold.

Section 6 of this bill provides that the amendatory provisions of this bill apply only prospectively to obligations secured by a mortgage, deed of trust or other encumbrance upon real property on or after ~~[July 1, 2011.]~~ the effective date of this bill.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

The federal Secure and Fair Enforcement for Mortgage Licensing Act of 2008 requires that a person who originates residential mortgage loans be licensed as a loan originator and requires that such a loan originator be registered with the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry. (12 U.S.C. § 5103) Existing law in Nevada prescribes the requirements for a license as a mortgage agent, mortgage banker, mortgage broker or a qualified employee who is a residential mortgage loan originator, which include, without limitation, registration with the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry. (NRS 645B.0137, 645E.200) Section ~~[1]~~ 6 of this bill provides that such a person is not required to register or renew with the Nationwide Mortgage Licensing System and Registry , or provide reports of financial condition to the Registry, if: (1) the person is not a residential mortgage loan originator or the supervisor of a residential mortgage loan originator; and (2) the person is not required to register pursuant to the federal Act. Section 6 also provides that such a person who voluntarily registers or renews with the Registry shall comply with all requirements of the federal Act.

Under existing law, the Commissioner of Mortgage Lending is required to adopt such regulations as necessary to carry out the provisions of the federal Act. (NRS 645F.293) Section ~~[2]~~ 7 of this bill provides that the regulations must not require registration of a person who is exempt pursuant to section ~~[1.]~~ 6.

Sections 1, 2 and 4 of this bill revise provisions governing continuing education requirements for persons who are exempt pursuant to section 6 and who have not voluntarily registered or renewed with the Registry. Section 3 of this bill exempts certain investors who deposit money with a mortgage broker from criminal and civil liability for the acts or omissions of the mortgage broker. Section 5 of this bill revises provisions governing the employment of or association with a mortgage agent by a mortgage broker, mortgage banker or person who holds a certificate of exemption issued by the Commissioner of Mortgage Lending. Section 8 of this bill repeals certain provisions governing mortgage bankers which are included within the amendatory provisions of section 5.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Judiciary:

Amendment No. 324.

AN ACT relating to real property; revising provisions governing the recording of assignments of mortgages and deeds of trust; revising provisions governing the exercise of the power of sale under a deed of trust; revising provisions concerning the crimes of mortgage lending fraud and making a false representation concerning title to real property; providing civil and criminal penalties; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under exiting law, the assignment of a mortgage or the beneficial interest in a deed of trust may be recorded. (NRS 106.210, 107.070) Section 1 of this bill requires such an assignment to be recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the real property is located . ~~[within 60 days after the assignment.]~~

Sections 4, 7 and 8 of this bill increase from $500 to $1,000 the civil liability of a mortgagee or trustee or beneficiary under a deed of trust who fails to discharge the mortgage or deed of trust within 21 days after the obligation secured by mortgage or deed of trust has been satisfied.

Section 6 of this bill prescribes certain duties of a trustee under a deed of trust and provides for a civil action against a trustee under certain circumstances.

~~[~~Sections~~]~~ Section 9 ~~[and 11]~~ of this bill ~~[require]~~ requires a notice of default and election to sell real property subject to a deed of trust to include ~~[:~~ ~~(1)]~~ an affidavit setting forth certain information concerning the deed of trust , ~~[and]~~ the amounts due ~~[; and (2) a statement under penalty of perjury that the person executing and recording the notice of default and election to sell has actual]~~ , the possession of the note and the deed of trust and ~~[has]~~ the authority to foreclose. Section 9 also provides for a civil action against a person who exercises the power of sale under a deed of trust without complying with the provisions of law governing the exercise of that power.

Existing law authorizes certain persons to request a statement of the amount necessary to discharge a debt secured by a deed of trust. (NRS 107.210) Section 12 of this bill adds to the information required to be provided in this statement: (1) the identity of the trustee, any trustee's agent, the current holder of the note, the beneficiary of record and the servicers of the debt; and (2) if the debt is in default, the amount in default, the principal, interest, default fees and the cost and fees associated with the exercise of a power of sale.

Section 13 of this bill revises provisions relating to the crime of mortgage lending fraud by: (1) providing that a person who commits mortgage lending fraud is subject to a civil penalty of not more than $5,000; and (2) authorizing the owner or the holder of the beneficial interest in the real property to bring a civil action for damages suffered because of the conduct and for attorney's fees and costs.

Section 14 of this bill revises the crime of making a false representation concerning title and increases the penalty for such a crime from a gross misdemeanor to a category C felony. If the person engages in a pattern of making false representations concerning title, the person is guilty of a category B felony. In addition, a person who commits this crime is subject to a civil penalty of not more than $5,000, and the owner or the holder of the beneficial interest in the real property may bring a civil action for damages suffered because of the false representation and for attorney's fees and costs.

A release prepared and recorded pursuant to this subsection shall be deemed a reconveyance of a deed of trust. The title insurer shall not cause a release to be recorded pursuant to this subsection if the title insurer receives written instructions to the contrary from the trustee, the trustor, the owner of the land, the holder of the escrow or the owner of the debt secured by the deed of trust or his or her agent.

5. The release prepared pursuant to subsection 4 must set forth:

(f) The name and address of the title insurer issuing the partial release; and

(g) The legal description of the estate in real property which is reconveyed.

6. A partial release prepared and recorded pursuant to subsection 4 does not relieve a beneficiary or trustee of the requirements imposed by subsections 1 and 2.

7. A trustee may charge a reasonable fee to the trustor or the owner of the land for services relating to the preparation, execution or recordation of a partial reconveyance or partial release pursuant to this section. A trustee shall not require the fees to be paid before the opening of an escrow or earlier than 60 calendar days before the partial payment or partial satisfaction or discharge of the debt secured by the deed of trust. If a fee charged pursuant to this subsection does not exceed $100, the fee is conclusively presumed to be reasonable.

Amendment No. 429.

AN ACT relating to mortgage lending; revising provisions governing certain mortgage lending professionals to be consistent with certain federal law governing the provision of mortgage assistance relief services; providing a penalty; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law regulates the activities of certain mortgage lending professionals who provide counseling, assistance and advice to homeowners whose homes are subject to an outstanding notice of the pendency of an action for foreclosure. (NRS 645F.300-645F.450) The Federal Trade Commission similarly regulates the activities of persons who provide mortgage assistance relief services. (16 C.F.R. Part 322) This bill revises Nevada law to provide protections for homeowners consistent with the protections provided pursuant to the regulations adopted by the Federal Trade Commission.

Section 2 of this bill prohibits a person who performs any covered service for compensation, a foreclosure consultant or a loan modification consultant from requesting or receiving any compensation before a homeowner executes a written agreement that incorporates an offer of mortgage assistance.

Section 3 of this bill requires a person who performs any covered service for compensation, a foreclosure consultant or a loan modification consultant to maintain certain records for not less than 24 months. Section 3 provides that such records are subject to inspection and audit by the Commissioner of Mortgage Lending. Section 3 also requires a person who performs any covered service for compensation, a foreclosure consultant or a loan modification consultant to take reasonable steps to ensure that any of his or her employees or independent contractors comply with the laws and regulations governing persons who perform covered services for compensation, foreclosure consultants and loan modification consultants.

Section 4 of this bill requires a person who performs any covered service for compensation, a foreclosure consultant or a loan modification consultant to make certain disclosures in connection with any commercial communication relating to the provision of any covered service.

Section 5 of this bill requires a person who performs any covered service for compensation, a foreclosure consultant or a loan modification consultant to provide certain notices to a homeowner at the time the homeowner is presented with a written agreement incorporating an offer of mortgage assistance obtained from the homeowner's lender or servicer.

Section 6 of this bill prohibits a person who knows or reasonably should know that a person who performs any covered service for compensation, a foreclosure consultant or a loan modification consultant is not in compliance with the laws and regulations governing covered services from providing substantial assistance or support to the person who performs any covered service for compensation, the foreclosure consultant or the loan modification consultant.

Section 8 of this bill extends to the employees of an attorney at law the exemption from regulation as a foreclosure consultant or foreclosure purchaser that is currently provided under certain circumstances to an attorney at law.

Section 9 of this bill prohibits a person who performs any covered service for compensation, a foreclosure consultant or a loan modification consultant from making certain express or implied representations relating to the provision of covered services, including any representation that: (1) a homeowner cannot or should not contact or communicate with his or her lender; or (2) the covered service is affiliated with or endorsed by the Federal Government, the State of Nevada or any department, agency or political subdivision thereof. Section 9 also prohibits a person who performs any covered service, a foreclosure consultant or a loan modification consultant from obtaining or attempting to obtain from a homeowner a waiver of any provision of this bill or existing law. Any such waiver is void and unenforceable. A violation of any provision of section 9 constitutes mortgage lending fraud and is punishable as a category C felony.

Assembly Bill No. 380.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Commerce and Labor:

Amendment No. 435.

AN ACT relating to energy; revising the prospective expiration of the Wind Energy Systems Demonstration Program and the Waterpower Energy Systems Demonstration Program; providing for the expiration of the Solar Energy Systems Incentive Program; revising provisions governing the Solar Program, the Wind Program and the Waterpower Program; ~~[providing that incentives awarded to participants in the Solar Program and Wind Program on or after January 1, 2013, must be awarded through a reverse auction mechanism established by the Public Utilities Commission of Nevada by regulation;]~~ revising provisions governing the amount of incentives which a utility must pay to participants in the Solar Program, the Wind Program and the Waterpower Program; ~~[repealing the requirement that the installation of certain solar energy systems and wind energy systems be deemed a public work under certain circumstances;]~~ revising provisions relating to net metering; requiring the Public Utilities Commission of Nevada to adopt regulations; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law provides that the Wind Energy Systems Demonstration Program and the Waterpower Energy Systems Demonstration Program will expire on June 30, 2011. (NRS 701B.400-701B.890; chapter 509, Statutes of Nevada 2007, p. 2999) Sections 49-51 and 54 of this bill revise the prospective expiration dates of these programs and provide that the Wind Program, the Waterpower Program and the Solar Energy Systems Incentive Program will expire on December 31, 2021.

Section 13 of this bill provides that, for the period beginning July 1, 2010, and ending December 31, 2012, a utility is not required to award an incentive under the Solar Program if the payment of the incentive would cause the total amount of incentives paid by all utilities for the installation of solar energy systems and distributed generation systems would exceed $140,000,000. Section 26 of this bill prohibits the Public Utilities Commission of Nevada from authorizing the payment of an incentive for the installation of a wind energy system under the Wind Program if, for the same period, the amount of the incentive would cause the total amount of incentives paid by all utilities for the installation of wind energy systems and distributed generation systems to exceed $30,000,000.

~~[Section 52 of this bill repeals the requirement that the installation of certain solar energy systems and wind energy systems be deemed public works for certain purposes.]~~

Sections 1, 3-12, 14-25, 27-43 and 47 of this bill become effective on January 1, 2013, and revise provisions governing the Solar Program, the Wind Program and the Waterpower Program. ~~[Section 5 provides that incentives for participation in the Wind Program must be awarded pursuant to a reverse auction mechanism established by the Commission by regulation.]~~ Section 5 ~~[also]~~ provides limits on the total amount of an incentive which may be awarded to a participant in the Wind Program. Section 5 additionally provides that a utility is not required to award an incentive if such an award would cause the total amount of incentives awarded pursuant to the Wind Program, the Solar Program and the Waterpower Program in a program year by all utilities in this State to exceed one-half of 1 percent of the total revenues received by all utilities in this State from retail customers during the immediately preceding program year. Section 9 imposes the same requirements for the payment of incentives pursuant to the Solar Program. Section 37 provides the same cap for the award of incentives pursuant to the Waterpower Program. Sections 14 and 29 provide that to be eligible for an incentive under the Solar Program or Wind Program, a renewable energy system must meet the requirements for net metering. Sections 11, 22 and 35 expand the Solar Program, Wind Program and Waterpower Program to include Indian tribes and tribal organizations.

Existing law requires a utility to offer net metering until the cumulative capacity of all net metering systems within the service area of the utility is equal to 1 percent of the utility's peak capacity. (NRS 704.773) Section 45 of this bill requires a utility to offer net metering until the cumulative capacity of all net metering systems in this State is equal to ~~[1]~~ 3 percent of the total peak capacity of all utilities in this State.

~~[The portfolio standard requires a provider of electric service to generate, acquire or save a certain amount of energy from portfolio energy systems or energy efficiency measures. Not more than 25 percent of the electricity a provider generates, acquires or saves to comply with the portfolio standard may be based on energy efficiency measures. (NRS 704.7821) Section 46 of this bill provides that any surplus portfolio energy credits derived from energy efficiency measures in 1 year may be applied to reduce a deficiency in portfolio energy credits in future years under certain circumstances.]~~

2. The Commission shall:

(a) Review each annual plan filed by a utility for compliance with the requirements established by regulation of the Commission; and

Sec. 11. NRS 701B.240 is hereby amended to read as follows:

701B.240 1. The Solar Energy Systems Incentive Program is hereby created.

2. The Solar Program ~~[must have]~~ is limited to ~~[three]~~ five categories of participants as follows:

(a) School property;

(b) Public and other property; ~~[and]~~

(c) Private residential property ***;

(c) When installing the solar energy system, use an installer who has been issued a classification C-2 license with the appropriate subclassification by the State Contractors' Board pursuant to the regulations adopted by the Board; and

(d) If the person will be participating in the Solar Program in the category of school property or public and other property, provide for the public display of the solar energy system, including, without limitation, providing for public demonstrations of the solar energy system and for hands-on experience of the solar energy system by the public.

Sec. 12. NRS 701B.255 is hereby amended to read as follows:

701B.255 1. After reviewing an application submitted pursuant to NRS 701B.250 and ensuring that the applicant meets the qualifications and requirements to be eligible to participate in the Solar Program, a utility may , in accordance with the provisions of NRS 701B.220 and any regulations adopted pursuant thereto, select the applicant for participation in the Solar Program.

2. Not later than 30 days after the date on which the utility selects an applicant, the utility shall provide written notice of the selection to the applicant.

3. After the utility selects an applicant to participate in the Solar Program, the utility may approve the solar energy system proposed by the applicant. Upon the utility's approval of the solar energy system:

(a) The utility shall provide to the applicant notice of the approval and the amount of incentive for which the solar energy system is eligible; and

(b) The applicant may install and energize the solar energy system.

4. An applicant for participation in the Solar Program in the category of private residential property ~~[and]~~ , property owned by an Indian tribe or tribal organization or small business property must complete the installation and energizing of the solar energy system within 12 months after issuance of the notice required by paragraph (a) of subsection 3, unless the utility grants the applicant an extension of the time within which to complete the installation and energizing of the solar energy system for a period not to exceed an additional ~~[12]~~ 6 months. If the applicant has not completed the installation and energizing of his or her solar energy system within the time provided in this subsection, the notice of approval is void, and the applicant loses his or her right to receive the incentive payment provided in the notice. The applicant may submit a new application and may receive an incentive payment pursuant to a new notice of approval issued by the utility for a new application cycle if the solar energy system has not been installed and energized before the date of issuance of the new notice of approval. The incentive for which the applicant is eligible is the lesser of the average incentive awarded to participants in the applicant's category in the current program year or the amount of the incentive which the applicant was authorized to receive pursuant to the original notice of approval.

5. An applicant for participation in the Solar Program in the category of school property or public and other property must complete the installation and energizing of the solar energy system within 18 months after issuance of the notice required by paragraph (a) of subsection 3, unless the utility grants the applicant an extension of the time within which to complete the installation and energizing of the solar energy system for a period not to exceed an additional 12 months. If the applicant has not completed the installation and energizing of his or her solar energy system within the time provided in this subsection, the notice of approval is void, and the applicant loses his or her right to receive the incentive payment provided in the notice. The applicant may submit a new application and may receive an incentive payment pursuant to a new notice of approval issued by the utility for a new application cycle if the solar energy system has not been installed and energized before the date of issuance of the new notice of approval. The incentive for which the applicant is eligible is the incentive in effect at the time the new notice of approval is issued.

6. Upon the completion of the installation and energizing of the solar energy system, the participant must submit to the utility an incentive claim form and any supporting information, including, without limitation, a verification of the cost of the project and a calculation of the expected system output.

~~[~~5.~~]~~ 7. Upon receipt of the incentive claim form and verification that the solar energy system is properly connected, the utility shall issue an incentive payment to the participant.

~~[6. The amount of the incentive for which an applicant is eligible must be determined on the date on which the applicant is selected for participation in the Solar Program, except that an applicant forfeits eligibility for that amount of incentive if the applicant withdraws from participation in the Solar Program or does not complete the installation of the solar energy system within 12 months after the date on which the applicant is selected for~~

~~participation in the Solar Program. An applicant who forfeits eligibility for the incentive for which the applicant was originally determined to be eligible may become eligible for an incentive only on the date on which the applicant completes the installation of the solar energy system, and the amount of the incentive for which such an applicant is eligible must be determined on the date on which the applicant completes the installation of the solar energy system.~~]

The applicant may submit a new application and may receive an incentive payment pursuant to a new notice of approval issued by the utility for a new application cycle if the wind energy system has not been installed and energized before the date of issuance of the new notice of approval. The incentive for which the applicant is eligible is the lesser of the average incentive awarded to participants in the applicant's category in the current program year or the amount of the incentive which the applicant was authorized to receive pursuant to the original notice of approval.

6. 704.773 1. A utility shall offer net metering, as set forth in NRS 704.775, to the customer-generators operating within its service area until the cumulative capacity of all such net metering systems in this State is equal to ~~[1.]~~ 3 percent of the ~~[utility's]~~ total peak capacity ~~[.]~~ of all utilities in this State.

2. If the net metering system of a customer-generator who accepts the offer of a utility for net metering has a capacity of not more than 100 kilowatts, the utility:

(a) Shall offer to make available to the customer-generator an energy meter that is capable of registering the flow of electricity in two directions.

(b) May, at its own expense and with the written consent of the customer-generator, install one or more additional meters to monitor the flow of electricity in each direction.

(c) Shall not charge a customer-generator any fee or charge that would increase the customer-generator's minimum monthly charge to an amount greater than that of other customers of the utility in the same rate class as the customer-generator.

3. If the net metering system of a customer-generator who accepts the offer of a utility for net metering has a capacity of more than 100 kilowatts, the utility:

(a) May require the customer-generator to install at its own cost:

(1) An energy meter that is capable of measuring generation output and customer load; and

(2) Any upgrades to the system of the utility that are required to make the net metering system compatible with the system of the utility.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c), may charge the customer-generator any applicable fee or charge charged to other customers of the utility in the same rate class as the customer-generator, including, without limitation, customer, demand and facility charges.

(c) Shall not charge the customer-generator any standby charge.

➥ At the time of installation or upgrade of any portion of a net metering system, the utility must allow a customer-generator governed by this subsection to pay the entire cost of the installation or upgrade of the portion of the net metering system.

4. The Commission shall adopt regulations prescribing the form and substance for a net metering tariff and a standard net metering contract. The regulations must include, without limitation:

(a) The particular provisions, limitations and responsibilities of a customer-generator which must be included in a net metering tariff with regard to:

(1) Metering equipment;

(2) Net energy metering and billing; and

(3) Interconnection,

➥ based on the allowable size of the net metering system.

(b) The particular provisions, limitations and responsibilities of a customer-generator and the utility which must be included in a standard net metering contract.

(c) A timeline for processing applications and contracts for net metering applicants.

(d) Any other provisions the Commission finds necessary to carry out the provisions of NRS 704.766 to 704.775, inclusive.

Sec. 46. ~~[~~NRS 704.7828 is hereby amended to read as follows:

704.7828 1. The Commission shall adopt regulations to carry out and enforce the provisions of NRS 704.7801 to 704.7828, inclusive. The regulations adopted by the Commission may include any enforcement mechanisms which are necessary and reasonable to ensure that each provider of electric service complies with its portfolio standard. Such enforcement mechanisms may include, without limitation, the imposition of administrative fines.

2. If a provider exceeds the portfolio standard for any calendar year, the Commission shall authorize the provider to carry forward to subsequent calendar years for the purpose of complying with the portfolio standard for those subsequent calendar years any excess kilowatt-hours of electricity that the provider generates, acquires or saves from portfolio energy systems or efficiency measures. Any surplus portfolio energy credits derived from energy efficiency measures may be applied to reduce a deficiency in portfolio energy credits caused by the inability of a developer of a renewable energy system that has contracted to sell renewable energy to the provider to construct and energize its renewable energy system within the time or in the amount agreed to by the developer and the provider.

3. If a provider does not comply with its portfolio standard for any calendar year and the Commission has not exempted the provider from the requirements of its portfolio standard pursuant to NRS 704.7821 or 704.78213, the Commission:

(a) Shall require the provider to carry forward to subsequent calendar years the amount of the deficiency in kilowatt-hours of electricity that the provider does not generate, acquire or save from portfolio energy systems or efficiency measures during a calendar year in violation of its portfolio standard; and

(b) May impose an administrative fine against the provider or take other administrative action against the provider, or do both.

~~4. The Commission may impose an administrative fine against a provider based upon:~~

~~(a) Each kilowatt-hour of electricity that the provider does not generate, acquire or save from portfolio energy systems or efficiency measures during a calendar year in violation of its portfolio standard; or~~

~~(b) Any other reasonable formula adopted by the Commission.~~

~~5. In the aggregate, the administrative fines imposed against a provider for all violations of its portfolio standard for a single calendar year must not exceed the amount which is necessary and reasonable to ensure that the provider complies with its portfolio standard, as determined by the Commission.~~

~~6. If the Commission imposes an administrative fine against a utility provider:~~

~~(a) The administrative fine is not a cost of service of the utility provider;~~

~~(b) The utility provider shall not include any portion of the administrative fine in any application for a rate adjustment or rate increase; and~~

~~(c) The Commission shall not allow the utility provider to recover any portion of the administrative fine from its retail customers.~~

Amendment adopted.

Bill ordered reprinted, engrossed, and to third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 432.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Commerce and Labor:

Amendment No. 434.

AN ACT relating to energy auditors; establishing the qualifications for an energy auditor; providing for the licensure of energy auditors by the Real Estate Division of the Department of Business and Industry; establishing the requirements with which an energy auditor must comply when conducting an energy audit; ~~[requiring the Director of the Office of Energy to register energy auditors; requiring the Director to issue a certificate to a homeowner upon the completion of an energy audit;]~~ repealing provisions that require the Nevada Energy Commissioner to establish a program for evaluating the energy consumption of residential property in this State; providing penalties; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law requires the Nevada Energy Commissioner to establish a program for evaluating energy consumption in residential property in this State and requires a seller to provide a copy of this evaluation to a purchaser of his or her property. (NRS 113.115, 701.250) This bill repeals those provisions. Instead, section 5 of this bill provides for the licensure of energy auditors by the Real Estate Division of the Department of Business and Industry and establishes the training and qualifications an energy auditor must have to be licensed to conduct energy audits in this State. Section 6 of this bill establishes the requirements for conducting an energy audit, limited energy audit or energy assessment, including, without limitation, the elements of the home which must be evaluated, the software and tools the energy auditor must use and the report the energy auditor must provide to the homeowner and the ~~[Office]~~ United States Department of Energy. ~~[Section 29 of this bill adds to the duties of the Director of the Office of Energy requirements to register energy auditors in this State and to provide a certificate to a homeowner who has had an energy audit as proof of that energy audit.]~~

Sections 7-28 of this bill are technical amendments required to carry out the administration of the licensure of the energy auditors, including making the provision of energy audits without a license a misdemeanor. In addition, section 28 makes it a category E felony to attempt to obtain a license as an energy auditor through intentional misrepresentation, deceit or fraud.

Amendment adopted.

Bill ordered reprinted, engrossed, and to third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 469.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Government Affairs:

Amendment No. 410.

AN ACT relating to governmental administration; authorizing the leasing of unused state buildings ~~[, grounds and property]~~ to new businesses seeking to locate or expand in this State; authorizing local governments to enter into agreements with one another to advertise for contracts and make purchasing agreements together; requiring certain school districts to advertise for bids for the provision of certain services in the school district; authorizing local governments to award contracts based in part upon the best value offered; exempting the leasing of certain state-owned property from certain appraisal and procedural requirements; authorizing the leasing of state-owned lands to new businesses seeking to locate or expand in this State; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law grants the Chief of the Buildings and Grounds Division of the Department of Administration the authority to manage all state buildings, grounds and properties not otherwise provided for by law, including collecting rent from any state department, agency ~~[or institution]~~ , board or commission that is renting space in a state building or property. (NRS 331.070, 331.102) Section 1 of this bill requires each state department, agency ~~[or institution]~~ , board or commission to submit an inventory of any ~~[state]~~ state-owned buildings ~~[, grounds or properties]~~ assigned to it ~~[which it is not actively using,]~~ together with a statement of whether the building is used or unused and requires the Division of State Lands of the State Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, the Department of Transportation and the State Public Works Board to provide to the Chief an inventory of all real property owned by the State and to identify properties that are used, unused or planned for future use. Section 1 further requires the Chief to compile those inventories into a list of ~~[unused state]~~ all state-owned buildings ~~[, grounds and properties. Section 1 further requires the Chief]~~ and to ~~[make]~~ provide that list ~~[available]~~ to the Commission on Economic Development . ~~[and to authorize]~~ Finally, section 1 authorizes the ~~[Commission]~~ Chief to lease the available ~~[state]~~ state-owned buildings ~~[, grounds and properties]~~ to new businesses seeking to locate or expand in this State ~~[. Section 1 also authorizes the Commission]~~ and to offer a discount on the first year of the lease to the business, but requires any lease to be for a term of at least ~~[10]~~ 5 years. Section 2 of this bill authorizes the Chief to enter into any leases or arrangements to make use of state-owned buildings ~~[, grounds and properties]~~ for purposes other than economic development.

Existing law sets forth the procedures a local government must follow to advertise for bids for contracts or to enter into purchasing agreements. (NRS 332.039-332.225) Section 4 of this bill authorizes local governments to enter into agreements with each other to mutually advertise for bids or enter into purchasing agreements or exercise authorized purchasing powers to maximize their efficiency and economy. Section 7 of this bill revises the considerations a local government must take into account when considering bids, and requires the local government to consider which bid provides the best value rather than just which is lowest, where best value includes not only cost but also the greatest possible economy consistent with the quality and sustainability of the materials, supplies, equipment and services.

Section 5 of this bill requires county school districts in counties whose population is less than 45,000 (currently Churchill, Esmeralda, Eureka, Humboldt, Lander, Lincoln, Mineral, Nye, Pershing, Storey and White Pine Counties) to advertise for bids for persons not employed by the school district to provide services such as custodial services, maintenance and transportation at least once every 5 years, and section 8 of this bill requires the school district to file an annual report with the Legislature or Interim Finance Committee about each contract awarded, or if no contract was awarded, the reasons for not awarding a contract and a comparison of the lowest responsive bid and the cost incurred by the school district in providing the service itself.

Existing law requires certain state lands to be appraised before those lands may be sold or leased and sets forth procedures for the manner in which the State Land Registrar must put land up for sale or lease. Certain leases and sales of land are exempted from these requirements and procedures by existing law. (NRS 321.007, 321.335) Sections 9 and 10 of this bill additionally exempt from those requirements and procedures land which is leased for the purpose of economic development and leases which involve less than 25,000 square feet of land. Section 11 of this bill authorizes land to be leased to a business seeking to locate or expand in this State for a discount for the first year in business and for a term of at least 10 years.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, obtain two independent appraisals of the land before selling or leasing it. If the Interim Finance Committee grants its approval after discussion of the fair market value of the land, one independent appraisal of the land is sufficient before selling or leasing it. The appraisal or appraisals, as applicable, must have been prepared not more than 6 months before the date on which the land is offered for sale or lease.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of chapter 333 of NRS, select the one independent appraiser or two independent appraisers, as applicable, from the list of appraisers established pursuant to subsection 2.

5. If a lease of land is for residential property and the term of the lease is 1 year or less, the State Land Registrar shall obtain an analysis of the market value of similar rental properties prepared by a licensed real estate broker or salesperson when offering such a property for lease.

6. If land is sold or leased in violation of the provisions of this section:

(a) The sale or lease is void; and

Sec. 10. NRS 321.335 is hereby amended to read as follows:

321.335 1. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 321.125, 322.063, 322.065 or 322.075, except as otherwise required by federal law, except for land that is sold or leased to a public utility, as defined in NRS 704.020, to be used for a public purpose, except for land that is sold or leased to a state or local governmental entity, except for a lease which is part of a contract entered into pursuant to chapter 333 of NRS , except for a lease which is entered into for the purpose of economic development pursuant to chapter 322 of NRS, except for a lease which involves less than 25,000 square feet of land and except for an agreement entered into pursuant to the provisions of NRS 277.080 to 277.170, inclusive, or a lease of residential property with a term of 1 year or less, after April 1, 1957, all sales or leases of any lands that the Division is required to hold pursuant to NRS 321.001, including lands subject to contracts of sale that have been forfeited, are governed by the provisions of this section.

2. Whenever the State Land Registrar deems it to be in the best interests of the State of Nevada that any lands owned by the State and not used or set apart for public purposes be sold or leased, the State Land Registrar may, with the approval of the State Board of Examiners and the Interim Finance Committee, cause those lands to be sold or leased upon sealed bids, or oral offer after the opening of sealed bids for cash or pursuant to a contract of sale or lease, at a price not less than the highest appraised value for the lands plus the costs of appraisal and publication of notice of sale or lease.

3. Before offering any land for sale or lease, the State Land Registrar shall comply with the provisions of NRS 321.007.

4. After complying with the provisions of NRS 321.007, the State Land Registrar shall cause a notice of sale or lease to be published once a week for 4 consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county where the land to be sold or leased is situated, and in such other newspapers as the State Land Registrar deems appropriate. 6. At the time and place fixed in the notice published pursuant to subsection 4, all sealed bids which have been received must, in public session, be opened, examined and declared by the State Land Registrar. Of the proposals submitted which conform to all terms and conditions specified in the notice published pursuant to subsection 4 and which are made by responsible bidders, the bid which is the highest must be finally accepted, unless a higher oral offer is accepted or the State Land Registrar rejects all bids and offers. Before finally accepting any written bid, the State Land Registrar shall call for oral offers. If, upon the call for oral offers, any responsible person offers to buy or lease the land upon the terms and conditions specified in the notice, for a price exceeding by at least 5 percent the highest written bid, then the highest oral offer which is made by a responsible person must be finally accepted.

7. The State Land Registrar may reject any bid or oral offer to purchase or lease submitted pursuant to subsection 6, if the State Land Registrar deems the bid or offer to be:

(a) Contrary to the public interest.

(b) For a lesser amount than is reasonable for the land involved.

(c) On lands which it may be more beneficial for the State to reserve.

(d) On lands which are requested by the State of Nevada or any department, agency or institution thereof.

8. Upon acceptance of any bid or oral offer and payment to the State Land Registrar in accordance with the terms of sale specified in the notice of sale, the State Land Registrar shall convey title by quitclaim or cause a patent to be issued as provided in NRS 321.320 and 321.330.

9. Upon acceptance of any bid or oral offer and payment to the State Land Registrar in accordance with the terms of lease specified in the notice of lease, the State Land Registrar shall enter into a lease agreement with the person submitting the accepted bid or oral offer pursuant to the terms of lease specified in the notice of lease.

10. The State Land Registrar may require any person requesting that state land be sold pursuant to the provisions of this section to deposit a sufficient amount of money to pay the costs to be incurred by the State Land Registrar in acting upon the application, including the costs of publication and the expenses of appraisal. This deposit must be refunded whenever the person making the deposit is not the successful bidder. The costs of acting upon the application, including the costs of publication and the expenses of appraisal, must be borne by the successful bidder.

11. If land that is offered for sale or lease pursuant to this section is not sold or leased at the initial offering of the contract for the sale or lease of the land, the State Land Registrar may offer the land for sale or lease a second time pursuant to this section. If there is a material change relating to the title, zoning or an ordinance governing the use of the land, the State Land Registrar must, as applicable, obtain a new appraisal or new appraisals of the land pursuant to the provisions of NRS 321.007 before offering the land for sale or lease a second time. If land that is offered for sale or lease pursuant to this section is not sold or leased at the second offering of the contract for the sale or lease of the land, the State Land Registrar may list the land for sale or lease at the appraised value with a licensed real estate broker, provided that the broker or a person related to the broker within the first degree of consanguinity or affinity does not have an interest in the land or an adjoining property.

Amendment No. 225.

SUMMARY—Enacts provisions governing the licensing and operation of ~~[Internet poker.]~~ interactive gaming. (BDR 41-657)

AN ACT relating to gaming; requiring the Nevada Gaming Commission to adopt regulations relating to the licensing and operation of ~~[Internet poker;]~~ interactive gaming; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law authorizes certain gaming establishments to obtain a license to operate interactive gaming. (NRS 463.750) This bill requires the Nevada Gaming Commission to establish by regulation certain provisions authorizing the licensing and operation of ~~[Internet poker]~~ interactive gaming under certain circumstances. This bill further provides that a license to operate interactive gaming does not become effective until: (1) the passage of federal legislation authorizing interactive gaming; or (2) the United States Department of Justice notifies the Commission or the State Gaming Control Board that interactive gaming is permissible under federal law.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Chapter 463 of NRS is hereby amended by adding thereto the provisions set forth as sections 2 to 7, inclusive, of this act.

Sec. 2. The Legislature hereby finds and declares that:

1. ~~[Internet poker is widely played throughout the world;~~

~~2. Laws governing Internet poker have been unclear;~~

~~3. Technology now exists to limit the conduct of Internet poker to the State of Nevada and other jurisdictions where Internet poker is not prohibited;~~

~~4. The use of such technology allows Internet poker to be offered by licensees in Nevada in compliance with all applicable laws;~~

~~5. As a leader in gaming regulation, the State of Nevada has the capability to ensure that Internet poker is operated honestly and~~

~~competitively and in compliance with all applicable laws, regulations and standards; and~~

~~6. Allowing licensed Internet poker sites to locate in and operate from the State of Nevada will benefit the economy of this State and assist in protecting consumers from criminal and corruptive influences that may be present in unlicensed and unregulated Internet poker sites.]~~ The State of Nevada leads the nation in gaming regulation and enforcement, such that the State of Nevada is uniquely positioned to develop an effective and comprehensive regulatory structure related to interactive gaming.

2. A comprehensive regulatory structure, coupled with strict licensing standards, will ensure the protection of consumers, prevent fraud, guard against underage and problem gambling and aid in law enforcement efforts.

3. To provide for licensed and regulated interactive gaming and to prepare for possible federal legislation, the State of Nevada must develop the necessary structure for licensure, regulation and enforcement.
