OF THE

ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA

SEVENTY-SEVENTH SESSION

THE FIRST DAY

CARSON CITY (Monday), February 4, 2013

Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution and Statutes, the Assembly was called to order by Secretary of State Ross Miller at 11:24 a.m.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Reverend Kimberly Morgan.

Gracious God, who answers to many names, thank You that we live in a democracy, when countless people across the globe are risking their lives to obtain the same privileges.

This is the opening of the 77th Regular Session of the Nevada Legislature. All of the easy problems have been solved, and we do not agree on the means to resolve the issues we face. Please be with us.

Democracy thrives on open and vigorous debate about public policies and competing interests. Be with us to ensure that civility and understanding rise above disrespect and disregard for the interests and ideas of others.

Democracy is not a zero-sum game or a winner-take-all contest. Grace this process with harmony and cooperation to ensure that our legislators, lobbyists, and others work together to find inspired solutions which advance the common good.

Bless the hardworking and creative legislative staff; grace them with endurance and patience as they work long hours behind the scenes to support and assist this honorable process.

Bless the many lobbyists who walk these halls; grace them with truth, compassion, and vision, as they represent the varied interests of Nevadans and beyond.

Bless these legislators as they give of their time and energy. Please grace them with wisdom, discernment, and understanding. Make them ever mindful of their calling to serve the people of this state.

Most especially, gracious God, open our hearts, so there is room for You to work with us and through us in the days ahead.

Amen.

ASSEMBLYMAN HORNE:

Thank you, Madam Speaker, and congratulations. Your accession to the position as Speaker is well deserved. In your four previous terms as a member of this body, you have earned the reputation of being a hard worker and a legislator who has gone out of her way to work with fellow colleagues across the aisle and with those in that lesser house across the way—we call that the Senate.

I look forward to serving as your Majority Leader during this important legislative session, and when necessary, just being your friend in some of the really difficult times that may come. I would also like to congratulate all my Assembly colleagues, especially our brand new freshmen. You have agreed to endure the sometimes harsh spotlight that comes with public service. However, I believe at the end of your service, you will find that heat well worth it. If you are like any of your predecessors, you are serving because you believe in the wonderful future that lies ahead for Nevada, and today you stand in a position to help make that future a reality.

Speaking of the end of your service, I would like to remind you that there will be an end to your service in this body. Each of you has been given the privilege to be one of 63 legislators sent here not only to represent your respective districts, but the state of Nevada. Do not forget: It is a privilege. You do not own these seats. They have been given to you only on loan by the people who do own them—the citizens of Nevada. You will find this experience rewarding at times and at times exasperating. However, please remember that during the ebb and flow of those various emotions you will experience, you are performing a valuable and honorable service to the state while occupying the people's seats.

I would like to thank the families, friends, and significant others. To my colleagues, believe it or not, without your friends, families, and significant others, you would not be here today. They have made tremendous sacrifice for you to take this journey, and you should give them a round of applause right now. To all the friends, families and significant others, I will ask you to be patient with all of us during the next 120 days, because we will continue to need your support while we do the state's business.

Lastly, I invite all of you to have a wonderful time while you're here. Don't be fearful to make friends across the aisle, even those persons in that other house, because I have found it much easier to solve problems with friends than with acquaintances or enemies. I look forward to serving with each of you in solving our state's problems, and I welcome you here today.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN HICKEY:

Thank you, Madam Speaker, and congratulations.

For any member who has had the privilege to stand and address this Assembly during the last century and a half, they have done so under the watchful eye of the sixteenth President we see gazing upon us. Today, we're in no less a tenuous moment in time than in those battle-born days of Nevada's early statehood when Abraham Lincoln gave his famous speech about a house divided against itself not being able to stand.

Having recently emerged out of the political wars of this past November that weren't always civil, we should heed these words of the Great Emancipator and refuse to let our political differences prevent us from doing our duty as Nevadans, for Nevada. The challenge this session for each of us is not to see each other for the political party we represent, but for the person each of the 42 of us here are. Whether or not we will have a good session will be decided by how successfully we do the hard work—and with our new Speaker, I know we will—get beyond the partisanship and learn to do something that is somewhat of a lost art: practice something called statesmanship.

We've just elected a most unique Speaker as the head of this body. Our new Speaker, only the second woman to be so, has lived a life that is interesting, of character, and of grit. Having emancipated herself from a difficult situation at the age of 16, she worked her way through high school at nights and slept during the day in between classes on the couch of her high school counselor. I think it is ironic that a young woman would go from that—waiting on the tables of some of Nevada's most powerful politicians—to having some of those same individuals waiting for you outside your office to meet soon as the new Speaker.

Our Speaker is attempting to set a refreshing new tone of putting policy before politics when it comes to lawmaking, and my caucus says if that's what the new sheriff around here wants, a lot of us are going to sign up.

Finally, let us strive, before we represent our political parties and our caucuses, to remember that we represent the thousands of Nevadans who look at us as people representing them. Therefore, this session let's do our best to be judged not by what we say, but by what we do. Before we talk—we'll do that a lot—let's try to listen, and when we act, let's try to do it together.

Thank each of you for this privilege, and may God bless you, Madam Speaker.

MADAM SPEAKER:

Thank you, Assemblyman Hickey. If the body will allow me, I would like to take a few moments to make some brief remarks—I don't know how brief they are, but I will be quick. Speaker Pro Tempore-Elect Aizley, Majority Leader Horne, Minority Leader Hickey, and members of the Nevada Assembly, legislative staff, and honored guests, thank you for this privilege.

I first want to thank the Girl Scouts. This is the first time ever that women have carried the flag into the Assembly, and I'm glad that they could be here with us today.

As many of you know, I am not one for formal speeches or ceremonies and I am not afraid to do things a little bit differently, because sometimes we just need to shake things up to get some different results. I think I proved that today by bringing in CW and Mr. Spoons, because I really think that Home Means Nevada was very near and dear and it kind of took a different tone today when it was sung. So I hope that everybody enjoyed it as much as I did. I thought it was important today to start by celebrating our history. I bet the kids will be excited about those new songs, and I encourage you to go out and get the CD, because there are a lot of great songs about a lot of great things in Nevada. I didn't want the state to move forward without giving a little thought to where we came from and what has made us who we are.

I'm glad that we are recognizing our families today; some of them have been a formative part of Nevada's history. These families are the reason that we are here today. Whether it is the grandparents who are worried about their health care or the children who are attending our schools, they are the ones that we are working for during the next 120 days. Today, 12 new members take their seats in the Assembly. They come from diverse backgrounds and occupations, and so do the constituents that they represent. We are fortunate to have them here, and they are ready to work for the good of Nevada. Will the new members of the Assembly please rise and be recognized? Thank you. I would also like to welcome back all of our returning members, as well.

This legislative session marks 150 years since the birth of our state. We have much to be proud of, growing from a small battle-born state to what we are today. But as we recognize and honor the past, we are faced with a choice of what we want to become over the next several decades. Will we be a state that answers the wake-up call to the problems in our education system, or will we once again put off taking action and leave the toughest problems for future generations to solve? Will we be a state that continues to apply nickel-size solutions to dollar-size problems, or will we finally recognize that we just can't balance our state on the backs of a few industries?

This session, I am personally committed to working with our Governor and our colleagues in both houses, from both parties, to reach workable, bipartisan solutions to our greatest challenges. We can only move our state forward by working together for the common good, rather than trying to score a few political points. The people of our state are looking for leadership, leadership that looks past the election cycle and leadership that looks past the 30-second sound bite, and that's exactly what each and every one of us should strive to give them.

In an effort not to waste one minute of this session, we have already begun having some serious and productive conversations with leadership of both houses and parties. I would like to thank Minority Leader Hickey for his openness and willingness to work together—not as Democrats, not as Republicans, but as Nevadans. As most of you know, Nevadans are not dealing with the same economic realities as they were even just a few years ago. Many of our families, our friends, and our neighbors still face uncertainty when it comes to their employment and their housing situation. We are on a long road to recovery, and with that come opportunities to build a new economy and transform the future of our state.

For too long, our answer to education has been to cut. I am here to tell you today we can no longer cut. We can no longer afford to ask our teachers, our students, and our parents to do more with less, and then ask them why we are getting the same results. I would like to thank the Governor for acknowledging the importance of early childhood education and for his proposed funding of limited pre-K and for kindergarten. However, I hope this effort will be extended to all of Nevada's children. As we have learned from study after study, those are the most formative years in a child's education.

We are long overdue in making a serious investment in our schools to make up for lost ground—to move our education system forward so that we have higher graduation rates, students who are well trained for today's workforce, and the opportunity for all of our children to reach their potential. That means giving our educators all the tools that they need to be successful: resources, mentoring, and the teaching environment to be innovative and allow for creativity.

With all that in mind, we also need to ensure our tax dollars are not wasted and that our revenue is fully utilized. By reforming our tax system, we can give businesses and citizens the guarantees they need, as that is the foundation to rebuilding our economy. We should work to expand Nevada Jobs First, which gives contractors preferences as long as their workers come from Nevada. We should work to connect businesses with higher education to invest in programs that train workers with the skills our businesses require. These are the types of discussions I intend to have beginning right now, and I know that each and every one of my colleagues are up to that task.

There is a lot of change in the Legislature this year, with new faces and new leadership. I hope you will join with me in seeing the changes as an opportunity to take some real bold action. I am hopeful that this session will be one of civility, working together, taking on Nevada's toughest issues in a collective voice for the state. The buck really stops with us. Let's begin to make some real investments in our schools, reform our tax structure, and rebuild our economy.

You know, in my time in the Legislature, I've heard a lot about legislators going across the street to the bar, hammering out their differences on an issue, or the Governor coming and working on an issue until all hours of the morning. Why? Because it needed to be done: parties aside, differences aside, solving problems together. Those stories are usually about legendary sessions where big issues were tackled head on. That's exactly the opportunity—and frankly, that's the responsibility of each and every one of us here today.

By the way, let's get away from one Nevada tradition—bickering, pettiness, personality versus policy. Whether it's an Assembly, Senate, Republican, or Democratic bill, I'm going to tell you something: Nevadans just don't care; they just want solutions. Let's not shy away from difficult conversations. Let's have them, frankly and openly, and let's consider all ideas—it doesn't matter where they come from. But let's agree to do one thing: to find a way to move our state forward with solutions that represent all of the people in this room and the constituents we serve. Let's make this a session that future legislators look back on as an example of how Nevadans work together to get the job done. Oh and by the way—and most of you know me—it's okay to have a little bit of fun together while we do all of this.

I look forward to a productive session with each and every one of you, and I thank you for your service to our great state.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

CARSON CITY, NEVADA, January 28, 2013

THE HONORABLE MO DENIS, THE HONORABLE MARILYN KIRKPATRICK, NEVADA LEGISLATURE, 401 S. Carson Street, Carson City, Nevada 89701

DEAR SENATOR DENIS AND SPEAKER KIRKPATRICK:

Enclosed please find my message to the 77th Session of the Nevada Legislature, delivered pursuant to Article 5, Section 10 of the Nevada Constitution. As you know, I delivered the message on Wednesday, January 16, 2013, to a special committee of the Legislature and other guests in the Assembly Chamber in Carson City. Thank you in advance for lodging my message in the record of the 77th Legislative Session. My staff and I look forward to working with all of you in the months ahead.

Sincere regards,
BRIAN SANDOVAL
Governor

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

Assemblyman Horne requested that the Governor's State of the State Address as presented to the Legislative Commission's Special Committee to Receive the Governor's State of the State Address of January 16, 2013, be entered in the Journal. .

Madam Speaker, Mr. President, distinguished members of the Legislature, honorable Justices of the Nevada Supreme Court, constitutional officers, Senator Heller, honored guests, my fellow Nevadans: For nearly 150 years, governors before me have stood in front of this body and delivered their State of the State address. The personal delivery of a biennial message has become one of our most honored traditions. I'm proud to be here tonight to continue this tradition, along with my wife, the First Lady Kathleen, and my three children, Marisa, Madeline, and James. Thank you for your love and support.

I want to take a moment and pause to remember two extraordinary Nevadans, both of whom I had the honor of serving with in the Nevada Legislature. First, Gene Segerblom, who devoted her entire life to the service of this state as a mother, schoolteacher, and state legislator. Her son, Senator Tick Segerblom, is with us tonight. Tick, Nevada will not soon forget your mother or her service.

Our friend Senator William J. Raggio lived a legendary Nevada life and served in this building with honor and distinction for over four decades. His legacy is a stirring reminder for those of us in public service. There are no barriers to what can be accomplished if we summon the will to work together. I am particularly pleased and honored that Bill's wife Dale could be with us tonight. Mrs. Raggio.

Two years ago, we gathered in a different time under different circumstances. As I stood before you on that evening, our state was reeling from the ravages of the Great Recession. Nevada led the nation in unemployment, housing foreclosures, and personal bankruptcies. State revenue projections had dropped dramatically, and we faced budget cuts in every category.

That evening, I asked the Nevada family to embrace a fundamental course correction—to leave behind the limits of the past and consider the case of our state's future anew. The challenges of the moment were too complex to resort to tired partisanship. Rather, they demanded that we resolve to work together to meet the challenges of the twenty-first century. And we rose to the occasion.

In the final days of the 76th Legislative Session, we were able to craft and work together a bipartisan compromise that led to a balanced budget, important education reforms, and a transformed economic development effort. These elements created the foundation of the progress of the last two years—progress that every Nevadan can be proud of. While my last appearance before you was preceded by a period of decline, my appearance before you tonight has been preceded by a period of growth—yes, growth

We are emerging from the worst economic crisis of our generation. Though it remains unacceptably high, our unemployment rate is lower than it has been in over three years, and it is falling faster than almost every other state in the nation. State revenues are growing again because our economy is growing again. In the last 24 months, Nevada businesses have created almost 30,000 new jobs. Yes, the last two years have been a success story, not fully realized but undeniably on track.

Tonight, ladies and gentlemen, I can confidently report to the people of Nevada that the state of our state grows stronger every day.

Now we stand at the threshold of another legislative session, another 120 days of decisions that will shape the future of our great state. We must make some immediate decisions—a budget and other pressing issues of the day—but that is only part of the task before us. Our greater challenge is helping a Nevada that is still on the horizon. It awaits us in the future, not too far off but far enough that we must consider what we can be.

I want us tonight to contemplate a journey that takes us to that other Nevada, and I want us to agree that what we find there must be the best that it can be. Traveling with us on that journey will be the children whose faces you see on the screens behind me. These children are all members of the graduating class of 2023; they're second graders today. It is my hope that the faces of these children will inspire us as we consider both the short- and long-term realities of our state.

Two years ago, we began laying the foundation for improved education in Nevada to win a critical victory for Nevada's children, and we did. We passed laws requiring performance-based evaluations for teachers, ending teacher tenure as we know it and reinvigorating the State Board of Education. These historic reforms were essential changes necessary to ensure success for our children.

But structural reforms alone will not fix our problems. Responsibility for Nevada's students does not rest with one single group. It's borne by each and every one of us—parents, educators, school board members, legislators, and governors. To advance the cause of students, we must now turn our eye to the classroom. I continue to believe that literacy is the key to long-term success, and so tonight, I again ask you to take the necessary steps to ensure that every Nevada child can read by Grade Three. If children cannot read by third grade, their chances of graduating from high school become remote.

For pre-[grade]three students, I will propose increased funding for early education in the state's most at-risk schools, and I will ask the Legislature to act quickly, because Nevada's students cannot wait another two years. My budget therefore includes an aggressive expansion of all-day kindergarten among the state's most at-risk schools. Twenty million dollars is allocated over the biennium for this purpose. This means that by 2015, almost half of our elementary schools would have an all-day kindergarten option. If we expect children to read by [grade] three, we cannot continue to ignore all the data that tells us all-day kindergarten is a critical foundation for a child's success.

My budget matches this focus on young learners with two initiatives targeting older students. Of course, we all want the graduation rate to improve, and we want students to have skills for work or college after they graduate. One of the most successful programs in the country today is Teach for America, a unique corps of brilliant young leaders from America's top universities who give their time and talent as teachers in schools that need them most. These teachers help spur innovation and creativity in instruction that make the entire system better. Teach for America has helped make a difference in the lives of hundreds of Nevada students, but we can do more.

I am proposing a new investment in Teach for America to help recruit, train, develop, and place top teacher and leadership talent in Nevada. I am also asking that Nevada make a firm commitment to another national program with proven results. In the last year, I used available funding to pilot the Jobs for America's Graduates (JAG) initiative in seven Nevada schools. JAG helps prevent dropouts by putting a specialist in the school to work with the most at-risk students. The work continues even after the students graduate and transitions students from high school to a college or a career. It works in over 30 states, and it has worked here in Nevada.

With me tonight in the hall is Dayton High School JAG student Joey Doyle and his JAG advisor Nancy Gardner. Joey grew up in challenging circumstances that most of us can only imagine. Despite these challenges, Joey made a conscious decision to turn his life around, and with the help of good friends, mentors, and the JAG program, he is now a senior at Dayton High School on track to graduate. Joey has told me he is proud to be a member of the Dayton High School JAG program, and Joey, we are proud of you.

My budget includes sufficient resources to fund the JAG program to include up to 50 additional high schools by 2014 and to serve nearly 2,000 additional high school students. To all our current JAG students and specialists, thank you for setting an example across the state.

Now as we make these investments, we must also recognize how Nevada has changed. Our schools are more diverse; more than 15 percent of Nevada's students are English language learners. The Clark County School District alone is responsible for more than 50,000 English language learners representing more than 150 languages. The challenges these students confront are wholly different from those faced by their peers, yet our obligation to them is no less important. Reality dictates that we acknowledge that reading levels, graduation rates, and college readiness will not improve until we appropriately focus on these students.

To lay the first plank in building a stronger foundation for these students, my budget proposes $14 million for an English Language Learners initiative. I will continue to fight for more school choice. Many students attend schools that are not meeting their needs. We owe them and their parents additional choice as well as individualized instruction.

I will introduce an opportunity scholarship bill giving businesses a tax credit for making contributions to a scholarship fund. These dollars will be distributed on a means-tested basis to students at low-performing schools for use in attending the school of their choice. All in, the proposed budget includes $135 million in new investment in Nevada's schoolchildren, and as parents and taxpayers, we have a right to expect a return on that investment.

While Nevada's teachers will be supported through the most effective professional development, elevated student performance requires an outstanding teacher in every classroom and an outstanding principal in every building. Nevada is on the cusp of implementing a system that will transform the way we evaluate our state's teachers and administrators, but we need to take the next step.

My budget includes an appropriation for a data system that links student performance to teacher effectiveness. This system is a long-term investment in what will be the backbone of our approach to teacher evaluation. It will ensure that parents and students have the teachers they deserve and that teachers are evaluated fairly. I believe the future of Nevada's students is bright. We've already seen progress not just in passing reforms, but in improving outcomes for students.

Thanks to our educators, last year graduation rates in Clark County rose, third graders in Washoe County posted their highest reading scores ever, and high school math and science performance across the state increased. I know that we have many of our state superintendents in attendance—if you would please rise and be recognized for the hard work that you do. These are small steps, but they're steps to build on, and we will. What we can never do, though, is fall backwards. My pledge to parents, students, and educators is to always, always move ahead.

Now of course our efforts to improve education cannot focus only on the very young. The Nevada System of Higher Education has been an important part of our state's success since its founding. It has become an even more important player in our economic development efforts.

I am pleased and honored to have the Chancellor both as a member of my Cabinet and as an active member of the state Economic Development Board. Mr. Chancellor, I know you are here—if you would please stand.

With the Chancellor's support, we are creating new courses of study at UNR and UNLV focused specifically on the sectors we are targeting for economic growth. UNLV is working with my office of Economic Development to establish UNLV as the global intellectual hub for gaming, hospitality, and entertainment. I'm also proud to announce that funding is included in my proposed budget to begin the planning and construction of a new hotel administration school at UNLV and a student achievement center at UNR.

Our community colleges are also meeting the challenges of today and tomorrow. We are pairing the community colleges more closely with our workforce needs so that they deliver students into jobs that will be waiting for them in the new economy.

Perhaps most importantly for the lives of thousands of current Nevada high school students, my budget again contains an appropriation to support and extend the Kenny C. Guinn Millennium Scholarship through 2017. I'd like to take a moment to introduce former First Lady Dema Guinn who is with us tonight. Dema, I give you my solemn promise that as long as I am Governor, there will always be a Kenny C. Guinn Millennium Scholarship for Nevada students.

A quality education is the foundation of economic growth—the key to improving quality of life in our state. However, the modern economy requires more than an investment in education to broaden economic opportunity. Economic development—getting Nevada working again—has been my greatest priority over the last two years. We've completely overhauled the way Nevada approaches economic development. We have worked as one—Democrat, Republican, independent, north and south, urban and rural—to improve the economic conditions facing Nevada families.

Two years ago, I promised that with a renewed focus and with your help, Nevada businesses would create 50,000 new jobs across Nevada in four years' time. As I stated earlier, we are more than halfway there. Nevada's employers have created nearly 30,000 new jobs in the last two years, and in October-November of 2012, Nevada's job growth was the second strongest in the nation. In addition to companies like Zappos, we are now seeing dozens of other companies coming to Nevada, like Apple, Urban Outfitters, NOW Foods, Xtreme Green, Romotive, and Ameriprise Financial. They bring with them capital investment and good paying jobs with benefits. Many other businesses are in the pipeline to start up or expand in Nevada, thanks to the work of our state and regional economic development teams and the business environment that we have all created right here in the great state of Nevada.

We have made great progress, but our task is far from over. While we aggressively pursue new businesses outside our borders, we cannot forget the businesses that are right here in Nevada. We all know—we know—Nevada employers continue to struggle with the aftermath of the Great Recession. To assist the recovery, my budget provides $25 million in further tax relief from the modified business tax for an additional 2,700 businesses. That means that since 2011, we will have eliminated the burden of this tax on almost three-quarters of Nevada's businesses. And let me be clear: Nevada's employers cannot afford higher taxes, and I will not support them.

You and I know that we must continue to address the unemployment in our state, and we must deal with the economic realities thrust upon us. Too many of our friends and neighbors are still out of work, and at 10.8 percent, unemployment is still much too high. Against this backdrop, many programs have required modernization, and even the job description of Governor has changed. I have led trade missions to China, Korea, and Canada, and missions to Mexico and Israel are planned to expand Nevada's global footprint. I am committed to leaving no stone unturned, no road not taken.

We must also invest in Nevada's innovators and entrepreneurs, and tonight I am proud to announce that we will commit $10 million to Nevada's knowledge fund to do just that.

For rural Nevada, we have placed an item in the budget to support the [Knowledge Account]

University Cooperative Extension program, and we are moving forward on "Nevada Grown," an effort to help provide Nevada farm products for Nevadans. Funds to market rural Nevada tourism are also increased. We are moving forward with our sage grouse management plan to show the federal government that we can manage our own lands and limit further federal intrusion into our lives.

To help Nevada businesses even more, we will also restructure the nearly $703 million Nevada owes to the federal government used to pay unemployment benefits to Nevadans who were out of work. This step will save employers $9 million, stabilize the rate paid by businesses, and ensure that the entire amount is paid off by 2016.

We will also work on Project Neon, a major new highway project that will meet the most critical transportation needs of southern Nevada. Project Neon is perhaps the largest public works project in Nevada since the construction of Hoover Dam. It will completely modernize the infrastructure of southern Nevada's transportation grid and ensure that our commute is safer and more efficient for decades to come.

Nevada must continue to lead in other ways, and no opportunity is as rich with promise as our primary industry, gaming. Nevada was the first state to legalize and regulate online gaming. In the absence of federal action on this issue, Nevada must continue to lead. The Nevada Gaming Control Board will bring legislation to eliminate Nevada's statutory barriers to interstate online poker and ask for authority to enter into interstate agreements. Nevada has always been the gold standard of both gaming regulation and operation, and I intend to see to it that our state will lead the world into this new frontier. Other states are moving quickly on this issue, and I respectfully ask the Legislature to pass a bill within 30 days. The promise of these ideas is real. The chance to innovate is exciting.

But even as we work to modernize our economy and set a new course toward a brighter economic future, we must address the consequences of the prolonged economic downturn. Last month, I announced that Nevada would comply with the provisions of the Affordable Care Act as they relate to the expansion of Medicaid services. As a result, some 78,000 more Nevadans will now have coverage without facing the new tax penalties imposed by the Affordable Care Act.

The federal law allows us to shift mental health and other state spending to Medicaid sources, saving the General Fund nearly $25 million over the biennium. Over the next six years, this comprehensive approach will create up to 8,000 new health care jobs and inject over a half billion dollars into our state's economy. As I've noted before, we must reduce taxes on businesses to help them bear the increased costs of the Affordable Care Act, but the issue of long-term health care costs remains. As such, I believe we must ask certain Medicaid patients to make a modest contribution toward the cost of their own care, and I will insist that Nevada be able to opt out of the Medicaid expansion program in future years should circumstances change.

Beyond Medicaid, my budget provides additional funding for our state's most vulnerable citizens. It includes more support for autism and early intervention services, piloting 24/7 mental health care in southern Nevada, and increased community-based services for Nevada's disabled and senior citizens.

We've all been touched by the housing crisis over these last few years, and Nevadans continue to struggle with home foreclosures. Last year, thousands of Nevadans attended a free housing assistance event in Las Vegas sponsored by our own Department of Business and Industry called "Home Means Nevada." At the comprehensive event, over 250 representatives from banks met with homeowners and provided help on the spot. While many Nevadans received assistance at that event, we must continue to do more.

Working with the Attorney General, Catherine Cortez-Masto, my administration will use multistate settlement funds to assist Nevadans who have been hardest hit by the housing crisis. We are obligated as leaders to find ways to keep people in their homes and families together, and I will use every available means at my disposal to protect and help the people who fight every day to stay in their most important possession, their home.

The recession has hurt the entire Nevada family. State employees have seen their pay cut and they have been required to take unpaid furlough days. Tonight I am announcing that we will be able to provide some relief to them as well. Merit pay will be restored for state employees beginning on July 1, 2014, and the number of required furlough days will be cut in half as of July 1 of this year. Thank you to all state employees.

There is another group that deserves our attention and respect—our veterans. The men and women who have served our nation in two wars are coming home. Tonight, I ask you to join me in remembering those who have made the ultimate sacrifice and those who have not yet returned. Over 300 Nevadans remain deployed with our Army and Air National Guard, and many more of Nevada's finest are serving in uniform at home and abroad.

With us tonight is one Marine recently returned home, a reminder of all those who remain deployed, Gunnery Sergeant Ben Stryffeler. I had the privilege of meeting Ben two years ago. Since then, we have twice chatted over breakfast about his life and military service. Ben graduated from Carson High 17 years ago and immediately enlisted in the Marine Corps. Since then, he has served his country with dignity and honor, being deployed four times to Iraq and Afghanistan. Ben returned home from Afghanistan a little over a month ago, after serving alongside a weapons company that engaged in heavy combat. Gunnery Sergeant Stryffeler represents the best that we can be. Ben and all the men and women of the military deserve our heartfelt gratitude and respect. Thank you, Ben.

In honor of those who serve in the Armed Forces, my budget contains funding for additional veteran service officers. It also includes money to begin the first phase to build a new stand-alone veterans home in northern Nevada to complement the veterans home in Boulder City. Nevada cherishes its veterans, and these resources will help ensure that our service members receive the benefits they deserve. We owe the men and women who serve our country nothing less than total victory.

Ladies and gentlemen, by doing all of these things, we are laying the groundwork for the future of our children and their families. They are the foundation of my budget and will continue to be the primary focus of my administration. My Executive Budget that will be transmitted to the Legislature tonight represents General Fund spending of approximately $6.5 billion for the next two years, which is a modest increase over my last budget. Caseload growth in Health and Human Services drives much of this increase. My commitment to K-12 education has also increased spending for our schools. But we must only allow for growth that our fragile economic recovery can bear.

In this budget, we've reduced the tax burden on local businesses, we've addressed increasing caseloads, and we've begun to diversify our economy. The social service net is stronger, support for education is increased, and Nevadans will continue to benefit from the overarching policy of this administration throughout this economic downturn—that is, we cannot cut our way out, we cannot tax our way out, we can only grow our way out.

As Nevada prepares to celebrate 150 years of statehood, we must also consider how far we have come and prepare for what lies ahead. [The year] 2014 is not just the anniversary of Nevada's statehood; it also marks the centennial year of the approval of women's suffrage in our state. Nevada gave women the right to vote in 1914, five years before the rest of the nation adopted the Nineteenth Amendment in 1919. It is my hope that the celebration of women's suffrage and the commemoration of Nevada's 150th birthday will provide a joint platform of examining who we are and who we can be.

Nevadans are rightfully proud of their history. We are also cognizant of the world around us, and we are ever mindful of those students whose faces inspire us to plan big for a bright future.

Tonight, we can take pride in our progress. The table has been set by economic improvements, and we can now see a light at the end of the tunnel. But problems persist, and they demand our attention. Such is the current context in which I have come before you tonight to describe the budget and the policy agenda placed before the 77th Session of the Legislature. It is a context of improvement, realism, and yes, optimism. It is a context in which we are cast again in the role of problem solvers. My plan represents the next phase of recovery and rebuilding.

Tonight we prepare to embark on a legislative session that I hope will set an example for bipartisanship. Two years ago, we gathered in difficulty and confronted a time of triage. Then, we were consumed by the effort simply to stop the free fall. Tonight we come together to further stabilize our state and lay a stronger foundation for its future.

From the vantage point of this new foundation, from the watershed moment of our 150th birthday, we can cast our gaze to the horizon—to the world we want for the graduating class of 2023: an educated and healthy citizenry, a vibrant and sustainable economy, safe and livable communities, and an efficient and responsive state government.

Each step we will take—indeed each of the many steps taken over the last two years—is coming together to reveal a map of promise and opportunity, and I know in my heart it will guide us not just where we want to go but where we must.

I am proud to serve as your Governor. I am proud to call Nevada my home.

God bless all of you, God bless the great state of Nevada, and God bless the United States of America, the greatest nation on Earth. Thank you.

(1) Eighty percent or more of that business entity's property and payroll are allocable to locations outside of the United States; or

(b) Adding the total revenue of all its members determined under paragraph (a); and

(c) Subtracting from the amount determined under paragraph (b), to the extent included under subparagraph (1) of paragraph (a) of subsection 1 of section 24 of this act, subparagraph (1) of paragraph (b) of subsection 1 of section 24 of this act or paragraph (c) of subsection 1 of section 24 of this act, any items of total revenue received from a member of the combined group.

3. For the purposes of section 23 of this act, a combined group shall make an election to subtract either the cost of goods sold or the amount of compensation that applies to all of its members. Regardless of the election, the taxable margin of the combined group may not exceed 70 percent of the combined group's total revenue from its entire business.

4. A member of a combined group may claim as the cost of goods sold those costs that qualify under section 25 of this act if the goods for which the costs are incurred are owned by another member of the combined group.

5. For the purposes of section 23 of this act, a combined group that elects to subtract:

(a) The cost of goods sold must determine that amount by:

(1) Determining the cost of goods sold for each of its members as provided in section 25 of this act as if the member was an individual business entity;

(2) Adding all the amounts of the costs of goods sold determined under subparagraph (1); and

(3) Subtracting from the amount determined under subparagraph (2) any amount of the costs of goods sold paid from one member of the combined group to another member of the combined group, but only to the extent that the corresponding item of total revenue was subtracted under paragraph (c) of subsection 2.

(b) The amount of compensation must determine that amount by:

(1) Determining the amount of compensation for each of its members as provided in section 26 of this act as if the member was an individual business entity, subject to the limitation set forth in subsection 2 of section 26 of this act;

(2) Adding all the amounts of compensations determined under subparagraph (1); and

(3) Subtracting from the amount determined under subparagraph (2) any amount of compensation paid from one member of the combined group to another member of the combined group, but only to the extent that the corresponding item of total revenue was subtracted under paragraph (c) of subsection 2.

7. Each member of a combined group is jointly and severally liable for the tax of the combined group.

Sec. 28. 1. A business entity's margin must be apportioned to this State to determine the amount of tax imposed by section 22 of this act by multiplying the margin by a fraction, the numerator of which is the business entity's total income from business done in this State, as determined under section 29 of this act, and the denominator of which is the business entity's total income from its entire business, as determined under section 30 of this act.

2. For the purpose of apportioning margin:

(a) Income excluded from total revenue by a business entity under section 24 of this act must not be included in either the total income of the business entity from its business done in this State as determined under section 29 of this act or the total income of the business entity from its entire business as determined under section 30 of this act.

(b) Income derived from transactions between individual members of a combined group that are excluded under paragraph (c) of subsection 2 of section 27 of this act must not be included in:

(1) The total income of the business entity from its business done in this State as determined under section 29 of this act, except that income ultimately derived from the sale of tangible personal property between individual members of a combined group where one member party to the transaction does not have nexus in this State must be included in the total income of the business entity from its business done in this State as determined under section

29 of this act to the extent that the member of the combined group that does not have nexus in this State resells the tangible personal property without substantial modification to a purchaser in this State. For the purposes of this subsection, "income ultimately derived from the sale of tangible personal property" means the amount paid for the tangible personal property by the third-party purchaser.

(2) The total income of the business entity from its entire business as determined under section 30 of this act.

(c) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (a) or (b) to the contrary, if a loan or security is treated as inventory of the seller for the purposes of federal income taxation, the gross proceeds of the sale of that loan or security are considered total income.

Sec. 29. 1. Subject to the provisions of section 28 of this act, in apportioning margin, the total income of a business entity from its business done in this State is the sum of the business entity's total income from:

(a) Each sale of tangible personal property which is delivered or shipped to a buyer in this State, regardless of the specified terms and conditions of the sale;

(b) Each service performed in this State;

(c) Each rental of property situated in this State;

(d) The use of a patent, copyright, trademark, franchise or license in this State;

(e) Each sale of real property located in this State, including royalties from oil, gas or other mineral interests; and

(f) Any other business done in this State.

2. For the purposes of paragraph (b) of subsection 1, the total income derived from servicing loans secured by real property shall be deemed to be performed in this State if the real property is located in this State.

3. A combined group shall include in its total income computed under subsection 1 the total income of each business entity that is a member of the combined group which has a nexus in this State for the purpose of taxation.

Sec. 30. 1. Subject to the provisions of section 28 of this act, in apportioning margin, the total income of a business entity from its entire business is the sum of the business entity's total income from:

(a) Each sale of the business entity's tangible personal property;

(b) Each service, rental or royalty; and

(c) Any other business.

2. If a business entity sells an investment or capital asset, the business entity's total income from its entire business for taxable margin includes only the net gain from the sale.

3. A combined group shall include in its total income computed under subsection 1 the total income of each business entity that is a member of the combined group, without regard to whether that entity has a nexus with this State for the purpose of taxation.

Sec. 31. 1. A business entity shall use the same accounting methods to apportion margin as used in computing margin.

2. A business entity may not change its accounting methods used to calculate its total income more often than once every 4 years without the express written consent of the Department. A change in accounting methods is not justified solely because the change results in a reduction of tax liability.

Sec. 32. 1. The tax imposed by this chapter for each taxable year is due on the last day of the calendar month following that taxable year.

2. Except as otherwise provided in this chapter, each business entity engaging in a business in this State during a taxable year that is not exempt from the tax imposed by this chapter for that taxable year shall file with the Department a return on a form prescribed by the Department, together with the remittance of any tax due pursuant to this chapter for that taxable year, not later than 30 days after the date the business entity is required to file its federal income tax return for that taxable year with the Internal Revenue Service. The return required by this subsection must be executed under penalty of perjury and include the taxpayer identification number or social security number of the business entity, as applicable, and such other information as is required by the Department.

Sec. 33. Upon written application made before the date on which a business entity is otherwise required to file a return and pay the tax imposed by this chapter, the Department may:

1. If the business entity is granted an extension of time by the Federal Government for the filing of its federal income tax return, extend the time for filing the return required by this chapter until not later than 30 days after the date the business entity is required to file its federal income tax return pursuant to the extension of time granted by the Federal Government. The Department may require, as a condition to the granting of any extension pursuant to this subsection, the payment of the tax estimated to be due pursuant to this chapter.

2. For good cause extend by 30 days the time within which the business entity is required to pay the tax. If the tax is paid during a period of extension granted pursuant to this subsection, no penalty or late charge may be imposed for failure to pay at the time required, but the business entity shall pay interest at the rate of 1 percent per month from the date on which the amount would have been due without the extension until the date of payment, unless otherwise provided in NRS 360.232 or 360.320.

Sec. 34. 1. If the taxable margin of a business entity changes as a result of:

(a) The filing by the business entity of an amended federal income tax return or other return, the business entity shall, within 30 days after that filing, file an amended return with the Department.

(b) An audit or other adjustment by the Internal Revenue Service or another competent authority, the business entity shall, within 30 days after the audit report or other adjustment becomes final, file an amended return with the Department.

2. If, based upon an amended return filed pursuant to this section, it appears that the tax imposed by this chapter has not been fully assessed, the Department shall assess the deficiency, with interest calculated at the rate and in the manner set forth in NRS 360.417. Any assessment required by this subsection must be made within 3 years after the Department receives the amended return.

Sec. 35. If the Department determines that any tax, penalty or interest has been paid more than once or has been erroneously collected or computed, the Department shall set forth that fact in the records of the Department and certify to the State Board of Examiners the amount collected in excess of the amount legally due and the person from whom it was collected or by whom it was paid. If approved by the State Board of Examiners, the excess amount collected or paid must, after being credited against any amount then due from the person in accordance with NRS 360.236, be refunded to the person or his or her successors in interest.

Sec. 36. 1. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 360.235 and 360.395:

(a) No refund may be allowed unless a claim for it is filed with the Department within 3 years after the last day of the month following the taxable year for which the overpayment was made.

(b) No credit may be allowed after the expiration of the period specified for filing claims for refund unless a claim for credit is filed with the Department within that period.

2. Each claim must be in writing and must state the specific grounds upon which the claim is founded.

3. Failure to file a claim within the time prescribed in this chapter constitutes a waiver of any demand against the State on account of overpayment.

4. Within 30 days after rejecting any claim in whole or in part, the Department shall serve notice of its action on the claimant in the manner prescribed for service of notice of a deficiency determination.

Sec. 37. 1. No injunction, writ of mandate or other legal or equitable process may issue in any suit, action or proceeding in any court against this State or against any officer of this State to prevent or enjoin the collection under this chapter of the tax imposed by this chapter or any amount of tax, penalty or interest required to be collected.

2. No suit or proceeding may be maintained in any court for the recovery of any amount alleged to have been erroneously determined or collected unless a claim for refund or credit has been filed.

Sec. 38. 1. Within 90 days after a final decision upon a claim filed pursuant to this chapter is rendered by the Commission, the claimant may bring an action against the Department on the grounds set forth in the claim in a court of competent jurisdiction in Carson City, the county of this State where the claimant resides or maintains his or her principal place of business or a county in which any relevant proceedings were conducted by the Department, for the recovery of the whole or any part of the amount with respect to which the claim has been disallowed.

2. Failure to bring an action within the time specified constitutes a waiver of any demand against the State on account of alleged overpayments.

Sec. 39. 1. If the Department fails to mail notice of action on a claim within 6 months after the claim is filed, the claimant may consider the claim disallowed and file an appeal with the Commission within 30 days after the last day of the 6-month period. If the claimant is aggrieved by the decision of the Commission rendered on appeal, the claimant may, within 90 days after the decision is rendered, bring an action against the Department on the grounds set forth in the claim for the recovery of the whole or any part of the amount claimed as an overpayment.

2. If judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, the amount of the judgment must first be credited towards any tax due from the plaintiff.

3. The balance of the judgment must be refunded to the plaintiff.

Sec. 40. If the court finds that the Department acted arbitrarily or capriciously in denying the plaintiff's claim, interest on the amount refunded to the plaintiff may be allowed at the Federal Funds Target Rate, but no greater than 6 percent per annum, upon the amount refunded to the plaintiff from the date of payment of the amount to a date preceding the date of the refund warrant by not more than 30 days. The date must be determined by the Department.

Sec. 41. A judgment may not be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in any action brought against the Department to recover any amount paid when the action is brought by or in the name of an assignee of the person paying the amount or by any person other than the person who paid the amount.

Sec. 42. 1. The Department may recover a refund or any part thereof which is erroneously made and any credit or part thereof which is erroneously allowed in an action brought in a court of competent jurisdiction in Carson City or Clark County in the name of the State of Nevada.

2. The action must be tried in Carson City or Clark County unless the court, with the consent of the Attorney General, orders a change of place of trial.

3. The Attorney General shall prosecute the action, and the provisions of NRS, the Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure and the Nevada Rules of Appellate Procedure relating to service of summons, pleadings, proofs, trials and appeals are applicable to the proceedings.

Sec. 43. 1. If any amount in excess of $25 has been illegally determined, either by the Department or by the person filing the return, the Department shall certify this fact to the State Board of Examiners, and the latter shall authorize the cancellation of the amount upon the records of the Department.

2. If an amount not exceeding $25 has been illegally determined, either by the Department or by the person filing the return, the Department, without certifying this fact to the State Board of Examiners, shall authorize the cancellation of the amount upon the records of the Department.

Sec. 44. 1. A person shall not:

(a) Make, cause to be made or permit to be made any false or fraudulent return or declaration or false statement in any return or declaration with intent to defraud the State or to evade payment of the tax or any part of the tax imposed by this chapter.

(b) Make, cause to be made or permit to be made any false entry in books, records or accounts with intent to defraud the State or to evade the payment of the tax or any part of the tax imposed by this chapter.

(c) Keep, cause to be kept or permit to be kept more than one set of books, records or accounts with intent to defraud the State or to evade the payment of the tax or any part of the tax imposed by this chapter.

2. Any person who violates the provisions of subsection 1 is guilty of a gross misdemeanor.

Sec. 45. The remedies of the State provided for in this chapter are cumulative, and no action taken by the Department or the Attorney General constitutes an election by the State to pursue any remedy to the exclusion of any other remedy for which provision is made in this chapter.

Sec. 46. NRS 360.2937 is hereby amended to read as follows:

360.2937 1. Except as otherwise provided in this section, NRS 360.320 or any other specific statute, and notwithstanding the provisions of NRS 360.2935, interest must be paid upon an overpayment of any tax provided for in chapter 362, 363A, 363B, 369, 370, 372, 374, 377 or 377A of NRS ~~[.]~~ or sections 3 to 45, inclusive, of this act, any fee provided for in NRS 444A.090 or 482.313, or any assessment provided for in NRS 585.497, at the rate of 0.25 percent per month from the last day of the calendar month following the period for which the overpayment was made.

2. No refund or credit may be made of any interest imposed on the person making the overpayment with respect to the amount being refunded or credited.

3. The interest must be paid:

(a) In the case of a refund, to the last day of the calendar month following the date upon which the person making the overpayment, if the person has not already filed a claim, is notified by the Department that a claim may be filed or the date upon which the claim is certified to the State Board of Examiners, whichever is earlier.

(b) In the case of a credit, to the same date as that to which interest is computed on the tax or the amount against which the credit is applied.

Sec. 47. NRS 360.300 is hereby amended to read as follows:

360.300 1. If a person fails to file a return or the Department is not satisfied with the return or returns of any tax, contribution or premium or amount of tax, contribution or premium required to be paid to the State by any person, in accordance with the applicable provisions of this chapter, chapter 360B, 362, 363A, 363B, 369, 370, 372, 372A, 374, 377, 377A or 444A of NRS, sections 3 to 45, inclusive, of this act, NRS 482.313, or chapter 585 or 680B of NRS as administered or audited by the Department, it may compute and determine the amount required to be paid upon the basis of:

(a) The facts contained in the return;

(b) Any information within its possession or that may come into its possession; or

(c) Reasonable estimates of the amount.

2. One or more deficiency determinations may be made with respect to the amount due for one or for more than one period.

3. In making its determination of the amount required to be paid, the Department shall impose interest on the amount of tax determined to be due, calculated at the rate and in the manner set forth in NRS 360.417, unless a different rate of interest is specifically provided by statute.

4. The Department shall impose a penalty of 10 percent in addition to the amount of a determination that is made in the case of the failure of a person to file a return with the Department.

5. When a business is discontinued, a determination may be made at any time thereafter within the time prescribed in NRS 360.355 as to liability arising out of that business, irrespective of whether the determination is issued before the due date of the liability.

Sec. 48. NRS 360.417 is hereby amended to read as follows:

360.417 Except as otherwise provided in NRS 360.232 and 360.320, and unless a different penalty or rate of interest is specifically provided by statute, any person who fails to pay any tax provided for in chapter 362, 363A, 363B, 369, 370, 372, 374, 377, 377A, 444A or 585 of NRS, or sections 3 to 45, inclusive, of this act, or any fee provided for in NRS 482.313, and any person or governmental entity that fails to pay any fee provided for in NRS 360.787, to the State or a county within the time required, shall pay a penalty of not more than 10 percent of the amount of the tax or fee which is owed, as determined by the Department, in addition to the tax or fee, plus interest at the rate of 0.75 percent per month, or fraction of a month, from the last day of the month following the period for which the amount or any portion of the amount should have been reported until the date of payment. The amount of any penalty imposed must be based on a graduated schedule adopted by the Nevada Tax Commission which takes into consideration the length of time the tax or fee remained unpaid.

Sec. 49. NRS 360.510 is hereby amended to read as follows:

360.510 1. If any person is delinquent in the payment of any tax or fee administered by the Department or if a determination has been made against the person which remains unpaid, the Department may:

(a) Not later than 3 years after the payment became delinquent or the determination became final; or

(b) Not later than 6 years after the last recording of an abstract of judgment or of a certificate constituting a lien for tax owed,

➥ give a notice of the delinquency and a demand to transmit personally or by registered or certified mail to any person, including, without limitation, any officer or department of this State or any political subdivision or agency of this State, who has in his or her possession or under his or her control any credits or other personal property belonging to the delinquent, or owing any debts to the delinquent or person against whom a determination has been made which remains unpaid, or owing any debts to the delinquent or that person. In the case of any state officer, department or agency, the notice must be given to the officer, department or agency before the Department presents the claim of the delinquent taxpayer to the State Controller.

2. A state officer, department or agency which receives such a notice may satisfy any debt owed to it by that person before it honors the notice of the Department.

3. After receiving the demand to transmit, the person notified by the demand may not transfer or otherwise dispose of the credits, other personal property, or debts in his or her possession or under his or her control at the time the person received the notice until the Department consents to a transfer or other disposition.

4. Every person notified by a demand to transmit shall, within 10 days after receipt of the demand to transmit, inform the Department of and transmit to the Department all such credits, other personal property or debts in his or her possession, under his or her control or owing by that person within the time and in the manner requested by the Department. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 5, no further notice is required to be served to that person.

5. If the property of the delinquent taxpayer consists of a series of payments owed to him or her, the person who owes or controls the payments shall transmit the payments to the Department until otherwise notified by the Department. If the debt of the delinquent taxpayer is not paid within 1 year after the Department issued the original demand to transmit, the Department shall issue another demand to transmit to the person responsible for making the payments informing him or her to continue to transmit payments to the Department or that his or her duty to transmit the payments to the Department has ceased.

6. If the notice of the delinquency seeks to prevent the transfer or other disposition of a deposit in a bank or credit union or other credits or personal property in the possession or under the control of a bank, credit union or other depository institution, the notice must be delivered or mailed to any branch or office of the bank, credit union or other depository institution at which the deposit is carried or at which the credits or personal property is held.

7. If any person notified by the notice of the delinquency makes any transfer or other disposition of the property or debts required to be withheld or transmitted, to the extent of the value of the property or the amount of the debts thus transferred or paid, that person is liable to the State for any indebtedness due pursuant to this chapter, or chapter 360B, 362, 363A, 363B, 369, 370, 372, 372A, 374, 377, 377A or 444A of NRS, sections 3 to 45, inclusive, of this act, NRS 482.313, or chapter 585 or 680B of NRS from the person with respect to whose obligation the notice was given if solely by reason of the transfer or other disposition the State is unable to recover the indebtedness of the person with respect to whose obligation the notice was given.

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That Section 1 of Article 10 of the Nevada Constitution be amended to read as follows:

Section 1. 1. The Legislature shall provide by law for a uniform and equal rate of assessment and taxation, and shall prescribe such regulations as shall secure a just valuation for taxation of all property, real, personal and possessory, except mines and mining claims, which shall be assessed and taxed only as provided in Section 5 of this Article.

2. Shares of stock, bonds, mortgages, notes, bank deposits, book accounts and credits, and securities and choses in action of like character are deemed to represent interest in property already assessed and taxed, either in Nevada or elsewhere, and shall be exempt.

3. The Legislature may constitute agricultural and open-space real property having a greater value for another use than that for which it is being used, as a separate class for taxation purposes and may provide a separate uniform plan for appraisal and valuation of such property for assessment purposes. If such plan is provided, the Legislature shall also provide for retroactive assessment for a period of not less than 7 years when agricultural and open-space real property is converted to a higher use conforming to the use for which other nearby property is used.

4. Personal property which is moving in interstate commerce through or over the territory of the State of Nevada, or which was consigned to a warehouse, public or private, within the State of Nevada from outside the State of Nevada for storage in transit to a final destination outside the State of Nevada, whether specified when transportation begins or afterward, shall be deemed to have acquired no situs in Nevada for purposes of taxation and shall be exempt from taxation. Such property shall not be deprived of such exemption because while in the warehouse the property is assembled, bound, joined, processed, disassembled, divided, cut, broken in bulk, relabeled or repackaged.

5. The Legislature may exempt motor vehicles from the provisions of the tax required by this Section, and in lieu thereof, if such exemption is granted, shall provide for a uniform and equal rate of assessment and taxation of motor vehicles, which rate shall not exceed five cents on one dollar of assessed valuation.

6. The Legislature shall provide by law for a progressive reduction in the tax upon business inventories by 20 percent in each year following the adoption of this provision, and after the expiration of the 4th year such inventories are exempt from taxation. The Legislature may exempt any other personal property, including livestock.

7. No inheritance tax shall ever be levied.

8. The Legislature may exempt by law property used for municipal, educational, literary, scientific or other charitable purposes, or to encourage the conservation of energy or the substitution of other sources for fossil sources of energy.

9. No income tax shall be levied upon the wages or personal income of natural persons. Notwithstanding the foregoing provision, and except as otherwise provided in subsection 1 of this Section, taxes may be levied upon the income or revenue of any business in whatever form it may be conducted for profit in the State.

10. The Legislature may provide by law for an abatement of the tax upon or an exemption of part of the assessed value of a single-family residence occupied by the owner to the extent necessary to avoid severe economic hardship to the owner of the residence.

11. The Legislature may provide by law for the determination of the value of improvements to real property for the purposes of taxation upon the transfer, sale or other conveyance of the property as the Legislature determines to be appropriate.

3. The Speaker shall appoint an alternate member with the qualifications set forth in paragraph (a) of subsection 1 and an alternate member with the qualifications set forth in paragraph (c) of subsection 1. The Minority Leader shall appoint an alternate member with the qualifications set forth in paragraph (b) of subsection 1 and an alternate member with the qualifications set forth in paragraph (c) of subsection 1. If a member of the Committee is unable to serve for any reason during the consideration of a specific question, the alternate appointed with the qualifications from the same paragraph in subsection 1 shall serve as a member of the Committee during the consideration of the specific question.

4. A member of the Committee is disqualified to serve during the consideration of a specific question if:

(a) The member is the requester of advice concerning the question of ethics or conflict of interest, or the member is the subject of the complaint concerning the specific question; or

(b) A reasonable person in the member's situation could not exercise independent judgment on the matter in question.

5. The members of the Committee shall perform any duty required in the period between the time of their appointment after the general election and the organization of the next succeeding regular session, or until the Speaker or the Speaker Designate or the Minority Leader or Minority Leader Designate appoint new members to the Committee, whichever occurs first.

6. The tenure of the members of the Committee shall extend during the interim between regular sessions of the Legislature.

7. The Committee:

(a) May hear requests brought by members of the Assembly for advice on specific questions of potential breaches of ethics and conflicts of interest; and

(b) Shall hear complaints brought by members of the Assembly and others on specific questions of alleged breaches of ethics and conflicts of interest.

8. All proceedings held to consider the character, alleged misconduct, professional competence or physical or mental health of any person by the Committee on matters of ethics or conflicts of interest are confidential unless a Legislator:

(a) Against whom a complaint is brought requests a public hearing;

(b) Discloses the content of an opinion of the Committee at any time after his or her hearing; or

(c) Discloses the content of an advisory opinion issued to him or her by the Committee.

9. A complaint which alleges a breach of ethics or a conflict of interest must be:

(a) Made in writing on a form provided by the Chief Clerk of the Assembly;

(b) Signed and verified under penalty of perjury by the person making the allegation; and

(c) Filed with the Chair of the Committee or, if the Chair is the subject of the complaint, with the Vice Chair. The Chair or Vice Chair, as appropriate, shall send a copy of the complaint, within 24 hours after receiving it, to the Legislator against whom the complaint is brought.

10. In determining whether a Legislator has a conflict of interest, the Legislator should consider whether the independence of judgment of a reasonable person in his or her situation upon the matter in question would be materially affected by the Legislator's:

(a) Acceptance of a gift or loan;

(b) Private economic interest; or

(c) Commitment to a member of his or her household or immediate family.

➥ In interpreting and applying the provisions of this subsection, it must be presumed that the independence of judgment of a reasonable person in the Legislator's situation would not be materially affected by the Legislator's private economic interest or the Legislator's commitment to a member of his or her household or immediate family where the resulting benefit or detriment accruing to the Legislator, or if the Legislator has a commitment to a member of his or her household or immediate family, accruing to those other persons, is not greater than that accruing to any other member of the general business, profession, occupation or group that is affected by the matter.

11. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 12, if a Legislator knows he or she has a conflict of interest pursuant to subsection 10, the Legislator shall make a disclosure of the conflict of interest on the record in a meeting of a committee or on the floor of the Assembly, as applicable. Such a disclosure must be entered:

(a) If the Legislator makes the disclosure in a meeting of a committee, in the minutes for that meeting.

(b) If the Legislator makes the disclosure on the floor of the Assembly, in the Journal.

12. If, on one or more prior occasions during the current session of the Legislature, a Legislator has made a general disclosure of a conflict of interest on the record in a meeting of a committee or on the floor of the Assembly, the Legislator is not required to make that general disclosure at length again regarding the same conflict of interest if, when the matter in question arises on subsequent occasions, the Legislator makes a reference on the record to the previous disclosure.

13. In determining whether to abstain from voting upon, advocating or opposing a matter concerning which a Legislator has a conflict of interest pursuant to subsection 10, the Legislator should consider whether:

(a) The conflict impedes his or her independence of judgment; and

(b) His or her interest is greater than the interests of an entire class of persons similarly situated.

14. The provisions of this Rule do not under any circumstances and regardless of any conflict of interest:

(a) Prohibit a Legislator from requesting or introducing a legislative measure; or

(b) Require a Legislator to take any particular action before or while requesting or introducing a legislative measure.

15. If a Legislator who is a member of a committee declares on the record when a vote is to be taken by the committee that he or she will abstain from voting because of the requirements of this Rule, the necessary quorum to act upon and the number of votes necessary to act upon the matter is reduced as though the Legislator abstaining were not a member of the committee.

16. Except as otherwise provided in the Joint Standing Rules, the standards and procedures set forth in this Rule which govern whether and to what extent a member of the Assembly has a conflict of interest, should disclose a conflict of interest or should abstain from voting upon, advocating or opposing a matter concerning which the member has a conflict of interest pursuant to subsection 10:

(a) Are exclusive and are the only standards and procedures that apply to members of the Assembly with regard to such matters; and

(b) Supersede and preempt all other standards and procedures with regard to such matters.

17. For purposes of this Rule, "immediate family" means a person who is related to the Legislator by blood, adoption or marriage within the first degree of consanguinity or affinity.

18. This Rule shall remain in full force and effect throughout the interim between regular sessions of the Legislature and until new Standing Rules of the Assembly are adopted as part of a newly-constituted Assembly at the commencement of a session.

The message and bill must be read by the Chief Clerk without interruption, consecutively, one following the other, and not upon separate occasions. No such bill or message may be referred to any committee, or otherwise acted upon save as provided by law and custom; that is to say, that immediately following such reading the only question, except as hereinafter stated, which may be put by the Speaker is, "Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?" No motion may be entertained after the Speaker has stated the question, save a motion to adjourn or a motion for the previous question, but the merits of the bill itself may be debated. Assembly Joint Resolution No. 1—Expressing the support of the Nevada Legislature for the designation of the Upper Las Vegas Wash as a national monument.

WHEREAS, The Upper Las Vegas Wash contains thousands of Pleistocene mammal fossils of national importance, including Columbian mammoth, ground sloth, American lion, camel and horse fossils; and

WHEREAS, Since 1933, the Upper Las Vegas Wash has been valued by scientists because of the significant paleontological fossils demonstrative of the Pleistocene epoch, commonly referred to as the Ice Age, that are located in the area; and

WHEREAS, In 2004, during the preparation of the Las Vegas Valley Disposal Boundary Final Environmental Impact Statement, the Bureau of Land Management identified sensitive biological, cultural and paleontological resources determined to be worthy of more evaluation with respect to the protective status of the resources; and

WHEREAS, The harsh desert environment of the Upper Las Vegas Wash supports unique and imperiled plants, including the Las Vegas buckwheat, Merriam's bearpoppy, Las Vegas bearpoppy, the halfring milkvetch, Joshua trees and several species of cacti; and

WHEREAS, The Upper Las Vegas Wash provides important habitat for the threatened desert tortoise, endemic poppy bees, kit foxes, burrowing owls and a variety of reptiles; and

WHEREAS, In 2010, a National Park Service reconnaissance survey of the area determined that the area likely contains the largest continuous section of Pleistocene strata in the desert southwest; and

WHEREAS, The Upper Las Vegas Wash is significant to the culture and history of the native and indigenous people of the area, including the Southern Paiute Tribe; and

WHEREAS, Despite the findings and recommendations of the aforementioned Environmental Impact Statement and reconnaissance survey, the Upper Las Vegas Wash remains inadequately protected; and

WHEREAS, Many irreplaceable fossil specimens in the Upper Las Vegas Wash have been lost to vandalism or theft; and

WHEREAS, Designation of the Upper Las Vegas Wash site as a national monument would protect the unique resources of the area for present and future generations while allowing for public education and continued scientific research opportunities; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That the members of the 77th Session of the Nevada Legislature hereby recognize that the Upper Las Vegas Wash contains unique, nationally important biological, cultural and paleontological resources; and be it further

RESOLVED, That to conserve, protect, interpret and enhance for the benefit of present and future generations these unique and nationally important resources, the Nevada Legislature expresses its support for the designation of the Upper Las Vegas Wash site as a national monument; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to the Vice President of the United States as the presiding officer of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, each member of the Nevada Congressional Delegation, the Governor and the Director of the State Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, and to the Director of the Department of Wildlife for distribution to the various conservation groups that have participated in the effort to designate the Upper Las Vegas Wash site as a national monument; and be it further

By Assemblyman Ellison and Senator Goicoechea:

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 2—Urging the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service to partner with the livestock industry in this State to increase livestock grazing on public lands.

WHEREAS, The State of Nevada is one of the states that is greatly affected by wildfires; and

WHEREAS, The wildfires in Nevada have burned vast areas of this State, including numerous acres of rangeland and forest located on public lands managed and controlled by the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service; and

WHEREAS, The growth of an invasive, nonnative annual grass known as cheatgrass has been a significant contributing factor to the increased extent and frequency of wildfires in this State; and

WHEREAS, Frequent wildfires and the increased presence of cheatgrass have degraded the ecosystem in this State by inhibiting the establishment of native plant species; and

WHEREAS, In addition to burning rangeland and forest which support livestock grazing, the frequent wildfires have damaged wildlife habitats, including the habitat of the sage grouse, a bird whose populations have been declining for years, and have caused a rise in the costs associated with wildfire suppression and the rehabilitation of those public lands affected by the wildfires; and

WHEREAS, In a 1,700-acre study conducted by researchers at the University of Nevada, Reno, late-season livestock grazing was shown to reduce the amount of cheatgrass, which could fuel a fire, from 500 pounds per acre to 25 pounds per acre; and

WHEREAS, Increasing livestock grazing on rangeland and forest located on public lands simultaneously serves to support the livestock industry while decreasing the costs of wildfire suppression and benefiting the ecosystem; and

WHEREAS, Limiting the closure of public lands for purposes of wildfire suppression to two growing seasons will also serve to support the livestock industry; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That the members of the 77th Session of the Nevada Legislature hereby urge the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service to partner with the livestock industry in this State to increase grazing on public lands; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to the Director of the Bureau of Land Management, the Chief of the United States Forest Service, the President of the Nevada Cattlemen's Association and the President of the Nevada Farm Bureau; and be it further

RE: Assembly Bill No. 136 of the 76th Legislative Session

DEAR SECRETARY MILLER:

I am herewith forwarding to you, for filing within the constitutional time limit and without my approval, Assembly Bill 136, which is entitled:

> AN ACT relating to criminal laws; revising provisions governing credits for offenders sentenced for certain crimes; revising provisions governing the sealing and removal of certain records; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

This bill allows people convicted of certain category B felonies to earn credits to reduce their sentences, thereby allowing for an earlier release from prison. Under existing law, these so-called "good time credits" can be earned by offenders convicted of certain category C, D, or E felonies by acquiring vocational skills or undergoing drug treatment programs. The bill would extend the good time credit provision to Class B felons, with the exception of repeat offenders and offenders guilty of violent crimes or sexual assault. The bill also authorizes a person to petition for the sealing of records relating to an arrest if the prosecuting attorney declines to prosecute the charges.

Assembly Bill 136 has been promoted as a cost-cutting measure that will save money by reducing the cost of housing certain non-violent criminals in Nevada's crowded prisons. However, I am concerned that the bill will allow dangerous criminals to be prematurely released from prison, thereby increasing risk to Nevada's communities and sending a message to offenders that this state is soft on crime. Because of these concerns, I veto this bill and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

Sincere regards,

DEAR SECRETARY MILLER:

I am herewith forwarding to you, for filing within the constitutional time limit and without my approval, Assembly Bill 137, which is entitled:

AN ACT relating to education; requiring the implementation of a school breakfast program at certain public schools; requiring the Department of Education to report on the school breakfast program for each public school; requiring school districts to report on school nutrition programs; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

Assembly Bill 137 requires the implementation of a school breakfast program at any public school, including a charter school, that is eligible to operate a program of nutrition in accordance with federal regulations. Where a school breakfast program is implemented, the school must serve breakfast free of charge to all students and must serve breakfast after the school day starts in the following order of priority: (1) the classroom; (2) a transportable manner; or (3) the cafeteria. The bill also requires the Department of Education and board of trustees of each school district, on a biennial basis, to prepare written reports related to the school breakfast program and other nutrition programs.

The importance of providing nourishment to students who arrive at school without breakfast cannot be overlooked. To that end, the boards of trustees of school districts and governing boards of charter schools are authorized under existing law to operate or provide for the operation of nutrition programs in their schools. This includes the type of school breakfast program that Assembly Bill 137 would require at all eligible schools.

I am confident that school districts and charter schools are currently capable of determining how best to administer nutrition programs for their students. I cannot support Assembly Bill 137. Therefore, I veto it and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

DEAR SECRETARY MILLER:

I am herewith forwarding to you, for filing within the constitutional time limit and without my approval, Assembly Bill 152, which is entitled:

AN ACT relating to transportation; creating an advisory committee to develop recommendations relating to the funding of the construction and maintenance of highways in this State; providing for the membership and duties of the advisory committee; authorizing the advisory committee to place advisory questions regarding the recommendations of the committee on the ballot for the general election to be held in 2012; requiring the Secretary of State to appoint committees to prepare arguments for and against approval of the recommendation proposed in any such advisory question placed on the ballot; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

Assembly Bill 152 creates an advisory committee to develop recommendations for increasing the funding of highways in the state. The committee is comprised of eight members, each of which is appointed by the leadership of the Legislature. The bill further provides that the committee may place advisory questions on the ballot relating to the recommendations developed by the committee.

This bill unnecessarily expands government and circumvents the legislative process. The purpose of the advisory committee is to develop recommendations for increasing the funding of highways in the state. The funding of highways, however, falls squarely within the jurisdiction of the Nevada Department of Transportation, which is overseen by the Board of Transportation. There is no indication that the Department is performing its planning function insufficiently. Therefore, I must conclude that the advisory committee is unnecessary and redundant. This unnecessary expansion of government would serve to make the government apparatus associated with the funding of our highways unwieldy, frustrating the efficient administration of that funding. Such a result is not the interest of the people of the state.

Moreover, the proposed committee is comprised solely of members appointed by the legislative branch, and the bill provides the committee with access to the ballot. A similar bill was processed in the 75th Legislative Session. That bill, Assembly Bill 503, similarly proposed the establishment of an advisory committee on the funding of highways. The bill was vetoed by Governor Jim Gibbons, who observed in his veto message that the bill "effectively circumvents the legislative process by allowing a small group of non-elected officials to make recommendations that have major implications on taxpayers, and to then present those recommendations to the voters." He further noted that, "[i]f such recommendations are to be submitted to the voters, they should be recommendations from the Legislature as a whole." Ultimately, Governor Gibbons concluded that the bill represented "an abdication of legislative authority." I agree. Therefore, because the bill unnecessarily expands government and abdicates legislative authority, I veto it and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

BRIAN SANDOVAL

DEAR SECRETARY MILLER:

I am herewith forwarding to you, for filing within the constitutional time limit and without my approval, Assembly Bill 300, which is entitled:

AN ACT relating to real property; revising provisions providing for mediation in certain actions for foreclosure; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

This bill revises existing law governing foreclosures on real property, in particular, the bill makes changes to the Foreclosure Mediation Program, which was created during the 2009 Legislative Session to address the residential foreclosure crisis existing in this state. The Mediation Program is administered by the Administrative Office of the Courts, and the Nevada Supreme Court is authorized to adopt rules necessary to carry out provisions of the program. Assembly Bill No. 300 will impose additional statutory provisions related to the operation of the program.

Supporters of this bill maintain that many issues and problems with the Mediation Program have arisen since its creation two years ago, and should be addressed through statutory amendments. However, the Nevada Supreme Court, on June 1, 2011, in Docket No. ADKT 0435, issued an Order Establishing Advisory Committee on the Foreclosure Mediation Program. The Order appointed fourteen members to the Advisory Committee who will consider issues associated with the mediation program. It should also be noted that several cases dealing with various aspects of the Mediation Program are currently pending before the Nevada Supreme Court.

In light of the rapidly-developing body of law related to residential foreclosures and the fact that an advisory committee has been charged with considering ways to improve the Foreclosure Mediation Program, I cannot support a bill that represents duplicative and possibly conflicting efforts.

Therefore, I veto Assembly Bill 300 and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

DEAR SECRETARY MILLER:

I am herewith forwarding to you, for filing within the constitutional time limit and without my approval, Assembly Bill 301, which is entitled:

AN ACT relating to civil rights; revising provisions governing the restoration of the right to vote to persons who have been convicted of a felony; revising provisions governing the registration to vote of a person convicted of a felony; revising provisions governing the cancellation of the registration to vote of a person convicted of a felony; revising provisions governing a challenge to the right to vote of a person convicted of a felony; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

Assembly Bill 301 revises provisions governing the restoration of civil rights to persons convicted of a felony. Under existing law, unless a person has been convicted of certain specified felonies, a person convicted of a felony is immediately restored to the right to vote upon: (1) an honorable discharge from probation; (2) the sealing of his or her records by a court; (3) the granting of a pardon with the restoration of the right to vote; (4) an honorable discharge from parole; or (5) being released from prison upon completion of a sentence. Currently, the right to vote is not restored to a person released from prison if the person has been convicted of certain felonies, unless the person petitions a court for an order granting restoration of the right.

The bill would automatically restore voting rights upon completion of any felony sentence of imprisonment, probation or parole. Supporters of this bill argue that automatic restoration of voting rights for all felons, regardless of the severity of the offense, will streamline the voter registration process and eliminate confusion about when or how voter rights are restored. However, these arguments are not compelling reasons to overlook the severity of certain offenses and alter the just punishment that is delivered to those who commit these offenses. Notably, Assembly Bill 301 does not alter restoration of the rights to serve as a juror or hold office, which can occur only upon petition to a court (for restoration of the right to serve as a juror in a civil action) or after the passage of a certain period of time after release from prison. Like these rights, the right to vote is a privilege that should not lightly be restored to those few individuals who commit the most egregious crimes in our society.

Because Assembly Bill 301 unnecessarily revises appropriate provisions related to the restoration of civil rights for certain ex-felons, I veto it and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

RE: Assembly Bill No. 416 of the 76th Legislative Session

DEAR SECRETARY MILLER:

I am herewith forwarding to you, for filing within the constitutional time limit and without my approval, Assembly Bill 416, which is entitled:

AN ACT relating to energy; revising provisions governing the Solar Energy Systems Incentive Program; revising provisions governing the Water Power Energy Systems Demonstration Program; revising provisions governing the payment of incentives to participants in the Solar Program and the Wind Program; revising the prospective expiration of the Wind Program and the Waterpower Program; providing for the prospective expiration of the Solar Program; requiring the Public Utilities Commission of Nevada to adopt certain regulations; revising certain provisions governing certain energy-related tax incentives; revising certain provisions relating to plans filed by certain utilities; authorizing a utility to recover certain costs under certain circumstances; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

This bill amends, in part, the statutory requirements associated with the submission of resource plans for the review and approval of the Public Utilities Commission ("PUC"). Resource plans account for how a public utility will meet consumer demand for electricity in our state. Under the current state of the law, utilities are required to submit these plans on a periodic basis to the PUC for approval, after a public hearing. The main purpose of the requirement is simple: to reduce electricity rates by subjecting the manner in which a utility proposes to meet consumer demand to the scrutiny of a public process and the approval of an impartial regulator. Thus, in accordance with NRS 704.741, utilities are required to submit to the PUC every three years a comparison of the best combination of sources of supply to meet projected consumer demand or the best method to reduce demand.

Resource plans help achieve rate savings not only through an analysis of the source of supply, but also through a review for the method of transmission of some sources, including renewable energy. NRS 704.741(4), for example, requires utilities to provide a plan for the construction and expansion of transmission facilities designed to serve renewable energy zones to facilitate the achievement of renewable portfolio standards. The achievement of these standards produces environmental benefits and economic development gains in renewable energy in Nevada. The law provides that where such a transmission plan is approved, the utility may recover, at the discretion of the PUC, all just and reasonable costs of planning and constructing the facility.

Insofar as the central aim of resource plan approval is rate containment, we must strive to protect the integrity of that process. Nevada's consumers are too important to our economic recovery to subject to ratemaking that does not properly account for their interests.

Assembly Bill 416, however, instead of seeking to strengthen consumer protections for the people of this state, substantially reduces the protections the resource plan approval process provides; it obscures the focus of the process by introducing new concerns not related to reducing rates for Nevadans, and it provides for cost recovery for energy exportation, in some cases without prior approval, contrary to traditional ratemaking principles.

The bill provides for the inclusion in resource plans of a utility's plan for the construction and expansion of transmission facilities to support the construction of renewable energy facilities without regard to the location of consumers, and it requires inclusion of plans for transmission facilities that are anticipated to be necessary to serve the needs of any renewable energy facility that requests interconnection with the utility and delivers energy to purchasers located outside the State or service area of the utility.

Review of the construction and expansion of transmission facilities intended to benefit electricity consumers in other states, however, does not serve the traditional purpose of resource plan approval—to exercise downward pressure on rates for Nevadans. Instead, the broadening of the scope of resource plans threatens to undermine the interests of ratepayers because once approved, under NRS 704.110(11), related expenses would be deemed prudent and the utility would be allowed, at the discretion of the PUC, to recover all just and reasonable costs. This process would mean rate increases for the people of the state to finance the construction of facilities to service out of state consumers.

What is perhaps more troubling, however, is the bill's requirement that, if proposed facilities or transmission corridor actions do not fall with a resource plan filing requirement, or, alternatively, if the utility is required pursuant to federal law to commit to such facilities within a time that does not support a resource plan filing, the PUC shall allow the utility to recover reasonable and prudent expenses for the siting, development and permitting of the proposed facility or corridor activities conducted without inclusion in the plan.

The mandatory allowance for the recovery of such costs is entirely inapposite to the cost recovery principle expressed in the current rate case provisions, which provide, for example, for the permissive recovery of costs associated with a transmission facility linked to the attainment of renewable portfolio standards only after approval by the PUC. If such costs are permissive after approval, it is difficult to conceive of a public policy justification for mandatory costs in the absence of any approval at all.

The inconsistent policy approach would be, perhaps, reconcilable if the probability of expenses set to trigger the mandatory allowance of costs was limited. It appears, however, that is not the case. At least one public utility has made clear, during a hearing on a similar provision in a similar bill earlier this session, its intention to develop renewable transmission corridors. Under this bill, the plan for such development is not necessarily a requirement of a resource plan. Thus, it appears the utility would be entitled to the reasonable and prudent costs associated with that development. Those costs would not only be substantial, but they would reflect an unacceptable outcome: Nevada ratepayers forced to finance the transmission of renewable energy to out of state consumers without the opportunity to comment beforehand. Moreover, there is no provision in the bill to allow ratepayers, in the event any investment shouldered by them succeeds, to participate in that success through reduced rates.

This bill threatens not only to undermine the value of the resource plan approval process in maintaining reasonable electricity rates and prudent facilities approvals, but it will provide for increased rates to cover utility expenditures unrelated to the provision of electricity in this state. To increase utility rates on Nevadans struggling to emerge from a severe economic recession would result in the imposition of an unnecessary and unfair burden on our recovery. Therefore, I exercise my constitutional grant of authority to veto AB 416 and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

BRIAN SANDOVAL

DEAR SECRETARY MILLER:

I am herewith forwarding to you, for filing within the constitutional time limit and without my approval, Assembly Bill 433, which is entitled:

> AN ACT relating to employment practices; making it unlawful for public employers to make rules or regulations that prohibit or prevent an employee from engaging in politics or becoming a candidate for public office with certain exceptions; prohibiting any employer from taking any adverse employment action against an employee because the employee has become a candidate for any public office with certain exceptions; providing a penalty; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

Existing Nevada law makes it unlawful for a private employer to make rules or regulations that prohibit an employee from engaging in politics or becoming a candidate for office. This bill seeks to extend those protections to the employees of public employers and labor organizations; on its face, this intent has merit. However, the bill as written goes well beyond existing law and establishes new prohibitions pertaining to an "adverse employment action" as defined in new amendatory language. These requirements go too far to be practicable, overreaching in the apparent desire to protect the employee while in fact placing an undue burden on both public and private employers. Small firms would be adversely impacted and large employers, whether public or private, would have their leave policies unworkably restricted.

Had the authors of this measure simply included public employers and labor organizations in the existing statutory framework, their concept would have been better executed. As written, this bill places unworkable restrictions on the employer/employee relationship. I therefore exercise my constitutional grant of authority to veto Assembly Bill 433 and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

RE: Assembly Bill No. 546 of the 76th Legislative Session

DEAR SECRETARY MILLER:

I am herewith forwarding to you, for filing within the constitutional time limit and without my approval, Assembly Bill 546, which is entitled:

AN ACT relating to children; making various changes to provisions governing early childhood care and education; providing for the establishment by statute of the Early Childhood Advisory Council; requiring certain training of persons who are employed in early childhood care; requiring annual reports concerning such training to be submitted to the Department of Education and the Legislative Committee on education; requiring the Board for Child Care to adopt regulations establishing requirements for courses of training in child care for employees of a child care facility; making an appropriation; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

This bill has merit, particularly as it draws attention to the importance of early childhood learning as it relates to later success in school. The bill codifies in statute an existing Advisory Council formed by Executive Order of a prior administration; the bill also establishes needed collaboration between the State Department of Education and the State Department of Health and Human Services with regard to early childhood care and education.

However, the bill also places new training and reporting responsibilities on licensed childcare facilities and those facilities which receive reimbursement from the Program for Child Care and Development administered by the Division of Welfare and Supportive Services. In fact, the "continuing training in child care…must include, without limitation, the annual completion by each employee of not less than 24 hours of such training, not less than 16 hours of which must be training relating to early childhood development" and standards to be adopted pursuant to this bill. Such a standard sets a new, overly high bar for small businesses in the childcare industry. The cost of this annual training would either be passed through to consumers, many of whom cannot afford to pay more for their childcare, or born by employees, many of whom work for relatively low wages. It could also result in decreased wages for childcare workers. Moreover, the bill's requirement of training in "early childhood development" overlooks a more pressing need for training in the area of infant and to toddler care.

Therefore, because this bill makes it more difficult for private businesses to succeed at a time when affordable child care is of utmost importance to Nevadans, and because the training requirements reflected in the bill do not target the most pressing areas of need, I exercise my constitutional grant of authority to veto Assembly Bill 546 and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

I am herewith forwarding to you, for filing within the constitutional time limit and without my approval, Assembly Bill 550, which is entitled:

> AN ACT relating to transportation; directing the Legislative Commission to conduct an interim study concerning state ports of entry; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

Assembly Bill No. 550 directs the Legislative Commission to appoint a committee to conduct an interim study concerning state ports of entry. The study must examine the feasibility and cost of establishing permanent ports of entry on highways within this state, and consider the appropriate functions to be performed at or by ports of entry. In conducting the study, the committee is required to consult with agencies within Nevada and of adjoining states having jurisdiction over matters relating to transportation.

In some states, ports of entry provide an effective mechanism for monitoring and inspecting commercial vehicles and drivers to promote and enforce compliance with state and federal regulations. Ports of entry, however, are not considered the most efficient or effective means for Nevada to accomplish its compliance and safety goals in the trucking industry. A comprehensive study of ports of entry was conducted in 2004 by the Nevada Department of Transportation with the Departments of Public Safety, Motor Vehicles, Agriculture, Business and Industry, Taxation, and the Federal Motor Carrier Administration. The study concluded that annual benefits are less than annual costs for either a Nevada-only port of entry or a California/Nevada joint port of entry, making neither port of entry economically justified.

There is no indication that factors related to operating a port of entry in Nevada have significantly changed since the 2004 study was conducted. Therefore, I must conclude that an interim study on ports of entry is unnecessary and redundant.

Because this bill would require an unnecessary and duplicative study to be conducted, I veto it and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

> AN ACT relating to the Legislature; providing for the establishment of Joint Interim Standing Committees of the Legislature; specifying the powers and duties of the Joint Interim Standing Committees; repealing carious statutory committees; assigning certain powers and duties of repealed statutory committees to the Joint Interim Standing Committees; making various other changes relating to interim legislative activity; and providing other matters properly related thereto.

This bill amends existing law to provide for nine Joint Interim Standing Committees of the Legislature, each with an extensive membership component and a budget for travel and per diem expenses. These committees are empowered to review and discuss issues within their jurisdiction, and to call witnesses, prepare reports, and submit proposed legislation to each regular session of the Nevada Legislature. In short, this statutory scheme creates an interim session of the legislative body proper, meeting in joint committees that exactly mirror the regular workings of a legislative session. The people of Nevada have long provided for limited legislative sessions, occurring only once each biennium or at such times of special need as the governor may decide. In addition, Nevada already provides for the Legislative Commission which has the following powers and duties pursuant to NRS 218E.175:

(a) Assist the Legislature in retaining status coordinate with the Executive and Judicial Branches of State Government.

(b) Investigate and inquire into subjects upon which the Legislature may act by the enactment or amendment of statutes, governmental problems, important issues of public policy or questions of statewide interest.

(c) Assure that the most effective use is made of the audit, fiscal, legal and research services and facilities provided by the Legislative Counsel Bureau to the Legislature and its members.

(d) Coordinate and oversee interim studies and other legislative committees meeting in the interim between regular legislative sessions.

This existing framework is adequate to the interim work of Nevada's citizen legislature. Assembly Bill 578 takes Nevada precipitously close to annual sessions of its legislative body, or at the very least to full-time service by its members. Because this bill encroaches upon the Constitutional restrictions imposed by the people of this state in limiting legislative power, I exercise my constitutional grant of authority to veto AB 578 and return it to you without my signature and without my approval.

REMARKS FROM THE FLOOR

Remarks by Assemblymen Munford, Eisen, and Oscarson.

Assemblyman Horne moved that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

Motion carried.

ASSEMBLYMAN MUNFORD:

I want to acknowledge my colleague from District 22 in Henderson for reminding us yesterday of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln. Every time I walk into our Chamber, I always look at that portrait of Lincoln. I reflect on the many contributions he made to the advancement and the freedom of African Americans, especially in terms of the Emancipation Proclamation Act, because that brought a great deal of dignity, respect, and status to black people. I can relate to that almost in a personal way. I had a great-grandmother who was born in 1858. I saw her when she died at 92 years old in Akron, Ohio, when I was 14 years old. I could have asked her a lot of questions, and she could have told me a great deal about our past.

You know, the Emancipation Proclamation Act also gave stimulus and impetus to the Thirteenth, Fourteenth, and Fifteenth Amendments. Those are the real, true freedom amendments because they solidified the status and the position of black people today in this country and of all people, really, in this country, especially the Fourteenth, if you know what the Fourteenth is about. I'm a school teacher, but I'm not going to explain it to you right now. Let me make just a few more comments and then I'll close.

This month is Black History month, declared by a man named Carter Woodson in 1925. President Lincoln's birthday is in February; Frederick Douglass' birthday is in February; one of our oldest organizations, the NAACP, was established in February; and Malcolm X was assassinated on February 21, 1965, so February is a very important month to African Americans and all of us, because we can benefit from the history of not only African Americans, but everyone.

I just want to say thank you for listening. If you do have time in your schedule, go see the movie Lincoln, because there is a real message and a real lesson there. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN EISEN:

In observation of today being Valentine's Day and our thoughts on love, I wanted to share a thought from an American poet known for his commentary on policy and politics who took time to think about love. That thought was, "Among those whom I like or admire, I can find no common denominator, but among those whom I love, I can: All of them make me laugh." So hopefully over the next few months we can share some laughs in this Chamber as well.

ASSEMBLYMAN OSCARSON:

Thank you. In the late 1800s, Valentine's Day cards used to cost up to $35. Automated printing eventually lowered the card costs. Sweethearts, heart-shaped wafer candies which display printed messages, were first created in 1866. The Greeting Card Association estimates that approximately one billion Valentine's cards are sent annually worldwide, making it the second highest card sending holiday behind Christmas.

The name Valentine comes from the Latin word valor, meaning worthy. Consumers spend an average of over $75 on Valentine's Day gifts, the most popular being chocolates, food, wine, and flowers. This one is particularly interesting. Approximately 15 percent of U.S. women will buy themselves flowers for Valentine's Day, but on Valentine's Day, men spend approximately $160 while women spend approximately $80. An average of 110 million roses are delivered on Valentine's Day. To wrap it up, American women say they would rather receive chocolate than flowers on Valentine's Day.

Motion carried.

IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

At 11:56 a.m.

Assemblywoman Kirkpatrick presiding.

Quorum present.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 5 considered.

ASSEMBLYMAN GRADY:

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

As the resolution states, on October 31, 2014, Nevada will celebrate 150 years of statehood. We certainly have come a long way from our rather humble beginning as the 36th state admitted to the Union.

A brief look back in time might be helpful as we celebrate Nevada's past 150 years. It is not true—an absolute myth—that Nevada was made a state in 1864 because our gold and silver was needed by the Union to finance the Civil War. Actually, Nevada's mineral riches already were locked up by the Union, particularly upon the creation on March 2, 1861, of the Nevada Territory. Nevada was a federal territory and a part of the Union for over three years before we became a state.

The real reasons for Nevada's statehood were political, not economic. We really lacked the specific population to become a state, but our residents were excited about the prospect of statehood, and for very different reasons, President Lincoln was also. With key Union victories on the battlefields in 1863 and the first part of 1864, it became obvious to most in the North that the Civil War was winding down. President Lincoln recognized that an additional state might be needed for his reelection in what was shaping up as a tough three-way race for the White House. Statehood for Nevada also would provide another state for ratification of the proposed Thirteenth Amendment to abolish slavery. Further, Nevada was expected to support Lincoln's moderate, rather than radical, plans for reconstructing the South.

Following statehood, Nevada would ride a roller coaster ranging from prosperity to hard times, cycles of "boom and bust," all based on the fortunes of mining. However, even during the good times, Nevada's population remained very small; it was under 100,000 until the late '30s. For over 94 years following our statehood, Nevada was the smallest state in the nation based on population. It wasn't until Alaska's admission as the 49th state on January 3, 1959, that Nevada became the second smallest state.

That was all to change for Nevada. From 1960 through 2010, Nevada was the fastest growing state in the nation. We were to grow from just over 285,000 in 1960 to 2.7 million in 2010, an increase of over 800 percent. Today we are ranked 35th among the states in population and currently have four members in the U.S. House of Representatives.

We have many reasons to be optimistic about the future. We have, hopefully, turned the corner on recovery from the recession. Gaming revenues are looking up, retail sales are up, the value of our homes are increasing over the past years, and visitation to the state continues to grow. Our traditional industry of mining has remained strong in recent years, and construction, again hopefully, is on the rebound. Believe it or not, Nevada's population grew some 58,000 people over the last two years, a reflection of our continued appeal as a state in which to move businesses or individual households.

Nevada is a special and unique state, a place that we call home. Our first 150 years must be remembered, reflected on, and celebrated as we prepare to move forward over the next 150 years. I ask for your support of this important resolution.

Thank you , Madam Speaker.

MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE OF NEVADA
SEVENTY-SEVENTH SESSION, 2013

Governor Sandoval, Madam Speaker, Majority Leader Denis, members of the court.

It is really a pleasure to be back in Carson City and an honor to speak with you. It has been my good fortune to address the Nevada Legislature during 15 joint sessions. Each occasion has been an opportunity to reflect on the unique nature and responsibilities of our state and our State Legislature.

Serving in the Legislature is a blessing, but it can also be a burden. Let me tell you why. The laws of the land are written by the men and women in this Chamber—not by the Governor or judges, who only interpret the laws that you write. The word legislator literally means "bringer of laws." As you craft those laws—whether you're from Gerlach or Las Vegas, Searchlight or Reno, whether you're a Republican or a Democrat—the people of Nevada depend on you. As President Lyndon Johnson said, and I quote, "Many men can make many proposals. Many men can draft many laws. But few have the piercing and humane eye which can see beyond the words to the people that they touch." I pledge to do all I can to support you as you seek to see beyond the words, beyond the proposals, and even beyond the laws you write to see the people that we represent.

The last time I spoke before this body, the state was in the midst of a Great Recession—a recession that hit every state hard but our state the hardest. Thousands of Nevadans had lost their jobs, lost their homes, and many had lost their hope. As the national economy suffered, Nevada tourism bottomed out, and gaming revenue declined across the whole state. The advent of Indian gaming in California affected Reno and the rest of Nevada adversely. And while the Sierra Nevada Corporation, Amazon, and an Apple tech center have brought jobs to the region, northern Nevada families and businesses are still struggling.

In Washoe and Clark Counties, homebuilding dropped and foreclosures spiked. And while home buying has increased, foreclosures are still far too high. Although Nevada's economy is not back to full strength, progress has been made over the last two years.

Now as we emerge from those difficult times, it is crucial that we renew our investments in the future—in education, public safety, and clean energy. These investments will help us prosper in the short term and protect us against another downturn in the long term. Such investments are easy to postpone when times are hard.

Let me share this one example. In 2004, the residents of Clark County decided they needed more police officers on the streets and voted for a small sales tax increase to pay for them. This Legislature provided half the increase in 2005 but told law enforcement to return to ask for the other half. Clark County law enforcement officials have waited seven years to put more cops on their beats, and the people they protect can wait no longer. Putting more police on the streets is vital to ensuring our neighborhoods are safe. It's also vital to ensuring that the more than 40 million people from around the world who visit Las Vegas each year feel secure.

As a world-class tourist destination, we have a responsibility to protect our visitors as we protect our own families. It's time the Legislature met its pledge to grant law enforcement the second half of what the voters already approved. I congratulate Governor Sandoval for respecting the wishes of Clark County voters and supporting this tax increase.

I also applaud Governor Sandoval for his role in our state's efforts to implement the health care reform law. I was pleased I was able to facilitate conversations between the Governor and the White House, paving the way for 78,000 Nevadans who would not otherwise qualify to access affordable health insurance. The Silver State Exchange is used as a model for other states. The tax credits available in the exchanges, coupled with the expansion of Medicaid, will bring an unprecedented level of federal funding to our state, create jobs, and provide care for tens of thousands of Nevadans who are currently living without health insurance.

Nevada takes pride in caring for visitors from across the world, as it should. But it's also crucial that we care for our fellow Nevadans—ensuring the health of all our citizens, especially those who need extra help during these very challenging times. When it comes to entertaining guests, Las Vegas is the gold standard. We have the best casinos, clubs, dining, entertainment, and shopping in the nation—and probably the world.

The city is home to some of the most exciting sporting events, including boxing, rodeos, soccer, and mixed martial arts, which Ross Miller likes, not to mention UNLV basketball. But despite a decade of rumors and several concrete proposals, Las Vegas still doesn't have a major, multi-use arena, the kind of stadium that could host anything from a big concert to a major sporting event. A new arena could be the next frontier for this pioneer town. But to make a top-notch stadium and make it a reality, it will take top-notch cooperation between Clark County stakeholders.

For proof of what just one driven person can do let's take a look at Tony Hsieh and Zappos. Tony revitalized the old City Hall and his investment has spurred new businesses by the score to relocate to downtown Las Vegas. And with the success of the new Smith Center, downtown has changed dramatically. When a community unites behind an idea, marvelous things are possible. I realize there are many hurdles to overcome to turn dreams into a dome—including finding a way to finance such a huge undertaking. Those decisions—how to finance the project and where to locate it—will be made at the local level. But it's time we united around this idea to move southern Nevada's economy forward.

Tourism has always been Nevada's lifeblood—and will continue to be its signature industry—but the recent downturn reinforced the need for Nevada to diversify its economy. To stay competitive, we must invest in the future, and the future begins in the classroom. In his first State of the Union address—long before standardized tests or Races to the Top—President George Washington spoke about the value of education. Here's what President Washington said: "There is nothing which can better deserve your patronage than the promotion of science and literature. Knowledge is in every country the surest basis of public happiness." So much has changed since 1790, but those words are as true today as they were 230 years ago.

Education is not only the key to America's happiness, it is the key to America's competitiveness. Today's students will compete for tomorrow's jobs with peers from neighboring states and far away nations. But while other countries are investing in education, this nation—and Nevada in particular—is lagging.

Since 2008, state and local budget cuts have cost this country more than 300,000 education jobs, including thousands in Nevada. Our largest school district, Clark County, lost more than 2,500 education jobs, including more than 1,000 teaching positions. Washoe County schools lost more than 200 classroom jobs—a 5 percent reduction in staff since the recession began. Nevada can no longer afford to put off investments in our children. If we ever hope to compete with students from Tucson or Burbank—never mind students from Tokyo or Berlin—we must adequately fund education, now, today.

As technology changes rapidly, all the job market changes rapidly also. So do students' educational needs. If America is going to train the next generation of scientists and engineers, it will need more and better-trained science and math teachers. Nevada is no exception. Our students consistently perform below their United States peers in math and science. Nevada teens that go on to college are less likely than their peers across the country to study the STEM fields of science, technology, engineering, and mathematics. Our students are just as bright and just as inquisitive, and our teachers are as talented and dedicated as anyplace.

Landra and I had a conversation with one of our grandchildren, Piper, who goes to school in Clark County. She explained to us what she is doing in math in the third grade; this is math I never learned in high school. Her teachers—and all of Nevada's exceptional teachers—do so much with so little. Imagine what they could achieve if we gave them the resources they need and our children deserve. We ask so much of our teachers, but we don't always provide them the support and resources they need to succeed.

Many students learn statistics or science from teachers who know more about social studies or sonnets. Many of the educators teaching our kids math and science weren't required to even study math and science. Only 1 percent of fourth grade teachers majored in math in college, although every single one of them teaches math every single day. Both teachers and students need more access to role models in the STEM fields. They need more field trips to understand how businesses operate and learn skills that successful workers possess. They need more internship opportunities to build new interest and skills.

Across the country, school districts are looking for creative ways to meet the need for STEM educators. In Wisconsin and New Jersey, it's teachers who are getting an education. Those states provide college-level math and science courses for STEM teachers. Arkansas has recruited 120 science and technology industry professionals to attend a fast-tracked teacher certification program in exchange for three years teaching in high-risk schools. And in half a dozen cities across the country, Math for America—founded in New York City by a brilliant mathematician, Jim Simons—is recruiting math and science graduates to teach in urban schools. The program offers financial incentives and very meaningful professional development to keep those recruits in the classroom, where these teachers are thriving and helping students excel in math and science.

In Nevada, the Desert Research Institute offers free professional development and training for teachers who want to learn about environmental and climate science. DRI has trained 800 teachers from 134 schools in ten Nevada counties. The Institute also sends teachers "green boxes"—hands-on science projects they can use in the classroom, with all the supplies from cotton balls to glue. These successful programs should serve as examples of how K-12 schools can partner with colleges, universities, and, yes, the private industry. But DRI's small but growing program is funded by donations from NV Energy customers. As a state, we shouldn't rely on the kindness of a few to ensure our children succeed. We must invest in creative, large-scale programs that will better prepare teachers and students.

Helping students excel also means ensuring they have the emotional support they need. The events of recent months remind us that many children experience trauma or tragedy at a real tender age. There are 500 children for every one counselor in Nevada schools—500 to 1. Schools need the resources—especially more counselors—to support the kids during their time of need, whether a crisis at home or maybe something goes wrong in school. Investing in youth, supporting their emotional development, and instilling them with knowledge means teachers win. It means our state's economy wins. And most importantly, it means Nevada children win.

President Herbert Hoover called this nation's children "its greatest natural resource." But in Nevada, the next generation isn't the only thing bright and bursting with energy. Nevada is also blessed with some of the world's richest renewable energy resources. Nevada deserts bake in the afternoon sun. Winds whip off the snow-capped mountain peaks for which our state is named. And below the soils of northern Nevada, water heated deep in the Earth bubbles to the surface.

The renewable energy industry has been a bright spot during dark economic times, helping our state attract new businesses and create thousands of jobs that can never be outsourced. For instance, construction continues outside Tonopah on the largest solar power tower project in the entire world. Rising more than 500 feet in the desert, this is a historic investment in technology that will capture the power of Nevada's sunshine, store it in molten salt, and use its heat to generate clean electricity for 75,000 homes. And in a dry lakebed not far from my home in Searchlight, 3.5 million solar panels stretch across more than three miles of desert.

In northern Nevada, Ormat's geothermal power plants provide enough electricity to power every home in Reno, and in Spring Valley near Ely, a successful wind developer has erected enough wind turbines to power 45,000 homes. Nearby, construction continues on a transmission line that will connect the northern and southern Nevada electrical grids for the first time, making it possible to transfer power from where the wind blows the hardest, the sun shines brightest, to where demand for electricity is highest. These successes didn't happen by accident. They are the result of more than a decade of coordination between businesses, utilities, and all levels of government.

The linchpin for this progress is a state law that guarantees a market for Nevada's clean, renewable energy resources. This law, better known as the renewable portfolio standard, requires a minimum percentage of electricity to come from renewable sources. Coupled with federal energy, public lands, and tax policies that strive to even the playing field with fossil fuels, this law has given Nevada an opportunity to take control of its energy future.

Nevada's renewable energy portfolio standard was signed into law by Governor Bob Miller in 1997. It was written by Senator Randolph Townsend, a leading advocate for renewable energy in Nevada. Senator Townsend would no doubt still be serving in the Legislature—and continuing to advocate for renewable energy—if not for the wrong-headed and counterproductive term limit law. In my view, arbitrary term limits purge a part-time legislature of full lifetimes of experience. I urge you to reverse this; I'll help any way I can, publicly, privately—if it helps, I'll stay out of it—but we should do something. I urge you to reverse this, which denies our constituents the right to select their own leaders. Elections are the only term limits Nevada needs.

If Senator Townsend were still in the Legislature today, he would agree it's time to revisit the renewable portfolio standard and update it to match the changed reality of Nevada's energy landscape. The Legislature most recently updated the law in 2009, requiring Nevada utilities to produce 18 percent of their energy from a combination of renewable resources and energy efficiency measures by 2013. By 2025, a quarter of the energy used in Nevada homes and businesses must come from renewable sources, and although the standard has helped vastly increase the percentage of green energy flowing through Nevada's grid, there are problems with the statute. Loopholes allow utilities to evade the spirit of the law. In fact those loopholes are so large, Nevada's major utility could meet the standard without building a single megawatt of new renewable energy for the rest of the decade.

It's time the Legislature made meaningful changes to strengthen the standard. Those changes could be as simple as closing loopholes which eliminate the motivation for utilities to invest in green power, or as robust as increasing the percentage of our power that comes from renewables. We should no longer allow the major utility in Nevada to meet the portfolio standard with energy credits from a Utah hydroelectric dam built in 1896—the same year Utah was admitted to the Union. We should no longer allow them to meet the portfolio standard by handing out energy efficient lightbulbs at Home Depot. Closing these loopholes will strengthen the law and send a powerful signal that Nevada remains committed to kicking our dependence on out-of-state fossil fuels.

Nevada has an opportunity not only to create jobs, but also to create history by becoming completely energy independent. Most states don't have that ability; we do. We have a chance to put Nevadans to work building a smarter transmission grid and solar, wind, and geothermal facilities that will power Nevada and our neighbors and make this state a healthier place to live. In Pahrump, Valley Electric is already proving this possible. Valley Electric recently became the first utility primarily located outside California to join the Golden State's electric grid. This groundbreaking alliance will create a market in California for Nevada renewable energy.

We must prove Nevada is serious about creating a vital Western clean energy grid by developing our state's own market for renewable energy. Strengthening our renewable portfolio standard would be a good start. Over the next two decades, renewable energy technology and generation will become a $7 trillion market in the United States. Nevada has a head start to capture much of that market, but we must stay serious about attracting new investment and creating customers for our renewable power. We shouldn't think of the renewable portfolio standard as a benchmark we have to meet, but as an opportunity we can exploit. The standard isn't a ceiling. It's the minimum we should be doing for Nevada's future. Since God blesses us with sunshine, wind, and hot water powerful enough to light the Las Vegas Strip and brighten The Biggest Little City in the World, we shouldn't take it for granted. As we recognize our state's natural, renewable gifts, we should certainly celebrate the energy and determination of our citizens.

We saw that energy and excitement on display last November. For the first time in our state's history, more than 1 million Nevadans voted—shattering records set in 2008. Statewide, more than 80 percent of all registered voters cast a ballot, the highest rate since 1992. We should be proud of that enthusiasm. By comparison, only 60 percent of eligible voters cast ballots nationwide in 2012. Our high turnout is thanks in part to one of the most modern election systems in the nation—a system that makes it easy for eligible voters to make their voices heard. With two weeks of early voting and simple online registration, Nevada has made voting easy and accessible.

But we can still do more to ensure every eligible Nevadan casts a ballot on Election Day. Do you realize more than 600,000 Nevadans are eligible to vote but not registered to vote? To increase participation, I'm suggesting you pass legislation allowing same-day voter registration in Nevada. Instead of requiring Nevadans to register 30 days before an election, we should allow eligible voters to register on the day they decide to vote, whether that's during early voting or on Election Day.

Eight states currently permit same-day registration. Wisconsin, Maine, and Minnesota have successfully allowed same-day voting since the '70s. California and Connecticut passed same-day voter registration laws just last year. Allowing same-day registration does encourage participation in the democratic process, and it doesn't increase incidents of supposed fraud, a canard repeated by those who would prefer to keep minorities, the poor, and the elderly away from the polls.

In fact, voter fraud is as common as being struck by lightning. In the last eight election cycles, there have been only ten documented cases of voter fraud—ten—not in Nevada, but ten cases in the entire country. The system in place to protect Nevada's ballot boxes is so successful, last year the Election Integrity Task Force arrested a Clark County woman when she attempted to cast ballots at two different polling locations.

Here's what President Franklin Roosevelt said: "Nobody will ever deprive the American people of the right to vote except the American people themselves, and the only way they could do this is by not voting." If that were only true. In several states, legislatures have passed photo identification laws to intimidate eligible voters. Nevada should resist this harmful trend. We shouldn't fix what isn't broken. This session, the Nevada Legislature will consider a number of election reforms, including a photo ID proposal. This proposal is a solution looking for a problem. Any change to our state's voting process should be enacted to encourage voter turnout, not discourage Nevadans from taking part in democracy. Our elections belong to the citizens, and when their voices are heard at the ballot box, we all win. Nevada has no resource more powerful than its people.

Wallace Stegner, the Pulitzer Prize-winning Western novelist and outdoorsman, had Nevada's pioneer spirit in mind when he wrote, "One cannot be pessimistic about the West. This is the native home of hope." I believe Nevada is that native home of hope.

Throughout the last century, that hope attracted people from every corner of the country to our high deserts, alpine lakes, and mountain peaks—sometimes for a visit, but often for a lifetime—just as the Las Vegas Valley's artesian waters and the Carson and Truckee Rivers once attracted pioneers to Nevada.

I am confident that same hope of our pioneer predecessors will carry us forward in this young century—a century that has already been full of challenges, but also successes. We have met the challenges together. But now is not the time to stop striving. It is the time to redouble our efforts to make every Nevada business profitable, every Nevada family prosperous, and every Nevada story positive. The decisions you will make in these legislative chambers will not be easy—I know that—but each new test is another opportunity to make lives safer and more secure for all Nevadans.

Wallace Stegner also urged us to draw strength from our shared history even as we invest in our collective future. Here's what he said, and I quote: "When [the West] fully learns that cooperation, not rugged individualism, is the quality that most characterizes and preserves it, then it will have achieved itself and outlived its origins. Then it has a chance to create a society to match its scenery." So it is up to us, public servants, to follow the wisdom of Wallace Stegner and, through cooperation and coordination, create a society to match Nevada's breathtaking scenery.

Thank you all very much.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law authorizes certain gaming establishments to obtain a license to operate interactive gaming. (NRS 463.021) Section 8 of this bill: (1) adds to the Committee a representative of academia who possesses knowledge of matters related to gaming; (2) authorizes the Governor, as Chair of the Committee, to appoint a subcommittee on gaming education; and (3) specifies the duties of the subcommittee.~~]~~

Existing law requires the ~~[~~Nevada Gaming~~]~~ Commission to establish by regulation that a license to operate interstate interactive gaming does not become effective until: (1) the passage of federal legislation authorizing interactive gaming; or (2) the United States Department of Justice notifies the Commission or the State Gaming Control Board that interactive gaming is permissible under federal law. (NRS 463.750) Section 10 of this bill removes the condition that a license to operate interactive gaming does not become effective until the passage of federal legislation or notice providing that interactive gaming is permissible under federal law. Section 10 also prohibits the issuance of a license to operate interactive gaming for a period of ~~[~~10~~]~~ 5 years after the effective date of this bill for certain entities that, after December 31, 2006, operated interactive gaming involving patrons located in the United States. Finally, section 10 authorizes the Commission to waive such prohibition if the Commission determines that those entities complied with all applicable provisions of federal law or the law of any state when, after December 31, 2006, those entities operated interactive gaming involving patrons located in the United States.

Section 11 of this bill ~~[increases]~~ authorizes the Commission to adopt regulations to increase or decrease the fees for the initial issuance and the renewal of a license for an establishment to operate interactive gaming ~~[.]~~ under certain circumstances. (NRS 463.765)

Sec. 13. This act becomes effective upon passage and approval.

Assemblyman Horne moved the adoption of the amendment.

Remarks by Assemblyman Horne.

Assemblyman Horne requested that his remarks be entered in the Journal.

Motion carried.

ASSEMBLYMAN HORNE:

The amendment basically changes the licensing fee that is in the original bill back to its original base numbers of $500,000 and $250,000 and allows the Nevada Gaming Commission to raise or lower those fees under certain conditions and bring them before the Legislative Commission. It also deletes section 8 of the bill. In addition, it retains an existing provision of NRS regarding a fee or taxation that was proposed to be stricken in the original bill so that a company would not be subjected to double taxation if federal law were to provide for a similar fee or tax.

Amendment adopted.

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

Assemblyman Horne moved that the Assembly dispense with the reprinting of Assembly Bill No. 114.

Motion carried.

GENERAL FILE AND THIRD READING

Assembly Bill No. 114.

Bill read third time.

Remarks by Assemblymen Horne, Wheeler, Spiegel, Duncan, and Ohrenschall.

ASSEMBLYMAN HORNE:

This is a bill that has been worked on for a great deal of time. My involvement in online gaming began last session. This bill is a supplement to the efforts of Senate Bill 258, and today I am happy to stand before you, having presented this bill.

This bill will allow Nevada to continue to be the leader in gaming, and particularly online gaming. I want to thank the Governor for his tremendous leadership and involvement in this. We have worked well together, and we spent a lot of time, not only this short time of session, but also during the interim on the Gaming Policy Committee. What you have before you today is that collaboration.

I mentioned on opening day that it was important to reach across the aisle and across chambers to get good things done for the people of Nevada. I'd like to think that this bill and the efforts that Governor Sandoval and I have made to bring a good bill before you is an example of that very thing. We have seen how we can come together with good legislation and get it done quickly. We're going to pass this, hopefully today, and get it over to the Senate, and they will do the same thing and get it before the Governor to sign. Not only are we showing Nevadans that we can work well together, but we will be showing the nation and the world that Nevada is serious about its gaming and gaming regulations. I urge your support.

ASSEMBLYMAN WHEELER:

Distinguished members of the Nevada State Assembly. I rise today in support of A.B. 114. Since the inception of legalized gaming, Nevada has always led the way in sensible, yet strict regulation. As new technology has entered the gaming arena, Nevada has continued to lead the way. We now have the opportunity to once again show the world that this bipartisan bill will ensure that the great state of Nevada is the true gold standard in gaming. I urge my colleagues to unanimously pass A.B. 114, as your Committee on Judiciary did, and send it on to our upper house with the recommendation that they do the same.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN SPIEGEL:

I, too, rise in support of Assembly Bill 114. On a very personal note, I'd like to share with you something about myself. In 1994, I became the founding chairperson of what later became the Internet industry's public policy committee. We began working on online gaming issues around 1996–1997, and it has been over the past 15-plus years that many people in the industry have looked for ways for there to be legalized online gaming in the United States. I cannot tell you how much it thrills me to be in this house and to be rising in support of this bill, which will keep Nevada at the forefront and take all of those early efforts to their fruition. I urge your support of this bill.

ASSEMBLYMAN DUNCAN:

As a new member of this body, I just want to say that it was encouraging today to see not only my colleague from Assembly District 34 working together with our Governor of this great state, but also I want to commend my colleague from Assembly District 8, who not only chaired a joint hearing today, he did a wonderful job yesterday on another bill, as well. So I'd like to commend him for his efforts for doing that, as well.

I just echo what my colleague from Assembly District 34 said—that we really did work on this in a bipartisan manner. It's really what Nevadans expect and it's something that I think we should all be proud of. We have the opportunity here to blaze the trail in this Internet gaming area. I urge us all to pass this unanimously, just as we did in the Judiciary Committee this morning.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

I rise in support of Assembly Bill 114. Madam Speaker, today in your Judiciary Committee, there was compelling testimony from our Governor, from our Majority Leader, from the Chairman of the Gaming Control Board, from the Chairman of the Gaming Commission, and from industry leaders that this bill has the potential to bring jobs to Nevada and to increase revenue for our treasury. If this legislation does not pass, then I think we might miss the boat and Nevadans will be hurt. There are a lot of commendations going around, and its well-deserved. I think our Majority Leader and the Governor have crossed party lines and worked on a piece of legislation that is truly good for our state. I urge approval.

GENERAL FILE AND THIRD READING

Assembly Bill No. 68.

Bill read third time.

Remarks by Assemblymen Hardy, Ellison, Hickey, Bustamante Adams, and Madam Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN HARDY:

Assembly Bill 68 makes various changes to the distribution of revenue from the Local Government Tax Distribution Account, also known as the Consolidated Tax Distribution, or CTX. These changes were proposed as a result of an interim study conducted during the 2011-2012 interim. Assembly Bill 68 makes various changes to the Consolidated Tax by using a five-year average percentage of change to the Consumer Price Index. It revises the method by which the local government or special district's annual base allocation is calculated, and it modifies the excess distribution formula.

MADAM SPEAKER:

I rise in support of Assembly Bill 68. I urge the support of my colleagues in this room. We worked as an interim committee in a bipartisan fashion—I guess that is the theme for the day—to ensure that the formula was the best policy for the entire state. We took politics out and worked on policy and the rules so that southern Nevada and Washoe County have a formula that works best for them.

This is a very complicated formula. It is based on taxes that are distributed back to our local governments, for which we have three components. I believe this is good for the entire state going forward, and I would urge your support.

ASSEMBLYMAN ELLISON:

I stand before you today and ask you for the support of Assembly Bill 68. For almost a year, the committee has worked hard to craft the working bill draft request that it would later present to Taxation. It was amazing how everyone came together on this bill. This would not have been done without the leadership from our colleague from District 1 of North Las Vegas. I stand and ask for the support of this bill.

ASSEMBLYMAN HICKEY:

I, too, stand in accordance with our colleague from Elko in his support of the hard work. This bill is not a result of the work of this body during this session, but the work of over 40 meetings in the interim that were chaired by the Speaker. They truly were the hardest working committee in the off-season on this, and I think it warrants all of our support.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BUSTAMANTE ADAMS:

I just wanted to let our members know that we did have a joint meeting with our members in the Senate on this, and in the Assembly, it was a unanimous vote out of our committee.

IRA HANSEN
Nevada State Assemblyman

Assemblyman Hansen requested that his remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN HANSEN:

Mrs. Chalmers-Council has quite a following here today. I would like them all to stand so we can recognize them for their friendship with her. I would also like to give a copy of the Proclamation to Maya Marie Cooney, who was a close friend of Mrs. Chalmers-Council for many years. Madge, on behalf of the state of Nevada, I would like to give recognition to Esther Chalmers-Council and to all of her friends.

Madam Speaker, we did leave out one person I would also like to recognize. Before I do so, I would like to state that my daughter, Sarah, is a recent graduate of the University of Southern Nevada, School of Nursing. She is now an RN. My daughter-in-law, Ali Hansen, is also an RN and is currently working on her practical nursing degree.

One person I would like to single out, though, started her nursing career at the age of 12 at Washoe Medical Center as a candy striper in 1956. She then went on to graduate from the Washoe Western School of Practical Nursing at Washoe Medical Center in 1962, where Mrs. Chalmers-Council was her instructor. She then received her associate's degree in 1975 from what is now Truckee Meadows Community College, where she received the highest grade in the state on the Nursing Board's exam. This person then graduated in 1994 from UNR's Orvis School of Nursing with a bachelor's degree. She was named the top senior scholar in 1994. The top in the class! She worked at Washoe Medical Center from 1962 to 1977, and then worked at St. Mary's from 1977 to the present. During her career, she was a supervisor, floor nurse, and lactation consultant, and is currently teaching for the nursing program at Truckee Meadows Community College. She has approximately 130 students and has graduated over 300 students.

She also has 7 great grandchildren, 46 grandchildren, and 8 children. I would like to introduce my mother, Sharon Hansen. Please give her a warm welcome.

Way to go, Mom.

Thank you.

Majority Leader, Nevada State Senate

ASSEMBLYWOMAN MARILYN KIRKPATRICK
Speaker, Nevada State Assembly

SENATOR KELVIN ATKINSON
Nevada State Senate

ASSEMBLYMAN JASON M. FRIERSON
Assistant Majority Leader
Nevada State Assembly

Assemblyman Frierson requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMAN FRIERSON:

I am humbled today to be able to acknowledge Black History Month and to pay homage to those who came before us, from 1966 through today, to provide an opportunity for those of us who are serving, reflecting the various aspects of Nevada's communities. I think it's telling that we have had so many legislators since 1966, both from southern as well as northern Nevada, and I think that it reflects the true spirit of our Legislature.

I certainly appreciate those who I had gotten to know before I ever thought about running for office. I attended hearings to name a school after Senator Bernice Martin Mathews. I went to college and served as an advisor for Senator Maurice Washington's oldest child. Of course, I went to law school with my colleague from Assembly District 34. I sought out tutelage from my colleague from Assembly District 7, and I joined the Legislature with my colleague from Assembly District 6. I believe that Assemblyman Wendell Williams was able to pass racial profiling legislation. I sent him a letter from law school regarding a law review article.

I am honored to be here and privileged to have been part of that legacy, and I think that the face of our Legislature, in reflecting the diversity of our state, is certainly a reflection of those who came before us. I thank you all for joining me in honoring Black History Month and those legislators that came before us, as well as those who are serving today. Thank you very much.

ASSEMBLYMAN HORNE:

I, too, am honored, by this proclamation today. But I first want to say that after looking at those pictures, we need to bring the 'fro back. I think we can work that out by the end of session.

It is truly an honor to serve here. Looking at those pictures, and myself having grown up in Las Vegas on the west side, who didn't know Senator Neal at that time? Assemblyman Morse Arberry and I have roots to Western High School. You saw Reverend Bennett; and his daughter currently serves on the bench in Las Vegas, and I've appeared before her a number of times. As the Assistant Majority Leader stated, he and I not only attended law school together, but we served on the law school's student government together. Now we get to serve together in this legislative body.

I'm proud to say that I'm amongst those pictures up there, and I look forward to more people of color serving in this legislative body. It brings a unique tapestry of experience that Nevada is only going to be better for. Hopefully, one day a lot of you will see my kids grow up since I've been here. And that's really neat; I've had nieces and nephews come through and point out to their friends on their field trips pictures of their uncle, and I think that's a good thing. We're building our history and another line in Nevada. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN NEAL:

I just wanted to make a statement. It has been an interesting saga for me. I'm honored that I've been elected and that my father came before me and he served.

It's important to recognize the contributions of African-American men and women. As you can see from the display, African-American men dominate, but women are making our way through. It is very important to understand that we share a common destiny in the development of public policy and that we cannot stand alone. Our diversity in thought must be cherished and it must be used. Furthermore, the destiny of this state and the social and economic welfare of the African-American and Latino community are linked, not only in this nation, but in the state of Nevada. I hope that as we move forward in the celebration of the African-American history month, we remember that people of color have a lot to offer and a lot to say in terms of public policy in this state. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN MUNFORD:

I stand here as one of the senior members of the Assembly from West Las Vegas. Most of the early representatives were from West Las Vegas—all of them going back to 1966–and that's exactly when I arrived in West Las Vegas. I voted for Woodrow Wilson and I voted for Dina Neal's father, Joe Neal. That is when we first began to realize we had representation, not only in the Assembly but in the Senate. We felt at that time, in West Las Vegas, that we were really going to go forward and things were really going to happen. Some things did happen, and it's because of the efforts of some of those early representatives to the Legislature. Our community has made some improvements. We have elevated ourselves, and things have happened—positive things—but we are looking for more things to happen. We discussed that today in my committee with the Las Vegas representatives here today, including the mayor.

As I say, we're looking at the future now, and I hope that we'll continue to work together in a collaborative effort to try to make things better for not only West Las Vegas, but for all of us and the state of Nevada. Thank you.

MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE OF NEVADA
SEVENTY-SEVENTH SESSION, 2013

Governor Sandoval, Madam Speaker, Mr. President, distinguished members of the Legislature, constitutional officers, and honored guests. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to speak to you on behalf of the Nevada judiciary.

First, let me introduce my colleagues on the Supreme Court: Associate Chief Justice Mark Gibbons, Justice Hardesty, Justice Douglas, and Justice Saitta. Justice Parraguirre is in Las Vegas today attending to a family medical emergency, and Justice Cherry is in San Francisco participating in an indigent defense panel. They asked that I send their regards and their regrets that they could not be here personally. I would also like to introduce the Clerk of the Supreme Court, Tracie Lindeman, and the Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts, Robin Sweet. I count myself privileged to speak on their behalf.

I am also privileged to speak on behalf of the 82 district court judges, 67 justices of the peace, 30 municipal court judges, and the nearly 2,000 Judicial Branch employees who make up our Nevada court system. Together, the Judicial Branch officers and employees work to provide a fair and safe place for resolving family, criminal, civil, and juvenile disputes according to the rule of law. Every day, we strive to fulfill our constitutional obligation to provide timely access to justice; to resolve disputes fairly, impartially, efficiently, and as quickly as budgets and caseloads permit; and to preserve, in the process, community welfare and safety. I am proud to serve with these dedicated public servants, and I thank them for their commitment to the administration of justice in Nevada.

My task today is to report on the work of Nevada's courts over the past biennium. In doing so, I hope to lay the groundwork for a productive dialogue with you concerning the funding and legislation needed to continue to deliver adequate judicial services to the citizens we mutually serve. I will first discuss the work of the trial courts and then turn to that of the Supreme Court. Finally, I will comment on S.J.R. 14, its importance to Nevada, and outline the work it will take to make a court of appeals a reality in our state.

I'd like to frame the discussion with reference to the important work by the American Bar Association [ABA] in 2011. On August 9, 2011, the American Bar Association House of Delegates met to consider the report of the ABA Task Force on Preservation of the Justice System. Led by former Solicitor General Theodore Olson and attorney David Boies, the Task Force reports that:

> . . . over the past few years, the courts of virtually every state have been forced into debilitating combinations of hiring freezes, pay cuts, . . . furloughs, staff layoffs, . . . and outright closures. These reductions in court staff and related resources have come at the very time when the demand for the judicial resolution of economic claims has increased dramatically. . . .
> Since judicial budgets consist almost entirely of personnel costs, the courts do not have the ability simply to postpone expensive items to a more robust economic time; and thus reductions in court funding directly and immediately curtail meaningful access to the justice system.
> When that happens, the costs to society are great. The undue delay or outright denial of effective judicial action results not only in further harm to those who need prompt and fair resolution of their disputes, but also, in many instances, to more overcrowded prisons, threats to public safety, and harm to those, such as broken families, in greatest need of legal support.

These are the direct costs. But there are indirect costs, as well. Indirect costs include the economic loss that follows when businesses and citizens are stymied by delays in resolving civil and family disputes. With their assets tied up in litigation and their financial future uncertain, they cannot invest, hire, or put their resources to other, more productive uses. Using the Los Angeles Superior Court system as an example, the report makes the point that court budget cuts and the consequent reduction in court services involve direct and indirect costs that far exceed the savings these cuts achieve—that they can be penny-wise and pound-foolish, in other words.

In response to this report, the American Bar Association has adopted resolutions that call for action on three fronts. First, state and local legislative bodies must establish a stable, predictable, and adequate funding system for their courts. Second, tradition is not an excuse for waste; today's courts must work smarter to ensure efficient delivery of court services and financial accountability. Third, those who use, fund, and serve the court system must seek out ways to better communicate to political decisionmakers and the public what the court system does and why it matters. I hope by these remarks to contribute to that goal.

The ABA Task Force Report I am referring to is entitled "Crisis in the Courts." It is only 20 pages, yet arguably the most significant study of our nation's courts in years, and I commend it to you.

Let me turn now to the work of Nevada's courts. Broadly, the court's job is to resolve disputes. What that means and why it matters enough to qualify the judiciary as one of the three, coequal branches of government is less clear. Again, quoting former Solicitor General Olson again, here is how he sums it up:

> Every day, thousands and thousands of judges—jurists whose names we never hear, from our highest court to our most local tribunal—resolve controversies, > render justice, and help keep the peace by providing a safe, reliable, efficient and honest dispute resolution process. The pay is modest, the work is frequently quite challenging, and the outcome often controversial. For every winner in these cases, there is a loser. Many disputes are close calls, and the judge's decision is bound to be unpopular with someone.

> But in this country we accept the decisions of judges, even when we disagree with them on the merits, because the process is vastly more important than any individual decision. Our courts are essential to an orderly, lawful society. And a robust and productive economy depends upon a consistent, predictable, evenhanded, and respected rule of law.

Our judiciary in Nevada is small in relation to the number of cases filed annually and the population, both resident and visitor, that we serve.

Nevada has 82 district court judges. These judges sit in ten judicial districts throughout the state and decide civil, criminal, family, and juvenile disputes. They also review arbitration awards, administrative law rulings, and petitions for judicial review arising out of Nevada's foreclosure mediation program.

We have, in addition, 67 justice courts and 30 municipal courts. The justice courts determine whether felony and gross misdemeanor cases have enough evidence to be bound over to the district court for trial. They also hear civil cases involving up to $10,000, small claims, summary evictions, requests for temporary protective orders, and many traffic matters. The municipal courts hear matters that involve violation of city ordinances, including traffic violations within the municipality.

Nine individuals serve as both justices of the peace and municipal court judges. Thus, Nevada has 88 justices of the peace and municipal court judges. The math works out this way: Adding our 82 district court judges and 7 Supreme Court justices to the justices of the peace and municipal court justices, we have 177 judges total in this state, trial and appellate.

The chief judges of Nevada's two biggest judicial districts, Judge Jennifer Togliatti of the Eighth Judicial District Court in Clark County and Judge David Hardy of the Second Judicial District Court in Washoe County, are here today, and I would ask that they stand and be recognized. They, and we, appreciate the 2009 Legislature's support in passing A.B. 64, which added nine district judges in Clark County and one in Washoe County. Elected in November 2010, the new judges took office in January 2011. Their addition enabled the Eighth Judicial District Court in Fiscal Year 2012 to clear more cases—104,363 to be exact—than were filed, 94,740, reversing recent years' backlogging trends. In numerical terms, Clark County's 104,000-plus dispositions in FY 2012 amount to almost 20,000 more case dispositions than the preceding year.

Statewide, in Fiscal Year 2012, Nevada's district, justice, and municipal court judges disposed of almost 365,000 nontraffic matters. This works out to 1,000 nontraffic dispositions per calendar day, an extraordinary number given the small number of judicial officers and Judicial Branch employees that we have.

I am not telling you something new when I say that Nevada has been hit hard by the recession. But demand for court services does not slacken in hard economic times; it intensifies. The changing composition of our trial courts' caseloads shows this clearly. In recent years, increasing numbers of Nevadans have turned to the courts for help with family relationships ruined by unemployment, foreclosures, and substance abuse; with landlord-tenant disputes; and with business disputes made the more urgent by financial need. As an example, the number of family-related cases has steadily trended upwards. In Fiscal Year 2012, family-related cases made up more than half—fully 55 percent—of the statewide district court docket.

Adding to the trial courts' challenges, many citizens who need judicial services today cannot afford a lawyer. At the same time, rising demand and cuts in legal service provider budgets have reduced the availability of free legal help. This leaves citizens to either forego access to the courts altogether or to proceed on a pro se, or self-represented, basis. When parties represent themselves, judges and their staffs must devote additional time to provide the additional guidance a lawyer would, at least to the extent they can do so without compromising their role as unbiased dispute resolvers.

Our trial courts are funded both locally and at the state level. Decreased funding, reduced workforces, mandatory furloughs, and the changing composition of our trial courts' caseloads has forced our trial courts to do more with less than ever before.

Our Nevada trial courts have risen to these challenges through resilience, innovation, and openness to change. This was brought home to me by an exchange I had with the President of the Nevada District Judges Association, Chief Judge Hardy, whom I introduced a moment ago. He submits that the financial challenges of recent years have created opportunities for improvement. In his words, and I quote:

> We who serve in the trenches of justice are constantly innovating to realize better results for the citizens we serve. We are experimenting with calendar efficiencies, technological enhancements, specialized dockets, and alternative dispute resolution. [Nevada's trial court] judges are responding to the changing times by changing the way we do business.

Let me share a few, among many, examples of what Chief Judge Hardy is talking about.

In Clark County, a telecourt program has been put in place so mental health court proceedings can be conducted remotely by video link. Two hospitals in Clark County now have virtual courtrooms, allowing the proceedings to take place by audiovisual transmission rather than face-to-face court appearance. In many cases, this eliminates the need to transport mental health patients, which can be logistically challenging, costly, and potentially dangerous.

Another great example is Nevada's specialty courts. Throughout the state, Nevada's trial courts have been pioneers in the effective use of specialty courts. These courts focus on the root causes of certain kinds of crime—drug and alcohol addiction and mental illness—and they work to rehabilitate, rather than incarcerate, chronic offenders. Often, these programs involve multi-agency collaboration. Not all participants in these programs succeed, but for those who do succeed, a miracle happens, too, by which they come to claim their place as productive members of society.

Take the case of Adam A. He came into the Clark County DUI Court's serious offender program in October of 2009. He had to relocate from Ohio to participate. He came to Las Vegas with the clothes on his back and a wallet with a few dollars in it. He found a place to live in a sober living house. Days later, his wallet was stolen. He started the program pursuant to his plea bargain, nonetheless, and was able to get a job as a food server. He earned enough to pay his living expenses and for public transportation to get to counseling, support group meetings, and court appearances. Adam worked hard in treatment and within a year and a half, he got a job in sales, where he flourished. He became one of the top salesmen in his company, earning an income of more than six figures a year. District Judge Linda Bell, who worked with Adam A., writes "Today Adam has successfully completed the program and is happy, healthy, and sober. He is a productive member of society and . . . grateful for the program, the discipline it took to adhere to the requirements, and the opportunity to truly invest in his life and learn from his wrong choices."

If you have not been to a drug, youthful offender, or habitual offender graduation ceremony, I urge you to do so—the hard work, joy, and pride of accomplishment are radiant and overwhelming. These programs do not just benefit the participants and their families; they benefit the counties and the taxpayers by reducing the prison population and decreasing recidivism rates.

We have also pressed into service Nevada's senior or retired judges. There has been an unusually high number of trial court vacancies the past biennium owing to death or mid-term retirements. We have kept those dockets moving thanks to the help of 22 senior judges. In 2012, the senior judges provided the equivalent coverage of eight full-time district court judges, expediting cases that otherwise would have languished. Our senior judges have also done a yeoman's job covering the rural specialty courts and conducting settlement conferences. As an example, in December of 2011, senior judges engaged in a marathon settlement conference at the Family Court in Clark County. Of the 94 cases heard, 71 were settled, a 75 percent success rate.

Now I would like to talk to you about the Nevada Supreme Court. As you know, the Nevada Constitution provides for a single appellate court: the Supreme Court. Because parties have a right to appellate review, the Supreme Court must—is constitutionally obligated to—hear and decide all direct appeals from all civil and criminal judgments entered by our 82 district court judges. We also consider writs, both original and appellate; administer the Nevada judicial system; supervise the Supreme Court Law Library, which is one of only three significant law libraries in the state; provide appellate review of judicial discipline; oversee the licensure and discipline of lawyers; participate in and oversee the work of important statewide commissions, such as those on access to justice, indigent defense, and juvenile justice reform; and discharge statutorily mandated obligations—a recent example: writing the rules for the foreclosure mediation program (FMP) and setting up FMP operations under the auspices of the Administrative Office of the Courts, as directed by the 2009 Legislature.

Historically, it took a trip to the courthouse to review a court record or hear an oral argument. Information technology has changed that, resulting in much greater public access and visibility. Oral arguments are webcast live on the Supreme Court's website, so anyone with access to a computer can see and hear them in real time, as they occur. The podcasts are stored on the website so they can be reviewed later, conveniently, or copied to DVD.

And the court has gone to electronic filing. Each justice and staff member has immediate access to the briefs and appellate record through the Court's C-Track appellate case management system. We also have a public portal, through which the public can access the briefs, motions, orders, and opinions in any given case. No longer do copies of these materials have to be obtained at $1 a page from the clerk of the court, who in turn had to devote staff to copying jobs. They are available online and can be downloaded and printed for free.

While technology has facilitated the work of the court, it has not changed it fundamentally. Our court, as Nevada's only appellate court, hears and decides three main types of cases. These case types are the same as those Justice Cardozo wrote about in 1921, describing his work on the New York Court of Appeals. First, there are the pure error correction cases—appeals that, in Cardozo's words, "could not, with any semblance of reason, be decided in any way but one. The law and its application are plain." Second, also a type of error correction case, are those in which "the rule of law is certain but the application alone doubtful." In these cases, the "record must be dissected, the narratives of witnesses, more or less incoherent and unintelligible, must be analyzed. . . .Often these cases . . . provoke differences of opinion among judges. But jurisprudence remains untouched, regardless of the outcome in these cases." Finally there are cases "where a decision one way or the other will count for the future, will advance or retard—sometimes much, sometimes little—the development of the law." It is in this third category of cases that we find our work most demanding. We are called on in these cases to interpret unsettled issues of constitutional and statutory law and to add to the body of decisional law by creating and publishing precedential dispositions. These dispositions resolve the individual case, but they also create precedent by which future disputes can be decided or avoided altogether.

The subject matter of our Nevada Supreme Court's published dispositions is varied and complex. Consider, for example, the last biennium. In that biennium, we have published opinions on water rights, tort law, gun rights under the Nevada Constitution and Second Amendment, state taxation, government finance, corporate governance, criminal law in both capital and noncapital cases, evidence, procedure, and election and ballot initiatives.

The Supreme Court's caseload has increased year after year. It took 112 years—from statehood on October 31, 1864, until August 12, 1977—for the first 10,000 cases to be filed in the Nevada Supreme Court. Over the next 30 years, 40,000 more cases were filed; 10,000 of them were filed between 2002 and 2007. The 60,000th case was filed on January 9, 2012.

In 2012 alone, 2,500 cases were filed in our court. This works out to almost 365 cases per justice per year. Since we sit in panels of three or seven, in reality that number is at least three times higher than that, working out to three cases per justice per day, day in and day out, throughout the year. This is one of the highest—perhaps the highest—caseloads of mandatory review cases per justice in the country.

The court is doing what it can to manage its caseload. We have a mandatory settlement program which applies to most civil appeals. In many error correction cases, we utilize staff attorneys to present recommended dispositions to three-justice panels. Despite these measures, the number of published dispositions, as a percentage of the total docket, has fallen and will likely continue to fall. It is quicker to write a memorandum disposition briefly explaining to the parties why one side lost and one side won than to author a published disposition. In 2012, filings exceeded the dispositions and will likely continue to do so. Delayed dispositions and lack of precedent by which citizens can predict outcomes and regulate their affairs are the result. This hurts not only citizens whose cases are delayed, but Nevada's nascent economic recovery as well. In 2012 the U.S. Chamber of Commerce reported that more than two-thirds—70 percent—of the counsel and senior executives surveyed stated that the quality of a state's judicial system is an important factor in deciding where to locate and where to do business.

Which brings me to S.J.R. 14. If passed by you this session and approved by the voters in 2014, S.J.R. 14 would amend the Nevada Constitution to provide for a court of appeals. My colleague, Justice Hardesty, and I took great heart in the Senate Judiciary Committee unanimously approving this measure as its first order of business. We thank the committee and its chair, and we also thank the Governor, whose office attended the Senate Judiciary hearing to express his wholehearted support for this measure.

The principal, perhaps only, argument I have heard against S.J.R. 14 is that a similar ballot measure did not pass statewide in 2010. To this criticism, I offer three responses. First, regardless of criticism, it would be irresponsible of me and my colleagues on the court not to report to you, the Nevada Legislature and to our citizens, just how serious a problem the court's growing caseload and backlog pose to individual litigants, small and large businesses, and the state as a whole. Second, Nevada's demographics are changing, as the poll released earlier this week by the Retail Association of Nevada shows. That poll was conducted by Glen Bolger, a very respected polling firm, and it shows that today's Nevadans, by a margin of 48 percent to 42 percent, favor amending the Constitution to provide for a court of appeals. In other words, attitudes have changed. Third, we can and must do a better job explaining the court of appeals to the voters—that it would speed up dispositions, not delay them, because the error correction cases assigned to the court of appeals, the first category of cases I alluded to a moment ago, will stop there, at the court of appeals. And we also need to do a better job of acquainting the voters with the push-down model the court of appeals would follow. Under this model, cases would be filed centrally in a clerk's office and either kept in the Supreme Court or pushed down to the court of appeals, depending on the category into which they fall. As a result, there are few added costs beyond the three court of appeals judges and their chambers staff. Just as adding district court judges helped expedite case resolution in Clark County, adding appellate judges will help expedite the appeal process.

As the chair of the Senate Judiciary Committee said, the key to S.J.R. 14's success is "for us to get behind it once it is on the ballot and make sure that there is a united voice explaining to the citizens of Nevada that this matter is critical. Nevada is at a turning point where voters are starting to realize that we are no longer that little state that we all grew up in. We have to move into the twenty-first century, and S.J.R. 14 will be a major part of that." Thank you, Senator.

Standing before you this morning, with Lincoln's portrait at my back, it is impossible not to feel the press of history, to imagine the footfalls of those who came before and will follow us. Next year marks Nevada's 150th birthday, its sesquicentennial. To put time in perspective, our Constitution was adopted, and Nevada's judiciary established, just months before Lincoln was assassinated. History will not long remember most of us, perhaps not even any of us. But it will judge us by the legacy we leave. We in the judiciary deeply appreciate the cooperation we have historically enjoyed with our Legislative and Executive Branch partners, and we hope that, together, we make positive, lasting contributions to Nevada's future in the remaining weeks of this session.

Thank you and God speed.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN BENITEZ-THOMPSON:

I had the distinct honor, earlier this morning in my office, to present a proclamation to the two guests I have here today, Ms. Patty Dalton and Mr. Jim Snelling. I wanted to read just a couple of pieces from the proclamation so that you understand the significance of why my guests are here today:

> WHEREAS, Kenneth William Dalton was born in Sioux City, Iowa, on August 1, 1946, to Donald and Norma Dalton; and
> WHEREAS, Ken began his coaching career at Archbishop Mitty High School in San Jose, California, before moving to North Tahoe High School, staying there until 1982 when he . . .

started the football program at the newly opened Robert McQueen High School. Now, this is where you sports enthusiasts really need to listen:

> WHEREAS, In the course of his coaching career, Ken amassed over 300 victories, including 6 Nevada State Championships, 11 regional titles, 5 undefeated seasons, and a .794 career win percentage; and
> WHEREAS, Ken is survived by his wife of 44 years, Patty Dalton, daughter Jennifer Sees and husband Eric, daughter Amy Carter and her husband Cale, son Matt Dalton and his wife Tawney, grandchildren Emma and Samantha Sees and Dalton and Cooper Carter, and his sister Marilyn Utterback; and,
> WHEREAS, With the passing of Coach Kenneth Dalton in Reno on January 3, 2013, Nevada lost one of its greatest teachers and coaches; now therefore, be it
> PROCLAIMED, that the members of the 77th Session of the Nevada Legislature note with admiration the awe-inspiring life of Mr. Ken Dalton, teacher and mentor.

We have his spouse, Patty, here and one of his coaches with us. It was a pleasure for me, as a McQueen Lancer alumnae, to have the ability to recognize the hard work and the service that her husband gave as an educator and coach. Please make them feel welcome.

All present except Assemblyman Brooks, who was excused.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Bruce Henderson.

Lord, it's a historical day. The history of our state is all around us. We are grateful for these hallowed chambers and those who have gone before us serving the state of Nevada. In just a moment, as we pledge allegiance to our flag, we will be reminded that we are "One nation under God." The Psalmist once wrote, "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."

Father, may it be so.

AMEN.

Pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

Bill ordered transmitted to the Senate.

Assembly Bill No. 12.

Bill read third time.

Remarks by Assemblyman Ohrenschall.

Assembly Bill 12 removes a provision requiring an employee to provide notice to his or her employer before filing a complaint with the Division of Industrial Relations of the Department of Business and Industry regarding retaliatory action by the employer.

Madam Speaker, in your Commerce and Labor Committee, there was extensive testimony on this bill. This will bring us into compliance with standards that are recommended in the Whistleblower [Investigations] Manual, which is a federal manual. Furthermore, there seemed to be some misunderstanding during the hearing. This does not keep an employer in the dark; the complaint as to a safety or health concern has already been made by the employee. This chapter has to do with if the employee feels that there has been retaliatory action taken against him because of that complaint.

Thank you, Madam Speaker. I urge everyone's support.

Roll call on Assembly Bill No. 12:

YEAS—41.

NAYS—None.

EXCUSED—Brooks.

Assembly Bill No. 12 having received a constitutional majority, Madam Speaker declared it passed.

Bill ordered transmitted to the Senate.

REMARKS FROM THE FLOOR

Assemblyman Horne moved that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

Motion carried.

FORMER NEVADA STATE ARCHIVIST GUY ROCHA:

I am honored to continue this tradition dating back to 2003 when I first spoke to the Assembly members as State Archivist in this Chamber. I want to thank Chief Clerk Susan Furlong. She has been very helpful in preparing my remarks.

I retired as State Archivist over four years ago after working for the state of Nevada for 32 years. I'm much younger than I look. I hope you think so; I think so. I observe there are only three members of the Assembly today who witnessed my inaugural presentation ten years ago. I'm making that statement to talk about longevity, continuity, and the kind of dynamics that I see in our Legislature today versus the days when people served 30 and 40 years.

Now in 1969 when the last floor session of the Nevada Assembly met here, after meeting for virtually 100 years in the historic State Capitol, I was preparing to graduate from Edward W. Clark High School in Las Vegas and would soon be attending Syracuse University in New York on a wrestling scholarship. I want to recognize one of my high school teachers, Assemblyman Harvey Munford. Thanks again, Harvey, for all you did for me. I should also recognize my elementary school and junior high school cohort, Assemblywoman Marilyn Dondero Loop.

Long-time Assembly Speaker Joe Dini—36 years of service—and a great friend to the State Archives, retired from the State Assembly in 2001 and was the last Assembly member to serve in the 1969 Session in this Chamber. Conspicuously, only 15 Assembly members today have three or more sessions of legislative experience.

I also note, according to the 2013 [Nevada] Legislative Manual, 11 Assembly members weren't born yet when the Assembly last met here.

The Nevada Legislative Building, along with the Arizona and North Carolina legislative buildings, are the only three freestanding legislative buildings in the nation, and all enjoy commodious surroundings with the latest in technology.

By dictionary definition, a capitol building is where the legislature meets. Carson City has had four capitols: the Warm Springs Hotel, where the 1861 Territorial Legislature met, which was later the Nevada Territorial and State Prison that has just been closed; the first Ormsby County Courthouse, before the one across the street at the southwest corner of Musser and Carson Streets, where the Territorial and State Legislatures met on the second floor from 1862 until 1869, as well as the two constitutional conventions that were held in 1863 and 1864; this building, now more properly called the old or historic State Capitol, where the Legislature did business from 1871 until 1969; and since 1971, the current state capitol where the Legislature meets is known as the Legislative Building. The state of Nevada refers to the many state buildings in downtown Carson City as the Capitol Complex. I'm just defining very closely that technically, this is the state capitol today for the Assembly, but where you meet, according to the definition in the dictionary, that is the state capitol.

As you know, today there are 42 members of the Assembly, 41 apparently in this room. Can you imagine 53 members of the Assembly in 1913 squeezed into these Chambers "cheek by jowl" before it was expanded to its current size in 1915? Half this room—53 people in it. I hope you enjoy those offices over there. So half the size, 53 members, the desks served as their offices. Imagine again how the respective committees handled their business without committee rooms—very differently.

Would you believe the remodel bill to expand the wings of the Capitol in 1915 was lost on Third Reading in the Assembly and was passed only after a motion was made to reconsider and several more days of argument over the cost? You can imagine that. This is Nevada.

We are fortunate to be able to conduct this floor session in the old Assembly Chambers today. In 1955, it was agreed that the State Capitol be torn down and four so-called modern buildings be constructed on the Capitol grounds to conduct the state's business. With the completion of the Blasdel Building next door, the 1957 Legislature decided no more modern, arguably ugly and cheap buildings like the Blasdel Building be constructed and that the State Capitol should be saved for posterity. Could you imagine four of those? One was enough to deal with in my 32 years.

The Capitol sustained a major seismic retrofit and renovation in the late 1970s and early 1980s. The tin-coated steel cupola was replaced with a lightweight fiberglass one. Contrary to popular lore that the dome was made of silver, the dome was never made of silver. Imagine the state of Nevada paying for something as expensive as a silver dome. I don't think so. We'd like to believe so, but we didn't do it.

Thank goodness for historic preservation and archival records used for research; we are once again here to do the state's legislative business and celebrate Nevada's colorful history.

Speaking of political history, I would be remiss if I didn't share with you the names of the members of the Assembly who served in this Chamber and went on to serve as governors and members of Congress.

Governors of Nevada who served in the Assembly and sat in the old Assembly Chambers include Fred B. Balzar, Esmeralda County, 1905; Richard Kirman, Ormsby County, previous to Carson City, 1899, who was elected to the Assembly at the tender age of 21 and later served as Reno mayor in his twenties; Charles H. Russell, White Pine County, 1935-1939; and Richard H. Bryan, Clark County, who served his freshman term in 1969.

Nevada members of the U.S. House of Representatives who served in the Assembly and sat in these Chambers include Thomas Wren, Eureka County, 1875. He sponsored ground-breaking legislation in Nevada that required the state to pay for legal counsel for the indigent to address U.S. Sixth Amendment and Nevada constitutional provisions for right to counsel—very progressive at the time. Clarence Dunn Van Duzer, Humboldt County, 1901, who served as Speaker and later, thanks to congressional immunity, escaped being arrested on the U.S. Capitol grounds on his last day in office in 1905 for bilking investors in wildcat mining schemes. Charles L. Richards, Nye County, 1919; Berkeley Bunker, Clark County, 1937-1939, who served as Speaker in 1939; Charles H. Russell, White Pine County, 1935-1939; Walter S. Baring, Washoe County, 1937; and Harry Mason Reid, Clark County in his freshman term in 1969.

Nevada U.S. Senators who served in the Assembly and sat in the old Assembly Chambers included George S. Nixon, Humboldt County, 1891, for whom the community of Nixon on the Pyramid Lake Reservation is named; William A. Massey, Elko County, 1893; Charles B. Henderson, Elko County, 1905, for whom the city of Henderson is named; Patrick A. McCarran, Washoe County, 1903, the namesake of Las Vegas' International Airport—U.S. Sen. Majority Leader Harry Reid wants to drop McCarran's name from the airport and he also wants that statue out of [National] Statuary Hall; Berkeley L. Bunker, Clark County, 1937-1939; Ernest S. Brown, Washoe County, 1933; the Honorable Harry M. Reid, Clark County, 1969; and Richard H. Bryan, Clark County, 1969.

There have also been two other U.S. Senators of note that spoke in this Chamber during 1960, the only annual session in modern Nevada history, when the state's population was a mere 285,000 residents.

The two most prominent Senators running for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. President spoke to a joint session in this Chamber. They were John Fitzgerald Kennedy of Massachusetts, on February 1, 1960, and Hubert Heratio Humphrey of Minnesota, on February 9, 1960. Vice President Richard Milhous Nixon, running for the Republican presidential nomination, was also invited to speak to the Legislature. However, he sent his regrets that he could not accommodate another area engagement after recently flying into Reno with Second Lady Patricia Nixon, a native of Ely, to preside over the opening of the Squaw Valley Winter Olympics on February 18, 1960.

In closing, I want to share with you the story behind the 1895 statute, now NRS 331.190, which I know you all know, which prohibits the sale, gift, or disposal of liquor in the State Capitol building.

Prior to this law being passed, the most lucrative concession in Carson City was running the bar, or "the well" as it was commonly known, in the Capitol during the legislative session. Prodigious amounts of alcohol were consumed during the course of the legislative process, and some legislators were known to carry guns.

Reformers were concerned about the example set for Nevadans and apparently the quality of the legislation produced during the sessions. In 1893, Senator John Forbes of Esmeralda County introduced Senate Bill 14, "An act to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in the state capitol." Violation of the proposed law was a misdemeanor and included a fine not to exceed $100 and/or imprisonment not to exceed 50 days. The bill easily passed the Senate with a vote of 11 yeas and 2 nays. However, the Assembly, in this Chamber and presumably with some of its members under the influence, killed the anti-well bill by a vote of 16 against and 13 for. Undaunted, the reformers returned to fight another day.

In 1895, Assemblyman J. I. Wilson of Lyon County introduced Assembly Bill 14, "An act to prohibit the sale of ardent spirits within the Capitol building of the State of Nevada." The misdemeanor penalty associated with the proposed legislation included a fine of not less than $100 and not exceeding $500 or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than one month and not exceeding six months.

The bill received a "do pass" from the Assembly Committee on Public Morals, and a petition from the Women's Christian Temperance Union, who were praying for the passage of Assembly Bill 14, was presented and read on February 5. However, the bill lost by a tie vote. Assemblyman S. L. McNaughten of Esmeralda County gave notice that on the next legislative day he would move a reconsideration of the vote.

The Assembly voted to reconsider the bill on February 6 and after much parliamentary maneuvering—an amendment to the bill proposed by J. A. Conboie of Storey County—Assembly Bill 14 passed the Assembly on February 8 by a vote of 26 to 3 and 1 absent.

Annie Hudnall Martin, pioneer owner and editor of the Carson City News, in 1895 wrote:

> McNaughten moved a reconsideration of the vote by which the "anti well" bill was lost the preceding day. He did not pose as a prohibitionist but urged the passage of this bill for the benefit of the rising generation and in the interest of good morals and decency and all that was respectable and commendable. The motion to reconsider was carried by a vote of 16 to 11. When the bill came up for the final vote, Constant moved for indefinite postponement. Lost. The motion to make the bill a specific order for Monday was lost. Conboie moved to amend by having the bill take effect after April 1, 1895. Amendment adopted and the whole proceeding thus turned into a farce.

The Senate easily passed the bill, and Governor John E. Jones signed it. The Women's Christian Temperance Union's prayers were answered.

The 1895 Legislature, because of the amendment, could spend the rest of the session drinking, and beginning in 1897, legislators were compelled to walk across the street to patronize Carson City's bars and saloons to do their drinking. And it has never changed.

Now you know the story as to why we are not drinking booze in the old Assembly Chambers today. Here is to a memorable day in the history of Nevada.

Thank you and my best in the 2013 Legislative Session.

Assembly called to order at 11:44 a.m.

Madam Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present except Assemblyman Brooks, who was excused.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Bruce Henderson.

Well, Lord, this week we've had 4-H Day and Canada Day. I have also led prayers this session for United Way Day and Nurses' Day. I am told that tomorrow is special, too, but I've never led a prayer for Indian Taco Day.

It reminds me, though Lord, of the great diversity in our state. We thank You for that. And I echo the words our Lord prayed when He asked that we all be one, as You and He are one. We pray, Lord, for such unity even in the midst of our diversity.

I pray in His name.

AMEN.

Pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

Assembly Bill No. 89.

Bill read third time.

Remarks by Assemblyman Bobzien.

ASSEMBLYMAN BOBZIEN:

Assembly Bill 89 authorizes the formation of benefit corporations. A benefit corporation is a close corporation, nonprofit cooperative corporation, private corporation, or professional association that elects to be subject to the laws regarding benefit corporations. The measure also allows an existing domestic corporation to become a benefit corporation by amending its articles of incorporation.

The bill also requires a benefit corporation to have as its purpose the creation of general public benefit, and the measure deems the creation of such benefits in the corporation's best interests. The bill requires the board of directors to prepare an annual report indicating whether the corporation failed in any material respect to pursue its purpose, and it authorizes the corporation or another person authorized by the articles of incorporation to initiate a benefit enforcement proceeding in court for any failure. However, the bill provides that the corporation is not liable for any money damages for such a failure.

Assembly Bill 115 makes changes to the written statement that a peace officer investigating an act of domestic violence must provide to a suspected victim. The bill adds language to the written statement regarding an animal owned or kept by the suspected victim, the person who committed or threatened the act of domestic violence, or the minor child of either such person. The additional language in the written statement notifies the suspected victim that he or she may seek a court order for the protection of the animal; the protective order may require the offender to stop injuring, taking possession of, or threatening the animal; and the court may issue future protective orders requiring compliance with arrangements for care or possession of the animal.

Assembly Bill No. 127.

Bill read third time.

Remarks by Assemblyman Ohrenschall.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

I rise in support of Assembly Bill 127. The bill authorizes the Nevada Gaming Commission to adopt a seal for its use in identifying various licenses related to interactive gaming. The bill makes unauthorized use of the seal a misdemeanor, except for circumstances in which a person fraudulently counterfeits or forges and makes use of a seal, which then would be a category D felony. This measure also makes a person convicted of unauthorized use of the seal liable for a $5,000 civil penalty for each violation, which is to be remitted to the Gaming Commission.

Madam Speaker, this is just a piece of the framework of all the hard work that our Majority Leader, the chairman of Judiciary, you, and the Governor put together in terms of trying to keep Nevada at the forefront of this great new industry. Assembly Bill 127 will help make sure that our Gaming Control Board can police it the way it should be policed. I urge everyone's support.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 1.

Resolution read third time.

Remarks by Assemblymen Aizley and Ohrenschall.

ASSEMBLYMAN AIZLEY:

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 1 recognizes the Upper Las Vegas Wash as a unique and nationally important paleontological, cultural, and biological site. The resolution expresses legislative support for designating the Wash as a national monument in order to conserve, protect, interpret, and enhance the site's resources for the benefit of present and future generations.

The Wash is very unique, even though that is grammatically incorrect to say. It is unique. We found more than 10,000 fossils in the area when the power company constructed a power line through there. These relics are stored in San Bernardino because we do not have the appropriate facilities for storage. It is hoped that this will become a very important tourist attraction and benefit the entire state. La Brea Tar Pits is an example. Nevada and Arizona have national monuments that attract many visitors, so I would urge the support for this national monument. It is located on the north side of Las Vegas, the Upper Las Vegas Wash. Many of you may be familiar with other places in the nearby area. There is the Wildlife Refuge, the Ice Age Park, the Floyd Lamb State Park, Tule Springs, and the Gilcrease Bird Sanctuary, all of which have had fossils discovered in them. The University of Nevada, Las Vegas, has had a recent student receive a PhD in digging and finding sites and locating, I believe, what's called a dire wolf. Anyway, I would urge your support on this.

It might have been more appropriate to introduce it yesterday when we were going over the history of Nevada. This certainly dates the history quite a bit before what we were talking about, but I remember when the glaciers melted. I urge your support.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

I also rise in support of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 1. The Lower Las Vegas Wash runs through my district, and Clark County has established a wetlands park down there. It is very popular. Families come to see wildlife. I just think this will be a great project, so I wanted to remind everybody that monuments matter. I urge your support.

Roll call on Assembly Joint Resolution No. 1:

NAYS—Ellison.

EXCUSED—Brooks.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 1 having received a constitutional majority, Madam Speaker declared it passed.

Resolution ordered transmitted to the Senate.

Father,

I have also noticed on our north wall, a copy of the Bible. It seems both appropriate and symbolic that it is in our presence, for it, too, promises us a new and vibrant life. Thank You.

The members of the Nevada Legislature extend our deepest sympathy to the families of Marine Corporal Jon-Luke Bateman of Pahrump, Army Sergeant Ken K. Hermogino of Henderson, and Army Sergeant Timothy Sayne of Reno. These young men are fellow Nevadans who heeded the call to duty and gave the ultimate, their lives, to protect what so many of us take for granted—our freedom. They are all truly our heroes, and we honor their service and their memory.

ASSEMBLYMAN ELLIOT ANDERSON:

I rise in support of this resolution. This is now the third session that I have had the opportunity to see this, twice in the Legislature and once when I was here interning in this body, and each and every time is never easy. If there is one saving grace, it is that the list keeps getting shorter. For each and every person that we lose, it is very, very difficult for many of us. I thought that we would be remiss if we did not mention the incident that happened yesterday in Hawthorne. It is important to remember that even as these lists keep getting shorter, the military remains a dangerous place, even in peace time. It is incumbent on us, even as the headlines stop dropping, that we remember the military are out there every day putting themselves at risk, as are those who are returning from service. Madam Speaker, thank you, and thank you to the members of this body who are considering supporting this resolution.

Resolution adopted.

Assemblyman Grady moved that all rules be suspended and that Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 4 be immediately transmitted to the Senate.

GENERAL FILE AND THIRD READING

Assembly Bill No. 111.

Bill read third time.

Remarks by Assemblyman Kirner.

ASSEMBLYMAN KIRNER:

Assembly Bill 111 requires that special license plates for disabled veterans be inscribed with the international symbol of access.

Madam Speaker and colleagues, this bill authorizes the addition of the universally recognized handicapped symbol to our Nevada disabled veteran license plates. Holders of these plates must be 100 percent service-connected disabled, as rated by the Veterans' Department. Our veterans have experienced harsh treatment from our neighbors to the West, including parking tickets of up to a thousand dollars for parking in handicapped spaces, simply because they do not display the universally recognized handicapped symbol on their license plates. This bill does not ask for a new plate, but for a simple redesign. The bill was unanimously voted "do pass" in the committee, and now I am asking you to unanimously send this bill to the Senate, demonstrating our support for those service veterans and members who, through honorable service, are now 100 percent disabled.

I have the privilege of serving on the board of the Nevada Youth Legislature, which is a brain child of former Senator Valerie Wiener. It was established in 2007. There are 21 members of the Nevada Youth Legislature. They are appointed by each of the Nevada State Senators. Representative Amodei delivered his message as follows:

MESSAGE TO THE LEGISLATURE OF NEVADA

SEVENTY-SEVENTH SESSION, 2013

Thank you, Madam Speaker. For those of you that leave the way I usually left at this point, please feel free to do so.

Madam Speaker, Mr. President, Chief Clerk, Secretary of the Senate, Governor, Judge. I've just been in time-out in the Speaker's office for a while, and I haven't been in time-out in the Speaker's office since 2003. It was a bit of an intimidating thing. So thank you all for coming.

I've got to tell you, it's fairly embarrassing to be here to give one of these talks which I routinely skipped for the majority of my legislative career. I'm sure it comes as no secret what my plan was. They always brought the person in through that door, so I sat in the empty desk up there with my picture— it doesn't get better when it's bigger, does it? I just slipped right out that door. I was very bipartisan; I left for the Democrats and Republicans alike, so I was never picking on anybody.

First of all, thank you for your kind words and your remembrances of my mother. That means a lot, and I don't know if I'll ever be able to repay you. I can assure you that you've got an overweight left-hander in Carson City Who has your back if you ever need anything.

You don't need to get too comfortable because I'm not a total hypocrite; I'm not going to keep you here very long for this. So you can time Heller and see if he or Reid went longer or Horsford or Titus, but we're moving and getting out of here.

As the only member of the delegation having served in both houses, I look up there and see the Eisen seat, which was my seat when I was here and where they put the troublemakers in the back row on that side–so I hope you're upholding the tradition—and then think about going to the Senate for 12 years with the rookie class of Maggie Carlton and Terry Care and myself. There's a rumor out that Maggie Carlton is chairing some fairly important committee in the Assembly. You know, it's amazing what you can do without a high school education. The both of us are just doing great, aren't we, Madam Chair?

Of course, I remember that living over my back fence was now—Majority Leader Horne and—I'm having a hard time with this—Senator Atkinson? How are you doing, baby? I just got to do this because I think, no matter what kind of shape those of you from out of the Carson City area keep your bedrooms in—and even if there's a picture of how you keep house while you're here during the legislative session in the paper—you can still continue to be reelected and prosper and succeed in the Nevada Legislature. So go back to—I don't know if it was the Nevada Appeal or the Reno Gazette-Journal—but these guys let a photographer into their house, and they took pictures. Mo, keep an eye on him. I hope someone is keeping his picture appointments.

One of the reasons I used to skip this is that I really didn't need somebody from the federal delegation coming in and telling me what to do. Thanks a lot, but come walk in my shoes; come feel my pain, that sort of stuff. I've just got a couple things I want to share with you. One is—and it's hard to do while you're doing it, and I know I didn't do it—value your process. Value your process. For as much as all of the pundits and the folks that get paid to write and blog and Twitter and tweeter and whatever all that other stuff is. The fact that you have a finite time limit and when you leave, despite whatever fights you engaged in, you have a balanced budget; and the fact that you have the intimacy with your colleagues that you do in this process, is something you should value. I think it allows a state like ours to get the work done, with asterisks, in our procedure and our process. I can tell you that in reflecting on my time here in terms of the work done in committee and on the floor with the issues, the depth that is brought to bear in the Nevada Legislature on the north and south sides of the building has, most days, much more depth than what I experience in another place about 2,500 miles east of here. I know that it's going to be hard to do at times, but please take that for what it's worth.

I don't have to tell any of you that our state is 86 percent owned by the federal government, so whether you are talking about economic development, natural resources, or the tax base, that is a challenge that no other state in the lower 48 faces. Every time we want to do something—whether you agree or not—that involves land use or resources, we are coordinating with someone in the federal government for the most part. Governor, hats off to your administration and your folks, the Leo Drozdoffs, the Colleen Crippses, the Jason Kings, the folks that work in resources in the state—phenomenal resources. While I didn't always agree with them, they do a great job, and their credibility is outstanding.

I commit to you that as long as I am there, we will continue to do everything in our power every day, in an oversight sense, to make sure that the input from the state level, the county level, and the community level on the issues that these people deal with is something that is taken into account. We have several pieces of legislation that we are going to try to do more than take it into account—say that if you haven't got the association of counties on board with you or the state administrative folks, then your decision doesn't stand. Now I'm sure there won't be any opposition to that in a town like Washington, D.C., but you know what? We're going to have the conversation and we're going to start pushing it. We're also going to push for more federal land to go through an auction process that is similar in many ways to the Southern Nevada Public Lands Management Act that we had great success with so that we can return jurisdiction over planning and zoning in our urban and city areas to the people who are elected in Nevada to deal with those issues. We're not going to tell you what decision to make—just going to say it's our decision and that it should be a decision that is taken in Nevada.

I can tell you that each and every day that we wake up, if the federal government is trying to take control of ground water in Nevada we will win that battle or they will be carrying us out on our shield if we lose it. Absolutely, positively, the biggest lever we've got—jealously guard it, please—we ought to be making those decisions, and that's our best lever.

Finally, I want to say this: We are a resource. This is a service business, just like yours, and I hope you will never wake up on the day where somebody says, "Here's what Amodei's office is trying to tell us what to do." That is not our place. Our place is to make the federal government as responsible to the people of Nevada as possible and to return as much of the decision making process over resources and land use decisions to people in Nevada, and that's what we're going to do. So we're here to help you.

I'm looking forward to working with Steven Horsford—two of us on the Natural Resources Committee; Dina Titus—two of us on the Veterans' Affairs Committee. We occupy some unique space in those committees with two members from a small western state, so we are looking forward to the ability to do something.

I want to say again thank you very much. I am sorry for keeping you as long as I did. Governor, I hope I didn't go too far over the agreed time.

You're almost at the halfway point, so I'll look forward to coming back and wandering around the building, although I was told to wait, Madam Speaker, in your conference room. I said, "I was in time-out in the Speaker's office before I came in here. I haven't been in time-out in the Speaker's office since the 2003 Session, so it's a little bit humbling." And then when you see some people that you know when you walk around the building and you're flanked by the Legislative Police, they're asking, "So are you the next one that's under arrest for something to do with whatever?" I said, "No, it's not like the old days." I think I stole everything I wanted out of the building when I was here as an officeholder. Check my pockets or whatever. But it's nice to come home. It's nice to see those new and not so new. I'm learning not to use the word old, Maggie, so please make a note of that.

Thank you very much for your courtesies and good luck in the rest of it. I look forward to working with you all.

Remarks by Assemblyman Bobzien.

ASSEMBLYMAN BOBZIEN:

Assembly Bill 181 makes it unlawful for an employer to require an employee or prospective employee to disclose a user name, password, or any other information that provides access to the person's social media account. It also prohibits an employer from discharging, disciplining, or discriminating against an employee or prospective employee who refuses to disclose this information. The bill expressly allows an employer to require disclosure of such information for the purpose of accessing the employer's own internal computer or information system. The bill also prohibits an employer from requiring employees and applicants to provide a consumer credit report for the purposes of hiring, promotion, reassignment, or retention unless certain criteria are met.

This has been dubbed the "Facebook Bill," and we will be one of a handful of states that are taking this proactive measure to update privacy protections for people in the digital age. I would urge passage.

The utilities include those that furnish water for municipal, industrial, or domestic purposes or sewage disposal services, or both, and that have an annual gross operating revenue of $1 million or more for at least one year during the immediately preceding three years. The request for a waiver must include proof that the public utility will not experience a significant increase in demand for its services or require the acquisition or construction of additional infrastructure during the three-year period covered by the resource plan the public utility would have submitted.

The measure requires the Commission to issue an order approving or denying the request within 45 days after receiving the request for a waiver. Additionally, the Commission is prohibited from approving a request for a waiver for consecutive three-year periods.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 6.

Assemblyman Hickey moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblymen.

Hickey, Carlton, Bobzien, Stewart, Grady, Ohrenschall, Elliot Anderson, Horne, and Madam Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN HICKEY:

I rise in support of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 6.

Thank you, Madam Speaker and members of this body. I have a prepared statement. Much of it was in the resolution and much of it was in the biography of Senator Raggio that we either have read or should read, so I won't repeat those things. I had the privilege of serving with Senator Raggio in 1997 and sat on an interim Committee on Education with him. There were lessons and teachable moments that I'm still learning from. He was a giant in terms of integrity, of being a noble person, and being a smart person, and as everybody in this state knows, we owe a debt of gratitude to him. It's an honor to have served with him. We are still serving with him because his legacy influences us, to this day, in Nevada. Madam Speaker, I do, of course, want to urge this body to adopt this concurrent resolution in honor of the late Senator Bill Raggio.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN CARLTON:

Madam Speaker, I had the honor to serve with Senator Raggio. He was number one, I was number twenty-one. I was reminded of that on a regular basis. He actually came to my office every once in a while to sit down and have a talk. I think he was trying to hide because I had a little office in the corner and he was down on the first floor. So every once in a while he would knock on my door and say, "Hey, Red, can we talk about something?" And I think there was somebody downstairs that he didn't want to meet with so he came to talk to me.

He only tried to get the $20 out of me a couple of times, and then he figured out he wasn't going to get it from me. I did tell him if he really wanted it, I had a bunch of pennies at home that I'd be glad to put on a plane and bring up north for him.

He taught me a lot, and I'm still learning. When I received the assignment for Ways and Means that you so graciously gave me, one of the first things I thought about was, boy, I wish I could call Bill.

We've got a lot to do this session. He's still in my thoughts almost every day, and we do miss him.

ASSEMBLYMAN BOBZIEN:

Madam Speaker. I had the privilege of serving with Senator Raggio my freshman session in 2007, and it's the little things, it's the vignettes that I remember. We all know the $20 stories. I never experienced that myself, but my little thing that I almost every day remember is driving in from Reno coming down Carson. The uninitiated would just go all the way down past the Capitol and then make the left on Fifth and then turn into the garage. But one morning as I'm driving down, I see the Senator's big black vehicle behind me; I don't know if Senator Townsend was driving in with him that morning or not, but likely he was. There I was in traffic trying to get in ten minutes ahead of the gavel coming down. He's behind me. He slips out, gets into the center lane, dives that left on John Street, and then comes in on Stewart. I said, "Aha. That is brilliant." Ever since then, that is my commute. He showed me the way, literally, so I think about him every day.

Senator Smith, I'm sure, told the story about the long night that she had negotiations, I think in her freshman session, and then awakened the next morning to go back into negotiation with Senator Raggio and feeling utterly demoralized when presented with this man in a fresh suit and a crisp shirt, always looking his best. That class, that commitment to professionalism, that commitment to grace under fire are things that we can all learn from, but it really is the big things. He was and always will be the dictionary definition of a statesman.

I am grateful that we have this day of remembrance for someone who always did the right thing as he saw it—even though I disagreed with him often—for what was the best for this state. I think if we can all aspire to his model, this institution will be better off for many years to come.

ASSEMBLYMAN STEWART:

I had the honor of serving with Senator Raggio for two sessions, and I was always impressed with his wit and charm and his great intelligence. My colleague to my left mentioned that you only have to say one word when it comes to Raggio, and that is "statesman." That's true.

I have three treasures—one of them I had to get rid of. One is a personal note from the Senator, another is the autographed copy of his book, and finally, a campaign contribution, which I reluctantly cashed after about two months. By the way, I'd like to give Dale $20 because I never got the opportunity to loan him the $20. So I'd be happy to do that after the session.

ASSEMBLYMAN GRADY:

I had the honor and the privilege of meeting the Senator when he was the District Attorney in Washoe County and I was a young banker, so it was many, many years ago for both of us. I enjoyed calling him my friend. I guess some of the best times, were when I would run into the Senator when he was in Winnemucca bird hunting. He thoroughly enjoyed getting out there with Mr. Sullivan and some of his buddies to do a little bird hunting.

When I decided to run for this office, he was one of the first people I called, and I asked him, "Bill, should I do it?" And he said, "Well, wait a minute. First, I'll have to see if I have any money in my account, and then I'll call you back and tell you if you should or not." He did call back and I did run, and I've been forever grateful that I could call him my friend. And he didn't get $20 out me either. Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

I am uniquely positioned to speak to this, because I had the opportunity to spend so much time with Senator Raggio, both, with my service and with my mother's. I would describe him as someone who was devoted to family, devoted to church, devoted to the state of Nevada. I remember when Senator Raggio lost his son and how terrible that was for him. I was not sure he would be able to carry on, but he did, and he had some of his greatest moments after that. I got to know him after his retirement as a family friend, and he was a very caring man and someone I truly valued as a friend. I deeply miss him.

ASSEMBLYMAN ELLIOT ANDERSON:

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

I had a couple of interactions with Senator Raggio that gave me a few important lessons that I thought I would share. Last session, I did not have the opportunity to serve with him because of his resignation, but I did ask him if we could grab some breakfast together. I just wanted to speak with him, and one of the number one things he left with me was, "Elliot, I've been in the building forever. I've been a practicing attorney forever. And every day that I walk into that building, I open up one of those blue books, and I learn something new about the NRS that I didn't know." That, to me, spoke volumes, and it is an important lesson for all of us to know that we are never going to know everything out there. We always have to be willing to learn new things and to do our due diligence.

Secondly, he taught me another important lesson when I met him. As an intern in this body in 2009, I had the opportunity to share an elevator with him— and him alone—from floor one to floor four, so I broached a conversation, and I said, "Senator, I'm Elliot; it's nice to meet you. You're a legend around here."

He looked at me with this scowl on his face, and said, "Legend? That sounds like old fart to me!"

The important lesson there was to never take yourself too seriously and to always have a little bit a fun because we get busy around here, and we need that fun every once in a while.

ASSEMBLYMAN HORNE:

I rise in support of Senate Concurrent Resolution 6.

I had the pleasure of serving with Senator Raggio, and my first encounter with the Senator was my freshman session. He says to me, "Oh yeah, you're that Horne gentleman. I heard good things about you." But then he said, "I don't have the influence I used to have, but feel free to come and see me anytime you want." Having grown up here, I looked at him and I said, "You know, nice try Senator. I also have my hand on my wallet; you're not getting $20 from me." What was funny about that is when he said he did not have the influence he once had, he was the Senate Majority Leader.

Senator Raggio still wields influence in this building. His influence is found in many of us who are still here who served with him as legislators, staff, et cetera. We remember not only his love for Nevada, but also his work ethic for the process. That is why you constantly hear people cite Senator Raggio in these halls. He does still wield influence in this building.

MADAM SPEAKER:

If I could take a moment of personal privilege here.

I also had the privilege of serving with Senator Raggio. Yesterday I was walking over to the Nugget to speak at something, and I said, "I can't take the elevator, because I've always taken the elevator with Senator Raggio when I've come to this building." My partner here asked me why. I said, "Because every time that I go over to the Nugget, I always seem to get in the elevator with Senator Raggio."

My very first session I was scared to death to be in the elevator with him. I know you all are talking about this $20 thing, but I did not get that one; he never asked for 20 bucks. He did, though, have a smile that, when you looked at it, you did not know if it was a good smile or a bad smile. So I stood in the elevator with him, and you know I am a shy person so I try not to say anything, but I said to him, "So, any advice you could give me?"

He looked at me and he said, "Well, are you a freshman?"

And I asked, "Is that a good thing or is that a bad thing?"

He responded, "I have one piece of advice," and for the next three sessions that I served with him, he gave me the same advice every single time we rode in that elevator. The last time I was in that elevator with him, Assemblywoman Spiegel was a freshman and also present, and I said, "Can you give her some advice, too?"

The advice that he gave me was: "Don't let your next vote be about your next election." I have never forgotten that. Then he said, as we got off the elevator, "You have to have a little bit of fun in this building because it'll get to you."

Those are two things that I take to heart very much, and I think that is really what is important in this building. Do the right thing, feel good about it, and it is okay to smile and have a little bit of fun. To me, those are very important, and that is really what our state is about.

As a statesman, which I felt that he was, he was tough. You did not get anything for nothing, and you did not get away with anything, but if you knew your policy and you went to his office, he would work with you. I think that says a lot about the kind of people that represent our state. So with that, I also urge your support for this resolution.

Resolution adopted, and ordered transmitted to the Senate.

CARSON CITY (Thursday), March 28, 2013

Assembly called to order at 11 a.m.

Madam Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present except Assemblyman Brooks, who was excused.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Albert Tilstra.

O Lord, let us never be afraid of a new idea or unreceptive to a new thought, lest we pull down the shades of our minds and exclude Your Holy Light. When confronted by mystery, help us to remember that we do not have to explain all we know or understand all we believe. But give us the grace of humility and the spirit of the open mind, the courage to persist in face of difficulties and in the power of the truth.

Help us all to learn something this day, that we shall be wise at its close and more ready for our eternal home when we are one step nearer. Through Jesus Christ our Lord.

AMEN.

Pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

Assemblyman Horne moved that further reading of the Journal be dispensed with and the Speaker and Chief Clerk be authorized to make the necessary corrections and additions.

REPORTS OF SELECT COMMITTEES

Madam Speaker:

Your Select Committee on the Assembly, to which was referred the matter concerning Nevada State Assemblyman Steven J. Brooks II pursuant to Article 4, Section 6 of the Constitution of the State of Nevada, has had the same under consideration and begs leave to report the same back with the recommendation that Assemblyman Brooks be expelled from the Assembly.

WILLIAM C. HORNE, Chair

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

Assemblyman Horne moved that the Assembly adopt the Report from the Select Committee on the Assembly concerning Nevada State Assemblyman Steven J. Brooks II pursuant to Article 4, Section 6 of the Constitution of the State of Nevada, and that Steven J. Brooks II be expelled from the Assembly.

Remarks by Assemblymen Horne, Duncan, Neal, and Hickey.

Motion carried.

Assemblyman Horne requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal:

ASSEMBLYMAN HORNE:

Your Select Committee on the Assembly has considered the matter involving Assemblyman Steven Brooks and is prepared to make a recommendation to this body.

Pursuant to the direction of this body, the Select Committee caused a full investigation to be conducted regarding Assemblyman Steven Brooks and his fitness to serve as Assemblyman. Remember that we all felt it necessary to engage in this investigation because of the nature of the complaints against Assemblyman Brooks. His conduct leading up to the investigation caused many rational thinking individuals in this building, perhaps even yourself, to fear for their own safety and for the safety of Assemblyman Brooks. We had an obligation to ensure the safety of the people in this building, and it would have been irresponsible to ignore the numerous reports of conduct indicating that Assemblyman Brooks was unstable and perhaps unfit to serve as Assemblyman. Politically, it would have been easier and more advantageous to conduct a quiet investigation or try to smooth this over. But the truth is that we did not feel safe having him in this building. We wanted to protect the people in this building, and we wanted to ensure that we could carry out our very important business. It was also important to us to allow Assemblyman Brooks to obtain any help that he needed. In fact, Speaker Kirkpatrick and I made numerous offers of help to Assemblyman Brooks. We also do not employ Assemblyman Brooks; we have a duty to the people who work here, to the lobbyists, the press, and all visitors to our chambers. Therefore, we made a bipartisan decision to fully investigate this matter and to allow the facts to dictate whether those fears were valid and whether the facts indicated that Assemblyman Brooks could return to these chambers and represent his constituents and carry out his legislative duties.

To conduct the investigation, we chose to retain independent counsel who worked with investigators to prepare a report which included a 900-page appendix to document support for the conclusions in the report. During the investigation, staff members, legislators, police officers, family members, and others were interviewed. Notably, Assemblyman Brooks refused to be interviewed, and although he consented to provide a release of his medical information, he never provided such a release. The report itself has been kept confidential because it was felt necessary to maintain the integrity of the process, protect the privacy of Assemblyman Brooks, and reach a fair conclusion. The Constitution acknowledges the need to keep some information private where the information is related to character, alleged misconduct, professional competence, or physical or mental health. Since that list provides precisely the information we were considering, we felt it most appropriate, with the advice of our independent counsel, to protect the privacy of Assemblyman Brooks in that regard. When possible, the proceedings have been held in a public forum. In fact, Tuesday night, we took public comment first and then held a portion of the meeting open to the public. After that, we went into a closed session with only committee members, legal counsel, and the attorney for Assemblyman Brooks present to consider confidential matters. The Select Committee then conferred with legal counsel before going back into an open session during which we deliberated and voted in public.

Independent counsel agreed that it would have been negligent and potentially actionable to allow Assemblyman Brooks to return to the Legislature without conducting a thorough investigation, given his behavior and the allegations made against him. Ultimately, the report from independent counsel painted a picture of a man who is volatile, prone to angry outbursts, and potentially dangerous. Although we cannot discuss the particulars of the report, we can inform you that the conclusions in the report were based upon interviews with more than 50 witnesses and reports from government agencies, including law enforcement.

After reviewing the report and the accompanying 900-page appendix of the independent counsel, members of the Select Committee had a more complete image of our troubled colleague. Not only did Assemblyman Brooks refuse to be interviewed, he also chose not to appear at our hearing, instead relying on his attorney. While that was his prerogative, we had no opportunity to discuss the matter with Assemblyman Brooks, nor did he convey to us in any manner, either directly or through his attorney, that he had taken any actions to make us feel confident that it was safe for him to return to the Assembly or that he was capable of adequately carrying out his duties as Assemblyman. In fact, since the odd events which led to these proceedings, Assemblyman Brooks has continued to engage in questionable and unpredictable behavior. He has failed to acknowledge any responsibility for the problems he has caused. Instead of seeking help and assistance as many, including myself, have said that we hoped he would receive, we heard, as did all of you through the media, that Assemblyman Brooks had tried to purchase a rifle with a scope, night vision goggles, and a bulletproof vest. Again, there have not been any media reports that have shown any change in Assemblyman Brooks that have made anyone feel more comfortable about his state of mind. Assemblyman Brooks has not taken any ameliorative actions to alleviate the very real fears that caused us to undertake this investigation in the first place. In the end, the matter of Assemblyman Brooks has seriously disrupted our process, has expended our resources, and made the Legislature appear, on some days, to be more like a circus or daytime drama than a serious legislative body. We need to move forward, we need to carry out the work of the state, and we need to protect ourselves, our staff, and Assemblyman Brooks himself.

As I stand before you today, I do not feel any more comfortable than I did at the beginning of the investigation. I actually feel less comfortable. We did not receive assurances that Assemblyman Brooks is capable of controlling his angry outbursts or that such outbursts will not become violent. As you have seen in the press, Assemblyman Brooks continues to struggle with various issues that have made him unfit to serve with this body. It also did not appear from the facts before us that those issues will be resolved before the adjournment of this legislative session. Assembly District 17 deserves to have a representative advocating on their behalf during this legislative session. We deserve to carry out our important business without fear that something may cause Assemblyman Brooks to have an outburst of a nature that is unacceptably disruptive. Our staff and the other people in this building deserve to feel safe to come to our chambers. The Select Committee deliberated for hours and struggled to determine the most appropriate recommendation in light of the facts as they were presented to us. In the end, we all agreed during our public deliberation that Assemblyman Brooks was not fit to return to the Assembly right now. Six members voted for expulsion, and one member preferred to continue the suspension of the Assemblyman and therefore voted against expulsion. But we all agreed that it is not appropriate to have Assemblyman Brooks in this building. It was not easy to reach the decision to recommend expulsion, but those of us who voted for that recommendation believed that to be the most responsible action to ensure that we can return to the people's business, free of fear of the unpredictable and potentially dangerous action that Assemblyman Brooks may take in these chambers should he return, and to provide Assembly District 17 with proper representation during this legislative session.

For all of these reasons, your Select Committee on the Assembly reports back with the recommendation that this body expel Assemblyman Steven Brooks from the Assembly.

ASSEMBLYMAN DUNCAN:

Madam Speaker, esteemed members of this body, let me start by saying this was certainly not an easy task for any of us. We entered this process with both humility and caution, but for these reasons, I felt our colleague from Assembly District 17 needed to be expelled. I would like to explain the reasoning that went through my mind and also the reasoning my colleague from Assembly District 34 just explained.

I want to start my remarks by framing this with a constitutional and a legal argument, because like many of you who I have spoken with—colleagues from my caucus, colleagues from the Democratic caucus—I struggled, because we did not have an adjudicated decision about Mr. Brooks from another branch of government; we did not have a conviction. We only had allegations and what we saw of his life as it was played out in the media over these last few months. The question really is, what does this body do with that? I struggled with that myself. I met with our great attorneys here at LCB, looked up the case law myself, and at the end of the day, the beauty about our system of government is that we have a separation of powers. We have three branches of government, and these decisions, as decided by the United States Supreme Court and also the Nevada Supreme Court, are within the province of this body. Within the province of this body, we have the discretion to be, essentially, the judge and the jury in this case. This is because we are the only body that can make the decision about the character, the competence, and the ability to serve the state. I will talk about why that ability to serve the state and to serve others makes this an important day for our body and why we ultimately recommended expulsion.

We are, which we do so with humility, given absolute discretion to decide this as a body; our Constitution lays this out. Article 4, Section 6 states: "Each House shall judge of the qualifications, elections, and returns of its own members, choose its own officers . . . determine the rules of its proceedings and may punish its members for disorderly conduct, and with the concurrence of two thirds of all the members elected, expel a member." That is it. That is the guidance that we are given, but again, that is the beauty of the separation of the powers; we get to make these determinations. Over our history as Nevadans, this sort of proceeding has never happened, so we are not using this process to expel members in a perfunctory fashion. I would not say that the process that took us to this day, right now, was in any way perfunctory, nor was it in any way done without great deliberation.

The things that went through my mind and the actual committee's mind when we looked at this were the reasons for expulsion. First of all, the mental health issues—the mental health issues that we saw play out in the media, and then the compelling mental health issues that we saw in the closed hearing. Again, the Constitution provides that all these hearings are to be public except for when we are judging the character, the qualifications, and the competence of those who we are thinking about expelling from this body. So the question was asked of Mr. Brooks' attorney whether or not he would waive that right to make everything public, and he did not do so. There were questions about redacting, there were questions about trying to release as much as possible, and those efforts were made, but again, the Constitution provides that those circumstances are to be held private, and it is understandable. The things that we read and the compelling things that were before the body, again, really compelled me to say that there is a serious problem. As my colleague from Assembly District 34 mentioned, with the purchase of a long rifle, night vision goggles, and a bulletproof vest; the two arrests; the alleged threats on our Madam Speaker; the paranoia, the mood swings, and the violent outbursts, there was, of course, a propensity for violence that I saw in those documents that would give everyone here pause.

Another thing that was telling on the evening of the Assembly Select Committee on the Assembly is that there was no inclination from Mr. Brooks that there was an understanding on his part that he needs help or that he is moving in a direction of getting that help. It left us with nothing but the record in front of us to make a decision about whether or not to expel him. That was compelling, and it really showed me, and I think it showed to the other members, that there was an inability for him to serve.

We talked about the misconduct. Article 4, Section 15 of our Constitution lays out that we judge the professional competence, and by looking at professional competence, it was clear that Mr. Brooks would not be able to come back to this body and serve the way that this body deserves or the staff deserves. More importantly, he would not be able to serve the people that elected him, nor the entire state, in the way they expect of anybody who has the honor of sitting in these chairs. It was also compelling that much of the staff here is uneasy with him. There are many staff that fear Mr. Brooks, and it is incumbent upon us—and this is only my first term serving in this body—but it is incumbent upon us as legislators to cultivate and foster an environment where not only people feel comfortable, but that the state can be confident that we are going to get the state's business done within the 120 days that is constitutionally required of us. It is very difficult to get that done when you have that sort of distraction, you have that sort of fear that is in peoples' hearts in this building. That too, was compelling to me.

I want to talk about the integrity of the body. It is a privilege, not a right, to be in these seats. Not only do we need integrity as we are running for these seats and getting involved in politics, but we also need it after we take our seats. Each one of us is elected to serve others, to be servant leaders, but the main take away is that these seats do not belong to us; we are not entitled to be here. These seats belong to the people that sent us here. That was very compelling to me as I thought, "Is Mr. Brooks serving not only his constituents, but is he serving the state?" And that answer was "No." It is clear to me from the emails I receive, and the emails and phone calls that I am sure you receive, that the people in Assembly District 17 currently do not have a voice, and they deserve to have a voice. They deserve to have a seat at the table, and while we are all looking out for their interests, they put someone there that would be their voice who is not their voice.

I thought about the position this situation has put the body in, and as a new member of this body, this was very difficult. I put a lot of prayer into this. I put a lot of talking to people and seeking wisdom into this, but at the end of the day, it matters how the public perceives us. It matters what 3 million Nevadans think about this process. It matters that it does not appear that this body treats its own members differently than any other person that is just a regular Nevadan. It shows that we hold our members to a line of integrity, and we hold our members to the same line of excellence that we should expect not only of Nevadans, but of ourselves. Mr. Lincoln once said, "The legitimate object of government, is to do for a community of people, whatever they need to have done, but cannot do, at all . . . for themselves in their separate, and individual capacities." Members, we are here to serve. Mr. Brooks is not here to serve. The evidence shows that he is not competent to serve, and although it is very difficult to do this, I would ask that we take all this into account when we are to vote whether or not to expel him.

Thank you.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN NEAL:

I wrote this myself, but the power of the words may not come.

We are at a point in history where being silent is unacceptable. The statements made today stand as the record that comes after us. When we leave this building and when we are no longer serving, our words and the way in which we deliberated will stand on its words, and the only merit given will be the words that stood on the journal pages. I made the decision that on this historic vote, I needed my presence to be felt and I needed it to be understood.

Courage is something found; it is not given. There are times when, as an elected individual, you have to stand on your own conscience. And you have to find the courage to stand alone or the courage to stand with someone. You have to hold fast to what you believe and not be moved.

I received emails that called me racist because of my decision, but I need this body and the public to understand. I had to examine my allegiance to the Nevada Constitution and I found that my allegiance to the Constitution was paramount and very real, and furthermore, that I respected Article 4, Section 6, however unpleasant the task may have been. I have an allegiance to constitutional law, but I also have an allegiance to the breadth and width it provided me that allowed me to determine that I had within my right to review the degrees of discipline offered to me.

My decision today is being made because I understand the power, the depth, and the width of it. I understand that expulsion is the highest disciplinary form that this body can deliver, and I believe in degrees of discipline. I also understand that the action is nothing short of political death on all levels, whether it be suspension or expulsion.

I cannot move for the action of expulsion. I cannot move for that action because I believe in the human form in all its frailties and in all of its faults. I also believe in the power of human recovery. I believe in it so deeply that I cannot be moved from the depth of what it means to have the audacity to hope.

I believe that there are degrees of discipline, and based on the confidential records I saw, my decision remains that Steven be suspended from this body.

I thank you, Madam Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN HICKEY:

This is both an historic decision for the body and it's also one that is taken with the utmost consideration of the precedent that is being set and the person that is being affected by it. Both of these facts make the vote we are about to take one of the most serious matters we will take up as elected representatives of Nevadans that we represent this session.

As the Assemblyman from down south said, we are both the judge and the jury on judging the qualifications of one of our members.

As a representative of this body who served on the Select Committee that reviewed the report on the Assemblyman from District 17, I can assure you all here that your colleagues labored long and hard over the decision to recommend expelling one of our own. But as important as the individual is in the system of law in our country and in our state, no person can or should be larger than the process itself, especially when it involves doing the work of the public such as we are involved in here today in the Nevada Assembly.

I would also like to add that no one person has felt the burden of this difficult decision any more than our Speaker. She and the Majority Leader have carried the weight of this entire matter with diligence and dignity. For this reason, the body, regardless of how we may vote, owes both of them a debt of gratitude for their leadership on this matter.

And finally, I think I speak for all of us when I say we wish nothing but the best for our former colleague, if in fact that becomes our decision. Many here are his friends, many of us here were friendly with him. But we all wish him and his family the best, regardless of this outcome, and hope that he will be able to take care of the personal matters that have made this decision the difficult one that it is, land in our laps here today.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

Senator Heller delivered his message as follows:

SEVENTY-SEVENTH SESSION, 2013

Thank you and good evening. It is truly an honor to have this opportunity to address you tonight. I am mindful of the busy schedules each of you have, and I realize you are all working very hard on the critical issues facing this state. It's not lost on me how tough some of your decisions were today, and they are important, and very, very difficult decisions. So, thank you very much for having me here this evening.

Governor Sandoval, Madam Speaker, Lieutenant Governor, thank you for having me here. The Majority Leaders of both houses, Minority Leaders, thanks to you as well and all that are assembled in the Chamber this evening.

To the constitutional officers and members of the Court, thank you for your attendance and thank you for being here.

Mom and Dad are in the house. You know that does change the tone of your message. Probably a few words, too. But it's great to have my wife here and my sister and her husband. Thank you very much for taking time.

Now it's been a quite a while since I've spoken to the Legislature, so I did ask a few of my colleagues for some input to include how long this speech should last. I went to Senator Paul Rand of Kentucky for his strategy, but I think 13 hours is a little too long, so I went to Congressman Amodei. Congressman Amodei said, "The bar is high." He set the bar high on Monday. He said, "Just tell the same joke a couple of times the same way and then sneak out the back door." Of course, that's what Mark always says.

In any case, I'll try to find some middle ground between these two approaches. But before I do that, I'd like to take a moment to reflect on the tragedy that took the lives of seven Marines last week during a training exercise at the Hawthorne Army Depot. On Monday, I had the honor of visiting five Marines and a sailor who are currently being treated at Renown Hospital. What I find most remarkable about these young men is their positive, upbeat attitudes and their tenacity for life. We owe these soldiers a great deal of respect.

I'd also like to commend the professionalism and commitment from our first responders at Care Flight, the doctors and nurses at Renown, the Army Depot, Hawthorne, Southwest Airlines, and all of the other entities who did an outstanding job attending to those who were injured. Thank you for your support of our servicemen and women.

I know that yesterday you all took time to honor a friend and mentor to many of us, Senator Bill Raggio. Tonight I also want to remember another friend whom I, like many of you, deeply respect, and that is Assemblyman John Marvel. No question, John was as much a statesman and a leader here in this body and this Assembly as the esteemed Bill Raggio was in the Senate. Nevada lost great public servants with the passing of both of these men.

Coming back to Carson City is particularly special for me, not because this is where I began my time in public office, but because I grew up here. I've made a lot of memories here in Carson City, and this is familiar territory for me.

This is where I began forming the philosophy that I bring to my role in public service. This is where I learned what it means to work hard, to play by the rules, and how one committed person can make a difference with perseverance and dedication.

I learned a lot of those values from my father, a mechanic who owned and operated an automotive shop just across the street. I spent a lot of time at that garage as a kid working with my father, sweeping floors, and fixing transmissions. I watched him wake up early and stay at the garage late. That's where I learned the value of hard work and responsibility. It's where I saw first-hand what it takes to run a small business, the sacrifice and discipline involved, and sometimes the tough decisions that have to be made in order to succeed.

Many here have heard this story before. But I like to tell it because I think it's important for all of us to remember what brought us into public service. At a time when our state is still struggling, when our constituents are still feeling the effects of the economic downturn, we need to get back to the basics and focus on the reasons why we decided to serve.

That perspective will help us identify opportunities for state and federal collaboration, in order for us to do the most good for those whom we represent, and I'd like to share some thoughts on that partnership with you this evening.

I believe there are three basic functions of the federal government: (1) provide for a strong defense; (2) enable and encourage free-market commerce through infrastructure, through roads and bridges; and (3) provide a safety net for those who need it most.

To me, these are the basics. These are the essential functions of the federal government. I believe when the government takes these responsibilities seriously and takes responsible steps to make sure the job is getting done, the economy can thrive and Americans can be optimistic about the future.

The important question is not necessarily how much government we have, but rather how the government is operating. Regulations aren't all bad, but unreasonable regulations and red tape can be burdensome and will stifle growth. Not all taxes are bad. But over taxation can be devastating. So it comes down to reasonable government, reasonable regulations, and reasonable tax measures. That's the kind of governing that our nation needs, and it's what Nevada needs.

My staff will tell you, because they hear me say this all the time: My approach to reasonable government is summed up in three words—more, higher, less.

When legislation hits my desk, I ask, "Does this bill provide more competition at a higher quality for less cost?" If the bill passes that basic test, then I'll be inclined to support it. If the federal government approaches problems through this entrepreneurial perspective, we could have a more efficient and reasonable government at less cost to the taxpayers. And this is not just a Republican approach—it's a commonsense approach that we should all agree on.

Unfortunately, it seems at times as if Washington is the place where reasonable, commonsense ideas die and where the basic functions of the government are sometimes put on the back burner or even neglected.

For example, when I joined the Senate, I was told that I had to change the drapes, repaint, and recarpet the space in my office, even though it had already been done two weeks prior. I didn't care. It all looked fine to me. But I was told I had to, and all at taxpayers' expense. How is the Senate supposed to help impose fiscal responsibility if the institution itself is wasting dollars? That's unreasonable, and here's one way we can fix it: Let's audit the Senate. Let's take a look at how the Senate budgets, where taxpayers' dollars are being spent. Let's examine ways to cut wasteful spending and streamline the current system. My office had to talk to four different departments simply to mount a television in my office, and it took three months. I feel sure there are ways to cut costs, just like Nevadans are doing with their own family budgets. After all, the House of Representatives found $20 million in savings when it conducted an audit in 1995.

I know this is not an end-all solution to problems in the federal government, but it's a basic first step, and it's an idea that may cut costs and save money, and that makes sense to everyday Americans.

In order for Congress to do its part to help turn Nevada's economy around, Democrats and Republicans must work together. Washington has gotten in the habit of prioritizing their party above all else. That will not work for Nevada.

Members from both sides of the aisle must come together to get things done to help us here at home. That's one reason why I joined the nonpartisan group No Labels. We are a group of 50 to 60 lawmakers committed to getting things done. Whether it's a Democratic idea or a Republican idea, it shouldn't matter. Congress needs to adopt a No Labels attitude.

I'm proud of the fact that my family is a No Labels family. My son-in-law, Eddie Ableser, is a Democratic State Senator from Arizona, and I don't hold it against him that he's an Arizonan or that he's a Democrat. We're a No Labels family living in a No Labels city, and I'm from a No Labels state.

It doesn't make any sense to support or oppose legislation based on the party label it's wrapped in. The ongoing budget debate is a perfect example of how necessary it is for Democrats and Republicans to work together to find common ground and get the job done. And passing a budget is one of those basic, fundamental jobs the government cannot afford to ignore.

Earlier this year, Congress passed a version of my "No Budget, No Pay" legislation. This measure requires members of Congress to pass a budget in order to receive their pay. It just makes sense. Like all Americans, members of Congress, if they do not do their jobs, should not get paid. Of course, the media made light of the proposal. Many called it a gimmick and said it could never work. Even after Congress passed a version of my "No Budget, No Pay" into law and the President signed it, many were quick to pass judgment.

But this year, for the first time in four years, both the House and the Senate have passed their own budgets and are working through the budget process. On the Senate side, this year marks the first time the Senate Majority introduced a long-term plan in four years.

The problem is that both of these proposals are highly partisan. With multiple budgets working through Congress, I had high hopes this would be an opportunity for a grand deal. Instead, these plans are getting caught up in the politics of the day. Rather than serving as productive tools for long-term solutions, they are being tarnished by partisan bickering and grandstanding. But I remain optimistic for that grand deal, and I continue to hope for leadership and commonsense cooperation from both parties, something that our constituents expect. Our nation is desperate for it. Our nation depends on it. The future of our children and grandchildren demand it.

"No Budget, No Pay" isn't the first time, by the way, that I've tried to hold Congress accountable for bad decisions. During the discussion on ObamaCare, I introduced legislation that required lawmakers to take part in the same healthcare exchanges that we were forcing on all Americans. Well, that idea was adopted into law, and now news reports are documenting that members are extremely uneasy about the idea. That's how silly things have gotten in Washington, D.C. Fighting a bill meant I had to threaten lawmakers with the consequences of their own legislation.

I believe we can find common ground for the good of the country. But unless Congress works together, there will not be agreement on important issues for Nevada, issues such as immigration reform. I am a proponent for legal immigration. I also recognize that our current system needs reform. I am pleased that Senate Democrats and Senate Republicans have come together to draft a plan for a reasonable approach to immigration reform. I support many of the principles included in this proposal and look forward to reviewing specific details in the months ahead. Most importantly, this issue must not get lost in politics. Any immigration reform legislation should be considered on the Senate floor, subject to regular order, and allow for amendments. This way, Washington can address this problem transparently, solve it with input from both sides of the aisle, and move on.

Another important issue that requires both parties to work together is the current debate on gun control. Before I go any farther, let me be very clear. I am a strong supporter of our Second Amendment rights. Nevadans have the right to bear arms, and regardless of what the commercials might say, I will not support legislation that jeopardizes the basic and fundamental right to bear arms.

At the same time, we must take care to keep guns out of the hands of felons and the mentally ill. We cannot turn a blind eye to the fact that mental illness, coupled with cultural violence, is a dangerous mix. Rather than limiting our access to guns or nitpicking high-capacity magazine clips, Congress should take on a larger issue: Hollywood. If Washington is not talking about the violence in movies, on television, and in video games, then what are we doing? If the conversation is only about guns, then this entire discussion is nothing but pure politics.

I know we can work together on these issues in a reasonable and commonsense way, because there are several areas where Congress is already working together in ways that will help us right here at home. I've mentioned some of the basic functions of our government, and another one of those basic responsibilities our government owes to our citizens is to care, most importantly, for our heroes in uniform.

I consider it a great privilege to serve Nevada in the 113th Congress on the Senate Veterans' Affairs Committee. On that committee, I'm able to directly address the crisis of unemployment among veterans, which is one of the committee's gravest concerns. Here in Nevada, more than 13 percent of the veteran population is unemployed. That's compared to 9.7 percent of the general population. For post-9/11 veterans, 18 percent of our former military men and women are looking for jobs.

There is a commonsense fix that will address this issue. Right now, veterans who have been trained in our military—the greatest military in the world—cannot use these skills as civilians.

For example, a service member who drives a truck in the Army for 10, 20 years can't just leave the service and get a job as a truck driver. Instead, he or she has to go through even more training to get the right certification. Combat medics are another example. These highly skilled professionals cannot get good-paying jobs in the civilian world. These are men and women who know how to inflate a lung or care for traumatic injuries, but despite their valuable skills, these professionals cannot find a job. Instead, they must endure more tests, more training, more credentialing. That makes no sense. Shouldn't our military men and women be more valuable because of their service? That, to me, seems like a basic, fundamental concept. I've cosponsored legislation to address this problem. I look forward to continuing to push that specific bill in order to help Nevada's veterans.

In the meantime, there is much more we can do to help. For example, Nevada has a backlog of 10,000 veterans' claims. I'm hearing it takes up to one and a half to two years to file a single claim. Sometimes veterans are receiving multiple apology letters from the VA before the claim is processed. I am committed to continuing to advocate for Nevada veterans on this specific issue.

I also believe it's my responsibility to ensure those who served this nation receive excellent health care. News reports have indicated that TRICARE Prime will be cut for many military men and women and their families, especially those in northern Nevada. I have written multiple letters to the Department of Defense on this issue and have spoken to Department of Veterans' Affairs Secretary Shinseki personally. We cannot allow our state's veterans to pay higher costs for less care, and I think both parties here today agree on that issue.

Commonsense should always lead the way as I work with my colleagues in Washington, D.C. to address exciting opportunities and challenging issues concerning our public lands. Without a doubt, our biggest challenge right now is the threat of an Endangered Species Act listing for the sage grouse. If the bird is listed, it will jeopardize our way of life and our economic recovery statewide, and it would thwart investments in Nevada for some of our most important industries, including mining and renewable energy. Last week, I led the Senate in passing an amendment reaffirming the importance of preventing a listing for the sage grouse, and I am committed to working with the Governor, the federal agencies, and other stakeholders to protect our state.

We need to enact policies that will allow us to harness our vast natural resource potential in a responsible manner. That is why I support the development and deployment of renewable energy, as long as those policies will not put an undue burden on consumers.

One hundred fifty years ago, President Lincoln gave one of the most famous speeches in American history. When he addressed those gathered on that Pennsylvania battlefield, he reminded his listeners of the basic, fundamental promises for which their brothers-in-arms had fallen. His words ring true today when he said, "It is for us, the living, to be dedicated to that unfinished work which they who fought here have so nobly advanced." That challenge is still compelling, and that work remains unfinished.

While we all may not be members of the same political party or share the same philosophy of government, we are all here to make a difference, to make our state and country better, to help complete that unfinished work President Lincoln spoke of, and to do what's right for those we represent from the great state of Nevada.

In these difficult times, it is more important than ever that we work together, find common ground, and make the tough decisions required to create jobs and get people back to work. So let me assure you that helping Nevadans during this tough economic recession is a top priority for me, and I am sure it is for each of you.

And make no mistake, if we will remain dedicated to the great task that is before us and if we remain focused on finding solutions for those we represent, we will forge a stronger and brighter future for our state and for this country, and we'll do it together.

Thank you very much for having me here this evening.

Representative Horsford delivered his message as follows:

SEVENTY-SEVENTH SESSION, 2013

Good afternoon. It is indeed an honor to be back home and to be with all of you, my former colleagues, today.

Governor, thank you very much for being here today. We appreciate you. Lieutenant Governor, thank you as well. To Madam Speaker, Majority Leader Horne, as well as Senate Majority Leader Denis and Minority Leaders Hickey and Roberson; to the Chief Justice and the Justices who are here, and to all of you, the members of the Assembly and the Senate, thank you for joining us and inviting me to speak this afternoon.

Thank you to my wife for being here and for supporting me through this ongoing journey. I could not do this without your love and understanding, and I appreciate you very much.

I'd also like to thank the many volunteers here who are advocating for our children as part of Nevada Children's Week at the Nevada Legislature. And to the women of Alpha Kappa Alpha (AKA), I know its AKA Day at the capital, so it's good to have you back as well.

Before I begin, I'd like to ask for a moment of silence to honor those who we recently lost due to the injuries at the live-fire training accident just a few hours away in Hawthorne.

Thank you. The wounds from this accident are still very fresh for the close-knit community of Hawthorne, and the tragedy has affected the lives of everyone in town. I had the opportunity to tour the Hawthorne Army Depot in January and had the honor of meeting the fine men and women who work on-site. Two weeks ago under very different circumstances, I visited five brave men in the hospital in Reno: four Marines and one Navy corpsman. The corpsman suffered serious injuries from the explosion, but as the medic responsible for the health of his unit, he refused medical assistance for over an hour until his Marines were treated first. He is alive today because he was able to treat his own wounds while others received care. That is a true lesson in courage. While his life has changed forever because of the accident, his bravery and loyalty will stand unchanged as an example for all of us. When I visited this young man in Reno, he could not speak, but he wrote me a note. It is something I will continue to carry with me as a reminder of the sacrifices of our men and women in the military. His story makes clear that, while we face challenges as public servants, they pale in comparison to those who truly sacrifice and struggle.

As someone who grew up in poverty in West Las Vegas, I can honestly say that addressing the Nevada Legislature as a Congressman was never part of my plan. But a difficult past is something I never tried to shake. My experiences remind me why I serve to help the hard working and the less fortunate. It has been quite a journey from the Nevada Legislature to the United States Congress. You know, I started in this building as an intern. I remember the first time I came to the floor. I didn't even have a tie to wear, and several members took me down to the old Woolworth's to pick one up so I could actually come on to the floor. Having served in the other chamber for eight years and now to be here as a member of Congress is somewhat surreal.

I know we joke about it, but the Assembly usually did have more fun than the Senate. I think the most fun I had was when I did a call of the house at four in the morning that prevented then-Senator Warren Hardy from using the restroom. It's that way in Congress, too. The People's House is a lot less stuffy than the upper body across the Capitol.

I now represent one of the most diverse districts in the United States, both geographically and demographically. Nevada's 4th Congressional District is 52,000 square miles, roughly the size of Alabama, and includes Nevadans from all walks of life. No city or town in this district is the same. They all have different perspectives, different economies, and different needs. From the Walker River Paiute Tribe in Mineral County, to the workers at the solar plant in Tonopah, to the residents of North Las Vegas, and every community in between, these diverse constituencies reflect the changing face of our state and our country. While our state continues to become more diverse, more unites us than divides us. Nevadans want to get back to work, they want their children to have a shot at the American Dream, and they want peace of mind in their golden years.

Although progress is slow and I shake my head at some of the nonsense in Washington sometimes, I am optimistic about what can be accomplished in Washington. The 113th Congress has picked up the pace compared to the previous class, and I'm hopeful that we are going to get things done. I was glad to see congressional gridlock break on the first bill I cosponsored, the Violence Against Women Act. This law ensures that victims and their families have access to the services they need to be safe and to rebuild their lives. The 2013 reauthorization of this law expands protections to LGBT victims, immigrants, and Native Americans. While the previous Congress stonewalled reauthorization for over 500 days, we were able to pass this law in just two months. I'm proud to have voted for and pushed this important legislation from day one.

After one month into my term, I introduced my first bill, the Lyon County Economic Development and Conservation Act, which will create upwards of 800 jobs in Nevada. This jobs bill will help the people of Yerington and the Lyon County region grow their economy and create desperately needed work for a county struggling with high unemployment. The legislation is a work of compromise. It encourages economic development and protects an important forest known as the Wovoka Wilderness while promoting the rights of ranchers and miners who earn their living on the land. I'm proud to have bipartisan support from the entire Nevada delegation and a willingness to work across the aisle from both parties in Washington for the sake of preserving the environment for future generations and creating good-paying jobs for working families. I hope, moving forward, that we can find common ground and protect Gold Butte, Tule Springs, and other natural treasures as well.

When we return next week, Congress will move forward on immigration reform. I'm honored to serve as a co-chair of the Congressional Black Caucus' Task Force on Immigration Reform and contribute to the pursuit of a fair, just, and humane immigration policy. Comprehensive immigration reform is the civil and human rights issue of our time that affects everyone from all communities, including our veterans. Let me tell you a story about one of these families. James and Sharon Courtney are constituents of mine, and they recently traveled to Washington to share their story during a people's hearing in the House. James is a veteran. He served three tours in Iraq, he is disabled, and he suffers from post-traumatic stress disorder. His wife does not have a green card. In 2003, Sharon was detained and held for hours in El Paso by Border Patrol. She was denied a phone call and wasn't allowed to speak with anyone. Without explanation, she was instructed to sign a document. If she did that, she would be free to go. So she signed the papers. Now Sharon stands accused of falsely claiming to be a U.S. citizen, and at age 35, a deferred action program cannot help her. James' and Sharon's future together, their children's future, depends on the outcome of comprehensive immigration reform. James is a man who fought for our country, who survived seven IED explosions. He is a living profile of courage. While he was fighting abroad, he said he worried more about protecting his family from deportation than his own personal safety. James has a family. He has put his life on the line for his country, and it's time we repay him and pass comprehensive immigration reform.

Surely his request to keep his family together is not too great a burden for this country, given what he has done to honor and protect all of us.

So when an immigration bill is unveiled, I will fight for the Courtney family and the countless other families that are counting on Washington to show just a fraction of James' courage. I will fight for a pathway to citizenship. Immigrant families in Nevada and across the United States should not be forced to live in the shadows any longer.

While I am optimistic about the prospect of fixing our broken immigration system, I am not saying there is an abundance of courage in Congress, either. By now, you've heard the numbers. As the slow grind of the sequester continues, it will cost Nevada 10,000 jobs, it will result in the furlough of 20,000 FAA employees and the shuttering of nearly 150 air traffic control towers, and it will mean 300 kids in Nevada's Head Start program will be booted from the classroom. This battle typifies what is congressional ineptness. A legislative trigger that everyone deemed devastating when it was agreed to, now is being re spun by those opposing a balanced approach to deficit reduction as "trimming the fat." Now, look, I am not a defender of every federal government program or every federal agency. I am a defender of my constituents and the services that they need to lead healthy and productive lives. Unfortunately, many of those programs have been targeted for draconian cuts under the sequester and under the Republican House budget, which I voted against.

When I travel my district, I see schools like Matt Kelly Elementary, a school standing to lose more than half of its allocation of Title I federal funding. That means fewer teacher aides and fewer meals for hungry kids. When I hear about efforts to reduce spending on nursing home care, I know that means services for 68,000 seniors in Nevada are on the chopping block. That's not trimming the fat; that's cutting to the bone.

The challenge of legislating, at its core, is balancing the courage to stand up for your beliefs with the courage to come together and find common ground and agreement. This Legislature has made serious bipartisan efforts to tackle tough issues. For that, I applaud your leadership and the members of the Assembly and Senate for working together.

For the first time in Nevada's history, we have a strategic vision for the future of our state that is in the first stages of being implemented. We have an economic development strategy, under the direction of the Governor, which is laying the groundwork for new companies to create new jobs in Nevada. We are moving in the right direction. Creating jobs and growing the economy must be the first priority of all public officials serving Nevada at every level. But investing in economic development also means funding our schools. They are two sides of the same coin.

One thing we can all agree on is that Nevada does not receive its fair share of federal funding. We are not doing enough to leverage the federal dollars offered to states. According to the Brookings Institute, we are fiftieth in grants per capita and forty-ninth in grant dollars per capita. For decades, we have received around 70 cents for every dollar we send to Washington. No matter which way you slice it, Nevadans are losing out. If Mississippi and Tennessee can get their fair share from the federal government under arguably conservative Governors, then surely Nevada can do better.

There are two cyclical causes of this dilemma. First, we don't pursue the grants we need. Second, we don't invest enough in our schools and universities to qualify. That's why I urge you to work together to expand the grant-writing capacity of Nevada. Invest more in the Office of Grant Procurement, Coordination, and Management we created in 2011. Hire more experts. Identify more opportunities. Connect with our local leaders, nonprofits, and faith-based organizations. Help those seeking grants to apply. These funds are already appropriated. Grants for research and development, early childhood education, training for workers at community colleges, and health institute grants for medical education are on the table. If we don't go after the funding we need, another state will happily take it from us. We shouldn't just chase grant money because it's there, either. We should pursue federal funds because it is a critical missing piece of our economic development strategy and because the people of Nevada deserve it. My office is here to help seek out these opportunities, which is why I have appointed a designated grants coordinator for this purpose. I look forward to working with state officials and grant writers at every level to leverage the funds that are due to Nevada.

But the bottom line is that Nevada is still a state that suffers from the chronic shortages in funding for schools and social services. We must develop a long-term, stable budget that funds our schools not 20 years from today, but now.

So as you consider options to make Nevada a better place to live and tackle our perennial budget shortfall, I ask both parties to remember those who came before them and those who stepped up to the plate. The Nevada Legislature has a rich history of compromise and agreement when it seems unlikely. Assemblyman Marvel, a man inspired to serve by the Sagebrush Rebellion, a successful rancher and rural legislator, knew what it meant to find agreement during divisive dispute. In 2003, he cast a decisive vote in favor of revenue to fund our schools. He knew he would take heat for it. Before casting his vote, he explained that the schools in his district simply didn't have the money to hire the teachers they needed. When asked if it was a tough vote, Assemblyman Marvel responded that it was the right vote. "If you're going to be a statesman," he said, "be a good one. If I was going to do something, let's do it right. It turned around and got me in the end, but at the same time, it was for the right reason." Assemblyman Marvel lost his bid for reelection, but that's not the story we know of him in the Legislature. His story and his lesson to all of us is that survival should not be the first instinct of politicians. People like Assemblyman Marvel and Senator Raggio are remembered for the tough decisions they made. In an era of term limits, it is more important than ever to learn the lessons of those who came before us.

I wish I could have joined you last week when you commemorated the life's work of Senator Raggio. I enjoyed the weekly lunches I had with Bill. Sometimes we would talk legislative issues and moving the process along. Oftentimes, we would just talk about our families or Bill would share a piece of Nevada legislative history with me. In many ways Bill was a mentor to me and helped me learn the process and what it means to be a leader. He transcended politics and partisanship, and that is what made him a true statesmen. His commemoration is also a reminder that, sooner than you think, new legislators will take your place or become your colleagues. Time carries on and the people's business carries on, and the reality is that you have just a sliver of time every two years to get something done.

So my message to you is not to pass a specific bill or enact a certain law, but to remember that public service absent courage is nothing more than loitering in the People's House. There are tough decisions ahead, and the public has placed trust in you—in us—to stand for those not capable of always standing for themselves, to remain true to our values, and to find common ground when first glance only reveals division.

Courage takes different forms. For many Nevadans, it means fighting to put food on the table and keeping their families together while tirelessly searching for work. For those confronting a broken immigration system, it means standing up and making their voices heard despite the possible consequences.

Many of you represent constituents who live hundreds of miles away. For me, I fight for Nevada in a building thousands of miles from home. But I carry with me, every day, the stories of those who struggle. I remember that the success or failure of a policy is not about egos or political points, but about people. I think of James and Sharon Courtney. I think of Senator Raggio and Assemblyman Marvel. I think of the Navy corpsman in Hawthorne.

True public service means never letting this Chamber become a bubble. It means understanding the lives of others. It means seeing how the struggles our constituents face every day are affected by the choices or non-choices we make. And if we work together and remind ourselves who we are here for, I have confidence we can make the tough but courageous decisions that Nevadans need us to make.

Thank you very much. God bless Nevada, and God bless the United States of America.

SEVENTY-SEVENTH SESSION, 2013

Good evening. It is a great honor and my distinct pleasure to come before you today as the representative for Nevada's third congressional district.

Governor Sandoval, Lieutenant Governor Krolicki, Speaker Kirkpatrick, my thanks for the opportunity to come and address this joint session this evening. Majority Leader Denis, Minority Leaders Roberson and Hickey, my thanks to you, as well, and to all those assembled here for your service to our great state as you deal with difficult—and what seems to be somewhat historic—issues this session. To the constitutional officers and honorable members of the honorable Judiciary, thank you for taking the time to be here this evening.

My thanks to your families, as well. The calling to public service takes a great deal of sacrifice on the parts of our loved ones that often goes unrecognized, and so tonight, I want to publicly thank my wife Lisa, who is here with me, for standing beside me over the past 20 years.

I had the privilege of serving as a member of this body, and from my time in Carson City, I learned that in Nevada we do our best to work across the aisle to do the things that are best for our state and for the people we represent. The lessons I learned in Carson City have had an influence on me in Washington, D.C.

It is interesting to note that Nevada's entire delegation in the House of Representatives has actually served together here in the State Senate. We have worked together in the past, and we are working together now to advance pro-Nevada policies that will improve our economy; get people back to work; and make Nevada a better place to live, do business, and raise a family. In fact, the entire federal delegation, both House and Senate, have agreed to have regularly scheduled meetings where we can identify areas of agreement and find ways we can get folks back to work and stimulate our economy.

It is clear to all of us that while there are many issues that need attention, the most pressing issue remains jobs and the economy. We have seen some positive economic trends recently, and that's welcomed news. But the Great Recession has taught us that we cannot consistently rely on the same industries year after year to keep Nevada prosperous. We have to have true economic diversification if we are going to be successful in the twenty-first century.

I commend Governor Sandoval and the Industry Sectors Initiative for recognizing the need to be flexible and adaptable to a changing global marketplace. The Industry Sector Council has provided me with a road map for how I develop legislation and for trying to identify areas where bills that I introduce dovetail into the strategic vision put forth by the industry council. I believe that if state and local policies are working in concert with federal laws, together we can make great strides in ensuring Nevada remains prosperous.

Mining and energy are two areas identified by the Industry Sector Council that overlap when it comes to public lands. Nevadans in every corner of our state deal with issues related to federal land usage and development. Because it affects so many, the delegation has actually come together with a commitment to work cooperatively on public lands issues. So much of our state is owned by the federal government, and allowing Nevada to benefit from that unique situation for economic development purposes will create valuable jobs right here in our state.

A number of lands bills are moving right now that will help accomplish those goals, including my Three Kids Mine Reclamation and Remediation Act. The Three Kids Mine is an abandoned mine site in Henderson that poses significant environmental and safety risks to the surrounding area. Most of the land that comprises the old manganese mine is controlled by the Bureau of Land Management. The proposed legislation—supported, again, by the entire delegation, the City of Henderson, and the BLM—would allow for the reclamation, cleanup, and redevelopment of this site through a public-private partnership, at no cost to taxpayers, and create an estimated 3,000 jobs.

Now another public lands issue is renewable energy development. From what I understand, there was a hearing this afternoon in which this may take on a whole new urgency. Nevada is truly positioned to lead the nation in renewable energy. Publicly held lands offer some of the best development opportunities. So, I'm working across the aisle as an original cosponsor of a bipartisan bill called the Public Lands Renewable Energy Development Act that will help move us closer to the goal of becoming a national leader in renewable energy. Currently, when projects are first conceived and penciled out, it seems like everything will work out okay. Then the bureaucratic, tedious process to actually get access to those public lands to reach the point of breaking ground results in inordinate delays that impact the viability of those projects. The bill would help to speed up the process of getting access to public lands and also provide local governments increased revenue and certainty by establishing a more predictable and direct royalty system from energy production.

Another area, tourism and gaming, will always be key to our economy, and we need to continually look for ways to strengthen this economic sector. Nevada has so much to offer tourists. From Lake Tahoe to the Hoover Dam, our attractions are second to none. But an outdated, bureaucratic visa processing system is actually preventing us from achieving our full potential. Between 2000 and 2010, the global long-haul travel market increased by 40 percent, but the portion of that travel to the United States actually decreased from 17 to 12 percent due to an outdated, inefficient tourist visa application process that can have some applicants actually waiting up to 180 days just to get their interview for a tourist visa.

A bill I introduced, the JOLT [Jobs Originated Through Launching Travel] Act, would allow us to recapture the market share we lost and allow us to grow. JOLT would expand access to visa services for potential visitors to the U.S. without reducing necessary security procedures. Faster visa processing, expedited entry for priority visitors, and the establishment of a visa videoconferencing pilot program are innovative ways to address the increasing demand for tourist visas. The JOLT Act could attract as many as 98 million more visitors to the U.S., create 1 million American jobs, and generate as much as $859 billion in revenue by 2020. Many of those visitors would come to Las Vegas and Reno. JOLT would give our economy a shot in the arm. More international travelers, who on average spend $4,000 per person per visit, will mean more jobs and more revenue into the state.

I've also joined with Congressman Bennie Thompson, Democrat from Mississippi, to cochair the Congressional Gaming Caucus. The goal of this bipartisan caucus is to keep gaming issues at the forefront of the congressional dialogue by seeking input from everyone who has an interest: industry, representatives from progaming states, and even those who may not be as friendly to gaming. Last year we were unable to move legislation on Internet poker, but that does not mean there is no role for the federal government in this area. In fact, with more and more states moving ahead with regulations of their own on Internet poker and sports gambling, we need a federal law to make sure Nevada maintains its place as a national leader in both live and Internet gaming. Congressman Thompson and I are committed to making progress on these issues in a bipartisan way.

Mining, renewable energy, tourism: Those industries will always be crucial to the overall health of our economy, but much of our future strength depends on new, emerging industries. These new areas offer Nevada a chance to take the national lead in fields that most agree are where the greatest job growth will occur in the future.

As our population continues to age, health care and medical services are going to be an increasingly important sector of our economy. Two areas that I am working on that are vital to the health professional pipeline are Graduate Medical Education and the Sustainable Growth Rate [SGR], which is the formula used to determine payments to Medicare providers. Graduate Medical Education is crucial to our ability to staff our hospitals, doctors' offices, and clinics. But there is a bottleneck in the supply line that needs to be addressed at the federal level because most of the funding for GRE comes from Medicare. We are teaching medical students right here in Nevada who want to do their residency here, who want to stay and treat patients here, who want to make our communities healthier. But because of the caps on residency slots, many of our medical students have to leave the state to do their training. Many of them will not return, because most physicians are far more likely to stay in the state or city where they do their residency. So, I am working with members of the Doctors Caucus to identify ways we can ensure the funding stream for Graduate Medical Education and update the GME system, including the out-of-date cap limits.

The Sustainable Growth Rate, or SGR, is another federal policy that threatens the professional pipeline and could hurt access to care for our seniors. As a physician, I believe there is no greater threat to the Medicare program than the Sustainable Growth Rate. Every year, due to the flawed SGR formula, our Medicare providers face an increasing threat to reimbursement cuts—this year close to 30 percent. Due to this uncertainty, mature providers are limiting their Medicare practice, and medical students and residents are considering practices that take fewer Medicare patients or they are considering careers in medical research and academics, not direct patient care. If we allow the next generation of Medicare doctors to leave traditional medical practice, who is going to take care of the baby-boomer generation as they enroll in Medicare? I have joined with Congresswoman Allyson Schwartz, Democrat of Pennsylvania, in introducing legislation to repeal the flawed SGR formula and replace it with a more sustainable, predictable payment model that rewards quality of care and not quantity of care. Such a system would give both current and future practitioners the stability and predictability they need to stay in the Medicare system and continue providing care to our seniors.

Aerospace and defense is another area where Nevada is poised to be a national leader in an exciting, emerging field. Having served in the military for more than 20 years, I am keenly aware of this sector's importance to our state and our state's economy, as well as the great opportunity we have to expand in this sector.

The Federal Aviation Administration is in search of six locations to test and develop unmanned aerial systems, or drones, to explore potential domestic uses for the hardware currently used for protecting our forces in theaters of operations overseas. As a member of the unmanned aerial systems [UAS] caucus, I think Nevada is uniquely positioned to be a host site, and again, I applaud the Governor for moving us forward on this important project.

Nevada already possesses great expertise in the field of military aeronautics and defense; has the needed infrastructure for testing and development; and has the necessary geographic resources, including the greatest swath of restricted airspace in the country, to be the ideal site. The UAS caucus has hosted meetings between industry leaders and civil liberties organizations to discuss ways all parties can come together to find a way to use these unmanned systems for domestic purposes while ensuring that our fundamental constitutional rights remain protected. I encourage this body to foster the development of these systems and bring the testing to Nevada, which will help grow our defense industrial base and great jobs, and I will continue to do what I can in Congress to make this a reality for our state.

Information technology, and more specifically data security/cyber protection, might be the most critical industry on the council's list from a national security perspective. In both the House Armed Services Committee and the House Committee on Intelligence, I hear constantly about the growing threat of cyber attacks that are posed to our national and economic security. In fact, many believe that the next major battlefield will be the Internet, while others think World War III is already taking place via the web in the form of intellectual property theft and espionage from state actors like Iran, China, and Russia. Whether you think that war is here or not, we can all agree that there is an urgent need to protect America against a cyber attack on our critical infrastructure.

From the Nevada National Security Site [NNSS] to the SuperNap operated by Switch Communications, there are programs up and running to develop the necessary technological advances that are going to keep not just Nevada, but the entire nation safe from cyber attack. Storing and securing sensitive data is becoming a big business and will only get bigger if cyber threats to the U.S. proliferate. Switch has developed data storage facilities and technologies that are revolutionizing the industry and are the reason so many top companies want their data stored here in Nevada. At the Nevada National Security Site, the Oak Ridge National Laboratory, partnering with our universities, is looking to study ways we can provide nationwide power utility security and improved protection from cyber attack. The Extreme Cyber Test Bed at NNSS can leverage a broad range of research and testing sponsored by the Departments of Defense, Homeland Security, and Energy along with the utility industry. These activities will grow high–paying, high–tech jobs in Nevada and reinvigorate our science, technology, engineering, and math communities.

Now while aerospace and defense and information technology represent the next frontiers for our state, we need to continue to develop and improve existing infrastructure to strengthen our logistics and operations sector. Nevada sits at the center of the Mountain West, and we can leverage our geography to become a major warehousing and distribution hub for western states. I had the chance to visit Spread Shirt t-shirt company in Henderson a few months ago. Spread Shirt is an international company that decided to put one of its two American production sites in Henderson for precisely this reason. They do a lot of West Coast business, and they wanted their production operation close to where their customers are located, and they decided Nevada was the perfect location.

To realize our full potential, completion of the I-11 corridor is critical. Phoenix and Las Vegas are the only metropolitan areas of more than a million people not connected by an interstate. Now in the spring of 2012, there were two different transportation bills—one passed by the House and one passed by the Senate—and there were concerns that the I-11 designation would not make the final bill. I led a joint Nevada-Arizona delegation letter to the House and Senate conferees urging them to include the federal designation of the I-11 corridor in the final transportation bill and worked closely with the committee chairman to make sure that it was included. We pointed out that the completion of this corridor would provide total commerce connectivity between the United States, Mexico, and Canada throughout the Intermountain West, which is vital to the continued economic growth of the region. When the conferees reported the final bill, I was proud to support the legislation that designated the I-11 corridor as eligible for future federal funding.

As we develop our infrastructure, we will attract more manufacturers–companies like Spectrum Pharmaceuticals, which researches and develops new cancer-fighting drugs, and Vada Tech, which manufactures leading-edge circuit boards for critical defense systems, both of which are currently located in Henderson. What these possibilities in each of our specific industry sectors make clear is that the future of Nevada is bright. We are primed and ready to diversify in order to compete in the national and global marketplace, but we are also poised to maintain our stature as the national leader in industries like tourism and gaming, mining, and renewable energy development.

One of the keys to the success of the Industry Clusters Initiative is having workers trained with the skills to fill the jobs of today and tomorrow. We all know that we lost jobs in this state that are unlikely to come back to the levels where they were previously. Our objective must be to help those displaced workers find jobs in this new economy. There are two main ways we can do that: improving education and reforming job training programs. I'll start with the latter.

We have seen some positive trends in our economic recovery lately, with a slowly decreasing unemployment rate. But we must constantly remind ourselves that there are still far too many Nevadans who are out of work or looking for better work. Too often these folks are the most economically vulnerable members of our community—the older worker, the single mom, or young people. Now the Department of Labor estimates 12 million unemployed Americans, yet they also say there are 3.6 million jobs that are currently unfilled. So why does this mismatch exist? It exists because we need a skilled workforce that is trained and ready to do the jobs that do and will exist, not the jobs that did exist. Our current workforce development system and job training programs are wasteful, duplicative, and inefficient.

In 2009, the federal government spent $18 billion to administer 47 programs across nine different agencies. My colleagues and I on the House Committee for Workforce and Education recently passed the SKILLS [Support Knowledge and Investing in Lifelong Skills] Act, which will help connect out-of-work Americans with job opportunities by creating a flexible workforce investment fund to serve as a single source of support for workers, employers, and job seekers. The SKILLS Act streamlines and eliminates 35 ineffective and duplicative programs, while strengthening the roles of employers in workforce development decisions and facilitating greater cooperation with our community colleges—our best way to quickly develop needed training programs for these new jobs. I was also pleased to see a piece of legislation I introduced last Congress, the local JOBS [Jumpstart Our Business Startups] Act, included in this important bill. Making commonsense, meaningful improvements to federal job training programs and workforce development will help staff the jobs the Industry Sector Council initiative will attract to Nevada—the jobs of today and tomorrow, not the jobs of yesterday.

But we cannot stop there. The foundation upon which all of this is based will always be education. We cannot forget that the next generation of teachers, engineers, scientists, computer programmers are in our schools right now. Again, Governor Sandoval and members of this legislative body are rightly focused on improving education, and I want to continue to work with all of you to ensure the federal government is a willing and cooperative partner as we work on education issues. I believe that we need to put our students in a position to receive a high-quality education which will prepare them for a good job in today's competitive global marketplace, and that means they must graduate career- or college-ready.

All three of our children are products of the Clark County School District, with the third currently at Coronado High School, home of the Cougars, so I approach these issues not just as a lawmaker, but as a father. In the Education and Workforce Committee, we are committed to giving students every opportunity to access a great education, and that means reauthorizing the Elementary and Secondary Education Act [ESEA]. ESEA is now five years overdue, and the shortcomings of No Child Left Behind [NCLB] are well-identified. Now is our chance in Washington to have a great impact on the education of our children. Currently, only about 10 percent of a school district's operating budget comes from the federal government, but that funding comes with all sorts of strings attached as to how the districts are able to use the funds.

Based on the issues we face, something needs to be done to provide flexibility to states and school districts and empower educators and parents at the local level to make decisions in the allocation of federal funds to best educate their students. We can no longer stovepipe federal funds and force districts to spend them in places where they are not needed, but where they are told by the federal government. Through a combination of effective state and local education policies and the federal government providing funding with fewer strings attached, we can and will have a real impact on what happens in Nevada's classrooms.

I hope that if you take one thing away from my remarks tonight, it is that you have an advocate and willing partner in Washington to champion policies that are going to benefit Nevada. While we serve in different legislative bodies, we are all colleagues. We have a shared interest—a better Nevada for all of our constituents, our families, and future generations. The Nevada I envision for my children and grandchildren is one full of opportunity and prosperity, where people have the same access to the opportunities we have had. And the best way we can achieve that shared goal is if we—state, local, and federal officials—work together and are pulling on the same side of the rope to lift Nevada to new heights.

Together, we have already made great strides to create a Nevada primed for the twenty-first century. I look forward to continuing that work together.

I thank you for your time tonight and for your service, dedication, and commitment to the Silver State. May God bless each of you and provide you with wisdom, discernment, and guidance as you serve our great state. Good night.

Assembly called to order at 5:40 p.m.

Madam Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present except Assemblymen Benitez-Thompson, Duncan, and Munford, who were excused, and one vacant.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rabbi Bradley Tecktiel.

May it be Your will, O God, to bestow upon us blessing and kindness.

Each week on the Sabbath in synagogues around the state, we ask for God's blessing for our government, its leaders and advisors, and all who exercise just and rightful authority. We ask that God teach them insights from the Bible, that they may administer all affairs of state fairly.

We pray that citizens of all races and creeds forge a common bond in true harmony to banish all hatred and bigotry and to safeguard the ideals and free institutions, which are the pride and glory of our country.

We ask these things of You Almighty God, because the work this State Legislature does on a daily basis is holy work.

May God guide our Representatives in this body to put aside all pettiness and enmity that might prevent them from success. May God grant our leaders the wisdom to legislate for the best interests of the citizens of Nevada.

May the guiding principle of the Torah, "Love thy Neighbor as thyself, " be ever on the minds of our legislators as they go about their daily labor of establishing laws for the public.

We thank our leaders who have given their time, talent, and effort in public service to the state of Nevada.

Finally, May God protect us from all trouble and travail, and when our task is done, may God guide us home safely to our family and friends.

AMEN.

SEVENTY-SEVENTH SESSION, 2013

Madam Speaker, Chamber leaders, Governor: Thank you for hosting us earlier at Nevada's first Holocaust Memorial service. We should give the Governor a round of applause.

Distinguished guests, one and all. Thank you for allowing me to come and address you this evening. I know how valuable your time is and how very busy you've been and are going to be in the next couple of months. I also appreciate the fact that some of you are on your way to Reno to help with the fund-raiser for the Humane Society. This is a cause very dear to my heart. Senator Townsend and I worked on a lot of animal protection issues, and I thank Senator Manendo for carrying that on with your horse-tripping bills.

I've been following your work lately with both admiration and interest. Just in the last few weeks, you have dealt with an unprecedented personal matter, you voted to tax an industry that's been protected since it wrote the state Constitution, you have moved towards repealing the Nevada version of DOMA [Defense of Marriage Act], and you have visited a marijuana market with really good buds.

Madam Speaker, when you said this was not going to be business as usual this session, you really meant it. You have my admiration for all that you're up to. Thank you for that.

I cut my political teeth in this building. I learned a lot about Nevada, its great resources, and its many challenges. I made some lifelong friends. Mags, you're one of them, and Marlene Lockhard, just to name a few. Don Williams—how do ya'll manage without the staff? And I hope I did some good for the people of Nevada.

I miss the old timers who are no longer with us, and that's especially the case with Jack Vergiels and Bill Raggio. But it's very exciting to look out at all the new faces. The faces of this Legislature are the faces of diversity. They are the faces of Nevada, and I congratulate you all for being here.

Speaking of diversity, that's one of the really exciting things about representing District 1 in southern Nevada. It's the most diverse district in the whole state. We've got the Hispanic east side and the Asian west side; it is home to the Armenian and Greek churches, the Ethiopian cab drivers, Buddhist temples, Indian markets, and Irish pubs. International food festivals are going to be the death of me before this is over. African Americans make up 10 percent of the population, and the Las Vegas Paiute Tribe's reservation is also located in District 1.

I'm also honored to tell you that I serve in the most diverse Congress in history. Just among the women Democrats alone, there is great diversity. We have the first Hindu, who is Tulsi Gabbard from Hawaii. We have a Tai–American veteran who lost both of her legs in Iraq–that's Tammy Duckworth from Illinois. We have a bisexual, former state legislator from Arizona, of all places, Kyrsten Sinema, and an African-American, Harvard educated lawyer from Alabama, Terri Sewell. Now that's diversity to be proud of, and it honors me to be part of that group.

The last time I came before you was four years ago. In 2009, our state faced unprecedented challenges. Unemployment was at a record high and the worst in the country, along with our foreclosure rate. We saw our friends, our neighbors, our family members have to close their businesses, lose their jobs, and have their homes taken right out from under them. Construction projects were closing down and disappearing overnight, and tourism and gaming revenues were struggling. But thanks to the hard work and determination of the Nevada people, much progress has been made since that time. Unemployment fell for the eighteenth straight month in February, Las Vegas welcomed a record number of visitors in 2012, and gaming revenues increased over 2 percent from the previous year. Nevada's export businesses are also expanding, thanks in large part to the Governor's international trade initiatives. Housing values are now going up, and in District 1 there are some very exciting new commercial projects that are coming online that will create jobs and further boost our economy. We've got our entrepreneurial spirit back.

Downtown Las Vegas is undergoing an incredible revitalization that epitomizes the best of public-private partnerships. Mayor Caroline Goodman and Zappos executive Tony Hsieh are turning downtown into a new, hip area. It's attracting small businesses, high–tech companies, and real estate investors. For example, in one day downtown, you can have lunch at Eat, shop at the Container Park, buy fresh produce at the Downtown3rd Farmer's Market, get a drink at the mobile Cycle Pub, hear a lecture at the Construction Zone, and walk your pet at the dog park on Fremont at Eighth. And there's lots more that's coming really fast.

Nearby in the Arts District, you can enjoy a performance at the fabulous Smith Center or take your family to the new Discovery Children's Museum. You can visit many of the small art galleries or you can participate in what they call the Color Run. That's exciting.

On the Strip, a lot of things are going on that are in District 1. We find SLS remodeling the old Sahara into a boutique hotel with a known brand that will attract a new demographic of tourists. The Genting Group is developing Resorts World, a major City Center-like project on the Strip that will attract Asian businesses and tourists. The MGM is building a 20,000 seat arena, and Caesars will soon complete its Linq Project with all the new retail and the—I call it a Ferris wheel but they call it an observation wheel, a rose by any other name—it's going to be a nice addition.

These projects welcome jobs. They bring good jobs in our construction and hospitality industries so badly needed. In addition to that, lots of family-owned and operated small businesses are popping up all over the heart of the Las Vegas Valley. We've got Viva Las Arepas, World of Feng Shui, and the Stitch Factory. In fact, if it's happening in Nevada, it's very likely happening in District 1, so I'm proud to brag about the recovery. We have slowly begun to move in the right direction. But while we're bragging, we've got to remember that we still have a long way to go. It's a given that everyone benefits when the economy is growing, so we must ensure this growth continues, with policies that are reasonable, fair, and balanced. We must reform our tax code and adopt a budget that is not just an accounting tool, but really is a reflection of our nation's priorities. We shouldn't spend hard-earned taxpayers' money on programs we don't need, but instead we should keep promises to, and create opportunities for, the most vulnerable in our communities. For example, I agree that we don't need funding to build a robot squirrel to see how it interacts with rattlesnakes, but we must feed our children. Hungry children can't learn. Educated children can achieve their potential, and unfilled promise results in a nation that falls back. Likewise, it's true that we don't need to fund a NASA [National Aeronautics and Space Administration] study of menu options for trips to Mars. But we must protect Social Security and Medicare for our seniors. And while we can surely do without research on whether or not stressed-out birds make good parents, we must invigorate our manufacturing sector, because if you make it in America, you can make it in America.

The good news is that we have some very exciting options to choose from. We are at a crossroad in this state and in this nation, and I truly believe if elected officials work together to find creative solutions to our problems, this country can become greater than ever in the course of the next decade. So let's not blow this opportunity. Let's take advantage of what is out there to offer.

To begin with, I believe we have to make smart investments—investments in people, investments in energy, and investments in transportation infrastructure. First, let's invest in our people because they are our greatest resource. We must provide a quality education for all children, strengthen our schools, and commit to preparing our students for those jobs of the future. Towards this end, we must fund Head Start and Pell grants, we must promote STEM [Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics] learning, and we must find a way to help professional students pay off their loans by working in underdeveloped communities.

We must also pass the Dream Act. This has to be not only an education goal, but part of comprehensive immigration reform. We also need to further revise the visa program so that we do not educate the best and brightest and then make them leave. We want the next Microsoft and the next Google to be developed right here in the United States, not somewhere far away.

Third, we need to invest in people in more ways than just education and immigration. We have to do everything that we possibly can to help our brave servicemen and women and their families who sacrifice so much, so that we can protect our democratic way of life. As ranking member of the Subcommittee on Disability Assistance and Memorial Affairs, I am committed first and foremost to reducing the backlog. You hear that from all the veterans—the backlog of filing for benefits. Do you know that right now, the average length of time that a veteran in Nevada has to wait to have his application processed is 485 days? That is just not acceptable. Neither should any veteran be homeless or in need of a job that we can't help.

Besides investing in people, let's also invest in renewable energy. I commend the Legislature for all the work that it has done to encourage the development of wind, solar, geothermal, and biomass sources, which in turn create good jobs for Nevada. As a result of your work, we are on the cutting edge nationwide of some of the policies that the Legislature has enacted. There are also exciting programs that are being developed all around the state which put us on the path of becoming a world leader in production and distribution of green energy. I pledge that I will continue to work with you at the federal level on these issues by supporting energy tax credits, low-interest loans, and funding for state energy offices, so count on that.

Our fourth investment I want to point out is in infrastructure, transportation infrastructure. I am proud, once again, to serve on the Transportation Committee, because Nevada's economy depends on moving people and products in ways that are quicker, friendlier, easier, and cheaper. From tourists to lobsters, we import almost everything in this state, so we need to have a twenty-first century transportation infrastructure system to make it all work and keep it all moving. The longer we wait, the further we fall behind.

I say, "Go big or go home." That is my mantra, and that is my recommendation. Let us build Interstate 11, the interstate highway between Phoenix and Las Vegas and possibly further down the road. Let us deploy NextGen [The Next Generation Air Transportation System], which is a program that will increase safety for the flying public, decrease the cost of fuel, and help airlines become more efficient. Let us increase TIFIA [Transportation Infrastructure Finance and Innovation Act] and WIFIA [Water Infrastructure Finance and Innovation Act] funding, which is the first step towards creating an infrastructure bank, another public-private partnership that the President has talked about.

And it is great to speed the visa process, but let's open up the Visa Waiver Program. Let's invite more tourists from Brazil and Israel and India and China, middle-class folks with money in their pockets who want to come to Nevada for a holiday. That is what we should be doing. We should also make Reno and Las Vegas multimodal inland ports so we can facilitate the flow of people and goods from the Pacific Rim and South America. Go big or go home.

In addition to investing wisely, Nevada has got to get its fair share of federal dollars. I know you have heard a lot about getting more money through better grant applications–and many of the state and local governments are doing a good job at being more aggressive about that, which is great–but let's also think outside the box for other sources of revenue from the federal government. For example, we have to fight against efforts by the federal government to take our SNPLMA [Southern Nevada Public Land Management Act] money from sale of public lands. These are critical funds that take care of Lake Tahoe, they protect other water sources, they build bike paths and hiking trails, and fund clean environment programs, and we cannot let the federal government take that Nevada money.

I will tell you something else we need to go after: Let us go after all, or at least some, of that so-called "handle tax." You know sports books pay the federal government 0.25 percent on every wager placed. Since more gambling on sports events takes place in Nevada than anywhere else, we pay the lion's share of that money. In fact, we contributed $8.7 million in 2012, and that figure is expected to continue to grow. This tax was originally developed at the federal level to be used to go after illegal sports betting—bookmakers—but now that money just goes into the IRS general fund to be used on programs that have no nexus to gaming, and there is no separate accounting. That is our money. We have got to go get it and bring it back, and I think that is what we should do.

You can see these proposals I have mentioned are not partisan issues, they are not ideological issues, and they are not blue or red issues. I think they are truly Nevada issues, so we in Congress can and should work together on them for the good of the state. I commend you very much for doing just that here in Carson City. You are very good at working across the aisle, working across the houses, and working across the lawn with the Governor, so thank you for doing that. You set an example for us, and we should follow that example in Washington.

It is a good thing that the members of Nevada's House delegation have worked together before. We have all served, along with Senator Heller, as members of this august body, so we know each other, we have worked together, and we have in the past put aside party affiliations to get things done. I am confident that back there—with Senator Reid at the helm and you guarding our flank—we can do just that and move Nevada forward.

So again, let me thank you for your attention and for your courtesy. I appreciate very much being here. I look forward to continuing to work with you, and I hope you will let me return the hospitality and come see me in the exciting District 1 or back in Washington. The latch string is always out. Thank you very much.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Government Affairs:

Amendment No. 13.

AN ACT relating to the Department of Administration; revising provisions governing the duties of the Division of State Library and Archives of the Department of Administration; eliminating the Repository for Records Concerning Programs, Activities and Events Related to the Participation of Citizens in the Development of Public Policy and the Improvement of the Operation of Government; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law sets forth a list of specific items that the State Library and Archives Administrator is required to keep custody of and preserve. (NRS 378.245) Section 1 of this bill eliminates the description of the State Seal and other such seals and expired official bonds approved by the Governor from the list.

Existing law allows the Administrator to inspect the physical nature of governmental records in the custody of a state or local governmental agency that are not confidential or privileged. (NRS 378.255) Section 2 of this bill expands the ~~[inspection]~~ authority of the Administrator to ~~[include confidential or privileged]~~ inspect information in records in the custody of state or local governmental agencies and to inspect the physical nature of and information contained in such records that are confidential or privileged under certain circumstances. Section 2 also requires an inspection of confidential or privileged records to be logged and prohibits the Administrator from disclosing any such confidential or privileged information.

Under existing law, the Division of State Library and Archives of the Department of Administration is required to provide microfilming services to state agencies and local governments. (NRS 239.070, 378.280) Sections 3 and 7 of this bill require the Division to also provide digital imaging services to those governmental entities. Section 2 of this bill authorizes the Division to provide microfilming and digital imaging services for the records of the Legislative and Judicial Branches of State Government, upon request.

Section 10 of this bill eliminates the authority of the Administrator to enter into an agreement with the Secretary of State to keep and preserve material for the Secretary of State. (NRS 378.260) Section 10 also eliminates certain fees that are duplicative of fees that a governmental entity is generally authorized to charge. (NRS 239.052, 239.055) Finally, section 10 eliminates the Repository for Records Concerning Programs, Activities and Events Related to the Participation of Citizens in the Development of Public Policy and the Improvement of the Operation of Government, which was created to store and maintain information submitted concerning ways to increase citizen participation in government. (NRS 378.400) Sections 4-6, 8 and 9 of this bill make conforming changes relating to the elimination of the Repository, including requiring that documents and information currently submitted to the Repository be sent to the Division of State Library and Archives.

Amendment No. 66.

AN ACT relating to criminal procedure; requiring certain district courts to establish an appropriate program for the treatment of certain offenders who are veterans or members of the military [.] if funds are available for the establishment of such a program; requiring a district court to consider the facts and circumstances surrounding the offense committed by an offender eligible for such a program in certain circumstances; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, a district court may establish an appropriate program for the treatment of certain offenders who are veterans and members of the military. (NRS 176A.280) [This] Section 1 of this bill requires , to the extent that funds are available, a district court in a county whose population is 700,000 or more (currently Clark County) to establish such a program. A district court in a county whose population is less than 700,000 (currently all counties other than Clark County) retains the option to establish such a program.

Existing law authorizes a district court to place certain offenders who are veterans or members of the military on probation upon terms and conditions that must include attendance and successful completion of such a program. However, the court may not assign an offender to such a program without the prosecuting attorney stipulating to the assignment if: (1) the offense committed by the offender involved the use or threatened use of force or violence; or (2) the offender was previously convicted of a felony that involved the use or threatened use of force or violence. (NRS 176A.290) Section 1.5 of this bill provides that in determining whether an offense involved the use or threatened use of force or violence, the court must consider the facts and circumstances surrounding the offense, including, without limitation, whether the offender intended to place another person in reasonable apprehension of bodily harm.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 176A.280 is hereby amended to read as follows:

176A.280 ~~[A]~~

1. In a county whose population is 700,000 or more, a court ~~[may]~~ shall , to the extent that funds are available, establish an appropriate program for the treatment of veterans and members of the military to which it may assign a defendant pursuant to NRS 176A.290.

2. In a county whose population is less than 700,000, a court may establish a program described in subsection 1.

3. The assignment of a defendant to a program established pursuant to this section must include the terms and conditions for successful completion of the program and provide for progress reports at intervals set by the court to ensure that the defendant is making satisfactory progress towards completion of the program.

Sec. 1.5. NRS 176A.290 is hereby amended to read as follows:

176A.290 1. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 2, if a defendant who is a veteran or a member of the military and who suffers from mental illness, alcohol or drug abuse or posttraumatic stress disorder as described in NRS 176A.285 tenders a plea of guilty, guilty but mentally ill or nolo contendere to, or is found guilty or guilty but mentally ill of, any offense for which the suspension of sentence or the granting of probation is not prohibited by statute, the court may, without entering a judgment of conviction and with the consent of the defendant, suspend further proceedings and place the defendant on probation upon terms and conditions that must include attendance and successful completion of a program established pursuant to NRS 176A.280.

2. If the offense committed by the defendant involved the use or threatened use of force or violence or if the defendant was previously convicted in this State or in any other jurisdiction of a felony that involved the use or threatened use of force or violence, the court may not assign the defendant to the program unless the prosecuting attorney stipulates to the assignment. For the purposes of this subsection, in determining whether an offense involved the use or threatened use of force or violence, the court shall consider the facts and circumstances surrounding the offense, including, without limitation, whether the defendant intended to place another person in reasonable apprehension of bodily harm.

3. Upon violation of a term or condition:

(a) The court may enter a judgment of conviction and proceed as provided in the section pursuant to which the defendant was charged.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (e) of subsection 2 of NRS 193.130, the court may order the defendant to the custody of the Department of Corrections if the offense is punishable by imprisonment in the state prison.

4. Upon fulfillment of the terms and conditions, the court shall discharge the defendant and dismiss the proceedings. Discharge and dismissal pursuant to this section is without adjudication of guilt and is not a conviction for purposes of this section or for purposes of employment, civil rights or any statute or regulation or license or questionnaire or for any other public or private purpose, but is a conviction for the purpose of additional penalties imposed for second or subsequent convictions or the setting of bail. Discharge and dismissal restores the defendant, in the contemplation of the law, to the status occupied before the arrest, indictment or information. The defendant may not be held thereafter under any law to be guilty of perjury or otherwise giving a false statement by reason of failure to recite or acknowledge that arrest, indictment, information or trial in response to an inquiry made of the defendant for any purpose.

Sec. 2. The provisions of NRS 354.599 do not apply to any additional expenses of a local government that are related to the provisions of this act.

Sec. 3. This act becomes effective on January 1, 2014.

Existing law provides that any contract for the purchase of any supplies, materials or equipment by any state officer, department, institution, board, commission or agency is void if it is contrary to the statutory and regulatory provisions governing state purchasing. Existing law further provides that the head of the using agency and the employee who entered into such a contract are personally liable for the costs of the supplies, materials or equipment. Amendment No. 114.

AN ACT relating to the Nevada System of Higher Education; clarifying provisions governing tuition charges assessed against certain students; providing that tuition charges must not be assessed against veterans of the Armed Forces of the United States who were honorably discharged within a certain period; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law authorizes the Board of Regents of the University of Nevada to assess tuition charges against students who are not residents of Nevada at all campuses of the Nevada System of Higher Education. The tuition charges are in addition to registration fees and other fees assessed against students who are residents of Nevada. Existing law also provides that tuition must be free for certain students and veterans. (NRS 396.540) This bill clarifies the statutory provisions governing the assessment of tuition charges. Additionally, this bill revises the group of veterans against whom tuition charges must not be assessed by: (1) removing the requirement that such veterans were, at some point, on active duty while stationed at a military installation in the State of Nevada or a military installation in another state which has a specific nexus to this State; and (2) requiring that such veterans were honorably discharged within the ~~[3]~~ 2 years immediately preceding the date of matriculation of the veteran at a university, state college or community college within the System.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 396.540 is hereby amended to read as follows:

396.540 1. For the purposes of this section:

(a) "Bona fide resident" shall be construed in accordance with the provisions of NRS 10.155 and policies established by the Board of Regents, to the extent that those policies do not conflict with any statute. The qualification "bona fide" is intended to ensure that the residence is genuine and established for purposes other than the avoidance of tuition.

(b) "Matriculation" has the meaning ascribed to it in regulations adopted by the Board of Regents.

(c) "Tuition charge" means a charge assessed against students who are not residents of Nevada and which is in addition to registration fees or other fees assessed against students who are residents of Nevada.

2. The Board of Regents may fix a tuition charge for students at all campuses of the System, but tuition charges must not be ~~[free to:]~~ assessed against:

(a) All students whose families have been bona fide residents of the State of Nevada for at least 12 months before the matriculation of the student at a university, state college or community college within the System;

(b) All students whose families reside outside of the State of Nevada, providing such students have themselves been bona fide residents of the State of Nevada for at least 12 months before their matriculation at a university, state college or community college within the System;

(c) All public school teachers who are employed full-time by school districts in the State of Nevada;

(d) All full-time teachers in private elementary, secondary and postsecondary educational institutions in the State of Nevada whose curricula meet the requirements of chapter 394 of NRS;

(e) Employees of the System who take classes other than during their regular working hours;

(f) Members of the Armed Forces of the United States who are on active duty and stationed at a military installation in the State of Nevada; and

(g) Veterans of the Armed Forces of the United States who were honorably discharged ~~[and who were on active duty while stationed at a military installation in the State of Nevada or a military installation in another state which has a specific nexus to this State, including, without limitation, the Marine Corps Mountain Warfare Training Center located at Pickel Meadow, California, on the date of discharge.]~~ within the ~~[3]~~ 2 years immediately preceding the date of matriculation of the veteran at a university, state college or community college within the System.

3. The Board of Regents may grant ~~[tuitions free]~~ exemptions from tuition charges each semester to other worthwhile and deserving students from other states and foreign countries, in a number not to exceed a number equal to 3 percent of the total matriculated enrollment of students for the last preceding fall semester.

Amendment No. 42.
ASSEMBLY JOINT RESOLUTION—Expressing the intent of the Legislature to establish a biomass industry to restore certain ecosystems on public lands.
WHEREAS, The Nevada Pinyon-Juniper Partnership estimates that currently ~~[one quarter]~~ 9 million acres of Nevada's landscape is pinyon-juniper woodlands, with over 100,000 acres ~~[of such forest]~~ each year converting to the highest density of pinyon-juniper; and
WHEREAS, Such expanding, aging, overgrown pinyon-juniper woodlands adversely affect ~~[forest]~~ ecosystem health with increased disease and insect infestations, negatively impact wildlife diversity by crowding out herbaceous vegetation and shrubs such as sagebrush, and are highly susceptible to catastrophic fire, which adversely affects watersheds and causes erosion; and
WHEREAS, ~~[Proactive]~~ Environmentally sound and scientifically based proactive management of ~~[overgrown]~~ the expansion and overgrowth of pinyon-juniper stands may reduce fire suppression and restoration costs, reduce the introduction of invasive species such as cheat grass that are detrimental to the ecosystem, enhance the wildlife habitat for sagebrush obligate species such as greater sage grouse and mule deer, improve watershed health and reduce the risk of catastrophic wildfire by reducing high fuel loads; and
WHEREAS, Biomass from pinyon-juniper management may be used for commercial purposes, including the production of renewable energy ~~[,]~~ and wood products, and the promotion of ~~[that use]~~ those uses may strengthen communities by creating rural industries and jobs in counties whose private sector economies are affected by the dominant presence of public lands; and

WHEREAS, The Nevada Legislature recognizes the cultural importance of pinyon-juniper woodlands to Native Americans and the need for thorough consultation with tribal governments when woodland management projects are planned; and

WHEREAS, The Nevada Legislature recognizes that pinyon-juniper treatments on public land may be subject to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, 42 U.S.C. § 4321 et seq., thereby requiring public input and participation; and

WHEREAS, The federal Stewardship End Result Contracting program, most recently authorized by section 323 of Public Law No. 108-7 and set to expire on September 30, 2013, if extended by the United States Congress, may provide a valuable resource by facilitating agreements with private contractors for treatment and management of pinyon-juniper woodlands that would benefit rural communities ~~[and forest]~~ , ecosystem resilience and rangeland health; and

WHEREAS, It is the policy of this State to encourage participation with all levels of government and private enterprise in cooperative state, regional and national programs to assure adequate supplies of energy resources and wood products and markets for those energy sources ~~[,]~~ and wood products; and

WHEREAS, The Nevada Legislature encourages both government and private enterprise to maximize the use of indigenous energy resources and wood products to the extent such use is environmentally sound and competitively and economically feasible; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That the Nevada Legislature hereby expresses its intent to establish and encourage the creation of a biomass industry in Nevada to expand efforts to manage pinyon-juniper woodlands and restore pinyon-juniper and sagebrush ecosystems at a landscape scale on public lands based on sound scientific principles for the benefit of ecosystem resiliency, economic stability, ~~[energy]~~ production ~~[,]~~ of biomass energy and wood products, hydrologic function, rangeland health , ~~[and]~~ wildlife habitat ~~[,]~~ and reduction of hazardous fuels; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Nevada Legislature hereby encourages the Congress of the United States to extend the authority of the Bureau of Land Management of the United States Department of the Interior and the United States Forest Service under section 323 of Public Law No. 108-7 to enter into stewardship contracts or agreements for management and restoration projects on public lands beyond the current expiration date, and to extend the maximum length of those stewardship contracts or agreements to 20 years; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to the Governor, the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States as the presiding officer of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, each member of the Nevada Congressional Delegation, the Director of the Bureau of Land Management and the Chief of the United States Forest Service; and be it further

Amendment No. 52.

SUMMARY—Urges the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service to assist the State of Nevada with the prevention and suppression of wildfires and repeat wildfires in this State. (BDR R-209)

ASSEMBLY JOINT RESOLUTION—Urging the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service to assist the State of Nevada with the prevention and suppression of wildfires and repeat wildfires in this State.

WHEREAS, The State of Nevada is one of the states that is greatly affected by wildfires; and

WHEREAS, The wildfires in Nevada have burned vast areas of this State, including numerous acres of rangeland and forest located on public lands managed and controlled by the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service; and

WHEREAS, The growth of an invasive, nonnative annual grass known as cheatgrass has been a significant contributing factor to the increased extent and frequency of wildfires in this State; and

WHEREAS, Frequent wildfires and the increased presence of cheatgrass have degraded the ecosystem in this State by inhibiting the establishment of native plant species ~~[,]~~ and increasing the highly volatile fuel load of the nonnative cheatgrass, which substantially increases the chance of a repeat wildfire in the same area; and

WHEREAS, A repeat wildfire in the same area is often more devastating to the ecosystem of the rangeland than the first wildfire; and

WHEREAS, In addition to burning rangeland and forest which support ~~[livestock grazing,]~~ multiple uses, the frequent wildfires have damaged wildlife habitats, including the habitat of the sage grouse, a bird whose populations have been declining for years, and have caused a rise in the costs associated with wildfire suppression and the rehabilitation of those public lands affected by the wildfires ~~[,]~~ and repeat wildfires; and

WHEREAS, In a 1,700-acre study conducted by researchers at the University of Nevada, Reno, late-season livestock grazing was shown to reduce the amount of cheatgrass, which could fuel a fire, from 500 pounds per acre to 25 pounds per acre; and

WHEREAS, Among other options to decrease the extent and frequency of wildfires occurring in Nevada, the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service should partner with local agencies and other interested parties and may consider partnering with the livestock industry to ~~[increase]~~ determine whether the timing and intensity of increased livestock grazing ~~[on]~~ based on the actual condition of the rangeland and the cheatgrass fuel load would reduce the frequency of wildfires and repeat wildfires and enhance the overall condition of the rangeland and forest located on public lands in this State; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That the members of the 77th Session of the Nevada Legislature hereby urge the Bureau of Land Management and the United States Forest Service to assist the State of Nevada with the prevention and suppression of wildfires and repeat wildfires in this State; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to the Director of the Bureau of Land Management, the Chief of the United States Forest Service and the President of the Nevada Cattlemen's Association; and be it further

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Natural Resources, Agriculture, and Mining:

Amendment No. 43.

ASSEMBLY JOINT RESOLUTION—Urging Congress to take certain actions concerning federal public lands in Nevada.

WHEREAS, The Federal Government manages and controls over 85 percent of the land in Nevada; and

WHEREAS, Nevada has an abundance of natural resources, including vast areas of land suitable for raising livestock ~~[,]~~ and for conservation and general recreational use, large deposits of gold, silver, copper and other minerals, and plentiful renewable resources, including, without limitation, sun, wind and geothermal resources that may be used to generate electricity; and

WHEREAS, Many of those renewable resources are located on public lands managed and controlled by the Federal Government; and

WHEREAS, Activities that occur on those public lands increase the demand for services provided by the State of Nevada and local governments in Nevada; and

WHEREAS, The State of Nevada and local governments in Nevada are limited in their ability to collect taxes or other fees from the Federal Government or from the users of public lands to fund services provided by the State and local governments; and

WHEREAS, The Federal Government receives revenue from the licensing and permitting of activities that occur on those public lands, including mining, grazing livestock , general recreational use and generating electricity from renewable resources; and

WHEREAS, In recent years, efforts have been made to curtail the practice by the Federal Government of sharing a portion of that revenue with the State of Nevada and local governments, including curtailing the practice of sharing with the counties a portion of the revenue derived from the lease of public lands and royalties from the generation of electricity from geothermal resources; and

WHEREAS, Recent legislation introduced in the 111th and 112th United States Congress would have, if enacted, required the Secretary of the Interior to establish a leasing program for wind and solar energy development on federal public lands; and

WHEREAS, Such legislation would also have required the sharing of a portion of the revenue from the competitive leasing program with the counties from which the revenue is derived, thereby creating a beneficial and meaningful role for counties in Nevada; and

WHEREAS, The members of the 113th Congress are now considering the budget submitted by the United States Department of the Interior for federal Fiscal Year 2014, and its possible effects on the counties' share of royalties derived from the generation of electricity from geothermal resources; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY AND SENATE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, JOINTLY, That the members of the 77th Session of the Nevada Legislature hereby urge Congress:

1. To ensure that the public lands in Nevada that are managed and controlled by the Federal Government remain open and accessible to multiple uses ~~[.]~~ , such as raising livestock, mining, conservation, general recreational use and the use of renewable resources, including, without limitation, sun, wind and geothermal resources that may be used to generate electricity; and

2. To enact legislation ensuring that the State of Nevada and the affected local governments in Nevada receive a portion of the revenue received by the Federal Government for activities conducted on the federal public lands in Nevada and ensuring that such sharing includes, without limitation, the continuation of federal laws and policies whereby local governments receive appropriate rents and royalties for activities which generate electricity from geothermal resources; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to the Vice President of the United States as the presiding officer of the United States Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives and each member of the Nevada Congressional Delegation; and be it further Assembly Resolution No. 8—Adding former Assemblywoman Gene Wines Segerblom to the Assembly Wall of Distinction.

WHEREAS, The Assembly of the Legislature of the State of Nevada has established an Assembly Wall of Distinction for those past members selected by leadership who served with great distinction and who made exemplary contributions to the State of Nevada; and

WHEREAS, The members of the Nevada Assembly are saddened by the loss of one of their own, former Assemblywoman Gene Wines Segerblom; and

WHEREAS, Gene Segerblom served Nevada and her constituents in Boulder City, Laughlin and Searchlight in Assembly District No. 22 in Clark County for over four regular sessions; and

WHEREAS, Gene began her career as an elected public official as a councilwoman on the Boulder City Council from 1978 through 1983; and

WHEREAS, In 1992, upon her election to the Legislature, she held the record as having the "latest start" of any woman elected to the Legislature and was only 1 year shy of being Nevada's oldest "freshman" legislator in the history of the State of Nevada; and

WHEREAS, In addition to her public life, Gene taught school in Nevada for many years and traveled the State with her husband Cliff, writing articles on Nevada history and geography while he photographed the wonderful and unique places they visited; and

WHEREAS, Gene was active in numerous civic organizations and served on many foundations to benefit causes ranging from the Boulder City Museum and Historical Association to the Boulder City Chamber of Commerce; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, That Assemblywoman Gene Wines Segerblom is hereby added to the Assembly Wall of Distinction; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to the family of former Assemblywoman Gene Wines Segerblom.

Assemblywoman Flores moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblymen Flores, Stewart, Ohrenschall, Grady, Dondero Loop, and Madam Speaker.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN FLORES:

We are here today to honor one of our own and a pioneer for women everywhere. Gene spent most of her life in Nevada, and we can only imagine what it must have been like to be born in the Ruby Valley in eastern Nevada at the end of World War I, and to be a young wife during the Second World War, watching the building of Hoover Dam, along with the growth of Las Vegas into a gambling Mecca and a top travel destination that it currently is. Long before women's liberation in the sixties, Gene Segerblom was already living life by her own rules. With a career and a family in Boulder City, Nevada, and as a freelance writer, she traveled the state with her husband Cliff, a photographer, writing about her love of Nevada and its history, which is chronicled in the many articles the Segerblom family has written and illustrated over the years.

Early on, she rose above the crowd in finding time to volunteer for civic organizations representing a wide variety of causes, including the Chamber of Commerce, Boulder City Museum and Historical Society, Nevada State Museum and Historical Society, Boulder City Boys and Girls Club, the Nevada Council of Senior Citizens, and that's just to name a few. She was elected to the Boulder City Council at the very young age of 61, which led to her election as an Assemblywoman at age 74, serving four full Assembly terms. And as an Assemblywoman, she worked on just about every issue that came before this body and served on virtually every committee.

A champion of women's issues and the control of health care costs during her legislative career, she also worked on education issues, harkening back to her time as a teacher, and she worked on preserving Nevada's unique history and special places.

Truly, Gene Segerblom had a remarkable life and left many wonderful legacies including, even though some people might not agree, Senator Tick Segerblom, and her beautiful daughter Robin Liggett, who is sitting here with me and the Majority Leader from District 34. I had the opportunity to meet Gene many, many times, and she was always so incredibly wonderful, always so empowering, always so energetic. I used to look at her and wish that I could have that amount of energy at that age. Her life was truly remarkable, and it is a distinct honor for me—after all of that inspiration that I personally felt with Gene—to be introducing and supporting this Assembly resolution. I urge your enthusiastic and respectful support of Assembly Resolution 8.

Thank you.

ASSEMBLYMAN STEWART:

I rise in support of Assembly Resolution 8.

In 1970, I was hired as a teacher at Boulder City High School. I was in a conversation with a man about a week after the hiring, and he said, "What are you doing here?"

I said, "Well, I replaced Gene Segerblom in the faculty."

He said, "Stewart, nobody can replace Gene Segerblom." So from then on, I was always very careful to say, "I filled the slot that Gene Segerblom once had," but I realized throughout my career there that no one could replace Gene Segerblom. So I'm very much in support of this resolution.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

I had the privilege of knowing Assemblywoman Segerblom for a long time, back to when I was a kid and when she was on the Boulder City Council. I know she was active in many civic causes that a lot of the activists that my family was around also got involved with, like the Equal Rights Amendment going back to the seventies. Coming up here for the 1995 Session, I got to know her very well because there was a group of four Assemblywomen who spent a lot of time together. It was Gene Segerblom, Marcia de Braga, my mother, and Vonne Chowning, and they were very, very close. I know that she was really a role model for them.

There are a couple of anecdotes that my mom and Assemblywoman Chowning wanted me to share with everyone. Gene could make folks stop their foul language with, "Watch your French." The media would never publish her age, nor did she ever disclose it. Gene would always say, "You never ask a woman her weight or her age." She was a Nevada representative, all Nevada, but we used to say that she thought all roads led to Boulder City, and everyone knew that she liked red wine and dark chocolate. If one of her bills didn't pass, she was famously known to say, "Those bums," but then smile and take it with a good heart.

I whole-heartedly rise in support of this resolution. She was a wonderful person to know, and I wish she was still serving with us.

ASSEMBLYMAN GRADY:

I rise in support of Assembly Resolution 8.

I had the pleasure of working with Gene a couple of sessions or longer here, and in a committee meeting you could always count that she had one question she would always ask: "How is this going to affect Boulder City?" If you could get by that, you usually had her vote. One time there was a voice vote, and Gene told the chairman, "I'd like to vote again." She was on the losing end of that vote and he said, "Why do you want to vote again?" And she said, "This time I'll vote louder." That was the Gene that we all knew and loved.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN DONDERO LOOP:

I rise in support of Assembly Resolution 8.

My personal story about the Segerblom family in general is that the Donderos and Segerbloms are long-time Nevada families, all of us natives, and our parents, too. We were intertwined through education, art, and philanthropy, and so very often the two families saw each other and did things together, even though we lived in different little cities. I remember fondly my parents talking about the Segerbloms and my mother certainly taking art classes and doing art with Senator Segerblom's father. Having a mother who is 93 and who will be here next week, I say they just don't make them like that anymore. It was a pleasure to know her.

Madam Speaker requested the privilege of the Chair for the purpose of making the following remarks:

I'd just like to say I met Mrs. Segerblom when Tick came to the Legislature. She was very helpful and told me, "There are no bad days in this building—just keep on going." I think that Tick definitely has taken that motto on for the whole session, and it's great to have such strong people within the Legislature. She taught something to so many in this building that they will carry on and share with our future legislators.

Resolution adopted unanimously.

WHEREAS, The Assembly of the Legislature of the State of Nevada has established an Assembly Wall of Distinction for those past members selected by leadership who served with great distinction and who made exemplary contributions to the State of Nevada; and

WHEREAS, The Nevada Assembly wishes to add to its Wall of Distinction those past staff members who are selected by leadership to be acknowledged for their exemplary service; and

WHEREAS, Terry Sullivan was born in Lovelock, Nevada, in 1937 and began a career as a stock clerk in the classified service of the State of Nevada in 1960 at the age of 22; and

WHEREAS, After several promotions, Terry Sullivan was appointed by Governor Mike O'Callaghan as Purchasing Director in 1972 and continued to serve in that job until 1983; and

WHEREAS, Terry accomplished many things during his tenure in state service, such as writing the grant for funds to rebuild the former Stewart Indian School; reestablishing the state tradition of the Christmas tree lighting; producing the history of the Capitol Building and the Governor's Mansion in magazine form in 1985; coproducing Nevada, a History of the Silver State in 1987; selecting the first colors for the Great Seal of Nevada; and protecting Nevada's governmental antiquities by having them placed in museums and state institutions; and

WHEREAS, Terry Sullivan loved rural Nevada and worked to preserve Nevada's traditions and promote the cowboy way through cow punchin' and performing his true labor of love at the Cottonwood Ranch in Jarbidge, Nevada; and

WHEREAS, After his retirement from state service, the cowboy in Terry wouldn't let him sit still for long, and he joined the Assembly's Sergeant at Arms staff in 1995 and was appointed as the Sergeant at Arms in 1997; and

WHEREAS, During Terry's service as Assembly Sergeant at Arms, he worked with Assemblyman John Carpenter to create the Assembly's Cowboy Hall of Fame; began and promoted school tours of the Nevada Legislature; brought the first art exhibition to the Legislative Building, with an emphasis on art of Nevada students; and established the Assembly's lunch program, which coincided with the start of the 120-day session; and

WHEREAS, Nevada owes a great debt of gratitude to Terry Sullivan for 50 years of distinguished service to the State of Nevada; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Sullivan can take pride for his efforts to maintain the honor, traditions and decorum of the Assembly and its Chamber for nine legislative sessions and for being a stalwart steward of the process and a friend and mentor to the many people he met and worked with over the years; now, therefore, be it

RESOLVED BY THE ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, That former Assembly Sergeant at Arms Terry Sullivan is hereby added to the Assembly Wall of Distinction; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Chief Clerk of the Assembly prepare and transmit a copy of this resolution to former Sergeant at Arms Terry Sullivan.

Assemblyman Grady moved the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks by Assemblymen Grady, Horne, Ohrenschall, Stewart, Elliot Anderson, Dondero Loop, and Madam Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN GRADY:

My first thought for Terry is should this be a roast or a toast? I decided it must be the cowboy way.

Next, what would Speaker Emeritus Joe Dini, who selected Terry for the Sergeant-at-Arms post, say? Then it came to Assemblyman John Carpenter, Senator Pete Goicoechea, or our present Sergeant-at-Arms, Robin Bates. What would they say about Terry?

The cowboy way would be to say Terry is a friend, Terry is a father, Terry is a grandfather, Terry is a gentleman, and always, Terry is a cowboy.

Working for the Governor or here in this building, he was always a professional first. He cares about the state and about the traditions established over the years in the Legislature.

He was very proud to work with Assemblyman Carpenter, Assemblyman Wendell Williams, Steve Watson, and others on the Cowboy Hall of Fame. Over the years, people lobbied hard to get into this very select fraternity. As he was known, Terry "Biscuit Roller" Sullivan was proud to be selected into this group.

As the resolution states, Terry was born in Lovelock, worked for Governors Mike O'Callaghan and Richard Bryan in various posts before retiring, then for 16 years served with the Assembly Sergeant-at-Arms staff—14 years as the head of this group.

Terry's aim and the cowboy way was always to serve the legislators and guests in a very professional and unbiased manner. Before introducing dignitaries at the bar of the Assembly as Senators, Congressmen, Governors or the Supreme Court, it was always with a tag line, "from the great state of Nevada." Whether fixing oatmeal for John Carpenter or maybe an egg in the morning for Marcus Conklin, it was always with a smile.

Terry loves his time at Jarbidge as a wrangler, a cook, a storyteller, or a guide for the many tourists over the years.

Madam Speaker, I could go on and on about our friend Terry Sullivan, but let me close by saying that Nevada and the Legislature are better places today because of Terry "Biscuit Roller" Sullivan and his cowboy way.

Thank you, Madam Speaker.

ASSEMBLYMAN HORNE:

I rise in support of Assembly Resolution 9.

Hello, Mr. Sullivan. Good to see you here. This coming from William "Trust Me" Horne, a member of the Cowboy Hall of Fame. Anyone who has ever met Terry knows he is a true Nevadan, and yes—cowboy, absolutely—but most importantly he embodies a true, true gentleman. It's a pleasure.

ASSEMBLYMAN OHRENSCHALL:

I rise in support of Assembly Resolution 9.

Terry, I had the privilege of meeting you many years ago, and I could never forget all the kindness you've shown to my family. As a second generation Cowboy Hall of Famer, which I don't think many people can stake claim to, I rise in support of this resolution. There was one session where my mother busted her leg and was in a wheelchair, and every day during the Assembly session, Terry and the other Sergeants at Arms would lift her wheelchair up to her seat, there where my colleague from the Mason Valley is sitting, and let her get into her seat so that she could fulfill her role as a representative for Clark County. That's just one example of the kind of person you are Terry, and it was a pleasure serving with you. Whatever trails you follow, I hope they'll be happy ones.

ASSEMBLYMAN STEWART:

I rise in support of Assembly Resolution 9.

When I first came into the Assembly, Terry was one of those who welcomed me, and I really appreciated that. I was honored to be selected for the Cowboy Hall of Fame, and I'll never forget the cowboy saying that always goes along with your selection. It goes like this: "Never judge a man until you've walked a mile in his boots. That way, you're a mile away from him and you've still got his boots." Terry is a true son of Nevada and a true example of the cowboy way. Thank you very much for all you've done for me, Terry.

ASSEMBLYMAN ELLIOT ANDERSON:

I rise in support of this resolution.

Terry, I just wanted to say that you can tell the measure of a person in how they treat folks who aren't in power, and when I was an intern in 2009, I was really grateful for all the advice you gave me and all the help that you gave me. I wanted to tell you that my biggest regret is that I won't be able to be in the Cowboy Hall of Fame. Thank you very much.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN DONDERO LOOP:

I rise in support of Assembly Resolution 9.

When I was first elected, I met Terry and I cannot tell you what a pleasure it was, first of all to meet somebody who was similar in age, but more importantly knew how to cook, which were two of the things that I valued. I also noticed right away that not only did he give respect, but everyone respected him. I cannot tell you what a privilege it is to be a member of the Cowboy Hall of Fame, mostly because I knew that Battle Mountain had small fences. I appreciate the fact that we are all Nevadans, and we are here together honoring you today. Thank you for everything you've done.

Madam Speaker requested the privilege of the Chair for the purpose of making the following remarks:

I will just say, for myself coming into this body, he was the first bright spot that I saw. He walked in, he was pleasant—"What can I do to help you?" And that means a lot because it is pretty intimidating walking into this building for your very first time. To walk in and see Terry first was a relief—knowing that he really was personable. He taught me all about cowboy coffee. I thought I knew everything, but now I know better. And for me, it was nice having the cowboys come in the morning and just having conversation. Terry was quick to get here in the morning to make sure that he beat us, and we had real conversations about the state as a whole. I learned a lot about the whole state, with Terry just saying, "Have you thought about this? And have you ever been out here?" I think he was really instrumental in making me appreciate the state as a whole, because without those days—and trust me, there's some tough days ahead, but there were tough days then—he just stood in the hallway and said, "Would you like some coffee? What can I do for you?" He just wanted to make you feel more comfortable and make your day a little bit easier, whether it was at night, in the morning, throughout the day. He really wanted to make everybody love and appreciate Nevada. So I personally thank you for your service. I called him and said, "Hey, I've got a big favor. Can you help me out?' And he said, "Favor? Okay, sure, whatever." I said, "Can you be our Hall of Famer for the staff?" We have some great staff in our building, and I really think that what he brought to my first session, everybody should experience for the day. With that, I thank you for the opportunity to know you and be a part of this building.

Resolution adopted unanimously.

Madam Speaker announced if there were no objections, the Assembly would recess subject to the call of the Chair.

REMARKS FROM THE FLOOR

Assemblyman Horne moved that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.
Motion carried.

ASSEMBLYMAN BOBZIEN:

This is, indeed, a very, very special day. Today is the twentieth anniversary of our legislative day for the noble Order of the Clampers. If I could have all the brethren please rise.

While many only know the E Clampus Vitus organization for the red shirts and their love of a good time, this organization does have a serious side. The E Clampus Vitus organization originated in the early 1800s and became famous in the gold fields of California in the 1850s. Chapters quickly sprung up throughout the Mother Lode, in places like Downieville, Mokelumne Hill, and Sierra City, and of course over on our side of the hill in Virginia City and other areas.

One of the purposes of the organization was to provide relief for miners' "widders" and orphans—though some say the interest in widows was more personal than charitable, but we will never know. As more people moved West, formal fraternal organizations came along too. Many of those fraternal organizations—Masons, Shriners, et cetera—tended to be rather clannish and serious when compared to the rowdy Clampers and their love of the absurd. To poke fun at the pomp and ceremony of these later organizations—and the fancy sashes and bejeweled vests worn by some of their members—the Clampers cut tin can lids into odd shapes and pinned them to their own simple vests. They called this "wearing your tin," a practice continued to this day, although badges, ribbons, and pins have taken the place of tin can lids.

The organization was revitalized in San Francisco in 1931, and today it is a nonprofit organization for men involved in humanitarian and public help programs, with a strong program of historical preservation. There are numerous active chapters throughout the Southwest dedicated to preserving Western and mining history, including researching and dedicating plaques to sites, incidents, and people in Western history that might otherwise be overlooked. When traveling throughout the West, and particularly through the Mother Lode country, you will see these plaques. Those of us who love history owe them a debt of gratitude for finding these locations and preserving them before they are lost forever to the past.

Please make them feel welcome.

ASSEMBLYWOMAN DONDERO LOOP:

To this honorable body, I join many of the members of the Nevada Assembly Women's Caucus, who sadly must rise in opposition. In the continuing, proud tradition of Marcia de Braga, I found no better words than hers to speak today:

> Every odd-numbered year, a resolution supporting E Clampus Vitus comes before the Assembly. It asks us to endorse an ancient and mystical order that has at its philosophical core the Goldwater Theorum regarding God-given rights. We have looked for some redeeming social value in the Clampers' resolution that would enable us to support it. But we were not successful. Instead, we have come to the conclusion, [Madam] Speaker, that their reality check bounced.
> Proponents would try to make us believe their compassion, education, and the preservation of history are the principles this society was founded on and upholds. We submit to you that the facts are these:
> E Clampus Vitus was started prior to 1800 and has existed in some form or other ever since, allegedly for the purpose of protecting "widders and orphans," but, preferably, widders.
> Clampers' interest in education seldom goes beyond periodic research on why "lite" beer weighs the same as regular beer.
> They are patrons of sports, literature and the arts, favoring anything with one ball, two folds, or three stooges.
> All members have standing of equal indignity, but obviously, some members are more equal and/or indignant than others. Those who have achieved mediocrity, and therefore leadership, are reverently referred to as Clampatriarchal Humbugs.
> Within their own organization is a strong support group to help Clampers in times of severe difficulty. This is vital to their safety because, following the regular meetings, very few of them can remember the number for 911.
> The history of E Clampus Vitus is shrouded in mystery. Is it a historical drinking society or a drinking historical society? No one knows; the debate continues.
> To preserve their surreptitious activities, they developed their own secret language which can be deciphered easily by anyone with an IQ higher than celery. For example, their motto translates to "Never let the fact that the widders do not want to be protected deter you," and their creed means, "Beer: It isn't just for breakfast, any more."

Although E Clampus Vitus has existed for more than 200 years, almost none of the history of the order has been recorded. And two theories exist to explain this:

Most Clampers prefer to do their protecting anonymously. In the thousands of meetings held by chapters of ECV, seldom, if ever, has anyone remained functional long enough to take intelligible minutes. In fact, the only meeting notes ever found are now in the Smithsonian or some other institution. They were written by the Utmost High Extremely Illustrious Exalted Supreme Grand Secretarial Humbug, who may have been more than a little squiffed, himself, at the time he wrote, "The roll was called and the members were asked to respond present or not present, as best befitted their circumstances. And many of them appeared to have been stricken with some sort of mental confusion. And they answered with unintelligible remarks."

The very name of their club may also have been incorrectly recorded. E Clampus Vitus sounds like a disease—a combination, if you will, of the word for a form of dementia coupled with the word for a form of instability, with which many of its members are, from time to time, afflicted. No one knows how the disease is spread. And, [Madam] Speaker, no one wants to know how the disease is spread.

In opposing this resolution, we do so not because we wish to be equal to men—that would show a lack of ambition. However, in the interest of fairness, we have tried our best to understand men. Like so many other women before us, we failed in that endeavor.

Since time immemorial, there has only ever been one woman who actually figured men out. But, [Madam] Speaker, she died laughing before she could tell anyone.

We were going to move that all rules be suspended, that reading so far be considered more than enough, that there be no further consideration of this measure, and that the proclamation be immediately concurrently referred to Health and Human Resources, NATRAM, Government Affairs, and the Ways and Means Committees in some other state.

So, instead, we are discussing forming our own counter-organization of E Clampus, whose members will be known as the "Lady Bugs" as soon as we decide what we want to protect.

Thank you.

THE SIXTY-SIXTH DAY

CARSON CITY (Wednesday), April 10, 2013

Assembly called to order at 11:39 a.m.

Madam Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

All present and one vacant.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Pastor Albert Tilstra.

Our Father in Heaven.

Today, we pray for Your gift of contentment, that we may not waste our time desiring more but learn to use and enjoy what we have.

We may not know everything, but we may know You and Your will. We need not be rich to be generous nor have all wisdom to be understanding. Our influence may not be great, but it can be good. Our speech may not be eloquent, but it can be truthful and sincere. We cannot all have good looks, but we can have a good conscience, and having that, we shall have peace of mind and need fear no man.

May we be kind to one another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as You for Christ's sake have forgiven us.

AMEN.

Pledge of allegiance to the Flag.

Assemblyman Horne moved that further reading of the Journal be dispensed with and the Speaker and Chief Clerk be authorized to make the necessary corrections and additions.

Motion carried.

Assembly Bill No. 14.

Bill read second time.

Amendment No. 34.

AN ACT relating to motor vehicles; revising provisions concerning temporary permits to act as a salesperson; revising provisions concerning licenses of salespersons; allowing the Department of Motor Vehicles to reinstate the registration of a dormant vehicle or remove the suspension of that registration under certain circumstances; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, when a person holding a temporary permit to act as a salesperson of vehicles ceases to be employed by a licensed and bonded dealer, lessor or rebuilder, the permit is automatically suspended, the person's right to act as a salesperson immediately ceases and the person's application for licensure must be denied by the Department of Motor Vehicles unless the person has: (1) paid a $20 transfer fee; (2) submitted a certificate of employment indicating that the person has been reemployed with a licensed and bonded dealer, lessor or rebuilder; and (3) presents a current temporary permit or new salesperson's license to the person's employer. Existing law further provides that, if a person's application for a salesperson's license has been denied, the person must wait at least 6 months to reapply. (NRS 482.362) Section 1 of this bill deletes the provision requiring that the application for licensure of a person holding a temporary permit be denied if that person ceases to be employed as a salesperson by a licensed and bonded dealer, lessor or rebuilder, thus allowing that person to resume the application process upon finding employment elsewhere. Section 1 also expressly prohibits the person from engaging in the activity of a salesperson during the period in which the person is unemployed. Section 1 provides additionally that, if a person ceases to be employed as a salesperson by a licensed and bonded dealer, lessor or rebuilder, the salesperson is not required to physically surrender his or her license, but the dealer, lessor or rebuilder, as applicable, is required to notify the Department that the employment has ceased, and the person is not allowed to engage in the activity of a salesperson until he or she is reemployed by a licensed and bonded dealer, lessor or rebuilder.

Under existing law, the Department is required to suspend the registration of any motor vehicle for which the Department cannot verify coverage of liability insurance. If the registered owner of the motor vehicle proves to the satisfaction of the Department that the motor vehicle was a dormant vehicle during the period in which the Department was unable to verify liability insurance coverage, the Department is required to reinstate the registration and, if applicable, reissue the license plates for the motor vehicle only after the owner of the motor vehicle pays a fee of $50. (NRS 485.317) Section 4 of this bill allows the Department to remove the suspension of the registration without requiring the owner of the vehicle to pay a fee or administrative fine.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 482.362 is hereby amended to read as follows:

The Department may not use the name of the owner of a motor vehicle as the primary means of verifying that a motor vehicle is covered by a policy of liability insurance.

3. If the Department is unable to verify that a motor vehicle is covered by a policy of liability insurance as required by NRS 485.185, the Department shall send a request for information by first-class mail to the registered owner of the motor vehicle. Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Natural Resources, Agriculture, and Mining:

Amendment No. 126.

AN ACT relating to agriculture; deleting provisions which authorize the Director of the State Department of Agriculture to remove certain persons from office with the approval of the State Board of Agriculture; revising the classification and qualifications of certain persons appointed by the Director; expanding the purposes for which expenditures from the Livestock Inspection Account and for the Program for the Control of Pests and Plant Diseases may be made; requiring an inspector of the Department to notify an agricultural enforcement officer of certain findings made by the inspector concerning the actual legal owner of an animal; revising the circumstances under which a person may possess the carcass of a bovine animal; revising provisions governing certain farm products other than livestock, livestock products or poultry; revising the circumstances under which a person must obtain a license to engage in pest control; repealing provisions governing the Agricultural Loan Mediation Program [,] ~~[,]~~ and slaughtering cattle without a formal inspection ; [~~, and licenses to engage in activities concerning the control of wood-destroying pests or organisms;~~] and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law requires the Director of the State Department of Agriculture to appoint certain persons to manage and carry out the activities of the Department. (NRS 561.205, 561.209, 561.214, 561.218, 561.225) Sections 1-5 of this bill revise the qualifications and duties of those persons and the authority of the Director to remove them. Specifically, section 4 provides that the person appointed by the Director to manage the activities of the Department relating to natural resources and land use planning will no longer manage activities relating to the control of wild horses [.] ~~[,]~~ or the control of noxious weeds.

Existing law creates the Livestock Inspection Account and the Program for the Control of Pests and Plant Diseases. (NRS 561.344, 561.375) Sections 6 and 7 of this bill expand the purposes for which money may be expended from the Account or for the Program.

Under existing law, if a person is unable during a brand inspection to establish his or her legal ownership of any animal offered for inspection and the inspector conducting the brand inspection is able to determine the identity of the actual legal owner of the animal, the inspector is required to notify the legal owner in writing of the inspector's findings. (NRS 565.140) Section 8 of this bill removes the requirement to place such notice in writing and requires the inspector to notify ~~[the legal owner of the animal or]~~ an agricultural enforcement officer of his or her findings. Section 8 requires the agricultural enforcement officer who receives the notice to investigate the findings of the inspector and to provide notification of those findings to the legal owner of the animal.

Under existing law, it is unlawful for a person to have in his or her possession all or part of the carcass of any bovine animal unless the person exhibits the hide of the animal, a certificate of inspection or a bill of sale to a certain peace officer authorized by the Department. (NRS 566.025) Section 9 of this bill deletes the requirement that the exhibition be made to such a peace officer and instead requires the exhibition to be made to an inspector or agricultural enforcement officer of the Department.

Existing law requires the Department to adopt regulations pursuant to which a person may obtain certification that he or she is an actual producer of an agricultural product of the soil and authorizes the Department to impose fees for that certification. A person who obtains that certification is exempt from the payment of certain taxes. (NRS 576.128) Section 14 of this bill revises existing law by providing that a person may obtain certification that he or she is an actual producer of farm products including all agricultural, horticultural, viticultural, vegetable products and hay other than any livestock, livestock product or poultry.

Existing law prohibits a person from engaging in pest control in this State or serving as an agent, operator or pilot for that purpose without obtaining a license issued by the Director. (NRS 555.280) Section 21 of this bill expands existing law by prohibiting a person from serving as a primary principal or principal for that purpose without obtaining such a license. Section 17 of this bill defines the term "principal" as an owner, officer, partner, member or technician of a pest control business who has qualified by examination in one or more categories of pest control. Section 16 of this bill defines the term "primary principal" as a principal who has been designated by a pest control business as the person responsible for the daily supervision of each category of pest control. Section 19 of this bill revises the definition of "pest control" by adding certain activities to the definition.

Existing law requires any company or person employing pest control operators, agents or pilots to pay to the Director a fee established by regulation of the State Board of Agriculture. (NRS 555.310) Section 22 of this bill revises that requirement by requiring a company or person to pay the fee if the company or person employs a primary principal or principal. Section 22 deletes the requirement for the payment of the fee for a pilot who is employed by the company or person.

Existing law: (1) requires each applicant for a pest control license to provide proof of insurance in an amount that is not less than $10,000, unless the license authorizes the application of pesticides by aircraft; (2) authorizes the Director to investigate any loss or damage from the application of a pesticide by a licensed pest control operator; and (3) authorizes the Director to revoke, suspend or modify a pest control license if he or she finds that the licensee engaged in the business of pest control without having a licensed applicator or operator in direct on-the-job supervision or the licensee was intentionally guilty of fraud or deception in issuing an inspection report on wood-destroying pests or any other report required by regulation. (NRS 555.330, 555.350) Section 23 of this bill: (1) increases the amount of insurance required for each applicant for a pest control license to an amount which is not less than $50,000; and (2) expands the authority of the Director to conduct an investigation by authorizing him or her to investigate any loss or damage resulting from the application of a pesticide by a primary principal or principal. Section 24 of this bill revises the authority of the Director to revoke, suspend or modify a pest control license by authorizing him or her to revoke, suspend or modify the license if he or she finds that the licensee: (1) engaged in the business of pest control without having a licensed agent, operator, primary principal or principal in direct on-the-job supervision; or (2) was intentionally guilty of fraud, falsification or deception in issuing an inspection report on wood-destroying pests or any other report or record required by regulation.

Under existing law, a person who is licensed to engage in pest control is required to ensure that each of the licensee's business locations in this State has a primary principal who is licensed in the appropriate categories of pest control. If the licensee ceases to have a primary principal at each of those locations for 30 consecutive calendar days, his or her license is automatically suspended and remains suspended until he or she obtains a primary principal for each of those locations. (NRS 555.3507) Section 25 of this bill deletes the requirement that the licensee retain a primary principal for each of those locations and the accompanying provisions concerning the suspension of the licensee. Instead, section 25 only requires the licensee to ensure that the licensee's business has a primary principal who is licensed in the appropriate categories of pest control.

Section 26 of this bill repeals provisions of existing law governing: (1) the ~~[issuance of licenses to engage in activities concerning the control of wood-destroying pests or organisms; (2) the]~~ establishment and administration of the Agricultural Loan Mediation Program; ~~[(3)]~~ (2) the retention of hides by persons who slaughter cattle without a formal inspection system; and ~~[(4)]~~ (3) the conducting of inspections by inspectors of the Department and peace officers. Section 26 also repeals the provisions of NRS 571.035, which impose a special tax upon certain classes of livestock. Sections 10-13 of this bill reenact the provisions relating to the tax without change within chapter 575 of NRS, which governs the collection of taxes related to livestock, thereby expressing the intent of the Legislature to move those provisions to a more appropriate chapter of NRS. The reenactment of those provisions is not intended to be a substantive change to those provisions.

Amendment No. 48.

AN ACT relating to motor vehicles; providing for the limited issuance of special license plates to commemorate the 150th anniversary of Nevada's admission into the Union; imposing a fee for the issuance or renewal of such license plates; revising provisions relating to the number of characters required to be contained on a license plate; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

This bill provides for the issuance of a special license plate to commemorate the 150th anniversary of Nevada's admission into the Union. Existing law provides that the regular fees for the initial issuance and renewal of a special license plate are $35 and $10, respectively, exclusive of any additional fees which may be added to generate funds for a particular cause. (NRS 482.265) Unlike the fees set forth in existing law, the fee set forth in this bill for the initial issuance of a special license plate to commemorate the 150th anniversary (sesquicentennial) of Nevada's admission into the Union is $7.50 and there is no basic charge for the renewal of the special license plates, other than the fee that is required to be distributed to the Nevada Cultural Affairs Foundation. Existing law also requires $35 of the fee received by the Department of Motor Vehicles for the initial issuance of a special license plate, exclusive of any additional fees which may be added to generate funds for a particular cause, to be deposited in the State Highway Fund for credit to the Revolving Account for the Issuance of Special License Plates. (NRS 482.1805) ~~[However, this]~~ This bill requires the Department to deposit the $7.50 received for the initial issuance of the sesquicentennial license plate with the State Treasurer for credit to ~~[the Motor Vehicle Fund.]~~ that Revolving Account. This bill also requires that an annual report concerning the revenues received and expenditures made in connection with the issuance of the commemorative license plates be submitted to the Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau, and provides that in no event may the commemorative license plates be issued by the Department after October 31, 2016.

This bill also provides that the additional fees collected for the issuance of the plate must be deposited in the State General Fund. The State Treasurer is required to distribute those additional fees, on a quarterly basis, to the Nevada Cultural Affairs Foundation. This bill exempts these special license plates from: (1) the provisions that require a minimum number of applications for the plates; (2) the requirement that the Commission on Special License Plates approve or disapprove the plates; and (3) the limit on the number of separate designs of special license plates that may be issued by the Department at any one time.

Section 5 of this bill deletes the requirement that a redesign of license plates ordered by the Director of the Department: (1) be in colors that are predominately blue and silver; and (2) contain letters and numbers that are of the same size. Sections 6 and 11-19 of this bill delete the requirement that a license plate contain a certain finite number of characters and provide instead that the Director will determine the number of characters to be contained on each license plate.

AN ACT relating to pharmacy; making various changes concerning the sale, transfer or acquisition of certain products that are precursors to methamphetamine; providing penalties; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Existing law prohibits any person, other than a pharmacy, from selling or transferring in the course of business or selling at retail certain products that contain materials that can be used to manufacture methamphetamine. (NRS 639.410) Existing law further requires a retail distributor of such products to keep the products in a locked case or cabinet or behind a store counter to prevent access to the public. (NRS 453.354) Existing law also limits the quantity of certain chemicals contained in these products that may be sold or transferred to the same person during a calendar day. (NRS 453.355) Section 6 of this bill establishes a limit on the quantity of these chemicals that can be sold or transferred to the same person during a 30-day period.

Existing law requires a retail distributor of certain products that can be used to manufacture methamphetamine to maintain a logbook of the sales and transfers of such a product and to ensure that certain information is entered in the logbook. (NRS 453.357) Section 2 of this bill requires the ~~[~~Director~~]~~ State Board of ~~[~~the Department of Public Safety~~]~~ Pharmacy to ~~[~~determine whether~~]~~ approve a real-time, stop sale system ~~[~~is available and appropriate~~]~~ for use by pharmacies in this State ~~[~~to~~]~~ if the Board determines that the real-time, stop sale system: (1) is available and appropriate for use by pharmacies in this State; and (2) the system has certain capabilities and will be available free of charge. Such a system will: (1) allow pharmacies to electronically submit information before completing a sale or transfer of such a product to determine whether the sale or transfer would violate any law ~~[~~. The Director is authorized to approve such a system if it has certain capabilities and will be available free of charge.~~]~~ ; and (2) allow law enforcement agencies to access transaction records related to the sale or transfer, or attempted sale or transfer, of a product that is a precursor to methamphetamine.

Section 3 of this bill requires a pharmacy to use a real-time, stop sale system that is approved by the ~~[~~Director of the Department.~~]~~ Board. A pharmacy is prohibited from completing a sale or transfer of a product if informed through the system that the sale or transfer will violate any law, except in certain circumstances. ~~[~~Section 4 of this bill requires the Director of the Department to request transaction records from the real-time, stop sale system and forward such records to law enforcement agencies in this State.~~]~~ Section 4.5 of this bill provides that the failure of the real-time, stop sale system or the misuse of the system does not create any civil liability for the Board. Section 7 of this bill requires a retail distributor of certain products that can be used to manufacture methamphetamine, in addition to maintaining the logbook and checking the name and identification of a person seeking to obtain such a product, to consult with the real-time, stop sale system, if such a system is approved by the ~~[~~Director.~~]~~ Board.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Transportation:

Amendment No. 51.

AN ACT relating to rules of the road; allowing a person driving a motorcycle, moped or trimobile or riding a bicycle or an electric bicycle to proceed through an intersection against a red traffic signal in certain circumstances; specifying that a violation resulting in an injury to another person is conclusive evidence of all facts necessary to impose civil liability for the injury under certain circumstances; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, a person driving a motorcycle or moped upon a highway or riding a bicycle or an electric bicycle upon a roadway is subject to all the duties applicable to the driver of a motor vehicle, with certain exceptions. (NRS 484B.763, 486.331) Existing law makes it unlawful for any driver, including the driver of a trimobile, to disobey the instructions of any official traffic-control device under certain conditions. (NRS 484A.080, 484B.300) Existing law also prohibits vehicular traffic from proceeding into or through an intersection that is controlled by an official traffic-control device exhibiting different colored lights when the signal is red.

(NRS 484B.307) Section 2 of this bill allows a person driving a motorcycle, moped or trimobile or riding a bicycle or an electric bicycle to proceed into an intersection against a red signal if: (1) the person stops as required by the signal and waits for a reasonable time; (2) the signal does not change because of a malfunction or the failure of the signal to detect the presence of the motorcycle, moped, trimobile, bicycle or electric bicycle; and (3) the person yields the right-of-way to pedestrians and other traffic proceeding as directed by the signal at the intersection. Section 2 also provides that, if the person commits certain violations while driving the motorcycle, moped or trimobile or riding the bicycle or electric bicycle which result in an injury to another person, the violations are conclusive evidence of all facts necessary to impose civil liability for the injury.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 484B.300 is hereby amended to read as follows:

484B.300 1. ~~[It]~~ Except as otherwise provided in NRS 484B.307, it is unlawful for any driver to disobey the instructions of any official traffic-control device placed in accordance with the provisions of chapters 484A to 484E, inclusive, of NRS, unless at the time otherwise directed by a police officer.

2. No provision of chapters 484A to 484E, inclusive, of NRS for which such devices are required may be enforced against an alleged violator if at the time and place of the alleged violation the device is not in proper position and sufficiently legible to be seen by an ordinarily observant person. Whenever a particular provision of chapters 484A to 484E, inclusive, of NRS does not state that such devices are required, the provision is effective even though no devices are erected or in place.

3. Whenever devices are placed in position approximately conforming to the requirements of chapters 484A to 484E, inclusive, of NRS, such devices are presumed to have been so placed by the official act or direction of a public authority, unless the contrary is established by competent evidence.

4. Any device placed pursuant to the provisions of chapters 484A to 484E, inclusive, of NRS and purporting to conform to the lawful requirements pertaining to such devices is presumed to comply with the requirements of chapters 484A to 484E, inclusive, of NRS unless the contrary is established by competent evidence.

5. A person who violates any provision of subsection 1 may be subject to the additional penalty set forth in NRS 484B.130.

Sec. 2. NRS 484B.307 is hereby amended to read as follows:

484B.307 1. Whenever traffic is controlled by official traffic-control devices exhibiting different colored lights, or colored lighted arrows, successively one at a time or in combination as declared in the manual and specifications adopted by the Department of Transportation, only the colors green, yellow and red may be used, except for special pedestrian-control devices carrying a word legend as provided in NRS 484B.283. The lights, arrows and combinations thereof indicate and apply to drivers of vehicles and pedestrians as provided in this section.

2. When the signal is circular green alone:

(a) Vehicular traffic facing the signal may proceed straight through or turn right or left unless another device at the place prohibits either or both such turns. Such vehicular traffic, including vehicles turning right or left, must yield the right-of-way to other vehicles and to pedestrians lawfully within the intersection or an adjacent crosswalk at the time the signal is exhibited.

(b) Pedestrians facing such a signal may proceed across the highway within any marked or unmarked crosswalk, unless directed otherwise by another device as provided in NRS 484B.283.

3. Where the signal is circular green with a green turn arrow:

(a) Vehicular traffic facing the signal may proceed to make the movement indicated by the green turn arrow or such other movement as is permitted by the circular green signal, but the traffic must yield the right-of-way to pedestrians lawfully within an adjacent crosswalk and to other traffic lawfully using the intersection at the time the signal is exhibited. Drivers turning in the direction of the arrow when displayed with the circular green are thereby advised that so long as a turn arrow is illuminated, oncoming or opposing traffic simultaneously faces a steady red signal.

(b) Pedestrians facing such a signal may proceed across the highway within any marked or unmarked crosswalk, unless directed otherwise by another device as provided in NRS 484B.283.

4. Where the signal is a green turn arrow alone:

(a) Vehicular traffic facing the signal may proceed only in the direction indicated by the arrow signal so long as the arrow is illuminated, but the traffic must yield the right-of-way to pedestrians lawfully within the adjacent crosswalk and to other traffic lawfully using the intersection.

(b) Pedestrians facing such a signal shall not enter the highway until permitted to proceed by another device as provided in NRS 484B.283.

5. Where the signal is a green straight-through arrow alone:

(a) Vehicular traffic facing the signal may proceed straight through, but must not turn right or left. Such vehicular traffic must yield the right-of-way to other vehicles and to pedestrians lawfully within the intersection or an adjacent crosswalk at the time the signal is exhibited.

(b) Pedestrians facing such a signal may proceed across the highway within the appropriate marked or unmarked crosswalk, unless directed otherwise by another device as provided in NRS 484B.283.

6. Where the signal is a steady yellow signal alone:

(a) Vehicular traffic facing the signal is thereby warned that the related green movement is being terminated or that a steady red indication will be exhibited immediately thereafter, and such vehicular traffic must not enter the intersection when the red signal is exhibited.

(b) Pedestrians facing such a signal, unless otherwise directed by another device as provided in NRS 484B.283, are thereby advised that there is insufficient time to cross the highway.

7. Where the signal is a steady red signal alone:

(a) Vehicular traffic facing the signal must stop before entering the crosswalk on the nearest side of the intersection where the sign or pavement marking indicates where the stop must be made, or in the absence of any such crosswalk, sign or marking, then before entering the intersection, and, except as otherwise provided in ~~[paragraph (c),]~~ paragraphs (c) and (d), must remain stopped or standing until the green signal is shown.

(b) Pedestrians facing such a signal shall not enter the highway, unless permitted to proceed by another device as provided in NRS 484B.283.

(c) After complying with the requirement to stop, vehicular traffic facing such a signal and situated on the extreme right of the highway may proceed into the intersection for a right turn only when the intersecting highway is two-directional or one-way to the right, or vehicular traffic facing such a signal and situated on the extreme left of a one-way highway may proceed into the intersection for a left turn only when the intersecting highway is one-way to the left, but must yield the right-of-way to pedestrians and other traffic proceeding as directed by the signal at the intersection.

(d) After complying with the requirement to stop, a person driving a motorcycle, moped or trimobile or riding a bicycle or an electric bicycle may proceed straight through or turn right or left if:

(1) The person waits for two complete cycles of the lights or lighted arrows of the applicable official traffic-control device and the signal does not change because of a malfunction or because the signal failed to detect the presence of the motorcycle, moped, trimobile, bicycle or electric bicycle;

(2) No other device at the place prohibits either or both such turns, if applicable; and

(3) The person yields the right-of-way to pedestrians and other traffic proceeding as directed by the signal at the intersection.

(e) Vehicular traffic facing the signal may not proceed on or through any private or public property to enter the intersecting street where traffic is not facing a red signal to avoid the red signal.

8. Where the signal is a steady red with a green turn arrow:

(a) ~~[Vehicular]~~ Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b), vehicular traffic facing the signal may enter the intersection only to make the movement indicated by the green turn arrow, but must yield the right-of-way to pedestrians lawfully within an adjacent crosswalk and to other traffic lawfully using the intersection. Drivers turning in the direction of the arrow are thereby advised that so long as the turn arrow is illuminated, oncoming or opposing traffic simultaneously faces a steady red signal.

(b) A person driving a motorcycle, moped or trimobile or riding a bicycle or an electric bicycle facing the signal may proceed straight through or turn in the direction opposite that indicated by the green turn arrow if:

(1) The person stops before entering the crosswalk on the nearest side of the intersection where the sign or pavement marking indicates where the stop must be made or, in the absence of any such crosswalk, sign or marking, before entering the intersection;

(2) The person waits for two complete cycles of the lights or lighted arrows of the applicable official traffic-control device and the signal does not change because of a malfunction or because the signal failed to detect the presence of the motorcycle, moped, trimobile, bicycle or electric bicycle;

(3) No other device at the place prohibits the turn, if applicable; and

(4) The person yields the right-of-way to pedestrians lawfully within an adjacent crosswalk and to other traffic lawfully using the intersection.

(c) Pedestrians facing such a signal shall not enter the highway, unless permitted to proceed by another device as provided in NRS 484B.283.

9. If a person violates paragraph (d) of subsection 7 or paragraph (b) of subsection 8 and that violation results in an injury to another person, the violation is conclusive evidence of all facts necessary to impose civil liability for the injury.

10. If a signal is erected and maintained at a place other than an intersection, the provisions of this section are applicable except as to those provisions which by their nature can have no application. Any stop required must be made at a sign or pavement marking indicating where the stop must be made, but in the absence of any such device the stop must be made at the signal.

~~[10.]~~ 11. Whenever signals are placed over the individual lanes of a highway, the signals indicate, and apply to drivers of vehicles, as follows:

(a) A downward-pointing green arrow means that a driver facing the signal may drive in any lane over which the green signal is shown.

(b) A red "X" symbol means a driver facing the signal must not enter or drive in any lane over which the red signal is shown.

~~[11.]~~ 12. A local authority shall not adopt an ordinance or regulation or take any other action that prohibits vehicular traffic from crossing an intersection when:

(a) The red signal is exhibited; and

(b) The vehicular traffic in question had already completely entered the intersection before the red signal was exhibited. For the purposes of this paragraph, a vehicle shall be considered to have "completely entered" an intersection when all portions of the vehicle have crossed the limit line or other point of demarcation behind which vehicular traffic must stop when a red signal is displayed.

Amendment adopted.

Bill ordered reprinted, engrossed and to third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 155.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Health and Human Services:

Amendment No. 115.

AN ACT relating to children; revising provisions governing persons who are required to report the abuse or neglect of a child; revising provisions governing the punishment for the failure of a person to report the abuse or neglect of a child; revising provisions governing investigations of reports concerning the possible abuse or neglect of a child; revising provisions relating to the abandonment of a newborn child to a provider of emergency services; requiring the Legislative Committee on Health Care to review certain provisions governing a person who provides a service related to health care; providing a penalty; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

Under existing law, persons in certain professions and occupations are required, if the person in his or her professional or occupational capacity knows or has reasonable cause to believe that a child has been abused or neglected, to report the abuse or neglect to an agency which provides child welfare services or to a law enforcement agency. (NRS 432B.220) Section 2 of this bill revises the manner in which those persons are specified in existing law and provides that those persons must be informed in writing or by electronic communication of their duty as mandatory reporters. Those persons must also provide a written acknowledgment or an electronic record of having been so informed. The party responsible for informing the person and maintaining a copy of the acknowledgment or record is: (1) the entity responsible for the licensure, certification or endorsement of the person in this State if such licensure, certification or endorsement is required in the person's professional or occupational capacity; or (2) the employer of the person if no licensure, certification or endorsement in this State is required. Section 5 of this bill requires those mandatory reporters currently holding a license, certificate or endorsement in this State to be informed of their duty as mandatory reporters at the next renewal of their license, certificate or endorsement and requires those current mandatory reporters who are not required to be licensed, certified or endorsed by this State to be informed of their duty as mandatory reporters by their employer on or before December 31, 2013.

Section ~~[1]~~ 1.5 of this bill requires the Legislative Committee on Health Care to review, after each regular session of the Nevada Legislature, any chapter added to title 39, 40 or 54 of NRS that authorizes or requires the issuance of a license, permit or certificate to a person who provides any service related to health care to determine if the person should be included as a person required to report the abuse or neglect of a child. Section ~~[1]~~ 1.5 also requires the Committee, before the next regular session of the Legislature, to prepare and submit to the Legislature a report concerning the findings of the Committee. The report must include, without limitation, any recommended legislation.

Existing law requires an attorney to report the abuse or neglect of a child unless the attorney acquired the knowledge of the abuse or neglect from a client who is or may be accused of the abuse or neglect. (NRS 432B.220) Section ~~[2 also]~~ 1.7 of this bill provides that an attorney is not required to report the abuse or neglect of a child if the attorney acquired the knowledge of the abuse or neglect from a client ~~[who]~~ during a privileged communication if the client: (1) has been or may be accused of committing the abuse or neglect; or (2) is the victim of the abuse or neglect and ~~[who]~~ is in foster care, except that the attorney may report the abuse or neglect with the consent of the child.

Under existing law, a failure to report the abuse or neglect of a child by a person with a duty to report the abuse or neglect is punishable as a misdemeanor. (NRS 432B.240) Section 3 of this bill provides that a first violation of the duty to report is punishable as a misdemeanor, and any subsequent violation is punishable as a gross misdemeanor.

Existing law requires an agency which provides child welfare services to immediately initiate an investigation upon receipt of a report concerning the possible abuse or neglect of a child if the report indicates that: (1) the child is 5 years of age or younger; (2) there is a high risk of serious harm to the child; (3) the child has died; or (4) the child is living in a household in which another child has died, been seriously injured or shows signs of abuse. (NRS 432B.260) Section 3.5 of this bill deletes the requirement for an immediate investigation when the report concerns the possible abuse or neglect of a child who is 5 years of age or younger.

Under existing law, a parent may voluntarily leave a child who is not more than 30 days old with a provider of emergency services under certain circumstances, thereby presumably abandoning the child. That law is commonly referred to as Nevada's "Safe Haven Law." (NRS 432B.630) Section 4 of this bill expands the definition of "provider of emergency services" to include a volunteer fire department and any ambulance service holding a permit issued in this State.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Assemblyman Frierson moved the adoption of the amendment.

Remarks by Assemblyman Frierson.

Amendment adopted.

Bill ordered reprinted, engrossed and to third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 175.

Bill read second time.

The following amendment was proposed by the Committee on Legislative Operations and Elections:

Amendment No. 97.

AN ACT relating to elections; authorizing uniformed-service voters, their spouses and overseas voters to sign applications to register to vote, applications for military-overseas ballots and military-overseas ballots with digital signatures or electronic signatures; requiring the Secretary of State to prescribe by regulation certain duties of local elections officials; making various other changes to the Uniformed Military and Overseas Absentee Voters Act; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel's Digest:

The Uniformed Military and Overseas Absentee Voters Act (chapter 293D of NRS) authorizes members of the Armed Forces of the United States, their spouses and dependents, and certain other electors of this State who reside outside the United States (collectively known as "covered voters") to apply for and receive through a system of approved electronic transmission established by the Secretary of State applications to register to vote and military-overseas ballots.

Sections 13 and 15-19 of this bill authorize covered voters to sign applications to register to vote, applications for military-overseas ballots and military-overseas ballots using digital or electronic signatures. Section 15 requires the system of approved electronic transmission to include a method by which a covered voter may provide his or her digital or electronic signature on any document or other material that is necessary for the covered voter to register to vote, apply for a military-overseas ballot or cast a military-overseas ballot. Sections 11 and 12 of this bill, respectively, define the terms "digital signature" and "electronic signature."

Section 15 also requires the Secretary of State to prescribe by regulations the duties of a local elections official upon receipt of a military-overseas ballot. Sections 1-9 of this bill make various conforming changes.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEVADA, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. NRS 293.1277 is hereby amended to read as follows:

293.1277 1. If the Secretary of State finds that the total number of signatures submitted to all the county clerks is 100 percent or more of the number of registered voters needed to declare the petition sufficient, the Secretary of State shall immediately so notify the county clerks. Within 9 days, excluding Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, after notification, each of the county clerks shall determine the number of registered voters who have signed the documents submitted in the county clerk's county and, in the case of a petition for initiative or referendum proposing a constitutional amendment or statewide measure, shall tally the number of signatures for each petition district contained or fully contained within the county clerk's county. For the purpose of verification pursuant to this section, the county clerk shall not include in his or her tally of total signatures any signature included in the incorrect petition district.

2. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 3, if more than 500 names have been signed on the documents submitted to a county clerk, the county clerk shall examine the signatures by sampling them at random for verification. The random sample of signatures to be verified must be drawn in such a manner that every signature which has been submitted to the county clerk is given an equal opportunity to be included in the sample. The sample must include an examination of at least 500 or 5 percent of the signatures, whichever is greater. If documents were submitted to the county clerk for more than one petition district wholly contained within that county, a separate random sample must be performed for each petition district.

3. If a petition district comprises more than one county and the petition is for an initiative or referendum proposing a constitutional amendment or a statewide measure, and if more than 500 names have been signed on the documents submitted for that petition district, the appropriate county clerks shall examine the signatures by sampling them at random for verification. The random sample of signatures to be verified must be drawn in such a manner that every signature which has been submitted to the county clerks within the petition district is given an equal opportunity to be included in the sample. The sample must include an examination of at least 500 or 5 percent of the signatures presented in the petition district, whichever is greater. The Secretary of State shall determine the number of signatures that must be verified by each county clerk within the petition district.

4. In determining from the records of registration the number of registered voters who signed the documents, the county clerk may use the signatures contained in the file of applications to register to vote. If the county clerk uses that file, the county clerk shall ensure that every application in the file is examined, including any application in his or her possession which may not yet be entered into the county clerk's records. Except as otherwise provided in ~~[this subsection,]~~ subsection 5, the county clerk shall rely only on the appearance of the signature and the address and date included with each signature in making his or her determination.

5. If ~~[, pursuant]~~ ***:

(a) Pursuant to NRS 293.506, a county clerk establishes a system to allow persons to register to vote by computer ~~[.]~~ ; or

(b) A person registers to vote pursuant to NRS 293D.230 and signs his or her application to register to vote using a digital signature or an electronic signature,

➥ the county clerk may rely on such other indicia as prescribed by the Secretary of State in making his or her determination.

~~[5.]~~ 6. In the case of a petition for initiative or referendum proposing a constitutional amendment or statewide measure, when the county clerk is determining the number of registered voters who signed the documents from each petition district contained fully or partially within the county clerk's county, he or she must use the statewide voter registration list available pursuant to NRS 293.675.

~~[6.]~~ 7. Except as otherwise provided in subsection ~~[8,]~~ 9, upon completing the examination, the county clerk shall immediately attach to the documents a certificate properly dated, showing the result of the examination, including the tally of signatures by petition district, if required, and transmit the documents with the certificate to the Secretary of State. In the case of a petition for initiative or referendum proposing a constitutional amendment or statewide measure, if a petition district comprises more than one county, the appropriate county clerks shall comply with the regulations adopted by the Secretary of State pursuant to this section to complete the certificate. A copy of this certificate must be filed in the clerk's office. When the county clerk transmits the certificate to the Secretary of State, the county clerk shall notify the Secretary of State of the number of requests to remove a name received by the county clerk pursuant to NRS 295.055 or 306.015.

~~[7.]~~ 8. A person who submits a petition to the county clerk which is required to be verified pursuant to NRS 293.128, 293.165, 293.172, 293.200, 295.056, 298.109, 306.035 or 306.110 must be allowed to witness the verification of the signatures. A public officer who is the subject of a recall petition must also be allowed to witness the verification of the signatures on the petition.

~~[8.]~~ 9. For any petition containing signatures which are required to be verified pursuant to the provisions of NRS 293.165, 293.200, 306.035 or 306.110 for any county, district or municipal office within one county, the county clerk shall not transmit to the Secretary of State the documents containing the signatures of the registered voters.

THE SIXTY-EIGHTH DAY

CARSON CITY (Friday), April 12, 2013

Assembly called to order at 12:05 p.m.

Madam Speaker presiding.

Roll called.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Father Chuck Durante.

Great and Gracious God, author of all that is good, we thank You for the beauty of this day and for the gift of life within and all around us.

As we dedicate this day to You, help us use it to the fullest so that at day's end, we may rest in the assurance that this, our home, is just a little bit better than when the day began.

We lift up to You both our successes and our failures this day, trusting that You can bring forth good even from bad, wheat even from weeds.

Bless the Nevada Assembly this day and all their deliberations and all their work. May they be strengthened in their relationships and their leadership and in doing good for all whom they serve. May obstacles in their work this day not be overwhelming, but challenge them to new possibilities.

And as the week comes to a close, may they, and all Your people, find some rest in the Sabbath days ahead and some time to praise and give thanks.

We make this prayer as Your instruments of peace.

AMEN.

Pledge of allegiance to the Flag.
